Second Primary to Be Held August 23

At the second Democratic primary on August 23, the voters of Foard County will have only one state race: Associate Justice of Supreme Court, Place No. 1. The candidates in the run-off for this office are Robert W. Hamilton of Midland County and J. Edwin Smith of Harris County. This will be the only race for Foard County voters to cast a ballot on. Ray Shirley, Foard Democratic chairman, stated Monday that in order to comply with Texas election laws, it is necessary for the second primary to be held in this county, even though there are no run-off races in the county or district, and only the one state office run-off.

Absentee Voting Began Sunday, August 3 and will continue through August 19.

In reply to several inquiries concerning the need for a second primary in Foard County, Shirley refers to the following statutes: Article 1030 reads in part: ". . . If at the general primary election for any political party, no candidate becomes the nominee for any office under this section, a second primary election shall be held by such political party, on the fourth Saturday in August succeeding such general primary election." Art. 13.07 of the Texas Election Code is clear in the language concerning this question: ". . . If all candidates for county and precinct offices are nominated within the county at the first primary election, it shall still be the duty of the County Executive Committee to hold a second primary election for the purpose of nominating District and State candidates."

The housewife who complains that she is paying for government subsidies to farmers twice—once in higher food costs and again in higher taxes—sincerely believes that she is getting gypped.

She hears and reads about high farm price support, about the government buying billions of dollars of food to be stored or given away abroad, about paying farmers not to produce, and she reasons that this is the cause of high food prices.

Newspapers and the radio report that Congress has just appropriated another $5 billion to finance farm programs for another year, and that adds to the tax bill. It all looks as simple as two plus two equalling four, but it isn't.

It is true that food costs are at an all-time record high, when measured in dollars and cents. There are two principal reasons for that. First, more and more foods are sold pre-cooked or pre-mixed. Second, labor costs connected with processing and selling foods are higher.

Farmers Sell for Less

Although retail food costs have gone up 15 per cent since 1952, prices paid to farmers have gone down by about the same percentage. Processing and distribution—the farm—have gone up rapidly and are responsible for all of the increase in food prices.

Food producers get only 39 cents out of each dollar spent by the housewife for the average family food. The cost of distribution increased from 47 cents in 1950 to 61 cents last year.

In 1947, the average family of four spent $911 for food, of which farmers received $467 and $444 was marketing costs. Last year the same amount of food cost $1,079, of which farmers received only $490 and marketing costs amounted to $607.

The average factory worker last year could feed his family on one-third fewer hours of work than he could in 1947. The Labor Department reports that average hourly earnings of factory workers increased by 67 per cent during the 10-year period.

Food Purchasing Power Up

Figures supplied us by the Labor and Agriculture departments show that the average factory employee worked 30 minutes in 1947 to earn enough to buy one pound of choice steak; but only 18 minutes in 1957.

It took 10 minutes work in 1947 to buy a quart of milk, but only 6½ minutes in 1957; 32 minutes to buy a dozen eggs in 1947 and 19 minutes in 1957; 27 minutes to buy a 10-lb. bag of potatoes in 1947, but only 15 minutes in 1957.

Foods that come from price-supported commodities have increased less than those for which there are no supports. Beef, pork and egg prices are not supported. Farmers' costs of operation have increased by approximately 20 per cent in the past six years, at a time when their net income was going down by about 30 per cent. The per capita income of farmers last year was $993, but the non-farm per capita income was $2,045.

Our Weekly Sermon

Spiritually Fit

The individual who has been active throughout childhood and youth achieves maximum fitness earlier, and in adulthood his decline of fitness is postponed, according to a recent statement by the American Medical Association.

A child or youth requires more exercise than an adult because of growth needs. However, regardless of age, a healthy person will not do himself any permanent injury by "rational physical activity."

Other points made by the statement include:

- The ability to recuperate after physical activity is a good guide to the desirable severity of exercise at any age. Recuperation should be reasonably prompt.
- Hard, fast sustained or highly competitive games and sports should not be played by persons beyond the age of 30 unless they have maintained or can attain an appropriate state of fitness by systematic training.
- Physical exercise is acknowledged to be indispensable for good physical health. Even so, spiritual exercise is necessary to maintain the health of the soul.

The Bible gives this command:

Card of Thanks

It is with grateful hearts we wish to thank those who helped us so much during our mother's long illness. For the kindness and thoughtfulness in our grief. We especially thank the ladies who prepared and served the noon meal. May God bless each of you in our prayer.

Texas Motorcides Drop 15 Per Cent in First Six Months of '58

Texas motorcides dropped 15 per cent for the first six months of 1958 as compared with state highway traffic deaths for the same period of 1957.

