Snake-bite Medicine?

A warning about the dangers of snake bite has just been issued by State Health Department. A number of cases of snake bite are reported each year in Texas during the summer and early fall; however few of these result fatally.

Most of the bites occur on the hands or feet which indicates that stepping or falling in the immediate vicinity of an unseen snake or picking up objects under similar conditions are the hazards of contracting snake bite. The pain following the injection of the poison is most intense. Other symptoms are swelling, giddiness, difficult breathing, hemorrhage, weak pulse and vomiting.

If one is bitten by a poisonous snake such as the rattlesnake the following first aid measures should be carried out.

After making proper incisions at the site of the wound, apply suction and continue for at least half an hour.

Apply a tourniquet above the site of the wound, releasing same every ten or fifteen minutes for about 5 seconds at a time.

If the proper antivenom serum is available, apply it according to directions but most important of all is to remove as much of the poison as is possible so as to prevent its absorption.

Secure the services of a physician at the earliest possible moment.

If one is bitten by a poisonous snake DO NOT run or get overheated and DO NOT take any alcoholic stimulants because circulation increased by alcohol or exercise serves to distribute the poison much more rapidly thru the body. Do not injure the tissues by injecting permanganate of potash which is known to be of no value as an antidote.

Do not depend upon home remedies or so called snake bite cures for they are of no value.

DEBRIS-VILLE
Maryland Town Is 'A-Bombed' For Defense
 OLNEY, Md. — Buckled steel beams wave over a street here from jagged upper walls. Broken re-inforced concrete supports hang like necklaces five stories up between the shells of the office buildings. The street is appropriately named—Disaster Street.
 The five best-built wrecks in America line this street. They are architectural triumphs in chaos.
Looks A-Bombed
 The street was built to look exactly as if an atomic bomb had fallen nearby.
 The Federal Civil Defense Administration had all these elements of disaster carefully built into five structures at its staff college in Olney, about 20 miles from Washington, D.C. It began to use them for training purposes recently in the first of a series of two-week courses on disaster rescue operations.
 At No. 1 Disaster Street is the ruin of a typical two-story frame house. When the "blast" came the second-floor dropped to the first, and both floors buckled and thundered to the basement. You can see through the gaping holes in the house—furnishings and plumbing fixtures piled high.
 "Most any day now you may hear low groans and moans coming from beneath the crumpled floors as a rescue class goes to work to get the victim out under expert guidance."
 Next door is a two-apartment duplex brick home, thoroughly bombed. Next is what is left of a multistory steel-frame brick apartment house. Farther down is the wreck of a five-story office building of steel and reinforced concrete. On the corner, across the intersection, is the community movie house, with stores and offices adjoining.
Bricks Topple Down
 As you climb the debris-clogged stairs of the office building, bricks topple down at one of the upper floors.
 The elevator isn't in use. In the blast the cables broke when the car was on the fourth floor. It crashed to the bottom of the shaft.
 Concrete floors sag and walls seem to buckle as if the whole building were about to collapse.

Mammoth Black Bear Scares Mountain Folk
 ROCKTON, Pa.—Residents of this little mountain village are sighing with relief—a mammoth black bear that had been frightening the community was trapped and removed by the Pennsylvania game commission.
 Although bears are not uncommon in this locality, this fellow was of uncommon size, village residents declare. Those who saw him claim that he must have weighed at least 500 pounds.
 A farmer, Murlin Burt, whose fields had been raided many times by the bear, requested permission from the game commission to kill the brute, but the game protectors denied his request. Bear season doesn't open until December, the commission replied. But the commission came to the rescue of Burt and the community.
 Game Protector Claude Kelsey built a box trap made of big planks. He baited the trap with honey, and he and the villagers waited. It wasn't long before the big bear, always on the prowl for food, walked into the trap.

SINGLETON APPLIANCE

Mowing helps to eliminate weeds, from the lawn and help their replacement with desirable grasses. Malathion is described as about the nearest thing to an all purpose insecticide for the home garden. The directions should be followed, however.

There is a difference between insect repellents and insecticides. Repellents are applied to the skin or clothing to keep insects off while insecticides are used to kill insect pests.
