Mrs. Sumner was well known here as she and her husband lived here until last spring.

Mrs. Sumner had been in good health and her sudden death came as a great shock to all.

Funeral services were conducted at the First Baptist Church at Lamesa Tuesday afternoon at 3 p. m. with Higginbotham Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Townzen Have 65th Wedding Anniversary

Surrounded by ice and sleet and snow, one of O'Donnell's finest and oldest couples celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary on January 11th. Marion F. Townzen and Miss Jennie Kitchens were united in marriage on Jan. 11, 1884 in the home of the bride's parents with the Rev. Elland, Baptist minister officiating. At the time of their marriage they lived near Strawn in Palo Pinto County. The Townzens moved to the O'Donnell vicinity about 31 years ago and have since resided here. They reared ten children to be grown and married. Two little ones passed away and one of the married daughters died several years ago. Nine of the children are still living and some 25 or 30 grand children and many, great, grand children.

As a complete surprise to these fine people, the Calvary Baptist Church, J. A. Branaman, pastor, supplied them with a covered dish dinner and a beautiful cake inscribed with Marion and Jennie Jan 11th, 1884, and in the center 65th.

The Index joins with friends in tribute to a shining example of Christian marriage. Congratulations.

New Cold Wave Brings More Show

The second winter storm within a week blew into this area early Sunday morning and a snow which started falling Monday resulted in about 3 inches or .19 inches of moisture according to Ben Moore sr. Since the start of the series of storms 2 and 95-100ths inches or nearly 3 inches of moisture has resulted. All the precipitation fell perfectly to insure the greatest utility to the land. The moist strata is expected to penetrate to 20 inches or more. Moisture content should be sufficient for deep tillage.

A scant few days ago the prospects for a crop this year was near nil but now the prospects are as good as one could wish for at this season. However more than normal moisture will be needed this year as the sub soil is dry. The next few weeks will see the farmers busy in preparing their land. A new cold wave is reported for Wednesday

Test Wells Drilled For Possible Re Location Chemical Plant Here

Recent weeks have seen the drilling of several test wells 3 miles or so west of O'Donnell by a company interested in the extraction of so-called salt cake. Until about 3 years ago the Arizona Chemical Co. had a plant in the vicinity of where testing is now being done. Good mineral deposits have been unofficially reported. The flood of rumors in last 2 months of the re opening of a plant is merely a rumor as the New York office of the interested company has not yet made a decision. The payroll of a possible plant would mean upward of $75,000 a year and 35 to 40 men employed.

Truman Proposes Keeping Pledges In State of Nation Congress Talk; Mercy Killing Has Public Support

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

CONGRESS:

Big Order

In calm unhurried manner, President Truman outlined to the 81st congress his legislative proposals. To the surprise of no one he asked legislators to enact virtually every recommendation he made during his election campaign. He called for more taxes, authority to restore economic controls, a broad program of social legislation.

Along with corporations, individuals in the middle and higher-income brackets would share in the task of providing the four billion dollars more annual revenue which Mr. Truman says the government must have.

These are the major recommendations made by the President in his "state of the union" message:

INFLATION—Widen government control over bank and consumer credit, exports and transportation allocations; extend and strengthen rent control. Grant authority to regulate commodity speculation, allocate scarce key materials, control certain wages and prices, if necessary.

TAXES—Raise four billion dollars additional revenue for the government, mainly by taxing corporations, but also by boosting estate and gift taxes; consider increasing income taxes for the middle and upper pay brackets.

LABOR—Repeal the Taft-Hartley law and re-enact old Wagner act—but with bans against jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts and some provision for avoiding strikes in general industry. Boost minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour.

BUSINESS—Strengthen anti-trust laws by closing loopholes that permit monopolistic mergers and consolidations.

FARM—Use price supports to keep farmers at a fair income level.

OTHERS—Extend social security; set up systems of pre-paid medical insurance. Aid state educational systems. Pass same civil rights proposals made to 80th congress. Push power flood control and navigation projects on the rivers. Maintain armed forces "sufficient to deter aggression." Pass universal training legislation.

MERCY KILLING:

Has Advocates

Euthanasia, a euphemism for "mercy killing," gained important support in New York state where hundreds of Protestant and Jewish religious leaders petitioned for legislation legalizing the practice.

THE QUESTION has agitated humanitarians and sociologists for centuries and there are many cases on record where mercy killings have been committed. Despite legal barriers and penalties, the record in such cases, for the most part, shows that juries are inclined to look with some leniency on the person who kills another to put him or her "out of his misery."

On an appeal to the emotions alone, much convincing argument for euthanasia may be presented. But, considered from all other angles with individual rights, possibility of criminal intent and other such factors involved, the practice could become highly dangerous.

The New York group advocating the measure included 379 Protestant and Jewish ministers of the Empire state, the largest group ever publicly to advocate euthanasia. The practice is now punishable as murder in all the 48 states. The petition was sent to every member of the New York legislature.

NEED SHERLOCK HOLMES

Thief Makes off With Pound Notes

British authorities would be very happy had the renowned Sherlock Holmes been real and available, since the country was facing two aggravating and puzzling problems.

Someone had stolen several sheets of one-pound sterling notes, amounting to approximately $560, from the extraordinarily guarded bank of England printing works.

As an added poser, someone had been going around sm a shing

New Star

Dorothy Malone, in typical Hollywood garb—that is for picture releases such as this—was the first film player to be accorded stardom in 1949. Warner Brothers, her bosses, elevated her to filmland's top pinnacle for her performance in the film "One Sunday Afternoon."

THE MINISTERS' petition, sponsored by the Euthanasia Society of America, declared that the "ending of physical existence of an individual at his request, when afflicted with an incurable disease which causes extreme suffering is under proper safeguards not only medically indicated but also in accord with the most civilized and humane ethics and the highest concepts and practices of religion."

The safeguards: The sufferer must submit a petition, duly attested by himself and his physician, asking for euthanasia. This must be presented to a court of records which will appoint an investigative committee of physicians. If this committee agrees, the court may permit euthanasia.

CASTE SYSTEM:

Officers Adamant

The superiority which many army officers feel and affect over the G. I. came graphically to light in Berlin. There, in the biggest American club in the city, U. S. enlisted men were barred—but German frauleins were admitted.

