Domestic disturbance climaxes with tragedy

The community of Iowa Park continues in a state of shock following a domestic disturbance Monday night that resulted in a six-hour hostage holding and climaxed in the death of a man.

William Ellis (Bill) Patterson, 50, was shot to death by two Wichita County sheriff's deputies, when he allegedly pointed a handgun directly at them.

No one else was injured.

The sheriff's department responded to an Emergency 9-1-1 telephone call that was received at approximately 8:15 p.m. Monday, from a residence approximately 4.5 miles north of US 287 on Johnson Road.

The dispatcher told the deputies the call was disconnected after a female calling said her ex-husband was in the home and threatening her with a gun, and attempts to call the number back were not answered.

Two deputies responded. When they approached the house, they confronted Patterson, asking him to come outside.

Patterson, according to Sheriff Tom Callahan, then threatened the two women in the house, who were identified as his wife, Sue, and mother-in-law, Doris Johnson. He also reportedly threatened to kill the two officers.

The deputies called for additional backup, and Johnson Road was sealed off from Van Horn Road on the south to the north dead end.

Two negotiators from the sheriff's department, David Duke and Bertie Foster, then established telephone communications with Patterson, and attempted through the ordeal to both calm Patterson's anger as well as talk him into surrendering.

Also on the scene were members of the county's hostage rescue team, Department of Public Safety, Parks and Wildlife officers, Wichita County District Attorney investigator, two additional negotiators from Archer County, and personnel from the Iowa Park police department and volunteer fire department.

Special electronic listening devices and night-vision equipment also were used by deputies, who surrounded the home.

Sheriff Callahan said he strongly believes Patterson was intoxicated during the ordeal.

The Pattersons had for several months been having marital problems, and Mrs. Patterson is said to have told her husband Monday she was filing for a divorce.

Throughout the telephone communications between Duke and Patterson, the latter was said to have remained irate and never seemed to calm down. "The situation escalated throughout the ordeal," Lt Stan Horton of the sheriff's department said.

Shortly after 2 a.m., Patterson released the women through the rear entrance of the home, and followed them out, still holding the gun.

The women were approximately 10 to 15 feet in front of Patterson when deputies yelled at him to drop his weapon.

Patterson turned and lifted his .357 Magnum, pointing it at two deputies who were about 15 feet away, officers said.

Patterson was standing in the light of the carport, which Lt. Horton described as being almost as bright as day.

Horton said there was no doubt in the minds of the deputies he would shoot. "He had every intention in the world of killing the officers," Horton said.

Patterson was placed in an ambulance, which had been on the scene since about 10 p.m., and taken to a Wichita Falls hospital, where he died.

Neither Mrs. Patterson nor Mrs. Johnson was injured physically, though they were visibly upset.

