City council briefed on park improvement needs

New playground equipment sought

Two Post Chamber of Commerce directors, Earl Chapman and Jack Alexander, asked the city council at its regular May meeting Monday night to consider the construction of two tennis courts, new playground equipment and a barbecue pit cover as improvements at the City-County Park.

Mayor Giles C. McCrary and the councilmen indicated their approval of the proposed improvements and that they will be given every consideration when submitted by the City-County Park Improvements committee.

"The park is one of Post's best assets," the mayor said.

Chapman said he feels the two tennis courts are needed because of increased interest here in the sport since the courts were built across the street from the high school two years ago. He said the present courts are inadequate for the number of people wanting to use them, and that two more tennis courts at the school in addition to two at the park would enable the Post school to host the district University Interscholastic League meet and other interscholastic tournaments.

Win ribbons on meat products

Jim and Arthur "Bo" Jackson, owners of Jackson Bros. Food Locker, won ribbons on a variety of their products at the annual convention of the Texas-Oklahoma Meat Processors' Association held last weekend in Fort Worth.

Jim Jackson, who had been serving as a director of the association, also was elected as first vice president at the convention, which was attended by over 200 meat processors and their families from the two-state area.

In addition to the ribbons they won on their meat products, the Jacksons returned to Post with four of the 10 door prizes awarded at the convention. Jim and his wife each won a $25 check, Bo's wife, Marita, won a set of steak knives, and the Jim Jacksons' daughter, Daria, won a set of honing knives.

Chapman also said he was of the opinion that lights should be installed at the school tennis courts for night play.

Mrs. C. K. "Pee Wee" Pierce, chairman of the Chamber's beautification committee, met briefly with the council and suggested that the city hire at least two school students this summer to "work on weeds" on vacant lots, in sidewalk cracks, and other places where needed. She explained that this would also be a help to students needing summer jobs since the Office of Economic Opportunity funds for that purpose have been cut off.

Mayor McCrary told Mrs. Pierce that the South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG) is to receive an allocation of nearly $200,000 this year from another agency. (See City Council, page 8)

Little Britches Rodeo entries pour in here

With the entry deadline for Post's first Little Britches Rodeo still some two weeks away, the entry lists are filling fast. Fred Myers said Wednesday.

Up to 2 p.m. Wednesday, there were 73 entries in the pee-wee division and 40 in the junior division.

"In fact, we're already full up in pee-wee ribbon roping," Myers said.

The rodeo, sponsored by the Garza County Junior Livestock Association, is to be held May 25-26 at the Post Stampede arena, with each night's performance starting at 8 o'clock.

Doc Edwards of Girard will furnish the stock for the rodeo and says he has a fresh string of Shetland ponies for the pee-wee division.

The junior division, for contestants 12, 13 and 14 years old, will include barrel racing, flag racing, pole bending, bareback pony riding, bull riding and ribbon roping.

In the pee-wee division, which is for contestants 11 and under, will be flag racing, barrel racing, pole bending, calf roping, Shetland bareback riding and ribbon roping.

Entry blanks may be obtained at Myers' office at the First National Bank or at County Agent Syd Conner's office in the courthouse.

Lions ready for broom, mop sale

The Post Lions Club will hold its annual broom sale Saturday, May 12, from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. in front of the radio station on West Main Street.

The club will be selling brooms, mops and other household cleaning equipment, with all proceeds going for the Lions' purchase of eyeglasses.

The downtown merchants and all the service stations will be contacted Saturday morning, with the residential area also being canvassed.

Webb Funeral rites pending at Hudman's

Funeral services will be held here Friday for Mrs. Julia Viola Webb, who died Wednesday in Lovington, N. M. Other arrangements are pending at Hudman Funeral Home.

Mrs. Webb was the mother of Mrs. Jack Meeks of the Pleasant Valley community.

Junior-Senior banquet set Saturday evening

The junior class of Post High School is to honor the senior class at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet and prom Saturday, May 12, in the Community Center.

The banquet is to begin at 7:30 p.m. The prom will be held from 9:30 until 12:30.

The Tower Theatre will open at 1 a.m. for a movie for the members of the two classes.

Rites conducted for Ab Thomas, 71

Funeral services for Albert Burnette (Ab) Thomas, 71, of Haskell, former longtime resident of Post, were held at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the Calvary Baptist Church here with the Rev. Leon Smith, pastor, officiating.

Thomas, who had been seriously ill with cancer for some time, was found dead about 7 p.m. Sunday in the Floydada home of a brother, Hal Thomas, with whom he was visiting. Justice of the Peace H. E. Porter of Floydada ruled death due to a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Since purchasing a home on Lake Stamford, near Haskell, about two years ago, Thomas had been in and out of the hospital here a number of times and had been in a hospital at Floydada since going there to visit his brother.

After farming on the plains near Post for a number of years, Thomas moved into town and before moving to Haskell was employed for several years as chief radio dispatcher in the sheriff's office here.

He was a native of Tennessee. Survivors include a son, who lives in Arizona; three brothers, Hal of Floydada, W. E. of Lockney and Lee Thomas of Overton; and (See Thomas Rites, page 8)

129 entries compete in Paint Horse Show

Exhibitors from Fort Worth, El Paso and Andrews showed the grand champions in the 10th annual Post Paint Horse Show held Sunday at the Post Stampede Rodeo arena. There were 129 entries.

Danny Thomas of Andrews showed the grand champion stallion, Apache Thunder; Jim Rosenbaum and wife of El Paso the grand champion mare, Honey Love, and M. Dale Geary of Fort Worth, the grand champion gelding, Ear Patches Reb.

The reserve champions were: Stallion, Tom King Bar, shown by H. M. "Bud" Bork of Vega; mare, Lason's Ann, shown by the Rosenbaums, and gelding, Matt Bar McCue, shown by Robin Kimberly of Silver City, N. M.

First place winners in the halter and performance classes were as follows:

1973 Stallion: Get 'em Sam, Gene Bray, Muleshoe.
1972 Stallion: Jalapino Flashback, Mrs. Russell Harwood, Brownsville.
1971 Stallion: Top King Bar, H. M. "Bud" Bork.
1970 Stallion: Apache Thunder, Danny Thomas.
1969 Stallion: Elson's Paint, Ed (See Horses Show, page 8)

"EXCITEMENT PINS" ARE DISTRIBUTED

C. H. Hattel, president of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, pins one of the new "I'm Excited" pins on Sam Park, manager of the Little Foundry, one of the speakers at last Friday's first in a series of quarterly Chamber membership breakfasts. At the left is Mrs. Edward Neff, head of a committee which designed the pin, 500 of which were ordered. Members who did not get a pin at the breakfast may obtain one at the Chamber office.

40 attend first CofC breakfast

Chamber president J. B. Potts told Chamber members attending the first quarterly breakfast last Friday morning in the community room that Chamber membership has now climbed to a new record total of 151.

He said this includes 76 individual members and 75 business memberships.

A total of 54 new members have been added since the current spring membership drive began.

Sam Park of Lubbock, new owner of The Little Foundry, told the approximately 40 Chamber members in attendance in the first of two brief talks about their own business operations that the foundry hopes to boost its payroll from 16 to 25 when school is out this

Spring roundup for beginning pupils Friday

The annual spring roundup for all children who will enroll in the first grade or kindergarten for the school year beginning in August of 1973 will be held Friday, May 11, from 3 p.m. until 4 p.m. according to Principal Jack Alexander.

Parents are requested to enter the east door of the primary building, where their child will be assigned a room, then go to the auditorium in the primary building.

All first grade and kindergarten pupils for 1972-73 (current pupils) will be dismissed at 2 p.m. Friday, May 11.

The principal said the age requirements are: Kindergarten—Educationally disadvantaged, five years old by Sept. 1, 1973; other children, five to seven years old by Sept. 1, 1973. (See Spring Roundup, page 8)

$100 gift to library made by Louie Burkes

A contribution of $100 for the Post Public Library's Memorial Building Fund has been received here from Louie Burkes, former Postex Plant manager, in memory of his daughter, Dale J. Burkes, who died while the Burkes were residing in Post several years ago. The Burkes now live in Greenwood, S. C.

Marijuana possession charges face 3 girls

Three Post High School girls, each 17, were arrested during the noon hour here last Thursday and charged with possession of marijuana.

The three are Karla Josey, Jill Cash and Jo Beth Gandy. Sheriff J. A. (Jimmy) Holleman said that three small bags, each containing about an ounce of marijuana, were found in the purse of one of the girls.

He told The Dispatch that the arrests resulted when City Patrolman Dave Roberts was sent to investigate a complaint that somebody was in a rent house at 312 West 14th St. from which the tenant had moved.