G. I.'s and civilians got hot as the proverbial two-dollar pistol. Enlisted men won a temporary victory when the board of governors of the club suspended the month-old ban pending a special meeting to thresh out the matter.

One lieutenant-colonel epitomized the officer viewpoint. Ninety per cent of enlisted men were all right, he conceded, but it was the other 10 per cent which caused the ban.

"THERE ARE 10 per cent of the enlisted men," he said, "who do not know how to behave." Then he added the clincher: "We don't want these enlisted barbarians with officers and ladies." Evidently possessed of the power of his convictions, he asserted he would resign from the club if enlisted guests were permitted.

Significant was the reaction of the German civilians. In effect, they asked if such tactics had any place in the teaching of democracy. As one employe put it: "The ban simply means that everybody in Berlin can come into the club except an American enlisted man. That is not our idea of being American."

An idea of how hard-to-catch may be the pound-note thief is provided in the fact that the money, stolen last summer, had only begun to circulate recently.

HARMONY:

Some Question

Congress was off to a rough start. The hope of general "harmony," expressed by President Truman and some congressional leaders, grew dim at the start.

Republican Senator Vandenberg charged Democratic colleagues with violating the spirit of bipartisanship in foreign affairs.

Committee assignments provided the spark which set off the blast of discord. When the Democrats decided to take eight of the 13 seats on the foreign relations committee, the Republicans cried "foul" and uttered their protests.

Senator Vandenberg, who will be replaced as committee chairman by Senator Connally (D., Tex.) called it a "political decision." Senator Morse (D., Ore.) was less restrained. He charged that the "implications are that the Democratic party proposes to play politics with war and peace."

Democrats denied any partisanship, claimed they were entitled to more seats because they have a bigger majority than the Republicans had.

Vice-President Barkley regretted the "controversy." He told reporters that the bigger Democratic majority will in no way affect the bipartisan course of the committee.

CHINA REDS:

No Comment

"The winners tell the funny jokes—the losers holler 'deal!'"

But the apparent winners in China's civil war weren't saying a word, and the nationalist government's peace offensive appeared stalled against a wall of Communist silence.

From the government side came a rising tide of clamor for a truce and a negotiated settlement. The Communists, who have been winning, continued to say nothing.

Nanking reported growing anxiety among Chinese who had predicted quick Communist response to Chiang Kai-shek's New Year offer to mediate. It was predicted that the Red answer, if and when it came, would be a demand for the government armies to lay down their arms.

In Peiping, a group of delegates to the national assembly sent the Communist leader a message urging an immediate cease fire order because, they said, "the people cannot endure further suffering."

Meanwhile, American position, as indicated by two statements, seemed uncertain, or divided. Vice-Admiral Oscar C. Badger, commander of U. S. naval forces in the western Pacific, denied rumors of a withdrawal of "American forces from China." He declared the rumor was based on reports the marines had terminated their lease on Shantung university campus where they maintain their barracks.

Now what? To convince our people that the game is worth the candle, that whatever the cost, this is the first bloodless war ever fought, that it is cheap insurance against a shooting war.

"Wishbone" Magic

Puzzling over the amazing power of a chicken wishbone—that's going to make someone's fondest wish come true—are movie stars Dan Dailey and Celeste Holm. The trio call attention to the nationwide "Wishbone Contest" being sponsored by the Poultry and Egg National Board.

WISHBONE:

Send It In

Perhaps you've never thought about it, but there must be a particular reason you like chicken every Sunday. Now, if you'll only think about that reason, tell it to a judge, and it happens to be declared the best submitted, you will find your fondest wish coming true.

THERE IS a big "Wishbone Contest" going on in these United States and the national prize is the granting of the winning contestant's own "most-desired" wish. The contest is sponsored by the Poultry and Egg National Board of Chicago, and the only requirement is that a chicken wishbone—a real one—must accompany each entry. Anyone in the United States is eligible for the contest.

Contestants must write, in fewer than 100 words, their reasons "Why I like chicken every Sunday." They can send entries in the form of an essay, limerick or slogan—but each entry must be accompanied by a real chicken wishbone and the contestant's "most desired" wish.

THREE REGIONAL winners will receive a trip to Hollywood to witness the final judging at a gala chicken-dinner celebration. During the Hollywood stay, the regional winners will be honored at the "Wishbone premiere" of the movie "Chicken Every Sunday."

Marshall Plan Has Halted The Spread of Communism

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—When this country was struggling into early manhood, it was clear to our statesmen that if the tree of western democracy were to flourish and bring forth fruit in its season, it would have to be shielded from foreign interference.

The Monroe doctrine was enunciated. It was defensive, negative rather than positive; it simply said to the world: hold what you have, but take no more. It was a large order for a young nation. It covered a lot of territory. It worked.

The world grew older and smaller.

A new, powerful anti-democratic force arose.

American leaders decided that if the tree we had planted, now in full fruit, were to continue to live and flourish, the ramparts we watched would have to embrace and protect our friends whose liberties were threatened even more immediately than our own.

The Marshall plan was enunciated in June of 1947. After thorough debate in congress, it finally was given sinews on June 23 of this year.

What is the score today?

Mere announcement of the idea is credited with checking Red revolution in Italy, with blocking the tide of Communist aggression in western Europe.

Now, after only seven months of functioning, I believe that objective observers will admit with Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul Hoffman, a hard-headed businessman, that "it has not only stopped the march of communism, but has turned the tide in the opposite direction." Only recently, Yugoslavia drew up agreements for trade with western Europe, thus smashing one hole in the iron curtain.

The ECA is just what it is labeled — "enlightened self-interest."

To a chaotic and jittery Europe, it helped to bring: a 25 per cent increase in agricultural production over the previous year; industrial production above the pre-war level of 1938; relaxation of inflationary pressures in all the ERP countries except France and Greece.

Now what? To convince our people that the game is worth the candle, that whatever the cost, this is the first bloodless war ever fought, that it is cheap insurance against a shooting war.

To convince congress that the charges, among others, that ECA is not being efficiently operated, that big business is being favored and little business slighted are unjust, or if the charges are true, correct them.

