40 top performers are invited to steer roping

Benefit event is set for Oct. 3

Forty of the nation's leading steer ropers have been invited to Garza County Sunday afternoon, Oct. 3, to inaugurate the O. S. Ranch Steer Roping, a new benefit event which is expected to attract thousands of western fans here and which will offer $10,000 or more in prize money to the best four ropers.

A new organization — The Garza County Benefit Association — was formed here Tuesday night by a group of young ranchers, business men, and professional men to sponsor the big steer roping event.

Jim Prather, a top hand steer roper himself, was elected chairman of the benefit association.

Prather conceived the idea of the steer roping as a fund raising project for West Texas Boys Ranch near Abilene. Jim is the Garza County "wagon boss" for the boys ranch.

Other officers in the new organization are Fred Myers, vice chairman, and Earl Chapman, secretary-treasurer.

Other members of the board of directors are Sonny Hart, Mike Mitchell, Giles Dalby, Donald Windham, Bill Lentz, V. O. Rasbury and Jack Kirkpatrick.

Prather told The Dispatch yesterday that plans have not been completed for the steer roping event, but that 40 ropers already have been invited to the event with an Aug. 20 entry deadline.

Each roper will put up a $350 entry fee and a percentage from the "gate" also will be added to the entry fees which should boost the prize money over the $10,000 mark.

The steer roping here will be held just two weeks in advance of the national finals which are scheduled to be held in Pawhuska, Okla., on Oct. 16-17.

Prather in picking his date for the event paid particular attention to college football schedules and stayed away from the Texas-Oklahoma game weekend and a Texas Tech home game weekend.

The O. S. Ranch Steer Roping will be held on the ranch, which Prather operates, 13 miles southeast of Post. Temporary bleachers will be moved in.

Prather explained that a considerably larger arena is needed than that of the Post Stampede Rodeo arena here.

If the 1971 event is successful, Prather hopes to make the steer roping an annual benefit affair here.

The benefit association, which will be headquartered at the O. S. Ranch, may undertake other beneficial community projects but for the present will concentrate upon promoting the steer roping Oct. 3.

STAMPEDE STARTS AUG. 12

'Western Week' to feature rodeo

"Western Week in Post," so designated by Mayor Giles C. McCrary and the city council, will begin Monday, Aug. 9, and continue through Saturday, Aug. 14, with the three-day Post Stampede Rodeo as the crowning event.

The rodeo will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, Aug. 12-14, will be kicked off by the traditional opening day parade at 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

The rodeo office will open at 9 a.m. Monday, Stampede secretary Johnny Kemp said, but just where the office will be located was uncertain late Wednesday. The office will either be in a building the Stampede group is trying to move in to the north side of the rodeo arena or in the old Garza Tire Co. building at 132 West Main. Entries in the various rodeo events will be accepted at the office from the time it opens Monday morning until noon of the rodeo's opening day.

A girls' race on Friday night has been added to the Pony Express relay race event, the rodeo secretary said Wednesday. The girls' Pony Express relay race will be Friday night between teams from Floydada and Lubbock.

The men's Pony Express relay races, in which three teams are entered, will be held Thursday and Saturday nights. One team will draw a bye for Thursday night's race and the other two will run two out of three races that night.

The winner and the team that drew a bye will race for the championship at Saturday night's show.

The regular rodeo events, which are expected to draw a record number of contestants, are bareback bronc, saddle bronc and bull riding, tie-down and team calf roping, and girls' barrel race.

The grand entry will start at (See Western Week, Page 8)

Big case holds trophies won by 4-H Horse Club

Displaying 150 trophies, belt buckles and other awards plus 489 ribbons won by the individuals, the Graham 4-H Horse Club hosted an open house Sunday afternoon from 3 until 5 at the Graham Community Center.

The open house was held to show to the public the new trophy case, which was custom-built for the center by Troy Nelson. The case was made possible by donations. It holds six high point county trophies which the club has won since its organization in May, 1969. The six trophies are from Terry, Cochran, Gaines, Angelo State University and two from Scurry County.

Also, each of the 19 members and three former members of the horse club had a picture on display with a card telling about their horse project.

The approximately 50 guests who ushered through the displays by 4-H members John Bill Hedrick, Stephen Myers, Steve White, John and Jerry Johnson.

Cookies and punch were served during the afternoon. The green and white 4-H colors were used throughout the center in decorations.

