DIED.

Harve Finch of Admiral was in town Wednesday.

George Lee was in town yesterday. George says he will spend the winter at Clyde where he has plenty of stone work, and will go to California in the spring.

Mrs. R. P. Pasty and children after spending a few days with Mrs. Pasty's father, J. C. W. Lane, went on to Cameron, Milam County, where Bob will go into the mercantile business.

R. J. Harris, of Admiral, was in town Tuesday. He reports a fine rain Monday night and that the water in Deep Creek was nearly up to the bridge this side of Admiral.

Dr. E. H. Sartor, accompanied by Mrs. Sartor and the children, who have been visiting in Tennessee for several months, returned home Wednesday.

A man attempted to pass a forged check on the Home National Bank Tuesday. The name of R. P. Odum was signed to the check, but Fred Lane, the cashier, informed the man that the signature would not go. Deputy Sheriff Johnson was notified but the man had slipped out. Mr. Odum happened to be in town at the time, but the forger probably did not know this.

Sheriff T. A. Irvin is out collecting taxes.

Lum Shuford, from near Cottonwood was in the city Wednesday.

Mrs. Catherine Terry, mother of Mrs. J. E. Pace, died suddenly at Celeste, Hunt county, Sunday. Mrs. Pace left on Sunday night's train to attend her mother's funeral. Mrs. Terry was expected out here soon to visit her daughter.

Nothing has been heard of J. H. Peters, who left town about three weeks ago. So far as learned he is short in his accounts with the various insurance companies he represented about $1200 with two or three companies to hear from. Local bondsmen will be held responsible for most of this. He left individual debts, notes and accounts unpaid, about $500 so far as heard from. He borrowed various sums of money from different parties only a few days before he left. Some believe he left town with a considerable sum of money, while others believe he carried away but little money. No one knows how he managed to get so far behind as he did not appear to live extravagant, but any way he seems to have played the game to the limit, judging from the number of creditors he left to mourn his departure. He left his wife and adopted child without means; even the home was mortgaged and went for debts, but still leaves twelve or fifteen hundred dollars unpaid.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips of Carbon after spending a few days visiting their son R. Phillips, of Baird, returned home Saturday.

A LETTER.

An open letter to the Members and Friends of the Methodist Church in Baird:

My DEAR FRIENDS AND BROTHERS: I have been sorely disappointed in not securing Dr. Buskin to preach for you next Sunday as I hoped. I have therefore decided to preach two special sermons. I am therefore specially anxious that every one of you shall be present next Sunday morning and evening. Sunday morning I will preach on "A Phase of Christianity especially demanded by the Times, and Sunday evening I will discuss the question, "What is the matter with the Churches?" These sermons will be of special interest to you all. I invite not only members of the Methodist Church, but of all the other churches, and all our friends to worship with us Sunday.

Very Sincerely Your Pastor,
W. W. MOSS.

CHEAP STATUETTES.

HOW THEY ARE MADE, HARDENED, FINISHED AND COLORED.

Italian From Tuscany Excel the World in Their Production—The Demand For These Casts That Come From the Schools.

While it is not difficult to secure good American workmen for carrying out schemes of interior decorations, it is impossible to get native born men capable of modeling statuettes and busts such as are sold on the street corners and in many of the best shops. All the workmen employed in factories that produce these are Italian, chiefly from Tuscany. This is equally true of those who follow this trade in Germany and France. The Tuscans appear to have a natural ability for that sort of work that has given them the monopoly of it.

The great majority of these busts and statuettes are copied directly from the originals whenever they happen to be, and then the models are made from that copy and sent to all parts of the world. It is not until they are in the shops where they are to be sold. In the larger shops in New York city, however, a certain amount of original work is done in order to keep pace with the popular demand for representations of the heroes of the hour. A great many of our most distinguished poets, authors and statesmen whose busts are exposed for sale on the street corners never get for their portraits. Some workman modeled the head after a photograph and occasionally has produced such good work that it is almost a pity the sculptor's name should remain unknown.

The chief purchasers of these casts are the high schools all over the country. They demand, of course, not only classical subjects, but also those of the modern and of the most distinguished artists, but also busts of famous men and women from every age of the world's history. Such a wide range of subjects is covered by this demand that seven and eight thousand files are included in some of the catalogues issued. The factories where these figures are turned out exhibit in their processes an accuracy and constancy of time, place and nature befitting to look at.