Holleman said Roberts detected what he thought to be the smell of marijuana smoke when he entered the house and upon investigation found the narcotic drug.

The sheriff said one of the girls had been helping the tenant move and had a key to the house, according to his understanding of the facts.

The three girls have been released on bond awaiting district court grand jury action.

CANON CITY, COLO.

Band gets first division rating

Post High School band received a first division rating in a competition with bands from six other schools at the Music and Blossom Festival held Saturday and Sunday in Canon City, Colo.

Director Herb Germer explained that the Colorado rating is a different from that used in other states and that the 380 points possible 475 scored by the band gave it a first division rating, second or third place in other divisions.

The band was in competition at 10:30 a.m. Saturday then marched in a parade at 3 p.m. The parade scheduled for Sunday afternoon was rained out.

The Post band and adults accompanying it traveled in two chartered buses, chartered by the Band Boosters. The band students paid for their rooms and meals with money they had earned on various projects.

Adults accompanying the band besides the director and Mrs. Germer were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Collier, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Babb, Lil Conner and Louise Greene.

has a great bunch of young people who also has the same marijuana problem that exists today in cities and towns big and small.

At The Dispatch we don't know the answer to the problem. Kids are inquisitive, they try it. That doesn't make it legal. It means they've made a mistake which some get caught on and some don't.

The drug law in Texas is tough. Right now marijuana possession is a felony, and as far as I know, it's a felony in a room in which marijuana is legally "in possession."

Texas Legislature is considering changing the law to make possession of an ounce or less the same as a misdemeanor which is what it ought to be where people are concerned.

Think such a change would do much stronger enforcement of the law against youthful marijuana users — and all this is good.

Parents today are faced with the problem in drugs they did experience themselves when they were kids, so are more or less clueless as to how to handle it.

They mustn't abandon the place in their youngsters necessary for a close parent-child relationship — to take on the job of drug snoopers.

As I said, we don't know the answer. We do know that when kids make mistakes we must help them to overcome them — and that is what we all the good citizens of Post should do. (See Postings, page 8)

Time we all learned the lingo

Chances are that most Garza counties know the meaning of words like set-aside, allotments, production payments, and planting intentions. For those who don't, then maybe it's time they learned the language. And this National Cotton Week is a good time to do it.

Some think the words listed above only apply to farmers and not to themselves. Then it's time for them to guess again. They have a direct bearing on the amount of food and fiber the nation's farmers produce each year and the price you pay for it.

The recent furor over rising food prices has dramatized—as perhaps nothing else could—the importance of a national farm program that gives our food and fiber producers the profit incentive to provide us with an ample supply. In the case of meat, we suddenly came to a point where demand exceeded supply and higher prices were the inevitable result.

Beef slaughtered for the market in January of this year, for example, was 8 per cent higher than January of last year, but the demand for that beef was even higher.

Well, you might ask, isn't the farmer getting higher prices because of this increased demand?

An affirmative answer to that question has to be followed by a significant "but." Yes, the present high demand for farm products has driven farm prices up and economists say this should mean a substantial boost in cash receipts down on the farm this year. But, the irony of the situation is that this increase in farm prices is being accompanied by an even sharper rise in farm production expenses. As a result, the net income farmers derive from food and fiber production this year is not expected to be as high as it was last year.

Too bad, you say, but what does this have to do with me?

More than you think. Three-fourths of our food and fiber production is coming from less than 600,000 farmers who sell more than $20,000 worth of farm products a year. These farmers not only operate on extremely thin profit margins and have to gamble on weather and other risky elements, but many of them also carry a heavy debt load because of the great amount of capital required for today's modern farm efficiency.

Consequently, when inflation cuts into the farmer's net return—as it's doing now—it seriously threatens his very economic survival.

Last year, the number of farms in this country dropped by one per cent and this year a further drop of 1.4 per cent is indicated.

Perhaps this sounds like a small percentage, but think back to that "less than 600,000 farms" again.

Even if a small percentage of our highly efficient farmers are forced out of business or forced to cut back their farming investments, food and fiber supplies will drop and you, the consumer, will be faced with higher costs than ever.

That's why each of us—whether we live in a sprawling metropolis or a small rural community—has a vital interest in a thriving, prosperous agriculture.

Wouldn't work out for mothers

Sunday is Mother's Day—that one day in the year other members of the family make a token effort of pitching in to take the load off Mom. And in this day of so many "working" mothers, that's no small chore, believe us!

We shower our mothers with gifts and affection on Mother's Day. In doing so we realize just how important a mother is to each of us and to the family as a whole.

When Mother's Day rolls around we do a lot of things in a burst of proper sentiment, such as naming Mothers of the Year. Maybe this Mother's Day, it's time we considered a Bill of Rights for mothers. Bills of Rights for just about everything else have become popular in recent years. This year, for instance, a Bill of Rights for mothers might easily replace the proposed Women's Liberation amendment, which appears doomed to failure anyway.

To start off with such a campaign for mothers' rights, isn't it about time we started demanding a little old 12-hour day for mother? Most employers think eight hours work out of 24 is plenty, and one day a week off is a must, with preferably two, or even three.

Now everyone knows that no home could put mother on an eight-hour day and get along. Putting her on a six-day week is well nigh impossible—except, of course, for the week that is ended by Mother's Day.

Come to think of it, though, this idea of a Bill of Rights for mothers wouldn't work. They do too much, of course, but who else would be a fitting substitute? And what mother would step aside anyway—just because of a clock that said, "That's all for today"?—CD

George R. Brown

PROBABLY THE main reason John B. Connally switched over to the Republican Party was that he wanted to be "where the action is"—the action in this case being the Watergate caper.

Incidentally, I consider the Connally "switch" as about the best thing that has happened to the Democratic Party since the Watergate scandal broke. And scandal, it is, even though it's difficult to get most Republicans and ultra-conservative Democrats to consider it as such.

WATERGATE IS worse than Sharpstown. The former reaches way back into the White House whereas the latter encompassed only the Texas legislative halls and governor's mansion. After Sharpstown, those who believe in clean government rallied behind the slogan, "Let's kick the rascals out," and did just that in the 1972 elections. Now let's go after the rascals responsible for the Watergate caper and have an even bigger house-cleaning in 1976.

The man up the street says even a woodpecker owes his success to the fact that he uses his head.

TWO FELLOWS out at the Texas Highway Department complex—Bob West and Reece Hodges—have made news the last few weeks. Bob, chief inspector here for the highway department is the subject of an article, "Carving His Niche in Leather," in the April issue of the "Texas Highways" magazine, and Reece was honored with a farewell party last week upon his retirement after over 16 years with the highway department here.

The magazine piece on Bob West is quite an article, with photographs and story by Larry Upshaw of the highway department's Travel and Information Division. The writer tells about Bob giving up the range 18 years ago to join the highway department after he "cowboyed his way around the Texas High Plains."

THE MAIN PART of the magazine article, however, is about the Bob West Saddle Repairs Service and tells how he not only repairs saddles, but also crafts belts, fixes shoes and produces custom-made chaps. "I make my stuff for the pros," the magazine article quotes Bob. "A cowboy will put his chaps on before sunup take them off for dinner, and wear them until late in the evening. I even outfit 10 of the top jockeys in the country. They wear my chaps when they exercise their mounts. They have to be comfortable and fit right."

Another of Bob's handicrafts is making knives, but he makes them only for himself and friends. In the magazine article he says: "I gave one to Oscar Crain (former district engineer) when he retired earlier this year. And I gave Bruce Bryan (former assistant district engineer) one when he was honored for 40 years with the department. They were just gifts. I don't sell them."

UPSHAW USED three splendid pictures in his two-page magazine spread on Bob. One is a close-up of the Post man, captioned "Man of the West"; another, captioned "Leathery Look," shows just a part of Bob's hand as he carves an intricate design on a leather belt, and the third picture, captioned "Two Little Tugs" shows West pulling on a pair of new chaps he had made for a customer.

And now to get back to Reece Hodges and his retirement from the highway department. They threw quite a whing-ding for Reece out at the maintenance building, with employees of that department as well as of the resident highway engineer's office and the warehouse—about 70 in all—attending. Reece, who suffered a heart attack about a year ago, had gone back to work, but decided to call it "quits" at the age of 63.

JOE WILLIAMS, maintenance foreman, was master of ceremonies at the farewell party for Reece, and Joe, along with a number of others attending, made brief talks praising the work he had done in his 16 years with the highway department here and expressing regret that he was "leaving them."

Reece also had a few words to say before it was all over. He was presented a "money tree," a shirt, and just to show that no one thinks he is going to spend his retirement sitting on the porch swatting flies, he was also presented a miniature set of garden tools.