Alternating at registering the guests and serving were Misses Mel King, Jarita Norman, Cynthia and Sherry White.

Assisting with the afternoon affair were adult leaders, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hedrick and Mr. and Mrs. Noel White.

BEFORE ACTING—

City wants more data on phone rates boost

The city council deferred action at Monday night's regular August meeting on General Telephone's request for a rate increase until it receives "additional information" from the telephone company.

Mayor Giles C. McCrary said he had asked Gerald Hamilton, the company's district manager, for the desired information and was told that it would have to be obtained through the company's general offices and would not be available until he (Hamilton) returns from his vacation.

Information sought by the city before acting on the rate boost request includes cost of improvements the company proposes to make on its rural lines in the area, the amortization schedule for the improvement project, and the company's rate of return on its Post exchange.

The mayor said Hamilton told him he would get the information requested by the city and present it to the council after he returns from his vacation.

The mayor said he also told Hamilton that if General Telephone would come back and "sell" the city council on the rate request, then the council would approve it and go out and "try to sell the public on it."

General Telephone has requested the rate increase to finance rural line improvements, which it estimates will cost approximately $86,000.

The phone company's request calls for rate increases to city customers as well as to its rural customers upon completion of the improvements. The cost to the 1,200 city phone service customers would total about $10,000 a year for the rural improvements, which will serve 128 customers.

The mayor said a survey conducted by the city disclosed that the rural customers are "just about" 100 per cent in favor of paying the phone rate increase they will be charged for the upgraded service.

The council voted to approve a (See City wants, Page 8)

BEST ONE SUNDAY

Beneficial rains finally hit area

Beneficial rains, which appear to have been general, fell in Garza County early Sunday morning, with 1.44 inches registered on the Southwestern Public Service Co. rain gauge in Post.

Some other rain gauges in the city registered as high as 1.80 inches from Sunday's fall, however.

From one and a half to two inches of moisture from the Sunday morning showers were measured in the Southland area, while 1.60 inches were registered on a gauge at a farm five miles north of Post, 1.50 inches at Justiceburg in southeastern Garza County.

This is only a little more than half the normal for this period of the year.

Sunday morning's comparatively heavy rain followed light showers on Friday and Saturday. The SWPS rain gauge showed .21 of an inch from Friday's shower, but only a trace from that of Saturday. Friday's rain was considerably heavier than here in some other sections of the county.

The rain was of especial benefit to irrigated cotton and also helped dryland cotton, which was reported "going fast" for lack of moisture.

Through Sunday morning, the SWPS rain records showed a total of 8.68 inches for the year in Post. This is only a little more than half the normal for this period of the year.

We enthusiastically predict one of the best additions to the Post "social calendar" in a long time will be the O. S. Ranch Steer Roping — the Oct. 3 benefit event which is the brainchild of Jim Prather.

Jim told us over a cup of coffee where he headed for the Cheyenne rodeo recently that he has seen thousands of western folks line up for a good steer roping event where there is a lot of money riding on every toss of the rope.

"That was without promotion," Jim added. "What I have in mind is to promote all the way."

Jim now has a new organization — the Garza County Benefit Association — to help with the staging of his steer roping. We think Post is going to benefit a great deal by staging this big western attraction at one of its own Garza ranches!

We would guess this could easily be the "biggest thing in the parts" in a few years — and possibly by this coming Oct. 3.

With a good announcer — and Jim thinks he has a crackerjack one — the crowd will be well served on just how important a move in the steer roping is, as crowds turn out for the big tournaments because so much money is riding on each shot. The principle applies to this steer roping event. There will be a lot of money on the line every time a rope pops out of the chute.

Don't look on the floor. You won't find the inside section of the Post Dispatch. There just "ain't no room" for it.

When Pressman A m a d o came in Monday afternoon with the belated but hotly burning desire to take vacation this week, leaving Ammons to run the press, we crammed the whole edition on eight pages. This way you'll get our regular 12-page r s the 10 days which followed the "rain ad" July 22. Post received two or more inches of rain on six or seven showers varying intensities, and a lot of rain and ranch land in Garza County received even more.

It only goes to show what all the merchants: "It doesn't advertise in The Dispatch — it pays!"

Jan J. Williams beginning is going to start showing "baby pictures" for the next few more. They are all in his agency ads and they are hard to resist. Look at the baby picture on page 3 of today's Dispatch.

