Year's Projects Now Being Planned By Rotary Club

Almost an "all-club" program was presented to Rotarians and visitors Tuesday noon.

The Rev. W. B. Swim, pastor of the First Methodist church in Post, who is now engaged in a revival meeting at the local church, was a special guest of the club, and spoke briefly.

The highlight of the noon program, however, was the special quartet (picked secretly at the table) sprung suddenly by the director who sang "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Members of the hastily formed special were D. J. Bolch, T. Wells, Dr. J. M. Bubany and James Applewhite. Other Rotarians and visitors seemed to enjoy the singing immensely.

President Fletcher Johnson called on all Rotarians and interested persons to present their ideas of worthwhile projects during the coming year.

Several projects, vitally needed, have been suggested, among them regulation of traffic, especially automobile parking and speeding.

That the present lack of enforcement may cause serious injury, or death, was voiced by several Rotarians, and sentiment as expressed by the membership indicated that steps should be taken soon for some regulation.

An educational "Safety Campaign" at O'Donnell, involving all ages, and the co-operation of the state highway bureau, is being planned.

Negro's Career As Bank Robber Ends Quickly Following Theft at Local Bank

MASTER BILLY BOB HENDERSON MAKES HIS APPEARANCE IN O'DONNELL

It's a boy at the Fred Henderson home.

Master William Robert (Billy Bob) until about 16 years from now) made his arrival in O'Donnell at the age of three weeks Monday, bearing the scales down lightly less than seven pounds upon his arrival, but most people gain after residing on the bracing South Plains, so should Billy Bob.

The future football quarterback made the trip back to O'Donnell from Fort Worth in A-1 shape, following his adoption by the Hendersons.

Scores of visitors have already called upon the young man, and pronounced him a really "pretty baby." How he'll hate that appellation 16 years from now.

And the Honorable Fred is doing nicely.

Court Works On Annual Budget

TAHOKA, Aug. 14 (Special) —

All members of the court were present: County Judge Chester Connolly, Mrs. W. O. Henderson, Lonnie Williams, Waldo McLaurin, and Leon Jennings.

JAMES GATES ACCEPTED AS AVIATION CADET

Lubbock, Aug. 14 (Special) — James W. Gates, O'Donnell, passed his physical examination for Aviation Cadet before the Board had a at Lubbock, and will report next week for his mental examination at El Paso. This examination must be taken in view of the fact that he does not have the required 60 hours of college work.

J. D. Stewart Jr., O'Donnell, who also had made application for Aviation Cadet before the Board had a slight eye defect which must be corrected but he has every chance of passing next time he is examined.

ENJOY FISHING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hoffman and small daughter, Helen Jean, returned Sunday night from a fishing trip to Rockport.

That he had caught fish, plenty of fish, Hoffman didn't deny, and unlike so many of the anglers, he brought fish back to prove his skill.

Off the record, however, Mrs. Hoffman caught a few, but that fact won't spoil the stories told by Charles. Or will it?

Too much activity on the part of an officer, plus the help of several young men down town late at night, spelled trouble for one L. C. Jones, 35-year old negro, and his career as an up and coming bank robber was halted for a time.

James had scant trouble in effecting his entrance into the bank shortly after twelve Sunday morning via the skylight, and although his haul of small change netted only about $50, he was making his getaway when his surprised eyes noted that light from several cars were focused on the bank building and adjacent buildings, by arrangement of John Johnson, night marshal.

Johnson had also stationed several young men at various places and there remained little of anything for the negro to do except come down off his lofty perch and be taken into custody.

Johnson quickly haled the negro before Justice George Foster, who, as quickly billed him, and the marshal ended the night's episode by carting James to Tahoka jail.

James had been employed at the D. L. Adcock farm in Dawson county, and officers say they understand he has served two previous prison terms.

New Manager Of Poultry Firm

Norman Hoback of Lamesa assumed management of the O'Donnell Poultry & Egg Company Monday, and through the Press has extended an invitation to the public to visit the poultry house and become acquainted.

Courteous, accurate and speedy service is to be Hoback's policy, he says.

WORLD EVENTS

World events seem to be moving in more satisfactory fashion these days. One cannot help hoping that sometime before long we may read that people who once thought that war was the only way to bring about satisfactory solutions to world difficulties may have reached the conclusion that there are possibilities of mutual co-operation. Acceptance of the fact that we are dependent upon each other, not only as individuals but as nations, for our well-being and that the ultimate solution of world problems will require a willingness to agree to this precept, seems the first step forward toward a peaceful world.

In these closing days of the International Student Service institute in Eastport, Maine, the question of the way to make democracy meet not only our own needs, but world needs, has been discussed by Dr. Eagleton and the students. Much interest and real thinking on the problem, I hope, will result.

I have, of course, spent a very short time with this group of young people and I have nothing whatsoever to do with the running of the institute. But one finds oneself receiving certain impressions. I have found first that after five weeks of hard work there is no real lessening of interest in the study of what democracy means and of how, as individuals, we can function to make democracy meet the needs of all the people.