The first process of casting these statuettes is a comparatively simple one when the mold is once completed. The material is a mixture of paris, clay, and a very excellent quality of stucco comes out. It is pure white and covered with ridges made by the hand of the artist. These ridges are carefully removed, and then the cast is placed in an oven heated at about 180 degrees. After it has been baked for a certain length of time it is plunged into a solution of stearic acid and kept there until the surface is saturated. Then, when it has dried, the stucco is gilded by applying to the surface a solution of brown and yellow coloring matter. This color will not wash off, and, in case, any shade can be produced at will.

"The demand for made statuettes in the United States is growing larger every year. One of the largest markets of these casts." This is because people are realizing more and more that art should draw from the human figure itself. If they wish to understand the human form, they get models of the body for draped figures in the art schools and for busts in the high schools. They are especially the busts of some of the celebrated Americans which have been made in Italy from photographs sent over from this country and many mistakes are made in matters of detail, like the cut of the coat and the outline. We are trying to do this in a more modern and characteristic way, and occasionally have been furnished with photographs by their families.

These statuettes which are carried about the streets wrapped in brown or yellow tissue paper or are displayed in the sidewalks or on the steps of unscrupulous dealers are made by quite a different set of manufacturers. The larger dealers do not sell these street peddlers at all. The peddlers have their own little workrooms, which furnish them with their stock at a much lower rate than the regular dealers charge. No originals are made in these ateliers, and most of the models are gilded by taking them from a cast bought from some other firm. The stearic acid which is left out of the process, and consequently the color of these cheaper statuettes is washed away.

The peddlers of these statuettes stand in about the same relation to sculptors as the counterfeiters that peddle cheap coins do to mints and munitions. They reflect fairly accurately the popular taste and according to their best money, it is the Tamara figures that in the long run sell the best of all their stock. From time to time they come market for the best of some particular man, and these sales are always taken by the dealers. By the side of the demand and copies of the various models of Venus with which the public are familiar, there are Cupids and of monk heads, winged Victories and heads of Wagner. These are the popular favorites, but the Tamara figures have a steady sale that insures them a large amount of money of nearly every street peddler.—New York Post.

A COLUMBUS STATUE.

The Story of a Broken Founder's Trademark of Columbus.

A story is told of a brass founder who was one day visited by a friend who was an agent for one of the cities of Central America. The agent asked what it would cost to cast a statue of Christopher Columbus for the public square of the city. The amount was a few dollars of the same which the man had at his disposal. He was about leaving in disgust of being able to secure the statue when the brass founder said:

"Come back to the bank yard and let me see what you can do for the shop. He went back, and the brass founder showed him a colossal statue of Columbus, recently removed from the front of a large building establishment. Under his feet rested a beer keg. In his hand was a large and unwieldy shaver, his beard was long and shaggy, and about his brows was wreathed a garland of barley and hops.

"Why, this will never do," said the commission merchant. "I want a statue of Columbus."
"Wait until I have finished this one," said the brass founder, and he saw what you think of it. If it suits you, you can have it for the amount of the beer keg, barley and hops. As soon as the visitor had gone the brass founder set two men at work on the figure of Columbus. They removed the goblet and substituted a globe, with the continents traced on the figure of Columbus. They also removed the beer keg under his right foot and placed there an anchor and a coil of rope. They also removed the shaver and substituted a wreath of laurel and then proceeded to finish the statue.

The statue of Columbus was finished and the commission merchant came. He was delighted with the figure and, purchasing it, shipped it to the Central American city. It adorns the public square and is looked upon with reverence by the citizens of that town.—New York Times.

FIRES CAUSED BY NAILS.

Particularly Caused Against by "Spoking of Insurance Matters."

"Spoking of insurance matters," said a listener, "I suppose the plain old-fashioned nail is about the best fire in the big establishments where machinery is used in many and various ways that are not generally in existence. The only thing needed in fire to come in contact with one of the nails with every client force to cause a spark and heat generation. Nails have really produced in many per cent of the cotton fires of the country. During recent years, an account of steps taken by the owners and conductors of the larger cotton and product plants at the instance of insurance men, the nail has not been used in any of the machinery. A "way has been found for instance, in the case of the cotton gin, the plants were cut down and are put through manufacturing processes, of extracting nails and other things that are flinty substances that may find lodgment in these inflammable products. They are the natural force, nails and rocks and materials of this kind are heavier than cotton and its products, they have a tendency to force their way to the bottom of the heap. By allowing these products to be cut or rolling them through these heavier materials filter toward the bottom and are finally extracted, and that which the cotton gin and seed passes through the grid in the various manufacturing processes there are no flinty things or other things of these things are concerned."—New York Times.