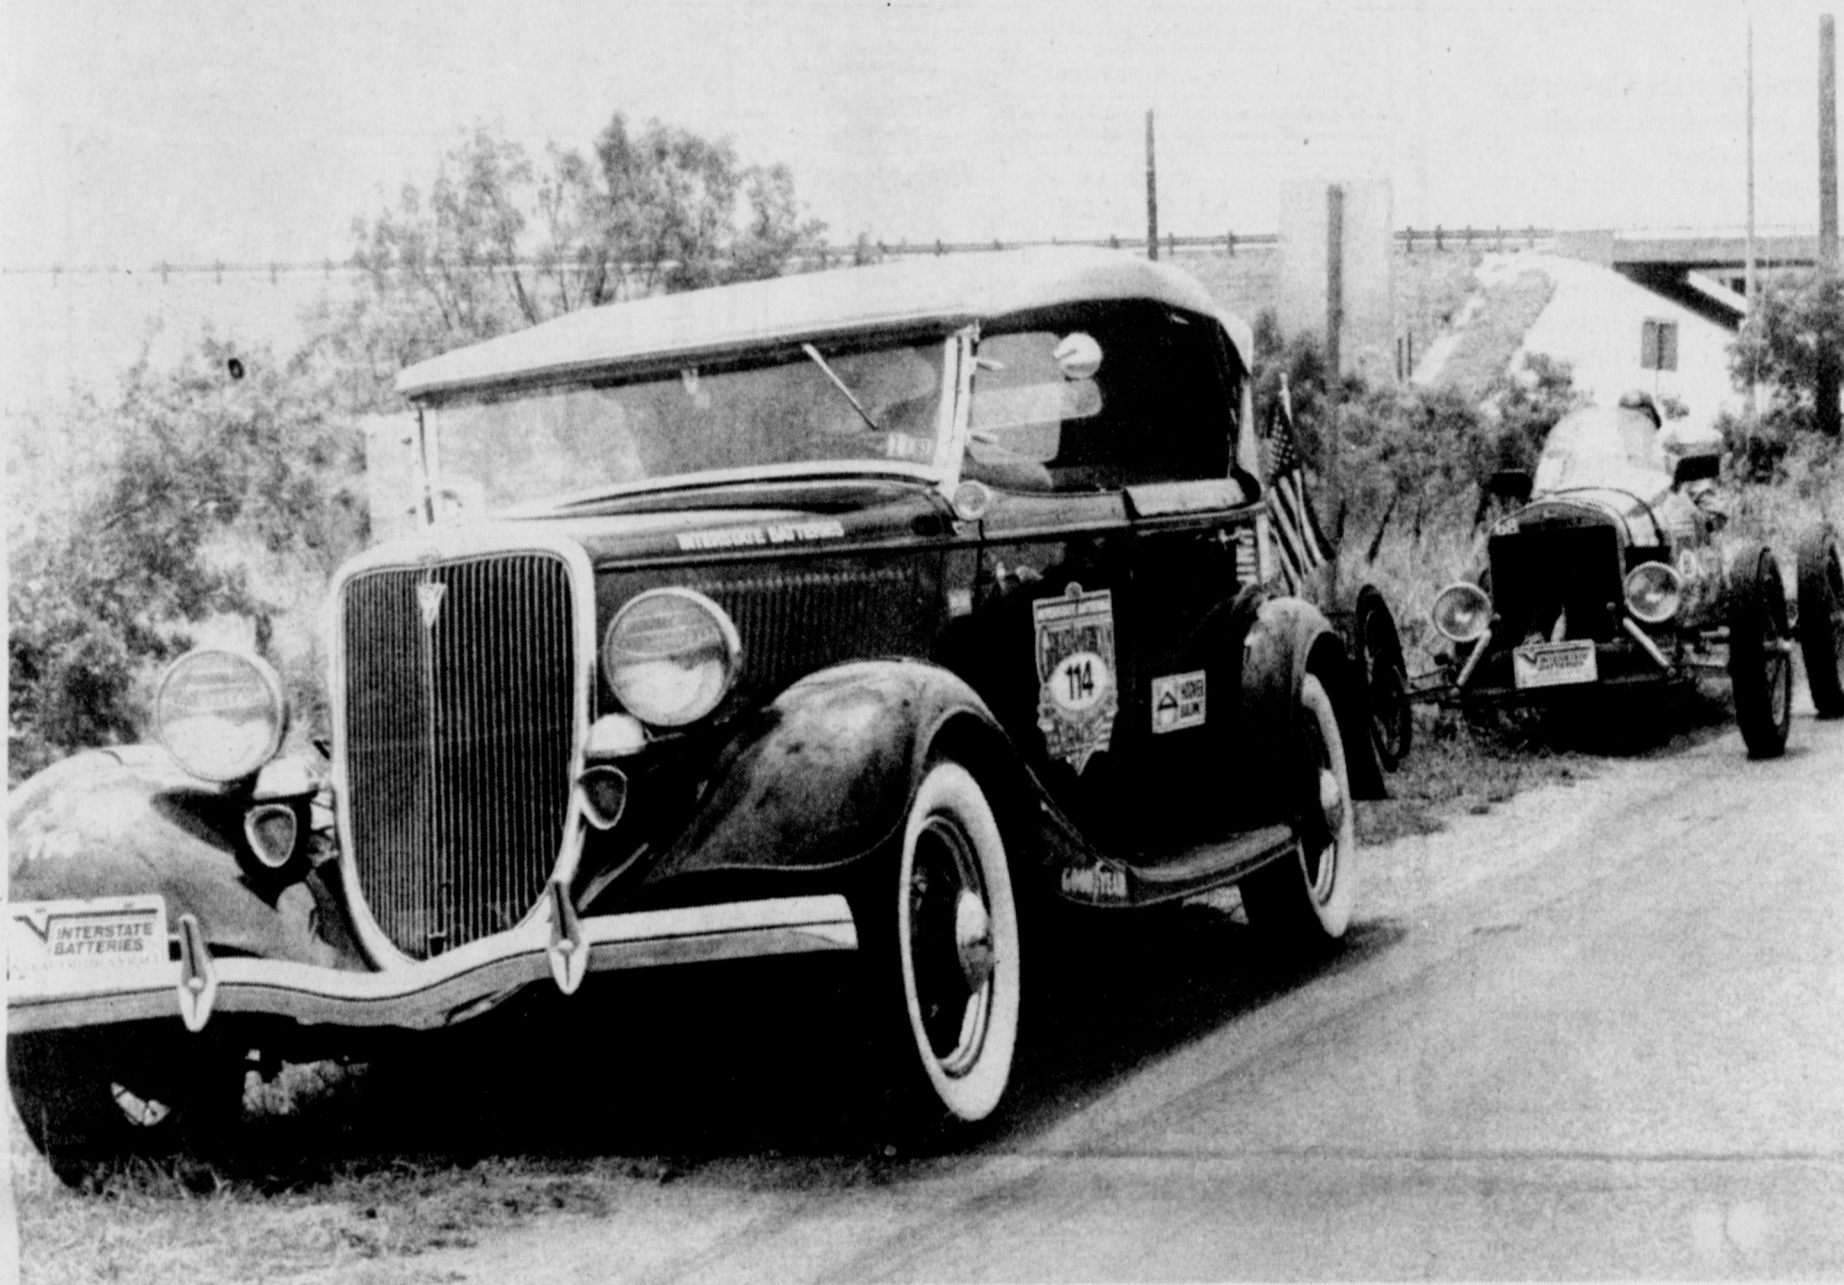

Officers, relatives and close friends were about a quarter mile away from the house throughout most of the incident, and heard the two shots fired by the deputies.

"The officers were well within justification of the use of deadly force," Sheriff Callahan said later that day. "We feel that this was a successful operation in that the hostages were saved. That was our objective. We do regret the loss of life."

During a follow-up investigation, Callahan said Patterson had forcefully entered the house, by kicking open the door.

The case, as are all in which death by shooting results, will be presented to the grand jury.

Patterson's body was taken to the Southwest Institute of Forensic Science in Dallas for autopsy, and will be returned in time for funeral services Friday afternoon.

ON THE ROAD AGAIN - Participants of the Great American Race passed through the northern edge of Iowa Park Tuesday.

They entered west-bound on US 287, stopped briefly after turning off at FM 368, and continued north from there.

Unusually heavy week for local police

In an unusually heavy week of activities, Iowa Park police reported three arrests and an attempted suicide incident.

The first of the arrests was made Tuesday morning of last week in municipal court, when the judge ordered Johnny Wayne Owen, 31, placed under arrest for an attack he was charged with at an earlier date. Owen was transported to county jail, according to the police blotter.

After being stopped on a traffic check in the 1100 block of West Highway at 1:51 a.m. Wednesday, Marsha Sue Williams, 30, was arrested on a charge of public intoxication.

Officers were called to a residence in the 200 block of South Wall at 2:49 a.m. Thursday, where they arrested Carl Douglas Kissner, 31, on a class C assault charge. He was released at 7:45 a.m. after signing a personal recognition bond.

Police observed a man at 2:18 p.m. Saturday near the intersection of Pacific and West Highway, attempting to jump in front of moving vehicles, in an apparent suicide attempt.