PRESENT TO HELP Reece enjoy his retirement party were his wife and two sons, Dee and Bobby, and Dee's wife, and Reece's brother, Floyd Hodges, who is an employee of the highway department's engineer office. Several from out of town also attended.

For first time, DPS is considering female applicants for patrolman jobs

AUSTIN — Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced today the DPS is accepting applications for appointment to the post of patrolman.

And for the first time since the State law enforcement agency was created in 1935, female applicants will be considered for patrolman positions.

Also, the DPS director noted that the department has been increasingly successful in recruiting persons from minority groups to patrolman positions and said efforts in this direction will continue.

Speir said general qualifications for DPS patrolmen are these: Applicants must be 20 through 35 years of age (inclusive); good moral character; excellent physical condition; height not less than 58 inches nor more than 76 inches; weight not less than two pounds nor more than 3½ pounds per inch of height; visual acuity no worse than 22-40 correctable to 20-20; and a citizen of the United States. Educational requirements are a minimum of 30 semester hours of college credit.

Persons selected as cadets will be assigned to Austin for an 18-week training school beginning June 26 at the DPS Academy. The salary during training will be $600 per month, and room and board during this period will cost the cadet approximately $55 per month.

Speir said upon being commissioned a patrolman, the salary is automatically raised to $743 monthly. Patrolmen receive additional longevity pay for each five years of service to 25 years. They are also granted a monthly uniform cleaning allowance, and receive travel expenses when away from their station.

Uniforms, vehicles, weapons, ammunition and related equipment are furnished. Group life and hospitalization are paid for the employee, and dependent coverage is available at reasonable rates. Patrolmen participate in the Employee Retirement System of Texas as well as Social Security. Vacation, holidays and sick leaves are as provided for all State employees.

Successful graduates will be assigned to the Highway Patrol, License & Weight Service, Motor Vehicle Inspection Service, or Drivers License Service according to the needs of DPS and consideration of personal preference.

Patrolmen are eligible to compete for promotions after two years of service. Experienced uniformed DPS personnel interested in criminal investigation may apply for appointment to positions in the Criminal Law Enforcement Division, which includes Narcotics, Intelligence, Motor Vehicle Theft and Texas Ranger Services as vacancies occur.

Speir said applicants should contact any DPS office or patrolman for an application. The completed application form should then be taken to the nearest regional, district or sub-district DPS office where the competitive examination is given.

Arrangements will be made for a physical examination. A character investigation will be conducted and those persons who are accepted for employment will be notified prior to beginning of the June recruit school.

FORWARD CONTRACTING

By contracting crops or livestock in advance, farmers and ranchers can take some of the guesswork out of their operations.

"But it's not all milk and honey," according to Wayne Hayenga and Don Parks, economists for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Forward contracting is a financial management tool that can be especially helpful to producers when prices are changing," contend the economists. "Forward contracting fixes the price of a product so that there is less financial risk to the producer."

Another advantage to the producer is that once a product is contracted, it gives him greater financial leverage and may allow him to borrow more operating capital. Lending institutions often are more willing to extend loans to producers who have a guaranteed price for their product.

On the negative side, forward contracting limits the producer's profit potential of a product since any increase in market price goes to the buyer rather than the seller. Product quality may also suffer, point out the economists, since producers may just concentrate on producing as much as possible without regard for quality improvement. Of course, when quality standards are included in the contract, this problem is relieved.

Legal fees will be an added expense when contracts are written or reviewed by an attorney.

And, Hayenga and Parks advise producers to obtain a written contract "to prevent any misunderstanding between buyer and seller."

Written contracts should include the following details: date contract is made, price of product or service or a formula to determine the price, delivery conditions (date, place, quality, quantity), consequences of nonperformance of either buyer or seller, and signatures of persons involved.

According to the economists, a written contract that meets these specifications can head off the two main problems in forward contracting — buyers not taking delivery at the set payment rate, and sellers not delivering the designated quantity and quality of product.

"Forward contracting can be a plus for farmers and ranchers if contracts are negotiated properly," say Hayenga and Parks. "However, before finalizing a contract, be sure you have all the essential details and a clear understanding of all the provisions of the contract."

WATER IS FOR DRINKING.

Cold water is a satisfying thirst quencher, but it's hardly what you need to get clothes really clean. With cotton you can use the hot water so necessary to get grimy work clothes fresh as new, white dress shirts really white, and fancy party clothes sparkling clean. For the brightest, cleanest wash in town, call for cotton. And use all the hot water you need.

Card of Thanks

I would like to say thank you for the gifts, flowers, cards and visits while I was in the hospital. All have been appreciated very much. Thank you, Avery Moore Jr.

Words cannot express the deep gratitude we feel in our hearts for the many words and acts of kindness during the illness and death of our loved one, Earle Thaxton. The flowers, food, prayers, and words of sympathy helped us bear our burden. May God richly bless each of you for everything that was done to help. Mrs. Earle Thaxton Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thaxton, Carolyn and Jackie Mrs. C. R. Thaxton and Helen Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Travis and family

We wish to express to our kind neighbors and thoughtful friends our heartfelt thanks for their many expressions of sympathy. A special thanks to Dr. Charles Tubbs and the hospital staff, and all the ladies who brought in food. Thank you, Juanita Yarbo, Daniel Yarbro —brother and sister of Hubert

We wish to express our most sincere thanks to everyone for their prayers, thoughts, gifts and cards while Curt was in the hospital. We especially thank those who brought equipment and applied treflan and listed our land while we were unable to do it ourselves. Sincerely, Jenny and Bobby Cowdrey

Dear people of Post, words can not express our deep feeling of gratitude and love for your concern in the death of our beloved son and brother. Most everyone knew Vancil and loved him for his beautiful innocent attitude toward life. He loved Post. Very few met him who didn't love him. We miss him terribly, but we know and well assured that he is with our Lord Jesus Christ. Praise the Lord, May God enrich and fill each of your hearts with his great love. May his love, joy and peace that passes all understanding envelop you as it has us. May God bless your lives for blessing ours. Mrs. Ruth Bowen and family

MRS. RICKEY RANDAL RICHARDS
(Dawn Marie Dewey)

Way-Richards vows read in Arlington church on April 14

Dawn Marie Dewey and Rickey Randal Richards were united in marriage Saturday, April 14, in the First Presbyterian Church in Arlington.

Rev. D. Warren Neal, pastor, officiated at the single ring ceremony. Dawn is the daughter of Mr. Daniel L. Dewey and Mrs. M. M. Dewey. Rickey is the son of Richard D. Richards of Dallas and Mrs. Lou Richards of Post. Dawn and Rickey were married by her father in a formal ceremony at the home of her parents. She wore a formal gown of white re-embroidered tulle with a fitted bodice and long sleeves, a matching cap trimmed in seed pearls and veil of silk illusion.

Dean Rice of Arlington officiated as maid of honor. She wore a formal gown of baby blue with an empire waist and long full sleeves.

Rev. Kendrick of Fort Worth was best man. Ushers were Mr. Dewey Jr., brother of Dawn, and Ron Carpenter of Arlington.

The ceremony followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

After the wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and trimmed with pink and white wedding bells was served to the guests.

Dawn will finish high school in Arlington and the bridegroom will attend the University of Texas in Fort Worth.

The wedding trip to Mexico, they will reside at 3713 Moberly St. in Fort Worth.

Miss Doris Holder to wed Bobby Hodges

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Holder of 515 West Lubbock St., Slaton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Doris, to Bobby Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Hodges of Post.

The bride-elect is a 1971 graduate of Wilson High School and is employed by the Postex Plant in Post. The future bridegroom is a 1971 graduate of Post High School and is attending Wayland Baptist College in Plainview. He is also employed by the Postex Plant.

Their next step will probably be more threatening letters. Mr. James is going to be in conference," I asked. "Oh, no, Mr. James really is in conference," the secretary said. "Then, he'd better call me back OR ELSE," I compromised. "I'm sorry, Mr. James does not make call-backs," the secretary repeated.

So be it. This means war. Columbia Record Club of America has a had their chance.

Telephone calls on a Watts line. I'm ready for them too. Next, they might send a fellow out from the collection agency to sit in front of the house with his sire on. I've got some really terrific surprises for him! I'm only sorry that one can't divulge war plans before a hand. I'm dying to tell about them.

Yes sir, if I go down. I'm taking somebody with me. What I don't owe, I don't pay. And by the way, does anybody out there know where a person could get a couple of good used machine guns and a few hand grenades cheap?

This Mother's Day give her a gift she'll never forget

The Mother's Ring

The name is registered. The design is patented. Reg. No. 681,459. U.S. Pat. No. 198,163.

Twin bands of 14 Karat Solid Gold signify husband and wife... a lustrous synthetic stone of the month marks the birthday of each of her children.

