Hail Accompanies Rain Monday O'Donnell's Trade Territory and Destroys 1,000 Acres Cotton

Keep Cool

Science says the best way to keep cool in the summer is to wear a large umbrella and nothing else. But science admits that a costume isn't practical. The next best thing is to wear sun underwear. It helps keep you cool. Cotton has higher power of absorbency and evaporation than any other fibre, an important characteristic in comfortable summer clothes.

Arrian Ballew Suffers Stroke

Arrian Ballew, prominent O'Donnell resident and well-known farmer, suffered a paralytic stroke on the left side suddenly Thursday afternoon about 5 o'clock while sitting in front of the Highway Garage. He was rushed to a local physician's office for treatment, where his condition was considered serious. Ballew was still being treated when the Press was printed last night.

WESLEY ODDFELLOWS TO OPEN HOUSE

Open house will be held by the Wesley O. P. lodge of Lamesa on the evening of Sept. 1, so members and friends are invited to attend. Refreshments and free moving pictures will be featured.

Refreshments will be made by the district circuit supervisors in the district court room.

The pictures will show scene at orphan's and old folk's home. Everybody is invited to attend. A special invitation goes to all members.

Approximately 1,000 acres of cotton were destroyed in the O'Donnell trade area Monday afternoon when a rain brought hail into widely scattered sections. The precipitation totaled .90 of an inch. Another quarter of an inch fell early Tuesday morning.

Many farmers saw their prospects of a crop completely destroyed, while others contemplated gloomily "bites" taken by the hail of what had been a "wonderful stand."

Some cotton was damaged in nearly all directions from O'Donnell. In the east, fields belonging to S. M. Clayton, Homer Hancock, John Earles, Charles Morrison and others were severely damaged. Toward the northwest, cotton belonging to A. R. Tyler and John Davis was stripped and battered as though an army had passed over. Joe Proctor's cotton west of town son became a memory after the hail had fallen.

D. J. Bolch and Hulen Bolch reported over 100 acres had been destroyed south of O'Donnell.

Freakish, as all other weather factors here, the hail struck and ruined one man's field and then failed to damage another's just across a road.

Many other farmers, in addition to those mentioned, suffered losses to an extent which cannot be determined until later in the season.

Three Selectees Will Be Called Sept. 29

TAHOKA, Aug. 21 (Special)—Three Lynn county men will be called for training under the Selective Service Act on September 29, according to Mrs. Lois McMahon, clerk of the Draft Board.

A call for one Negro from this county has been made for Thursday, August 28, and William Andrews, who is employed by Tom Hale on his farm, has volunteered to fill the call, and has been accepted.

He will leave therefore on Thursday of next week.

ATTEND FUNERAL

O. L. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Waldo McLaurin and Mrs. J. T. Middleton were in Clovis, New Mexico, where they attended the funeral of Dick Winford, pioneer resident, who was killed in an auto accident last week.

TUESDAY CLUB

The Tuesday Club met at the home of Mrs. B. J. Boyd.

High prize was won by Mrs. Hafer. Low by Mrs. Hughes, and Bingo by Mrs. Hafer.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames Hafer, Whitsett, Hughes, Cabool, Jordan, Chas. Cathey, Campbell and the hostess.

Miss Doris Payne visited in the V. B. Hohn home last week.

Evangelist James W. Adams, minister of the San Benito Church of Christ, will begin a series of gospel meetings at the O'Donnell Church of Christ tonight, Aug. 22, closing Sunday, August 31. This is the evangelist's second meeting with the O'Donnell Church.

Trade Days Will Continue Here

Plans for the handling of business next fall were outlined and discussed by 22 business men at a breakfast here Wednesday morning at the O'Donnell Hotel.

In addition to suggestions providing for new business, the business firms represented agreed to continue and broaden a Trades Day for each Wednesday of the month through the fall and winter months.

J. B. Miles Taken To Lamesa Hospital Following Illness

J. B. Miles, aged pioneer O'Donnell citizen, was taken to a Lamesa hospital Monday night following an illness which became serious.

Relatives said late Thursday that he was being given all aid possible, and his condition considered no worse.

Harry Wiltbanks of Lubbock visited in the L. C. Vance home Monday.

Mrs. Hap Cathey and children visited in Post over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Beal and children left Saturday for a visit with relatives in Brownwood.

Miss Irma Ruth Mears of Clovis, New Mexico, visited her sister, Mrs. Jessie Gillipie over the week end.

Merchants Accept Stamps For Goods Made Of Cotton

Four O'Donnell merchants are co-operating with the Surplus Marketing Administration, and are accepting Cotton Stamps, according to C. H. Cabool, member of the county committee.

Co-operating are the following stores: C-C Dry Goods company, Economy Dry Goods, O'Donnell Bargain Store and Miller's Variety.

Stamps are issued farmers who raise less cotton than allotted quota and raise more foodstuffs. These stamps may be used for cash in the purchase of 100% American cotton products at the stores co-operating with the movement.

Cotton growers, who reduce below the smaller of their 1941 cotton allotment or 1940 planted acres, are eligible to receive stamps at 10 cents per pound times the normal yield on the acres voluntarily reduced. Farmers who are interested in one cotton crop may earn a maximum of $25 in stamps and those having an interest in more than one cotton crop are eligible for a maximum of $50.00.

Local merchants point out that if there is anyone who should buy cotton goods it is the people of Lynn county, since almost their entire existence depends on cotton. Yet, it is a fact that the raisers of cotton frequently demand nothing but wool and silk. In many instances, cotton is the better fabric. And the merchants and farmers are co-operating through the agency of the Government to secure the use of more cotton products.