Library to spend $100 for books

Public Library trustees at meeting last Thursday afternoon authorized the expenditure for new library books in the few months.

The board also voted to pay the dues of volunteer librarian L. Miller to attend a three-day library workshop in Lubbock August sponsored by the State Library.

Another action, the board decided to make a $1,500 budget request to the city again for the new year.

The board also authorized purchase of a complete shelf of the histories of West Texas from the Pioneer Book Store.

At the session were Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Rosemary, Mrs. Ruth Young, Mrs. Pierce, and Jim Cornish, and Miller.

POST, JUSTICEBURG DISTRICTS

School consolidation vote to be Aug. 19

Voters of the Justiceburg Common School District and the Post Independent School District will go to the polls two weeks from today — just 11 days before the official opening of the 1971-72 school term here — to decide if the two school districts will consolidate.

County Judge Giles W. Dalby called the Aug. 19 election officially last Thursday upon receipt of petitions signed by 20 or more qualified voters from each of the two school districts.

By posting notices of the election that day, in both Post and Justiceburg, instead of waiting for publication in today's issue of The Dispatch, County Judge Dalby gave officials of the two school districts an additional week of time between the election and the start of the new school year.

Action to initiate the possible consolidation came at a special meeting of the Justiceburg school board last week.

A majority of voters in each of the two school districts must approve the consolidation for the two districts to be combined.

County Judge Dalby ordered voting in the Justiceburg school district to take place at the Justiceburg school building with John Boren, president of the Justiceburg school board, as presiding election official, and voting in the Post school district to take place in the school board, as presiding election official with Mrs. Elizabeth Hart as presiding judge.

County Clerk Carl Cederholm was appointed clerk for absentee voting with Elizabeth Duncan as deputy clerk.

(County Judge Dalby's election notice appears on page 4 of today's Dispatch.)

Boren and Earl Chapman, president of the Post school trustees, told The Dispatch here Monday that there will be no basic tax change for taxpayers in either district for the coming year, even if consolidation is voted, as the tax rolls in each district already have been rendered.

The Post school district is now using 75 per cent of true value for taxable valuation whereas the Justiceburg district is using 25 per cent.

True property values in both districts are approximately the same with ranch land in the Justiceburg district having a slightly higher value.

Boren and Chapman also said a contract between the two school districts "has been discussed."

They pointed out this procedure, by which the Justiceburg district would turn over all its tax revenue in return for the schooling of Justiceburg school children in the Post schools, would only hold Justiceburg taxes at their current level

A most worthwhile project

One of the year's highlights for the young members of the Graham 4-H Horse Club came Sunday afternoon when the club's new trophy case was dedicated at the Graham Community Center.

Built for the center by Troy Nelson, one of the many adult boosters of the horse club, the new case holds the high point county playday trophies the club has won since its organization a little over two years ago.

In addition to the trophy case and its imposing array of trophies, members of the horse club displayed at one end of the room the hundreds of individual trophies, medals and ribbons they have won in playday competition.

Need it be added that in winning these trophies and individual honors, the Graham 4-H Horse Club has done as much, or more, to favorably "advertise" Garza County as any other group.

The horse has been a boon to mankind since the first one was domesticated thousands of years ago, and the members of the Graham 4-H Horse Club are carrying on in the footsteps of others in helping perpetuate the horse's usefulness. Their club is one of many sanctioned by the 4-H organization in Texas counties.

Along with the horse club members, their parents and other adult leaders of the Graham community deserve credit for the club's success. The club's sponsors and others who help in its activities contribute time and money to the horse club project, but ask any one of them and it's a safe bet that he will tell you it's well worth it.—CD

What our contemporaries are saying

There is a sense of fitness about the news that the nation's first giant all-purpose automobile chomper has begun operating in Holland, Mich. It is from Michigan assembly lines that a stream of new cars issues to pour out over America's streets and highways. Now it is in Michigan that many will be chewed up into (we are told) cornflake-sized shreds destined for recycling in the furnaces. If what is said about that machine is accurate, others of the kind will be put to work in various parts of the country efficiently reducing cars to usable scrap metal. The story of the "iron monster" in Holland, Mich., marks an important milestone in our progression toward the goal of recycling all salvageable materials.—Winsted, Conn., Citizen.