To Speak Or Not To Speak

Before congress convened, Washington was enjoying its usual influx of national conventions, among them two groups concerned with the oral cavity—the dentists and the speech-teachers of the nation. Although I was invited to attend sessions of both groups, I exercised my jaws at only one—the speech instructors' meeting.

The job of the speech instructor is, of course, to get the learners to use words to express ideas—a difficult task. Not that the raw material is lacking. The dictionary is full of words, and the air is thick with ideas. More difficult is getting the words out of the dictionary and the ideas out of the air into the learners' heads.

The next step is to get the learner to understand the meaning of the words he uses and then to translate them into ideas which somebody else can understand—aye!—there's the 'rub!

Consequently the speech instructors have not only a difficult, but a hazardous profession. Leaving a man alone with a lot of words is like leaving him in a laboratory with a lot of breakable atoms.

We know from recent reports that some of the scientists working with atomic energy go blind.

It's a wonder to me that more speech instructors don't go deaf.

I suppose speech teachers also teach that most useful corollary art—the use of words to conceal one's meaning. It is one I practice ardently.

After a decade and a half of broadcasting, most of my listeners haven't the slightest idea of what my politics are.

One point which was stressed at the speech conference was that the competition for power which ends in strife—domestic, industrial, international—is due chiefly to improper communication. I agree with that assumption.

There is no excuse for this in this day and age. It was different when a Cro-Magnon appeared at the door of a Neanderthal cave in the year 23,000 B. C.—the mastodon on which he was riding having broken a tusk or an axle or something—and all the poor man wanted was to borrow an extra tusk. But since the Cro-Magnon was unable to communicate his perfectly peaceful desire, and before he could present his driver's license or his membership card in the loyal order of moose, for identity, the Neanderthal, after shoving his wife in the corner and calling his dogs, would step out and welcome the unfortunate visitor with a hearty wallop on the cranium.

The result was probably a war between the Neanderthals and the Cro-Magnons in which the Neanderthal had a fifty-fifty chance of eating Cro.

Even if the innocent visitor had been able to grunt without mispronouncing his consonants and lacerating his labials, and even if his inhospitable host had listened to him, that host probably could not have digested his idea—as easily, at least as he later digested him.

We have words to work with, and thus are able to fashion the tools of communication. But unless the speech teachers (and all teachers) furnish the skills for the use of those words, the effort is in vain.

Unless the idea behind what we believe in can be communicated, (and it can't be, unless we agree on the meaning of the words) it withers on the vine.

Thus, the speech teacher must teach his pupils not only the medium of communication, but the means of using it—and convince them it has concrete value.

In the field of labor relations at home, or international understanding abroad, we never can hope to achieve a real bulwark for democracy unless a mental contact can be made, communications established—words and ideas joined so that they have a universal meaning and the message they convey can be digested.

As Eric Peterson, general secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Machinists, put it: "The need for better lines of communication between labor and management, and between the conciliator and disputing parties is a distinct challenge. For basically, the failure of these two groups to iron out their disputes without ill-will or violence is part and parcel of the broader problem of discord which plagues the world today in its quest for peace."

Peterson went on to say that a starting point for speech teachers might be to pay less attention to Demosthenes who became a great orator by practicing shouting until he could be heard above the roaring of the waves, and a little more to developing men whose voices may not be loud, but whose skillful persuasion can be heard above the misunderstanding in men's hearts.

Speaking for management at the conference, Robert Chester Smith, director of industrial and personnel relations for the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company of Chicago, expressed his belief that each of the three members of the industrial triumvirate—the investor, the manager and the laboring man—"has been and continues to be too short-sighted. Each has been looking at the problem through its own specially-conditioned glasses, and has been unable to see either upward, downward or sideways, and unfortunately not very far ahead."

John Q. Jennings, head of industrial relations for the Singer Manufacturing company, told an interesting story about how New York's great tugboat dispute last winter had been settled. The negotiations had dragged on for hours until well after midnight. Management and union men had basically agreed on the point at issue, but whenever they tried to phrase the agreement on paper, they got entangled in a maze of complicated terminology.

Shortly after 1 a. m., one of the negotiators happened to say in simple language what everyone else was trying to say in technical language. Somebody had a brilliant idea:

"Why not put it just that way in the contract?" They did—a two-sentence paragraph in ordinary rank and file English was inserted—a departure Jennings described as something brand-new in union contracts.

Indonesian War

INSIDE fact about the Indonesian war is that the United States received ample advance notice it was coming.

Merle Cochran, American member of the United Nations good offices committee in Indonesia, warned the state department by cable one month before the attack. He reported that the Dutch were piling up supplies—most of them made in America—preparing to wipe up the Indonesian republic, even while U. N. mediators were trying to settle the dispute.

Cochran queried the Dutch regarding their activity, but got waved aside with the bland reply that the Dutch army was preparing for "routine maneuvers."

But possibly because of his inquiries, Dutch representatives in Washington were more frank. They informed both the state department and the U. S. joint chiefs of staff that Communists had permeated the Indonesian republic and were planning a revolt in February.

If this revolt was successful the Communists would use Java and Sumatra as a base to take over British Malaya, Borneo and the Philippines. Therefore, concluded the Dutch, they planned to take "police measures" in advance.

It so happens that the registered Communist vote in Holland itself at the last election was 10 per cent, and U. S. observers say that the Communist percentage in Indonesia is less.

However, U. S. reaction was mixed. The state department, which hitherto has coddled the Dutch, began to get alarmed. Certain U. S. military men, on the other hand, in effect winked. "Police action," they indicated to the Dutch, was an internal problem of no concern to the United States.

Truman's Military Pals

Conflict between the U. S. military and the state department is, of course, nothing new. And the above illustrates what has happened to U. S. foreign policy time and again ever since President Truman took office. In Germany, in China, in Argentina and in Spain, the President has let the military influence sometimes dominate his foreign policy.

Immediately after the Dutch attacked, the state department, belatedly wide awake, drafted a strong note to the Netherlands. It was just as strong as the Australian statement at the United Nations.

When the note was sent to the White House, however, the President toned it down. Again the military were suspected.

But even in its revised form, the American protest put the Dutch almost in the same category as the Hitler and Mussolinis in their wrecking of the League of Nations. It also brought howls of private anguish from the Dutch.

