Extensive federal aid for Post parks may be sought

Needs total up to $40,000

The possibility of extensive federal aid on a matching fund basis for improvements at City-County Park and Earl Chapman Park was seen here Tuesday after a visit by Jim Watt of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and Truett Mayes of the South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG).

Watt and Mayes conferred with Mayor Giles C. McCrary, County Judge Giles W. Dalby, City-County Park Board Chairman S. E. (Shelley) Camp and City Manager Bobby Pierce on the need of improvements at the two parks and the possibility of federal assistance through the government's grant to states for public park projects.

Watt explained that the federal grants to states for park work is broken down to 60 per cent for state parks and 40 per cent for city and county parks.

Funds furnished for the park improvements here would be matched by the city and county, but could be matched either in money or in labor, equipment and materials, it was explained. It was roughly estimated that projected improvements at the two parks would cost $40,000. Proposed improvements at the City-County Park, as projected by the park board chairman, would include improvement of that section of the park on the south side of the lake in the area of the 4-H building? The improvements would include paving, playground equipment, barbecue pits, other picnic facilities, and lighting.

The construction of two tennis courts also are included in the projected park improvement plans, but the tennis courts might be constructed in another area, it was said.

The improvements at Earl Chapman Park near the neighborhood center in the northeast part of town would also come under the Community Action program and tie in with Day Care center recreation, it was indicated.

Watt and Mayes were taken on a visit to the two parks by the Post group and were given the history of the City-County Park from its inception to its successful operation the last several years as a joint city-county effort.

CREEK BED DISCOVERY

Mystery surrounds ancient strong-box

A steel strong-box, which appeared to have been thrown away after being broken into, was found under eight inches of sand in a creek bed near the Boy Scout camp last week by Bill Ferrell, an artifacts hobbyist from Lubbock.

Ferrell dug up the strong-box after "spotting" it with a metal detector about 200 yards "up" the creek from the first stream crossing after entering the Scout camp from the Gail highway. Ferrell brought the box to The Dispatch office, where it was found to measure 12 inches long, eight inches wide and six inches deep.

The box, which was heavily rusted and had a brass handle on each side. Ferrell wanted to know if The Dispatch files might have an account of some long-ago robbery that would account for the strong-box in the creek bed.

The appearance of the box indicated, however, that it more than likely would pre-date even the earliest of The Dispatch files.

F. A. "Chief" Runkles, Scout camp ranger, told The Dispatch Tuesday that he could shed no light on the Lubbock man's find. Runkles said he is acquainted with Ferrell, who he said has frequently searched for artifacts in the Scout camp area.

Ferrell and his brother, Coronado Ferrell, operate a filling station in Lubbock.

MAY 15-16 DATE SET

VFW convention to be held here

Post will host the seventh district convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars May 15-16, Dave Chesire, commander of John Miller Post No. 6794, announced this week.

The weekend affair is expected to draw approximately 200 veterans and their wives here for the festivities.

The convention sessions will be held at the expanded VFW headquarters here, Chesire said. The post has added a 40 by 50 foot memorial convention hall, a new kitchen, offices for the VFW commander and auxiliary president and two restrooms to their present home on the Clairemont highway.

The big convention room has been enclosed, but Chesire said weeks of work remain to complete the interior finishing. This work is being done by post members in a huge do-it-yourself project.

It has been over ten years since the VFW conclave was last held in Post.

Snow moisture measures .17

Moisture from Sunday's snow amounted to .17 of an inch, according to the moisture gauge at the Southwestern Public Service Co.

Glen Barley, SWPS manager, said the moisture measured .12 of an inch when he checked it at 8 a. m. Sunday, and that additional snow flurries during the day brought the total up to .17.

Asked how moisture that gives us for the year, Barley replied, "Very little."

Short, Alexander named directors

Silas Short and Jack Alexander, two of Post's newer Rotarians, were elected to two-year terms on the board of directors of the Post Rotary Club at the organization's weekly luncheon in City Hall Tuesday.

The two will go on the board July 1 and succeed Bobby Pierce and Harold Lucas at that time.

The new board of directors will meet shortly to elect the new club president who also will take office July 1. Following the election Tuesday, Tom Boucher and Bob Collier shared the program by reminiscing about early Rotary days here and the various programs given through the Post.

DIGNITARIES AT CHAMBER BANQUET

TRIO AWARDED PLAQUES

Individual plaques went to Mrs. Marie Neff (left) and Buster Moreland as "Woman of the Year" and "Man of the Year" at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet. The "Organization of the Year" plaque went to the Garza County Historical Survey Committee, with Mrs. Gwendolyn Boren, acting chairman, accepting the award.—(Staff Photo)

Banquet honors two individuals, one organization

Approximately 300 persons attended the annual Post Chamber of Commerce banquet last Thursday night where they applauded the awarding of "outstanding" plaques to two individuals and an organization, the installation of a new president and an address by guest speaker Wayne B. (Red) Smith of Pampa.