Shawn Green was taken into custody and transported to the state hospital. Two local officers and a DPS trooper were required to take him into custody, according to the blotter entry.

When police investigated a report Tuesday of a driver slumped over in a car sitting on the side of US 287, near FM 368, police determined the man was extremely intoxicated, near the point of becoming ill.

Johnny Boyd Jones, 71, was transported by ambulance to a Wichita Falls hospital, but no charges were filed.

Officers said Jones' vehicle showed signs of possible collisions with some kind of objects, but were unable to determine where or when it may have occurred.

The right front wheel of the vehicle was tilted "almost 45 degrees" and appeared to almost be falling off, police said.

Three thefts and two cases of criminal mischief also were listed on the week's blotter.

An almost-new gasoline-powered weeding machine was alleged to have been taken from a store shed in the 500 block of North Wall. The report was received Wednesday afternoon.

A dirt bike was taken from a garage in the 200 block of West Smith sometime Tuesday night.

Police received a complaint Sunday from a resident in the 200 block of South Wall, that a car telephone had been taken. It was valued at over $200.

A resident in the 1500 block of Wagon Wheel told police Tuesday of last week that someone had damaged a gate, uprooted flowers and threw flower pots over the yard.

Also reported Tuesday, by the owner of a pickup in the 1300 block of Mary, that someone had scratched the side and hood of the vehicle.

Early voting to begin Monday on bond issue

Taxpayers of Wichita County will be able to cast early voting ballots on a $9 million bond issue beginning Monday, at the county annex building at 220 West Park.

Early voting for the July 25 election will continue through July 21.

Annex office hours are 8 a.m. to 12-noon and 1-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The commissioners court called the bond election after petitions requesting it be held.

The money was pledged by the commissioners to help pay for a Multi-Purpose Event Center that is estimated to cost $25 million.

