PURE-BRED LIVESTOCK ASS'N. IS ORGANIZED

Organization Starts Out With 22 Annual Fees Placed at $2.50 Per Member

The organization of a pure-bred livestock association at Crowell Saturday afternoon has as its object the raising of the standard of live stock, as well as the increase of numbers. The meeting was called by County Agent Fred Rennels and was attended by at least 100 men first and last.

The purposes of an association and the benefits to be derived therefrom were ably set forth by Joe L. Orr, N. Roberts, J. W. Beverly, Dr. Maine, M. Ferrin and G. J. Benham, after which the organization was perfected under the name of the "Foard County Pure-Bred Live Stock Association."

The following officers were elected: J. Roberts, president; G. J. Benham, first vice president; Joe L. Orr, second vice president; R. E. Sparks, secretary-treasurer. The board of directors elected are: Chas. Blevins, J. R. Coffman, R. E. Maine, J. W. Beverly, J. R. Coffman.

Such interest was manifested, with the enrolling for membership. The membership fees are placed at $2.50, which can be changed according to the laws as the membership sees fit.

The association hopes that every man in the county at all interested in the pure-bred stock movement will come into the association and make it one of the best in West Texas.

Such an organization is of inestimable value to a breeder in building up his breed, for such subjects as feeding, breeding, prevention and eradication of diseases, marketing, etc., are to be discussed. And then the advertisement and prestige which membership in a live, wide-awake organization gives a breeder is of great value.

Every man in the county who is interested in pure-bred live stock is invited to join in the movement, because it will mean not only much to each individually, but will be for the upbuilding of one of the county's chief interests.

The next meeting will be held at an early date, notice of which will be given in the News.

The following names were given as members of the organization Saturday: Dr. Maine, G. J. Benham, Arnold Rucker, J. L. Rennels, S. B. Middlebrook, L. C. Jones, C. W. Carroll, A. B. Wisdom, J. L. Orr, H. E. Minyard, D. M. Shultz, Arthur Walling, J. R. Coffman, N. J. Roberts, C. D. Stephenson, H. M. Ferrin, Millard Phillips, J. W. Beverly, Tom Lawson, Ernest Sparks, The First State Bank.

Randall County Paper Wants Legislative Change

The people of Randall County are called liberally for the support of the schools of the state. This money is sent to Austin, and there the state department of education is custodian of the funds. A big clerical force is maintained to handle Randall County school money and the money of other counties of the state. The West Texas counties are not receiving back from the state any way nearly as much money as we send to the state, while East Texas counties are drawing more from the state treasury for school purposes than we pay out. East Texas keeps school valuations and tax rates low, while West Texas makes school valuations and tax rates high. There is no such a program. Why should school money of Randall County go to Austin and be returned in small amounts, which is a costly operation? Why should the school trustees of Randall County and the trustees of the independent school district handle their funds, and save this useless expense? Why should West Texas support the schools of East Texas? All school and high schools should be supported alone by direct taxation of the people of the local districts. This business of sending money to Austin to be dispensed with. We can start such a program in next session, they will have accomplished a wonderful good for each and every school district in West Texas.—Randall County News.

HERRING-SHOWERS LBR. CO. SELL CROWELL YARD

A deal was closed this week whereby the Herring-Showers Lumber yard at Crowell became the property of Cicero Smith Lumber Co. of Fort Worth.

J. P. Logan, Sec.-Treas. of the company and Lee Johnson, son of General Manager J. L. Johnson, were here to close up the deal with Mr. Showers.

There will be no changes in the operation of the business at Crowell. Mr. Roberts remains manager of the local yard with Tom Lawson assistant and bookkeeper.

The Cicero Smith Lumber Co. is one of the strong lumber concerns of the state. It has a big string of yards over the West and Panhandle, which is evidence of its confidence in the future of this country.

These people, like Herring-Showers Co., are good advertisers and believe in patronizing home industry. So there are no fears that they will cooperate with local interests in the upbuilding of the community.