The Dutch Wait

Last week, Dutch representatives called on U. S. officials again. They were up in arms over curtailment of Marshall plan aid to Indonesia—even though this slap on the wrist sounds much louder than it hurts.

Actually the state department has curtailed only $14,000,000 of unspent ECA aid to Indonesia. The remaining $47,000,000 has already been committed and will not be cut off—though most of it could be. Furthermore, our huge $550,000,000 ECA allotment to Holland still stands—even though $350,000,000 of this amount is passed on to Indonesia. Nevertheless, the Dutch were irate. Without attempting to quote them direct, the gist of what they said was this:

We don't understand your policy. You spend five and a half billions to fight communism in Europe, yet in the Far East you support Communism. We wouldn't be in the western European pact if you hadn't asked us to get in. We could have been neutral in the last war, and we could be neutral in the next. We don't want to have our country overrun by the Russians as it was by Hitler.

We realize that this western European pact is largely for the defense of the United States and that we are essential to it. So if the United States is going to cut off Marshall plan aid because of Indonesia, we might begin warming up to the Russians. We don't want to, but we may have to.

So far it doesn't look as if the President is going to be scared by Dutch threats. Mr. Truman may make mistakes, but the last thing he does is scare easy. He's much more likely to get his backbone up.

Life With Father

Labor Statesmanship
One branch of America's organized labor, the Congress of Industrial Organizations, has made a move that puts it in the same class with great statesmen. You might not expect these large groups, organized for wage bargaining with industry, to enter the field of international relations. Yet the CIO, meeting recently in its yearly convention, did much to strengthen the hand of our government for the growing struggle in Europe.
When Phil Murray raged forth against the Communists who had managed to get in under the CIO banner, he was not simply delivering a private opinion. Mr. Murray, himself a stalwart statesman within labor's councils, knew he was speaking with labor's whole voice. His strong condemnation of Communist infiltration in American labor brought cheers and amens from almost all the nation's wage earners.

Against the Enemy
Said Mr. Murray: "I'm not going to protect small cliques of men whose interests are promoted and propagated by the Daily Worker and the Communist party." As if in answer, the CIO gave its leaders the power to clean out those few leftists who give "slavish adherence" to Communist dictates.
For years, Communist Russia has worked for undercover power in all countries. Also, it has been the Russian policy to stir up trouble between labor and management, wherever and whenever this could be done. Along with this, the drums of propaganda pound out the command to "revolt." There are aroused strong class feelings and hates that cloud up the issues. Nobody, then, is able to think things out around the conference table. Organized labor is dead, whenever Communism gets hold.

Not Russia's Tool
The CIO has delivered an ultimatum to Russia. The CIO has let it be known that America is doing all right without any "dictatorship of the proletariat." It has served notice that American labor will not permit itself to be used as a tool to accomplish Russian conquest of the world. It has said to the Communist party: You can't camp here while waiting for the revolution and turmoil that you hope will give you a chance to take over!

My thanks to Mr. Murray and the CIO convention! All of us know that Communism can bring nothing but ill to this troubled world, that so much needs peace. We know that our own American way is already delivering the goods to an extent that puts to shame all the Communistic promises, false as they are. When you think of it, it is amazing that any American would be a part in any scheme or plot to force upon us a way of life that adds up to nothing but slavery.

No Fooling Labor
I have confidence that the American people will not be fooled by anything the Communist propaganda mill can turn out. When we recognize the fruits of American enterprise that we enjoy, amidst all the freedoms and liberties that are ours daily, a man would seem like an utter fool to think of changing our system for something else. I am thankful that our labor unions are awake to their responsibilities along these lines. They must keep eternal watch!

I STILL DON'T LIKE IT, FRANKIE

By COLIN DELL

Frankie had big ideas but when he struck what he thought was real pay dirt, Louie rebelled, albeit meekly. Everything went smoothly enough, but that, as far as Louie was concerned, was what was wrong—it was too smooth.

FRANKIE LIBOLD switched off the ignition and the green sedan glided to the curb and stopped, only a few feet from the winding footpath in Jackson Park.

"How's that for timing, Louie?" he asked in a suave, cocky voice that matched his personality. "I told you the old boy's as regular in his habits as a night watchman. I ain't been clockin' him all week for nothin'."

Louie Ferencic eased a .38 automatic from his shoulder holster and dropped it into his right-hand coat pocket. He looked like an undertaker and talked like he looked. "I still don't like it, Frankie," he said slowly. "I still don't like it."

Frankie's hard black eyes gleamed contempt. He snorted derisively, then turned his attention to the figure advancing along the graveled footpath.

He was an old man, but his bearing was upright and dignified. His progress was leisurely and the reason was evident. It was a white cane he carried in his right hand. The tap-tap-tap of the metal-tipped walking stick rang clear in the afternoon air as the old man felt his way along the brick-bordered path. He was within ten feet of the car when Frankie Libold and Louie Ferencic closed in, one on either side.

"All right, gran'pop, just take it easy and do as you're told and you won't get hurt," Frankie Libold said. He prodded the old fellow with a blunt-nosed revolver. "Just keep on walkin' and act natural."

The blind man faltered for an instant and a shadow flicked across his face. Not fear, perhaps, but something akin to it. Then Louie Ferencic grasped his arm and urged him forward and into the car.

He remained silent during the forty-five minute drive to the west side, seemingly stunned by the unexpected. He allowed himself to be led to the second-floor hide-out without causing a disturbance. He sat quietly while Frankie Libold adjusted the handcuffs that shackled him to a low iron cot.

The two gunmen moved to a window overlooking the street and talked in low tones. "You and your hunches," said Frankie. He sneered at his morose associate. "It came off without a hitch, just like I said it would. And if this paper don't bring us a hundred grand my name ain't Frankie Libold."

"Maybe so," said Louie, "but I still don't like it." He shot a glance at the old man where he sat disconsolate on the bed. "I only hope his old lady keeps her head and leaves the G-men out of it."

The pair talked on in husky monotonous while they kept an eye on the cars crossing the busy intersection below. The bells of a Catholic church tolled the Angelus. Sounds began filtering up from the bowling alley on the first floor—the sharp click as the ball hit the polished surface of the alley, the echoing crash of the pins. The acrid exhalations of a varnish factory tainted the air.

