Voter interest focuses on school board races

Election Saturday

Spring election interest Saturday apparently is going to center on the school board races with an unusually large field of 11 candidates seeking three numbered positions.

Only other contest will come in city balloting as three incumbents and one other candidate seek three city council posts.

Two Garza Memorial

Returns—

The Post Dispatch office will be open Saturday night to give final results in the three local spring elections. Those interested in results are asked to call between 7:30 and 9 p.m. Since polls do not close until 7 p.m. no final returns are expected before 7:30 and in some cases later than that.

Hospital district directors are running for reelection without opposition on the third ballot.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. with school district voting taking place in the Post High School library, the city voting at city hall, and the hospital board balloting next door in the Post Public Library.

The school board ballot will look something like this:

For Place 1, one year to fill vacancy, Andrea Willard, Marilyn Williams, Charles Morris, and Jimmy Kennedy.

Place 6, regular term: Royce Hart (incumbent), Delwin Fluitt and Ronnie Dunn.

Place 7, regular term: John Boren (incumbent), Robert Sanchez, Jim Bob Shults and Mike Flanagan.

It's a matter of conjecture whether the large field of school candidates is indicative of widespread public interest, or whether it simply indicates such interest among candidates.

The Citizens Task Force sponsored a "meet the candidates" question and answer session at the Post Community Center Monday night and drew only a small crowd.

That doesn't indicate much interest on the public's part although this community hasn't held any such type of event for a number of years and this time of year lots of things are going on.

The field of 11 isn't a new record as only two years ago 11 candidates were on the ballot, but that time the public was obviously aroused over a strictly athletic issue (hiring a separate tennis coach.)

No such issue is clearly defined this time, although the Citizens Task Force from the night it was organized has apparently taken aim on the school board and the spring election.

Opposition to the packet system among parents appears to be involved to some (See Elections, Page 12)

Small crowd Monday

Seven of the 11 candidates for the school board election were present for the Citizens Task Force presentation of the candidates Monday night in the community center.

Candidates Marilyn Williams, Mike Flanagan, Robert Sanchez, John Boren, Ronnie Dunn, Andrea Willard and Royce Hart, each presented a brief statement concerning his or her school views.

Rev. Glenn Reece moderated the presentation and read the questions asked from the audience on cards that had been turned in.

Incumbent trustee, John Boren caught the majority of the questions mostly concerning the packet system.

Almost all the candidates were asked if they favor the packet system with the outcome a split decision.

Other questions asked concerned the athletic program and discipline.

Not one single question was asked anyone there concerning the drug problem in the community.

Only a small crowd of 40 was on hand for the presentation.

ON MONDAY NIGHT—

WTSU grid coach banquet speaker

Bill Yung, the popular new head football coach of the West Texas State University

Buffaloes, will be the speaker Monday night, April 13, for the 1977-78 All Sports Banquet in the Post Community Center.

Up to 350 are expected for the annual spring event sponsored by the Antelope Booster Club honoring all Post High School athletes for the current school year.

The athletes and their dates will be guests of the booster club for the banquet. Serving is scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

Tickets for the banquet, priced at $5 each, have been on sale for the last two weeks. They may be obtained from Jimmy Redman, booster club president; Jack Kirkpatrick, booster club ticket chairman; Mrs. Martha Compton at the bank, or from most of the club directors.

Banquet tickets will be sold at the door this year for the convenience of banquet-goers.

The public is invited to the banquet.

Coaches will introduce the various PHS sports teams as one of the program highlights.

Yung served five years as Grant Teaff's offensive line coach and offensive coordinator at Baylor University. (See Grid coach, Page 12)

E. L. Short here Friday for coffee

A coffee will be held for E. L. Short of Tahoka Friday, March 31, at 2:30 p.m. in the bank community room.

Short is running for the State Senate from this district.

The coffee and reception is being held by Mmes. Neida Dalby, Faye Mathis and Margie Compton.