In this way, it is hoped, King Cotton, the South's number one cash crop, will be given a lift on the road to prosperity. This program is making it possible for cotton growers and their families throughout the cotton belt to buy $25,000,000 worth of additional 100% American cotton products.

Son-in-Law of Local Couple Injured In Car Wreck Saturday

Terrell Haney of Denver City suffered injuries Saturday when he was returning to that city from O'Donnell when his car met another head-on.

Glaring lights of another car was blamed for the accident.

Mrs. Haney is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Porterfield of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brewer and Lannie Joe and Mrs. L. T. Brewer visited Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gardenhire in Shallowater last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Holtzclaw and daughter from California spent Sunday in the home of his father, Bill Holtzclaw.

With practically the entire teaching corps returning, O'Donnell's schools will reopen on Monday, September 1.

Headed again by Superintendent S. F. Johnson, plans call for the employment of 17 teachers here, and only one vacancy remains—a replacement for J. M. Alderson, mathematics and social science.

A change from the usual opening will be made this year with "opening day" program festivities slated for Wednesday, Sept. 3, instead of Monday. The Rev. E. C. McDonald, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will be speaker of the Wednesday program. Several musical selections are also slated for the occasion.

In addition to Johnson, the teaching personnel includes Jack Snodgrass, principal, social science; Mrs. Charles Cathey, social science and history; Ray Debusk, mathematics; Miss Nell Guthrie, Spanish; Miss Aline Nunnally, English; Mrs. Warren Smith, home economics; George Vandergriff, commercial; and a teacher for mathematics and social science.

In the grades are Mrs. Paul Gooch, principal, seventh grade; Mrs. Elizabeth Morris, sixth; Miss Mary Paul Long, fifth; Mrs. Carl Reavis, fourth; Mrs. John Vermillion, third; Miss Virgil Haynes, second; Mrs. Payne Westmoreland, first.

Mrs. Delores Burk is again to be instructor of band and Mrs. Alf Gibbs, piano and substitute teacher.

Dorothy Giddings will again teach the children of the colored school.

Football Season Opens On Sept. 19

Prospects for a "championship" football team this next fall for O'Donnell are very scant, so Coach Ray Debusk will admit—but they've been scant for a number of years and the fact can't be considered news.

Few lettermen from the 1940 squad, which won one game (from Post by a penetration point) are due to show up for practice soon. Udell White, end; Kenneth Warren, tackle; Francis May, tackle; Stuart Schooler, guard; Buford Aten, guard and Raymond Curtis, back, are the players around whom Debusk is to form a new outfit.

Returning squaddens include J. G. Harris, tackle; J. L. Petty, line; Chas. Smith, guard; Cecil May, guard; David Thompson, line.

The Eagles will again face a tough schedule. An open date remains for Sept. 19, as a curtain raiser, but the foes come thick and fast thereafter. On Sept. 26, the first conference game pits the Eagles against Seminole there. October 3, Lubbock Cowhands here; October 10, Post there; October 17, Brownfield, there; October 24, open; October 31, Seagraves, here. Nov. 7, Tahoka HERE; Nov. 14, open; Nov. 21, Denver City, there.

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Stark left Saturday for California.

Three Break Jail, But Freedom Brief

TAHOKA, Aug. 21 (Special)—Three prisoners, two negroes and a white man, managed to make their escape from the jail at about 1:30 o'clock last Saturday morning, but before sunrise on Sunday morning all three of them were in custody again.

One of the negroes, who had given his name as Rogers Wapoo, but which was a fictitious name, according to members of the sheriff's force, was the first of the trio captured. He was intercepted and taken into custody at about 8:30 Saturday night. "Wapoo," 26 years of age, was in jail on a charge of car theft. (Continued On Back Page)

O'DONNELL YOUTH IS ENLISTED IN AIR CORPS

Jack H. Calvert, son of Mr. John H. Calvert, Rt. 3, O'Donnell, was enlisted at Lubbock last Saturday for the regular Army Air Corps and assigned to Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, according to Sergeant Cyril A. Barnes of the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, Lubbock.

Mrs. H. B. Ward and daughter Elizabeth returned home Sunday after spending the past two weeks with her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Spikes of O'Donnell.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Spikes spent Sunday in Colorado City visiting her sister, Mrs. A. T. Williams, and Mr. Williams.

Eula Shepherd and daughter Gerda of Portales, N. M., are visiting her sister, Mrs. T. A. Wimberly.

Buford Aten arrived Tuesday from a trip to California, where he visited with relatives.

Mrs. Ferrell Farrington will arrive home September 1 from Wilmington, North Carolina. Captain Farrington will accompany her as far as Alba, where he will visit his father.

Roosevelt-Churchill Meeting at Sea Brings Joint Declaration of War Aims Seeking 'A Better Future' for World; Vichy-Nazi Collaboration Strengthened

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL

From their historic meeting at sea came an eight-point joint declaration of general war aims and a plan for "a better future for the world."

HISTORIC MEETING: A Declaration

After a secret meeting at sea, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain, issued and signed a joint declaration of general war aims.

This declaration in its introduction explained that two men, "being met together, deem it right to make known certain common principles in the national policies of their respective countries on which they base their hopes for a better future for the world."

The declaration then went on to outline the sort of world that would be sought following the end of the war. In its eight point text, the message expressed in a general way the foreign policy of the present U. S. administration and from the British point of view it was most concrete statement of war aims yet disclosed by that government.

