John Lee Smith Begins Runoff For Lieut.-Gov. Post

AUSTIN, August 5—Senator John Lee Smith, of Throckmorton, high man in the July 25 primary for Lieutenant Governor, issued the following statement last Saturday.

"According to late returns I am leading Senator Beck by over 35,000 votes. This is, of course, very gratifying to me. I am grateful to the many loyal friends throughout Texas who faithfully labored in my behalf. I had not a single paid worker. These friends carried my candidacy to the people. I trust always to be worthy of such confidence.

"The recent campaign was one between gentlemen. All my opponents were excellent and worthy men. There was no abuse and no bitterness.

"In the run-off campaign, I am sure the same high type of campaign will be conducted. Senator Beck is my friend and I am sure our campaign, though strenuous, will be pleasant."

"At 6:00 p. m., July 29, the figures in the Lieutenant Governor's race for the two high men were:
John Lee Smith 182,207
Harold Beck 146,423

Chevrolet Dealers To Assist In New Scrap Drives

More than 8,000 automobile dealerships in almost as many communities throughout the country will become collection depots in the government's scrap metal drive under a plan proposed today to Chevrolet dealers by William E. Holler, general sales manager of Chevrolet.

All Chevrolet dealers and their 50,000 employees have been urged by Chevrolet to enlist in the scrap metal drive, Mr. Holler said, embracing a group that in the past decade has been responsible for disposing of more metal in the form of cars and trucks than any other group of merchants in America.

"Already Chevrolet dealers have served their government faithfully on previous occasions," Mr. Holler pointed out. "Many dealers were collection agents in the rubber scrap campaign and they materially contributed in the promotion of that all-important activity. They, as well as many of their employees, not only are buying War Bonds regularly but they actually sponsored community War Bond rallies and thus contributed very directly to the raising of war revenues. At the present the entire Chevrolet retail organization is co-operating 100 per cent with the government's Office of Defense Transportation in the interest of preserving America's unexcelled transport carrier system and thus keep the nation's trucks rolling. This new drive will afford one further opportunity to serve the nation."

Six million tons of scrap metal is the objective set by the government's War Production Board.

In a personal letter to each dealer, Mr. Holler wrote: "A crisis exists in our war production program which can only be solved by the patriotic co-operation of the American people. Uncle Sam today is faced with a serious shortage of iron and steel, and this shortage must be filled by a nation-wide collection of scrap.

"Today scrap is ammunition—it's guns, it's planes, it's bullets, it's tanks — and these materials must be supplied to our fighting forces in invincible volume. We have been informed reliably that there is enough steel and iron on the farms, vacant lots, and in city homes that, if collected, would be sufficient when used with other materials to make double the world's number of battleships afloat today or enough 2,000 pound bombs to drop three per minute for three years.

"Collection of this scrap is an opportunity to manifest patriotic co-operation which I know Chevrolet dealers will welcome. Their places of business are centrally located in their communities and are generally well known. I believe they will be ideal scrap metal collection depots, and we are asking that all Chevrolet dealers join in this worthwhile endeavor."

Promotional material, including window posters, window trim suggestions, and working plans for the staging of a local scrap drive are being provided dealers by Chevrolet.

Estimated 3,000 People Hear Jimmy Allred In Lubbock

Securing the attention of his more than 3,000 listeners from his opening words, James V. Allred spoke in Lubbock Wednesday night in behalf of his candidacy for United States Senator in the run-off campaign.

Citing the records even as they exist today in Austin, the serious-minded Allred spoke for an hour and a half, and his crowd stayed with him to his last word.

An audience estimated at more than 3,000 sat or stood — most of them stood — almost transfixed, listening intently to catch every word of the speaker, interrupting him occasionally with cheers and applause. But it was a serious-minded audience that listened, not given to levity or hilarity.

In fact it was a serious-minded speech to which they listened, statesman-like in its quality and powerful in its effect. Especially was Judge Allred's discussion of the war deeply moving. With a clarity and forcefulness rarely equaled, he set forth the events that followed the first World War, how President Woodrow Wilson sought the adoption of a peace treaty that would have prevented future wars such as that which had then just brought so much of devastation and death; how a few isolationist senators had opposed ratification of the treaty and caused it to be rejected; how Woodrow Wilson then predicted another war in 25 years that would engulf the world and bring death probably to millions of American youth; how that prophecy had come true; how the isolationists, with their heads in the sand, had denounced Franklin D. Roosevelt as a warmonger when he proposed, soon after coming into office, the building up of our navy; how these isolationists successfully opposed the adequate fortification of our islands in the Pacific; how they succeeded in hampering other efforts made to adequately arm this country against the day of war; how they succeeded in adding an amendment to a preparedness measure forbidding that our soldiers should be sent across the sea again to fight; how we were hampered at every effort to prepare for a possible attack upon us by these isolationists and obstructionists in the Senate and elsewhere; how they sought to disband our army created under the selective service act, just one year ago this month; and he drew a vivid picture of what might have happened if such at-

Junior McLaurin Cops First Bout, But Loses Second Tilt

Junior McLaurin, O'Donnell's skilled contribution to the Golden Gloves tournaments, was decided in his second go at San Antonio Tuesday night after winning his first pairing.

Lack of training and boxing opponents exacted its toll on the youngster's timing.

McLaurin is recognized as one of the cleverest boxers in the state, and fight experts have averred many times that if he could have the training many city boxers secure, he would be Chicago-bound and fight for top laurels.

He fought as a middleweight.

tempt has been successful and our boys in training had been dispersed and sent home; how, in that event, the Japs might have bombed not only Pearl Harbor and the Hawaiian Islands but also the cities on our Pacific coast.

"We will say that those votes to disband our army just four months before Pearl Harbor was merely a result of bad judgment," he cried. "Can we afford to send men to the United States Senate who are capable of making such mistakes?"

Never once did Allred mention the name of his opponent and not once did he impugn that opponent's motives or patriotism, but every intelligent person present must have thought of the fact that the junior Senator from Texas was among those who voted with the Wheelers and the Nyes and the Vandenberg to disband our army in training and send it home in August of last year.

If the people of Texas would just lay aside their prejudices long enough to listen to great discussions like that made by Jimmy Allred Wednesday night there would be little doubt as to the outcome of the election on August 22. To say that Allred made a profound impression is putting the case mildly.