Rites here for Mrs. Caylor

Funeral services for Mrs. J.C. (Althea) Caylor, 76, were held Saturday, March 25 at 3 p.m. in the First Baptist Church with Rev. Glenn Reece officiating.

Mrs. Caylor died Thursday, March 23, in Lubbock's West Texas Hospital following a lengthy illness.

Born March 29, 1901 in Mississippi, she came to Garza County in 1925 from Dennison, Tex., with her family, Mr. and Mrs. J.S. Maddox. She married J.C. Caylor Dec. 24, 1925, and they have resided here since that time.

She was a past Sunday School teacher, a past member of the Woman's Culture Club and the Needlecraft Club. She was a Baptist since childhood.

Survivors include the husband; one daughter, Mrs. James Babb of Post; one brother, Edgar Maddox of Huntsville, Alabama; two grandchildren and several (See Caylor rites, Page 12)

This prank expensive

Two Texas Tech University students paid a pretty stiff price here Tuesday after spending the night in the county jail for attempting to swipe a couple of speed limit signs for their college bedrooms.

Timothy Richard Boyle, 20 and Daniel Harold Evans, 18, pleaded guilty to theft charges and were fined $103.50 each by Justice of the Peace Racy Robinson for taking two speed limit signs belonging to a road contractor from a US-380 project east of Post.

The two, driving a blue LUV pickup, were apprehended as they drove into Post by sheriff officers who had been notified to look for the blue pickup.

Center bids will be opened here today

Bids on completion of construction of the Post Community Center are scheduled to be opened at 2 p.m. today in the community center.

The Dispatch incorrectly reported last week the bid opening was scheduled for March 23.

Plans call for construction of a "teen room" on what is now the center's parking lot, and construction of an expanded entrance which will include several restrooms and a manager's office.

The city council voted to complete phases II and III of the center in December when Mr. and Mrs. John Lott of Lubbock offered $20,000 to apply to the work if the council would complete the project during 1978.

Travis Thomas will retire here Friday

What started out as temporary employment in 1937 will come to an end Friday, March 31 when Travis Thomas retires from Southwestern Public Service here with 41 years of service.

He began his tenure with the company, then known as Texas Utility, July 4, 1937 as temporary help in Seagraves. His first job was digging pole holes by hand. He became a steady employee in 1939 as a line foreman.

In 1942 he obtained his journeyman class, which means that he worked as an apprentice for four years and passed a test that he was capable of working on high voltage wires without supervision.

While in Seagraves, Travis and Horace Taylor, now retired from the company took it upon themselves to teach an apprentice lineman school. The school was held two nights a week, after working hours and had 100 percent participation from the men who had asked the two for the school. The apprentice school is now (See Travis retires, Page 12)

$102,544 in federal funds distributed

The Garza County Commissioners Court Tuesday morning adopted the county's 1978 revenue sharing budget, accounting for the distribution to various projects of $102,544.43 in federal funds.

Among the special projects funded were $1,800 to the Garza County Heritage Association to help finance the construction of senior citizen clubrooms in the Algerita Hotel;

$600 for the purchase of a small computer here for the county treasurer's office;

$14,000 as the county's share in the current city paving project.

$4,500 for capital expenditures in the sheriff's department.

$2,000 to Southland to help that community finance a water storage tank to provide fire protection to the new Southland school;

$2,000 to the summer recreation program here;

$500 to the Graham Community Center for repairs;

The remainder of the federal funds went to these regularly county-funded projects: $1,206 into general funds, $3,170.40 for treasurer's commission; $1,500 to Post Special School; $12,500 to each of four (See Federal funds, Page 12)

Youth jailed for mischief

Abel Cuinoney, 17-year-old from Dallas, was in Garza County jail Wednesday in lieu of $2,500 bond, charged with criminal mischief in the throwing of rocks through glass windows or doors of three Post stores and the Post Public Library Saturday night.

Sheriff Jim Pippin said preliminary estimates of the damage ranged somewhere between $300 and $500.