Governor Price Daniel, as chairman of the Texas Traffic Safety Council and the Governor's Highway Safety Commission, is heading the most intensive drive against traffic deaths in the history of Texas. He quoted the Statistical Division of the Department of Public Safety as saying that 177 persons are still alive in Texas today, who, on the basis of last year's near-record list of fatalities in traffic, already would have been killed in traffic.

Total motorcides on June 30 had reached 1,008 in 829 separate, fatal crashes. This compared with 1,185 deaths in 965 crashes during the first six months of last year. Thus, the death list was reduced by 177 names this year, while fatal accidents were reduced in number by 136.

The 15 per cent improvement in the traffic toll was exactly 50 per cent greater than the Governor's goal. In starting the vigorous campaign earlier this year, the Governor had called on Texans to reduce the toll by at least 10 per cent, or 254 lives, over 1957, or one less in each Texas county.

Governor Daniel said the first six months' reduction of 15 per cent is being matched by early reports in July. "This steady decrease," he added, "leads statistical experts to the cautious expectation that a real and dependable trend has set in. This is true because June, July and August are nearly always deadly months in Texas because of the steadily swelling vacation and tourist travel, along with the cotton harvest. But these are the months when more lives can be saved, and I am delighted to see Texans 'Slow Down and Live' and bring about this change."

Attending Budget Board Meeting

Representative W. S. Healty left today for Austin to attend a budget board meeting there Aug. 5 and 6.

It is now time for the budget board to get down to earnest work in determining some exact figures to be recommended to the next session of the legislature. Rep. Healty is a member of a 3-man sub-committee of the budget board that is endeavoring to bring some economy in the state government without curtailing necessary services. Healty states that it appears to be almost an impossible task to write an appropriation bill within the present estimated income.

An All-Out Drive for Peace

by Daniel Tracy, Hoboken, N. J.

Peace will come when the People rise in every land and make the peace no one else can make for them, and liquidate the war and all its works, stop the making of arms by International action, halt the calling up of troops the moment peace is made, leaving neither arms nor troops with which to fight again and the thing is done: when existing arms are rust and junk the world is rid of war.

Disarmament to be complete must also ban the recruiting of troops absolutely, for mass-armies can over-run, conquer and destroy everything in their path without

What sort of world for them?

With mingled pride and wonder you watch them—absorbed in their play. How sure the young builder's touch...how graceful the deft girl-gestures! You treasure each promise for the future that shows in their choice of toys and activities.

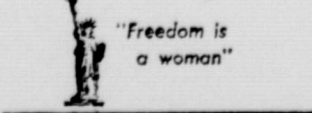

And always in your heart is the prayer that they will grow up to a world as happy as the one you've made for them. A world full of opportunity, where each may choose the life work most satisfying and fulfilling.

There's one way to help make your dreams for them come true! Be on the watch for ideas that could deprive them of their right to free and independent action.

The idea, for instance, that "government should run such and such—a business, an institution, a service." Yet experience has shown that the more things government controls, the less freedom there is for the individual.

Use your "woman-power" to refute this idea that "government should run things." Remind those who are for such a theory that the loss of anybody's independence is a threat to everybody's freedom.

Very much aware of this danger are the independent electric light and power companies, because government already runs part of the electric business. And powerful people are pressing to take over more.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS
by Vern Sanford
Everyone loves a picnic. And this is the picnic season!
Some outdoors lovers are content to make it a twosome. Hundreds of families make it strictly a family affair. Also there are some mighty big Texas-size picnics—when as many as a dozen families get together to make a full day of it.
Whether you prefer a private party or a huge crowd, the time for fullest enjoyment of the great outdoors in Texas has arrived. Tie it in with boating, skiing or fishing and it will be even more enjoyable.
For outdoor fun at its best, take along a tent and camping gear and make it a real week end of honest-to-goodness relaxation. Thousands of Texans discovered long ago that camping is an exciting and economical way to spend an enjoyable vacation. So, don't overlook the possibilities of several days or even weeks of camping out under the Texas skies.
Texas has 49 State Parks of which 32 have camping facilities. There are hundreds of lakes and rivers plus the magnificent Golden Gulf Coast. Add to these attractions the bountiful forests of East Texas and the beautiful mountains of West Texas... and the Longhorn State seems to possess most everything. All tempt the tourist, the camper, and the picnic lover.
No wonder the interest in our great outdoors is on the increase. It is there to be enjoyed—and our people are enjoying it.
Try it yourself at your very next opportunity.