Time-Working's Name.
For the first time in history with wild flourishes or initials only and give an address other side of the worst of conditions to the very best of the geologically assuming that their handwriting must be of such familiar importance to him or that they and their affairs are so present to his mind that further identification is unnecessary. Having their signature cut out from the end of a letter and the address from its heading pasted on the envelope which incloses a reply is a bad compliment which many persons bring upon themselves by an unscrupulous flexibility. It is singular fact that accidental initials or misrepresentation of one's name is a far more serious and a greater affront and is provocative of more annoyance than a studied insult.—All Town.

HOURGLASSES.

They Have Not Come Out of Style by a Long Shot.

"Most people think that hourglasses went out of style years ago," said a clerk in a Twenty-third street store, "along with porches and knee breeches, but in a matter of fact we receive more calls for them today than we have had at any time within the last ten years. The latest invention of the hourglass acquires its universal acceptance as a timepiece by the coming generation and it would hurt them, if such a renaissance were to become assured it would be no more surprising than the success of the recent fad based on a revival of lost costumes. Anybody a brief study of the hourglass will do today hours. There are lost sands in this generation who have not the slightest idea what an hourglass looks like and it would hurt them to broaden their education a little about certain lines.

The hourglasses sold at present the three minute glass is the best. This glass is now almost exclusively to measure time in boiling eggs, and its usefulness naturally places its sales a little in advance of the more scientific varieties. Next come the five, ten and fifteen minute and full hour glass, which belong chiefly to musicians for piano practice and for lozenges and secret societies.

The sand used in an hourglass is the very finest that the world affords. The western coast of Italy furnishes most of it, as it has long been the chief source of hourglasses is regulated by the ornamentation of the frame. A class of an Italian rosewood case is bought for $1, while a mahogany frame comes to $1.50 or $2. Of course, the price can be brought up still higher by fine carving and decoration. Swivel joints on the shoulders of the hourglass, but most people are satisfied with the cheaper grades.—New York Sun.

President Roosevelt is making friends with all with whom he comes in contact, democrats as well as republicans. It is said that he will propose any scheme to meet the opposition of the South in congress on account of the disfranchisement of the whole country and will treat the South just as any other part of the Union. Today may not be able to carry a single state south of Mason Dixon's line, but he will not give up, but it is good to hear a president say that he will treat the South fair and square, as so many of his party has pursued the opposite course.

No party ever made a greater mistake than the sion leaders of the democratic party to make last year when the party declared against the acquisition of the Philippine Islands. Amputation was the result of that fact and it was worse than folly for the party to ally itself against the policy that, while in some respects is different but in the main, in line with the policy of the party for near century. The republican party could accomplish better than for the democratic party to again declare against expansion and in favor of 16 to 1.

A strong minority of the democratic press endeavored to bring the party against the walled policy of the party. So far as THE STAR is concerned it is not the faintest sign that the country is going to contract. As to 16 to 1 a majority of the party simply yielded to Mr. Bryan and let him make the motion, the issue was dead as a dried herring but may could not see it, because conditions had changed wonderfully in four years. The prediction of the results we all believed would come pass, if the gold standard should become a fact, as it had been in practice since '73, did not come to pass, so far as the country is a prospect so in that knocked the political prospect. We believed that the gold standard was the way and manner in which silver was legislated on in this country as a primary money was a fraud, but it is impossible to tell what is the best that can be done to accept the situation and make the most of it. In the course of time silver will doubtless be restored to some extent, but probably not as it was prior to its demonetization. The democratic party to 1850 were charged with favoring flat money, but in advocating silver at a ratio that under the conditions then prevailing the party was charged with demonetizing the silver and sending money. We did not live or do we believe now that there was an just grounds for such charges, but it is a fact that a majority of the business and conservative men of the country were against the democratic party on the money issue in 1850, and fighting expansion and doggedly adhering to an arbitrary ratio, lost the election again in 1860.

Use Cain's nephews and nieces are much to John Bull than you may imagine, for, according to the British records, they pay him about five and a half million dollars annually as an indemnity. All these millions are under $500 a year are not asked to pay.