One pane of the library's bay window was broken out as was the upper half of the glass front door at Bob Collier Drug and display windows at Marshall's Department store and Allsup's convenience store on East Main.

Rush seen on auto licenses

Friday will be the last day you can purchase your 1978 auto licenses before the enforcement deadline.

County Tax Assessor-Collector T.H. Tipton's office in the courthouse remained open Monday when most of the rest of the courthouse personnel were taking an Easter holiday so car owners could get their new licenses.

But Tipton doesn't intend to remain open Saturday. "Car owners have had three months to get those licenses," he told The Dispatch.

Tipton figured his office needed to sell about a thousand licenses this week to have the same number sold as it had on April 1 last year.

That should mean a closing run today and tomorrow.

This will be the last big rush for auto licenses as the state this year goes on a revolving system with so many expiring monthly from now on.

of the TV series "Quincy," and hostess Shirley Jones will guide and direct you through the 20 hours of live entertainment from Los Angeles. Stars and sports figures such as Michael Landon, Lucille Ball, Arthur Ashe, Ernest Borgnine and many many more will be included.

School pulse hard to read

Post and Garza voters will go to the polls Saturday for the annual spring elections, at least a good many of them will.

This year most interest is centered in the three school races with an unusually large field of 11 candidates.

Interest seems to swing from one branch of local government to another as the elections pass. It wasn't long ago that a big group of candidates sought positions on the hospital board then involved in tough and sometimes controversial decisions. That has passed. This year two incumbents are seeking reelection without opposition.

Another year the city council races drew a record-sized field. This year there are only four candidates for the three council posts which are up for filling.

In other years school board incumbents had little if any opposition. Not this year.

School interest was aroused two months ago with the formation of the Citizens Task Force in an effort to solve the community's marijuana problem among its youth.

In a couple of well attended public meetings, a lot of parents had a lot of things to say pro and con about our schools—and from this gradually emerged the big field of candidates.

But drugs right now do not appear to be an issue. Emphasis has quickly shifted from drugs to discipline. Parents who do not like the packet system have brought this in also. Some always toss in athletics, either opposing athletic emphasis or finding fault with something about the program. Strangely enough, taxes though rising are no bone of contention here.

It's been an unusual campaign. Actually there appears to be no real slates of candidates for or against specific things, and very little open candidate campaigning on these particular issues.

So the community's pulse on its schools is difficult to read.

Some candidates have made positive statements on their school outlook. For the first time there has been some advertising, some candidate card passing, and some door knocking in the evenings asking for votes.

All of this is good. This is the normal democratic way for the schools to reflect the thinking of the community.

Whether this means a big school vote Saturday still remains a matter of conjecture. Certainly absentee voting has been heavy but the election this year is coming during spring vacation when interested teachers and parents are taking a few days out of town, so an election in such a week could be expected to draw a considerably heavier absentee vote.

It may not all get settled Saturday either. The big field could bring such a split vote that nobody would receive the necessary majority of the votes cast necessitating a runoff election two weeks later. Runoffs between the top two candidates can produce many surprises. For one thing runoffs generally produce smaller voter turnouts thus making hard core support more essential.

One commendable thing about the current school race is that at least a minority candidate is on the ballot. For some years, Post schools have badly needed minority representation at their policy making level. The only way to secure such representation is for minority candidates to become a part of our democratic selection process.

Two years ago when an athletic policy controversy brought out another big field of school candidates, it wasn't hard to predict the election outcome. The community's school pulse could be read loud and clear—and at a considerable distance too.

It's different this time. It's hard to determine how wide a general interest there is in the discussion stirred up—both pro and con—by parents organizing to attempt to come to grips with the marijuana problem, and then apparently branching off into other school concerns.

Is the majority speaking, or only a quite active minority? The voice is not that clear to us today. We're not hearing one unified voice but many voices saying different things. But then maybe it's not the voices but our hearing that's at fault. We'll know Saturday.