In the opening point of the declaration it was declared that neither the U. S. nor Britain sought "aggrandizement, territorial, or other." In the next and following points the ideals expressed included: the right of all peoples to choose their own form of government; a system of world trade working to the benefit of all nations; a desire for "fullest collaboration between all nations in the economic field"; "after the final destruction of Nazi tyranny" hope was expressed for a peace in which all nations could exist in safety and "traverse the high seas . . . without hindrance"; and finally, a plea for the abandonment of the use of force between nations of the world.

This historic document and meeting, when they were announced ended two weeks of rumors about the possibility of the men meeting. No sooner had the President left Washington on what was announced to be a short vacation cruise before the speculation and guessing began to sweep through this country and England. Churchill was said to be absent from London on pertinent "war matters."

For five days no direct word as to the President's whereabouts was available to the U. S. public. Then came word that an announcement was to be made.

It was reported that at the meetings (there were several conferences) high ranking army and naval officials of both countries were present. From the White House came a statement that they had examined "the whole problem of the supply of munitions of war."

DRAMA: In Washington

It was high drama, that passage of the bill which makes the service of selectees, guardsmen and regulars 18 months more than they signed up for.

The closeness of the vote, 203 to 202, was part of it, but the suddenness with which it came, the bitterness of the press and forensic fight on the measure, gave the battle its punch and severity.

The climax came when the calm voice of Speaker Sam Rayburn announced the totals, a victory for the administration by one vote. This was met by a tumult in galleries and on floor of almost indescribable excitement.

It had been one of those things that no one could have predicted, and in which both sides felt sure of victory until the totals had been announced.

As the count grew late, low and apprehensive whistles were heard from the members of congress as the vote balanced and then unbalanced each other.

The vote found the widest split of delegations in many a year. There were 182 Democrats for the measure and 21 Republicans; 65 Democrats and 133 Republicans against, 14 paired and 14 not voting.

This vote did something that legislation seldom does, in giving each representative a keen realization of the value of his single vote.

COLLABORATION: Vichy-Nazi Pact

Coming at a moment when the Russo-German war was in its most critical stage, and at a time when the Japanese situation was at a sort of peak crisis, the Vichy-Nazi rapprochement, ending in an upset of the government's policy of limited collaboration, and putting the highly anti-British Darlan practically at the helm of French affairs was a sensation indeed.

It was one of those sensations of the type that "we knew all along was going to happen, but it was still a major shock when it happened."

One was forced to look at the matter both from the British-American viewpoint, however, and from the viewpoint, largely a matter of one's imagination, of Marshal Petain himself. Preparatory articles had been written by escaped Frenchmen quoting the record of Petain's career to show that he had been both obstructionist and defeatist in the last war, and not at all the hero that early histories had painted.

His collapse, therefore, was not unexpected in wiser quarters, and yet a double analysis of his reasons was possible, one perhaps more charitable to the old man himself, the other perhaps a more realistic summation of the whole affair.

Petain, one might say, viewing the impossible situation of France, was making a complete surrender to Germany's demands, hoping for and betting on an eventual German victory, and at the same time expecting that when the debacle and reorganization of Europe might come, France would get some crumbs from the conqueror's table.

History Will Tell

That was the realistic view of the situation, and the one most generally accepted in Britain. More charitable was the thought that Petain, working for France in a country already vanquished, and with Laval and Darlan, both friendly to the Nazis, at his side, had no other course than to surrender and those so viewing his act expressed the hope that Petain was secretly wishing for a complete resistance to German occupation of French colonies and bases by the Weygand forces.

Whichever might turn out to be the factual reason, the eventuality was the same, for few doubted but that the French fleet, barring British preventive measures, perhaps aided by the United States, would be placed at Hitler's disposal for some move in the western Mediterranean.

Perhaps, it was said, full collaboration was a prerequisite to an all-out invasion attempt on the part of Germany, and, if successful, a complete German victory.

That, in sum, was Petain's dream, say the British, when he addressed his people over the radio and said: "Frenchmen, I have grave things to tell you!"

RUSSIA: Second Phase

The Nazis' big second push on the eastern front was producing results in territory gained, but it still was debatable as to whether Russian resistance was being shattered, or whether the pattern of Chinese resistance to Japan was being repeated in another sector of the war.

Russia admitted gains of considerable importance on the northern and southern fronts, with Germany making the border claims, one asserting that a territory of approximately 35,000 square miles had been nipped off in the Black sea region.

They asserted their panzer divisions had driven down to the Black sea coast past Odessa, trapping within this territory some large numbers of Russian armed forces, which, they asserted would be annihilated in due course of time.

Russian fliers still continued to raid Berlin.

Prices Going Up

Leon Henderson, chief of Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply, told congress that there soon will be a tremendous increase in the cost of living. He appeared before the house banking and currency committee to urge passage of the price-fixing bill. My Week by Eleanor Roosevelt

JOINT TAX RETURNS

I was glad to see that the house of representatives, in considering the tax bill, did not accept the idea of joint income tax returns for husband and wife. I realize that this might bring in a higher revenue, for it would frequently put the tax returns in the group where surtaxes make the tax much higher.

However, it seems to me that some other way of obtaining money would be wiser than a measure which strikes at the roots of a fundamental principle, which we in this country have been establishing over a period of years; the right of women to be considered as persons. There was a time when a woman married and her property became her husband's, her earnings were her husband's and the control of the children was never in her hands.

The battle for the individual rights of women is one of long standing and none of us should countenance anything which undermines it.

Do we believe that work of any kind, honestly performed, creates work? If so, then it is an advantage to have every individual using his abilities productively. It is true that machines have taken over the work of human hands to a great extent, but the real problem before us is how to make the work of the machines a benefit to human beings and not a detriment.