The republican party has swept some of the democratic party's most potent weapons, sound money and territorial expansion, into disrepute. We are left in our old time policy of a low tariff. The republicans show a strong inclination to grab that too under the name of reciprocity. The party leaders led the wily republicans steal all our political thrones without making a protest! The democratic party never as a delinquent in leadership as it has been for five years. The unfortunate differences in the party over the silver question in 1890 which Cleveland with his obstinate bullheadedness made no effort to avoid, loss as the leadership of nearly all our ablest men, and turned the party over to the hands of a host of crack-brained incompetent theorists without any practical experience as leaders. The campaign of 1890 went on so far as the credit of the party was concerned, was made without leadership, except Bryan, whose wonderful oratory and personal magnetism saved the party from annihilation. It was practically one man leading a mob against one of the best disciplined and best organized parties which the country has ever seen.

When the present legislature convened in regular session last January some of the daily papers spoke highly of the members as a whole, claiming that it was the ablest legislative body that has ever assembled in this country. Some comparisons were made with former legislatures, not creditable to the latter, but how is it now? The present legislature spent three months in regular session and two months in extra sessions before the general appropriation bill was passed. It cost more than one hundred thousand dollars to get the appropriation for the support of the state government. As a time killer and a wind-jammer the present legislature never had an equal in Texas. We have no desire to find fault with the present House and Senate. We know by experience the difficulties in getting almost any kind of measure enacted into law, and besides we know many of the members personally and they are all able experienced men, but take the body as a whole they have not made a record that any of them should feel proud of by any means, unless it be their record as orators. It is the members indulge in during the different sessions.

In 1540 some Catholic prelates, subjects of Spain, founded the town of Ysleta below El Paso on the Rio Grande. Later the entire territory of Texas was claimed by France under Louis XIV. "La Grand Monarque." In 1880 the first lot of European emigrants in charge of Chevalier de La Salle landed at Matagorda Bay. Later Texas became a province of Spain and in 1810 became part of the Republic of Texas, when that country threw off the Spanish yoke. In 1820 Texas became an independent Republic. In 1845 annexed to the United States. In 1861 Texas seceded from the Union as an independent nation. It is the largest state in the Union, and the only state that owns public domain. The people of Texas are divided under the French, Spanish, Mexican, their own flag and four years under the Confederate flag. Texas has been part of an Empire, part of a Kingdom, a part of two Republics, not counting the Confederacy, and a Republic itself. The stirring warfare with the Indians for over a century, the war with Mexico in which Fenner's men were massacred and the defenders of the Alamo who died to a man rather than submit. The Texas army, and captured Santa Fe. The army was outnumbered 4 to 1, yet was a great victory in which they killed more Mexicans than there were men in the Texas army, and captured Santa Fe as the self styled "Napoleon of the West." All of these form a basis for the interesting and gripping histories in the annals of the world. No wonder President Roosevelt was taken with the idea of writing a history of the great state of Texas. THE STAR is hoping he will yet find time to write such a history. The histories of Texas were written by men who participated in it, and they were not sufficiently impressed with the importance of their subject. Indian wars, battles and Rangers of all kinds state a few interesting and interesting Texas can furnish more material for an interesting history than any state in the Union if the proper man will only work it up.

CONFEDERATE PENSIONS.
State Comptroller Lew requests all papers in possession that owing to delay in issuing the general appropriation, claims for Confederate pensions, due October 25, will be some to about 30 days.

Powell & Powell are headquarters for school books and school supplies 29

The Georgetown Commercial whose proprietor, Lee J. Rowntree, is chief clerk in the House of Representatives speaking of the length of the session of the present legislature says they were in session as many days as the 24th, 25th and 26th. The Commercial is in error as to the 24th at least. The 24th legislature convened in regular session Jan. 8th, 1893, and adjourned April 30th, called session Oct. 4th, in session on week, or about 120 days in all. The present legislature was not in session as many days as the 24th, 25th and 26th.

The 24th legislature had to provide means for raising one and a half million dollars deficiency in the general revenue and school fund. There was no money in the treasury to pay the members until nearly before adjournment, and most of the members had to sell their warrants at a heavy discount, yet they stuck to their post until the work was completed. Reforming the tax laws, the heavy deficit, and reforming the judicial system as the great debt of the state of the 24th. True the judicial reorganizing bill failed, just as it failed in the present legislature, but the consummation of the party from annihilation. It was practically one man leading a mob against one of the best disciplined and best organized parties which the country has ever seen.

