We're a tennis fan from 'way back and are glad to see interest being built up in the sport here, largely through the efforts of such persons as Rosemary Chapman, Syd B. Wyatt, Coach Joe Giddens, Mrs. Pat Thompson of the high school faculty, and Bob Macy.

Training for future jobs

In the next ten years, the rate of demand for technically-trained workers is expected to be twice that of all other workers.

If community colleges, such as the new Western Texas College at Snyder, for instance, can meet this challenge by providing comprehensive occupational education programs to meet the technical demands of the job market, then employers may turn increasingly to graduates of two-year community colleges for much of their manpower.

Even though community college enrollments have more than quadrupled (from 600,000 to three million) and may reach six million by 1980, growth alone does not guarantee quality or effectiveness.

Many occupational educators feel that too much emphasis is placed on academic degrees of instructors, pupil-teacher ratios, physical facilities, classrooms, libraries, etc., rather than on the ability of the teachers and performance of the students.

The best way to assure that community college training of students will be adequate to meet job requirements is to include representatives from specialized occupational groups in the program evaluation process when granting accreditation to community colleges. In this way their expertise on the job can be used to help establish criteria and procedures that assure the training provided will be the best possible for the student and his future occupational opportunities.

Rates go up, service down

About the same time The Dispatch received a news release on postal rates on certain types of mail being raised effective July 6, it received a release from the office of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen on the results of an investigation of mail service in Texas by the General Accounting Office, which the Senator requested last fall.

Senator Bentsen writes that the GAO report confirmed that mail service in Texas has deteriorated, and that is not surprising. But the GAO probe also outlines the problem in factual, statistical terms, lists reasons for the deterioration and recommends changes to improve service.

We do not have the space to go into the GAO's summarized report, but it did reveal that the Postal Service falls far short of its promises on both the delivery of mail within Texas and on mail into and out of the state.

Probable causes for the deteriorating service include the amount of mail, which has increased far more than expected by the Postal Service. and a budget which is too inflexible to respond to the upsurge.

In addition, the morale of our postal workers is low for a number of reasons, including extensive, mandatory overtime caused by reductions in the number of employes. In three Texas postal centers last October, overtime was up by almost 50 per cent.

Another problem the GAO pinpointed is tha too much mail is processed in large urban centers rather than in smaller post offices down the line. A result of this is increased reliance on mechanization which has led to a higher rate of

On the bright side, the General Accounting Office reported that the problems seem to have reached their worst point. The Postal Service now admits it has problems and should begin to make gradual improvements.

PUBLIC IS CORDIALLY INVITED

I USED TO be a Boy Scout-years ago, of course Things were much different then when it came to camping out, but just how much different didn't realize until a couple of Saturdays ago while standing around in Ticer's Grocery when a troop of Boy Scouts and their leaders came in en route to a week's encampment at Camp Post.

-0-Within about 15 Mercreit Grat troop of Scouts and their leaders had stocked up on such things as ice cream bars, candy bars, corn chips, potato chips, cold drinks, etc., to take on out to camp with them. Knowing what wholesome meals they serve in the Camp Post dining hall, I was amazed at the 'snacks" the Scouts bought to take out there with them.

I'M NOT BEING critical, because the Boy Scout motto is "Be Prepared" and they might have been stocking up on provisions just in case the dining hall service broke down.

-0-But, looking back to the days when I was a Boy Scout, I doubt if we'd been allowed to take such "extras" with us on a camping trip-even if we'd had a place to buy them then. When we went camping, we took slab bacon, something to slice it with, eggs and a frying pan. That was it. -0-

THE TWO OR three days or sometimes even a week that we were on our camping trip, we were completely cut off from civilization. There might have been such things then as portable battery radios, but we never took one with us, and it was years afterwards before the transistor was invented.

I'm pretty sure our Scoutmaster always left word with our parents about where we were going to make camp, but I don't recall any of our parents ever coming up to see about us. It might have been that they put all their trust in the Scoutmaster, but it's more likely that they didn't care enough about us to hike nine or ten miles up into the Winding Stair or Kiamichi mountains to check on us.