Special tanks have been installed in the stern of the boat to provide for 420 gallons of gasoline.
James Pirtle and Roy Sutter are the two ocean-crossing Texans who are taking the long voyage out of Cambridge, Mass. They expect to make the trip in 10 days.
FOR BETTER EATING—Next time you land one of those big yellow cats and want to make it into one of the juiciest meals, drain the blood through his tail before you cut him up.
Usual procedure is to make the kill with an ice pick through the top of his head, between the eyes, then slice off the tail just above the tail fin and hang him up by his head. All the blood then will drain through the tail and make for better looking, better tasting meat.
SKINNING THE CAT—Most fishermen skin the catfish before storing in the deep freeze. But not many of them skin their bass. Here's how one fellow does it. He follows the usual procedure of removing the fish's insides and head—but he doesn't scale it. Instead he wraps the fish in foil, with scales on, and drops it in the deep freeze. Then when he is ready to cook he peels the skin, scales and all, off the fish, much like you skin a catfish. Much quicker, much easier than scraping off the scales, he says, and better eating too. Ever try it?

Shop Talk at Thirty

By Robert U. Brown

In the battle of private versus public power, the government seems to be applying one set of rules for itself and another set for the private electric companies.

Earlier this year, the Internal Revenue Service disallowed as income tax deductions the advertising expenses of some private power companies who had dared to mention public power in their ads. Later Commissioner of Internal Revenue Russell C. Harrington announced that the advertisements sponsored by "America's Independent Electric Light and Power Companies" also had been disallowed. In other words, contributions to the association for that purpose were not considered legitimate business expenses. In the words of Mr. Harrington such expenditures fell into this category: "Incurred primarily for lobbying purpose, for the promotion or defeat of legislation, for political purposes, for the development or exploitation of propaganda . . . relating to any of the foregoing purposes, or for the furtherance of matters in the area of political controversy."

Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee has been the prime mover in getting IRS to take this position. In a letter complimenting the Commissioner he wrote: "The advertising in question is nothing but political propaganda pure and simple. The latest series of such advertisements were all based on taxes. One showed a foolish looking man with a bucket of water over his head. The caption was 'This trick's on you!' The text of the advertisement claimed that people in the TVA area don't pay their share of taxes. . . . They can continue to propagandize as much as they want in their advertisements—they are merely going to have to pay the bill themselves. They can no longer charge the taxpayers and rate-payers for their own brainwashings.

That's one yardstick being applied by government to the private power companies.

A completely different yardstick—actually a non-existent one—is being applied by government to the operators of public power establishments which the government owns.

The private companies cannot spend money "for the development or exploitation of propaganda . . . in the area of political controversy," but the government-owned companies can do that all they want to and there is no one to stop them.

For example: The Tennessee Valley Authority celebrated its 25th birthday May 18. It has distributed to 400 newspapers promotion kits containing dozens of articles totalling 25,000 words about all phases of the TVA operation. Purpose of the kit is "to provide the public through press coverage, with a fuller understanding of TVA's total program." Supposedly, newspapers can use the material at random or develop special sections.

TVA has no money to spend for advertising, we are told. Perhaps these kits didn't cost a lot of money. But, as a matter of principle, isn't taxpayer and rate-payer money being used here to tell one side of a story "in the area of political controversy" while private companies are prevented from telling the other side in the same way?

We think so. One of the arguments used by private power companies in their advertising (which they are now being prevented from using) is that public power establishments are paid for by the taxpayers and do not pay income taxes to the U. S. Treasury.

One of the articles in the TVA kit is titled "TVA and Taxes—Here are the facts." It discusses the payments made by TVA to state and county governments "in lieu of taxes."

Another article is about "The Electric Rate 'Experiment'—How Has It Fared?" It discusses private power rates in the TVA area and how they were forced down after TVA started. It attacks private power rates in statements such as this: "If the consumers in the TVA area paid the national average in electric rates, they would pay about $100,000,000 a year more for the electricity they buy."

If a newspaper editor uses this material from TVA, a private power company, under the IRS ruling, could not take paid space to tell its side of the story. It would have to rely on the editor to give equal space—or it could buy space out of profits, but not as a business expense.

There are the two sets of rules—different yardsticks.

If this publicity effort of TVA was not timed to coincide with Congressional action on pending TVA revenue bond legislation, it could not have been a nicer coincidence. TVA's birthday was May 18. We understand there was an effort to get this bond legislation before the House the week of May 18. The Jones and Davis bills would give TVA unlimited borrowing authority to build or acquire power facilities.

In this area of political controversy the advocates of public power can wage the battle of the publicity release but those who have contrary views are effectively muzzled. They cannot spend money for such purposes without be-

Houseflies Aid Cancer Research

The housefly, perennial villain in man's fight against disease, is now being useful in this fight by helping speed up tests of anti-cancer compounds—drugs that may someday prove effective in controlling cancer in human beings.

They are being used in these tests because of the speed and ease with which they may be reared, according to a report from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. With comparatively little space, time, effort and expense, a supply of 1,000 to 2,000 flies can be reared daily for laboratory use.