Investigators have discovered that one reason student rioters throw rocks at police is because rocks are often so handy. The reason — an increased use of small ornamental stones in campus landscaping around shrubs and trees. Now one university is trying a preventive measure—gluing the rocks down. The University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign is test-coating the rocks with a plastic which forms a rigid mass. If the experiment is successful, the whole campus will get plastered and fewer police will get stoned during student riots.—Detroit Lakes, Minn., Tribune.

At a time when in the United States the movement is away from the death penalty for capital crimes, the Soviet Union is extending such punishment to lesser violations of the law and offenders whose crimes are outside the realm of murder and the like, according to word coming out from behind the Iron Curtain. With private profiteering on the increase, Soviet authorities are stepping up their fight against it and are even applying the extreme capital penalty. Only recently an individual who swindled the state of $119,000 was sentenced to be shot. Life runs a strange course within the Soviet Union. It's a police state and those who administer it make their own laws and chart their own policies to suit their wills.—Findlay, Ohio, Republican-Courier.

Our American Democracy is the subject of the most criticism from its people of any government in the world. But it is still the best government ever devised by man. The very criticism which our people hurl at it is because, here in America, people are free to criticize. The right to dissent peaceably is one of our most cherished freedoms. We can cuss it and damn it. We can holler our lungs out about "Why don't they do this?" or "Why don't they do that?" We can even parade the streets with banners of protest. But not one of us would trade it for that of any other government in the world.—St. Cloud, Fla., News.

TO READ THE addresses on some of the mail received here at The Dispatch office, one would think that we are publishing a metropolitan daily newspaper instead of a weekly.

Only three of us here at the Dispatch write news — the publisher, the editor and the women's editor. Yet we get mail, mostly "handout" news releases, addressed to Real Estate Editor, Amusements Editor, Fine Arts Editor, Automotive Editor, Livestock Editor, and so on, ad infinitum.

NEARLY ALL THE above jobs are handled by the same person here at The Dispatch. The big duties, of course, do have different persons for each job.

In fact, many are confused by the variety of titles newspaper people have. There are titles like Publisher, Assistant to the Publisher, General Manager, Associate Editor, Managing Editor, Women's Editor, Sports Editor, etc.

BUT WHAT DO these folks do? As a public service, we herewith reveal some of their duties and their functions:

Publisher: Publishes. Assistant to the Publisher: Helps the publisher publish.

Associate Editor: He associates with things. And, on occasion, with people.

Managing Editor: He manages. He manages to do this and he manages to do that. Sometimes, he manages to manage things quite well.

Women's Editor: She edits all womenfolk who come to the newspaper office. She edits out all ladies who have unpleasant news, complaints, those who can't spell or who don't have all the facts correct, she edits in all the ladies do.

Amusement Editor: Goes about telling funny stories, playing practical jokes and keeps everybody amused.

Advertising Manager: Looks intelligent, talks a great deal and manages the advertising.

Classified Manager: Tells people who ask a question: "Sorry... that's classified."

Outdoor Editor: Works only outside; primarily because he doesn't like to bathe.

Sports Editor: Walks through the office calling out, "Hey, Sport!"

Garden Editor: Specializes in cultivating turnips, radishes and onions. (Not to be confused with Farm Editor, who specializes in corn, beans and cotton.)

Make-up Editor: Checks everybody whose eyebrows are painted on crooked. Also spot-checks mascara and lipstick.

Business Editor: Gives everybody the business.

Circulation Manager: Makes sure that everybody's blood is circulating properly and, if not, prescribes a remedy.

Chief Photographer: Photographs the chief.

The man up the street says his uncle who quit smoking last month is down to four packs of gum a day.

A NEIGHBOR TELLS me this actually happened. She said her husband got it from a relative of his who said it happened to a family next door. But read on:

A man, his wife and their college age daughter, accompanied by the grandmother (I didn't learn which of the two she was the parent of) went from Arizona to Canada on a vacation trip. They camped out for a few days and on the morning they were to head back home, woke up to find the grandmother dead.

In a hurry to get back home, the family decided to wait until they crossed the U. S.-Canada border, just a few miles away, before reporting the grandmother's death, since they figured there would be more "red tape" to go through in Canada than back in their own country.

So, loading the grandmother on top of their camper in the sleeping bag in which she had died during the night, and covering the sleeping bag with a tarpaulin, they headed home.

Just across the border, they stopped at a roadside cafe for breakfast before going on into the next town to report the grandmother's death. When they left the cafe some 30 minutes later, they found their camper had been stolen, and they haven't recovered it to this day.