There is only one Mother's Ring... but many imitations. Assure yourself of the original by its identifying tag. The Mother's Ring is so distinctive, so unique, that it has been awarded U. S. Patent No. 198,163.

Potluck

By ROSEMARY CHAPMAN

Life has been more than kind to me. If I die tomorrow, I die happy. I have only one regret. I regret that I ever joined the Columbia Record Club of America.

Last December I ordered several Christmas records from Columbia. The records came, the bill was paid, and two weeks later another round of the same records came with another bill. "The computer has gone haywire," I said to myself. It was three days before Christmas and having other things to do, I tossed the records unopened into the back of a closet and vowed that I would attend to the whole mess later.

Which I didn't. I forgot them. I forgot them, that is, until I began getting friendly little reminders to pay my bill. Post haste, I packed the records and sent them back with a four-page letter apologizing for the delay in returning them and explaining the mix-up—the duplicate order before Christmas, etc. Was that the end of it?

Certainly not. It was the beginning. My letter and the returned records were never acknowledged in spite of the fact that I know they received them because I got the signed receipt back from the post office. Instead, Columbia came back at me with more letters demanding their money. Each letter, of course, got a little stronger.

Monday was the last straw. I received a letter from Bill James, Collection Director, who is now threatening to send a collection agency after me since I don't want to settle my account with Columbia on a "friendly basis."

This was terribly frustrating but I decided to give them one more chance. I placed a person-to-person call to Mr. James with the intention of explaining in person what I had already explained by letter.

"Mr. James is in conference," his secretary said to the operator. "Have him call back," I told the operator. "Mr. James does not make call-backs," the secretary said.

I considered saying, "If Mr. James does not call ME back by 10 tomorrow morning, my lawyers in Dallas, New York and Washington will descend on him like the Mongol hordes." However, since I don't even have a lawyer in Post, less what Dallas, New York and Washington, it occurred to me that my bluff might be called all too readily.

It also occurred to me that Mr. James is not a real person. He's just another arrogant computer.

"Is this the kind of deal where everytime I call Mr. James is going to be in conference?" I asked. "Oh, no, Mr. James really is in conference," the secretary said. "Then, he'd better call me back OR ELSE," I compromised. "I'm sorry, Mr. James does not make call-backs," the secretary repeated.

So be it. This means war. Columbia Record Club of America has a had their chance.

Telephone calls on a Watts line. I'm ready for them too. Next, they might send a fellow out from the collection agency to sit in front of the house with his sire on. ## Graham center is scene of shower for bride-elect

The Graham Community Center was the scene Friday evening for a bridal shower honoring Miss Beth Peol, bride-elect of David Hooten.

Approximately 60 guests were registered by Miss Nancy Strawn at a small round table covered with a pink satin cloth and centered with a dozen red roses, a gift to the honoree from the future bridegroom.

The guests were greeted by Miss Peol, her mother, Mrs. Elva Peol and her sister, Mrs. Jimmy Byrd of Clairmont.

Miniature sandwiches, punch, nuts and mints were served from a table laid with a white lace cloth over pink and centered with an arrangement of pink carnations and white daisies entwined with a pink satin ribbon lettered with "Beth and David" and their wedding date. A small china wedding party and milk glass appointments completed the table decor.

Assisting with the serving duties were Miss Kathy Arnold of Midland and Miss Chris Goins of Roswell, roommates of the honoree at Lubbock Christian College.

Hostesses for the occasion were: Mrs. Quannah Maxey, J. W. McMahon, Bryan Maxey, Ray McClellan, Elmo Bush, Lewis Mason, Noel White, Delmer Cowdrey, Elmer Cowdrey, Mack Ledbetter, Pearl Wallace, Viva Davis, Fred Gossett, Willie Mason, Bob Lusk, Melvin Williams, James Stone, Lucile McBride, Albert Stone, Bobby Cowdrey, Carl Fluit, Johnnie Rogers, Sexton Huntley, Goldie Johnston, Ronnie Graves, A. O. Parrish, Vera Gossett and Curtis Williams.

Guests in the home of Mrs. Ethel Redman last week were her daughters, Mrs. Hubert Cook of Levelland and Mrs. Carlos Alexander of Lovington. They also visited with their nephew, Curt Cowdrey, who is in the St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock.

'Girl of the Year' awards are presented at banquet here

Presentation of the "Girl of the Year" awards highlighted the annual Founder's Day banquet of the Xi Delta Rho and Mu Alpha chapters of Beta Sigma Phi sorority the evening of April 30 in the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall.

Xi Delta Rho's "Girl of the Year" award went to Mary Echols, and the Mu Alpha "Girl of the Year" award to Anne Leake.

Also presented were new presidents and Valentine sweethearts for both chapters. The new presidents are Margaret Price, Xi Delta Rho, and Gloria Goodwin, Mu Alpha. The Valentine sweethearts are Xi Delta Rho's Sharron Morris and Alpha Mu's Anne Leake.

The "Program of the Year" award went to Kathi Brown of the Mu Alpha chapter.

Mrs. Nita Burruss and Mrs. Winnie Tuffing, sponsor and director, were recognized. Mrs. Burruss made the "Girl of the Year" presentations.

Thursday Club meets with Mrs. Wallace

The Graham Thursday Club met May 3 in the home of Mrs. Pearl Wallace.

The afternoon was spent visiting and sewing.

Those attending were: Mmes. Sue Maxey, Ada Oden, Bernice Propst, Viva Davis and Wallace.

The next meeting will be May 17 with Mrs. Viva Davis.

Mmes. Peel and Middleton present program at Amity

Mrs. V. L. Peel and Mrs. Tom Middleton presented the program at a meeting of the Amity Study Club in the home of Mrs. Ed Sawyers with Mrs. Henry Wheatley as co-hostess.

Mrs. Peel presented a report on "Step Lively" and Mrs. Middleton gave "The Neglected Art of Being Different."

Roll call was answered with "My Aim in Life" by 15 members. The club attended a tea on April 25 given by the Historical Survey Committee in the home of Mrs. Gwen Boren. The tea was given in appreciation of the years of work and contribution made by the organization to the community. The Amity Study Club was founded in 1936.

Members present at the regular monthly meeting were: Mmes. Charles Adams, J. R. Bell, Lonnie Gene Peel, Margaret Bull, Bob Collier, Anne Leake, C. H. Harrel, Tom Middleton, George Miller, V. L. Peel, Tom Price, Lee W. Davis Jr., and Russell Wilks Jr.

The Amity Club year will close with a slumber party in the home of Mrs. George Miller on Friday, May 25.

Shower is held for bride-elect

Miss Tonya Jo Carlisle, bride-elect of Delbert Rudd, was honored with a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Douglas Livingston Tuesday evening.

Approximately 50 guests were greeted between the hours of 7:30 and 9 p.m. by the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Kent Carlisle, and the future bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Raymond Rudd.

Miss Donna Dye and Miss Stacy Starobee, sister of the bride-elect, served punch, finger sandwiches, and drinks from a table covered with white lace cloth over yellow and centered with an arrangement of yellow daisies around a burning candle. Crystal appointments were used.

Miss Kim Carlisle, sister of the bride-elect, registered the guests. Hostesses were: Mmes. By Hart, Jimmy Bartlett, Frances Conard, Bill Hughes, Roy Teaff, Larry Waldron, James Dye, Billy Joe Dornier, Fannie Ballentine, W. H. Childs and Livingston.

Reception held for newlyweds

A reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Bill McBride was held Sunday, April 29 in the Syd Wyatt home. Mrs. McBride is the former Mrs. Willie Cross.

Approximately 75 guests were greeted from 3 to 5 p.m.

The guests were served from a table laid with a white lace cloth and centered with a spring arrangement of flowers.

Hostesses were: Mmes. Jo Hill, Irene Mitchell, Inez Norris, Patsy Sanderson, Jewell White and Emilee Wyatt.

Windmills could produce twice the electricity now obtained from hydroelectric power.

McMurry College students to exchange vows here Aug. 11

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis C. Herron announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Laura Kay, to Johnny Mac Cathey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Cathey of Wingate.

The wedding is planned for Aug. 11 at the First United Methodist Church of Post.

The bride-elect is a Post High School graduate and a student at McMurry College in Abilene. The future bridegroom is also a student at McMurry, where they plan to continue their studies this fall.

Invitation Extended

Mr. Bill McBride extends a cordial invitation to friends and relatives to attend the marriage of his daughter, Donna Kay, to Bradley J. Loft on Saturday, May 12 at 4:00 p. m. in the Church of Christ.

A reception will follow in the community room.