They complete their whole life cycle in a little more than two weeks, yet they are physiologically similar to higher animals in many characteristics. This combination makes them useful for quick testing of growth-inhibiting, or anti-cancer, drugs.

By contrast, mice and rats normally used for testing growth-inhibiting materials take months of effort in breeding and rearing to maturity. There is also additional waiting for the slower results which follow. Flies fed milk containing a material to be tested can be dissected and results observed after only three days; rodents take much longer.

The work with flies was originated by the Department of Agriculture in finding a chemical that would cause sterility in insects. This could serve as a means of cutting their numbers and keeping them under control, thus furnishing an alternative to the use of poisonous insecticides which nearly always involves some danger to human beings, and to which insects have a tendency to build immunity.

INTEREST ON NATIONAL DEBT

Interest cost on the national debt has risen $1.2 billion since 1953. Thus, a smaller part of each tax dollar goes to pay for actual government service; a larger part to those who lend money to the government through bonds and notes. . . .—Junction City, Ore., Times.

About Your HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health. HENRY A. MOLLE, M. D.
Commissioner of Health.

Question: How often should a worker check with social security to find out what his earnings record shows?
Answer: You should check your social security earnings record at least once every three years.
Question: Why is it necessary
that I check my record?
Answer: For the reason that your future benefits will be based on the earnings credited to your social security account.
Question: Well, doesn't social security maintain my record up-to-date for me?
Answer: Yes, but there is always the possibility of your earnings
being incorrectly reported.
Question: How do I find out what my record shows?
Answer: You may get a handy card from your social security office to request an official statement of your earnings as reported.
Question: Why should I check my record every 3 years? Wouldn't every 10 years be sufficient?
Answer: If you check your record every 3 years, it is easier to correct it if your employer's report was not correct.
Question: I know my employer has reported regularly all of my wages, so why should I check my record?
Answer: To make certain these wages have been posted to your individual account.

It will arouse the wrath of sun
worshippers, but this must be said:
The healthful effects of a suntan aren't worth the time and trouble it takes to get one. After all, a suntan—like any other burn—is a manifestation of a skin injury.

True, a sensible bask in the sun makes a fine mental pick-me-up, and there is no denying the supple appeal of a tawny life-guard. But to overdo it can lead to trouble. In fact it can kill you.
More than one person has succumbed to prolonged and unaccustomed exposure to the sun.

Even at best, overexposure can mean two or three miserable days when a meek shirt or blouse is torture, and a friendly pat on the back can end in murder.

The medical term for sunburn is "erythema solaris." It's the ultra-violet light in sun rays which does the damage. And since clouds don't remove all ultra-violet rays, it is possible to get burned even on overcast days in mid-summer.

Some people are physically unable to tan. Known medically as "heliophobes," they could spend the entire summer on Padre Island, and all they'd get would be blisters on their blisters. The reason:
Their skins lack the pigment
necessary to produce the tan tint.
They never had a tan and they never will, so they ought never to attempt one. Each new exposure will only mean a new burn.

Assuming you are the type who can tan—a "heliophilic," that is —the well-known rule about doing it by progressively longer exposure times is valid and should be followed.

Sunshine is a source of vitamin D, as most people know. What is apparently misunderstood is that ordinarily healthy people can get all the D vitamin they need through routine activities such as hanging out the family wash, mowing the lawn, or walking to the store.

For persons suffering from pel-lagra, lung tuberculosis, high blood pressure, and hyperthyroidism, sunlight may be definitely harmful.

In case you have wondered about the source of freckles, here's the answer: The color of everyone's skin is determined by the amount of pigment in skin cells.
Dark-complexioned people have considerable, blondes very little, and albinos none at all. Under a microscope the pigment in skin cells looks like tiny flecks of brown paint. Sometimes, especially in children, it is manufactured unevenly and collects in the spots we know as freckles.

Ultra-violet rays can be filtered, fortunately, by smearing a thin
film of olive oil over exposed skin.
So if you're a heliophilic, and if you just have to have that golden sheen this summer, it might pay you to try it.

WORST YEAR AT THE POLLS

A Wall Street Journal feature article, written by Roscoe Born, reports that "organized labor is winning its worst year at the polls." This has to do with National Labor Relations Board elections during the fiscal year which is about to end. Mr. Born adds that "more workers than ever before in the board's 23-year history have cast their ballots against unionism."

GOVERNMENT PRACTICALLY OWNS BUSINESS

From the West Palm Beach, Florida, Post-Times: "Government ownership of industry is socialism.
And when the Federal government of the United States takes 52 per cent of the profits of a corporation in the form of income taxes, it 'owns'—in effect—52 per cent of the shares of that corporation. It need not actually own the cow, if it gets the milk—and it does."

migrated to Britain from Germany in the fifth and sixth centuries.
