The harvesting of the grain crop in Callahan County is just about over with. Something like two hundred cars of grain was shipped from the county in addition to thousands of bushels which have been stored by farmers and stockmen. The crop was one of the best grown in the county for several years.

B. L. Boydston local grain dealer of Baird was paying 58 cents per bushel for wheat and 25 cents for oats and 35 cents for barley yesterday.

Old-Time Campmeeting

Beginning Wednesday evening, the pastor, Rev. Hamilton Wright will begin a twelve-day old-time campmeeting in southern Taylor County, in which the communities of Lawn, Ovalo, Rogers, Tuscola, and Lemmons Gap will participate. Services are to be held twice daily beneath an old brush arbor midway between Ovalo and Lawn. Pete Slatton, who is now directing singing at the revival here, will be in charge of the music.

Several years ago the Rev. Wright originated the resurrection of the old-time revival for the Buffalo Gap area, where he as a mere lad attended campmeetings and saw hundreds of souls saved. The people now have taken up the idea and with success crown efforts this year it is likely that an annual encampment will be held in that area, probably at Buffalo Gap.

Despite downpours Sunday our Sunday School went on. We had about 30 out, the smallest since the present pastor came here. Let's everybody come out to Sunday School next Sunday morning.

Baird Football Field Dresses Up

The High School Football Field that barren stretch of waste land located west of the school building, has taken up the beautification idea. Hardly recognizable is the old gridiron now clothed in a heavenly robe of bermuda grass.

Its a puzzle when you give the ground your first look-over as to whether they intend to use it for football games or lawn parties. They say, however that grass is just as serviceable as a dirt field and great deal esier to land on, certainly it makes a very attractive place.

Last spring the PWA getting back to the whys and wherefores of the field, started the work of sodding the football grounds. Later Mr. Chatham and his son Russell took up the work and through their constant care, the place is now carpeted with thick heavy bermuda grass and rivals any field in West Texas. It is something we can all well be proud of.

Julian Capers, Jr.

AUSTIN—Now that the tumult and shouting are over, and Texas is recovering from its surprise at the incredible feat of Wilbert Lee O'Daniel, flour broker, master salesman, radio personality par excellence, and Democratic nominee for Governor Texas by virtue of a precedent-shattering victory over a field of 11 opponents, it is time to glance at the future and speculate a bit on what lies beyond Jan. 17, 1939, when O'Daniel takes over.

Political analysis, surprised only at the magnitude of O'Daniel's victory, because virtually all of them had swung to the belief a week before election that he would be high man, explained the Hill Billy victory as another manifestation of that periodic unrest and dissatisfaction which causes the American people to rise in their might and smite the established order of things. O'Daniel's leap from political obscurity into the Governor's chair is a few short weeks the first time a new governor has been elected without a runoff election since the double primary system was established in 1907.

O'DANIEL'S PROMISES

The new Governor has talked very little about the government, because, as he said, he knows very little about it. He has definitely promised his nearly 500,000 adherents, however: (1) That he will abolish the poll tax; (2) That he will pay a $30 a month old age pension to everybody, regardless of need, who qualifies otherwise. (3) That he will reduce government expenditure.

The poll tax can be abolished in Texas by a vote of the people amending the constitution. If O'Daniel can persuade the Legislature to submit such an amendment, it could be effectuated before the 1940 primary election. But unfortunately, O'Daniel, although he boasts that he knows how to get along with folks, has been ridiculing and berating the Legislature throughout his campaign. That is not calculated to evoke cooperation. And he will find a great many Democrats, in the Legislature and out, who firmly believe that the constitutional provision requiring voters to purchase poll taxes is a good one, and ought to remain. Of course, the Legislature might regard O'Daniel's overwhelming victory as a "mandate from the people", but on the other hand, the "professional politicians" who constitute the majority of the Legislature, know that the periodic outbreaks of hysteria such as the O'Daniel landslide subside quickly. The "plain people" whose aroused interest made possible the O'Daniel victory will be back at their every-day jobs in a little while, leaving their government to those they have elected.