FIRST EASTER SEALS — Governor Dolph Briscoe is shown being presented the first sheet of 1978 Easter Seals by Jeanette Alvarado of San Antonio, 1978 Easter Seal child, acting on behalf of the 13,166 handicapped children and adults served statewide by Easter Seals. The Easter Seals campaign, which began March 1, is scheduled to end Sunday with the seventh annual Easter Seal Telethon.

Farmers should sign up for set aside

"Even those Garza County farmers who may still be undecided about planting a set-aside crop in 1978 should sign up in the set-aside program," an official of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee said.

The official said: "there's no penalty if set-aside participants decide not to plant a program crop, such as barley, wheat, corn, or grain sorghum. But, by signing up there is no assurance of program benefits for farmers who decide to plant set-aside crops."

"The sign-up period ends May 1. The program calls for taking out of production one acre for every ten (10 percent) planted to barley, corn or grain sorghum and two acres (20 percent) for every ten planted to wheat for grain.

Observing industrial week

Texas, which rates No. 1 for having the best business climate in the United States, will pay tribute to business and industry by celebrating Texas Industrial Week April 1-7.

Over the past 10 years the number of corporate headquarters in Texas has increased 79 percent compared to a boost of but 15 percent nationwide. In 1977, plans were made for more than 177 new and 196 expanding manufacturing firms in Texas.

That's a great record, even for one of the sunbelt states.

Post has since its beginning had a strong industrial base in the Postex Plant. For a small town, this has been quite unusual and very beneficial.

Even today this community's leaders maintain an attitude for continually seeking new industry, though payrolls are not easy for a small town to acquire.

Through the Chamber of Commerce, community leaders are starting to put a dormant industrial foundation back into working order.

Post as a community and Postex Plant have worked well together over a span of decades for mutual growth and benefits. Our industrial future is best assured by a continuation of this strong economic partnership.

Fashion winners to receive awards

LUBBOCK — Weeks of careful work by seamstresses from throughout West Texas will reap recognition and—for nine winners—$300 in awards at the Natural Fibers Fashion Revue, a feature event on Thursday, March 30, opening day of the South Plains Farm Show at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

One-hundred-twenty-one entries in the three divisions will be judged during the morning by a panel of sewing and fashion experts. At 2 p.m. in the Civic Center Theater, the contestants will model their creations in a colorful fashion show, which is free to the public, explained Becky Culp, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and contest chairman.

Narrating the show will be broadcasting personality Jane Prince.

Awards totaling $100 will be presented to the top three entries in each division.

Winners in the junior high division will receive gift certificates from Dunlap's, with presentations by Christy Terrell. Winners in the senior high division will receive certificates from Hemphill-wells, presented by Valerie Hlavaty (cq), fashion coordinator. Adult winners will receive awards from Barbara and Jimmy Stanford of J.J. II's and Bernina Sewing Studio. The prize certificates are $50 for first place, $30 for second and $20 for third.

Spectators won't be left out, Mrs. Culp said, with $200 in door prizes to be given away at the fashion revue.

The revue is designed to emphasize elements of good clothing construction, home sewing and fashion, as well as the use of natural fibers, she said. Entries must be made from at least 50 percent cotton, or 50 percent wool, or wool and mohair comprising 50 percent or more of the fabric.

In addition to the fashion revue, the three-day South Plains Farm Show will feature a display of the most modern farm equipment in the world, a public forum on the economic plight of the farmer, and a championship micro-mini tractor pulling contest. All of the events are free to the public. The Farm Show is sponsored by the Southwest Hardware and Implement Association. The fashion revue, forum and micro-mini tractor pulling contest are sponsored by the association, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

EASTER GUESTS
Visiting in the home of Vera Gossett for Easter were her children, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Morris and children of Clovis, N.M., Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Ramage of Spur, Janie of Brownwood, her grandson, Jim of Snyder, and Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Gossett and children of Post.

LUBBOCK — Despite the shortcomings of the 1978 government farm program as announced last December, officials of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, point out that farmers have "all to gain and nothing to lose" by signing up to participate in the program before May 1 deadline.