Honored as the "Woman of the Year" was Mrs. Marie Neff, with the "Man of the Year" award going to E. R. (Buster) Moreland, and the "Outstanding Organization" plaque to the Garza County Historical Survey Committee.

Vic Slater, Postex Plant manager, was installed as new president succeeding Fred Myers of the First National Bank. Introduced as new directors were Jim Cornish, Giles Dalby, Ruby Kirkpatrick, Grant Lott and James Mitchell.

Appreciation plaques were presented outgoing directors Buster Moreland, Gene Moore, T. B. Odum and Ken Callaway, with Slater, Fred Long, Bill McBride, Maxine Marks and Bryce Martin introduced as holdover directors.

Other presentations included a plaque to Myers for his service as president, and a serving tray as a gift to Helen Livingston, who has announced her resignation as Chamber secretary. Myers plaque was awarded by Slater, with County Judge Giles W. Dalby, master of ceremonies, presenting the gift to Mrs. Livingston.

The "Organization of the Year" award was presented the historical survey committee by J. B. Potts, president of the First National Bank, and was accepted on behalf of the committee by Mrs. Gwendolyn Boren, acting chairman.

Organized in 1962, the committee has rendered outstanding service to the community and the county through its program of "Record it Before the Light Goes Out," Potts told the crowd. The committee has won top state awards on its program of work and its scrapbook.

"She tries to bring happiness to others," Mrs. Maxine Marks said of the "Woman of the Year" in presenting the plaque to Mrs. Neff. She called attention to the value of Mrs. Neff's hobby, painting, to the community, and said she has been instrumental in bringing traveling artists here for displays of their work, and in helping restore the Mason Memorial Building.

The "Man of the Year" award was presented Moreland by Mrs. Livingston. She pointed out that Moreland and the George R. Brown oil firm he heads here have made many contributions to the community. "When Buster is called on to do something, he doesn't send one of his men — he comes himself," Mrs. Livingston said. This year's award winner has been a member of the Chamber nearly 20 years and is a past president of the organization.

Historical committee sets Tuesday meeting

Tentative plans for the observance of History Appreciation Week in April will be made at the regular March meeting of the Garza County Historical Survey Committee at 10 a. m. Tuesday in the bank community room.

Members attending the meeting are asked to bring suggestions for activities during History Appreciation Week.

NEW TOURIST ATTRACTION

Meeting set here on cactus garden plans

A public meeting for all of those interested in participating in an organizational effort to build a cactus garden for Post as a new tourist attraction has been called for 7:30 p. m. Monday, March 15, in the Reddy Room.

Preliminary plans for the project are already under way following a planning session Tuesday night by a group of members of the community's 1969 Clean Sweep organization which spent many summer nights cleaning up Broadway, the US-84 tourist highway through Post.

The objective at that time was to clean up the tourist highway and then to beautify it.

The cactus garden, designed as an educational display, is the first proposed beautification project. If it proves successful, others are in the offing.

Filing deadline near in school, city races

With the filing deadline of March only a week away, no one except the incumbents had filed up to 3 p. m. Wednesday in either the city or the school trustee elections.

Mayor Giles C. McCrary and Councilmen Mike Mitchell, Lester Nichols and David Newby have filed for re-election to city offices. Incumbents who have filed for school trustee positions are A. C. Cash, K. W. Kirkpatrick and Silas Short.

The cactus garden would be located at the Eighth Street and Broadway intersection on the parking lot of the Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber yard.

David Newby has drawn up a cactus garden plan with a cost estimate of $1,700 or less, depending on discounts available and with all labor donated.

Newby has used cactus plantings in beautification projects around Robo car washes he has built in Abilene and Brownfield.

His proposed cactus garden plan calls for the laying of new sidewalk eight feet in from the curb for 100 feet up Broadway north from the intersection and five feet from Eighth Street's curb for 75 feet east on Eighth Street.

The cactus plantings would be inside the sidewalk but this entire area would be covered with plastic, then with crushed limestone and red lava rock with the cactus plantings made on large curved sand mounds inside the sidewalk.

Some 95 cactus plants are included in the preliminary plans. Green Thumb labor will be sought for the development of the garden and the cactus garden all.

(See Cactus Garden, page 8)

New projects proposed for Green Thumb crew

Seven projects, including work at the show barn in preparation for the annual junior livestock show, were presented for consideration at a meeting Tuesday of the Green Thumb Committee of Garza County.