CARD OF THANKS

I want to thank each of you who voted for me in the past election. I have enjoyed being your Commissioner the past two years and I appreciate the co-operation you have given me.

German Spearheads Across Don River Are Established After Heavy Losses; Nazis 'Dig In' Along Egyptian Front; Gandhi to Japs: 'You're Not Welcome'

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

In answer to a call from President Roosevelt, representatives of labor and capital meet in Washington to discuss anti-inflation measures. Front row, left to right: W. Witherow, president, National Association of Manufacturers; Philip Murray, president of the CIO; Erik Johnson, president of the chamber of commerce; William Green, president of the AFL; and George Heany of the AFL. Back row, left to right: Walter Weisenburger, National Association of Manufacturers; James B. Carey of the CIO; and Joyce O'Hara of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

RUSSIA:

Desperate Battles

Bridging the lower Don river, Nazi troops continued to press on in their steady drive into the Caucasus. Russian infantrymen, battling desperately from the southern bank of the Don, 120 miles east of Rostov, threw tons of explosives at the Nazis, but two German spearheads were established.

A Soviet bulletin announced that nine pontoon bridges were smashed, throwing Nazi troops and equipment into the Don. But new reserves were ready to take the place of the drowned men, whose bodies were left to float down the river.

Despite German successes at Rostov, Soviet troops made the Nazis pay dearly for their gains. In part, a Russian communique announced that "One small group of Soviet infantry alone in one day with anti-tank guns, machine guns and incendiary bottles destroyed nine German tanks and killed hundreds of Hitlerites."

The communique said that the Red army still was fighting stubbornly at Novochoerkassk and at Tsimlyansk.

Soviet airmen were credited with destroying 299 German planes during the week. Russian losses for the same period were placed at 137.

In one sector of the front Russian soldiers were said to have wiped out more than four Nazi regiments in three weeks' fighting, capturing large military stores, including 400 machine guns, 560 automatic rifles, 46 mortars and 20,000 shells. In addition, they destroyed 328 tanks.

EGYPT'S WAR:

Nazis Dig In

A lull in the desert war saw German troops digging in on the front 75 miles west of Alexandria, from El Alamein to the Quattara depression.

A communique from Cairo announced that heavy British and United States bombers continued to sweep across the Mediterranean to attack Crete and that another force struck at Tobruk again.

Light bombers continued to hammer Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's sea and air bases, troop and vehicle concentrations. Additional information said that fires and explosions occurred when the big bombers struck at airdromes in Canada and Tripkacion in Crete.

BOMBS:

On Wide Fronts

On several widespread battlefronts the thud of United Nations' bombs and shells jarred the Axis into realizing that all offensives in this war were not necessarily theirs.

Six times in ten days warships of the British navy bombarded Matruh, the enemy's most advanced sea base in Egypt. British reports said that the Axis held city had been knocked "flatter than a pancake" as a result of the some 2,000 shells blasted into the vital harbor facilities. Use of the harbor by the Axis was believed to be out of the question for practically every shore building had been blown into debris.

Meanwhile from Cairo came word that the Germans and Italians based at El Daba, west of El Alamein, had been heavily bombed from the air and U. S. planes were reported to have caused immense damage to the Axis ports of Bengasi and Tobruk, still further to the west.

Allied ground forces were kept busy consolidating their positions as a dispatch out of London said that while the Axis appeared to be on the defensive in Africa, the safe arrival of a single enemy convoy might swing the balance the other way.

OPEN LETTER:

To the Japs

"Tokyo papers please copy" . . . It didn't actually read that way but the idea was the same, for the open letter by Mohandas K. Gandhi which appeared in his magazine, Harijan, was aimed directly at the Japanese. And if Tokyo bothered to read it, this is what they learned:

"Make no mistake about the fact that you (meaning Japan) will be sadly disillusioned if you believe you will receive a willing welcome from India."

Further, the Japs were told that they had "been gravely misinformed that we have chosen this particular moment to embarrass the Allies when your attack is imminent. If we wanted to turn Britain's difficulty into our opportunity, we should have done it as soon as the war broke out."

Also for the benefit of the Japanese, the Indian leader outlined the aims of his All-India Congress party with respect to their objective of independence, as preparation "to resist all militarist and imperialist ambition, whether it be British imperialism, German Nazism, or your pattern."

CASUALTIES:

In U. S. Forces

From the Office of War Information came the latest check-up of total casualties in the U. S. armed forces to date.

This report showed these casualties to be 44,143, including killed, wounded, and missing of the army, navy, marine corps, coast guard and Philippine Scouts, exclusive of 1,022 known navy prisoners of and casualties of the Philippine Commonwealth army.

Here is the breakdown by the various branches of the service:

- (1) U. S. army—killed, 902; wounded, 1,413; missing, 17,452. (2) Philippine Scouts—killed, 479; wounded, 754; missing, 11,000. (3) U. S. navy—killed, 3,420; wounded, 11,501; missing, 7,672.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER:

Congress Takes a Hand

In a congressional effort to solve the synthetic rubber production tangle, members of the house and senate passed the Gillette bill creating the Rubber Supply agency, which would control that portion of the program dealing with agricultural or forest products.

Rubber production from petroleum would remain under direction of the War Production board. Under provisions of the bill all authority over synthetic rubber plants using agricultural commodities as raw material would be taken away from Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman.

In its final form, the bill requires WPB, the army, navy or any other agency to deliver critical materials for use in constructing or operating alcohol rubber plants upon certification from the director of the Rubber Supply agency, and grants the agency blanket priority "over all deliveries of similar articles or materials for private account."

WAGES:

Show Increase

Figures released by Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, disclosed that the average hourly earnings of workers in manufacturing industries rose 1.5 per cent from April to May, and the May average of 83.1 cents per hour was 14.5 per cent higher than a year ago. The increase was held due to overtime, expansion of working forces in high wage scale industries and to wage-rate increases.

Navy's Triple Threat to Enemy Submarines

Three destroyers in 35 minutes—that's the navy's newest triple threat to enemy subs. The triple launching occurred at the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company in Kearny, N. J. The three destroyers will soon be on the prowl against the forces of aggression on the seven seas. They are the USS Davison, the USS Edwards and the USS Sauley. The three destroyers were named in memory of naval officers.