I do not think that, fundamentally, the way to solve the problem is to say that people should grow lazy and not use what abilities and with a kindly Providence may have given them. I realize that this is a question which can be argued from many points of view and this column is too short to cover it adequately. I am only trying to point out the fact that we have some decisions to make in the future, and we had better think them through intelligently and make sure of what we really believe.

AN EXPLANATION

A letter has just come to me which I want to quote and answer in this column: "Referring to a recent article the following is your statement: 'In the United States there are many areas where children cannot get to school and besides there are many families who have no clothes for their children. For more than eight years your husband has been the directing head of the United States and his announced policy on taking office was the 'forgotten man.'"

"With the information you must have on the matter I have quoted, I would be pleased to have your explanation as to why such conditions continue to exist in the United States.

"Your explanation, I think, should have the same amount of publicity as your original statement."

The answer seems to me fairly simple. This administration has put on the statute books a great deal of social legislation. Much of it was passed in opposition to the desires of many people, who honestly believed that conditions would return to what they once were and that it is a mistake to try to find new ways to adjust to new conditions. Experience alone can prove whether plans undertaken can have permanent value or not.

Some of them have already been in operation long enough to prove themselves. Others are in process of trial. The social security program as a whole, housing, WPA and NYA have all been factors in meeting the needs of what my correspondent calls the "forgotten man."

To wipe out, however, all injustices and inequalities in our democracy, to make in a period of 12 years a decent corner of the world for everyone to live in, in the face of world conditions such as have existed, is beyond the hope of even the most sanguine. We can only be grateful for the fact that more people are aware of the problems of forgotten children as well as forgotten men and women, and that we are working together to make our corner of the world a better place for all of us to live.

NEED FOR NURSES

I have just been told that there is a great shortage of young women entering the nursing schools. At this time nurses are much needed, and it has always seemed to me that it is good training for any girl to take, whether she means to take up nursing as a profession or not. At the present time, the girls in training release nurses already trained, for duty where they are needed.

If later, these girls marry, or have no reason for earning a living by nursing, but wish to serve in some way in their community, there are innumerable opportunities to use the knowledge they have acquired in the service of a great many people. Therefore, if any young woman feels she wishes to do something for her country in the present crisis, and is willing to work hard, put in long hours, and sacrifice her leisure during these years of stress, I can think of few things as useful as taking a course in one of our good training schools for nurses.

WE ACCEPT— Cotton Stamps

The Government said:

"Farmers who cooperate in making an extra reduction in cotton acreage and increase their food acreage can earn Cotton Stamps worth cash on cotton goods."

The cotton farmers said:

"That's swell. We'll take Uncle Sam's generous offer. We'll grow more food. We'll buy more clothes. We'll help ourselves by helping cotton. And we'll live better."

... and now we say:

"We'll do our part too. Here's a whole new line of cotton merchandise—stocked specially to make the American Cotton Stamp Plan easy for cotton farmers. Finished cotton goods for the people who grow cotton!"

THE STORY SO FAR:

Dusty King and Lew Gordon had built up a vast string of ranches. King was killed by his powerful and unscrupulous competitor, Ben Thorpe. Bill Roper, King's adopted son, was determined to avenge his death in spite of the opposition of his sweetheart.

CHAPTER XXIII—Continued

Jody stood up. She felt suddenly tired and numb. "I still think a world can be made where decency can live," she said. "Some day, decent things will live on this prairie, whatever happens to you. But meantime—I guess he belongs to me."

She held Marquita's stare for a moment, then turned and walked to the door. Opening it, she saw that the first forlorn cold gray of the winter dawn was coming into the sky east of Montana.

CHAPTER XXIV

Bill Roper and Bob Stokes—the King-Gordon cowboy whom Roper had not known—had finished their makeshift dressing of Old Joe's wound, and were working on Jim Leathers. Jim Leathers lay perfectly still; only his eyes seemed alive.

Jody Gordon, and her father. Roper conducted a great raid upon Thorpe's vast herds in Montana. He was captured by Leathers and Kane, two of Thorpe's men. Leathers' girl, pretty Marquita, loved Roper and made a desperate but vain attempt to him in the market fit to break them both, and finally he kills Lew's partner, and still he keeps on. "Joe," Bill Roper said, "Joe—Walk Lasham himself is with Ben Thorpe!"

CHAPTER XXV

It was very early; the sun was only just breaking over the winter-starved prairie, that Sunday morning as Bill Roper splashed through the creek that runs by Sundance, and rode into the little town.

Overhead the sky was such a clear crystalline blue as Bill Roper had not seen since he left Texas, and underfoot his tired pony was sinking fetlock deep in thawed mud. The mud itself was predicting a spring which Roper believed now he would never see.

Without sign from the rider, Roper's pony drew up before the Palace Hotel and Livery.

With some difficulty Bill Roper roused a sleepy and resentful individual.

"Feed this pony, and feed him well."

Casually Roper strolled along the corral where stood the loose horses which were being boarded here. He was chewing a straw as he came back to the sleepy man who was now shaking down hay.

Bill Roper splashed through the creek that runs by Sundance.

"I see you have a 9B horse there—a good one."

"Yeah?"

"I figure Lew Gordon rode that horse in?"

"And supposin' he did?"

"Where is he stopping?"

"How should I know? This dump is good enough for his horse, but it ain't good enough for him. He went to sleep with some friend or something, out at the edge of town."

"I'll take a room facing on this street," he said.

A little while later Roper sat at last with his heels caught in the window sill, resting as he regarded the empty street.