PENSION DATA

The pension promise probably will prove the most embarrassing problem O'Daniel will find in his lap after he takes the oath of office. There are about 250,000 persons over 65 in Texas who can qualify. Payments of $30 a month to each of them will total around $90,000,000 a year. Under O'Daniel's promise the State of Texas will have to carry all of the pension burden, without Federal aid, because under the regulations of the Federal Social Security Board, the U. S. agency will not participate in any State pension program not based upon need, which pays a fixed equal sum to all who qualify as to age. At present, the State is pensioning about 112,000 people, with an average monthly payment of between $12 and $13 each. The total annual cost is about $18,000,000, of which the State pays about $9,000,000 and the Federal government about the same amount. There is money in sight to continue these payments until January 1. Mr. O'Daniel will have need of all his reputed business ability to find a place to raise the $80,000,000 a year he will need, to carry out his program. Mountain music won't do it.

OTHER RACES

The election held other surprises besides the Governor's race. P. Pierce Brooks, the Dallas real estate man, who was a fifth flight candidate for Governor in 1936, led the veteran Coke Steven son by more than 20,000 votes for Lieutenant Governor, and will run it off with Stevenson. Jerry Sadler, East Texas oilman, who profited by O'Daniel's example, and got himself a hill billy band, went into a runoff with the veteran Railroad Commission Chairman, C. V. Terrell. Bill McDonald Land Commissioner, faces a runoff with Bascom Giles, but Agriculture McDonald defeated his field without a runoff. Gerald A. Mann, of Dallas, ex-Secretary of State, was a close second to Walter Woodul of Houston, lieutenant governor, for Attorney General, and goes into the runoff with Woodul. The powerful political machines of L. A. Woods, State Superintendent of Education, and George Sheppard, rode out the storm, and both went back without runoff, as did Treasurer Charley Lockhart.

JUDGES HIT BY STORM

Two high court judges—Richard Critz, of the Supreme Court, and Harry N. Graves, of the Court of Criminal Appeals,—face runoff races. Both were appointees of Gov. Allred, who filled vacancies occurring on the courts. Graves had only a nominal lead (on an uncomplete count made as this column was written) over Stephens, the adverse vote being regarded by many as a protest over Graves' appointment in spite of a delicate constitutional question of his eligibility. Judge Critz ran not is a community near Farmers-hind Davidson, who has one of ville.

the most potent names in Texas politics for a judicial candidate. One Congressman—Maury Maverick of San Antonio, apparently met debate at the hands of Paul Kilday, as Assistant District Attorney, who had the backing of Mayor Quinn's city machine—and two others, McFarlane of Wichita Falls, and Morgan Sanders, of the Third District, face runoff contests.

State Senator Joe Hill of Henderson, won re-election against stiff opposition, and early reports here carried news of the defeat of the Senate's veteran conservative, Tom Holbrook of Galveston and of Eph Davis of Brownwood. Ross Hardin won by a clear majority for Senator in the Waco District.

Rogers Kelly, in the Valley District, appeared to lack only a few hundred votes for a clear majority over Lon Messer and Senator Jim Neal, who ran a poor second. Returns were unofficial and incomplete as this column was written for transmission to subscribing newspapers by mail.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

One of the most interesting places in the interesting city of Austin is the home of Paul Wakefield, noted newspaperman and publicist. The house, on a hill above the Colorado, is built of native stone—thousand and thousands of little, gray rocks—with a roof of sharply sloping shingles.

Lanterns are imbedded in the wall beside each door and there is a bird's nest above one—the touch looks a little too natural to be entirely so. Within is a large study, the lofty walls lined with books, many of them first editions, many others inscribed by the authors. Original sketches by Captain Thomas, famous writer-diel dueling pistols, knives from artist of the Marines; silver-han-the Philippines, scofs, urns, trays of beaten brass—in short, scores of objects, each with the aura of a distant land and redolent of adventures, are everywhere.

The very hinges of the front gate have a romantic history for they were part of the door of the cell in which O. Henry was a prisoner while awaiting trial.

John Hendrix was in Austin not long ago. He is a typical man of the cow country—big, red-faced, jovial. He was born on a ranch, grew up there, became a foreman—now he writes about cattle-men and cattle. With his intimate knowledge of the subject and his way of putting the quaint sayings and the individualities of ranchmen on paper, Hendrix is likely to do a really fine and thoroughly apthentic book some of these days.