Australia's First Lend-Lease Tanks

Australia has received her first quota of lend-lease tanks from the U. S. The M-3 mediums and lights are important fighting weapons. Crews for the tanks, mostly experienced men from the Libyan and Malayan fronts, are trained as crewmen. The Aussies are shown unsealing them after they were received from the U. S. prior to putting them into final fighting shape.

Prominent Hobbyists

Mrs. Donald M. Nelson, wife of the chief of the War Production board, likes to mend toys in her spare time, while Maj. Alexander Seversky, aviation authority, likes to play the accordion. They are telling radio audiences about it on a recent broadcast.

Somebody in need of some new angles are the sponsors of the class musicals. What are they so awed about? It's only a song they're announcing—not a funeral, as their hushed tones lead you to suspect. . . Have a hah, Harry Flannery records in his good book, "Assignment to Berlin," that he was forbidden to broadcast the word "Nazi." It seems the Nazis themselves know how the word smells in free lands.

Spy No. 1 (Daseh) worked as a waiter at Glen Island Casino. The Count Von Reventlow (Barbara Hutton's ex) and the Dept of Justice agents in Colorado are having tete-a-tetes. . . M. Hollywood film director Raoul Walsh one month ago turned down $30,000 for his race horse, Grand Manitou. It died the other day.

Standard Oil of N. J. is inviting stockholders around the nation to a series of swank dinners (which get no publicity) in order to explain the various attacks against it. . . Rear Admiral Yates Stirling Jr. will be editor in chief of "Naval Review" due on Navy Day. . . Elissa Landi is writing her autobiography in novel form.

Col. Gomez, the playboy and spender, is with us again. The Venezuelan Gov't, which barred him once, welcomed him back and turned over to him the three million smacker estate confiscated from his parent. . . Rarely carries less than $100 bills—for tips.

The Front Pages: The bad news from the Russian fronts led the editorialists to rebuke us for hoping too much. We've been drunk on optimism, they scolded, figuring all the fight had gone out of Hitler. . . Even the gaulter rags over here changed their tune. They had been worrying about a Red Army victory, but once they got scared they found out that's what they wanted. . . The Times, which has always been nice to Congress, had to express its disgust for the sapper members.

FSA to Make Loans To Needy Farmers

Authority to immediately resume receiving applications from low-income and needy farm families in Lynn County for loans with which to carry on their farm and home operations was received here yesterday by Wyman J. Welch, rural rehabilitation supervisor for the Farm Security Administration.

The information that loan funds for the Farm Security Administration's supervised lending program for the current fiscal year are immediately available was received from Jesse B. Gilmer, Regional Director, with headquarters at Amarillo.

The Farm Security lending program, it was learned, will continue its policy of making small Food for Freedom loans to farm owners, tenants and part-time farmers. These loans are designed to assist families to produce food for home consumption. Production of food for sale will continue to be of secondary importance.

Food for Freedom loans are limited to $500.00 for each family. Borrowers may use the funds for the purchase of dairy animals, feed, seed, small farming and gardening implements, canning supplies, repairs for livestock and poultry housing facilities food storage space, medical and dental care and so forth.

In addition to the small Food for Freedom loans for fall crops and gardens and other immediate needs, the Farm Security Administration, according to Mr. Welch, will continue to make its regular rural rehabilitation loans, and community and co-operative service loans.

Farm owners, tenants, and part-time farmers in Lynn County who need to borrow funds for fall and winter operations or to meet their farm and home needs for next spring should make application to Mr. Welch, with offices in the courthouse basement, at Tahoka.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Wells visited in Big Spring Sunday.

Skilled Manpower Needed In War

Stressing the urgent need in our war program for skilled manpower behind as well as on the battle lines, General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, has advised local boards of twenty-four "critical occupations" in scientific and specialized fields to guide them in the classification of registrants in those professions.

These "critical occupations" are listed in a bulletin sent to all State Directors by National Headquarters, Selective Service System, which also specifically outlines the conditions under which students in such fields may be classified or deferred from military service as "necessary men."

The list includes:
 Accountants; Chemists; Economists; Engineers—Aeronautical, Automotive, Chemical, Civil, Electrical, Heating, Ventilating, Refrigerating and Air Conditioning, Marine, Mechanical, Mining and Metallurgical (including Mineral Technologists), Radio, Safety, and Transportation—Air, Highway, Railroad, Water; Geophysicists; Industrial Managers, Mathematicians; Meteorologists; Naval Architects; Personnel Administrators; Physicists (including Astronomers); Psychologists, and Statisticians.

The National Headquarters Bulletin pointed out that all of these critical occupations require highly specialized periods of training of two years or more; that all these occupations are needed in activities, according to the National Roster of Scientific and Specialized Personnel, which are necessary to war production and essential to support of the Nation's war effort, and that there are serious shortages of persons "trained, qualified or skilled"

Telling time in the Navy is on the 24-hour system. Morning hours are from one to twelve, but afternoon hours are from 1300 to 2000 (midnight). So if you ask a sailor the time and he says "seventeen," subtract 12 and you get five o'clock in the afternoon. It's simpler if you ask him what cigarette he smokes. Chances are he'll say: "Camel," for Camel is the favorite cigarette among Navy men as well as among men in the Army, Marines, Coast Guard. (Based on actual sales records from service men's stores.) Local dealers are featuring Camel cartons as gifts for men in the service from the folks back home.—Adv.

SADDLE and RIDE By ERNEST HAYCOX W-U Release

THE STORY SO FAR: Clay Morgan has decided to play a lone hand against Ben Herendeen, a rancher bent on running the cattle country his own way. The two men have been enemies for years, having first fought over Clay's wife, Lila, who died hating him and believing she should have married Herendeen.

"Herendeen has sent over the mountain for the Ryder boys."

CHAPTER XII

It was beyond midnight when Clay reached home. Harry Jump, night-hawking around the yard, followed him into the kitchen and watched him strip down to the waist and wash. Morgan's cheeks showed the battering of Herendeen's fists.

Morgan went up to his bed and lay there, his brain pulsing within its skullcap and strong pain traveling through his left arm from a broken finger. It made him remember the older fight. Both of them had been younger men, soon recovering from the misery of that beating.