That Ben Thorpe was here was known to every cattleman in the north country. Ben Thorpe had been here many weeks; it was to Thorpe that Bill Roper was to have been delivered, here, if a kid horse wrangler following Jody Gordon had not shot Jim Leathers down. But, by the fine, hard-ridden 9B horse which Lew Gordon had ridden in, Bill Roper knew that Gordon had not been here long. He judged that he had got here in time.

Bill Roper sat there a long time. Seven o'clock passed, and eight, and nine, while he smoked and waited. Ten o'clock passed, and ten-thirty.

Then upon the quiet main street of Sundance appeared a figure—the one he had been waiting for.

It seemed to Bill Roper that Lew Gordon walked like a younger man than Roper had remembered. Bill Roper knew Lew Gordon by the flash of silver in his short beard, by the old hat, curiously like Dusty King's, which Lew Gordon had never changed. But he had to look twice to be sure that this man with the springy stride and erect bearing was the Lew Gordon he had known.

When he was sure, Bill Roper stood up and stretched; he filled his lungs with air, and at last let it go again, with a whoof like that of a pony which knows that it has come to the end of the long trail. He drew a last drag from his cigarette, and strapped on the gunbelt which he had laid aside. Unhurriedly, he three or four times drew the iron from its leather, to be sure that it was running free. Then, with a purely unconscious motion, he cocked his hat over one eye and went down into the street.

He knew that Lew Gordon had gone into the Red Dog Saloon, and he walked toward it now.

For a moment Bill Roper, raider, night-rider, gunfighter—dreaded name of the Long Trail—experienced a twist of the heart, terrible, unbelievably acute. Then he shrugged, and walked into the Red Dog Bar.

Lew Gordon stood at the bar of the Red Dog Saloon. The hard line of his jaw was blurred by a silver shag of whisker now, and his mustache was silver, and his hair; but the clear blue eyes were unbelievably young, younger than Bill Roper had ever seen them before. His hands were folded quietly, one elbow on the bar; and so greatly did this silver-haired man dominate the space in which he stood that it was minutes before Roper realized that there was a bartender there at all.

"So you came," Lew Gordon said.

"Of course, Lew. Didn't you know I would come?"

"In one way," Lew Gordon said, "I'm glad you came. I want to say a couple of things to you, Billy, my boy. I done something wrong, Billy. You fought him; I tried to smooth things out. I'm glad I've lived to tell you this: you was right and I was wrong!"

"Lew—" Bill began.

"I should have killed him, Billy," Lew Gordon said.

"Lew! What are you telling me?"

"I know I was wrong," Lew Gordon said. Yet, somehow he did not seem unhappy. "Always I stood for law, for order—the decent thing, the thing that would build this country into something my kid could live in. But—I guess it wasn't meant to be. I should have swung with you when you tied into him in Texas, and again when you tied into him in the north! But I aim to square it all up today!"

"You mean—?" said Bill Roper.

"He's coming to meet me here."

"With how many men?" Roper asked again.

"What does it matter?" Lew poured himself a drink.

Outside, on the board walk of Sundance, were sounding the heels of approaching men . . .

"I can kill him," Bill Roper said, "I can kill him even if I die."

Lew Gordon's face changed swiftly. Suddenly he was the indomitable old man whom Bill Roper had always known.

"Ben Thorpe is for me," Lew Gordon said. "To make up for the quiet years . . ."

And Bill Roper, looking deep into the young eyes of that aging man, finally said, "Okay."

And then the door darkened, and the approaching heels on the board walk were silent because they had arrived. The man Lew Gordon had sent for had come . . .

It was Ben Thorpe who stepped quickly through the door, and one pace to the left, so that his gun, already drawn, swept the bar. It was Walk Lasham who followed him through the door, stepping one pace to the right, so that the door was clear for the three unknown gunfighters who tried to enter all at once.

"Draw, Ben," Lew Gordon said; and then all guns spoke at once.

In the blast of gunfire that followed, no man could tell what happened—but Roper knew that all guns seemed to converge upon Lew Gordon, and frantically he threw the lash of his fire at Thorpe, at Lasham, at the unknown men at the door.

For a moment the guns spoke in a smashing roar, and the powder smoke stung Bill Roper's nostrils; and then suddenly there was silence again.

Thorpe and Lasham both were down as that gunsmoke cleared, and those other strangers in the doorway had disappeared, except for a boot heel that dragged almost out of sight, and then was still.

Beside the bar of the Red Dog Saloon Lew Gordon still stood. Perhaps it was his bullet in the heart of Ben Thorpe—no man would ever know.

He turned now, slowly, elbow upon the bar, and looked at Bill Roper.

"Thanks, son," he said. The hand that held the heavy forty-five sagged deliberately, then dropped the gun; it made a strange clatter upon the unswept boards of the floor. Then Lew Gordon's knees broke and he went down, and Bill Roper caught him as he fell.

Thin and tiny across the squalid town, across the thawing prairie, the church bell was ringing—a makeshift church bell ringing, on Sunday morning, as Lew Gordon died.

Notes of an Innocent Bystander:

The Wireless: One of the reasons the news from the new war zone is yes-and-no is because the transmission from Moscow is haywire. The relays hit the Axis areas, and they change the bad news or just lose it . . . Leland Stowe jeered at the alarmists who cried "Surprise!" when our troops reached Iceland. Mr. Roosevelt prepared us for it, he reminded, when he declared the emergency. Then he said: "It would be stupid to allow the enemy to get a foothold" . . . Jan Yandrich, guesting on "We, the People," reported that the people of Tobruk, where he's been, have other things besides war to murder their sleep. They've got a sister of the Hut Sut song, called "Laughing Mathilda" . . . Who's the new announcer with the divine falsetto? He can lip words with no lisping letters in them, and he's got waiters in the saloons fluttering on tiptoe during his broadcasts . . . The way some of the brassier bands swing the classics, you'd think they were after revenge on listeners.

