Evangelist Hits
 Bottle in Moral
 Way at Meetings

WINONA LAKE, Ind.—About the last place you'd expect to see liquor bottles prominently displayed would be in a revival tent. But "converted" whisky bottles are a part of the evangelistic equipment used by the Rev. Curt Emmons. They form a musical instrument played at services by his 20-year-old daughter, Ethelee. She taps them with wooden sticks—vegetable-brush handles—bringing forth a ringing sound. Many liquor bottles are picked up, but few are chosen, for the ecclesiastical musical instrument. Emmons explained that perhaps as many as 250 are tried and found wanting before a bottle with the right musical tone is found. Ethelee began playing snare drums when she was 7. She has played various instruments at the services and took up bottles about eight years ago. The bottle that would be most difficult to replace is a piercing, high-pitched, half-pint gin bottle from London, England. It produces the highest note of the keyboard of some 27 bottle keys. Some of the bottles used for lower notes contain varying amounts of water. When a bottle is broken Emmons begins hunting around vacant lots and other likely spots for discarded bottles. The keyboard contains bottles from 12 different states including Kentucky. The labels have been removed. Amber bottles produce better tones than clear bottles—why, Emmons doesn't know nor could he account for the fact that only one of more than 200 bottles that look just alike is suitable for musical purposes. Emmons told of a drunk who staggered in to the meeting one night and came up to the front row, where he could get a good view of the bottles. After the sermon, he went to the altar and renounced whisky. "He walked out of that meeting as straight as you or I," Emmons said. "God sobered him up."

 Pound Note as Model

LONDON—Mrs. Garry, who is art instructor in a Yorkshire (England) prison, is extremely gratified with one of her pupils, A. F. Taylor. Given the right tools that talented student can produce, in half an hour, a pound note which amazingly resembles the original, the instructress says. However, this is what sent him up.

FORD'S GOT IT!

others just want it!

Yes, FORD OUTCLASSES EVERY 1954 COMPETITIVE CAR!

130-h.p. V-8

Ford's new 130-h.p. V-block V-8 is the only V-8 in the low-price field. And with low-friction design and deep-block construction, it's the most modern in the industry.

Ball-Joint Suspension

Ball-Joint Front Suspension is the most important chassis development in 20 years. For easier riding and handling. And Ford is the only low-priced car that has it.

Trend-setting styling

Ford's trend-setting styling has set the pace for the industry. It is forward-looking styling that's out front today and will stay attractive for the years ahead, too.

Highest resale value

Used car sales statistics show that recent-model Ford cars return a greater portion of their original cost than any competitive make of car.