FINE LEADERSHIP

Dr. Neilson has made a deep impression on all of us. Perhaps the students who have been under his direction at Smith college will understand what I mean when I say that these young men and women have sensed the benediction of his presence. It is character that really gets across to other people and there has been a recognition of the fineness and the gentleness of a human being who has lived up to his ideals and used his abilities to the utmost. Example is far better than precept.

In addition, I think Mr. Joseph Lash, who has really done the day-by-day management of detail and curriculum on which hangs much of the success of an undertaking such as this, has gained the respect and the affectionate co-operation of all the young people under his care in a way which is only possible when there is realization of a fine spirit. People grow through experiences, if they meet life honestly and courageously. This is how character is built and young people recognize this ability to grow in those with whom they come in contact.

YOUNG PEOPLE

I wonder if any of you read an article in a recent issue of the magazine, This Week, on the attitude of young people towards the difficulties of the present day? It voiced so well the feeling of many men who resent one of the questions which certain groups of young people are apt to put before their elders—namely:

"We are ready to defend democracy if we know what democracy really means to us. Our generation, to a very great extent, has grown up under dark skies with sometimes scant food, rather little schooling and no recreation. When we were supposedly ready to strike out for ourselves and look for an opportunity to work, as we had been told Americans should do, we found nothing available."

The article points out that in many ways the pioneer days were just as hard, that Henry Ford and Thomas Edison worked long hours for scant pay and, therefore, though it may be difficult, still if you have the will to succeed you will succeed.

I think there is a great deal to be said for that point of view. There are a good many young people who believe they are entitled to work at the things they wish to do, and not just at anything which comes to hand. There are other young people who, when they find themselves in an un congenial occupation, are not able to put the best they have into that occupation or use spare time to develop, through reading or other contacts, their real interests.

Even when this has been acknowledged, one still has to face the fact that youth has been a part of the whole situation which denies people willing and able to work an opportunity to do so. There is no use discussing whether it is harder for the head of a family or an 18-year-old boy to be without a job. Both have a right to believe there is something wrong with a civilization which cannot find ways of providing work, when all around them they see the need for their skills and their professions.

MAINE'S THINKING

Maine is so remote that many of the affairs of vital interest to other people in the country may mean little here. But the Battle of the Atlantic is very close to these people. They see the ships being built. They have known men of the navy and they understand the life and the risks of the sea which are simply augmented in times of war. Airports are being built in Maine, so the people are alive to the possibilities of air attack, as those living farther away from the sea cannot possibly be.

'Holding Up the Works' at Shipyards

Part of the 14,000 shipyard workers of the Federal shipbuilding plant are shown here standing idle outside the plant at Kearney, N. J., after having been called out by the C.I.O. In the meantime $373,000,000 in defense shipbuilding work came to a standstill. Two cruisers, six destroyers, three tankers and two cargo boats are on the ways at this plant.

Russian City Aflame After Bombardment

The German caption merely calls this spectacular picture of a city in flames "the burning of Dunaburg." Dunaburg is the Russian city of Dvinsk in White Russia. It was once a great artillery center for the Russian army. "Nothing but the complete annihilation of the Soviet forces will end the Russo-German war" is the conclusion reached in military circles in Berlin.

Unloading Silk From Japanese Ship

In this soundphoto longshoremen are shown unloading silk from the Tatuta Maru, Japanese merchantman, at San Francisco, Calif. The cargo, valued at $2,500,000, is being shipped by rail to New Jersey, where it will be stored pending the outcome of libel suits filed against NYK Lines, owners of the Tatuta.

New U. S. Fighter in Flight

Il Duce Son Killed

One of the most recent photos of Bruno Mussolini, 23-year-old son of Premier Benito Mussolini, who was killed in an air accident at Pisa, Italy. An officer in the Italian air force, young Mussolini flew in the Ethiopian campaign, and with the Italian "volunteers" in the Spanish civil war. No details of the air accident were given.

Winners

A Fast One

Streamlined San Diego, one of the speediest cruisers ever built for the navy, launched at the Bethlehem Steel company's Fore river plant, Quincy, Mass. Bearing some resemblance to a destroyer, the new light cruiser has no raised forecastle.

Traveler Had Route Map For All Who Would to See

The man sat still as the fortune-teller read his palm. "See that line?" asked the mystic, pointing to the fellow's palm. "Yes, I see it," he returned. "What does it mean?" "It means," said the fortune-teller, gravely, "that you are going to take a trip in the very near future. To Chicago, perhaps." Leaving the fortune-teller the man headed for the railway station. "A ticket to Chicago, please," he said. "Right, sir," replied the booking clerk. "Single or return?" The fellow stuck out his palm. "I don't know," he said. "Take a look!"

YOU BUY INOCULATION ON FAITH

Field tests have shown a big difference in the quality of inoculator brands on the market. You cannot see the legume bacteria you purchase. Immediate demonstration is impossible. What is the reputation and experience behind the inoculation you buy?