A calendar of work for the Green Thumb crews will be compiled from the following proposed projects, according to County Judge Giles W. Dalby, committee chairman:

1. Work at the stock show barn; preparations for annual stock show, including painting bleachers, pens, etc.

2. David Nichols Ball Park; clearing fields of mesquite and debris.

3. Post Library; painting main room.

4. Cactus Garden; landscape garden on right-of-way west of Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Co.

5. Terrace Cemetery; cleaning and beautifying entrance, clearing brush in southwest corner.

That's the way the cookie crumbles

One hundred and six Brownies and Girl Scouts, representing six troops, will begin selling Girl Scout cookies on this Friday, with the sale to continue through March 11.

We tell our readers this so they will know that those little green and brown-clad creatures who will invade their neighborhood in droves the next two weeks are not from outer space.

They will be more concerned with inner space, namely filling you, your family and your friends up with more and more Girl Scout cookies. And probably with the "winning little girl" ways they will succeed in selling you a stack of boxes containing mints, butter cookies, etc.

Well, what are you going to do with all of these cookies?

The easiest way to get rid of them is to eat them right from the box. But if you're more ambitious, these scouts have some new suggestions this year. You can change "That's the way the cookie crumbles" from a sad resignation to a happy acknowledgment of better desserts to come.

Crumble the cookies, crush them, roll them or do what you will to turn them into crumbs. Then incorporate them into your choice of any number of homemade goodies—for which there must be all sorts of recipes.

And, all the while keep in mind that you've contributed to maintenance and enlargement of Girl Scout camping facilities. Remember, "It's great camps, a little cookies grow."—CD

Civil defense can be big help

The headlines in Tuesday evening's paper read, "65 Die in Dixie Tornadoes," and that is what we in the newspaper profession call a "scare headline"—in more ways than one.

Yep, the tornado season on the South Plains is fast approaching and one can almost feel the tension building up. It's one period of the year when few people feel obliged to apologize for a bad case of the jitters.

It doesn't help any to know that of the 73 persons killed last year in 650 tornadoes reported in the United States, 51 of the victims died in Texas. Nor does it help any to be reminded that the 1970 tornado season was unusual because many of the twisters occurred at night. This makes it more difficult for tornado spotters and the weather bureau.

The South Plains area was the hardest hit in the nation last year, the May 11 tornado at Lubbock being the year's worst. It caused 20 deaths and $135 million in property damage.

It does help, however, to know that more and more of our public officials are becoming aware of the value of a local civil defense system. Garza County, mainly through the office of County Judge Giles W. Dalby, is making more progress toward the development of an adequate local civil defense system than ever has been made here in the past.

In a tornado or, for that matter, in any type of general disaster, lives can be saved if people are prepared for the emergency, and know what actions to take when it occurs. The purpose of a civil defense system is to help prepare us for such an emergency and teach us what actions to take when it strikes.—CD

But will we get better service?

The U. S. Postal Service recently unveiled a plan, likely to take effect in May, calling for letter stamps to go up from six to eight cents, airmail stamps to advance one cent, newspaper and magazine mailing rates to double, and advertising postal rates to go up one-third.

The announcement of the above plan was accompanied by a hint that rates may rise again in July when wages for postal workers are negotiated by unions and management.

In the words of Assistant Postmaster General

James W. Hargrove, the proposals will "allow the postal service to operate on a sound financial basis for the first time in many years."

Certainly, this is a desirable goal—provided that service to the public is restored as the number one objective of the postal service. But if the rates are increased to the money-making level while national postal service is allowed to remain in its present rundown state, the whole idea is deniable.

An invasion of personal rights

They'd just finished installing new windows in the primary school auditorium when the FHA Valentine Sweetheart contest was held there Feb. 13, and during intermission one fellow was heard to remark, "I hope these new windows don't go the way of most of the other windows out here."

What the fellow meant was that he hoped the new windows were not broken out by vandals, as so many other windows at the schools have been.

Every American city, large and small, is plagued by the vandal, that peculiarly surreptitious individual who feeds his ego by breaking, marring or defacing anything that gives pleasure and a sense of well-being to others. He seems to glean vicarious pleasure by stealthily destroying anything of beauty or usefulness, with schools and of his special targets.

When reading of such destruction, every concerned citizen should be outraged by what is nothing less than an invasion of his own personal rights.—CD

MONDAY WAS Feb. 22. It used to be George Washington's birthday.

People I've talked to who attended the Chamber of Commerce banquet last Thursday night are about evenly divided on their opinion of the guest speaker's address. Some liked it, some didn't. I suppose it all depends, of course, on what each individual expected to hear when Red Smith got up to talk.