At two in the morning, his broken hand on fire, he dressed and went downstairs; he lighted a lamp in the kitchen and shaved himself for want of something better to do—watching the bruised patches on his face slowly change color. He stoked up the stove and put on the coffeepot; and sat on the porch in the moon-shot heart of night.

Morgan got up from the chair, unable to take the punishment of his hand by sitting still. He went in and drank his coffee, black and hot, and returned to the yard, pacing out through the long-thrown shadows of the poplars. The weathered juniper poles of the corral showed white in the moonlight; across the valley the outline of silence; even the night creatures at last grew still.

Charley was the only doctor in the country, a man turned rough and blunt by the kind of practice he had, somewhat profane and apparently calloused to pain in others. When he saw the broken finger and the bruises on Morgan's face, he said: "The other customer came in before daylight. I took four stitches in his lip. This is going to make you squirm, Clay. Want a drink of whisky first?"

When Morgan dismounted before her her eyes showed him something that warmed him through and through: it was a swift personal interest, a little saddened by what she saw, as though his injuries hurt her heart. "Bones McGeeen came by the ranch late last night and told us what happened." She watched him quite closely, one strong line of worry across her forehead. "I was afraid you were badly hurt. I hope you paid him back. I hope you smashed the lights out of him!"

He said: "I'm glad I crossed your trail. What are you doing?" "I was coming your way. I wanted to see how you were." "Did you tell Gurd you were coming?" "No." "What's the matter with him?" She lowered her head and drew patterns on the soft forest soil with her finger-point. Her hair glowed darkly in the morning's light, it deepened the color of her cheeks.

"I don't know," she said in a reserved voice. She wouldn't look at him during these moments. "It is Herendeen's influence, I suppose." She lifted the soft earth in her hand and let it slide between her fingers. Her face was sweetly sober. Her long and fresh-colored lips expressively changed shape when she looked at him. "No explanations, no apologies. That is the way you've always been."

"What else can anybody do?" "Nothing, I guess. Only it makes it hard for people to understand you sometimes. To know what is in your head." "You never had any trouble figuring me out," he reflected.

"Ah, but I have a special gift that way. I know you through and through." They were silently laughing at each other, influenced by an undercurrent which always buoyed them up when together. She turned, lying back on the ground, her body full-shaped against the folds of her riding habit.

She pillowed her head with her hands and watched the bright blue patch of sky showing through the pine-tops, speaking in a distant, dreaming voice: "Nothing ever changes, Clay. The earth, the wind or the sun. Or the things I want, or you want."

He remembered what Ann McGarrah had so swiftly asked him: What had he wanted? Now, not knowing what it was, he asked Catherine: "What do I want?" She said in a faraway tone: "I wish I knew." "What do you want?" She turned her head, so close to him now that he saw the gray flakes of color in her eyes. The dance of laughter was in them, and an inexpressible gravity was in them, both humors blended. It was the way she hid herself from him when she chose. "Never ask a woman's age, never ask what she wants."

them; and for a moment he was shocked alive by the things her nearness did to him. The past rushed up and he saw her as he had once seen her—a girl holding him away with a gay insolence even as her eyes pulled him on. He saw now the faint freckles at the base of her nose and the curve of her eyebrows and the close texture of her skin, gently browned by the sun—and the reflection of himself in her pupils.

She rose and stepped away from him and did something then that told him of her thoughts; she lifted her chin, her face tightening against a flare of excitement, and pulled her hands behind her back as she had done in those old days when she was afraid of what was to come. "My boy," she said, breathlessness in her throat, "it is time to go."

She shook her head. "I'm riding with you. There's something on Long Seven I want to find out. You don't mind, Clay?" He had his awkward moment in mounting with his bad hand. They traveled single-file up the trail to Mogul's plateau, and afterward rode abreast across the dun-yellow surface of the high meadows, beneath a half warm sun. High on the tawny ribs of the Mogul ridge cattle grazed; a puff of dust rose from the bounding flight of an antelope. Catherine said: "It is a beautiful world, Clay."

Turning the foot of the Mogul Mountains, they came upon the Long Seven yard. Janet was waiting in the doorway, her hands primly folded in front of her dress. Harry Jump and Cap Vermilye were near the corral talking to the nester from Salt Meadow, Fox Willing.

These three moved toward Morgan but he ignored them for this moment, caught by this scene of Catherine facing his daughter. Catherine walked forward, tall and pleasant in the sunlight, not smiling but near to a smile. Janet's small hands remained locked across her dress. Her face held its precise gravity, its un-moved reserve; her eyes were quite cool yet Morgan, who knew his daughter thoroughly—the shaded meaning in her various degrees of silence and politeness—recognized an odd restraint in his daughter at the moment. It was a mirrored resentment, the cause of which he understood at once. Somewhere along the last year or two his daughter had absorbed the viewpoint of Ann McGarrah. Somehow Ann McGarrah had mysteriously instilled in Janet her own dislike of Catherine. These were the ways by which women sent their feelings intuitively across space to other women. Janet was Ann's partisan and her small clear face, so exactly neutral, could not quite hide her jealousy. He stood by, quietly angered at Ann McGarrah for what she had done to Janet, knowing he had no way of changing Janet's expression. She was no longer a child to listen implicitly to him. In her own mind, in that shadowland between childhood and wisdom, were beliefs she held by her own judgment.

Catherine was at the porch. She said: "I haven't seen you for a very long while, Janet." Janet's voice was slow and cool. "Thank you. Would you like a cup of coffee?" "No," said Catherine, and settled on the steps of the porch. She looked at her hands a moment, drawing a deep breath; she was sober and restrained. "No, but thanks. That's a pretty dress. I had one once, almost the same color. I wore it to a lot of dances."

"Were you my age then?" asked Janet. "I was older. But at your age I used to dance by myself when nobody was watching." "I do, too," said Janet. "How long did you have to wait before you could go to dances?" She spoke it and then, remembering her father's presence too late, threw him an embarrassed look. Catherine noticed it. She said immediately: "It will seem long, as it did to me, but it really will be so short a time!" Fox Willing moved around to face Morgan. He said, "Mr. Morgan, I rode over to tell you something..." My Week by Eleanor Roosevelt

CHARACTER' LOANS I mentioned in one of my columns the state banks of Holland, which make loans on a character basis, and Mr. Harry R. Langdon of New York city has written to tell me about the Municipal Credit Union which 29,000 government employees belong in New York city.