The city of Wichita Falls likewise pledged $9 million. The remaining $7 million is to be raised from the private sector, Center proponents explained.

In their original pledge, members of the commissioners court had intended to issue certificates of obligation for the $9 million. A vote of the taxpayers is not required for that type of bonding.

Commissioners said they planned to continue collecting 2.6 cents per $100 valuation on the county tax rate to pay for the certificates of obligation bonds, because that is the rate used to retire similar bonds used to finance expansion of the county jail building.

The jail bonds are to be paid for before the end of 1992.

Commissioners Gordon Griffith and Weldon Nix, representing precincts four and two, respectively, opposed the original bonding plan because they felt taxpayer approval should be given through the voting procedure.

The Events Center site that has been selected is a 100-acre tract north of the county courthouse that is divided by the Wichita River.

News Briefs

Street work slowed by humidity

Due to continuing rains and high humidity, city street crews are approximately eight to 10 days behind their planned schedule of pavement resurfacing work, Mike Price, public works director, said.

"At this time, the city is not ready to publish a new schedule, but will utilize door hangers to notify property owners when their street will be slurred," Price said.

The notifications will be at least one day in advance of the work, and indicate when the vehicles will need to be parked off the street, as well as when the street should be re-opened to traffic.

Once the slurry application has been made to the road surface, it takes between four and six hours to dry. But humid conditions have slowed the process and some streets have not been re-opened as quickly as normally anticipated, Price explained.

Week's rainfall over one inch

Most of the week's rainfall in Iowa Park during the past week was received from an early-morning storm Sunday, according to Mrs. Virgil Woodfin.

An even inch was received from that storm, bringing the week's total to 1.23. Other measurements recorded in the mornings included .02 Wednesday, .12 Thursday and .09 Monday, Mrs. Woodfin reported.

Firemen, police hoping for slow-paced holiday

While everyone else is expected to be busying themselves enjoying their July 4th celebrating Saturday, there are two groups in the city who would rather not be involved.

They are members of the Iowa Park Volunteer Fire Department and the Iowa Park Police Department.

But, if they're not busy, it will be the exception, rather than the rule.

Voluntary firemen plan to gather for the day, and evening, at the South Side Station, from where they will be dispatched to any fires that may develop, expectably from fireworks.

Police will be enforcing the city ordinance which prohibits the setting off of any fireworks inside the city, other than at Lake Iowa Park.

Violators of the ordinance could face a fine as much as $200.

The ordinance, which has been in force since 1967, makes it illegal to sell, offer to sell, or set off fireworks of any kind inside the city limits.

City officials are encouraging those who do set off their fireworks at Lake Iowa Park, to collect their debris and dispose of it in the trash containers that are provided there.

TRASH COLLECTIONS

No trash collection service will be run Friday, to allow city employees observance of the July 4th holiday.

The landfill will be open Friday, closed Saturday, and re-opened Sunday.

Residents with roll-out containers are encouraged to set out their containers Thursday after lunch, or on Monday in the morning, to allow for pickup, Mike Price, public works director, said.

Year's permits top $300,000

The city's building permit total for the year eclipsed the $300,000 mark when June's $48,294 was added, according to a report from city hall.

June's total was considerably less than May's $185,000, however.

Permits issued during June included:

Gratan Eiben, 106 West View, addition, $11,844;
Judy Grant, 211 E. Garden, repair, $300;
Danny Hogue, 201 W. Emerald, alteration, $300;
W.R. Townsend, 709 W. Louisa, carport, $450;
Alvin Jeter, 522 W. Aldine, alteration, $600;
Larry Latimer, 610 W. Washington, repair, $1,500;
Kidwell Elementary, 1200 N. Third, move building, no charge;
Paul Shea, 804 Vogel, alteration, $16,000;
Brad Wynn, 115 E. Garden, repair, $1,100;
Francis Armstrong, 305 E. Jefferson, alteration, $5,000;
Melynda Mitchell, 406 E. Alameda, deck, $700;
Estel Jameson, 610 W. Rebecca, carport, $1,000;
Charles Raney, 310 W. Lafayette, repair, $5,000;

Darlene Gardner

Darlene Gardner told us that she doesn't cook much now that her boys are grown, but agreed to share some of her favorite recipes with us.

A 1964 graduate of Iowa Park High School, Darlene has been a hairdresser 19 years and is owner of Bangs 'n' Thangs Beauty Salon.

She has three sons, Robert, Alan and Neal, and six grandsons.

Darlene said the good Lord knew what He was doing when He gave her three boys, because she loves being outdoors and took them camping, fishing and hunting when they were growing up.