FREEZE IN CALIFORNIA CAUSES 100 PER CENT LOSS ON NAVAL ORANGES

A letter received from C. E. Hutchison, who is with the Irwindale Citrus Association, Irwindale, Cal., stated that the freeze some weeks ago was reported to have been the worst ever known in that country. Mr. Hutchison says it was worse than the one they had in 1913, when practically all the oranges and lemons were killed and some of the trees. "The temperature," says Mr. Hutchison, "was not as low, but it had been warm and we had had lots of rain and the sap was up and the trees tender with new growth, so consequently they were hurt badly. In our immediate district there is a 100 per cent loss in the navals, but we do not know just how badly the velencias are hurt, but some of them are all gone, while in some parts of our district we may be able to salvage a few. We had shipped only 21 cars when it came. Had 200 cars of navals (estimated) and a few more velencias."

Mr. Hutchison says he is the only employee left on the job, and he and the manager constitute the entire force, the foreman being gone, and he knows nothing to which he may attribute his stay than to the probable fact of his seniority over the others.

But notwithstanding the fact that California is hard hit by this freeze, it is a great country and will come back in the course of a few years. A citrus country is nearly always in the path of a certain calamity when visited by freezing temperatures. Florida has been hard hit many times, just as California has been this year. Some means will have to be worked out whereby better protection can be guaranteed the citrus fruit industry to make investments in such property appeal to capital.

And yet, we have our troubles in West Texas. This would be a veritable garden of Eden, if every year we had 35 inches of rain equally distributed. California has its short crops by reason of freezes. We have ours by reason of dry years. So.

Donates to Cemetery Ass'n.

John Williamson of Fort Worth who was here the first of the week having some monumental work done at the cemetery, before leaving presented the Cemetery Association with a $10 check. Mr. Williamson owns a big wheat farm near Foard City and thus manifests his interest in the welfare of the community.

WOODARD PURCHASES THE HI-WAY GARAGE

W. A. Woodard has purchased the business of the highway garage and is now in charge of same. Mr. Woodard has had several years experience in that kind of work and is therefore at home in a garage. There will be no changes in the mechanics, Mr. Welch, former owner and manager, being the only one to retire from active work in connection with the business.

Thalia Man Dies

Jim Shirlin, who resided six miles south of Thalia, died Saturday night of meningitis and was buried at the Thalia cemetery Sunday.

The deceased came from Collin County about two years ago and has been batching on the Flesher place for about 18 months. He was a man of about 45 years of age.

Mrs. Carl Zeibig underwent an operation last week at the sanitarium. Mrs. W. A. Matthews underwent an operation Monday for appendicitis, as did Miss Alma Patton. All the patients are reported to be improving.

PRESIDENT OF FARM BUREAU TALKS TO FARMERS

Explains Difficulties Attending Operation for First Year; Organization Immense One

J. T. Orr of Dallas, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, was one of the speakers in the district court room Wednesday afternoon, addressing the farmers on matters relative to the Farm Bureau.

The house was practically filled when the hour for the speaking arrived, which was evidence of the general interest in the operation of the organization. Before Mr. Orr spoke, however, the audience listened to a very interesting talk of about half an hour by E. F. Shropshire, secretary and manager of a department of the Farm Bureau that looks to the better features of agriculture. The main thing pressed by Mr. Shropshire was that of the farmers should hold down the cotton acreage this spring. "Your opportunity," said the speaker, "to control the price of cotton is at planting time." He reached the climax of his talk when he said the farmers must make their supplies at home. He pointed out the necessity of their giving more attention to dairy products, poultry, stock and feed. The idea is to make all this at home, first for home needs and then what the farmers will be forced to buy will be small and consequently little cotton money will be needed. He pointed out the fact that each year Texas is shipping into the state millions of dollars worth of dairy and poultry products, and many farmers are neglecting this source of profitable revenue.

Mr. Shropshire pointed out the dangers of a large cotton acreage, citing as evidence the fact that there will be a large carry-over supply of cotton from last year's crop, and that if the acreage is generally increased over the South the price of the staple is certain to go to a very low level. He showed that a nine million bale crop would bring as much money as a thirteen million bale crop and that it is the height of folly to increase the acreage and work the women and children for several long months making a crop for which there would be no demand.

Mr. Orr's talk dealt with the organization and operation of the Farm Bureau, the difficulty under which it was brought up to a practical proposition. Many mistakes, he said, had been made. It was a task to find capable and trustworthy men to place in positions of responsibility, he said, and then the matter of financing the marketing of the cotton crop had to be worked out for the first time, and that such a ponderous undertaking required patience and the most careful thoughtfulness.