That's the story as told to me, and while I usually look for something of another nature to run in this column, I agreed with my neighbor that it was a most unusual story and that I would use it somewhere in the paper. It leaves a lot of questions to be asked, but the neighbor told me that's all she and her husband knew about it. Before hanging up, the neighbor asked, "What do you suppose who ever stole that camper thought when they found what was on top of it." One is also inclined to wonder what the thieves did with the camper after they found what was on top of it.

? Your Name? WHAT'S IN IT? By CHARLES DIDWAY

ALEXANDER

People had first names long before they had last names, which came along only when it became necessary to identify a person by something other than a first name. Every community had numerous Toms, Dicks and Harrys, but in time it became necessary to separate them for the purpose of identification. That is when surnames came along.

It naturally followed that many surnames originated from an individual's given name, sometimes without change. The English and Scottish name Alexander is an example. From ancient times Alexander, "defender and helper of mankind," has been a popular name with kings, saints, and popes throughout Europe. The popularity of the name had its origin with Alexander the Great, who lived three centuries before the Christian era and who in the Middle Ages was regarded as the greatest hero of the ancient world.

In addition to being acquired unchanged as a family name, Alexander has also been the source of a number of other surnames, including Sanders, Sanderson, Sands, etc.

The name is very common in Scotland where it became current after English-born Queen Margaret named a son Alexander. The name was borne by three Scottish kings of the 12th and 13th centuries. "Sandy," a diminutive of Alexander, is a popular nickname for a Scotsman.

The first of the name in America is believed to have been a John Alexander who came from Scotland to New England before 1644 and settled at Windsor, Conn. Today, Alexander is the 33rd commonest surname in the United States, where it is the name of an estimated 173,000 persons.

Noted Americans of the name have included Charles W. Alexander, who lived at Fort Laramie, Wyo., about 1876 and was nicknamed "Wild Horse Charlie" because he earned his living by catching and breaking wild mustangs. Of sports fame was Grover Cleveland Alexander, who was a major league baseball pitcher for 20 seasons.

By GEORGE L. MILLER
 I've had an unexpected holiday from the library, leaving it in the capable hands of the volunteers. Now that I'm back, I'm pleased to see things have carried on well without me.

One thing that hasn't gotten done is a new shipment of juvenile books, which Rosemary Chapman has processed for us. All that needs doing now is the cataloging which I hope to get done this week. We wanted to have these books in the library at the beginning of the summer for the Summer Reading Club. Unfortunately they took longer to arrive than we expected.

Now, however, we have a feast for the kids—probably the largest purchase of children's books we've ever received at one time. They're all excellent titles, guaranteed to give hours of reading pleasure. I've asked Rosemary to write a column soon telling you all about them.

We have a new book in the library which I'm enjoying very much. It's called "Levkas Man" by Hammond Innes. Mr. Innes is a remarkable author. He writes a brand of story all his own. I compare him to Alastair MacLean and Eric Ambler, both authors who glory in spies, adventure and hair-breadth escapes. But Hammond Innes goes them one better.

His stories have the element of danger, but he paints with a clearer eye the background of the adventure. In "Levkas Man" he is interested, not only in the dilemma of the hero, but in a deeper question about the nature of man and his origins.

Paleontology is the study of ancient man and his artifacts. Cave man, as we popularly think of him, Mr. Innes does his homework well, and makes exciting mystery out of a subject that normally would seem dry and dull to any but the most scholarly.

I haven't finished the book yet, but I've read enough to assure you it is one of the best written adventure stories you'll find in our library. Hammond Innes is an author whose work gets better with every book he writes.

We have a different kind of adventure story in the library that deserves a wide reading. It is "The European Discovery of America" by Samuel Eliot Morrison.

This book is a joy to read. Some historians have a professional tone in their writing which puts the reader to sleep with long passages of trivia. Others condense their material so you are forever getting lost because you can't remember all the facts you need to understand what they are writing about. And almost all of them give you the impression that they are describing a sacred subject which they really aren't sure they want to share with you.

This book is a joy to read. Some historians have a professional tone in their writing which puts the reader to sleep with long passages of trivia. Others condense their material so you are forever getting lost because you can't remember all the facts you need to understand what they are writing about. And almost all of them give you the impression that they are describing a sacred subject which they really aren't sure they want to share with you.