A talented artist, Darlene likes to do watercolor and oil painting. She painted a mural on the side of her beauty salon, and has been asked to paint one on another downtown building.

She likes to work with flowers and has provided the floral arrangements and decorated cakes for family weddings.

COOK of the WEEK

When her home was heavily damaged by fire, Darlene, who is also skilled in carpentry, did most of the rebuilding/remodeling herself. She said that she was thankful for the people in Iowa Park and the way they pitched in to help. Darlene also has a high regard for the effectiveness of the 911 emergency phone, because of the quick response of the fire department.

She doesn't have time to belong to clubs or organizations now, but served on the RAC board of directors six years and is a member of the Church of Christ.

The "Mex-Tex Chicken & Rice Casserole" is one of her sons' favorites, and Darlene is always asked to prepare "Lime Delight" for family gatherings.

Educators and psychologists agree that children are most likely to accept and recover from a death when they are encouraged to participate in the traditional activities surrounding the funeral of a family member or close friend. Shielding youngsters from the reality of death will only magnify their fears and replace truth with fantasy.

Come by for the free booklet, "Children and Death." Young children don't understand what death is all about; they need you to talk about it with them.

Denny family holds reunion

A Denny family reunion was held June 12-13 at the Ramada Inn in Wichita Falls for descendants of the six Denny brothers who came to Texas from Kentucky about 1878.

The six brothers were William, Leslie C, Ben Franklin, S. L. (Babe), Jacob Nelson and Athan Denny. They migrated to the areas of Fannin and Grayson Counties.

Leslie C. and S. L. (Babe) Denny operated a store in Van Alstyne until about 1887. The others had a store in Leonard.

William and Jacob N. Denny moved to Vernon sometime later and operated a store there many years. Ben F. settled in Memphis.

Athan Denny farmed for a short period near the Love farm in the late 1890s. He later moved to Washington state.

There are no remaining descendants of the William Denny family and all contact has been lost with the descendants of Jacob N. Denny.

Those attending the recent reunion were JoAnn Denny Mansfield of Krikland, Wa., a descendant of Athan Denny; Lindy, Heath and Carol Denny Tolleson of Gruver, descendants of Ben F. Denny; Arthur and

Mary Jo Denny Beadle of Poolville, Jane Gauntt of Wichita Falls and Elga Ann Denny of Iowa Park, descendants of S. L. (Babe) Denny; Martha and Lee Reed of Houston; Billye Jo and Frank Peirce of Bryan; Jan Peirce of Austin, George and Thelma Denny of Wayside; Warren, Margie and Don McDonald of Wichita Falls; Leslie and Kelly O'Donnell of Argyle; Oscar and Evalyn Lochridge of Fort Worth; Grant, Carol, Allen, Karen, and Kathryn Lochridge of Hurst; Louie and June McCarthy of Iowa Park; Susan, Deana, Bobby and Kerry Galloway of Kingsbury; Earle and Jean Denny of Iowa Park; Charles and Billye Faye Neuhardt of Midland; Kerry and Katrina Neuhardt of Fort Worth and Arlington; Bud and Billie Margaret Thompson, Kathy and Jessica Dunn, and Ponch Garcia, all of Iowa Park. All of the above are descendants of Leslie C. Denny.

Marie Denny Callon and Elgin Denny of Iowa Park were unable to attend.

Plans are being discussed to establish the family reunion for every two years in the future.

The first of these reunions, held in June of 1990, sponsored a program to rebuild the Denny Farm Cemetery at the birthplace of these six brothers near Burgin, Ky. Their father, mother and several other relatives are buried there. This project was completed in May 1991.

As I See It... By Bob Hamilton

A good friend of mine, Paul Freeman, recently wrote a book that went on the sales racks last spring.

It is a spoof about anti-smoking that takes place shortly after the turn of the 21st century, entitled "Smoke Jumpers."

While it was intended as a spoof, I'm not too sure it will take until the year 2000 for it to come about.

Not after the action taken by the county commissioners court. As of October 1, smoking inside the courthouse will be prohibited.

I don't guess I should be too surprised. None of the commissioners smoke.

Anyway, back to Freeman's book.

In his spooftell way, he tells of how life will be, when the federal government appoints squads of "quiche-stained vigilantes who call themselves Air Police."

In their desire to enforce the laws of the day, these Air Police will brush aside murderers shooting people on the sidewalks, totally ignoring them, so they can reach someone with a cigarette in his mouth.

Freeman foresees some tolerance by the government, however. Smokers are just banned to three "colonies" - Nevada, West Texas and Eastern North Carolina.