Frankie Libold stretched lazily and suppressed a yawn. "I'm going out and get a paper," he told Louie. "Soon as I come back we'll get down to business."

He was back again in less than fifteen minutes, and he came in waving a newspaper. "She talked," he growled, tossing the paper to Louie. "Get a load of those headlines. 'RETIRED INDUSTRIALIST BELIEVED KIDNAPPED.'" Louie read. And in smaller print: C. M. Carter, blind millionaire, disappears during daily stroll in Jackson Park.

It was a two-column spread, complete with diagrams and indignant editorials.

Louie Ferencic dropped the paper in disgust. "Wha'd I tell you?" he demanded accusingly. "Now what are we going to do?"

"Do? Why, the same thing we started out to do, you idiot!" Frankie snapped. He walked to a table and picked up a plain sheet of typewriter paper. "Get him something to write on," he told Louie. "We'll get this ransom note done now and put it in the mail. She'll pay off or else."

Louie pulled an empty drawer from a dresser and laid it upside down on the bed. Frankie started to lay the paper on it, then drew back. "Can't you get anything better? This thing's got nails coming up through the bottom." His smoldering eyes raked across his unresponsive partner. "Skip it," he growled. "Just skip it."

He slapped the paper down on the rough surface and thrust a fountain pen into the blind man's hand. "Here," he took the hand and guided it to the paper. "Feel around on this so you can tell what you're doin', then write exactly what I tell you to write. And watch those nails, you're punching a hole in the paper."

The sensitive fingers of the retired industrialist explored the makeshift desk, then the pen in his hand came to rest at the proper point. Frankie began dictating—slowly, for the blind man seemed to have trouble finding a smooth surface to write on. He kept shifting and rearranging the paper, this way and that, but finally the note was completed.

Frankie Libold studied it carefully. "It's all full of holes from them nails," he announced finally, "but at least she'll know E's his handwriting."

He put it in a plain envelope, addressed it, and attached a special delivery stamp. "Take it over on the south side and mail it," he told Louie. "And be careful you're not picked up on the way."

A near-sleepless night left the kidnapers in worse spirits than ever. They snapped at each other like dogs. "Get out of here and get yourself some breakfast," Frankie ordered gruffly. "And don't be all day about it. I'm hungry too."

Louie Ferencic yanked his hat down low on his forehead and stalked out without a word.

Frankie stared after him, his face a twisted mask of hatred. He laughed deep in his throat. "Still don't like it, eh?" he muttered half to himself. "I'll give you something you'll like even less after we collect that hundred G's, and it won't be half the money, either."

He paced to and fro between the window and the door for a few minutes, then sat down at the table and began playing solitaire. He was arranging the cards for a second game when he heard footsteps in the hall outside. The door swung inward and Louie Ferencic stood framed in the opening. Then suddenly he came hurtling into the room catapulted by the foot of a man standing directly behind him.

"Don't shoot, Frankie!" Louie screamed as he fell. But he might just as well have saved his breath. Frankie Libold was covered by half a dozen guns before he had time to move.

Several of the plain clothes men frisked Frankie and relieved him of his gun and the handcuff key. Another, obviously in charge, crossed the room to the bed and released the blind man.

The old fellow was smiling in a pleased manner. "I see you got my message in time, officer," he said, seeking his rescuer with sightless eyes.

"We did, Mr. Carter, and I think that was a pretty clever idea, too—punching it in braille on the ransom note. All we had to do was locate a bowling alley on an intersection, with a Catholic church and a varnish factory in the same neighborhood, and that wasn't hard at all."

Louie Ferencic glared at his gaping partner. "You see?" he said spitefully. "I told you I didn't like it."

Woman's World Care, Clever Decorative Bits Can Freshen Up Your Wardrobe

By Erita Haley

AFTER THE HOLIDAYS, before the winter season comes to a close, you may take a look at your wardrobe and wonder just how you can make it do before it's time for new clothes.

You'll be happy to learn that a bit of care administered to the right spots, a new scarf or pair of gloves that adds color, or perhaps a new blouse that lifts the skirt out of the doldrums, are all that you'll need.

Now, before you get downright depressed about your wardrobe is the time to give them those refreshing touches. Check each garment methodically and see what it needs most. Then make out a schedule so that all the work can be covered in a few days or at least less than a week.

If dresses or coats, which have nothing particularly the matter with them, don't look just right to you, whisk them off to the cleaners. It's surprising what a difference there is between clean and unclean clothes!

If you've been giving your silk and rayon blouses a quick cleaning, plan to give them more attention in both washing and ironing

Flattering Beret

A sophisticated, forward beret of steel gray felt is designed for the season by Fagan hats. Cockades of pleated gray grosgrain are artfully placed to give height and flattery while the short veil gives a softness of effect.

like a fur collar and cuffs on it, or just the former.

Wide full skirts for teen agers will take on a new look if you place a wide piece of quilting at the bottom of the skirt. This is a very new touch and very effective.

Dresses that are not quite long enough might take a contrasting colored hem of grosgrain or some such material. Or, if you like the cuffed effect that is featured on so many skirts, use this piece of the same material as the skirt. Sew it on but place buttons around the hem so that it looks as though it were buttoned rather than sewed on the dress.

How to Refresh Your Woolens

Garments will take on new life if they are properly cleaned. If you can't give them a dry cleaning at home, then have it done professionally.

If the cleaning does not add life to them, here's what you can do. First, brush the garment thoroughly. Now turn it on the reverse side and place a damp cloth over it. Go over every inch, using a warm or moderately warm iron. Do not iron until the pressing cloth is dry, for the nap of the garment will not stand up as well as though you had just pressed it leaving the cloth only somewhat damp.

When fabrics have become slightly stiff from frequent washings, such as happens sometimes with rayons, there are ways to restore some of the original finish. Use gum arabic for rayons. Dissolve one tablespoon of the substance in one quart of warm water. Dip the fabric in the solution after regular rinse. Dry and prepare for ironing as usual.