His stories have the element of danger, but he paints with a clearer eye the background of the adventure. In "Levkas Man" he is interested, not only in the dilemma of the hero, but in a deeper question about the nature of man and his origins.

Paleontology is the study of ancient man and his artifacts. Cave man, as we popularly think of him, Mr. Innes does his homework well, and makes exciting mystery out of a subject that normally would seem dry and dull to any but the most scholarly.

I haven't finished the book yet, but I've read enough to assure you it is one of the best written adventure stories you'll find in our library. Hammond Innes is an author whose work gets better with every book he writes.

We have a different kind of adventure story in the library that deserves a wide reading. It is "The European Discovery of America" by Samuel Eliot Morrison.

This book is a joy to read. Some historians have a professional tone in their writing which puts the reader to sleep with long passages of trivia. Others condense their material so you are forever getting lost because you can't remember all the facts you need to understand what they are writing about. And almost all of them give you the impression that they are describing a sacred subject which they really aren't sure they want to share with you.

His stories have the element of danger, but he paints with a clearer eye the background of the adventure. In "Levkas Man" he is interested, not only in the dilemma

Mr. Morrison is an exception. He writes with clarity in a style that is easy and relaxed. He has a knack for finding the facts and doesn't mind knocking heads with other historians over points he finds foolish or ridiculous. The best word I can find for him is that he sets the reader at ease. You get the feeling you are in the hands of a very wise man who can lead you on a leisurely ramble through some of the best well-known events of history.

This book is concerned with the earliest northern voyages of discovery of America, before the voyage of Columbus. It is filled with photographs and maps that make the book easy to follow. His search for the book is monumental, yet he never overpowers you with it.

When you finish this book you will be glad to find that Mr. Morrison promises more volumes on the subject. That's a promise we all hope he can keep!

Kennedy-Donaldson vows read Friday at Valley Mills, Tex.

Celia Louise Donaldson and Jay Kennedy exchanged wedding vows Friday, July 30, at 8 p.m. in the First Baptist Church in Valley Mills, Tex. The bride and groom are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Donaldson of Valley Mills and Mrs. Jack Kennedy of Post.

Rev. W. R. Parmer, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony before an array of candlelighting willow green candles and pink gladiolus.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory organza, with the sheer short sleeves, yoke and neckline trimmed in Venice lace. The front and back of the dress was accented with appliques of Alencon lace. Her ivory tulle veil fell from a band of peau de soie. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

Miss Joyce Donaldson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was attired in a formal gown with a willow green bodice and full floral skirt. She wore green velvet bows and baby's breath in her hair.

Elaine Chancey, Barbara McNutt, both of Valley Mills, and Jan Kimble of Midland were bridesmaids. They wore dresses identical to the maid of honor and wore velvet bows in their hair.

Shelli Short of Richardson, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Terry Kennedy of Post, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Candelighters were Curtis Donaldson of Valley Mills and Kyle and Derik Short of Richardson.

Paul Walker of Post served as best man. Groomsmen were Robert Crawford of Merkel, David Sinclair of Stephenville, and Tommy Eckert of Mason.

Ushers were Bobby Marsteller of Austin, Jay Kennedy of Post, Lane Donaldson of Waco, and Jim Donaldson of Valley Mills.

Mrs. Seth Nutt, soloist, was accompanied by Mrs. John Gilliam, organist, in the presentation of wedding selections.

A reception followed the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. Members of the house party were Phyllis Kennedy, Genetta Kennedy, both of Post, Lou Ann Lindley of Abilene, Ceza Nene Garrett of Bedford, and rice bags were given out by Karla Kennedy, and Lu Ann Kennedy, both of Post, and Kerry Garrett of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Kennedy received a B. A. degree as an English-Spanish major from Tarleton State College, and is employed as a Spanish teacher at Navasota. Kennedy has received a B. S. degree in animal science from Texas A&M, where he is presently a veterinarian student.

The couple will reside at 1406-B E. 29th in Bryan.

Attending the wedding from Post, other than the bridegroom's parents, were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kennedy and family.

CAUTIONS FOR CANNING

There's no doubt about it — canning is an art. Improved methods make it a more enjoyable art than it was some years ago.

Most of the work is involved in planning and preparing for the job to be done. First, gather all the canning equipment you will use and make sure it is in good condition.