Congress is attempting to pass amendments that would improve the program, but as of the Easter recess March 29 there was no clear indication of the outcome. Also there is a strong possibility that the Administration, through beleaguered Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, will announce some program changes before Congress returns to work April 3.

Meanwhile PCG is urging farmers not to jeopardize their right to benefits under existing or pending program provisions by failure to sign an "intention to participate" form in County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices.

Although the sign-up before May 1 is little if anything more than a formality, says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, "it is an essential formality for producers who want to be eligible for price support loans, deficiency or disaster payments."

Farmers are asked to show the acreage of each crop they intend to plant and the acreage of set-aside if any is required on those crops. But the intentions indicated are not binding. They can be changed at planting time, with actual crops and acreages to be reported and certified later.

In addition to the sign-up, eligibility for prevented planting payments under the disaster provisions of the program is contingent on proper land preparation, the availability of equipment, seed and other things necessary to the production of a crop.

Legislative or administrative changes in program provisions announced last December will most likely come as amendments to the current law, Johnson adds. "So signing an intention to participate form before May 1 will probably be a pre-requisite to eligibility for any program benefits, old or new."

Information day planned

The Executive Committee of the Garza County Program Building Committee met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Dunn recently for supper and a business meeting.

The committee is under the direction of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Members attending the planning session were Mr. and Mrs. John Boren, L.G. Thuett, Noel White, Syd Conner, Ronnie Dunn, Mack Terry, Wagoner Johnson and Paula Cawthon.

LEGAL NOTICE

General Telephone Company of the Southwest has filed tariffs with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to implement the Federal Communications Commission's telephone equipment registration program (FCC Docket 19528). The tariffs have an effective date of April 15, 1978. The proposed changes will reduce rates for extension telephones and 25 foot long cords; will restructure one-time charges for service connection, moves and changes, increasing some and reducing others; and will offer reduced monthly rates for one-party business and residence customers who provide their own primary telephone instrument. The proposed changes in rates, with some increasing and others decreasing, will reduce General's gross revenues from its Texas operations by $2,565.00.

Fruits, vegetables best market buys

COLLEGE STATION — Canned and frozen fruits and vegetables will be among best buys at Texas grocery markets this week, one forecaster says.

Special features may include tomato products, potato products and pineapple.

Cans and frozen food packages usually offer some of the most economical fruit-and-vegetable buys—rather than fresh produce—at the end of winter, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt explains.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, The Texas A & M University System.

Other economical choices this week include eggs, turkey parts and some fresh vegetables.

This week's price outlook is as follows:

POULTRY — Turkey parts have low prices, and egg prices are attractive. Fryer chicken prices are up, but some specials appear on whole birds and parts.

PORK — Look for better prices on Boston butts and loin cuts as markets offer more pork features, which also include semi-boneless hams and bacon.

In buying ham, remember that center slices have the most lean meat in relation to bone.

BEEF — Prices are the same to slightly higher with best values generally on chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks and liver.

DAIRY — Look for features on cheese slices, cottage, cream and Swiss cheese.

FRESH VEGETABLES — Most economical buys include broccoli, cabbage, carrots, potatoes, turnips and dry yellow onions.

Green peppers have moderate prices. Lettuce prices vary, partly due to heavy rains, but prices should drop as harvesting starts again.

FRESH FRUITS — Items in best supply at the most economical prices are grapefruit, oranges, bananas, cantaloupe and strawberries.

CONSUMER WATCHWORD

In buying canned produce, choose Grade A or "Fancy" when product appearance is important—otherwise, Grade B, Grade C (standard) or substandard choices are still wholesome and nutritious.

Jim Snowden Statement for Voters

Jim Snowden of Tye, Democratic candidate for U.S. Representative, District 17, has authorized this newspaper to publish his statement to the voters as follows:

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 17TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT:

Basically, I believe that government should be the embodiment of equality and an instrument through which special and individual advantage can be gained.