Velvetens gain new life with this trick: take a piece of scotch tape and wind it around a glass with the sticky side up. Run this over the material, changing tape as soon as it gets dirty.

Both velvet and velvetens are refreshed by hanging in the bathroom and turning on hot water to create steam. This is the way to remove creases from them. Use the same treatment for hats of these materials.

Other Garments Need Special Attention

Sweaters sometimes get weary after long hard wear during the cool weather. If they have shrunk because of careless washing and are not thoroughly clean, have them done professionally as this will restore some of their original beauty.

You'll find that some sweaters will look better after washing and drying, if you go over them with an iron and a pressing cloth that is damp. Do this on the wrong side, just as you treat woolen clothing.

Gloves should come in for their share of mending and cleaning just as other pieces of clothing. Purses should be brushed weekly and have their spots removed as they appear. Have clasps and fasteners changed as they show the need for it.

Felt hats should receive a thorough brushing, and ornaments may be changed as they need freshening. Veils on any kind of hat take on new life if you lay the veil against waxed paper and press with a warm iron.

Shoes may be refreshed by the repair shop if you cannot take care of the finish at home. However, there are good suede and leather cleaners that can do admirably if used properly. Change bows and ornaments if these have been banged out of shape.

Most scarves can be washed just like clothing. Apply gentle laundering methods inasmuch as most of them are delicate.

Buttons, buckles and belts take a lot of wear, and if they are shabby, it's a small matter to change them for new ones rather than repair them.

Add fur to skirts . . .

departments and see how they flourish under your care.

If cottons are looking a bit peaked, see what a good sudsing and starching will do for them.

If buttons are weary, or lace or ruffles shabby, change these. All of these are minor repairs, it's true, but you'll be amazed at how really effective they are in many cases.

Tricks for Hems, Collars

Refresh Garments

Many a winter coat will take on new life if you change the collar or hem by adding new fur to it. This is especially true if the coat is not new.

High-standing, small collars are very popular on princess style coats. They don't take much fur, are easy to put on, and are very effective.

If you have a suit, this, too, might be smarter if you add a touch of fur to it. This may be circled around the hem or a few inches above it. It should be of a narrow flat type.

Should you desire to have fur elsewhere on the suit, consider trimming the jacket with it. You might Be Smart!

There are ever so many tricks in jewelry this season! For one, leading jewelers have dreamed up this switch from pendant to pin. Wear a gorgeous piece such as the gold leaf or the scintillating rhinestone sketched on a chain or a quaint black ribbon, round your neck for formal occasions, then remove it and anchor at the throat or at shoulder as a pin with your neck-hugging jerseys. The matching ear rings complete the ensemble, with comfort, thanks to their wingback constructions that anchor even the more massive designs easily and securely.

JOE'S CLOTHES

We might have called this "wise guise," if we hadn't been afraid you'd tell us to take off the hushes. Anyhow, it's about the fashions your favorite boys are wearing when they're not encased in those too bright shirts.

Corduroys in Color—Since our last survey of male modes, corduroy jackets have moved up into first place for sartorial honors. Formerly, the boys were wearing them in light tan only. Now, they've branched out and you girls swoon for those collarless style corduroy jackets in maroon, green or gray. What are they trying to do, anyway—steal your thunder?

Play the Game—The newest cotton knit T shirts for boys are printed in a tick-tack-toe design, with only one frame already made out. The idea is to beat him at his own game and you can use your lipstick to make the "Os" and "Xs." Guess he was jealous of your denim jacket with the checkerboard on the back and the checkers hanging on a key chain in front.

A Song on a Bare Bough

I HEARD a valiant cardinal
Dark-red against the winter dawn;
He whistled from a leafless tree
Upon a barren lawn.

The tiny dauntless splotch of red
Shot up a challenge straight and high:
A rocket-burst of silver stars
To shower a winter sky.

The little brave, intrepid thing,
A conqueror of cold and night,
He drenched the bare boughs suddenly
With color and with light:

A triumph and a victory
That I have come to understand.
I laughed, a broken laugh, and took
Life once more by the hand.

DIABETES FEATURES MIDDLE AGE YEARS

Despite the fact that modern medicine makes it possible for the diabetic to live out a normal life span in comparative comfort, diabetes continues to take the lives of hundreds of Texans every year.

The death rate from communicable diseases such as typhoid, malaria diphtheria and smallpox are decreasing throughout the country but diabetes continues to bring about a tragic number of deaths each year, especially in the middle-aged group.

The State Health Department said that until recent years diabetes was not noted as a major health problem but it became acknowledged as such when the development of medical laboratory procedures made the disease more easily diagnosed.

Diabetes is generally recognized as a class disease since it seems to attack the "white collar" class of indoor men and women much more frequently than it does the outdoor person whose work is more vigorous and calls for more exercise. Vocational and economic conditions apparently are predisposing factors in the incidence of the disease since it is a fact that those persons whose occupations call for manual labor and simple living are not frequently affected.

That means a new kind of riding ease and a new kind of driving ease heretofore reserved for owners of more expensive cars. Remember—only new Center-Point Design can give you all these finer motoring results; and only the new Chevrolet brings you Center-Point Design at lowest cost!

A Fresh Start for Labor
Our unions have been accused of "Communism" many times in recent years. Sometimes the charge has not stood up under close examination. At other times, labor organizations have faced the music and set about the job of cleaning out dangerous, un-American elements. A recent decision of the CIO rank and file to clean house is an example of the latter. Philip Murray and others helping in this unsavory task surely merit our full support.

Clever but Risky
Most of us little know what masters the Communists are at clever organization. They do make good union workers. If they can find a union whose leadership is untrained, or members uninterested, they know how to take over. The Communists want to use labor unions as outlets for their propaganda. They want new recruits. Naturally, they want to have access to union funds. From union treasuries can come paychecks for faithful, advance-agents of Communism!

Moreover, a union base for operations is just what the agents of Communism want most. This gives them a chance to see what they can do to insure failure of the enterprise system. With the reins of union leadership in their hands, it is no trouble at all to make excessive demands upon employers, to stir up unjustified strikes and slowdowns. Industrial espionage for Russia is easy then, and in case of war, sabotage can be undertaken.