AND, AS FAR as I know, none of us even knew what a snake bite kit was. As Boy Scouts, we were supposed to have sense enough to stay out of the way of the diamond-back rattlers and copperheads when we hiked up into the mountains. then, too, we always figured that the snakes, along with the tarantulas, centipedes and other varmints, went into seclusion when they heard us

I'm sure Scouting is vastly improved over what it was then, since no one in my troop ever made Eagle Scout. None of us stayed tenderfeet long, but rarely did we go beyond second and first class rank. Until a couple of years ago, I never picked up a copy of the Boy Scout Handbook that I didn't leaf through it and relive those "good old days." But they tell me that even the Boy Scout Handbook has been changed in the last year or two, so for all I know, the new version might even encourage the Scouts to take ice cream bars, candy bars, corn chips, potato chips, cold drinks, etc., with them when they go camping.

THE MAN UP the street says what this world really needs is a washing machine that will sew the buttons back on.

Have you heard the one about the traveling salesman whose car bogged down on a country road? A farmer passed by on a tractor and offered to pull him out for fifty dollars. The salesman tried to dicker, but the yokel stuck to his price. There being no other way out of his difficulty, the traveler grudgingly accepted. While paying off his overpriced deliverer, the salesman remarked, "Yoy're in the wrong racket. You should stop farming and pull cars out of the mud 24 hours a day." The farmer replied, "I'd like to, but it's not possible. Every once in a while I have to knock off and water

One Nation . . . Under God

By Bob Stice

How often, in the course of a week, is that phrase, "one nation under God", recited and pledged by Americans throughout the world! Before Independence Day, 1973, has passed, millions of us will have pledged our allegiance to "one nation under God" and will have sung such noble phrases as "God Bless America" and "God shed His grace on thee." One cannot help but wonder at times if we realize the importance of what we are pledging and singing.

Certainly not every colonial soldier who fought and died in 1776 was mindful of religion or of the blessing of God. But they were fighting and dying for the cause of freedom, and that freedom included the right of individuals and the right of a nation to worship God and to be under His divine guidance.

History attests without question to the fact that God has blessed America, time and time again, year after year, through rich seasons and poor ones, through wars and through times of peace. Let us not overlook, however, that history also reveals the plight of other peoples other nations, blessed in their own time as much America, who turned away from God and worshipped and success. God has in the past blessed nations h has yet to bless a people indefinitely when they have their faith in Him. It is dangerously naive to beleet God will just keep on blessing us and guiding us f continue to push Him aside and worship at our shin wealth and prosperity and self-sufficiency.

Could we not take time this Fourth of July addition to all the celebrations and fireworks barbecued chickens, to think a moment or two about God who has provided us a country so great? Our hope for remaining "one nation" is to become in its nation honestly under God and His leadership Fa 33:12 states. "Blessed is the nation whose God s Lord." He becomes Lord of a nation when he be Lord in the lives of each of its citizens. God bless Am but more than that. God help America that we will the our convictions and in our actions, "one nator i

Thomas admitted that be didn't know how much this affected the price of beef for the

"But take away that 335 million pounds of beef every year and prices would have only one way to go -up," he stressed

In the past 25 years, annual beef consumption has jumped from about 64 pounds per stone to 119 pounds while, our state's population has increased by more than 50 per cent. That adds to a gigantic increase in the demand for beef.

Without improved grasses and better conservation treatment of grassland, this demand would outstrip available sup-

Thomas said 23 grasses released by SCS are being grown in Texas. Each has its own area of adaptability and is used to fill a specific conservation need.

Two grasses account for a major share of the acreage planted. Buffelgrass, released by SCS in 1949, has been planted on 1.8 million acres of land in Texas; increased beef production from this grass averages 74 million pounds annual grasses. Others include erosion control, reduced sediment damage to lakes and streams, fewer dust storms, and more abundant wildlife.