I KNEW Red Smith when he was Chamber of Commerce manager at Brownfield in the late forties and early fifties, and I knew that if he got up and made a serious talk at the banquet here, he'd changed a lot from his Brownfield days. Red occasionally has a serious thought, but one hardly ever strikes him when he's up in front of a crowd doing what he likes to do best—talk.

With things like they are, and the front pages, boob tubes and radios bringing us so much gloomy stuff, I think it's a refreshing change when a banquet speaker lightens up the evening with funny stories and leaves the "go, go, go" business up to the wall slogans and the incoming and outgoing officers.

THE MAN UP the street says he doesn't like to spread gossip, but wants to know what else he can do with it.

Someone wants to know where I find all this "stuff." I'll answer him later, but in the meantime here is some fugitive fiction from a century back:

A famous fish-factor found himself father of five flirting females — Fanny, Florence, Fernanda, Francesca and Fenella. The first four were flat-featured, ill-favored, forbidding-faced, freckled frumps, flippant, foolish and flaunting. Fenella was a fine-featured, fresh, fleet-footed fairy, frank, free and full of fun.

The father fished, and was forced by fickle fortune to forego his footman, forfeit his fore-fathers' fine fields, and find a forlorn farm in a forsaken forest. The four fretful females, fond of figuring at feasts in feathers and fashionable finery, fumed at their fugitive father. Forsaken by fulsome, flattering fortune-hunters, who followed her when first they flourished, Fenella fondled her father, flavoring his food, forgot her flattering followers, and frolicked in a frieze without flounces.

The father, finding himself forced to forage in foreign parts for a fortune, found he could afford a faring to his five fondlings. The first four were fair to foster their frivolity with fine frills and fans, to finish their father's finances. Fenella, fearful of flooring him, formed a fancy for a full, fresh flower.

Fate favored the fish-factor for a few days when he fell in with a "bet." His faithful filly's footsteps faltered, and food failed. He found himself in front of a fortified fortress.

Finding it forsaken, and feeling feeble and forlorn with fasting, he fed on the fish, flesh and fowl he found, and when full fell flat on the floor. Fresh in the forenoon, he forthwith flew to the fruitful fields. Not forgetting Fenella, he flicked a fair flower. Then a foul, fiendish figure flashed forth.

"Felonious fellow! I'll finish you for fingering my flowers! Fly! Say farewell to your fine, felicitous family, and face me in a fortnight!"

The faint-hearted fisher fumed and faltered, and fast and far was his flight. His five daughters flew to fall at his feet and fervently felicitate him.

He unfolded his fate frantically and fluently. Fenella, fortified by filial fondness, followed her father's former footsteps.

She flung her faultless form at the foot of the frightful figure, who forgave the father and fell flat on his face. For he had fervently fallen in a fiery fit of love for the fair Fenella. He feasted her till, fascinated by his faithfulness, she forgot the ferocity of his face, form and features.

Frankly and fondly, Fenella fixed Friday, fifth of February, for the affair to come off. Her fiancé fainted in fine fettle.

There was festivity, fragrance, finery, fireworks, fricasseed frogs, fritters, fish, flesh, fowl and frumentary, frontignac flip, and fare fit for the fastidious; fruit, fass, flambeaux, four fat fiddlers and fifers.

Forsooth! The frightful form of the fortunate and frumpish fiend fell from him! He fell at Fenella's feet, a fair-favored, fine, frank freeman of the forest.

Fortune favors the faithful. So behold, friends, the infinite fruits of filial affection.

After being submitted at the council's regular February meeting, the offer was scheduled to be acted on at the next regular meeting March 1. Because of that date's proximity to the filing deadline in the city election, however, the council decided to take action on the offer at a special meeting.

HODGES
Hodge was a common nickname for Roger in the Middle Ages, and when people started acquiring surnames Hodge caught on, also developing into the family name Hodges, meaning "son of Hodge."

The name Roger, of which Hodge is a pet-form, owed its popularity as a given name to two Norman rulers of Sicily, called Roger I and Roger II, and to Roger of Montgomery, a Norman noble, who was granted vast estates throughout the south of England after distinguishing himself at the Battle of Hastings.

In medieval times the English were much inclined to rhyming when forming pet-names. Robert became not only Rob, but Hob and Dob; Richard, Hick and Dick, and Roger, Hodge and Dodge. Hodges is not the only family name evolving from Hodge, others including such names as Hodgkins, Hodgson and Hodgkiss.

Although the word "hodge" was used in medieval England to describe a typical peasant, and the food he ate was called "hodge-podge", there were no less than 16 families of the name who owned estates, were granted coats of arms and who were listed among the "noble gentry."