That in which most farmers were interested was why they had not gotten all their money for the cotton which had been sold through the bureau. Mr. Orr explained that this was one of the details that had to be worked out after some hard experience. But this experience is offering a schooling that should prove extremely profitable in the years to come. One of the big difficulties was that of classing the cotton. After the bureau had made its first sale the cotton was turned down when the Government classifier's classing the cotton did not correspond to the classification made when it was shipped. This made it necessary to re-class 65,000 bales which delayed sales 60 days, and consequently made returns to the grower late.

Mr. Orr pointed out many difficulties which he hoped would be eliminated by the aid of the first year's experience, and permit a more satisfactory operation in the future. He pointed out the sacrifices being made by men who are devoting their time and talent to the farmers' interests in trying to carry to success the organization. His own time he said was needed on his farm in Dallas County, which is now left with his little 93-pound wife who is trying to run the farm and dairy. Some of the employees had made heavy sacrifices in the acceptance of salaries thousands of dollars less annually than their ability would command, and in fact, one had left a position that was paying him $2,500 more annually. It was done after an influence had been brought to bear upon these men to assist a worthy cause, the only monetary inducement of which was the probable fact of future promotion.

MADE POULTRY BUSINESS PAY BIG RETURNS

J. F. Combs, County Agent of Montgomery County, Gives Interesting Example

The News is just giving some of the facts recited by the county agent of an East Texas county, which should be worth the time of any one's reading who is interested in poultry. We might say that climatic conditions in West Texas are said by poultry men to be far better than those in East Texas, and consequently the profits here should be much greater.

The example recited by the county agent of Montgomery County is that of a man who had had no experience in the poultry business, but was induced by the county agent to attend a short course at the A. & M. College last summer, who became so enthused with the information obtained there that he bought 150 White Leghorn hens at less than $3.50 and began to feed them and handle them under approved methods advocated by the College and which he obtained during the short course. The county agent says he kept a close watch on his efforts and he says they were so good that he wanted to pass them on to others who may be interested in the same business. This is what the county agent says:

"During the month of December he secured from the 150 hens 1571 eggs, which he sold in Conroe for the sum of $65.50. The total cost for feed during this month was $92.00 making a net profit of $42.50 to him, and remember this was on an investment of $350. We all know that December is one of the hardest months in producing eggs. This is why I take this month for consideration. We are positive that every month in the year will far surpass this one, but taking it that they all do no better, and that he will sell eggs for eating and not hatching at the rate of $65.00 per month, this would be a total of $780 for the year with a total expense of $276, or a net profit for the year of $504. This makes a 145 per cent dividend on his investment per year, or a net profit of $154 after paying for the entire flock of hens and their upkeep for the year."

It is pointed out here that most farmers can raise their feed, while the example here cited was where feed was bought.

Various contests and games were played and greatly enjoyed. Many of the contestants tied in a kitchen puzzle. Two sides were chosen and each given a large heart cut in many pieces. The winning side that first succeeded in patching the broken heart was asked to sing a song; while the opposing side, much to their surprise, were each requested to give a reading. A questionnaire, composed of foolish questions, added greatly to the fun. A beauty contest was held and the winning candidates were presented with suitable prizes.

A dainty and tempting plate was served to the following: Misses Goode, Bess Thompson, Marie Bell, Frances Blakemore, Vera Crews, Fern Nicholson, Mattie Lee Meason, Bernice Long, Ethel Curtis, Mary Sam Crews, Beatrice McDaniel, Thelma Thompson, Olive Hanks and Mildred McLaughlin; George Cates, John Carter, Horace Lovelady, Ernest King, Sidney Miller, Walter Thomson, Sidney Collins, Travis Hayes and Alton Nicholson.—Senior Reporter.

Mr. Orr showed that up until Jan. 1, 1922, middling basis cotton sold for 19 1/2 cents. Since that time the short staple prices and sales are as follows: 200 bales middling 17.58; 200 bales good middling 19.25; 500 bales strict low 16.25; 500 middling 18.25; 250 middling spotted 17.25; 700 strict low 16.12; 1,000 good middling 18.50; 1,000 strict middling 17.65; 1,500 good spotted middling 17.65; 500 strict low 15.85.