Stanley Nixon is ordained minister

Stanley Nixon of Crosbyton, son of the Rev. and Mrs. A. T. Nixon, a graduate of Post High School, was ordained as a Baptist minister in a recent ceremony at the Pansy Baptist Church, near Crosbyton. Nixon has been called to pastor at Crosbyton school system for 16 years and has been a lay preacher several years. He and his wife have two high school age sons, Andy and Ticer. Mrs. Nixon is employed at Crosbyton Clinic Hospital. The Rev. Ernest Stewart Jr., pastor of First Baptist Church in Crosbyton, preached the sermon at the ordination service. The Rev. T. Nixon, Stanley's father and retired Baptist minister, read the charge to the candidate and to the church.

"Get In The Wheelbarrow"
 by BOB STICE
 In his book, "Habitation of Dragons," Keith Miller relates a story told by Elton Trueblood about a man who had the strange desire to walk across Niagara Falls on a tightrope pushing a wheelbarrow with a man in it. For a year the man practiced every day in his yard on a tightrope stretched between two poles. He learned first to walk the rope using a balance bar, then pushing a wheelbarrow, and finally pushing the wheelbarrow across the rope with 175 pounds of bricks in it. As the man practiced daily, a neighbor next door began watching the progress and noted that the man never fell off the wire. As the time came for the big event at Niagara Falls, a large crowd gathered to witness the daring attempt. The performer looked anxiously across the huge falls and then turned to his neighbor friend, "Joe," he asked, "do you believe I can do it?"
 Joe gave him a confident slap on the back and replied, "I absolutely believe you can. I even bet a tenth of this year's income on you."
 After a long pause the performer asked again, "Joe, do you really believe?"
 Joe replied seriously, "Yes, I really believe."
 "Fine," the performer said, "you're my man. Get in the wheelbarrow."
 The call of Jesus Christ to every human being is not just one of salvation. The Christian life is a daily walk of discipleship which demands actions as well as words. Jesus did much more than just preach to people that He was the Son of God and that He came to forgive the sins of mankind. He "lived" His words by actually walking up that lonely road of suffering to Calvary and dying for our sins.
 The greatest need in our world and in our community today is not for bigger and better churches filled with record numbers of people. Our greatest need is for people who claim faith to become disciples who put faith into action. It does little good for us to claim belief in anything, be it sacred or secular, if we are not willing to "get in the wheelbarrow" of positive action on that belief. All of the planting and talking about our needs and our hopes for our community, our churches, and the Kingdom of God are of little worth unless we are willing to apply ourselves to the task at hand. Real faith in God and in the Christian Way demands nothing less than this.

Plans pick up for Gaines Co. Rodeo

SEAGRAVES — Four candidates have entered the race for queen of the annual Gaines County Rodeo to be held here May 31, June 1-2. The queen candidates and their sponsors are: Elaine Freeman, Seagraves Lions Club; Stephanie Reed, Seagraves Lions Club; Cecilia Balagueras Seed & Delinting Co., Karen Booe of Seminole, Gaines County Sheriff's Posse, Little Pope, 15, District 1 queen of the American Association of Rodeo and Riding Clubs, will attend the opening day parade at 10 a.m. Thursday, May 31, the night's performance, and possibly other performances, sponsors of the rodeo said.

A barbecue for members of the sheriff's posses and riding clubs will be held following the parade. The rodeo is to open with the parade at 8 p.m. May 31 and continue through Saturday June 2, with each night's performance at 8 p.m.

An added attraction at the rodeo will be a Pony Express race for the best "two out of three" between Seagraves Rough Riders and the team representing the Gaines County Sheriff's Posse. The event is scheduled for each night of the rodeo.

Another special attraction is a registered Quarter Horse to be awarded the final night of the rodeo. The yearling's name is Red Roan, from the Jack Saunders ranch.

The regular rodeo events will be calf roping, bull riding, bareback and saddle bronc riding, team facing, girls' barrel racing and one go-round of junior ribbon roping for 16-year-olds and under.

There will be a dance at the skating rink each night with music by Dale Wilson and his Western All-Stars of Hobbs, N. M.

The rodeo office is to open May 23, but entries may be made now by telephoning or writing the secretary, Shirley Williams at 546-2870, care of Gaines County Rodeo Association.

'Open End' spinning holds promise for more usage High Plains cottons

Processing of raw fiber into yarn by the relatively new "open end" spinning process holds distinct possibilities for increased usage of High Plains cotton, according to Ray Joe Riley of Hart, president of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock.

Laboratory studies and commercial experience have shown, first, that the open end system is best adapted to the formation of the coarser yarns for which shorter, lower micronaire cottons are suited, and second that short staple, low micronaire cottons cause far less problem on open end spinning

Jim, Tim Prather in roping contest

PERRYTON — Twenty-two of the nation's top ropers, including Jim Prather of Post and Tim Prather of Snyder, will be in Perryton on May 19-20 for the annual Steer and Calf Roping contest sponsored by the sports committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Roping is scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday, May 19, and for Sunday afternoon, May 20.

Each roper will tie down two steers and two calves each day. The champion roper will be the contestant with the best average on eight head.

The field of 22 contestants is headed by Phil Lyne of Three Rivers, Tex.

Cotton burs may be turned into dollars

LUBBOCK — The disposal of cotton burs from gins on the High Plains of Texas, where from 1 1/2 to 2 million bales of cotton are ginned annually, was once a major problem. But, with the advent of large scale livestock feeding the burs were recognized as a valuable by-product, rather than a nuisance and disposal problem.

Cotton burs are becoming increasingly popular not only as the roughage complement for feedlot animals but as a supplement for range and pasture stock. Moreover, the demand for bur feed is growing.

Realizing the potential for selling burs to the livestock industry, the Acuff Cooperative Gin, located six miles east of Lubbock, constructed a $140,000 bur pelleting facility in 1970. This is believed to be the first such plant built in the Cotton Belt.

The pellets are sold for $24 per ton at the plant, which, upon request, can have molasses or other liquid supplement incorporated into them.

Charlie Hunter, manager of the Acuff Cooperative Gin, says "We could easily sell three or four times the quantity of bur pellets we'll be able to produce this season. Trucks are on the road all the time now hauling burs from the plant at Acuff to feedlots and feed mills in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas."

"One feedyard came to us recently wanting to contract for 10,000 pounds of bur pellets every day for a year, but we didn't have that many left to sell."

The Acuff plant guarantees its burs to have 7 1/2 per cent protein and the average is well above that, Hunter says, with the protein content of some burs running as high as 12 per cent.

Cattlemen like the burs. One Lubbock feedlot operator commented, "We've not used any other roughage in our rations since we started on gin trash and we plan to continue this practice."

The rapid expansion of the cattle feeding industry on the High Plains, which has developed into one of the nation's leading beef producing areas within the last decade or so, has created a shortage in roughage feeds. Although burs move into the same feed outlets as cotton seed hulls, the traditional roughage of this area, the High Plains is still classified as a roughage-deficient area.

In the past, ginners have spent large amounts of money in building incinerators for burning the burs and in hauling them back to the farm to be spread on the land as a conservation mulch. Restrictions on the burning of burs, enforced by the Texas Air Control Board, fears of getting noxious weed seeds or plant diseases in gin trash and contaminating clean land; and reductions in federal cost-share assistance on the application of burs as a conservation practice, has compounded the bur disposal problem.

Charlie Hunter sees the pelleting of burs for livestock as a service to the feedlot industry, the solution to the bur disposal problem, and an opportunity for gins to realize additional profits.

Trousers are top market for cotton

Manufacturers of men's and boys' trousers were the biggest customers for cotton in 1971. This information came to light in a report recently issued by the National Cotton Council, showing major end uses for the natural fiber. The report shows that 797,000 bales of cotton were used in trouser production.

Sheets and pillowcases were second, consuming 603,000 bales. Rounding out the top ten end-uses for cotton were: towels and toweling, draperies and upholstery, men's and boys' shirts, men's and boys' underwear, retail piece goods, bedspreads, women's slacks and jeans, and automobile uses.

COTTONSEED OIL USE

The use of cottonseed oil in margarine increased from 59.5 million pounds in 1971 to 66.1 million pounds in 1972, reports the National Cotton Council.

frames than in the conventional ring spinning process.

There is also evidence that yarns produced from low micronaire cottons on the open end system actually have greater strength and better uniformity than like yarns from the same system using higher micronaire cottons. These results came from a study supervised by the Textile Research Center at Texas Tech University in a North Carolina pilot plant.

By the end of this year the Tech Center expects to have its own open end spinning frame in operation to conduct additional research.

There now are only about 15,000 open end spindles in the United States, an infinitesimal percentage of this country's 19 million spindle total. "But more and more mills have plans to move a portion of their operations from ring spinning to open end spinning," Riley says, "and as the movement accelerates there can be significant benefits for High Plains cotton and cotton farmers."