The Story Tellers: Bernard de Voto writes in Harper's of a certain misguided American: "Chance, the willingness of the public to let picturesque heroes pontificate, the management of smart men who were expert at publicity, the collaboration of a literary wife in the writing of a best-seller, and an immeasurable belief in his own great ness, converted (him) into a national hero and eventually into a national danger." You're wrong. He was referring to John C. Fremont, a self-styled Napoleon of another era . . . Reader's Digest insists money isn't important . . . If you don't think money is important—ask the people who haven't any.

The Front Pages: The sense of most of the communiques from the Heine High Command seems to be: "We're licking the tar out of the Russkys, but don't quote me" . . . There are dailies on this side of the Atlantic that fit Donald Wickham's vignette (in Truth) of The London Times: "A paper which has always had a shrewd sense of the news value of looking earnestly ahead and an even shrewder sense of the political value of looking earnestly into space" . . . When Richard Boyer got back from Germany he rapped the Nazi stunt of inviting foreign correspondents to the war zone. The reporters were practically prisoners, he reported, and were steered by Goebbels' helpers to the items they wanted sent to the U. S. Well, the boys are making tours again, this time on the Russian front. Maybe they figure it's better to send back propaganda rather than no word at all.

New York News Reel: Maiden Lane which was so named because it was a footpath used by lovers along a rippling brook . . . The Center Theatre which has a special ventilating system to carry off the heat produced by the 400 bulbs in the chandelier . . . The fellow at 34th Street who runs a hot dog stand and plays classical recordings on his phonograph between sales . . . The beauty parlor's warning to patrons: "Ladies should be seen and not heard" . . . The antique shop on 3rd Avenue with a sensayuma. It displays jokebooks in the window—most of which you can hear on the radio every night . . . The doors of the vaults at the Federal Reserve Bank which weigh 90 tons.

The hinterlands taking over Times Square for the week-end. Broadway on Sunday is Scranton, Pa., on Monday . . . The Columbus Circle soap-boxer, talking to an audience of one—a bored cop . . . Safety sign seen near the Lido Beach Club: "Drive Slowly. Don't Be a Hearse's Neck!" . . . The down-and-outer near the City Hall fountain washing his face and drying it with a dirtier kerchief . . . The chalked lettering on Tombs Prison—"Cooler Inside."

Household Hints

It is a good idea to have the kitchen table on rollers so you can move it wherever you want or need it.

If dried fruits become undesirably dry due to improper storage, they may be restored to packing house freshness by steaming in a colander or coarse meshed sieve for about 15 minutes.

One teaspoon of cornstarch added to each cup of sugar used in making fudge will make it smooth and creamy with little beating.

Keep all cleaning rags that have been treated with oil in a covered container before putting away in closets. If this is done, fires may be avoided.

If metal tops come off of shoe strings dip them in muciage. This will stiffen the ends and make it easy to put them through eyelets.

To preserve leftover pickles or pimientos, put in a glass tumbler and cover with salad oil.

Ally to Ally: Norway Greet Britain

Smuggled out of Nazi-occupied Norway, this photograph shows how the citizens of Bergen display sympathy with their British Allies. Here, piled high with flowers amid the snow and decorated with the Norwegian flag, is the grave of an "Unknown British Pilot," killed in the summer of 1940. In defiance of the Gestapo, the people of Bergen have continued to adorn the grave with wreaths and flowers. Right through the winter fresh tracks could be seen in the snow every day around it, and the flowers were always fresh. On May 17th, Norway's Independence Day, school children went in procession to the grave and by the end of the day it was buried in flowers.

GOOD HIGHWAYS MAKE AMERICAS GOOD NEIGHBORS

"Nearly 200,000 American motorists will visit Mexico this year," Michael Scully, well-known author on Latin-American subjects, writes in the current Rotarian magazine. "Along the highway that eight years ago was just a scar through primeval country they can sleep in modern hotels and eat in air-conditioned restaurants. Their cars are serviced at well-equipped stations."

Touring has already become Mexico's first industry, Scully reveals. It will bring more to that country this year than any export. Population along the highway zone has trebled. The use of cars has increased 60 percent in ten years—and three assembly plants have been installed in Mexico by American firms.

Most important, while the highway is only half finished, it has already united Mexico and broken down many local prejudices, for people meet "strangers" along the highway daily. And the money spent in Mexico comes back in purchases of increased numbers of farm, garage, electrical, and household implements.

Already one-third of the remaining link of nearly 1,000 miles is finished, and the rest is being tackled. Below Mexico, where 1,500 miles of road to the Panama Canal is needed, 400 miles have been built and paved, 600 miles are good in any weather, and the remaining 500 miles are surveyed and the most vital bridges already built.

Transportation is the major problem of Central America. It costs less to bring rice from the Orient than to transport it across the countries of Nicaragua and Costa Rica from the East coast to the West! For that reason, plus the impossibility of marketing crops from the interior, as much as 95 percent of arable land in some countries is left fallow.

But while the road is not yet completed, "don't think of the road as a project that awaits the cere-

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nationwide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

THE WRITER OF HEBREWS EXPLAINS THE NEW COVENANT

LESSON TEXT—Hebrews 9:11-22.
GOLDEN TEXT—Being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him.—Hebrews 5:9.

The infinite superiority of the Lord Jesus Christ, in both person and work, is a theme which the writer of Hebrews presented to encourage Hebrew Christians who were suffering much for their faith (Heb. 10:32) and were being tempted to turn back to Judaism (Heb. 2:1; 3:12). His purpose was not only to stem the tide of unbelief and discouragement, but to urge them to go on to better things (6:1-3) because of the better covenant under which they had come as believers in Christ.