These credit unions are growing all over the country, but they do not serve quite the same purpose since they are open only to certain groups of employees, and cannot be used by the average citizen in a community.

YOUTHFUL DRAFTEES I have a letter which brings up a point that I have wanted to discuss in this column before. At one of my press conferences I was asked whether I would approve of the drafting of boys in the 18 and 19-year-old group. Frankly, of course, I hope we will not be forced to do this, because I feel that it is important, where boys show aptitude for further education, that they should have an opportunity to acquire it. It is probable that in times of war where boys are not anxious for more education, they will enlist since after the age of 18, enlistment is possible. If it does become necessary, however, to use younger boys on a draft basis, I think it should be done with the greatest discrimination.

That is why I think draft boards, considering boys of this age, will have to consider first their physical development. Many an 18-year-old boy is strong enough to stand the strain. Others might not be. Secondly, mental and moral development are important factors to be considered. These two things will depend largely on the types of schools and homes in which these boys have been brought up. If they have been sheltered and made somewhat too dependent upon their elders, it would be too great a hardship to plunge them immediately into military service, and they should probably have some intermediary preparation.

NEW STUDENT OUTLOOK NEW YORK—I left Asheville, N. C., one afternoon, after a very interesting and pleasant visit to the International Student Service summer institute there. Asheville college, which has housed the institute, was started about 50 years ago by the Rev. Mr. Pease, who founded the Five Point mission in New York city. When he retired he bought a farm near Asheville and shortly thereafter he and his wife took in five mountain girls, to help them obtain an education.

From that little beginning grew Asheville Normal Teachers college, which was a denominational college, largely supported by church funds, up to a very short time ago. Most of its students come from a radius of a hundred miles around Asheville and belong to the proverbially large families of mountaineer farmers. The curriculum, therefore, has been arranged chiefly to meet their needs—home-making, handicrafts, a business course, and courses which would prepare them to teach in the country schools. These have been the things which these young people wanted and have had. They look like a bright and intelligent group, and not very different from the youngsters in our institute. The college needs to find new support, new friends who are interested in seeing that these young people get a more liberal education. They are strong and fine, and they are deserving of help in the educational field, even from people who do not live in their own state. A limited number of people have been interested in the past, but the college must make new friends, because the buildings need repairs, and more teachers are required. The president has a fine conception of what education for the world of tomorrow should be.

ABRAHAM'S INTERCESSORY PRAYER

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 18:22-33.
GOLDEN TEXT—The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.—James 5:16.

Prayer has been the subject of thousands of books of sermons without end; yet how little it is actually practiced. Conferences are held to discuss it, and they attract large audiences, but at prayer meetings we find only a handful.

We are sure that "prayer changes things," and we agree that it is the most powerful force at man's disposal, but we go right ahead trying to change things in our own strength. "O what needless pain we bear, All because we do not carry Everything to God in prayer!"

Our lesson from the life of Abraham stresses one important phase of prayer—prayer for others.

I. The Nature of Intercessory Prayer.

1. It Is a Privilege.

We speak of the burden of prayer, but let us also recall that it is a privilege. Abraham had been honored by a visit from the Lord. The covenant had been renewed and a son promised (Gen. 18:1-16). Then the Lord, because of His friendship with Abraham, shared with him (v. 17) His purpose of judgment on wicked Sodom and Gomorrah.

How glorious to be on such intimate terms with God—to know Him and to know His plans and purposes. Would you enjoy having such fellowship? You may through Jesus Christ and through the study of God's holy Word.

2. It Is a Duty.

Privilege brings corresponding responsibility. The two men went toward Sodom, but "Abraham stood yet before the Lord" (v. 22), to pray for the wicked cities.

Those who know God's plans are to share them in prayer. Those who have audience with the King of Kings are those to carry the blessed burden of prayer for others as well as for themselves.

Are we praying for our nation, for its President and leaders; for our city, for our church, our families, our children, our friends? The deeper the need, the greater the wickedness, the more we need to pray. If we as Christians do not pray, who will pray?

3. It Is a Reality.

Some modern religious leaders would take all reality out of prayer by making it a sort of spiritual exercise which operates only on the soul of the one who prays, giving him new strength and a sense of well being. Undoubtedly the very fellowship with God which is inherent in true prayer is spiritually beneficial; but prayer is objective, not merely subjective. It deals with nations and cities, men and women, problems and sin and sorrow. It concerns every need of man—physical, mental and spiritual.

II. The Spirit of Intercessory Prayer.

1. Unselfish.

Abraham had the assured blessing and promise of God. The cities were wicked and unrepentant. If he had taken the attitude of many church folk, he would have said, "It serves them right. Wipe out their wickedness." But Abraham prayed for them in complete unselfishness. Can those who know the spirit of Christ be selfish in prayer?

2. Bold and Courageous.

Note the reverent boldness with which Abraham pleaded the cause of the cities. God is not displeased to have us press our cause in prayer; in fact, the Bible reveals that He frequently answers according to the earnestness with which we pray. He has always honored used men of holy courage.

3. Persistent.

No one—not even God—likes a quitter. Remember those who were heard for their importunity? (Luke 11:8; 18:1-8). Many pray like the little boys on Halloween. They ring the bell and run.

Abraham persisted; fifty, forty-five, forty, thirty, twenty, ten—perhaps he should not have stopped when there. God who saw his persistent faith went the rest of the way and saved the only four who would be saved, and even of those, three were infected with the wickedness of the place.

"Let us not be weary in well doing," as we pray, "for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not" (Gal. 6:9).

III. The Result of Intercessory Prayer.

God had to destroy the cities. There are some kinds of violent destruction which must be destroyed by the sake of others. Out of the destruction, however, God did deliver the righteous Lot, which was Abraham's real desire.

God hears and answers prayers. That is not only the testimony of the Word, but of countless Christians men and women down through the ages even to our day. The one who would deny the efficacy of prayer must face an overwhelming load of authenticated answers.

Summertime Means Picnic Time!
(See Recipes Below.)