The open end system has a number of advantages in the production of coarser count yarns. Labor requirements are less than half of requirements for ring spinning. Lower quality, less costly raw materials can be used at production rates three to three-and-a-half times that of ring spinning. Dust and noise levels are far below ring spinning. Elongation and evenness are higher than in ring-spun yarn and there are fewer neps and other imperfections.

It is generally believed that open end yarns are from 10 to 20 percent weaker than their ring spun counterparts. And this is true when cotton in the 3.5 to 4.9 "normal" micronaire range is used. But preliminary tests recently have indicated that yarn made on the open end system from low micronaire cotton, in the 2.8 to 3.2 readings, is just as strong as that spun in the conventional manner.

Another criticism of open end spinning has been that the greater twist requirement causes fabrics to feel harsher and stiffer. And this, too, Riley says can be at least partially overcome by the use of low micronaire cottons.

Riley and other cotton officials on the Plains believe the economic advantages of open end spinning

Cotton fibers can aid clean-up of oil spills

Cotton fibers promise to help solve the problem of oil spill clean-ups, reports the National Cotton Council.

Extensive research at Texas Tech University has shown that cotton fibers will absorb up to 50 times their weight in crude oil.

This is ten times more efficient than straw, the most commonly used material for helping clean up oil spills.

can be maximized by a mill located on the High Plains near the source of the raw material best suited to the system, and point out there is more than a little interest in establishing a plant in the Lubbock area.

"And at PCG we are gearing up to cooperate fully with the Textile Research Center at Tech, machinery manufacturers and commercial companies to encourage that interest," Riley says.

Summer jobs for students sought

A summer employment effort has been set up here by the Women's Division of the Post Chamber of Commerce to enable local folks who need service workers to make contacts via employment files kept in the Chamber office here.

Mrs. Kay Lamb, Chamber secretary, is chairman of the summer employment committee which also consists of Betty Posey, Sharon Beaton, and Dana Feaster.

Applications are now being prepared to hand out to high school and junior high students who would like summer employment. These applications will be quite detailed and will require signature of a parent or guardian.

Type of work sought and wages wanted also will be information which will be included on the form.

A job list, containing names, age, address, and phone number of students, will be made available to the public, but more detailed information also will be available at the Chamber office on the various applicants.

Stephen Myers wins Tahoka bull riding

Stephen Myers, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Myers, was the only bull rider to qualify in that event in the Tahoka Junior Rodeo last Friday and Saturday.

Stephen, competing in the 15 and under division, won a check and a belt buckle for his qualifying bull ride.

Other Post youngsters competing in the rodeo included Jan Hall, Freddie Huff, Jimmy Dorland, Tom Thomas and Cliff Kirkpatrick.

formation also will be available at the Chamber office on the various applicants.

If further student references are sought, Supt. Bill Shiver suggests Lane Tannehill, school counselor, or the school principals. James Pollard or Billy Hahn, also could be contacted.

Postings—

(Continued From Front Page) You'll note on page 3, that the First National Bank wants to honor Garza County's oldest mother this Mother's Day with a suitable gift, so if you have a nomination for the honor call the information to the bank by 3 p.m. Friday.

Bryan J. Williams called Tuesday afternoon to add something to his ad. We told him he was too late. It was on the press in the "Tuesday run" and what did he want to add anyway to the ad?

Bryan explained patiently that May 10 is Garza County's "planting date" for cotton and he wanted to predict a rain by the time The Dispatch came out Thursday.

We always forget to see him in time to get it in the paper a week ahead each year, but Bryan is a "rain predictor" around that cotton planting date of May 10 year after year.

Of course we told him we would put it in the column since we couldn't put it in his ad, but if it hadn't rained by Thursday morning we were going to keep the item in the column and let him take the consequences.

Bryan J., like almost everybody else, is "agin" daylight savings time. But he is really "agin it"—so "agin it" in fact he refused to move his watch forward an hour when the change came on that last April Sunday. Until October, his watch will continue to record standard time only. His is his annual "protest" against daylight savings time.

Abby, the springer spaniel pup, is our pup no longer. We gave her to Rex Cash last weekend—pleasing not only that sixth grader who has had "eyes for Abby" for a long time, but Abby too. We're sure we were awarded "visiting rights." We think a boy should have a dog, and a dog should have a boy, so we were a matchmaker.

Johnny and Billie Lou Robison are the new proprietors of the D. C. Hill Butane Co., Inc., as you will note on page 7 of today's Dispatch. Postings welcomes the Robisons to the Post family of merchants and expects to have another business announcement from Billy Hill for next week's Dispatch.

City council—

The council accepted the bids of Harold Lucas Chevrolet-Olds for the purchase of a new pickup for the water department and a new police patrol car.

Two bids were submitted on each vehicle, with Lucas' bid the lowest in both instances. His bid on the half-ton pickup was $2,250, including trade-in of the city's old pickup, and on the police car it was $2,395, including trade-in of the old car. Optional equipment would cost an additional $503.

Mayor McCrary asked the council to meet with the county commissioners' court Monday afternoon, at which time an engineer will be present to discuss the new statewide law enforcement communications system in which the county and city will share. The mayor said the commissioners will also open bids at that time on employment of a consultant for consolidation of the sheriff and police departments.

The council authorized Pete Maddox, superintendent of public works, to confer with City Attorney Pat N. Walker on an ordinance for restrictions on location of trailer houses being moved in, and also on taxation procedures for trailer houses.

Speaker tells of trip to Lebanon

Mrs. M. J. Malouf was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Graham Home Demonstration Club recently in the center. Mrs. Malouf gave an account of her trip to her homeland and showed pictures of Beirut, Lebanon.

Roll call was answered with "Number of Books I Have Read From the THDA Reading List". Mrs. Lucille Bush, council delegate, gave the council report.

Mrs. Jewel Parrish, hostess, served refreshments to 12 members and guests.

The next meeting will be May 18 and will include a tour of the Gail and Snyder museums.

Baskets, brushes are demonstrated

The Grassland Hobby Club met Tuesday with Mrs. Johnnie Francis, president, presiding. The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. E. M. Walker.

Hostesses were Mrs. Faye Ramsey and Mrs. Gaither, who also had charge of the program. Mrs. Ramsey demonstrated hanging baskets for the patio or yard and hand made brushes of nylon net and plastic.

Mrs. Francis and Mrs. Walker won first place in a word game participated in by the group. Mrs. Francis also won the door prize.

A special meeting was planned for May 15 at 8:30 p.m. to plan for an official community organization. All Grassland people are asked to attend.

Making flowers from cans will be shown

Mrs. Lois Fluit, chairman of the Home Demonstration Council, called the May 2 meeting to order. The meeting was held at 2:30 p.m. in the Reddy Room.

A demonstration on making flowers from beer cans will be held June 1 in the Reddy Room at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Neoma Berry, mother of Mrs. Beth Short and Mrs. Gracie Mae Short, mother of Silas Short of Hale Center, will be in charge of the program.

Roll call was answered by Mrs. Viva Davis, Della Davis, Oreta Bevers, Selma Loveless, Shirley Bland, Lois Peel, Rene Fluit, Lucille Bush and Lois Fluit.

The next council meeting will be June 6 at 2:30 p.m. in the Reddy Room.

Winners, runners-up named in tot events

Scotty Cinesmith and Judy Tanner won the "Little Mr. and Miss Post" titles and Lex Dunn and Lisa Brown the "Mini" Mr. and Miss Post titles in the annual contest sponsored by the Mu Alpha chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority Saturday night in the primary school auditorium.

Bobby Redman and Kimberly Britton were runners-up in the "Little Mr. and Miss Post" contest, and Jon Germer and Charmaine Olive in the "Mini" contest.

Last year's contest winners, Jay Claborn, Myrna Jolly, Arthur Strublin and Stacy Kendrick, presented the trophies to this year's winners.

Special message on Mother's Day

The observance of Mother's Day this Sunday at the First Christian Church will be highlighted at the 11 a.m. worship with a special message by the minister entitled, "A Little Baby Thing That Made a Woman Cry" (from first stanza of George MacDonald's poem "That Holy Thing"). The Lord's Supper also will be observed.

The usual 7 p.m. home fellowship will not be held Sunday, to enable families to be together on Mother's Day.

Of importance to the church family, the official board will meet on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock following a brief devotional by the minister.

"Everyone is cordially invited to attend our services," said the minister, Bernard S. Ramsey.