- NITRAGIN is the ORIGINAL LEGUME INOCULATOR, having served the farmers for over forty years. It won a GOLD MEDAL at the World's Fair, St. Louis, 1904.
- NITRAGIN is made in the most complete and modern laboratory of its kind in the world.
- NITRAGIN is the leader in its field by a big margin. NITRAGIN demand in the South has rapidly increased year after year. During the fall of 1940 the Southern shipments of NITRAGIN were for more than 45 million pounds of VETCH and WINTER PEAS. This large demand is due to many field tests carried on year after year. We prove by three tests that NITRAGIN is a good product.

Send for our booklet "Plant Legumes to Prosper," showing pictures of field tests and how NITRAGIN is made. The booklet also gives you valuable information regarding the inoculation of legumes. If your dealer does not have NITRAGIN in stock, have him get it for you. Insist on NITRAGIN inoculation.

for MODERN living

In the early days, medicine show quacks sold crude oil for a dollar a bottle as a cure for all human ills.

Today hundreds of essentials for modern living are made from oil. It supplies heat for the home. It provides power for the Nation's machinery and transportation. It lubricates the gears of industry. It furnishes fuel for your car. It has shortened distances to make our Nation one big community.

America is safer today because of petroleum. The oil man's initiative and enterprise have made available to the United States the world's largest supply of petroleum.

In all this, Texas plays a leading part. Last year we supplied 36 per cent of all the Nation's oil, and now have over half of the Nation's oil reserves.

You and every American live more comfortably and safely today because of Texas petroleum.

THE STORY SO FAR:

Dusty King and Lew Gordon had built up a vast string of ranches. King was killed by his powerful and unscrupulous competitor, Ben Thorpe. Bill Roper, King's adopted son, was determined to avenge his death in spite of the opposition by his sweetheart.

CHAPTER XXII—Continued Jim Leathers, in spite of his warning to Kane, made no effort to move out of the light. Standing square in the door, he drew his gun. A bullet splintered into the casing beside him as the report of a carbine sounded from somewhere beyond.

For a moment the eyes of Kane and Leathers questioned each other. "Dry Camp Pierce," Kane said. "Naturally."

"If it don't beat hell that they should land in at just this minute—" Leathers was very cool and quiet now. Deliberately he pulled on his sheepskin. "Get out the back, untie the ponies and get your man aboard."

"Jim, seems like we stand a better chance here, way we are, than running in the open, what with—" "They'll burn us out if we try to hold. Get going, you!"

Dragging Roper after him, Kane plunged into the dark of the back room. He swore as he rummaged for his rifle, his sheepskin.

Leathers neither swore nor hurried. Moving deliberately, he blew out one lamp, hobbled across the room to the other. Then all hell broke loose at once.

The single frosted pane of the ten-inch window at the end of the room smashed out with a brittle ring of falling glass. In the black aperture appeared the face of a boy, pale and wild-eyed, so young-looking that he might almost have been called a child.

Jim Leathers, staggering backwards as if he had been hit with a log ram, fired once, from the level of his belt. The face vanished, but a moment after it was gone the hand that held the gun dangled limp within the room. Then the gun thudded on the floor, and the lifeless hand disappeared.

As Leathers went down, a broken roar of guns broke out in the storeroom. Leathers groped for his gun, tried to rise, but could not.

Roper, who had been dragged into the dark storeroom by Red Kane, felt the swift sting of the wind as the back door was smashed open, and was able to tear free as the guns began. He stumbled over piled sacks, and flattened himself against the wall.

The dim flicker of the match was augmented to a steady glow as a lantern was found and lighted. Roper did not recognize the other man in the room—the cowboy who had lighted the lantern with one hand, his smoking six-gun still ready in the other.

The stranger stooped over Old Joe. "You hurt bad?" "It's only my laig, my laig."

The other stepped over the inert body of Kane to the door, and surveyed the silent kitchen. "Jim Leathers! Somebody got Jim Leathers, and got him hard!"

He stepped back into the rear room. "You're Bill Roper, aren't you? Where's the others?" "There aren't any others. They all went out on Dry Camp's trail, after his raid day before yesterday."

"No others here? You sure?" "Kane and Leathers are the only ones here."

Bill Roper started to say, "Jody, how on earth—" Jody did not seem to see him; she appeared to be thinking only of the slim youngster whom the cowboy carried. The cowboy laid the limp figure on the floor of the kitchen, ripped off his own neckerchief and spread it over the youngster's face.

Jody Gordon methodically shut the door. Then she dropped to the floor beside the fallen youngster, lifted his head into her lap, and gave way to a violent sobbing. The high-keyed nervous excitement that had sustained her through the hard necessities of action was unstrung abruptly, now that her work was done; it left nothing behind it but a great weariness, and the bleak consciousness that this boy was dead because of her.

Roper and the King-Gordon cowboy stood uncertainly for a moment. Then the cowboy picked up Leathers where he lay struggling for breath, carried him into the back room and put him down on a bunk. For a moment he hesitated; then closed the door between the two rooms, leaving Jody alone.

"Seems like the kid got Jim Leathers; but Jim Leathers got the kid." "Daid?" Old Joe asked. "Deader'n hell! Jody takes it awful hard."