I believe our government determined to pauperize a segment of our society through maladministration welfare programs.

I believe in the supreme right of the individual and the right to pursue life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

I believe every right implies a responsibility; every opportunity, an obligation; every possession, a duty.

I believe that the law was made for man and not man for the law; that the government is the servant of the people and not their master.

I believe in the dignity of labor, whether with head or hand; that the world owes no man a living but that it owes every man an opportunity to make a living.

I believe that thrift is essential to well-ordered living and that economy is a primary requisite of a sound financial structure, whether government, business or personal affairs.

I believe that truth and honor are fundamental to an enduring nation.

I believe in the sacredness of a promise, that a man's word should be as good as gold; that character—not wealth or power or position—determines supreme worth.

I believe that the rendering of useful service is the common duty of mankind and that only in the surmounting of sacrifice is the cross of selfishness abandoned and the greatness of the human soul set free.

I believe in the all-wise and all-loving God, named whatever name, and that the individuals highest fulfillment, greatest happiness and widest usefulness are to be found in living in harmony with his will.

I believe that love is the greatest thing in the world; that it alone can overcome evil; that right can and will triumph over might.

Sincerely yours,
Jim Snowden

NEW COTTONS WARD OFF MALADIES
New and different genetic improvement techniques are helping point the way to cottons that are resistant to just about everything that is bad for them.

Such is the possibility for multi-adversity resistant (MAR) and determinant cottons, according to Dr. Luther S. Bird of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Bird, a professor in the Texas A & M University Plant Sciences Department, has been spearheading the work with MAR and determinant cottons.

MAR describes a new cotton germplasm. The early goal, Bird says, was to develop cottons with resistance to all major diseases and to cold weather. However, progress along these lines also turned up better insect control and improvement in earliness and yield potential.

"Consequently, the goal was broadened to developing early and productive germplasm having resistance to major diseases, insects and environmental extremes," the plant scientist explains. "New and different genetic improvement procedures have aided in making good progress towards the ultimate goal."

Determinant means those cotton varieties which will not fruit and mature within a shorter period of time.

The Experiment Station has established that early production, measured as mature fiber 120 to 140 days after planting, often is the difference in making a clear profit from cotton farming.

Determinance of varieties reduces the length of time in the field, notes Bird. Twenty or thirty days taken from the end of the season means a period in which production costs soar and crop loss risk is high.

MAR germplasm provides earliness and determinance combined with genetic traits that help assure desired results. The system is a step forward which improves the chances of maximum returns for cotton farmers.

Just how much of an improvement there will be in beef cattle prices during 1978 will depend largely on the demand for feeder cattle by feedlots.

That's how Dr. Ed Uvacek sums up the current cattle situation.

Uvacek, a livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, points out that the supply of feeder cattle in Texas and the nation is still quite large and that unless feeding activity continues to increase, cattle prices will again be put under pressure.

"Although the nation's cattle herd on Jan. 1 was down 5 percent from last year (in Texas cattle numbers were down 8 percent), the cattle industry may still not be out of the woods," contends Uvacek.

The number of cows and heifers that have calved on Jan. 1, 1978 was down 9 percent and the calf crop was down 3 percent from the 1977 level. Here in Texas, the cow herd size was down 1 percent and the calf crop was only down 2 percent from the previous year.

"This reduction in the total cow herd is encouraging to the cattle industry. Since the calving rate has been extremely low during the last three years, however, a more normal rate could yield a larger 1978 calf crop than last year's. This would not help prices," says Uvacek.

As far as the cattle feeding business is concerned, Uvacek notes that the total number of red cattle marketed during 1977 was 3 percent over 1976. Larger feedlots continued to capacities of 16,000 head or more—accounted for 38 percent of the total fed cattle marketings in the U.S. last year. There were only 201 such facilities operating in 1977. "These very large feed lots dominated the feeding scene. More operations with capacities of 1,000 to 2,000-head were also reported last year. Most of this increase occurred in Iowa and Kansas," notes Uvacek.