SIGNIFICANT QUESTIONS.

How the Small Boy succeeded in breaking Dad's New Year's resolutions?
"What do you want, little boy?"
"Is this where Mr. Upton lives, ma'am?"
"Yes."
"The Mr. Upton that runs the bank."
"He is an officer in the bank."
"The Mr. Upton that went down town on a trolley car this morning?"
"I presume he went on a trolley car, What?"
"Is he the Mr. Upton that was in that horrible street car accident?"
"I haven't heard of his being in any street car accident."
"Didn't he get 'ed sprained his ankle in a little jump 'ot he got over the eye?"
"Not at all. For mercy's sake!"
"No, my little boy; you frighten me. What has?"
"Didn't he hear how he run into a drug store for a piece of corplaster to stick on a little cut 'ot he got over the eye?"
"The last 'n, he, ma'am?"
"No, he's not."
"No, he's not."
"Yes, that's his name."
"Then he's the same man. He won't be for an hour or two if a crowd 'enue he's stoppin' to have one of his teeth tightened that got knocked a little, but he's gettin' along all right, an' he'll be out again in about a month, an' he'll have a letter from the doctor tellin' 'y' 'bout it, ma'am." -Boston Traveller.

THE COOKBOOK.
A cup of butter makes sixteen table spoons. When we measure butter in a cup, we measure it packed solid. One cup of sauce means one cup of thickening and butter that you use. A novel and dainty way of cooking little new omelets is to boil them and serve them on toast, similar to asparagus. Stir all sauces with a wooden spoon until they thicken and begin to leave the sides of the pan. Add favoring essence after taking the pot from the fire. After boiling a ham let it cool in the water in which it was cooked, then help to make it more tasty, moist and tender. The same rule applies to tongue cooked another way. Sardines boiled in a chafing dish are good for Sunday night supper. Use just enough of the oil of the tin to cover the bottom of the dish and keep the fish from sticking. When they are served on both sides, sprinkle liberally with lemon juice and serve hot.

Carved Turkey.
Noting long as a lady was giving a lecture. Her subject was the human figure and she pointed out the best proportion for beauty. She was trying to demonstrate the relative sizes of the limbs as they are in nature. "For example," said she, "twice round my thigh," she held it up to show the length of her own thigh, "twice round my neck, once round my waist," she held it up to show the thickness of her own neck, and a third round from the audience exclaimed: "Twice round your waist, once round my neck!" The lecturer finally passed on to another branch of the subject - London Avenue.

How Old Spiders Live.
Old spiders, which have neither web nor materials to make one, often live a long time. The spider that lives on spiders, younger and weaker than themselves, with whom they venture mate. The younger spider is driven out to make a new web, and the old spider remains in possession until a stronger spider invades the web and drives it out. When this happened, the spider seldom ventures another attack, but tries to subsist upon the few insects that may fall accidentally into its den and eventually dies of hunger.

The Blind Leading the Blind.
Ladies had always lived in the country until her parents moved to the seat of the State Normal college. Just as she was to begin her "practice school" that institution, where during one month of each year was taught by her mother. When asked how she liked the school she replied, "I loved my regular teacher, but I don't much like it when those false teachers come in." -Harper's Magazine.

To Let For Rent.
Tired of life and the ever present necessity of earning his daily bread by working he had taken a dose of cancer and had laid down to die. But the medicine doctors pumped him out and saved him to society. "How do you feel now?" "Well, I don't know," replied the wife, "but you are over him." "Why did you let him take that awful dose of medicine, which has ruined me so much sorer?" -Chicago Tribune.

From a Mother.
The first mention of ironmaking in England goes back to 1352. It is contained in a metrical composition entitled "A Short Description of Fensy-Coat's Works." It was first printed and sold by William Bradford in Philadelphia in 1822. Fensy says that he had seen these about some forty pounds of iron had then been made.

CROSS PLAINS LOCALS.

Oct. 7th - Our little hamlet still continues that steady growth. There are being erected now a new barber shop and another restaurant. Rev. Watson, "our congenial professor," filled the pulpit at the Methodist Church Sunday night.
Mrs. J. W. Jones and wife, of Baird, visited their old time friends Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Coffman last Friday.