Memories from the notebook of a reporter:

Making a flight over Fort Worth in an auto-giro with Captain Yancey who flew the Atlantic—(if you've flown before in other types of planes, you get a funny sensation at the pit of the stomach when an auto-giro is kicked out of gear and you hang as motionless as a vulture in the air.)

Interviewing "Old Gimlet Eye"—Major General Smedley Butler of the Marines who, by the way, has a brother, Samuel, living in East-land.

And assigned to interview John Garner soon after he was nominated for Vice-President the first time (it was at the Fort Worth airport where he was halting for only five minutes and, not thinking of any question, this chronicler suggested that Cactus Jack make a talk to the crowd, which he did and so material for the writeup was obtained.)

Odd names' department: Frog-hind Davidson, who has one of ville.

AROUND TOWN

With Otto B. McGrate

It's Around Town time again. That means time for another jamboree with the friends and neighbors. Got your bonnet tied on? Alright, we're ready for the take off.

First stop is at the Sidney Foy residence to offer our congratulations to Mrs. Foy whose poems took the spotlight on radio station K. R. B. C. Sunday noon. Mrs. Foy, aw, gee, let's ditch the formalities, Melba has long been poet laureate of the home town and if you'll allow Prof. Grate to turn soothsayer for a few moments, he'll venture to say it won't be long before the whole state hears of our poetess and nabs her for some state-wide radio hook-up.

The weapon collection of R. L. Griggs keeps growing by leaps and bounds. Latest additions are a gun and sword. The gun was given to him by Mr. E. Cooke, and from the date and type, R. L. tells me it was used in the Spanish-American war. The sword a gift from Mrs. Clyde White, is around eighty-two years old. Needless to say, "L" is extremely proud of these new-comers to the collection.

Long-time-no-see people in town and to stay, we hear, are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Payne. (yep, that's Cora Mae Mayes) and their baby son, Alton. Around Town welcomes them home and puts young Alton, of the bright blue eyes and gurgling laugh, on the list of kute kidlets that are ever a part of the column.

What caused only mild excitement at the Tots Wristen grocery store Saturday morning turned out to be a freak in no small sense of the word. What caused the ruckus? Siamese bananas. A double feature in one skin that tipped the scales at 14 ounces. After looking it up in a reference book, we found that such a thing is a rare phenomenon of nature, yow-sah!

I had the pleasure of visiting another lovely yard this week, that of Mr. and Mrs. Florence. It certainly shows the effect of careful attention and besides the usual flowers and grass that yards usually boast, the Florence yard has a vine which originated in Oklahoma, I believe, which grass-hoppers don't eat. The worms may take an occasional chew, but grass hoppers, never.

Entertainment tips for the coming week includes (but definitely) "Vivacious Lady" which has Jimmy Stewart and Ginger Rogers, with Stewart as the young pedagogue who never looked astray until he married a young blonde with ideas of showing her spouse a good time. Wednesday and Thursday of next week has "Cocanut Grove". It's a musical featuring Fred MacMurray and Harriet Hilliard, aided and abetted by one Rufe Davis. Manager Pawkett personally indorses the Davis fellow, who made such a hit in "Mountain Music", as one of the best comedians he has ever seen, and when a person who sees as many shows as this exhibitor, likes an act so well he stays twice to see it, it must be good, and that's how well Rufe Davis clicked with the Plaza manager. "Honey On the Moon" is the song in the show.

Spotlight of the week (and I don't mean any 10 watter, either) goes to Mr. Arthur Beasley. Mr. Beasley is one person who has a good time regardless of the situation. He likes a joke, is a good sport, and takes the blue ribbon for being the best all around jolly good fellow. It's my firm belief if there were more people who laughed and smiled as Mr. Beasley does, and fewer shall we say, "sourpusses", this old world would be a much pleasanter place to live in, so let's say, "Please pass the smiles, Arthur."

Two women sitting in front of a mere man in a motion picture theatre were talking in a tone that drowned out the words of the actors on the screen. At last, the man leaned forward and said, "Pardon me but I can't hear a word." One of the women snapped, "You arn't supposed to; this is a private conversation."

PART OF THE COMMUNITY

Humble men and women are scattered through the length and breadth of Texas, for in its various activities of producing, refining and marketing Texas oil the Humble Company furnishes jobs for some 14,000 Texans.