"Some vigilantes like to torture the smokers before rushing off to a United Way banquet," he writes. "Violent crime is rampant on the streets but millions (of dollars) are being diverted from crime-fighting to buy smoke-detecting helicopters and surveillance aircraft, especially equipped to detect the slightest trace of nicotine in the smallest puff of smoke.

"Politicians are judged unfit for office if there is the slightest hint of nicotine in their past. It is unfiltered and king-sized McCarthyism. Many nominal non-smokers join the ranks of the puffers in rejection of the oppressive and mindless climate."

I'm sure the commissioners acted not only to the complaints of a few, and possibly even to that "big" announcement from the federal health office last week about all the millions who have, and will continue, to die from secondary tobacco smoke.

These claims, as far as I'm concerned, are based entirely on statistics. And I can take any subject, regardless of its nature, and show you whatever I want, based on statistics.

We're told, "If you smoke, or inhale the smoke of a smoker, your chances of dying are increased."

I'll give you a statistic that I can prove, unlike our anti-smokers' claims: If you are born, you are going to die.

Let me add one more. If you've been elected a county commissioner or county judge, re-election is not an absolute fact.

Worth Quoting

Wichita County Commissioners have agreed to obligate $9 million to help finance a multi events center in Wichita Falls. They will have a public vote on Wednesday, June 17, at the courthouse in Wichita Falls. Taxpayers will repay these certificates of obligation for 20 years.

Most Electrans can only guess at the enormity of $9 million. Just how many of these dollars will come from the pockets of precinct four residents is unclear -- but the total over 20 years is sure to be one deserving utmost consideration.

We believe the taxpayers who will be coming up with these dollars each year are the ones who should determine how they will be spent. The two county commissioners and one county judge are speaking for all the taxpayers of Wichita County. Taxpayers in Wichita Falls, Burkburnett, and Iowa Park as well as Electra are signing petitions asking for a vote of the people to decide the issue.

A 10-person committee selected by the City of Wichita Falls and the Commissioners Court of Wichita County determined the need for the center and where it will be located. Site location in the heart of Wichita Falls rather than the heart of Wichita County is another reason many of the residents are questioning the issue. If Wichita Falls wants an urban renewal project, the citizens of Wichita Falls should pay for it.

Of the five persons selected for the committee from the county, there is not one person from Electra. Our county commissioner also resides in Wichita Falls, so where is our representation? The only fair way to decide the issue is for the citizens of Electra (and the county) to go to the polls and make their wishes known. Do they feel Electra (Burkburnett, Iowa Park) will benefit their share of a $9 million investment in a $25 million events center in Wichita Falls?

I don't know exactly what to think about the Texas Lottery. I can see some good points, and some bad points. Those of you who see only the bad points tend to ignore any possible good points, and those of you who see only the good points tend to ignore any possible bad points. I've tried to look at this issue objectively, but I can't make myself land squarely on one side of the fence or the other.

On the negative side, it's a shame that so many people are caused to suffer as a result of gambling. On the positive side, the lottery provides an avenue for some deadbeats to contribute to the state's finances.

If everyone were like me, the Texas Lottery would be neither the Mother Lode its proponents claim nor would it be the damnation of mankind that its opponents suggest. My attitude toward the lottery is the same as it is toward any type of gambling. My personal Golden Rule of Gambling is this: Don't Gamble Unless You Can Afford to Lose.

There are lots of sick, dumb jerks out there who ignore this rule, and it's a shame we can't protect them from themselves. Those who are against gambling have a valid observation in this regard, but we can't legislate sanity, morality or fiscal responsibility, much less good ole common sense.

Some people went nuts during the first few days of the Texas Lottery, but I managed to avoid all of the hoopla. All you've got to do is read the odds of winning, and anyone with a lick of sense can see that the chances of winning big are pretty slim in the Lone Star State's first scratch and win game.

I had several invitations to join pools of gamblers whereby a group of pals buy a big stack of tickets with the winnings to be split evenly. Supposedly, this will improve your odds of winning, but everyone I've talked to just pooped off their money.

I just don't have much money I can afford to poop off, and I always think of my Golden Rule of Gambling when the temptation arises. For instance, on one of those occasions a group of guys invited me to invest $5 in their pool. That's exactly how much money I had in my wallet at the time. The immediate temptation was to pitch in my $5... but then I thought about lunch and Golden Rule of Gambling.

I hung around to see how the group fared. As it turned out, if I had joined them I would have lost that day's lunch money. I would rather eat than gamble. That's not to suggest I am totally opposed to gambling. I have been known to partake of an occasional game of chance when the fiscal resources are available, but that's not very often. Occasionally, however, I succumb to temptation when there's a spare dollar in my pocket.