Accident victim leaves hospital

Stanley Wayne Abshire, 21, of Southland, was taken to his home Wednesday morning from Lubbock's Methodist Hospital where he had been since suffering head injuries and other injuries in a collision about 2:45 a.m. Saturday 1.8 miles southeast of Lubbock on U. S. Hwy. 84.

A Lubbock County sheriff's deputy, Randy Holley, 24, of Shallowater, was killed in the accident, which occurred when his pickup and an automobile driven by Abshire apparently collided head-on. Abshire is still confined to his bed from the injuries he received in the accident. The Dispatch learned yesterday.

Babe Ruth League will open 1973 season Tuesday night

The 1973 Babe Ruth League season will open Tuesday evening, May 15, with the Indians playing the White Sox and the defending champion Braves playing the Cubs, according to A. J. Howell, league president. Howell also announced that the league will have five teams this season with the entry of a team from Southland.

Games the first week will be on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights, after which the league will "roll down" until after examinations week at the schools.

After the season is resumed, games will be played on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights, with the first game starting at 6 o'clock and with a two-hour time limit.

The league president said he is getting lots of volunteer help in getting the field in shape for this season's play.

Following are rosters of the four club teams. The Southland roster is not available at The Dispatch's sports page press time.

1,450 horses are okayed for stable space at Ruidoso

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N. M.—Over 2,300 stall applications—far more than usual—have been processed by Racing Sect. Tom Dawson at Ruidoso Downs. Dawson has been busy in recent days lining up horseflesh for the 1973 racing season in the high country. The 64-day campaign kicks off on Sun., May 19, and extends through Labor Day.

With such heavy demand on stall space, Dawson had his work cut out for him as he gave the green light to 1,450 head. "So far as the quality of horses are concerned, the situation is excellent," Dawson said. "The quarter horses will be better than ever, and we look for another improvement in our thoroughbred program."

Dawson speculates the reason for the big inflow of stall applications is the result of the boosted purses. "The first condition book, which covers nine race days, represents a daily purse improvement of $1,600 over last year," he pointed out. "This purse hike has been directed mainly into the better claiming and allowance races and does not include stakes events."

Tahoka runner is first at Austin

Phil McClendon, Tahoka High School's versatile athlete, won the 880-yard run in 1:55.6 at the state track and field meet in Austin last Friday.

McClendon, who will attend Baylor University on a track scholarship, was the only District 5AA representative to win a first place in the state meet.

Clifford Laws of Tahoka won second place in the shot put with a throw of 54.4. Frenship's Domingo Martinez came in third in the mile in 4:25.5, and John Blackwell of Roosevelt placed fourth in the 220 and sixth in the long jump. Hamlin won the meet with a total of 60 points, four ahead of second place Elgin.

Golf tourney is set for Sunday

A best-ball partnership tournament—two to a team—is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, May 13, at the Caprock Golf Course.

Golfers are asked to gather at the clubhouse at 1 p.m. to draw for partners. The tournament, which is to be played in foursomes, is scheduled for a 1:30 p.m. start, according to Durward Bartlett, golf course manager.

END OF TRAIL FOR ANOTHER BUFFALO
Rancher Riley Miller looks in the trailer at John Connally, a buffalo he had just sold off his ranch near Justiceburg to Jackson Bros. Food Locker here. Miller said the buffalo was getting so "old and ornery" he just had to get rid of him.

This 'John Connally' went to slaughter pen

Two John Connallys made a switch last week. One, a Texas statesman and ex-governor, switched from the Democratic to the Republican party. The other John Connally, a 1,600-pound buffalo, didn't fare as well. He was switched from the Riley Miller Ranch near Justiceburg to the Jackson Bros. Food Locker slaughter pens.

This week the John Connally from the Miller Ranch is being sold by the Jackson brothers, Jim and Bo, as "buffalo burgers and patties."

"I sort of hated to let old John go, but he was getting older and meaner all the time," Miller said. "He was running up my veterinarian's bill by tearing up the corrals out at the ranch."

McCoy resigns as ACC track coach

ABILENE — Don Smith, who guided Abilene Cooper High School to the state AAAA track championship in 1964, has been named the head track coach at Abilene Christian College, replacing Burl McCoy, who was a member of the Post coaching staff in the late 1950's.

The appointment, effective at the end of the current track season, was announced by ACC athletic director Wally Bullington.

McCoy had served two seasons as head track coach after having served as an assistant from 1964 through 1971. He resigned the head track coach position to become a member of the ACC Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation staff.

The United States is a marvelous country—every state has the best climate.

Miller bought the buffalo at Justiceburg from Hackberry Slim, who, at 85, is believed to be one of the oldest rodeo performers still alive. He has been in the "buffalo business," as he calls it, for over 50 years.

Miller said the buffalo John Connally had been used in Indian ceremonies at Gallup, N. M., Window Rock, Ariz., and other places.

Miller has other buffalo on his ranch, but none as ancient or as ornery as old John was. He said there have been a lot of people drive out to his ranch just to look at his buffalo and also at a couple of Afrikander cattle he has had there for about two months. The Afrikander, a comparative newcomer to this country, is red, something like a Semintal, and has long, straight horns.

Miller said the age of the buffalo he sold the locker plant here doesn't necessarily mean the burgers or patties the meat packers make from him will be tough.

And the Jackson brothers said this week they're getting "lots of orders" from customers wanting some of the buffalo meat.

WTC scholarships to Odessa golfers

SNYDER — Two Odessa Permian High School golfers—Kyle Howard and Ronnie Wilson—have been awarded full golf scholarships at Western Texas College for the 1973-74 year.

In making the announcement of the signing of the duo, Western Texas College golf coach Bob O'Day had praise for both of the young linksters.

"Kyle is one of the best college prospects in West Texas. He has a good golf swing and is very dedicated to the game of golf. He played in one of the best high school districts in Texas and finished high in the standings. He is a fine young man and good student and should help the golf program at Western Texas College."

As for young Wilson, O'Day commented, "I think Ronnie is a sleeper. He has had only two years of competition, but he has a good record during these two years. He should make a good college player if he continues to work hard at the game. He has not reached his peak and should help us at Western Texas College."

Groundbreaking ceremony is held for new Graham Methodist Church

Members of the Graham Methodist Church which burned Jan. 7, met Sunday for a groundbreaking ceremony for their new church building, with Dr. Marvin Boyd of Lubbock, district superintendent, in charge of the ceremony and the Rev. Joseph Yates, pastor, assisting.

Due to the weather, the main ceremony was held in the Graham community center, but the approximately 35 persons attending braved the sand and wind to make pictures.

The first spadeful of dirt was turned by Mrs. Mae Gossett, the oldest member of the church. Also taking part were Mrs. Glenda Stevens, daughter of the late Alfred D. Oden Sr., who helped build the church that burned; Also three generations of Fluitts—Mrs. Carl Fluitt, Delwin Fluitt and Belinda Fluitt; Lewis Mason, son of the late Grover Mason; Mack Terry, chairman of the board; Dr. Boyd and the Rev. M. Yates. Refreshments were served after the ceremony.

Construction of the new church began this week.

THE IN-BETWEENERS
 Middle childhood—the years between six and twelve—is an exciting stage because a child faces challenging growth responsibilities (or developmental tasks) during this time.

One such task is achieving an appropriate pattern of dependence and independence. In middle childhood, this means changing from primary identification with adults to increased identification and concern with age-mates. Although necessary, this part of growing up often causes parental concern and worry.

Forming friendships with age-mates helps a child develop the ability to give and take in a relationship. It is important to belong to groups such as 4-H clubs, because in these groups the child establishes feelings of acceptance, belonging and "being a part of the group."

Also during this stage—called the Industry Stage in Erik Erikson's Man—the child is developing a strong conscience. He learns various "rules" daily. These rules and his experiences affect a child's developing sense of morality and conscience.

It's important that adults and youth leaders provide acceptable examples of thought and action—children are quite aware of adults in their lives.

Other growth responsibilities include learning to communicate, understanding the physical world and developing conceptual abilities. School experiences assist with these responsibilities.

Middle childhood is a time when the child begins understanding cause-and-effect relationships—and learns reflective thinking.

In addition, he acquires fundamental knowledge and technological skills.

Parents provide assistance by showing interest in the child's concerns—and by answering his questions as completely and factually as possible. When they don't know the answer, parents can help the child learn to look for it.

It's appropriate for parents to say "I don't know" if that's the case. This insight into adulthood—that adults don't know everything, that everyone continues to learn and that it's all right to admit not knowing everything—is important to growing, inquisitive boys and girls.

Since children this age are rather self sufficient, many parents tend to be uninvolved in their day-to-day lives. Their child now can dress himself, make sandwich snacks and settle his own quarrels. He doesn't need the constant care and supervision he needed as a baby and preschooler—though he's not yet involved with adolescent activities.