One of the first of the name to gain prominence in England was the physician Nathaniel Hodges, who in 1655 during the Great Plague of London seems to have been the first who had the courage to make a post mortem inspection of a plague patient.

A prominent bearer of the name in modern times was Courtney H. Hodges who from a private in the U. S. Army (1906) advanced through the ranks to four-star general (1945) after having become commander of the American 1st Army in France in 1944.

Among surnames in the United States, Hodges ranks 402nd, with an estimated 63,000 persons by the name. There are towns named Hodges in Alabama, Montana and South Carolina.

4-H MOD drive collects $336.53

Fifty 4-H Club members and eight adult leaders collected $336.53 here Feb. 15 in a March of Dimes campaign.

The MOD fund drive was sponsored by the Garza County 4-H Council as its annual civic project. Seven clubs representing five communities in the county participated.

The 4-H Club members worked in most of the residential sections and contacted some downtown business places.

The MOD funds collected here will be used for education, research and medical services for the prevention of birth defects. Texas has five medical service centers to provide diagnosis, medical consultation by specialists and comprehensive care for patients.

County buys three trucks from Slaton

The Garza County Commissioners Court voted Feb. 12 to accept the trade difference on its trade-in, and bids of Smith Ford of Slaton for three 1971 two-ton trucks for use in county precinct road work.

Precinct 4 was bid $3,506.62 net trade difference or its trade-in and precincts 1 and 3 were bid $3,406.52 difference on each of theirs.

In other actions, the court authorized Judge Giles Dalby to negotiate with Dr. William Wilson for payment compensation for treating indigent patients as the county health officer.

Unanimously agreed, it would be the board and in leasing any water house approved from the city.

Sergeant's unit receives award

U. S. AIR FORCES, Thailand — Staff Sgt. Gerry K. Sherrill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Sherrill of Rt. 2, Tahoka, Tex., is a member of a U. S. Air Force organization in Southeast Asia that has earned the highest U. S. unit award for extraordinary heroism.

Sergeant Sherrill is assigned to the 504th Tactical Air Support Group that has been honored with the Presidential Unit Citation.

The 504th, with elements at various locations, flies a mission that has proved to be one of the most effective weapons in the Vietnam war and turned the tide of battle for many allied air and ground forces. Group support personnel and aircrews operate small propeller-driven observation aircraft for forward air control, coordinating and directing tactical air strikes and air rescue and reconnaissance operations.

Personnel of the 504th were cited for risking their lives daily under enemy threat and in adverse weather to log more than 195,000 sorties during a one-year period.

Sergeant Sherrill, a radio repairman at Udorn Royal Thai AFB in Thailand, will wear a distinctive service ribbon to mark his affiliation with the 504th.

The sergeant attended O'Donnell High School. His wife, Sylvia, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Mitchell of 501 West 7th St., Post.

Post industrial data in computer

E. H. Sheffield of the Texas Industrial Commission staff in Austin met with Post Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Foundation directors Wednesday morning in the community room to explain the commission's new computerized industrial location program called "Insta-Site."

Post is among the 400 Texas communities which has 1,446 items of data about it stored in the industrial commission's computer bank for "read outs" to industrial prospects interested in industrial qualifications this community can offer.

Sheffield pointed out only a few questions remain to be answered to make Post's information complete and asked that the answers be forwarded to Austin within ten days.

Sheffield explained that by the computer, the industrial commission can immediately provide information on all Texas cities that meet the industrial seeker's requirements.

Sixteen Post business and civic leaders are to be presented citations from the Texas Industrial Commission and Governor Pres. T. Smith for helping provide the information on Post's industrial profile. Sheffield brought the citations with them.

They go to Will Parker, Jess Hendryx, Al O'Brien, Ira Greenfield, T. H. Tipton, Wanda Wilkerson, Jerry Hester, Bill Shiver, George Barker, J. E. Parker, Glenn Barley, A. J. McAlister, Billy Hahn, Gene Moore, and Helen Livingston.

GETS MASTER'S DEGREE

Among those graduating from Texas Tech University at the end of the fall semester was Lin Allyn Duncan, who received her Master of Arts degree in Speech and English. Lin Allyn is the wife of Wendell Duncan of Lubbock and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cox of Post.

ATTEND GIFT SHOW

Federal meat inspection has impact on Texas housewives

COLLEGE STATION — The United States Department of Agriculture announced recently that it would take over all meat inspection in the state; and this could have far-reaching effects on the Texas housewife.

Some Meat Act of 1967 that said state inspection procedures must be "at least equal to" federal regulations. The deadline for compliance was in December. When the USDA began inspecting packing plants in Texas, it was found that several had not met federal standards.