ROAD BUILDING IN PROGRESS OVER COUNTY

Not before since highway construction started in this county has there been so much going on at one time. The road to Pease River, will soon be finished. Work started last week on the road to Margaret, following the railroad north of town. This week grading started on the Good Creek road leading west and also on the one running south from the east edge of town into the Stephenson community.

This work keeps employed something like fifty men, while the work on the city wells employs twenty-five or thirty, which means that about 80 men are employed on public works now. This will help to put into circulation many hundreds of dollars, and will go far to offset conditions resulting from injured crop prospects.

The system of highways is going to be very complete when all these county roads are put up, and that will not be long. Of course, they must have some rain before they can be made first-class, but that will come some of these days.

The all-important thing about the road business is to maintain them when they are once built. You just as well not build roads if you do not maintain them, but we believe with the automobile fund of four or five thousand dollars a year to our part and with a small supplemental tax, at least, every road and highway in the county can be kept in first class condition when weather conditions will permit. That means that we must have some rain. Roads get bad here in dry weather and when it is dry they can not be worked.

But the road business is going to receive more attention in the future. This is necessary because of the greatly increased traffic, and we must have roads and they must be maintained, a fact on which 90 per cent of our people are agreed.

SELLS FARM AND WILL MOVE TO ARKANSAS

A deal was closed last week between Jeff Bruce and Gilliam McLarty in which the 75-acre farm of the latter became the property of Mr. Bruce. The property lies about 3 miles northwest of Crowell and has been the home of Mr. and Mrs. McLarty for four or five years.

Mr. Bruce will not occupy the property himself but has made a deal with "Uncle" Ben Meason who will look after the farm. Mr. McLarty, it is understood, intends to move his family to Arkansas, but has not decided upon where he will go.

COUNTY AGENTS HIGHLY USEFUL TO FARMING

Strong Editorial Setting Forth the Good Work County Agents Are Doing in Texas

Newspaper accounts of the meeting of farm demonstration agents recently held in Mineola serve as a reminder of the highly useful labors of these men in giving really practical and first-hand aid to the farmer. So many people are clamorous in their efforts to help the farmer and the farmers themselves are getting a bit skeptical over the situation. But intelligent farmers everywhere are always ready to welcome the friendly, efficient and sensible advice of the demonstration agent. When he says that fertilizer is needed he is able to prove it by instance after instance right in the neighborhood. When he recommends crop rotation he is able to back up his recommendation with the crop figures of a farm that followed the plan and profited by it. When he suggests an improvement in the breed of stock, he knows what he is talking about.

All in all, the county demonstration agent is the greatest assistant to the farmer that the Government has been able to furnish. While the Government can do other things to make the lot of the farmer somewhat more comfortable, no other program has ever done half so much as that of placing in the same community with farmers a man who knows how to farm and how to talk to farmers in terms of facts and let the theories prove themselves. Every encouragement ought to be given to the farm demonstration plan. County Commissioners, chambers of commerce, the State and the Nation can do no better than to work together to supply more county demonstrators and better county demonstrators.

In many counties the county agents have obtained the hearty cooperation of resident farmers in following to the letter directions for the production of certain crops. Where this system is working smoothly under competent direction it is the greatest sort of encouragement to scientific agriculture. The black land farmer who is making an eighth of a bale where his father made a bale to the acre isn't going to admit that there is anything wrong with his soil or his methods until he sees the county agent, or somebody under the county agent's direction, grow a bale under conditions the same as his except for different treatment of the soil and different cultivation of the crop. The argument will never convince him—but the bale to the acre will.

It takes wisdom to be a county agent, and experience and energy and good will. Above all, it takes patience and tact. It's no ordinary man who can fill the requirements. When he is found, he ought to be rewarded on a scale more suitable to his value to his community than the scale sometimes adhered to. He certainly ought to get as much as he could make for himself. Otherwise he won't remain a county agent long.—Dallas Morning News.

Why Baggy Clothes Are Expensive

Baggy clothes wear out more rapidly than those which are kept cleaned and pressed.

The explanation is simple. The constant stretching of the fabric thins it and weakens it at the baggy spot—the cloth reaches a point where it can't stand the strain.

And that means a new suit which costs money.