The portion of the chapter before us deals with the heart of the matter in presenting the sacrifice of Christ as being superior to all the sacrifices of the Old Testament. The verses are somewhat difficult to outline, but the following, adapted in a measure from Dr. W. H. Griffith Thomas, will be helpful.

I. The Ministry of Christ—a Better Ministry (vv. 11-14).
Every act of worship calls for a sanctuary and a worshiper. Under the old covenant the Jews were familiar with the tabernacle into which their priests went daily, and the holy of holies into which the high priest went once a year with the blood of goats and bulls; but now under the new covenant they had

1. A Better Priest and Sanctuary (v. 11).
No longer do we need the mediating priesthood of a fellow man set apart for that office, for Christ Himself has become a High Priest and is the "one mediator between God and men" (1 Tim. 2:5), yet He is not one "who cannot be touched with the feelings of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin" (Heb. 4:15).

2. A Better Sacrifice and Blessing (v. 12).
The blood of Christ, the perfect and final sacrifice for sin, resulted in a once-for-all solution of the sin problem and provided the blessing of eternal redemption.

3. A Better Result (vv. 13, 14).
The sacrifices of the Mosaic ritual had an outward result. They "removed ceremonial disabilities, they restored the unclean to fellowship, they kept the chosen people in covenant relation with God." They "did sanctify and cleanse the flesh; how much more the blood of Christ" (Moorehead). His sacrifice gave spiritual cleansing, the cleansing of the "conscience from dead works to serve the living God" (v. 14).

II. The Ministry of Christ—an Efficacious Ministry (vv. 15-22).
This ministry of our High Priest, Christ, is well characterized by the word "efficacious," which means "having the effective energy to produce an effect." He came into the world "to save sinners" (1 Tim. 1:15), and He did it. We note

1. The Power of the New Ministry (v. 15).
The surrender of Christ even unto death gives validity and efficacy to the new covenant. "All the transgressions of the old covenant had been treasured up; the death of Christ gave satisfaction to all that that covenant could claim, and brought release. So the Mediator of the new covenant begins an entirely new economy, with sin put away by the sacrifice of Himself, and an open path to the beginning of a new life in the favor and power of God" (Andrew Murray).

2. The Guarantee of the New Ministry (vv. 16, 17).
Speaking of our redemption as an eternal inheritance (v. 15) naturally leads to the thought that a testament or will does not become effective until the death of the testator. God has "blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ; according as he hath chosen us in him before the foundation of the world" (Eph. 1:3, 4). He has bequeathed all that to us, and the bequest is made certain by His death. That means that not only our salvation, but "everything we have had, even our temporal mercies, are a part of those purchased and bequeathed blessings; everything is sanctified by the precious death of our Lord Jesus Christ.

3. The Confirmation of the New Ministry (vv. 18-22).
The shedding of blood on Calvary's tree for the remission of sin was not a new or strange thing. The proof for that is given by referring to all of the old covenant procedure for the cleansing of the sinner. How was it brought about? Through blood. In that Old Testament covenant it was the blood of goats and bulls, not sufficient to perfectly cleanse the spirit of man nor give him once-for-all remission, but nonetheless a type of the better sacrifice of the Lamb of God.
Then "let us hold fast the profession of our Faith without wavering (for he is faithful that promised.)" (Heb. 10:23).

HERE'S TO SHORTCAKE TIME WITH CHERRIES BRIGHT
(See Recipes Below)

SUMMERY DESSERTS
Bring the tartness and sweetness of fruit into play with fresh, crumbly cake, top with a dash of whipped cream and you have summer's answer to a delectable dessert.

Garden-fresh berries peeking out from under their green foliage or fruit hanging heavy and ripe on richly laden branches deserve your best attention for they'll do mighty nice things by your meals. Since most of the fruits need no cooking you are doubly sure of getting the full quota of minerals and vitamins which they have to give.

Cherries bright and red make a tart and colorful dessert which you'll enjoy serving. If using the fresh ones pit and sugar them before using.

When I asked my mother how she made her extra delicious shortcakes, she replied, "There's nothing to it, my dear; just biscuit dough—but make the dough short and the fruit sweet!" This tip is a good one. I hope you'll follow it when trying:

Old-Fashioned Shortcake.
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening (8 tablespoons)
½ cup milk

Sift flour, measure, add baking powder and salt, sift again. Work in shortening until mass resembles coarse meal. (If you want to, add a tablespoon of sugar and an egg and count the egg as part of your liquid.) Now, add enough milk to make a soft dough, one which you can barely handle. Turn onto lightly floured board, knead a few seconds, divide in half. Pat one half about one-fourth inch thick into deep buttered 9-inch cake pan. Butter top and pat second portion of dough in layer over first. Brush on softened butter and bake about 20 minutes in hot oven (450 degrees F.) When baked, pull layers apart, spread sugared fruit on bottom layer, stack second one, crust-side down, on this, cover with more fruit, then with whipped cream and a garnish of fruit!