The cowboy cut loose Bill Roper's hands, and together they lifted Old Joe onto the other bunk. Roper cut Marquita free.

"Get me that kettle of water off the stove," Bill Roper ordered Marquita; and when she had brought it he said, "Now you go and keep Miss Gordon company for a little while."

Marquita left them, closing the door behind her. Old Joe kept talking to them in a gaspy sort of way, as they did what they could for his wound.

"The kid was scared to death to come. Jody seen that, and tried to send him back, with some trumped-up message or something. Naturally he seen through that and wouldn't go. Now most likely she blames herself that he's daid. Lucky for us that Leathers' main outfit wasn't here."

"You mean just you three was going to jump the whole Leathers outfit, and the Walk Lasham cowboys, too?" "Not three—four," Old Joe said. "Don't ever figure that girl don't pull her weight. We been laying up here on the hill since before dusk. She aimed we should use the same stunt you used at Fork Crick—bust into 'em just before daylight. Then somebody fires off a gun down here, and she loses her haid, and we come on down. It was her smashed her horse against the door, trying to bust it in. She blindfolded him with her coat—threw it over his haid—and poured on whip and spur, and she bangs into the planks. Broke his neck, most like; can't see why she wasn't killed—"

"Just you four," Roper marveled, "were going to tackle the whole works, not even knowing how many were here?" "We tried to tell her it couldn't be done. But you can't talk any sense into a woman, once she gets a notion in her nut."

CHAPTER XXIII Marquita, closing the door of the storeroom behind her, for some moments stood looking down at Jody Gordon.

Jody still sat on the floor, upon her lap the head of the boy who had Thorpe's men. Leathers' girl, Marquita, loved Roper. She made a desperate effort to save him but was soon overpowered. The men were dragging Roper outside to hang him when they heard the sound of running horses.

downed Jim Leathers. The sobs that convulsed her were dying off now, leaving her deeply fatigued, and profoundly shaken.

"You might as well get up now," Marquita said. Her soft Mexican slur gave an odd turn to the blunt American words she used. "The fight's over; and that boy you've got there is dead as a herring."

With a visible effort Jody Gordon pulled herself together, and gently lowered the head of the dead boy to the floor. She got up shakily, and for a moment looked at Marquita.

"Why did you come here?" Marquita asked at last. Her voice continued gently curious—nothing more.

"I knew Billy Roper was alive," Jody told her. "Because I was watching when Leathers left Fork Creek with him. I already knew they meant to take him to Ben Thorpe at Sundance, for the reward. That would be death, to him. And I knew they meant to stop over here on the way. So I got the boys, from our Red Butte camp, and I come on . . ."

"You are a very foolish little girl," Marquita said. "Luck saved you; but if this camp had been full of men, it would have been suicide." "Wouldn't you have done the same?"

Marquita shrugged impatiently. "I feel very sorry for you," she said. "Why?" "Because I think you are in love with this Billy Roper."

"Es claro," Marquita said. "It is plain. And it's a pity; because this kind of man is not for you."

At first Jody Gordon did not answer. But behind the softness of Marquita's voice was a cogency as strange as her American words—a cogency that would not be ignored. Here Jody found herself facing a woman whom she could not possibly have understood. Marquita's careless, even reckless mode of life, her uncoded relationships with men—there was not an aspect of Marquita's life which did not deny every value of which Jody was aware.

Marquita appeared to thrive and flower in a mode of life in which Jody incorrectly believed she herself would have died.

"I don't understand you." Marquita's glance swept the room—the bare chinked walls, the dead boy. Her glance seemed to go beyond the door, where they were dressing Old Joe's wound; beyond the walls, to the cold wind-swept prairie, where men still rode this night, though morning was close.

"What do you know," she said—"what can you know of the lives of these men?" Jody lifted her head, then, and looked at Marquita; and again the simple words and the mask-like face of Marquita seemed to have a meaning for which she groped. In the silence that followed, it came to Jody that the night's fighting was not yet over, that she must still fight for herself and for Bill—and somehow for that foolish house in Ogallala, with its tall tower overlooking the plain.

"Do you ride with them?" the gentle, inexorable voice went on. "Do you share their blankets? Do you ride under their ponchos in the rain? Where are you when their guns speak? Who prays for them at dawn, knees down in this God-forsaken snow?"

Marquita paused, and her body swung, lazily assured, across a shadowy angle of the room toward the closed door that had hid Roper, working now over the wounded men, the doorposts and it seemed to Jody, watching her, as if Marquita were a barrier between what might have been Jody's, and that she had lost now.

"You don't have to bar the door," she said. Marquita's hands came away from the doorposts. "I know I don't."

The words were so indolently cadenced that they might have been spoken in Spanish. And at their soft assurance something awoke in Jody Gordon . . . Something was still working fighting for. Perhaps it had nothing to do with Bill Roper, but it flowed deep into the roots of her life; deeper than her life with one man—with any man—could ever flow.