The suits you send to us regularly do not bag. We keep them pressed, the fibers close knitted and strong. We keep them clean, there are no particles of grit to cut the threads and ruin the fabric. The price of a new suit will dry clean forty old ones.

Let us get after these baggy clothes for you. We clean and press the MODERN WAY. Phone us.

This is a chain drive lister that has been on the market for years and it has given universal satisfaction.

The cotton feed is the well known P. & O. reverse feed type.

The AGITATOR works in a direction opposite that of the feed wheel, which prevents bunching and INSURES uniform distribution.

We can furnish you either with the old or new type, the one that suits you best.

Come in and look this lister over.

Stating P. Strong is strong for the Old Class Class, follow the change of affiliation, so he says in his announcement recently. The little thing is being made an issue, and if there is no other way to fight it out let it come. Mr. Johnson is the first to raise the issue, but he soft pedals. "Not a member but a distant admirer." Would be if the attendant dangers to a state campaign were not too great. But Stelling P. is the stuff off the old stump, made with the grit of some grandpa away back yonder, not afraid to say where he stands. He's a member of the "Invisible Empire" and wants the job of helping to make laws for a republic. In other words, he would make our written laws and then go out with tar and feathers to break them.

"An idle brain is the devil's workshop." Somebody said that who had evidently seen conditions that led him to make the declaration. The great truths of all wise men were spoken from observation or experience. One who fails to see the truth of the above quotation today does not have his eyes open to surroundings. One may thank goodness that he is too busy to sneak around to a neighbor and tell something to another that will injure somebody, even if one is so inclined. But there is more parson for one like that than for one who will lay down work and deliberately use precious time for such clandestine and cowardly work.

One of the church's apparent dangers today is that the Christian spirit is being squeezed out to give place to the dominancy of the social feature. It seems that we may well ask ourselves, "Where is the brotherly love that formerly characterized the members of the church, and where is the discipline that was once in evidence?" Is it possible that we have reached the point where the weight of the purse and social standing are the leading requirements of membership?

We have as much respect for the masked bandit who will hold up and rob you on the highway as we have for the person who wears the mask of friendship, but who will stab you when your back is turned. The former is unworthy of respectable recognition but does not ask it. The latter is unworthy but has the audacity to demand it. The former is in the junior class of Satan's training school; the latter is a graduate.

Just as we were getting ready to install a radiophone system so that we might hear a neighbor cursing us in the back yard, we are told that Uncle Sam is to have the exclusive right to the "free" air. But after all maybe we would be better off not to know the devil is so close to us. We'll let it go at that and say Uncle Sam is our benefactor after all.

SEVENTY-FIVE PER CENT LIQUOR CASES

Seventy-five per cent of the cases pending on the criminal docket of the Seventy-Sixth Judicial District Court are cases growing out of alleged violations of the prohibition laws. In other words, only a fourth of the criminal business of the court has to do with murder, arson, burglary and the ordinary categories of crimes. As evidence that there is no "wave" of crime in the ordinary sense of the word, such as has been made one of the principal excuses for the existence of the Ku Klux Klan, there is interest in the statement by District Judge R. T. Wilkinson of Mount Vernon, Texas.

In view of so-called hard times and in consideration of the amount of concern which most of us have been expressing at the spread of criminal violence of the ordinary footpad and blood-letting sort, the statement of Judge Wilkinson ought to be surprising. It indicates, if the figures for his district are average figures for other districts, that if there ever was really a crime wave it is subsiding.

While opponents of prohibition may profess to find some comfort in emphasizing the large proportions of violations indicated, it is likely to prove cold comfort in the end, and for a very simple reason. The brazenness of the bootlegger is tending daily to make his offense more contemptible in the eyes of the public. The danger that lies in his wares is known now to be as much to health as to morals. The bootleggers are overplaying their hands and they will eventually begin to suffer the consequences. Judge Wilkinson well makes the point that they have been escaping their desert because of juries that did less than their sworn duty. But the excesses of the wood alcohol peddler and the fuel oil poisoner are creating a public opinion which can and will sit in the jury box and render judgment according to the law and the evidence.