Increased beef production is only one benefit from improved tricts

Strains of plants thought to conservation problem are: grown and evaluated at the SCS plant materials center near Knox City. After careful selection, promising strains are field tested on farms of soil and water conservation district cooperators under a wide variety of conditions. Selections that prove superior to other plants available commercially are then released to seed growers. These producers then grow seed and sell it to the public

Mr. and Mrs. Georgie Willson and Mrs. Ann Tubbs have been named chairmen of the Breath of Life Campaign to fight children's lung diseases, according to Frank Scott, president of the North Texas Chapter, National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

They will lead local volun teers in raising funds to support research and care programs for children affected by lungdamaging diseases like cystic fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis, and condition called "childhood emphysema.

The campaign begins July 23, with a house-to-house appeal scheduled for that evening, 7 to 9 o'clock

Cystic fibrosis, an incurable genetic disease, is inherited when both parents carry the recessive gene for C-F. It is believed that one in 20 persons or 10 million Americans may carry the C-F gene, usually without knowing it. Current research funded by the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation is seeking a practical test to identify these

Because of improved therapy and constant research, many C-F patients are living beyond young adulthood. That same kind of therapy is relieving and often curing children suffering from other respiratory afflica-tions whose symptoms resemble those of C-F "Most people don't realize that there are six million children in the U.S. affected by pulmonary illness," said Mrs. Tubbs. "For some of these children, breathing is not the natural function we, who are lucky, take for granted." The Breath of Life Campaign

PARENTAL ADVICE-

HOW TO TO TAKE IT Young parents barraged with advice from their parents sometimes find it a problem

Parents and in-laws think it a duty to advise their children It's hard for thim to realize their children have grown up-they still view each one as the "little child" and feel a need to speak up when the young parent isn't doing something "right." To keep peace in the family young parents can listen politely to older people, explain that they appreciate the advice and assure parents they will consider it as they decide what to do. And it is a good idea to consider advice from older people

They may have lived through situations with their children that have taught them lessons and they wnat to help young parents avoid mistakes.

However, after deliberation, young parents should be strong enough to do what they think

Pioneer National Gas to add 100 miles of lines

LUBBOCK-Pioneer Natural immediately on a construction system, according to an announcement made here by K. Bert (Tex) Watson, company president.

Speaking before a group of business and civic leaders from Lubbock area, Watson said, Upon completion, the total said project will represent an additional investment of more than $11 million. This figure is for gathering lines now under construction or planned for the near future in the Anadarko and Delaware basins.

Watson pointed out that while, "Pioneer continues to enjoy a good position with reference to its gas reserves," the company must continue to seek aggressively new reserves and to improve its system to be able to serve adequately current customers as well as to be able to continue to offer service to new industrial customers throughout its service area. He went on to say With the completion of this construction on our transmission system, we will be able to add about 100 million cubic feet of gas a day to our present deliveries.

Work will start on the first phase of this system-wide project as soon as the materials, which are on order are delivered." Watson said

Briscoe favors state 'action'

Gov. Dolph Briscoe is interested in establishing a Community Action organization in Texas at the state level if the organization is phased out by the federal government, How ard Maddera, executive director of the South Plains Community Action Association. told directors of the eight county agency in Levelland Monday night.

Maddera made his remarks in reviewing the association's three-year work program for new directors from the eight counties who will be organized as the new board in October

The directors voted as a matter of policy not to add additional personnel until the federal status of funds is unravelled and to undertake new projects only with enough community support to indicate continuity with funding sources other than OEO.

Letters to the Editor

······ REP. HEATLY REPORTS

Dear Editor The 63rd Legislature is history and by the way of a report, I am of the opinion that the best thing that this Legislature contributed to Texas is that we did not pass a tax

Our district, which is a rural district of 15 counties, will be vitally interested in a Public School Financing Bill which will gain much momentum in the next two years, and I trust all of you will let me, as well as your Senator, have your feelings regarding it.