Subversive Boast
These are some of the reasons why we must get behind Phil Murray and the CIO in their effort to oust fifth columnists from their unions. More than that, we must become acquainted with the ways of the Communist. You know, American Communists have boasted that a dozen non-Communists stand ready to do the work and the bidding of each party member. This means that well-intentioned persons may find themselves doing things just the way the Communists want them done.

We must be alert for the Communist attitude, as well as for the Communist himself. In every community, good citizens, we must watch for the fellows that want to sow discord and plant the seeds of strife. If there's honest disagreement, or differences of opinion, we are free to discuss these over the conference table. When we're unwilling to do that, we may be boosting the stock of the Communists in our own America.

Soils that are open, porous and moist are best for hydrangeas. Rich coast soils or black prairie soils may need the addition of chemicals to make it more acid. Three tablespoons of powdered alum in one gallon of water, sprinkled over a square yard or more of soil, will do the job.

Household Hints

Always remember that dark colors are slimming and a dark skirt will minimize large hips.

Pieces cut from an old felt hat or slippers and glued to the bottom of table legs will help prevent scratch marks on kitchen linoleum.

You can improvise shoulder covers to hang over dresses, in the closet with old pillow cases. Just make a slit in the closed end and slip over the hanger.

Save the peels of oranges and tangerines, dry them in the oven, and store in glass jars. They give puddings and custards a delicious flavor.

To line cake pans easily with wax paper, grease pan lightly, cover with a piece of waxed paper and insert another pan identical or nearly so. Trim off the edges.

In sewing braid or rick-rack on any kind of fabric, use scotch tape to hold firmly in place. When the machine work is done, simply peel off the tape.

Many people believe breakfast just isn't breakfast without a bowl of steaming hot cereal every morning. Dried fruits added to the cereal while it cooks gives it a most pleasant flavor.

To save frosting a butter cake, sprinkle the batter with finely chopped fibbers before baking; do not use on sponge type cakes since the batter is not heavy enough to hold the nuts and they will sink to the bottom.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Pies Are Perfect for Dessert!
(See Recipes Below.)

Favorite Pies
PIES ARE ONE of the favorite choices for dessert all over the country. This is really remarkable because all pies, whether served at home or elsewhere, are not always good. They're soggy and pale and their fillings are tasteless. However, whether you're making your first, twenty-first or your hundred and first pie, there's no reason for it to be anything but the best. Measure ingredients with standard tools, follow directions for mixing carefully, and bake properly, and you will have a pie that meets the test.

It isn't difficult to make a good crust; neither does it require extensive experience. You'll have to have good ingredients, carefully measured and not over-handled, however.

Regular Pastry
(Makes 2 9-inch crusts)
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup lard or shortening
3-4 tablespoons ice water

Cut fat into flour and salt until the mixture resembles coarse meal. It's best to use a blender or two knives so that the heat of the hands does not melt the fat. Add only the amount of water recommended in the recipe. Crust may be chilled before rolling, if desired. Do not use too much flour in rolling crust or the pastry will be tough.

Hot Water Pie Crust
(Makes 1 double crust pie)
1/4 cup water
1/2 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking powder

Bring water to a boil, add the shortening and stir until smooth. Sift measure and sift the flour. Add salt and baking powder. Combine the mixtures. Stir until smooth. Set away to chill for 12 hours.

Lemon Chiffon Pie
(Makes 1 9-inch pie)
1 tablespoon gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
4 eggs
1 cup sugar
6 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

Dissolve gelatin in cold water. Mix egg yolks and sugar in top of double boiler; add lemon juice. Beat well and cook over hot water until the mixture thickens. Add gelatin, salt and rind. Stir until gelatin is dissolved. Fold into this the well-beaten egg whites. Pile into a baked pie shell. Place in a cool place until the filling sets.

Banana Prune Pie
(Makes 1 9-inch pie)
1/2 cup butter or substitute
1/2 cup honey
Juice of 1/2 lemon
Grated rind of 1/2 lemon
2 cups cooked, chopped prunes
4 bananas, sliced
Whipped cream

Blend butter and honey. Add lemon juice and rind, then prunes. Arrange bananas in baked pastry shell, then cover with prune mixture.

Here's a light custard pie that may use as a crust simply small cookies such as vanilla wafers or chocolate drops, lining the bottom and sides of a nine-inch pie plate.

Orange Meringue Pie
(Makes 1 9-inch pie)
1/2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup heavy cream
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup water
1 1/4 cups orange juice
Grated rind 1 orange
24 small cookies
2 egg whites
4 tablespoons powdered sugar
6-8 orange sections

Combine and mix sugar and cornstarch. Add cream and egg yolks and mix thoroughly. Add water, orange juice and rind. Cook over hot water, stirring frequently, until thickened. Cover and cook for five minutes longer. Place cookies at bottom and sides of pastry tin. Fill with the orange custard.

To make the meringue, beat egg whites until stiff, add sugar gradually and continue beating until stiff and glossy. Pile meringue in spoonfuls on top of custard, top with orange sections and bake in a slow (325-degree) oven for 15 minutes.

Different Lemon Pie
(Makes 1 9-inch pie)
1 baked pie shell
6 egg yolks
6 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup sugar
Grated rind 1 lemon
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 egg whites

Meringue:
3 egg whites
6 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt

Beat yolks, add sugar, lemon juice, rind and salt. Mix thoroughly and cook over hot water until a soft custard is formed. Stir constantly. Cool thoroughly. Fold in stiffly beaten whites and pour mixture into baked shell. To make meringue, beat whites until stiff, then slowly add the remaining ingredients. Place in a moderate (350-degree) oven and bake for 10 to 12 minutes to brown meringue.

Coconut Custard Pie
(Makes 1 8-inch pie)
1 unbaked pastry shell
3 eggs, beaten
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1/2 cup coconut
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

No Greater Prophet

Lesson for January 23, 1949

Dr. Foreman
—or at least one so great that he could think of none greater—was one of his own contemporaries, a cousin of his who was in jail at the time when Jesus said of him, "Among those born of women none is greater than John." Known to us as John the Baptist, that is, John the Baptizer, we seldom realize either his greatness or the close connection between his life and that of Jesus.