And, as Judge Wilkinson intimates, that sort of public opinion will not require the moral encouragement of bed sheets, masks and a moonless night in order to make itself felt. In the ultimate it is the only force that the law needs to rely upon, because it is from the orderly processes of such a public opinion that the law proceeds and has its origin.—Dallas News.

As has always been the case, "money talks," and we know that it will pay you to trade with the store that sells for the cash. It behooves every one of us to secure the best goods at the least prices obtainable, and if you will visit our store Saturday, Feb. 25, you will be convinced and make your purchases from us.

YOUTH "STEPS ON GAS" AND THROWS BANDIT FROM CAR

Baird, Texas, Feb. 13.—Baird has had its full quota of stolen autos, many of which have never been recovered. At 9:15 o'clock last night, shortly after the arrival of the Sunshine Special, the Mitchell-Gilliland garage received a phone call to have the car of Homer Peoples, an oil man, brought to the home of Dr. Virgil Hill, who lives in the northern part of the city.

Bob Beebe, a youth of 17, took out the car. As he arrived at Dr. Hill's gate a man wearing a mask, which concealed the upper part of his face, stepped to the side of the car and demanded:

"Is this Homer Peoples' car?"

Beebe replied that it was. "I'll take it," cried the masked man and stepping on the running board, grasped the side of the car and reached toward his hip with his right hand.

Instantly Beebe stepped on the accelerator, pushed off the hand of the masked man, who fell backward and drove back to the garage.

Shortly thereafter, Chris Blakeley, who was driving home, barely escaped collision with another automobile carrying no lights. As the car skidded by he noticed that there were no numbers on the car which disappeared toward the east.

SOUND THE OCEAN

Scientific Investigation Is Now Going On.

Strong Probability That the Wonders of the Deep Will Be Revealed Very Shortly.

Difficulties encountered in deep-sea sounding are disclosed by a marine engineer writing in the London (English) Daily Mail.

Deep-sea sounding of late years, he says, has become a very exact science. When a ship is thousands of miles from land the work begins. To obtain a reading of a definite depth is the easiest thing in the world. But when it comes to working in miles, scales are brought up against a very different problem.

Even today nobody knows exactly where the greatest depth exists, for the simple reason that no instrument at present invented can reach the bottom in the deepest parts. A theory accredited by scientists is that below a certain depth solid matter refuses to sink, because the pressure of the water is so great that specific gravity is overcome.

It is widely held that when ships sink in the deepest parts of the ocean they never reach bottom, but float about suspended in the water at a depth below which their weight is not sufficient to take them. The greatest depth which has been sounded up to the present is just over five miles. But it is thought that parts of the ocean are perhaps four times as deep.

In this branch of nautical service wonderful instruments are used. Attached to the leads of the sounders, which weigh seventy pounds and are suspended on piano wire, are specially constructed cups, which close automatically and bring up samples of the ocean's bed. They are provided with a dial, upon which the depth touched by the leads is at once recorded, and are in use in all ocean-going cable ships, which must of necessity determine of what the ocean bed consists.

Time after time ships working in far seas have seen no record of solid matter reached by reading the sounder dial, because the leads are not sufficiently heavy to reach bottom.

All records may very soon be broken by the Shackleton expedition to the Antarctic. The grab-sinker which they will use can be employed at a depth of seven miles. What will be found nobody can say. All existing theories may be exploded, but it is certain that some interesting data will be forthcoming.

Naturally, deep-sea sounding is essential from many points. Fog is the seaman's enemy. Soundings must be taken to avoid disaster. Formerly the leads used were studded with tallow. Many interesting specimens were brought to the surface, but nothing is known of the flora and fauna that exists at great depths. Hence the constant attempts to discover better sounding apparatus.

Oil Cans Used as Stoves.

The divers use to which empty kerosene cans are put are well known, and even in the most remote parts of the world these tin containers are in great demand because of the many different forms into which they may be made for further service, says the Kansas City Star. The five-gallon size, it appears, is the most favorable, because it can be worked by the average handy man with the crudest of tools.

Along the great waterways of interior Alaska drums are often found doing duty as stoves, but it is seldom it is found utilized like this elsewhere. Travelers who have toasted their skins in front of this stove in the "Golden North" hotel at Skagway, southeastern Alaska, pronounce it a marvelous generator of heat and a noteworthy example of recreative work.