The so-called Court Reform Bill almost made destructive inroads into our district, county and justice of peace courts. However, I was successful in eliminating all of that portion of the Constitutional Amendment except that affecting the Court of Criminal Appeals and intermediate Courts of Civil and-or Criminal Appeals. The courts, from the district court on down through Texas, should become vitally interested and assert themselves to their Senators and Representatives prior to the Constitutional Convention which convenes on Jan. 8, 1974.

Our current biennial spending is in excess of nine billion dollars and approximately 48 per cent of this entire amount is for public schools and higher education I mention this to emphasize the magnitude of the money that is being spent on education

The most important piece of legislation that I passed during this session was H.B. 683 which sets up a Rural Medical School Board to handle grants. scholarships and loans to qualified needy boys and girls. who wish to attend medical school, provided they return to a rural area to practice medicine. This bill lacks the Governor's signature, but he

Rogues' Gallery

Arrested on a charge of gamb-ling, Greg was tried and found not guilty. Later he learned that the police were including his pho-tograph in a public "rogues" gallery," open to inspection by victims of crime. Greg hastened back into court, this time as a plaintiff. He demanded that the police remove his picture from the gallery, even though they might still consider him a suspicious character. And the court ordered the po lice to do just that. Citing Greg's right of privacy, the court said: "A visitor (to the gallery) might conclude that all the pictures were of criminals. This is not a pleasant thought for one conscious of his innocence."

Most courts agree, frowning on undue publicity given to a person who has been cleared of a criminal charge. Nonetheless, privacy like all legal rights - has its timits.

Another complaint was filed by a man who had been acquitted of receiving stolen property. He wanted the police to remove his photograph and fingerprints from their private files.

But this time, the court said no. The court said keeping good records is a key to effective police work, adding.

"An accurate identification system may be an assistance not only in finding the guilty criminal but in clearing an innocent suspect."

A different aspect of the problem arose in a homicide case, when the defendant objected to evidence that some years earlier he had been convicted of manslaughter. He said he had already paid his debt to society, and was therefore entitled uncer the prisacy doctrine to keep his past a closed book

But the court ruled that his past could be reopened, because a second offense is more serious than a first offense.

"One who has been convicted of crime (forfeits) whatever right of privacy he may have possessed," said the court, "to the extent that the protection of society requires such forfeiture arthritis had slowed him down to the extent where he just didn't "feel up" to the gin managing job any longer.

He has been replaced as gin manager by Ted Aten, also of the Graham community, who is Precinct 2 county commis-

McMahon, who spent last week in a hospital taking treatment for his arthritis, which he describes as a 'rheumatic' type, said he is retiring from all activity as far as work is concerned.

When McMahon began work ing at the gin as bookkeeper 38 ears ago, the plant was a 00-horsepower diesel affair. but a new all-electric gin was constructed in 1950 and a new office building a few years

Bob Lusk, who was ginner there when I started work as bookkeeper, has outlasted mehe's still there." McMahon said. Another veteran employe is Bobby Josey, who has been bookkeeper since 1948.

Tve seen good years and bad years in the ginning business," McMahon recalled T've seen cotton sell as low as three cents a pound and as high as 50 cents." Drought-wise, he recalls the 1945-46 season as about the worst as far as the cotton crop was concerned, but said there have been other years about as bad-as well as some bumper crop years. McMahon said he wishes to thank all the co-op stockholders and other cotton farmers and everyone else he has done business with in his 38 years at the gin "for their cooperation and many courtesies shown

LAYTON RITES HELD

Funeral services were held in Amarillo Tuesday of last week for Mrs. Nancy Layton, sister of the Rev. J. Harve Mathis and aunt of Stanley Mathis and lone industrial properties, and utility company prooperties.

He said he did not know if local merchants were taxed on a fair market value on their store inventories, but that he found six years ago when he checked local rural property valuations for the last time that they were only about 50 per cent as large as they should

With land values going up. Meredith estimated local real values on farm real estate is now only 35 to 40 per cent what should be

Meredith was much milder in tone this time than usual in his board appearances on tax matters and told the board he was appearing only in order to give the board time to do something about their tax problem before the board really worked itself into a bind.