Actually, I have done quite well for myself the first few weeks of the Texas Lottery. I have gambled $3 and won $10 which puts me ahead by $7. I don't suppose that makes me much of a big-time gambler, but I've had a little fun and I haven't had to miss a single lunch.

Somehow or another, the logic escapes us.

The Supreme Court, on a 5-4 vote this week, handed down a ruling that strengthened the ban on public school prayer by outlawing invocations and benedictions at high school graduation ceremonies.

The ruling continues the 30-year-old ban on school prayer as necessary under the Constitution's separation of church and state.

The ruling however, does not prohibit school sponsored prayers at a state university or at a city council meeting. Maybe we're too dense, but we cannot understand how the Court feels that an 18-year-old graduating senior is not mature enough to distinguish between a prayer at a ceremonial event and forced religion... and yet is mature enough to have an abortion without notifying her parents.

It's all right to dispense condoms in high schools across the country because of the maturity level of the students but taboo for a classroom president to invoke blessings prior to a meeting.

It's evidently all right to permit Channel One to televise 12 minutes of news and information and two minutes of commercials into 11,800 schools statewide and 7.1 million students with the company raking off $630,000 a day in ad revenue -- but those same students can't hear or see or give a prayer.

If taxpayers are asked to give up 14 minutes out of each school day for a private operator to make money, why not another minute to pray for guidance from a non-profit source?

Evidently, logic disappears the black robes like snowballs in a micro-wave.

Illiteracy a problem

Dear Editor:

The news these days contains much about education. Illiteracy is a problem affecting directly 27 million American adults and indirectly all the rest of us Americans. You may think that, because you can read this, illiteracy is no problem for you. You need to think again.

Illiteracy lowers business productivity. Illiterates may not be able to learn enough to know the difference between low and high quality. During training, everything must be explained orally to illiterates. These costs are passed along to the consumers -- us.

Illiterate workers are prone to have accidents because they cannot read. Literate people can be hurt by the accidents. Illiterates who cause accidents are more likely to draw worker's compensation and other insurance benefits, sometimes involving lawsuits. Insurance rates are based on averages, and ultimately we all pay higher insurance because of accidents resulting from illiteracy.

Illiteracy drives people into low-paying jobs, unemployment, even welfare. Thus illiteracy weakens the tax base while increasing the benefits paid. The federal debt, over $4 trillion, has partly arisen from unproductivity rooted in illiteracy. The federal debt hurts each of us when we borrow money and face high interest rates.

In turn the federal debt worsens the illiteracy problem because the government cannot fund programs to attack illiteracy when so much is going into welfare and other needs resulting from illiteracy.

Companies leave America to go where the workers can read. The jobs go too. Revenues decline while the government's bills continue. Companies are especially reluctant to invest jobs in areas where illiteracy and resulting problems are ubiquitous.

Now is the time to stop illiteracy. Inquire about literacy programs at your local library. We are all paying for illiteracy.
Sincerely,
Jeffrey E. James

Study on flouride benefits, risks released

A year-long Public Health Service investigation has found no evidence establishing an association between fluoride and cancer in humans.

That's good news, and there's more of it: the study found plenty of evidence of fluoride's effectiveness in preventing cavities.

Fluoride was first added to drinking water, to prevent tooth decay in the 1940s. Today, more than half the U.S. population is served by fluoridated water, and more than 90 percent of all toothpastes have fluoride added.

Has fluoride worked? No doubt about it. Children today have fewer than half the cavities that children had in the 1940s, and fluoridation, more than any other factor, has made the difference.

All along, a few, very vocal people in this country have believed that fluoridated water is hazardous, that it can cause cancer and other conditions.

Then, in February 1990, a PHS study found a rare form of cancer in four laboratory rats that had been dosed with fluoride over their lifetimes. The finding was preliminary (and, as it turned out, not meaningful for humans), but it prompted Dr. James O. Mason, M.D., head of the Public Health Service, to order a thorough, scientific review of fluoride's risks and benefits.

The investigation of fluoride was carried out by scientists from six PHS agencies, who examined more than 50 human and animal studies of fluoride that have been carried out over the past 40 years, including the very latest studies by the National Cancer Institute.

The investigation found that the PHS rodent study and another animal study "fail to establish an association between fluoride and cancer." Nor could reviewers find a link between fluoride and human cancer in the dozens of human epidemiological studies they examined. Optimal fluoridation of drinking water, the report concluded, "does not pose a detectable cancer risk to humans."

The report said that research also has failed to show a link between fluoride and Down Syndrome or problems of the gastrointestinal, genito-urinary and respiratory system.