As Jody looked at Marquita, strange things came to her, that she herself could not have put into words. She knew that Marquita and all her kind would presently pass. Perhaps Bill Roper, like all the rest of his bold riders, must also pass; but now suddenly Jody knew that whatever else might vanish from this prairie, what she herself stood for would remain. When she spoke at last, she scarcely recognized her own voice. "I guess I was wrong," she said. Her words had a strange echo of Marquita's own directness. "You're Bill Roper's girl—is that what you wanted to tell me?" The dance hall girl's words fell softly. "Si, that is what I wanted you to know."

"Now you go and keep Miss Gordon company."

In another column we mention the fact that Charles Hoffman has returned from a fishing trip — and brought enough fish back to prove his skill. Or someone's skill, anyway.

What we didn't say in the news story is that we had the pleasure, the delectable pleasure, socially speaking, of sampling some of the fish.

Charles told us to "have our wife come over and get some fish," but alas and alack, we had to inform him that she left Saturday for Oklahoma and would be gone weeks and weeks. We thought first of saying nothing, but knew he would find out our duplicity.

But Charles was kind—told us to get a mess anyway.

Monty Montgomery at the Eagle Cafe offered to fry them for us, and we accepted. Of course, we could have fixed 'em up, but why dirty a lot of pans and skillet—they'd have to be washed.

Monty went to town on those fish. Brown and crisp just the way we wanted them. White, flaky meat. Monty set out cornbread, butter, tomatoes, onions, pickles and French fries.

But brother, we like fish and there was no one to say us nay. When we eat fish, we eat fish. Oh, we ate a few of the potatoes and a bite of butter, but mainly we ate fish.

We thought of many good friends while eating, but not enough to halt the fish consumption. In our minds, we could hear our better half saying "use your napkin," "eat something else." But we were parked in a booth and few saw us. We used a napkin when we thought of it, which was seldom, but when we ate fish we like to go after it as our ancestor Adam did—his fingers and teeth.

We never cared for chicken until Guy Bradley barbecued it (and does he know HIS stuff). Guy knows what a pig we made of ourself on barbecued chicken, but when it comes to the eating of fresh fish, fried right, we just unbutton the belt and go whole hog.

A lot of us think we know of interesting things to tell, but as wise men know, when we keep silent we generally find out interesting things about others.

INKSPOTS—Ben Moore says we lost a pony, but we think it was his . . . Got a kick out of the things B. L. Davis was telling us of what happened way back yonder in Archer county about 1907—the buggy rides of the woo pitchers (spooners in those days) and the riding of the excursion from Archer to Whiskeyta Fall to celebrate the opening of the railroad. We remember it all, and how guilty we felt when we drank some cider . . . And that brings on thoughts of the old time days when the whole community had a picnic, and neighbor shared with neighbor. Don't tell us people were not happier then . . . These youngsters may think riding in a car, jitterbugging to a jukebox is fun, but boy, that old flying jenny, the merry-go-rounds, the pink lemonade and the flirting was plenty fun, too . . . Wonder if the parents of the sweet young thing inspires terror into the heart of the young gallant of today? Remember when you had rather take a beating than to march up and say "howdy de do" to her papa? And how you guarded your language downtown in his presence for fear he would think you were fast—and forbidding her to see you? Of course you do! . . . And another thing, while watching the young man of today honk for curb service, we'll betcha he's never felt the lordly manner most of us had when we rode the train and halted the newsbutch to make a purchase. It was rather devilish, however, to leave the chair car where the ladies sat and walk to the smoker . . . Too, the youngsters of today see many sights we never saw in days before the war (1917 and thitherward), but they have never seen a real drummer arranging his samples at the hotel for the merchant's benefit, and in the cool of the evening see those traveled gently standing in front of the hotel jingling silver dollars—and ogling the girls! Agent Suggests

Measures For Worm Control

By Donald Turner,
Lynn County Agent

Calcium arsenate is recommended for the control of the cotton leaf-worm applied at the rate of 3 to 5 pounds per acre, depending on the degree of infestation and the size of the cotton. This material may be either dusted or sprayed. If a spray is used, three pounds should be mixed with 50 gallons of water. However, due to the shortage of material, it is practically impossible to obtain calcium arsenate at this time. Therefore, a substitute may be used.

Lead arsenate may also be used in controlling leafworm, applied at the same rate per acre as calcium arsenate, though it kills much slower. This material also may be dusted or sprayed. If dusted the dusting qualities may be improved by adding lime or talc. If this material is to be used as a spray, two pounds should be mixed with 50 gallons of water.

Paris Green may also be used. As a dust it should be mixed with flour to increase adherence and with hydrated lime to offset the danger of burning in the following proportions: 1 part Paris Green, 1 part flour, 5 parts hydrated lime.

If Paris Green is used as a spray, one-half pound should be mixed with two pounds of hydrated lime in 50 gallons of water. Paris Green mixtures should be thoroughly agitated.

The application of white arsenic is almost sure to seriously damage the plant and is not recommended unless the person is experienced in using it. However, farmers have learned by experience that a very weak solution of this and applied as a very fine mist will destroy leaf-worms with a minimum damage to the cotton crop.