Meredith pointed out the state law and the state constitution clearly states that the real value of land is what it is worth in the market place, not what it will earn.

You cannot legally make the school property tax into some kind of an income tax." he pointed out

He said that the Snyder school district last year was forced into a complete property equalization program by lawsuit and that dry farm land in the Snyder school district is now being valued at 100 per cent value for tax purposes at from $175 to $200 an acre.

Since the Snyder district does not need a large taxable percentage of the real value this will not hurt their farmers so much, Meredith said, but here in this district taxable valuations have been 75 per cent of real value and that is mighty high

'I don't know the answer to the problem," he said, "but I know what the law says. Land does not depreciate like oil. The law says you will determine the value of land for tax purposes by its market value, not what it

'I'm not in the business of breaking it off in anybody. including rural landowners, but that's the law and you're not following it.

The Post school district's taxable valuation at 75 per cent of real value for 1973 is $56 million. This is an increase of four million due to a boost in oil valuations because of secondary oil recovery increases.

The mineral and industrial taxpayers now pay 61 per cent of the school district's total tax

Meredith told the board that 'right now you're riding a little increase in mineral valuations because of increased secondary recovery, but you can only look forward to decreases in your oil valuations in the years ahead " He predicted this would come

There was no discussion with Meredith on the rural farm valuations

The board in its one action hired Miss Kathleen Mary Doherty, who taught in the Tahoka system last year, for a teaching assignment in the lower grades.

Supt. Bill Shiver told the board that he had prepared a 'tight budget" and that if the board wished to expand physical education throughout the entire system by hiring two new PE teachers for the elementary and primary grades it would require a boost in the 1973 school district tax rate from

The board made no decision on the PE program.

Dogs

Mayor McCrary asks that licensed dogs not be picked up if not running at large and making nuisances of them-"It's the stray dogs. selves. mainly the big ones, that we are after," the mayor said.

The city decided to crack down on dogs again Wednesday of last week when a woman who had just goften out of the hospital was bitten on the leg by a large stray dog. The woman, who was not seriously injured, had just been dis-missed from the hospital at Slaton, had come by bus to Post and was walking to the home of her daughter when bitten by the

Maddox said all stray dogs picked up will be kept at the pound for 72 hours and disposed of if not claimed in that period of time. Licensed dogs picked up while running at large will be kept in the pound for a longer period, but eventually will be disposed of if not claimed by their owner. Mad-

Gasoline supplies were prevery limited senting only problems in Post as June gave way to July and with the approach of the Fourth of July

That's what a telephone survey of as many local service station operators as could be reached at the time revealed

If anything, the situation appeared to be improving, with ome stations' allocations dightly increased for June and July. But, as one service station operator commented. "We're not out of the woods yet

One of Post's two normally all-night stations that started staying closed nights a few weeks ago is still on that schedule, but the other one has started staying open Saturday nights and also plans to be open at night through the Fourth of July holiday

Another station announced two weeks ago that it would remain closed Sundays in order to assure ample gasoline for its customers, and is still on that

Lutheran pastor voting delegate at convention

The Rev. George Ascher of Faith Lutheran Church, 10th & Ave. K. Post, will attend the 50th Regular Convention of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod July 6-13 in New Orleans as a voting delegate.

Rev. Ascher will represent 10 congregations of the South Plains and West Texas area, as one of their two voting delegates. The 280 Texas congregations of the Synod are divided into etectoral circuits. each represented by a pastor and a layman. The lay delegate of the local circuit is T. A. Hammond of Odessa.

Eleven hundred voting delegates and an additional 500 advisory delegates from North and South America will attend the convention, to be held in New Orleans' Rivergate convention facility

The convention is expected to decide whether the historicalcritical method of Bible interpretation is permissible in the synod's seminaries and colleges. Historical criticism holds that many events recorded in the Bible did not actually take place, and are not to be understood literally. Because of the theological controversy that has developed over historical criticism, the election of officers and board members. including the president of the Synod, will be among the most important results of the con-