These folks are not strangers in the communities to which their varied jobs carry them: they're homefolks. They take their place in the community's life. They're interested in the schools, the churches, the civic organizations. They're your neighbors—they live next door, across the street, in the next block.

The Humble Company is proud of these men and women, counts them as its greatest asset, hopes that through them, your neighbors, you look on Humble as a neighbor, too—a neighbor warmly interested in the upbuilding of a common community. For the Humble Company is Texan, too, and very proud of it.

To The Voters of Baird Precinct:
I take this means of extending my sincerest thanks to all who supported me in my race for Justice of the Peace.

Even though unsuccessful in said race, I want you, and every one of you to know that I sincerely appreciate your friendship and support given me in the campaign. To my successful opponent I offer my congratulations and again say to all of you—I Thank You Most Sincerely.

REV. DALLAS D. DENISON

The Methodist Revival which was seriously interrupted during the first week by rains, got off to a good start this week with five conversions and reclamations, with attendance increasing nightly and interest at high pitch. Rev. Dallas D. Denison, evangelist of Matador, is bringing stirring sermons. Hoyt Sitton (Pete) Slatten evangelistic singer of Cisco, is leading the choir. The pastor requests that the membership of the church, as well as Christians of all denominations, co-operate during the remaining days of the revival which ends Sunday night.

Albany To Be Scene Of Gala Affair

Robert Nail, dramatic director, assisted by an able corps of assistants, is rapidly whipping the cast of the great cavalcade of West Texas entitled "The Fort Griffin Fangdangle" into shape, and will be ready to present on the evening of July 29, what is confidently expected to be the most entertaining production ever presented here. The script, written by Mr. Nail, has embodied historical facts and amusing events into a show that will keep the audience on their toes from start to finish. The cast is composed of the best talent to be obtained, while costumes will range from the early Fort Griffin days to the modern dance frocks, including those of the gay '90's.

A preview or final rehearsal is being arranged for the evening of July 26, at which the audience will consist of members of the press and officials of the various service clubs in the Fort Griffin area, all of whom will be the guests of the local chamber of commerce, sponsors of the show.

As an additional feature planned by Mr. Nail and the members of the committee there will be an open-aid dance to be given on a spacious platform erected on the football field. This dance will immediately follow the show. All reserve seat tickets will contain a coupon ticket of admission to the dance. This is expected to be a dance for both young and old, as the old-time ranch dances will be intermingled with modern swing.

The management has already received notice of many people who are coming from a distance, even as far away as Dallas and Fort Worth.

Tomato or Love Apple

The food value of the tomato has not always been recognized.

The tomato both fresh and canned is now known as an excellent source of vitamin C and a good source of vitamin A, B, and G, necessary for growth and development.

Selecting Tomatoes For Preservation

Select fresh, firm, red-ripe, sun sweetened tomatoes. Canned tomatoes and tomato juice can be no better than the tomatoes one has to can.

Vine ripened fruit makes a better flavored and colored product, but tomatoes ripened off the vine are about as high in food value as vine ripened. When it is necessary to pick the green tomatoes and let them ripen off the vine before canning, wax over the scar on the end of the green tomatoes with a wax made from melting together over water, 2 parts mineral oil; 1 part paraffin; 1 part beeswax; then place in shade to ripen.

Small red and yellow varieties are best for making tomato preserve. Tomatoes with small spots can be trimmed and best used for making preserves or mixed pickles. Green tomatoes can be used in making mixed pickles and relishes.

Preparation For Canning

Since tomatoes are best means of insuring the much needed vitamin C in the diet in Texas, care must be given to retain it, both in the preparation and in the processing. Best methods found for preserving the vitamin C are: Expose juice or cut tomatoes to the air as little as possible. Avoid delay between steps in preparing, precooking, processing and cooking after processing.

Tomato Juice

Sieve the steamed tomatoes immediately without removing the skins. Heat juice in covered container to 176 degrees F. or almost a simmering state, then pour at once into hot container within 1.4 inch of the top of the container. Seal immediately. Process in a water bath; No. 1 cans 10 minutes; No. 2 cans or pint jars 15 minutes; No. 3 cans and quart jars 25 minutes.