The action came after Texas failed to comply with the Wholesaler standards.

What does all this mean to the homemaker? Dr. Ed Uvacek of Texas A&M University says that she can be doubly sure of getting meat products that are sanitary and disease-free. Many people have not been aware that up to now, part of the meat marketed in Texas was not inspected at all.

Federal law required certification only if meat was moved across state lines; and local packers with local markets were not subject to any kind of inspection they did not request.

Federal inspection has an interesting sidelight. Many of the small community slaughter houses and locker plants will have to either remodel their facilities or face closure. Dr. Uvacek estimates that many small meat packers are not even aware of the law and will continue to operate until they are inspected by federal employes and given the choice of improving their plants or going out of business. Oftentimes, these small plants do not have enough business to make remodeling possible; and will probably be closed permanently. This will probably end the community locker service that many small-town families depend on for meat storage.

Cotton market expansion could be endangered by short supply

COLLEGE STATION — A supply shortage could endanger the best outlook for expanding cotton markets in a decade was a commonly heard statement at the recently held National Cotton Council meeting in Dallas.

Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist, said the need for more cotton production was pointed out by several conference speakers, including Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Clarence D. Palmby and Dr. M. K. Horne, Jr., consulting economist for the council.

Horne noted that domestic mill usage in 1970 was eight million bales and that exports for the crop year ending next Aug. 1 are projected to rise to 3.5 million bales, up 700,000 from 1969. There is some feeling that actual exports will go to four million bales or more, Horne said. Domestic use of eight million bales and exports of 3.5 million would reduce the carryover stock of cotton to the lowest level since 1952 and bring us to the brink of a supply crisis, the economist said.

Elliott said Dr. Horne emphasized that cotton could not survive such a situation when we are competing with synthetic fibers which are produced on dependable schedules every day of the year. Therefore, a larger crop in 1971 is a must.

Palmby also emphasized the need for more cotton production in 1971 and outlined how the Agricultural Act of 1970 could give a new direction for cotton. The new program offers the cotton industry the opportunity to be more competitive in terms of production costs and to produce what the market will take — the quantities and varieties needed, he said.

In order to expand our market opportunities, we must have larger supplies along with a greater variety of staple lengths and other quality factors. We must have cotton available if we hope to regain cotton's rightful share of market growth here and around the world, the assistant secretary said.

Elliott advises Texas cotton producers to take a realistic view of the current situation and take advantage of the opportunities offered.

lcy roads cause traffic mishaps

Four traffic accidents, three of them blamed on the weekend's icy road conditions, resulted in injuries to five persons, highway patrolmen report.

Two persons, Robert James Sheppard of Albuquerque, N. M., and Gloria R. Torres, a passenger in his car, were injured in a one-car turnover 21.6 miles southeast of Post on U. S. Hwy. 84. Sheppard suffered a broken wrist and the woman received neck, head and scalp injuries.

Four persons were injured, none seriously when a car driven by Esperanza Solis Soto of Lubbock turned over near Terrace Cemetery.

Several Texas Tech students, occupying two cars, escaped injury in a collision northeast of Post on U. S. Hwy. 84 Sunday. The accident was blamed on the icy roads.

No injuries were reported in a car-truck collision Tuesday, 2.7 miles west of Post on U. S. Hwy. 380.

The accidents were investigated by Highway Patrolmen Ken Gilbreath and Gene Posey.

Charles Wesley composed about 6,500 religious songs during his lifetime.

HOW TO BUY FRESH VEGETABLES

Demand freshness! Check for bright, lively color and crispness. These are signs of freshness and will usually be best at the peak of the season.

Buy only the amount you need as most vegetables can be stored for only two to five days. Root vegetables are an exception.

Avoid decay. Although you cut off the decayed area, deterioration is likely to result in the remainder.

There are no set rules for buying vegetables because each kind has certain characteristics. Experience will usually be the best source of knowledge. A few hints might prove useful.

Snap beans are available most of the year. Look for good color and young tender beans with pods firm and crisp. Avoid wilted or flabby pods, serious blemishes and decay. An overmature pod will be thick, tough and fibrous.

The best buy for broccoli are those firm, compact clusters of buds. You should not be able to see the bright yellow flowers. A dark green or sage green color is best. Yellow green indicates overmaturity and long display. Also avoid broccoli with soft, slippery, water-soaked spots. This is a sign of decay.

Three types of cabbage are available: (1) smooth-leaved, (2) crinkly-leaved or Savoy and (3) red cabbage. Select those heads that are heavy for their size. Choose one with good color (red or green) and free from serious blemishes.