1921 Road Projects Is Enough to Girdle Earth

Eleven thousand nine hundred and thirty miles of Federal-aid roads were constructed under the joint supervision of the Federal Government and the States during 1921, according to reports of the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. Federal money amounting to $94,657,069 was allotted to these roads, the total cost of which was $231,968,682. In this mileage there is included 8,595 miles in projects wholly completed and the equivalent of 3,335 miles of work done on projects which are not wholly completed. Every State shared in the benefits of this work.

The projects under way during the year amounted to 31,228 miles, which was about one-half of all the road work carried on in the United States during the year. A fair idea of the magnitude of the road work done under the supervision of the Department of Agriculture last year may be gained when it is understood that the total mileage is considerably more than enough to encircle the earth, that it is equal to more than 10 per cent of all the improved roads previously existing in the United States, and that it is equal to nearly 6 per cent of the entire road system of France. At this rate we would be able to build the equivalent of France's entire road system in 12 years.

OLDER THAN NEW ORLEANS

Ancient Records Show That Town of Natchitoches Has a Right to Claim Earliest Settlement.

Early in the history of Louisiana there was a spirited rivalry between the French and Spaniards as to which nation should occupy the region between the Red and Sabine rivers. About the close of the Seventeenth century the Spaniards established a post at Adays (or Adalse), on the east side of the Sabine, and in 1714 Governor Cadillac sent Juchereau de St. Denis to establish a post at some point on the Red river. Martin, the historian, says that the expedition of St. Denis was "for the double purpose of finding a vent for Crozat's goods and checking the advances of the Spaniards, who were preparing to form settlements in the neighborhood of Natchitoches." St. Denis left a few settlers at Natchitoches, but it was not until 1717 that a permanent fort was erected there, which makes Natchitoches a little older than New Orleans. Dumont describes this fort as "a square palisade, where a little garrison was kept as a barrier against the Spaniards." A Catholic mission was established about the same time. The people, few in numbers, were not able to employ a resident priest, and for some years they were attended by Father Margh and other missionaries. Father Stanislaus came in 1765, and the humble mission developed into the cathedral church of St. Francis, which today is one of the historical Catholic landmarks of the nation. During the French and Spanish domination Natchitoches was an important trading post. The Spaniards from the west of the Sabine would come back with pack mules heavily laden with peltries, dried buffalo tongues, silver from the Mexican mines, etc., to exchange for dry goods and other necessities. In 1824 Isaac Wright began running a steamboat between Natchitoches and the settlements further down the river, and this added to the importance of the town as a commercial center. With the establishment of Shreveport and the advent of the railroads some of the trade was diverted from Natchitoches, but being located in one of the richest sections of the state the town has continued to prosper.

When in 1884 the general assembly provided for the establishment of a State Normal school, the location of the school was thrown open to general competition, and the most liberal inducements were offered by Natchitoches. The parish and city of Natchitoches purchased and donated to the state 100 acres of land, including a good building which had formerly belonged to the nuns of the Sacred Heart.

CALOMEL MAY TURN ON YOU NEXT TIME

Next Dose You Take May Salivate and Start World of Trouble

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried every thing I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since. I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too. At all drugists.

American Legion News

Convalescing at Kennilworth, N. C., from wounds received in the Argonne, the American Legion man sent $1 to the Woodrow Wilson fund, and promised four more payments. Many legionnaires are listed among the donors to the foundation.

Failing in his attempt to commit suicide by freezing in snow-drift at Emporia, Kan., Chester Hagerman, jobless war veteran, is being sought by the American Legion. A woman of Medicine Lodge says her son, who bore that name, was reported "killed in action," and a body, supposed to have been his, brought from France for burial here.

Lined up with Wall Street against the bonus is the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, which, however, is meeting continued opposition from its constituent chambers in widely separate parts of the country. Chambers in Omaha, Neb., in Battle Creek, Mich., and in several cities in Oklahoma and Ohio have now flatly declared in favor of the bonus in the questionnaire sent out by the national body. In Toledo, following a hearing by the American Legion, business men of the local commerce board refused to vote on the matter, charging that the issue had not been impartially presented by the U. S. Chamber. They said that it had ignored three of the five options.