Salad Pack Tomatoes Core and remove the skin from the steamed tomatoes. Pack immediately into hot containers a full even pack. Fill the containers with tomato juice that has been heated very hot, not boiling exhaust the air before sealing by placing the filled containers in a boiling water bath deep enough to come within 2 inches of the top of the container. Cover the water bath to hold steam. Count time from the time the space above the cans is filled with steam. Exhaust 5 minutes. Seal immediately and place in the boiling water bath. Add enough boiling water to cover containers, 2 inches. Process in water bath No. 1 cans 25 minutes, No. 2 cans 30 minutes, pint jars 35 minutes, quart jars 40 minutes.

Canned Tomatoes Core and skin steamed tomatoes and pack immediately into hot containers, pressing gently down until the liquid covers tomatoes. Exhaust 5 minutes (as above). Seal immediately and place in the boiling water bath to process. Process No. 1 cans 25 minutes, No. 2 cans, 30 minutes, No. 3 cans and pint jars, 35 minutes, and quart jars 40 minutes.

Trench Silos

There are more than 6,000 trench silos in Texas. There are some 600 trench silos in Fayette county Texas. In the small country of Germany there are over 200,000 trench silos and the number is every country, state, and county is increasing yearly.

Don't make the silo too big. For one cow the silo should be 2 feet deep and 2 feet wide and long enough to hold the required acreage of feed. For two cows a silo 2 feet deep and 4 feet wide might be used.

Besides the other men who have been mentioned before that are putting in silos this year for the Odom of Rowden, Clyde Johnson first time, are to be added Blain of Eula, and R. H. Morrisset and Frank L. Martin of Lanham.

Farmers of the county are invited to hear Mr. Cliff Day, president of the Texas Agricultural Association, discuss the accomplishments during the past year of the Texas Agricultural Association this afternoon, July 29th at 2:30 o'clock in the District Court room.

COLLIE CONGRATULATES O'DANIEL

Honorable W. Lee O'Daniel, Fort Worth, Texas.

My dear Governor:

And may I offer my support and cooperation in all things that will protect and promote the material well being of Texas and her people. Yours has been a great personal triumph and as a result all of the people are going to look to those of us in authority to discharge a most arduous task. Very sincerely and cordially, (Signed) WILBOURNE B. COLLIE, State Senator.

Our Trip Into The Rockies And Back

I do not think I would have to write this after I stated I would write it on the condition that some one might want to read it, but several have told me they would read it if I would write it, so I have to either write or back out, so here goes:

First, let me say that it was a wonderful trip, and we appreciated it. It was such a pleasure to be with our children, and to their credit, they certainly did a good job showing us the country and making our stay pleasant and profitable, they spared nothing to make it the most worth while for us, and their friends were also kind to us and added to the pleasantness of the trip.

Well, to get started; We left Baird about six o'clock Monday morning, June 27, we went by the way of El Paso, we did not hurry but just kept on going as long as the daylingh lasted and found ourselves at nightfall in the city of Deming, N. M., 580 miles from home, next morning with an early start we were off and found ourselves at Globe, Arizona at noon and at Blythe, California at night the second dy. Now it had rained on us quite a little bit and the trip thus far had been rather pleasant, and with an early start Wednesday we made it through the awful California desert before it was so hot.

We rested Wednesday afternoon and I can tell you I needed it. I am sure I never was as tired in as many places and as tired in each of those places in my life, as I was after I had driven all that 1250 miles. Thursday, Judith showed us the city of Pasadena, Now if there is a prettier city than Pasadena California, I think it must be some where besides in our country. I think there must be more pretty homes, beautiful drives, and such gorgeous flowers we just drive up one beautiful street and down another, and then out to the famous Rose Bowl, and saw the bridge where so many have ended it all, "but wife would not let go of me so I could jump off the thing if I had wanted to, and then besides they have gone and spoiled it all by putting a lot of wire around, so one cannot get over anyway, but as far as I am concerned they need not have put the wire there, for I did not get interested."

On Friday, July 1st, we went on our way to Frisco where the other children were. We went by Bakerfield and Fresno to Oakland and then to Richmond where there by night fall and found all the children and several of their friends awaiting us with a fine dinner ready. Now that just suited me for it was fish and I was hungry. Well they did not have to urge me to eat. I was all set to go.

On Saturday we did not do much and Sunday I went to church in the morning to PL. Richwood and at night to the First Church Rich-