Sandwiches Plus

Your fling with summer isn't quite complete without one or a dozen picnics with those sandwiches that taste so good, bubbling hot coffee and fresh, juicy fruit to top off that outdoor meal. You'll have fun with these simple things, even if you don't make a long trip in the family car to some far-away, favorite picnic grounds. Try the back yard, the parks, the beach or even that shady spot down the road a mile or so for this year's picnic.

Scrub your favorite picnic hamper clean and sun-dry it to assure your food freshness and cleanliness. Fill it to the brim with exciting sandwich combinations that your family will get such a surprise when they begin digging into the pleasant recesses of the big basket. Remember the salt for the tomatoes, paper napkins, paper plates, plenty of glasses or paper cups and, yes, a gay checked cloth to add atmosphere to the affair.

Are you in a quandary as to what sandwiches to make? Well, glance over the following combinations for some really tasty ideas in fillings:

Chopped bacon (broiled until crisp) and hard-cooked egg, moistened with mayonnaise or softened butter.

Sliced ham and American cheese, lettuce, sandwich spread.

Cream cheese, finely minced onion, chopped stuffed olives.

Chipped beef, ground fine, mixed with crumbled Roquefort cheese, seasoned with Worcestershire sauce.

Liver sausage, mashed, seasoned with chili sauce.

Summer sausage, ground with sweet or bread and butter pickles, moistened with mayonnaise.

Cucumber, chopped fine, excess moisture drained off, mixed with cream cheese, salt and pepper.

Peanut butter mixed with honey.

Tuna or salmon, flaked, mixed with lemon juice, finely chopped celery and mayonnaise to moisten.

Fillings combined generously with butter are often known as spreads. This facilitates the handling of sandwiches. Just spread the "butter" thickly between slices of bread and your sandwich is made, ready to be wrapped in waxed paper for picnicking.

Cheese Spread.

Blend cream cheese with lemon juice and add 2 tablespoons butter to each package (1-ounce) of cream cheese. To this add one or more of the following: chopped watercress, green pepper or celery; pimiento, green olives, or nuts.

Sardine Spread.

Cream 2 tablespoons lemon juice with ½ pound sweet butter. Spread this on toast or plain whole wheat bread. On top of this place tiny sardines, sprinkle with lemon juice and top with slice of toast or plain whole wheat bread.

"Make-your-own" sandwiches are loads of fun for picnics. Just pack your lunch box with meat loaf or ham loaf already baked at home.

Provide the crowd with bread and butter, and let them slice the meat for their own sandwiches:

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: Your best bargains during the present can be found in eggs and cheese, so plan to fortify your meals generously with both of these foods.

The campaign to save fats is really getting under way, and it's good policy on your part to turn all excess fats to your butcher.

Economy's yours if you use a variety of meat cuts in planning your menus. Best bargains can be found in the less used cuts such as liver, sweetbreads, heart, kidneys, rump roasts, etc.

Primary or unlimited production in canned fruits is decreed for the following items: peaches and pears (not whole), pectin, fruit cocktail, fruit for salad, and concentrates of grapefruit, lemon, lime and orange.

Ham Picnic Loaf.
(Serves 10)

- ½ cup quick-cooking tapioca
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 1 pound lean ham, ground
- 1 pound lean pork, ground
- 2 cups milk

Combine tapioca with remaining ingredients in order given. Bake in a loaf pan in a hot (450-degree) oven 15 minutes, then decrease heat to moderate (350 degrees) and bake 45 minutes longer or until done. Serve hot or cold.

Munching on golden, crisply fried, cold chicken is many a picniker's dream of the perfect outing. This is easily managed if you fry the chicken the night before, let it stand in the refrigerator, then wrap in waxed paper to take to the picnic the next day.

Country-Fried Chicken.
(Serves 6 to 8)

- 2 3-pound chickens
- ¾ cup flour
- 1½ tablespoons salt
- 1 teaspoon pepper
- Lard or shortening for frying
- ¾ cup butter

Clean chickens and cut in pieces suitable for serving. Mix flour with salt and pepper and place in paper bag. Place several pieces of chicken in the bag, and shake to coat evenly with flour. Take out and fry chicken until brown, slowly, in the lard which has been placed in a heavy skillet. When all the chicken has been browned, dot with butter, cover closely and let cook for about an hour over low heat. Or, if you prefer, after chicken is fried, let cook in a moderate (350-degree) oven until done. Uncover during last 15 minutes of cooking time to brown and crisp chicken.

Potato salad made the old-fashioned way with home-cooked dressing is guaranteed to go over big with the family:

Potato Salad
(Serves 8)

- 6 potatoes, cooked in jackets
- ¼ cup french dressing
- 1 onion, chopped fine
- 1 cup celery, chopped fine
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 recipe cooked dressing

Peel potatoes, and cube. Marinate in french dressing for ½ hour. Combine with other ingredients, and chill thoroughly before serving. Garnish with paprika.

Cooked Dressing.

- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ tablespoon sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1½ tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 egg yolks
- ¾ cup milk
- ¾ cup vinegar

Combine dry ingredients. Add egg yolks, blending carefully, then mix in butter, milk and vinegar slowly. Cook until thick in double boiler. Let cool before adding to salad.

No Prospects for the Disagreeing Young Lady

This story was told of Winston S. Churchill by Gertrude Atherton: "Shortly after he left the Conservative side of the house (of commons) for the Liberal, he was taking a certain young woman down to dinner, when she looked up at him coquettishly, and remarked with the audacity of her kind:

"There are two things I don't like about you, Mr. Churchill."

"And what are they?"

"Your new politics and mustache."

"My dear madam," he replied suavely, "pray do not disturb yourself. You are not likely to come in contact with either."

Bring in the Crow!

The examination of the witness had been long, and attorney, witness and judge were all tired. "And about how far is it between these two towns?" the attorney asked.

"About six miles as the flow cries," replied the witness.

"You mean as the cry flows, I suppose," interjected the attorney. "No, no," interrupted the judge. "He means as the fly crows."

MAN: Here she is... what'll you give me for her?

DEALER: Sounds like she just breathed her last. We want good second-hand cars but not this kind.

MAN: Why, it's got only 30,000 miles... and look! ... it's the same make, model and year as that gray job you've got tagged to sell for $450.