The following directions are not to be understood as advising the use of the material, but only as passing on a formula which others have found useful.

In making the mixture, one pound of white arsenic is placed in a kettle with the addition of two pounds of sal soda and four gallons water. This mixture is boiled for 30 minutes, or until the liquid is clear and all crystals dissolved. Since some of the water will boil away add enough cold water to make exactly four gallons. This is the stock solution and is too strong to apply to plants.

When ready to spray, two quarts of this stock solution should be added to 50 gallons of water and applied with a sprayer capable of producing a very fine mist. The sprayer should be operated rapidly so that the solution does not gather in drops.

This formula for the use of white arsenic is given with a warning and without assuming any responsibility for results. It should be thoroughly understood that the cotton grower is using this material at his own risk.

FOURTH: Equip yourself with lots of good strong words such as "Damn," "Oh Hang," and the like to use on the joints where the grease doesn't want to come through. Keep using these words until the grease comes out on the other side.

FIFTH: Buy yourself a complete set of wrenches to use on the cases that must be opened to inspect the lubricating supply inside. Also some new skin to graft on your knuckles when the wrench slips.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

British See Far East 'Squeeze Play' In Japan's Attitude Toward Thailand; Nazis Claim Big Victories Over Reds; Mussolini's Son Killed in Air Crash

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Here's a striking contrast in the modes of fighting equipment. According to the Berlin caption the picture shows a German horse-drawn artillery piece racing past a burning Soviet tank somewhere along the Russ-Nazi battle lines of the eastern front.

CONGRESS: Big Work

Three bills of huge importance were before congress, and although passage for all was predicted, the importance laid as much in what their final form would be as it did in whether or not they would become law.

These were the tax bill, the draft-extension bill, and the price-fixing bill, the latter linked inseparably with the "draft-industry" bill.

The tax bill, it was apparent, would be voted into existence minus the requirement that all married couples file joint income tax returns. Roughly, this will cut $250,000,000 off the yield of the law, which will then have a ceiling of about $3,200,000,000.

This is to be divided, roughly, into a billion for income taxes; a billion for miscellaneous and special taxes; and a billion and a third for corporation income taxes, a small balance coming from gift taxes.

The draft extension bill showed the opposition to the administration losing one battle after another, but reforming their lines with more support after each defeat.

When the administration's resolution calling for an extension of present draft terms by 18 months was brought to a vote, the senate passed the measure by a vote of 45 to 30. This meant that total term of draftees, National Guardsmen and reserve officers would all serve a total of 2 1/2 years. The bill went from the senate to the house following the vote.

The price-fixing and draft-industry bills were chartered along a more difficult course. The latter passed the house, but immediately there started in the opposition press a battle, claiming that there was a threat to the freedom of the press and freedom of speech through radio—as these businesses, too, might be seized by the government.

As to price-fixing, Leon Henderson seemed the center of this fight, and many in congress declared they would feel more kindly toward the bill if they felt more confidence in Henderson's ability to carry it out. Indeed, the house appointed a special committee to oversee the enforcement of this legislation.

JAPAN: Warned Again

London warned Japan that if she moved against Thailand in any way, she would find that Britain would consider such a move as a definite threat to Singapore, and would act accordingly.

This was seen as a sort of confirmation that the British are sending expeditionary forces of occupation into Siamese territory, and that any Japanese effort to cut the Burma road will bring the world war to the Far East.

The statement came from Foreign Secretary Eden, making it in the house of commons. It had been rumored that 100,000 British troops would be sent to Thailand from eastern bases, and that a considerable British fleet already was in those waters.

And it also was believed that Japan was committed to move against Thailand by its agreement with the other Axis powers. This was visioned as part of a squeeze play against India.

Eden said: "Every fresh move on the part of Japan naturally has the result of bringing China and ourselves closer and closer together.

"That friendship and that collaboration with China will continue and I pray that it will grow.

"Men and materials are pouring out to strengthen our forces in the Middle East for their next forward plunge, and these will strike their blows for the independence of the countries in the Middle East as much as for our own independence."

DEATH: To a Youth

From Rome came the report that Bruno, the second son of Benito Mussolini, had been killed in an air crash while on a plane testing flight near Pisa. He was 22 years of age and ranked as a "Captain of Aviation." He had seen action in three wars. In Ethiopia, in the Spanish war and in the present war he had engaged in what Italian sources described as "daring" and "risky" actions.

GERMANY: Makes Claims

The Germans, who had been pictured fairly hopelessly stalled on the Eastern front, with the Reds growing in strength and in some points taking the offensive, came out finally with a statement in which they made the largest claims thus far.

They claimed 895,000 prisoners taken, and "many times more" in killed and wounded; the entire Russian resistance shattered; no semblance of order in the Red army; and pictured Moscow as without any clear picture at all of the situation, blindly believing its army still fighting.

When it came to giving details of places, the communique, while a lengthy one, was not very communicative.