However, he especially needs reassurance that he is important to his family and that his behavior is acceptable.

Approval and acceptance during this phase of growing up paves the way to continued communication and cooperation during adolescent years.

Most spiders produce about a hundred eggs at a time but some lay from one to as many as a thousand.

Phillys' Phrases
 By PHILLYS ECKOLS

The only thing that I can say about life at PHS is—BUSY. It seems like nothing happened for about two months and now, May has to make up for it. The last few weeks are always a funny time of the year. Everyone suddenly becomes very concerned about their grades (after being so UNCONCERNED for the past eight months). PHS is suddenly filled with numerous dedicated students.

To add to the restlessness of getting out of school is the excitement over the Junior-Senior Banquet which is Saturday. The banquet will begin at 7:30.

After trying on my swim suit for the second time this year (and looking twice as bad as I did the first time I put it on), I have decided that my feasting while I watch television has got to go. It's kind of like Mary Waldrip said in the Advertiser and News magazine. "Television has opened many doors—mostly on refrigerators." With all of the food commercials on TV now it's impossible to watch it empty handed (or perhaps I should say—empty mouthed.)

I have decided that we West Texans are lucky to live in such an unusual place. This has to be the only place in the world where you can walk outside in a sand storm and at the very same time be up to your ankles in mud. I'm wondering where all of this sand is coming from—especially since all it ever does is rain.

The speech class had the voting for the "model election" for the pretense president of PHS. Those running were Jennifer Miller, Jay Kennedy, Kim Hester, and Sammy Gutierrez (Sammy won the election.)

The other day I began thinking about what the best thing about being out of school would be, and I decided that it had to be—being able to watch the soap operas again. I wish they had re-runs so that I could catch up on lost time. Of course, I'm sure that they've probably already created 10 new problems, at least five divorces and had three marriages, since I watched them last (which was only one month ago). One thing about it—things move rapidly!

National Finals Steer Roping to be held Sept. 8-9 in Laramie, Wyo.

DENVER, Colo.—Laramie, Wyo., will host the 1973 National Finals Steer Roping Sept. 8-9, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said.

The contest will pit the season's top 16 steer ropers against each other in eight go-rounds of competition, four go-rounds each day. Prize money will total $12,000.

Up to now, only the top 15 have made it to the finals. The extra man will be allowed to compete this year in order to accommodate para-mutuel betting, which is legal in Wyoming.

A group of men, Finals, Inc., are responsible for bringing the contest to the Cowboy State. Pete Burns, Laramie; Jim Rausch, Douglas; Hyde Merritt and John Morris, both of Cheyenne, negotiated a three-year contract for the finals with the Association's board of directors.

The contract includes an option for an additional two seasons in hosting the first leg of "rodeo's world series." The regular National Finals Rodeo, which concludes events and team roping, is set for Dec. 3-9 in Oklahoma City, Okla. Prize money there will total $12,000, an all-time high.

Eight Association-sanctioned steer ropings will be held prior to the finals. One more contest, immediately following the finals, will be held at the annual Pendleton, Ore. round up rodeo. Championship points earned there will count towards the 1974 season.

In recent years, the steer roping finals were held in Texas and Oklahoma.

Mrs. Paul Hedrick has surgery after wreck

By MRS. GLENN DAVIS
 Mrs. Ray McClellan visited in Levelland Monday with Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Ferguson and family.
 Mr. and Mrs. Pete Pierce and family of Lubbock spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Stone.
 Mr. and Mrs. Mason McClellan and daughters and Mrs. Willie Mason were Sunday luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McClellan.
 Mrs. E. E. Peel has been visiting her sister Mrs. Paul Hedrick most every day in Methodist Hospital. Mrs. Hedrick has had back surgery after having been injured in a car wreck. She hasn't been doing very well. We are hoping she will soon be much improved.

 Donald Gossett visited Sunday evening with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gossett.
 Jake Sparlin drove to Odessa Sunday morning after Mrs. Sparlin their daughter and family Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hewitt and son's, Mrs. Hewitt was in a hospital one week with an eye ailment. We wish for her a complete recovery soon.
 Mr. and Mrs. Quannah Maxey, Mr. and Mrs. Noel White, Steve and Keitha, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Peel, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Peel, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cowdrey, Mrs. Pearl Wallace and Mrs. Viva Davis attended services in Wellman Church of Christ Sunday evening. The group visited the Homer Jones family after church.
 Mimes, Rene Fluitt, Louise Robinson, Pearl Wallace Jewel Parrish, Viva Davis, some of the Graham HD Club members visited the nursing home May 7. Some of the group visited Mrs. Bertha Hill.
 Mrs. Don Brown and daughter Debra of El Paso, are visiting here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McMahon, and sister, Mrs. Bob Foote and daughter who are also visitors.
 Evening visitors in the Ray McClellan home last week were Mr. and Mrs. Quannah Maxey and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fluitt.
 The Methodist Church people have started on the new church building to replace the building that burned some time back. They had ground breaking last Sunday. The sand blew, the wind was so strong it was hard to stay on the ground.
 Saturday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fluitt were Mr. and Mrs. Orvan McKinney of Gonzales, and Mr. and Mrs. Quinney and family of Lubbock.
 Mrs. Virgil Bilbo visited one afternoon last week with Mrs. Elmer Cowdrey and Brenda King.
 Curt Cowdrey is improving slowly.
 Sorry no more news. The farmers are all too busy doing their farm work.

Family reunion is held for visitor
 The family of Mrs. Russell Wilks Jr. met in the Wilks home Sunday for a family reunion in honor of her brother, Oran Campbell of San Margerita, Calif.
 Campbell is a former resident of Garza County, having lived here from 1936 to 1941, but this was his first visit to Texas in 15 years.
 Family members and visitors included: Mr. and Mrs. Ike Simmons, Spur; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Simmons, Larry and Gary, Jal, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Alton Estep and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Estep, Jace and Syd, all of Lorenzo; Mrs. Della Hagins, Levelland; Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Jackson, David, Kathy, Susie and John, Abilene;
 Also Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Donnell, Terresa, Lesley, Clay and Brent, Levelland; Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Hagins, Nickie and Jeffrey Dean, Denver City; Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Hart, Rusty and Dusty, Lubbock; Ben F. Wilks, Great Bend, Kans.; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Bartlett and Mike, and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hart and Tara, all of Post.

Odds of 4,000 to 3 are big

How'd you like to be up against odds of 4,000 to 3?
 If your sporting instincts draw back in the face of such odds, the National Cotton Council says you might be interested to know that five per cent of the U. S. population runs these risks willingly every year in producing food and fiber to meet the needs of the other 95 per cent.
 According to scientists, these are the kind of odds a farmer faces just from weeds alone when he plants a crop.
 Take soybeans, for example. At normal planting populations, it's estimated that three soybean seeds could be battling as many as 4,000 weed seeds for the same nutrients and moisture.
 Weeds are among the most expensive pests faced by farmers. In a recent year, they cost farmers over $5 billion in terms of yields, crop quality, and control steps.
 Chemical herbicides, crop rotations, and narrow-row planting practices are some of the methods currently being used to combat weeds in cotton. Scientists also are looking at new possibilities like micro-wave and lasers for more effective and less expensive weed control.

Lunchroom Menu

Post schools lunchroom menus for the coming week are as follows:
 Monday: Pit chopped barbecued beef on bun, buttered corn, pinto beans, fruit cocktail, half pint milk.
 Tuesday: Green enchilada casserole, buttered broccoli, whipped potatoes, jello with fruit, biscuits, half pint milk.
 Wednesday: Hot dogs, pinto beans slaw, cherry cobbler, half pint milk.
 Thursday: Fried chicken and gravy, green beans, mixed greens, no bake cookies, hot rolls, half pint milk.
 Friday: Fish sticks, lettuce salad, blackeyed peas, sweet rolls, half pint milk.

GRAZING BERMUDA

The more Coastal bermudagrass is grazed, the better it performs, says an agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Coastal bermuda has a high yield potential so it requires adequate fertilization and close grazing. The quality of the grass declines after it reaches a height of about six inches. It can provide enough forage to support two to three cows per acre during certain seasons. Cross fencing will allow more efficient utilization.

Bishops attend family reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bishop and Tony of Wilson attended a family reunion in Nocona May 6 with her mother, Mrs. Bessie Howard, and four brothers and families.
 They were: Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Howard and daughter, Michelle, of Silver Spring, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Howard and daughter, Joyce, of Bowie; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Howard and daughter, Shirley, of Grants, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Ger-old Howard and daughter, Sheryl, and son, Jason, of Lexington, Okla.; also an aunt, Mrs. Effie Bowling and husband and daughter from Oklahoma City.