John of the Jordan

WE DO NOT know how much Jesus himself owed to John. We do know that John was the man who first called the public's attention to Jesus. John it was who gave some of Jesus' most important disciples their first training; John who introduced to Jesus, and turned over to him, some of his own followers. It may be significant too that Jesus' first preaching was identical with that of John (compare Matthew 3:2 and 4:17).

Some Christian scholars have gone so far as to suppose that it was John's preaching that stirred the young carpenter from Nazareth to leave his shop and begin his great work as teacher.

Whether this is so or not, we do know that it was the baptizing by John which led to the baptism of Jesus, and that Jesus' baptism was the turning-point between Jesus' private life and his short and stormy public career. It is quite clear that if there had been no John the Baptizer, the story of Jesus would have been very different from what it actually was.

Only a Voice

JOHN'S own picture of himself is not a picture at all. When they asked him to say what he was, and half-expected him to declare that he was the Messiah, the long-looked for King, John said only, "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness."

John, so far as we know, never accepted dinner invitations, he was never under the roof of any friend, and he had no roof of his own. People even called him demon-possessed, he was so far removed from ordinary life.

But Jesus was always in people's homes. That is one reason why the greatness of John fades before the greatness of Jesus, for a Voice makes a poor companion. Jesus had the human sympathy that John lacked, and John well knew this. "He must increase, but I must decrease," he said.

Repentance: Seed and Fruit

NEVERTHELESS the Voice spoke truth. John must have been a powerful preacher, for his meetings were held miles from the nearest town, so that to reach him from Jerusalem one would have to travel through wild country infested with bandits. Few modern preachers, without benefit of advertising, music or choir, without even a tent, would dare to start a revival meeting 15 rough miles out of town. But John did—and the people came in crowds. We do not have the full report of his preaching that we have of the preaching of Jesus, but we do know that he broke the hard crust of his listeners' conscience.

He made them see how unfit they were for the Kingdom of God for which they prayed; he broke down their pride till they went down to the Jordan and were baptized under the open sky, in public confession of their sins.

When men asked him, What shall we do? John did not have the fuller, higher message that Jesus later had. But he did make plain two things about the good life, the life that pleases God: it cannot even begin without repentance and confession of sin, but it does not end there. Repentance is not a simple granite milestone on life's way; it is a seed which if it is real will bear fruit.

Household Hints

Always remember that dark colors are slimming and a dark skirt will minimize large hips.

Pieces cut from an old felt hat or slippers and glued to the bottom of table legs will help prevent scratch marks on kitchen linoleum.

You can improvise shoulder covers to hang over dresses, in the closet with old pillow cases. Just make a slit in the closed end and slip over the hanger.

Save the peels of oranges and tangerines, dry them in the oven, and store in glass jars. They give puddings and custards a delicious flavor.

To line cake pans easily with wax paper, grease pan lightly, cover with a piece of waxed paper and insert another pan identical or nearly so. Trim off the edges.

In sewing braid or rick-rack on any kind of fabric, use scotch tape to hold firmly in place. When the machine work is done, simply peel off the tape.

Many people believe breakfast just isn't breakfast without a bowl of steaming hot cereal every morning. Dried fruits added to the cereal while it cooks gives it a most pleasant flavor.

To save frosting a butter cake, sprinkle the batter with finely chopped filberts before baking; do not use on sponge type cakes since the batter is not heavy enough to hold the nuts and they will sink to the bottom.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Pies Are Perfect for Dessert!
(See Recipes Below.)

PIES ARE ONE of the favorite choices for dessert all over the country. This is really remarkable because all pies, whether served at home or elsewhere, are not always good. They're soggy and pale and their fillings are tasteless.

However, whether you're making your first, twenty-first or your hundred and first pie, there's no reason for it to be anything but the best. Measure ingredients with standard tools, follow directions for mixing carefully, and bake properly, and you will have a pie that meets the test.

It isn't difficult to make a good crust; neither does it require extensive experience. You'll have to have good ingredients, carefully measured and not over-handled, however.

Regular Pastry (Makes 2 9-inch crusts)
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup lard or shortening
3-4 tablespoons ice water

Cut fat into flour and salt until the mixture resembles coarse meal. It's best to use a blender or two knives so that the heat of the hands does not melt the fat. Add only the amount of water recommended in the recipe. Crust may be chilled before rolling, if desired. Do not use too much flour in rolling crust or the pastry will be tough.

Hot Water Pie Crust (Makes 1 double crust pie)
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon baking powder

Bring water to a boil, add the shortening and stir until smooth. Sift measure and sift the flour. Add salt and baking powder. Combine the mixtures. Stir until smooth. Set away to chill for 12 hours.

Lemon Chiffon Pie (Makes 1 9-inch pie)
1 tablespoon gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
4 eggs
1 cup sugar
6 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
Dissolve gelatin in cold water. Mix egg yolks and sugar in top of double boiler; add lemon juice. Beat well and cook over hot water until the mixture thickens. Add gelatin, salt and rind. Stir until gelatin is dissolved. Fold into this the well-beaten egg whites. Pile into a baked pie shell. Place in a cool place until the filling sets.

Banana Prune Pie (Makes 1 9-inch pie)
1/2 cup butter or substitute
3/4 cup honey
Juice of 1/2 lemon
Grated rind of 1/2 lemon
2 cups cooked, chopped prunes
4 bananas, sliced
Whipped cream

Blend butter and honey. Add lemon juice and rind, then prunes. Arrange bananas in baked pastry shell, then cover with prune mixture.

To make the meringue, beat egg whites until stiff, add sugar gradually and continue beating until stiff and glossy. Pile meringue in spoonfuls on top of custard, top with orange sections and bake in a slow (325-degree) oven for 15 minutes.

"Different Lemon Pie (Makes 1 9-inch pie)

No Greater Prophet

Lesson for January 23, 1949

"OF ALL the characters in history, which one do you admire most?" We know how Jesus answered that interested question.

He had a great array of personages from whom to make his selection. But he took as the Great Man of all time, up to his own generation, no heroic figure from the past, no king, general, scholar or prophet. The greatest man, for Jesus

—or at least one so great that he could think of none greater—was one of his own contemporaries, a cousin of his who was in jail at the time when Jesus said of him, "Among those born of women none is greater than John."