But from it one could picture the front through the German eyes, with Smolensk, in the center, a sort of island of doomed Russian battalions, still holding out, although surrounded.

Leningrad, on the north, was a hopeless city, menaced from the south and the north, with another small "island" of surrounded Red troops still holding out in the vicinity of Tallinn, Estonia.

Kiev, on the south, was shown in this document as partially surrounded, with two huge pincers having pierced the Stalin line north and south of the city itself, which is an integral part of that line.

The claims were contained in four special communiques from the headquarters of Adolf Hitler himself, and were broadcast throughout the German nation.

RUSSIANS: Their Version

Completely ignoring the claims of the Germans, the Reds, admitting Nazi pressure on the south, say that they are counter-attacking and were using the same tactics "which threw the Germans back in the central front."

In fact, the Russian reports considered the front from Smolensk to Bel-Tserkov, a distance of 350 miles, as a single unit, rather than a definite pincer movement, and said that there was mobile fighting going on all along this front.

In fact, the Reds asserted they were holding the Germans in two other sectors, that of Kholm, 180 miles south of Leningrad, and on the Estonian front—where the Germans had claimed important advances.

The Russians also reported taking many prisoners, and revealed that many of them are either 17 years old or the older type reservists, showing that the Nazis are drawing heavily on their reserves.

BRAZIL: In Azores

The United States is secretly urging that Brazil take over the Azores islands, Portuguese possession, in the interests of Western hemisphere defense, Berlin had charged.

Although this was promptly denied in Washington, considerable prominence was given the dispatch, in that the question of the Azores was prominent in Washington's long range plan for defense of the Western hemisphere.

PETER ENCOURAGES SUFFERING CHRISTIANS

LESSON TEXT—I Peter 4:12-19; 5:6-11. GOLDEN TEXT—If any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God on this behalf.—I Peter 4:16.

"Sweet are the uses of adversity"—so says the poet, and it is true that God is able to make even the sufferings of man a source of blessing and an occasion for joy, "if a man suffer as a Christian" (I Pet. 4:16). In a world where sorrow and suffering have been heaped high by man's inhumanity to man, it is indeed appropriate that we think of the encouragement which God's Word gives to those who are in distress.

There are many helpful Scripture passages on this point, those before us today being from the writings of Peter to the Jews of the dispersion. Scattered abroad and no more under the guiding and protecting hand of Paul, Luke and the others, they were undergoing severe persecution for Christ's sake. Some were apparently disturbed by their trials, and Peter tells them that persecution should bring

I. No Surprise (4:12).

We ought to expect trials in this world; yes, severe fiery trials. Such things are common to all mankind, and the Christian should not expect to escape. To them, such trials are real tests of their faith, an opportunity to show to the unbelieving world that God is able to deliver those who put their trust in Him!

To be forewarned is to be forearmed. "Think it not strange concerning the fiery trial."

II. No Shame (4:13-16).

There are two senses in which the Christian is to be unashamed in the midst of suffering. In the first instance, he is not to be ashamed of the trial itself if he bears it for Christ's sake, for he is thus sharing Christ's sufferings. We cannot share in his substitutionary and sacrificial suffering on Calvary, but we can stand with Him who was indeed "a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief" (Isa. 53:3). In the second place, he is not to do anything which would justify others in making him suffer. It is a disgrace, a shame which injures the cause of Christ, when a believer has to suffer because he has broken the law, or because he is "a busybody (R. V. "meddler") in other men's matters." If you pry into others' affairs, expect to have your fingers stepped on, and don't expect God to deliver you out of it or honor you in that kind of suffering.

III. No Escape (4:17-19).

If the righteous find the difficulties and temptations in their way to be like fiery trials, if those who have the blessed presence of Christ to cheer and to guide them find it difficult at times to make their way through sorrow and sadness, what will the unbeliever do? Does he think that he shall escape? Surely not—and there is yet that day ahead when the believer shall enter into eternal peace, where sorrow and suffering shall be no more. Where will the unbeliever be in that day?

IV. No Worry (5:6, 7).

"Put care into Christ's bag," said George Herbert. "Treat your cares as you treat your sins. Hand them over to Jesus one by one as they occur, commit them to Him" (F. B. Meyer). He really cares about you—believe it and act upon it.

The cure for all worry is right there, but even as it is true that the meek shall "inherit the earth" (Matt. 5:5), so it is true that only the humble are ready to cast their cares on the Lord. "God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble. . . . Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up" (James 4:6, 10).

V. No Wavering (5:8-11).

"Steady, perfected and established in Christ, strengthened by His grace, sure of the eternal call, and with the eye of faith on the glory to come, such is the man who is able and ready to successfully meet the devil when, like a roaring lion, he seeks to disturb and devour God's people.

Satan is busy in our day. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith says: "It is admitted everywhere by outstanding Christian leaders, in every sphere of life today, that there has never been a time, at least in our generation, when the temptations of Satan have been so fierce, so frequent, so constant, as just now. What Satan wants to do is to destroy the testimony of God's people, to take them out of places of power and influence for the gospel, to rob them of that joy, and victory, and power, by which, through their labors, others will be brought to confess the Lord Jesus Christ. Christian people today who are conscious of being fiercely assailed by evil ought not to be alarmed, but should realize that this experience of theirs is general, everywhere, of true believers, and that there is sufficient grace for every need in such dreadful times as these."