DEALER: But that engine is OIL-PLATED and runs like new. Good for another 30,000 miles. Its owner took good care of it... greased it and drained the crankcase every thousand miles.

MAN: I always thought that was the bunk.

DEALER: Well, you've got a pile of junk there to prove you're wrong.

MAN: All right... all right... I'm wrong. Tell you what. I'll give you three hundred cash and my car for that one if you'll wise me to the motor oil that fellow used.

DEALER: It's a deal. He used Conoco Nth oil. That's oil with the synthetic that helps keep both the motor and the oil clean.

MAN: Oh, now I remember reading about that oil and the synthetics they use. Brother, I'll use nothing but Conoco Nth from now on!

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for August 9

ABRAHAM'S INTERCESSORY PRAYER

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 18:23-33.
GOLDEN TEXT—The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.—James 5:16.

Prayer has been the subject of thousands of books of sermons without end; yet how little it is actually practiced. Conferences are held to discuss it, and they attract large audiences, but at prayer meetings we find only a handful.

We are sure that "prayer changes things," and we agree that it is the most powerful force at man's disposal, but we go right ahead trying to change things in our own strength. "O what peace we often forfeit,

O what needless pain we bear, All because we do not carry

Everything to God in prayer!"

Our lesson from the life of Abraham stresses one important phase of prayer—prayer for others.

I. The Nature of Intercessory Prayer.

1. It Is a Privilege.

We speak of the burden of prayer, but let us also recall that it is a privilege. Abraham had been honored by a visit from the Lord. The covenant had been renewed and a son promised (Gen. 18:1-16). Then the Lord, because of His friendship with Abraham, shared with him (v. 17) His purpose of judgment on wicked Sodom and Gomorrah.

How glorious to be on such intimate terms with God—to know Him and to know His plans and purposes. Would you enjoy having such fellowship? You may through Jesus Christ and through the study of God's holy Word.

2. It Is a Duty.

Privilege brings corresponding responsibility. The two men went toward Sodom, but "Abraham stood yet before the Lord" (v. 22), to pray for the wicked cities.

Those who know God's plans are to share them in prayer. Those who have audience with the King of Kings are those to carry the blessed burden of prayer for others as well as for themselves.

Are we praying for our nation, for its President and leaders; for our city, for our church, our families, our children, our friends? The deeper the need, the greater the wickedness, the more we need to pray. If we as Christians do not pray, who will pray?

3. It Is a Reality.

Some modern religious leaders would take all reality out of prayer by making it a sort of spiritual exercise which operates only on the soul of the one who prays, giving him new strength and a sense of well being. Undoubtedly the very fellowship with God which is inherent in true prayer is spiritually beneficial; but prayer is objective, not merely subjective. It deals with nations and cities, men and women, problems and sin and sorrow. It concerns every need of man—physical, mental and spiritual.

II. The Spirit of Intercessory Prayer.

1. Unselfish.

Abraham had the assured blessing and promise of God. The cities were wicked and unrepentant. If he had taken the attitude of many church folk, he would have said, "It serves them right. Wipe out their wickedness." But Abraham prayed for them in complete unselfishness. Can those who know the spirit of Christ be selfish in prayer?

2. Bold and Courageous.

Note the reverent boldness with which Abraham pleaded the cause of the cities. God is not displeased to have us press our cause in prayer; in fact, the Bible reveals that He frequently answers according to the earnestness with which we pray. He has always honored and used men of holy courage.

3. Persistent.

No one—not even God—likes a quitter. Remember those who were heard for their importunity? (Luke 11:8; 18:1-8). Many pray like the little boys on Halloween. They ring the bell and run. Abraham persisted; fifty, forty, thirty, twenty, ten—perhaps he should not have stopped there. God who saw his persistent faith went the rest of the way and saved the only four who would be saved, and even of those, three were infected with the wickedness of the place.

"Let us not be weary in well doing," as we pray, "for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not" (Gal. 6:9).

III. The Result of Intercessory Prayer.

God had to destroy the cities. There are some kinds of violent destruction which must be destroyed by the sake of others. Out of destruction, however, God did deliver the righteous Lot, which was Abraham's real desire.

God hears and answers prayers. It is not only the testimony of the Word, but of countless Christians men and women down through the ages even to our day. The one who would deny the efficacy of prayer must face an overwhelming load of authenticated answers.

Summertime Means Picnic Time! (See Recipes Below.)

Sandwiches Plus

Your fling with summer isn't quite complete without one or a dozen picnics with those sandwiches that taste so good, bubbling hot coffee and fresh, juicy fruit to top off that outdoor meal. You'll have fun with these simple things, even if you don't make a long trip in the family car to some far-away, favorite picnic grounds. Try the back yard, the parks, the beach or even that shady spot down the road a mile or so for this year's picnic.

Scrub your favorite picnic hamper clean and sun-dry it to assure your food freshness and cleanliness. Fill it to the brim with exciting sandwich combinations that your family will get such a surprise when they begin digging into the pleasant recesses of the big basket. Remember the salt for the tomatoes, paper napkins, paper plates, plenty of glasses or paper cups and, yes, a gay checked cloth to add atmosphere to the affair.

Are you in a quandary as to what sandwiches to make? Well, glance over the following combinations for some really tasty ideas in fillings:

Chopped bacon (broiled until crisp) and hard-cooked egg, moistened with mayonnaise or softened butter.

Sliced ham and American cheese, lettuce, sandwich spread.

Cream cheese, finely minced onion, chopped stuffed olives.

Chipped beef, ground fine, mixed with crumbled Roquefort cheese, seasoned with Worcestershire sauce.

Liver sausage, mashed, seasoned with chili sauce.

Summer sausage, ground with sweet or bread and butter pickles, moistened with mayonnaise.

Cucumber, chopped fine, excess moisture drained off, mixed with cream cheese, salt and pepper.

Peanut butter mixed with honey.

Tuna or salmon, flaked, mixed with lemon juice, finely chopped celery and mayonnaise to moisten.

Fillings combined generously with butter are often known as spreads. This facilitates the handling of sandwiches. Just spread the "butter" thickly between slices of bread and your sandwich is made, ready to be wrapped in waxed paper for picnicking.