Be sure to use only standard-make jars that are imprinted with the manufacturer's name. You are risking food spoilage and possible poisoning if you use coffee jars, salad dressing jars, etc. Check the tops of jars for chips or cracks that would prevent an airtight seal. You may use sealing rings more than once but the metal disk or lid should be used only once. Wash all of these in hot, soapy water and rinse thoroughly. Sterilization is not necessary when using the water-bath method or the pressure canner.

Fruits, fruit juices, tomatoes and rhubarb may be canned using the boiling-water-bath method. Any container with a rack, tight-fitting lid and enough space to hold jars upright with 2 or 3 inches above may be used for this method.

All other vegetables should be processed in a pressure canner because of low acid content. After opening a container of home-canned vegetable, boil 15-20 minutes uncovered before tasting. This insures freedom from any organisms that might cause botulism poisoning.

The pressure canner should be thoroughly cleaned and the dial gauge checked at least once every year with a master gauge tester. You can then have a safe and successful season of canning.

Use only fresh, sound, ripe fruit for canning. Vegetables should be fresh, young, tender and clean. Handle carefully and quickly for best quality in the home canned product. A suggested guide is one hour from garden to container.

Checking the following before beginning may solve some of your canning problems:

1. Follow recommended procedures and methods. They have changed over the past few years. Remember, the open kettle and oven canning methods are not recommended. Reliable information is available from my office.
2. Know the amount of head space needed for your product.
3. "Knife out" air bubbles before sealing the jar.
4. Process the recommended length of time at the correct pressure (without fluctuating).
5. Fill and close one jar at a time, being sure rim of jar is wiped clean. Bands should be tightened firmly by hand and not retightened after processing.

Happy canning!

Bride-elect is shower honoree

Blue and white decorations were used at the bridal shower honoring Miss Donna Maddox, bride-elect of Michael Wiley of Plainview, Tuesday, July 27, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Guests were registered by Miss Nancy Maddox, sister of the bride-elect. Jodi Cash and Nancy Norman served punch and cookies.

Special guests were Mrs. Thurman Maddox, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. R. E. Ray, aunt of the prospective bridegroom.

Hostesses were Billie Jean Cross, Cherry Echols, Nancy and Mary Margaret Norman, Juanita Parrish, Opal Rudd, Lois Childs, Cleo Sappington, Shirley Bland, Oneita Gunn, Loree Thaxton, Jo Cash, Gerald Butler, Claudine Tipton, Louise Gordon, June Kiker, Frances Conrad, Mable Dunlap, Eva Britton, Maxine Cummings, and Carol Conrad.

The hostess gift was a vacuum cleaner.

"Nixie" is a postal term meaning mail which for some reason cannot be delivered.

6. Cool quickly away from draft.

7. After testing jars for seal, store in a cool, dark, clean, dry place. The sealing rings may be removed.

Southland area gets good rains

By TOMMIE WILKE
Greetings from Southland. The rains finally came and they could not have been any better. The amounts varied, but at our house, we had an inch on Friday morning and about 1 1/2 inches on Sunday morning.
Edmund and I went to Mobile, Ala., last week where I was to appear in court on Monday morning to testify in the trial of the man that was caught cashing the money orders that were taken in the robbery of the Southland Post Office in December, 1968. The man pleaded guilty, so I didn't have to testify after all. He was to have been sentenced Wednesday, but we did not stay for that. This man wasn't the one that broke into the Post Office and I don't know if they have caught the others or not. We spent the rest of the week sight-seeing in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. In New Orleans we visited with Rev. and Mrs. Robert Richardson and children who are former Slaton residents. Rev. Richardson was pastor of Grace Lutheran Church for several years. Our daughter, Sherri, visited in Dallas with a college friend, Janice Mertz, while we were gone.
Mrs. Valton Wheeler returned home Monday after undergoing major surgery recently at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. Hope all continues to go well with you, Peggy.
Mrs. P. W. Crawford also returned home last week after undergoing major surgery at Mercy Hospital in Slaton. She too is getting along real good.

Tommy Leake has been visiting here three weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Leake. Also visiting in the Leake home were Tommy Preston and Nelda Leake of Post, Mary and Lietisa Herron of Tulsa, Okla., and Steve Leake of Slaton. The Leakes recently went to Canyon to see "Texas" and report that it is just a wonderful show. This past weekend, Tommy, Mary and children all went to Ruidoso and Carlsbad, N. M., vacationing and all had a wonderful time.