"The Reluctant Dragon" released at last, Walt Disney has his full-length feature production [Name] completed. It's "Dumbo the Circus," and stars a baby elephant who becomes the world's greatest circus performer because it can fly. Have you been listening to Guy Lombardo's new Saturday evening program? He and the Royal Canadian Mounted have won no. 1 of popularity contests, so probably you've had them on your list of broadcasts that you don't want to hear since they began this season on August 2. [Name] plans to introduce at least one new number week-which he expects to be "the hit of tomorrow."

While Paramount's testing to find the right actress for the role of "Maria" in "For Whom the Bell Tolls," Ernest Hemingway, the author, cabled from Cuba that he's the perfect solution. She's a Cuban-Spanish girl who looks exactly like the heroine.

Raymond Massey didn't look so much like Abraham Lincoln he wouldn't have to wear a false nose. He wears it in the new DeMille picture, "Reap the Wild Wind." He plays a deep-dyed villain, but he wears the same kind of clothes he wears when he played Lincoln, and we have grown accustomed to making of Lincoln when we see him in clothes like that. So—his wearing a pointed extension on his nose, to make him look properly Lincoln.

The announcement that Frank Capra and Robert Riskin, his writing partner, would handle the screen version of "Arsenic and Old Lace" for Warner Bros. assured the public that the picture will be a good one. The sum of $175,000 was paid for the motion picture rights to this very successful and hilarious stage success, in which Boris Karloff returned to the stage.

Remember Singin' Sam? You should, though he's one of radio's most unpublicized stars. He's been on the air for 14 years, and his recorded programs are heard on more stations than any other program in America. In fact, it's estimated that he has more listeners than Jack Benny—about 8,000,000 a day, the year round; his "Refreshment Time" is heard over 227 stations daily.

DARING DESTRUCTION TEST

in Fearful Death Valley

Gives New oil a Plain Record for Long-Lasting Protection

Why 5-Quart fill—none added—lasted 13,398 miles... Certified

When you're wringing wet these days, just think of Death Valley. It holds the official U.S. record of 134° hot. Wild animals there rarely come out in the heat of day. You'll admit that's a hotspot for testing any motor oil. And that's exactly where 6 representative oils got a fair trial for their lives—to give you up-to-date certified mileage figures.

NEW CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL gave more than Twice the mileage averaged by all others tested

This Death Valley mileage record is today making sales records for Conoco Nth oil—popular-priced. And here's how this oil was proved for you in advance—by a daring Destruction Test:

6 identical new stock coupes were broken in alike. Test officials had checked engines, part by part, insuring uniformity. The Referee bought 5 big-name oils at retail. The other oil was the same new Conoco Nth that you can buy today.

The Referee put one strict 5-quart fill in each engine; locked it up tight. Never a drop could be added.

All cars ran 57 miles an hour—in the same Death Valley desert—on the same sizzling days. Drivers switched around to even up human factors. Impartial observers eyed every move—every mile.

CERTIFIED I hereby certify that the Death Valley Test and related work were thoroughly and fairly conducted. Engine Destruction occurred in each case at the mileage stated.

H. M. Jackson

Consulting Engineer, who during Academic year is Professor of Automotive Engineering, Purdue University

The finish came only as one brand of oil after another quit work entirely, causing final engine destruction. And Conoco Nth oil far outlasted all others; outlasted the runner-up by 5,683 miles; outlasted another by all of 8,268 miles. Conoco Nth outlasted the average of the 5 others tested by 7,057 miles... Certified.

Man-Made new Economy aid in Conoco Nth

In this patented oil there's an extra life-giver. Man-made. It's full name is Thialkene inhibitor—an inhibitor being something that does the job of keeping a thing in check. Now your engine's normal explosions can't help causing foul leftovers. These must be properly kept in check to keep them from making your oil "fester," get weak and pass out. But you know how Conoco Nth oil "beat the rap" in Death Valley. It stood up better . . . by as much as 161%. Of course you're not in the business of test-driving, doing all the most furious things. You just want to run every fill right up to as many miles as qualified authorities say is safe for your car. And without trying to "stretch it out," you still ought to save plenty on Conoco Nth. For you can figure by the record that Conoco Nth can take you a whole of a way between quarts. AND CONOCO Nth OIL OIL-PLATES YOUR ENGINE!

Long the keystone of Conoco success, OIL-PLATING comes from another great Conoco synthetic . . . man-made under the famed Germ Processed oil patent. By magnet-like action, OIL-PLATING is bonded to inner engine parts. Then it can't all drain down—not even overnight—not while you use Conoco Nth. So OIL-PLATING is on guard against wear in advance! . . . and helps mileage, as it did in Death Valley. An OIL-PLATED engine is one more economy you get from a change to popular-priced new Conoco Nth oil.