Cheese Spread.

Blend cream cheese with lemon juice and add 2 tablespoons butter to each package (1-ounce) of cream cheese. To this add one or more of the following: chopped watercress, green pepper or celery; pimiento, green olives, or nuts.

Sardine Spread.

Cream 2 tablespoons lemon juice with ½ pound sweet butter. Spread this on toast or plain whole wheat bread. On top of this place tiny sardines, sprinkle with lemon juice and top with slice of toast or plain whole wheat bread.

"Make-your-own" sandwiches are loads of fun for picnics. Just pack your lunch box with meat loaf or ham loaf already baked at home. Provide the crowd with bread and butter, and let them slice the meat for their own sandwiches:

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: Your best bargains during the present can be found in eggs and cheese, so plan to fortify your meals generously with both of these foods.

The campaign to save fats is really getting under way, and it's good policy on your part to turn all excess fats to your butcher.

Economy's yours if you use a variety of meat cuts in planning your menus. Best bargains can be found in the less used cuts such as liver, sweetbreads, heart, kidneys, rump roasts, etc.

Primary or unlimited production in canned fruits is decreed for the following items: peaches and pears (not whole), pectin, fruit cocktail, fruit for salad, and concentrates of grapefruit, lemon, lime and orange.

*Ham Picnic Loaf. (Serves 10)

- ½ cup quick-cooking tapioca
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 1 pound lean ham, ground
- 1 pound lean pork, ground
- 2 cups milk

Combine tapioca with remaining ingredients in order given. Bake in a loaf pan in a hot (450-degree) oven 15 minutes, then decrease heat to moderate (350 degrees) and bake 45 minutes longer or until done. Serve hot or cold.

Munching on golden, crispy fried, cold chicken is many a picnicker's dream of the perfect outing. This is easily managed if you fry the chicken the night before, let it stand in the refrigerator, then wrap in waxed paper to take to the picnic the next day:

*Country-Fried Chicken. (Serves 6 to 8)

- 2 3-pound chickens
- ¾ cup flour
- 1½ tablespoons salt
- 1 teaspoon pepper
- Lard or shortening for frying
- ¾ cup butter

Clean chickens and cut in pieces suitable for serving. Mix flour with salt and pepper and place in paper bag. Place several pieces of chicken in the bag, and shake to coat evenly with flour. Take out and fry chicken until brown, slowly, in the lard which has been placed in a heavy skillet. When all the chicken has been browned, dot with butter, cover closely and let cook for about an hour over low heat. Or, if you prefer, after chicken is fried, let cook in a moderate (350-degree) oven until done. Uncover during last 15 minutes of cooking time to brown and crisp chicken.

Potato salad made the old-fashioned way with home-cooked dressing is guaranteed to go over big with the family:

Potato Salad (Serves 8)

- 6 potatoes, cooked in jackets
- ¼ cup french dressing
- 1 onion, chopped fine
- 1 cup celery, chopped fine
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 recipe cooked dressing

Peel potatoes, and cube. Marinate in french dressing for ½ hour. Combine with other ingredients, and chill thoroughly before serving. Garnish with paprika.

Cooked Dressing.

- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ tablespoon sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1½ tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 egg yolks
- ¾ cup milk
- ¾ cup vinegar

Combine dry ingredients. Add egg yolks, blending carefully, then mix in butter, milk and vinegar slowly. Cook until thick in double boiler. Cook before adding to salad.

No Prospects for the Disagreeing Young Lady

This story was told of Winston S. Churchill by Gertrude Atherton: "Shortly after he left the Conservative side of the house (of commons) for the Liberal, he was taking a certain young woman down to dinner, when she looked up at him coquettishly, and remarked with the audacity of her kind:

"There are two things I don't like about you, Mr. Churchill."

"And what are they?"

"Your new politics and mustache."

"My dear madam," he replied suavely, "pray do not disturb yourself. You are not likely to come in contact with either."

Bring in the Crow!

The examination of the witness had been long, and attorney, witness and judge were all tired. "And about how far is it between these two towns?" the attorney asked.

"About six miles as the flow cries," replied the witness.

"You mean as the cry flows, I suppose," interjected the attorney.

"No, no," interrupted the judge. "He means as the fly crows."

This New Mexico Reporter Was On The Job — Covered All The Angles

(Ed. Note — the following clipping was published in a New Mexico paper and concerns a fire — and other incidents. We republish to show how one reporter would write it, anyway.)

Excitement boiled in the village of Elida last Friday afternoon when the Wall Butane Supply tank caught on fire.

It later took an analysis or investigation by gas engineers to explain the cause of the ignition. Cleo Wall, son of J. Embry Wall, was merely replenishing a customer's tank from the big master tank kept by Wall & Son on the alley east of Embry Wall's residence. While the big tank is properly grounded, the smaller tank was no and Cleo, leaning with his arm on the tank, or possibly scraping his sleeve on the metal, generated a spark of static electricity between his body and the metal. There was a whuff and a roar and Cleo found himself pushed or lifted to the edge of the flame from whence he retreated after getting a scorching around face and neck.

Mrs. Doris Wall, his mother, became panicky over Cleo's fate as the roar of the burning gas engulfed the village, and Jimmy Crume, carrying her in a car to either the hospital or scene of the fire, was unable to dodge Neal Justus, a 12-year-old boy who was trying to get a safe distance from the fire. Neal was knocked down, which further added to Mrs. Wall's perturbation.

Neal was taken to the local clinic for examination and treatment, but Cleo was getting the company pickup dragged away from the fiery blast. At least one hind tire was already ruined.

Elida's fire truck was found to be out of commission. Mr. Wall telephoned for the Portales fire truck. It arrived after the gas had burned out, but Embry Wall gave them a check for their run.

As gas valves began to pop, the crowd naturally feared an explosion of one of the several tanks in the group. A nearby privy burned down quickly and a large unpainted barn was threatened. Presently volunteers used buckets and a hose to wet this barn, which is said to contain tools belonging to Zural Hathcock, now working in Roswell. If this barn had caught under the southwest wind, it would have taken considerable effort to have saved the McBride house across the street.

This fire was both fierce and loud. Silas Bridges, working 4 miles away on the Wall ranch, could hear the roaring, and he was right angle to the wind.