Wall Street is determined to kill the adjusted compensation bill at any cost, according to a report sent by New York state executives of the American Legion to national headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind. The report states that mandatory orders were issued by at least one large stock exchange house, ordering employees, both men and women, to write their Congressmen urging against the passage of the measure. Suggested forms were handed out, and employees were instructed to deliver their letters in unsealed envelopes to their employers for inspection.

"I think that I am 32 years of age. I am five feet nine, and weigh 130 pounds. My eyes are gray and I have blond hair. I believe I was a soldier. If anyone can tell me who I am or anything about my past, please telephone the police." This is what a clean-cut young man told attendants in a Los Angeles, Cal., hospital. He wore an American Legion button, and Los Angeles posts of the Legion are helping him find himself.

A cemetery in Fairmont, W. Va., where Civil War soldiers were buried, had become a thicket of briars. The American Legion cleaned it up to do reverence to the dead heroes.

Plans for a Connecticut state hospital for ex-service men have been endorsed by governor Lake. It will be named for Frederick W. Galbraith, late commander of the American Legion.

A Spanish bull fight will be staged in Madison Square Garden, New York, by an American Legion post. One stipulation is that the bull shall not be hurt.

An Honest Man Found

The following is taken from State Press column of Dallas News, which is a reproduction of a dispatch from Bonham with comments by State Press, and while its value is principally in the humor, there is to be seen a great truth—that is the effect publicity of good deeds would have on the morals of the country. We spread out on the front pages of our papers the crimes and scandals that are committed, but the better and nobler deeds, if they get publicity at all, it is in some secluded corner of the paper.

Bonham, February 11.—If Diogenes were to make another pilgrimage with his lamp looking for an honest man he would probably find him in Clarksville. Here is the story, and, as the little girl said, "It is a so tale." The foreman of one of the newspaper offices here gave his son, 12 years old, $17 to take to his mother in Paris. He placed the money, which was in bills, in an envelope with the address on the outside. On reaching Paris the boy discovered the money and envelope had disappeared. He thought he had been robbed. His mother immediately telephoned her husband here. He had inquiry made of one of the trainmen who came up from Clarksville the next day, but the trainman said he had heard nothing of it. Wednesday the boy's mother received the following letter: "Clarksville, Texas, Feb. 6, 1922.—Mrs. Arthur Loftin. Dear Madam: Enclosed find money order for $17. I am the engine watchman at this point on the T. & P. Railroad and have to sweep out the coaches in addition to my other work, and by good fortune I found the letter under one of the seats, and, not knowing of its contents, I opened it. I hope you and Mr. Loftin won't blame the boy for losing it, as it is so very easy for any one to lose a letter. Yours truly, W. C. McCartney."

W. C. McCartney doesn't deserve praise for being honest. He would deserve censure if he wasn't. But that he is honest, and that he doesn't want that which does not belong to him is worth mentioning, because it serves to remind many of us that the craze for easy money doesn't extend as far as some pessimists believe. There are as many good men as there ever were. They simply don't get as much notoriety as the crooks and murderers do. It is the exploit of the bad man which gets publicity. The faithfulness of the good man is less newsy—because it is only what is expected. Notwithstanding which, State Press shouts hurrah for W. C. McCartney.

A federal appropriation of $16,400,000 for hospitals for wounded ex-soldiers has been asked by the American Legion in New York, where continued investigation has revealed inadequate facilities.

Lined up patiently for hours in advance, hundreds of tattered ex-soldiers received shoes, overcoats and children's garments from the American Legion distributing committee in New York.

Possessing all the requisites for a dance except music, American Legion men in Lincoln, Nebr., called on an ex-gob for help. He rigged up a radiophone and tuned in on an orchestra 1,000 miles away.

Twelve majors, five naval commanders, 27 captains, and nearly 100 lieutenants have applied for jobs at American Legion employment headquarters in New York since September.

School Children's Eyes

Make this school year easier for your child by having its eyes attended to now. If you protect the naturally defective eyes of youth, you are repaid with a strong eye in after life. Abuse the immature eye and it will necessitate glasses—not for a few months only, but for a lifetime.

Many a child has been a dullard at school and a failure in after life simply because some defect in vision made it impossible to see things clearly.

The brain gets most of its information through the eyes, and if the eyes are defective the child is woefully handicapped.

Let us examine your child's eyes now.