Seems like we have a pretty long hospital list this week. Mrs. Ed Denton, Mrs. Alpha Taylor and Mrs. Ed Milliken are all in Mercy Hospital. May God be with these ladies and help them through this time of great needs.

Guests in the G. D. Ellis home recently were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Giles of Fort Worth, and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles Giles and two daughters, Tammy and Diane. Mr. Giles is Mrs. Ellis's son. Other guests during the week were Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Lichey from Tahoka, Mrs. Winnie Henderson and Mrs. Maude Hankins, both of Post.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Becker and children from Brownfield visited here Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Becker. Their son, Joe Don, stayed here with his grandparents while they will be attending an agriculture meeting in

VISIT IN HOMES HERE
Visiting in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Del Wilson, Mrs. Alma Veach and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Walls were Mr. and Mrs. Don Coburn and children of Fostoria, Ohio; Mrs. David Hodges and Tim of Abilene and Mrs. Marvella Hooper of Bagdad, Ariz. It was the first time in seven years that all of Mrs. Veach's girls had been together.

O'DONNELL VISITORS
Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Walls for a few days this week is Mrs. H. M. Veach of O'Donnell. Mrs. Veach is Mrs. Walls' grandmother.

7:45 each night, with the competition scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

In the opening day parade, cash prizes of $100, $50 and $25 will be awarded the three winning floats, with cash prizes also going to the three best-decorated bicycles in the parade. First, second and third place trophies will go to the parade's winning out-of-town riding groups.

A rodeo dance will be held each night with music by the Westernaires.

Consolidation—

Such state aid would be given the combined district only if the voters of the two districts actually vote consolidation.

The state law provides if the Justiceburg school district entered into a contract with the Post schools to educate its children, at the end of two years the county school board would be required to vote the annexation of the Justiceburg school district to the Post school district.

By going the "contract route" and probable annexation in two years, Justiceburg taxpayers would save an estimated $26,000 in taxes, the two school board presidents said, but with the loss of $80,000 in state aid to the combined district.

It is estimated that oil interests in the Justiceburg school district actually would pay over 60 per cent of the $26,000 in increased taxes.

If Justiceburg school district voters approve the consolidation move it would add an estimated $10,500,000 to the Post school district tax roll which now totals approximately $42,000,000.

If Justiceburg voters turn down the consolidation, the Justiceburg school board would have very little time to find another solution to its "school problem."

The district has too few students — 15 is the state minimum to hold school — and would have to receive special permission from the state commissioner of education to open school this fall. There is considerable doubt, in view of the downward trend of Justiceburg enrollment, that such permission would be granted.

Justiceburg also would have to find a school teacher in a hurry too. Its former teacher has retired.

Or, the Justiceburg board would have to arrange a contract for the education of the district's children with another school district — and start down the road to annexation, rather than consolidation, in two years unless the Justiceburg district would gain enough scholastics within this period to reopen its own one-teacher school.

Post school trustees have offered the Justiceburg district (1) permission to keep the Justiceburg schoolhouse for a community center, (2) permission to keep the Justiceburg lake, owned by the school district, which is the source of water supply for many Justiceburg residents, and (3) the placing of the new school bus Justiceburg is buying this summer on the Justiceburg route, if consolidation is voted.

A dead person may vote, legally, if he mails an absentee ballot and then dies before election day.

City wants—

request of the Broadway Beautification Bunch that they be permitted to put approximately 100 barrels of caulk in the parkings up and down the length of Broadway.

Mrs. Ruth Young and Mrs. Rosemary Chapman were reappointed to two-year terms on the board of the Post Public Library.

The council voted to charge off as "bad debts" a total of $462.19 owed the water department by water users who have moved away. They also voted to furnish the Retail Merchants Association the names of those owing the water debts charged off and to authorize the RMA to try to collect them.

In another action, the council voted to advertise for bids for a federal depository for city funds and to open bids at the council's regular September meeting, which they decided to hold on Tuesday, Sept. 7, instead of Monday, Sept. 6 because of the Labor Day holiday.

The council voted to release for demolition two abandoned houses in the south part of town owned by Mrs. A. H. Moyers. The houses have been condemned as fire hazards.

The council authorized advertisements in The Post Dispatch and Lubbock Avalanche-Journal for applicants for the position of city manager, which was made vacant by the death of Bobby Pierce on July 29.