Walter Waggoner and Scott Gilbert have been in Dallas attending the fair the past week.
Rudolph Neuh and little sister of Dreesey, were in town this morning. The painting of the Methodist Church adds much to its appearance as well as the town.
Dr. Couch returned from May Wednesday, where he has been for several weeks to arrange after the complete destruction of his parents' home, for the loss of which he received about $2,500.

Bond & Sons, have moved their stock into the new store building in Dreesey, where they have completed. Mr. Tom Nordyke has put in another barber's chair and will run two. Mr. Lee J. Brown, Tom believes in doing the right thing for his customers. Miss Lillie Hazelwood left Sunday for Adirial to take charge of her school. Miss Lillie is one of Cross Plains' most accomplished young ladies and has the reputation of being a very successful teacher.

Conas May, near Cross Plains of Taylor County has been visiting old time friends and looking after his interest here for several days.
The new addition to the school house is completed which gives a commodious school building.
There have been about 1100 hales of cotton raised at this place up to this writing.
Mr. W. B. Farmer one of Calhoun's old time citizens, but now residing in Jones Co., has been mingling with friends and relatives here this past few days.
Conas May, near Cross Plains and General Brooker are over from Pioneer Saturday. Dr. Lindley stated that his aged mother was laying at the point of death at her home near Brown Co., and that she was very near to pass away.
We were success with enough rain last night to cool off the atmosphere and settle the dust, all of which we are very thankful for.

Bob Wright is assisting Drew Hill in the engine room at the Coffman grain mill.
Conas May of Pioneer visited Bill Hoffman Sunday.
The Union Sunday School at the Methodist Church in Cross Plains is progressing along. A delivery boy is invited to come and take a part in the good work.
Sicely Irvin is in town today collecting for the school.
The school will probably commence the last of this month.
Several started to Baird with cotton this morning. Some that Baird is on leading cotton market for this part of the country.
A. B. Graham is in doing business with our merchants this week.

Our Millinery Opening

WAS WAS A GRAND SUCCESS.

MRS. MILLER and her noble assistants will show the Finest Line of Millinery ever opened in Baird. We don't expect to make a big talk but a big show and a big sale. The people of Baird and Callahan County know when we say it will be the Grandest know it will be a fact. Everybody knows Mrs. Miller's ability to design hats and please the ladies, she has been in the Eastern Markets for 30 years or more, selecting designs and the newest things on the market. Remember 30 days among the pattern hats of the World, and an expert will surely get the best ideas. As every lady in Callahan County knows Mrs. Miller's ability therefore it will be useless for me to try to give you the names of the different designs of pattern hats, all I can do is to invite you to call and see them, and you will be surprised at the beauty. Don't fail to attend our opening.

We Have over $50,000 Worth of Dry Goods for You To Select From.

Woolen Dress Goods!

In the Woolen Dress Goods we have the rarest bargains ever shown in Baird. One of the largest firms of importers of woolen dress goods in New York failed and their immense stock of fresh, new woolen dress goods was closed out at about 50c on the dollar, and I was lucky enough to get $10,000 worth of these dress goods. This enables me to sell you the best Woolen Dress Goods for much less than our competitors can buy them at wholesale.

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

No trouble to show goods and I invite you again to call and see.

R. P. Gurney, of Putnam, was in town Tuesday. We regret to learn that owing to the short crops around Putnam Mr. Gurney had to make an assignment, which he did on Tuesday.

Several persons are talking of going into market gardening in the Hubbard Timbers. Some will make arrangements to irrigate. This is a business that will pay handsomely if properly managed.

Miss Adeline, teacher of Education at Baird College, was called to her home at Luptonessa a few days ago on account of the serious illness of her father.

The rains have missed Baird this year for some cause. Often in past years it would rain in town and not in the country. The town can stand a drought provided it will rain in the country.

A light rain fell at Baird Monday night, but did no good except to lay the dust. The Mahair south of town was up and running Wednesday. Neither branch near town got any water. The railroad tanks are nearly dry. The Bayou rose several feet so reported. Abilene reports a heavy rain and Cisco a light rain about like Baird.

When a lover looks for some way of saying to a woman who loves him still, "I love no longer," without giving her pain, he is like the man who tried to make a prisoner look with complacency upon being gallows-hung.

Collections on subscriptions are usually small at this time of year, but our expenses are just the same, and if anything a little heavier, consequently a dollar paid on subscriptions at this point of year is always highly appreciated. Note the date on your paper and if behind on subscription please make an effort to make up a little cash for the printer. Our terms are cash in advance, but many do not seem to know it. 31-41