Variations from the original type of shortcake which we all know so well are much in order. Some people prefer a sponge cake base rather than a biscuit dough and for a real individual treatment of this type, you might like to try one with a custard filling for cool deliciousness. Since it is a trifle more elaborate than shortcake, this Cherry Sponge Custard Shortcake is ideal as a dessert for company. You'll need this sponge cake as a base:

Hot Water Sponge Cake.
4 egg yolks
1½ cups sugar
½ cup boiling water
1½ cups cake flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon lemon or vanilla extract
4 stiffly beaten egg whites
Beat egg yolks until very thick; gradually add sugar and continue beating. Add water, mix well, add flour sifted with baking powder. Mix until smooth, add flavoring. Fold in egg whites. Bake in ungreased pan,

LYNN SAYS:
Though dessert problems are easily solved by berries, be sure that they get the greatest care before reaching the table. Berries should appear clean and fresh, be full and plump and have a bright solid color. When they are over-ripe they look dull and often stain the container.
Don't wash berries until ready to use them since damp berries mold very quickly. The best method for washing is doing a few at a time in a bowl, lifting them out into another bowl while the hands are used as a sieve. When the berries are clean let them drain in a strainer or colander.

either Mary Ann or cup cake tins in slow oven 45 minutes. Cool before filling.

Cream Custard Filling.
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
2 cups milk, scalded
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine dry ingredients with slightly beaten egg yolks; stir in enough hot milk to make a thin paste. Then add paste to remaining milk and cook over boiling water 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Cook 10 minutes longer. Cool and add vanilla.

If you top with fresh cherries be sure they're sweet enough. Then garnish with whipped cream. Frozen berries need only be thawed and more sugar added if required.

If you want to make a sponge cake base and use just berries, then plan a lovely surprise so no one will even suspect they're getting a berry dessert. Make a sponge cake using a regular 9 or 10 inch cake pan. When the cake is still warm cut a round circle in the middle of the cake about an inch from the edge. Lift this out carefully keeping it whole. Into the hollow put in sugared berries or peaches or bananas mixed with sweetened whipped cream. Replace the cake top, wrap carefully in a slightly damp towel and chill for 3 to 4 hours. Garnish before serving with whipped cream or sprinkle with powdered sugar. They'll come back often for this one.

For luscious, shortcake puddings, there's nothing like a juicy cobbler. Here's a recipe made for large quantity, excellent if you're planning a church supper:

Cobbler.
(Cherry, Blueberry or Peach)
5 quarts fruit
2 quarts juice
Biscuit dough
5 cups sugar with cherries or berries
2½ cups sugar with peaches

Pour fruit and juice into square cake pans. Add sugar and mix lightly. Cover with biscuit dough (approximately ¼-inch thick) made in proportions of 1½ quarts flour, 2¼ cups milk, 1 tablespoon salt, 4 tablespoons baking powder and ½ cup shortening. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees F., from 30 to 40 minutes. Serve hot with cream.

A light, easy-to-make dessert is the best one with which to bring a hearty supper to a close. With raspberries at their brightest and juiciest, this combination with a graham cracker crust and frothy meringue will really be hard to resist.

Red Raspberry Fluffs.
(Serves 6-8)
Mix and press in a square pan: 1½ cups rolled graham crackers, ¼ cup melted butter, 2 tablespoons sugar, and a dash of cinnamon. Cover that with a meringue made of 4 egg whites stiffly beaten and ½ cup of sugar folded in the whites carefully.
Bake this in a slow (300 degrees) oven for 20 minutes. Cool. Spread with 2 cups of sweetened red raspberries and whipped cream.
*Asparagus with Browned Butter and Crumb Sauce.
Asparagus, tender and green, should be cooked gently so as not to lose its color. It cooks quicker when stalks are tied in bunches. Stand them up in boiling water in a deep narrow pan. The steam will cook the tips while the water bubbles around the stalks.
Instead of serving plain butter, try browning it for a change, seasoning it and then adding a teaspoonful of fine bread crumbs. Have this piping hot and pour it over the asparagus just before serving.

YOU BUY INOCULATION ON FAITH

Field tests have shown a big difference in the quality of inoculator brands on the market. You cannot see the legume bacteria you purchase. Immediate demonstration is impossible. What is the reputation and experience behind the inoculation you buy?
• NITRAGIN is the ORIGINAL LEGUME INOCULATOR, having served the farmers for over forty years. It won a GOLD MEDAL at the World's Fair, St. Louis, 1904.
• NITRAGIN is made in the most complete and modern laboratory of its kind in the world.
• NITRAGIN is the leader in its field by a big margin. NITRAGIN demand in the South has rapidly increased year after year. During the fall of 1940 the Southern shipments of NITRAGIN were for more than 45 million pounds of VETCH and WINTER PEAS. This large demand is due to many field tests carried on year after year. We prove by these tests that NITRAGIN is a good product.
Send for our booklet "Plant Legumes to Prosper," showing pictures of field tests and how NITRAGIN is made. The booklet also gives you valuable information regarding the inoculation of legumes. If your dealer does not have NITRAGIN in stock, have him get it for you. Insist on NITRAGIN inoculation.

Jail Break . . .

L. C. James, 35, whom the sheriff's attaches called "the big negro" because he was 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighed more than 200 pounds, was slightly wounded by one of the pursuing officers early Saturday night but was not captured until after midnight, about 2 o'clock Sunday morning. James, it is said, was born in Mexico and was half negro and half Yaqui Indian.

James was in jail on a charge of having attempted the burglary of the O'Donnell National Bank on Sunday night, August 10. He had climbed upon the building and effected an entry into it through the skylight, but the attempted robbery was detected and James was arrested before he completed the job. He is said to be an ex-convict.

C. L. Eggleston, the white man, about 26 years of age, was in jail serving a couple of sentences for swindling by the giving of worthless checks. He was recaptured at about six o'clock Sunday morning.

The men made their escape by breaking through the wall of the jail run-around where an old winding stair had made its way from the district court room up to the jail. Descending this stairway, they made their escape through the district court room.

Three other prisoners in the jail refused to follow them and remained in the jail.