Carrots should be well-formed, smooth, well-colored and firm. Avoid roots with large green sunburn spots or those which are flabby or decayed.

Check cauliflower to see that it is compact, solid and clean. The color should range from white to creamy-white. A speckled appearance on the curd (edible portion) is a sign of insect injury. Avoid this.

As soon as corn is bought it should be placed in the refrigerator and kept moist until used. Husks should appear fresh and should be free from decay or injury. Also look for plump kernels.

No matter what type of lettuce you buy, be sure to look for freshness. Avoid heads which are very hard and lack green color, as well as those with irregular shapes and bumps.

In general select hard or firm onions which are dry and have small necks. Papery outer scales that are free from green sunburn spots are best. Onions with soft necks or woody centers in the neck should be avoided.

Potatoes can be divided into three groups according to use. New potatoes are best for boiling and creaming. General purpose potatoes can be used in just about any way. Baking potatoes comprise the third group.

When selecting new potatoes look for well-shaped firm potatoes without blemishes and sunburn. General purpose and baking potatoes should be reasonably smooth, well-shaped and firm. Always avoid potatoes with large cuts or bruises, sprouts or shriveled surfaces.

Be extra careful when selecting sweet potatoes because they are more perishable. Check to see that they are smooth, bright, uniformly colored and free from decay. Wormholes, cuts and any other defects in the skin can result in decay. Cutting away decayed areas cannot eliminate the bad taste in other areas. Don't store sweet potatoes in the refrigerator.

Post's FFA members observe special week

Members of the Post Future Farmers of America chapter are aware of the need to get "Involved in America's Future." They join FFA members everywhere to celebrate National FFA Week, Feb. 20-27.

Throughout the week chapter members are planning activities to illustrate their involvement in preparing to meet future challenges of agribusiness in America.

"We want our community and the nation to know that, as FFA members, we are concerned with the challenging problems we will face in our lifetime," says Larry Bilberry, chairman of this year's FFA Week committee. "In the FFA we learn to work together to accomplish worthwhile objectives," Larry emphasized.

Post FFA members feel that their involvement in the future of agriculture is vital to the nation and its objectives to feed an ever growing population. "If this nation is to continue to satisfy demands for low-cost, high-quality agriculture products, we must continue to train responsible men and women to fill the thousands of jobs both on and off the farm," says E. A. Howard, FFA chapter advisor and vocational agriculture instructor.

Drylot feeding is suggested as drouth measure

COLLEGE STATION — Drylot feeding of the cow herd is a possible solution to the problems created by drouth and cold weather, explains Dr. B. J. Ragsdale, extension range specialist at Texas A&M University.

Confining cattle and feeding them silage rations with comparable energy levels as pastures can alleviate the nutrient deficiencies and lack of forages as well as the cattle losses that accompany drouth. Less energy is required by confined animals and cattle weight can be maintained in drylots. Rations can vary, but it is necessary to maintain a minimum nutrient and energy level. Vitamins and minerals may not be necessary, although it is a good idea to include them for brief periods.

When the herd is in a drylot, the pastures aren't trampled and the remaining forages can have a chance to recover from the effects of drouth and cold weather.

In early tests, no disease problems were encountered within the confined animals. Hoof and leg problems were minimized by providing an exercise area.

More feed and labor are required to maintain the cattle in drylots but the expenses are more than compensated for by the reduction in cattle disease and losses.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Stephens recently were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Reeves of Syder, Mrs. Paul Storie and Mrs. Stanley Mathis.

Did You See I Waved?

By George Miller

There's a new record out called "Jesus Christ Superstar". It's an opera based on the last week in Jesus' life done in Rock 'n Roll style. One of the songs is sung by the crowd on Palm Sunday. It says, in part:

Christ, you know I love you,
Did you see I waved?
I believe in you and God.
Tell me that I'm saved.

What makes this saddest of all is how useless a waving hand is. That hand could be doing something useful. It could be building, it could be pointing the way to something important, it could be comforting someone, it could be helping someone, it could be carrying a burden grown too heavy to carry alone.

There is so much we could be doing with our lives that counts, that makes a difference, that's worth noticing. Instead, we waste it, waving fiercely for all the world to see.

If you think you can catch the world's attention by waving, just remember one thing. You'll probably succeed. We'll see you wave alright. But we'll see something else too.

An Empty Hand!

How sad that so many people spend their lives waving frantically to Jesus trying to catch his attention. How small and unimportant they must feel.

Happy Home Environment
WHAT'S THE IDEAL?

Most people would agree that the ideal happy home environment must take into consideration the environmental aspects as well as the spiritual and human relationships.

In the present state of technology, electricity does its job well when it comes to environmental aspects of conditioning the air in your home.

The ideal system, now available, not only does its job of comfort heating in winter and comfort cooling in summer but also refines the air itself. Electric humidifiers control the amount of moisture in the air and electrostatic air cleaners remove undesirable dust particles.

The proposed cactus garden would require little upkeep except for removal of little which will be blown into the garden and caught on the cactus plants.

All volunteered ideas, money and labor will be gratefully received. This is the kind of project where everybody who is really interested can participate together.

Think what you have to offer — and then call Peewee. And don't miss the big organizational meeting Monday night, March 15.

We hear E. A. Howard, the vocational ag teacher, is a whiz on cacti. We certainly are going to see he has an "engraved invitation" to the March 15 meeting.

This project will be a lot more fun than "cleaning up" Broadway. So climb aboard.

WHOSE COOKIES TO BUY?

Lou Marks, a staunch supporter of the Girl Scout cookie sale, is surrounded by green- and brown-clad salesmen. The girls, who last year earned cookie patches for selling 100 or more boxes, are, left to right: Connie Halford, Kara Scrivner, Jodine Tipton and Donna Josey.

Girl Scouts to sell cookies for 2 weeks

Over 100 Brownies and Girl Scouts will get the annual Girl Scout cookie sale under way here Friday, Feb. 26, according to Mrs. Vada Clary, cookie sale chairman.

The sale will continue through March 11, with the 106 girls from six local troops selling five kinds of cookies — assorted sandwich, mini, butter flavored, shorties, peanut butter and pecanettes. The price will be 50 cents a box, the same it has been for the last several years, the cookie sale chairman said.

Girl Scouts or Brownies selling as many as 350 boxes of the cookies will receive two-week camper-ships. The sale of 100 boxes will earn a cookie patch; 50 boxes, a Girl Scout bookmark, and 25 boxes a certificate of honor.

The girls will be selling from house to house and will also have cookie stations set up downtown, Mrs. Clary said.

Proceeds from the cookie sale will go toward the maintenance and enlargement of Girl Scout camping facilities at Camp Rio Blanco, the official camp of the Caprock Girl Scout Council.

"Post's biggest assets," he said, "are its people's friendliness and their willingness to work together toward common goals."

The guest speaker, introduced by Dalby, kept the crowd in an uproar with humor and jokes on a variety of topics. His only serious note came at the conclusion of his speech when he recounted a story which had as its moral: "After you have gone a mile, pick up your load and go another mile." He tied this moral in with the banquet theme: "It's People Working Together That Makes a Community Grow."

Library Listening Post

By GEORGE L. MILLER
I need some help from you folks who use the library. We may have a darn good collection of books, but there is one area of reading that we are slim on — hobbies.

I'm not much of a hobby man myself. My recreation is reading and music. But there are lots of people who have hosts of hobbies, and we would like to be of help to them in the library.

The trouble is, I don't know what books to get for you. Who's written the best book on leather working? Who's the authority on embroidery and needlecraft? What book on knitting is the most helpful?

Any coin collectors in town? We sure need some good books on coins but which ones? Stamp collectors need help too, where can we get the best for you?

Some people have taken up painting as a hobby. Surely there are some good books on the subject. Or ceramics! I lived in a small town once where ceramics was the big hobby — everyone was working at it. But I don't know of a single book on the subject in our library.

A young man came in the other day looking for a book on chess. I had to turn him down. We do have Goren's book on bridge, but most of the people I know play by their own system anyway, so it's not in much demand.

Hunting, fishing, boating — we have a few books on these subjects but we could probably use more. Bird watching — any bird watchers in Post? We could give you more information, if we knew what to get.

And tropical fish. That's a popular hobby for lots of people, but I don't know a single title on the subject. Gardening is a certain favorite, and we have a number of books on the subject, but I don't know if we have the best.

Let's face it, I don't know beans about any hobbies. When you come into the library looking for help, I'm lucky if I know what you're talking about. So all you hobby people get busy, put on your thinking caps, and make out lists of books on your pet projects. Then bring them on down to the library and let us know what you want or need. The library board has allocated some money for new book buying so now's the time to get in your order.

Speaking of new books, we put a few more in the library last week. Among them are Pearl Buck's newest book "Mandala". This one is about modern India. We got Agatha Christie's newest (her 80th) book, "Passenger to Frankfurt". It's about a plane hijacking.

For you science fiction fans we have "The House in November" by Kenneth Laumer. This one's about a man who wakes up one morning and the whole world has gone on ahead of him, something like Rip van Winkle. That ought to cause considerable problems.

We also have Gunter Grass' newest novel "Local Anaesthetic". Reviewers all raved about this one.

We're improving all the time but we still need help from you hobby people!