The study said fluoridation of water "provides the greatest benefits to those who can least afford preventive and restorative dentistry." Fluoridated drinking water, in other words, means healthier teeth for kids and lower dental bills for their parents.

More fluoride is not necessarily better, however. In areas of the country where fluorides are present in the water at recommended levels, children do not need additional fluoride in any form.

In fact, too much fluoride can cause a discoloration, or mottling, of the teeth called dental fluorosis.

While this condition is cosmetic and not known to pose a risk to health, common sense and sound public health practice require that we use no more fluoride than that necessary to achieve our aim, which is the prevention of tooth decay.

To prevent dental fluorosis, the report recommends:

--that dentists and physicians prescribe fluoride treatments and dietary supplements only if they are certain that the home water supply is deficient in fluoride;

--that parents instruct children to rinse carefully after brushing and not swallow fluoride toothpaste; and

--that consumers and health professionals find out what the fluoride levels in their drinking water are, so that they use or prescribe fluoride treatment and supplements appropriately.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - Political eyes of Texas turned briefly from Washington, D.C. to Houston last week, where the nation's mayors convened for their 1992 conference.

With Gov. Ann Richards and several state officials in attendance, politics was the main course served.

None outdid Jesse Jackson, who proposed a $1 trillion national version of the World Bank.

Funded by public and private pension funds and/or new taxes, the bank would make loans to ailing U.S. cities.

Gov. Richards and other officials did not say whether they supported Jackson's ideas, but they, of course, have money needs of their own.

Hispanics Offer Plan

For example, back in Austin, several Hispanic leaders proposed a $2 billion settlement to end a lawsuit against the state for discrimination against South Texas in higher education funding.

Led by former San Antonio mayor Henry Cisneros and leaders from the 41-county region, the group outlined its program to build medical schools and expand facilities and graduate programs on 11 campuses.

Do this, they said, and we will call off our attorneys.

Already Hard-pressed

Certainly, their bold play turned up the heat on Gov. Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and members of the Legislature.

Already faced with a shortage of money for public schools now funded by an illegal-but-collected-anyway tax, the state is hard-pressed to find dollars anywhere.

The lawsuit is peculiar: Brownsville District Judge Benjamin Eustice overturned a jury verdict to find the present higher education system unconstitutional for depriving Mexican-Americans equal education.

Morales: Cisneros' Protege

Attorney General Dan Morales will argue the state's appeal in October before the Texas Supreme Court; if he wins, the heat is off for awhile.

However, Cisneros' presence as plaintiff spokesman can't help but put Morales in a strange political spotlight.

Not only is Morales from San Antonio, but Capitol politicians remember a closer connection.

Three years ago, Mayor Cisneros was positioning for governor; in fact, he was the Democrats' golden boy until he fell from grace over a publicized affair and pending divorce scandal.

Knowing it wasn't his year, Cisneros handed the reins of his organization to local state representative Morales, who rode it into the attorney general's office.

School Audit Hot Line

State Auditor Larry Alwin, whose office is auditing 51 Texas school districts, urged people to call a toll-free hot line, (800) 829-8348, if they have tips that his employees should examine.

"Teachers, parents and students can tell us firsthand about school programs that are working. They can also tell where our tax dollars are being spent wisely," Alwin said.

The management audits are to be completed by November.

Eight Texas cities will split $12.1 million of the jobs funding: Dallas, which will get $2.4 million; Corpus Christi, $575,000; El Paso, $1.6 million; Fort Worth, $1.2 million; Houston, $3.5 million; San Antonio, $1.9 million; and Arlington, $290,000.

Another $28.5 million in summer-job funds will be allotted by the governor.

The $1.1 billion package, passed in response to rioting in Los Angeles last spring, is expected to create 414,000 jobs nationwide at a total cost of $500 million.

Wait Your Turn, Steve

Dallas mayor Steve Bartlett, a Republican and former congressman, may have inadvertently revealed his future political plans.

During a meeting last week to talk about summer jobs programs for teen-agers, Bartlett said, "When I became governor, uh, when I became mayor..."

Gov. Richards, a Democrat, who was in the same meeting, wagged her finger at him and said: "Not yet, Steve."

Other Highlights

■ The average faculty salary at a Texas public university is $5,000 below the $49,883 average for the 10 most populous states, a recent study shows. Professors are better paid in New Jersey, California, New York, Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Florida, Illinois and Georgia, in that order.

■ Texas senators recently learned they will probably convene Jan. 12 in an underground auditorium expected to be completed this year, because restoration of the Senate chamber will be unfinished. Senators also learned the price tag for the restoration and new construction has risen from $149 million to $185 million.

■ The Ku Klux Klan wasted no time scheduling a round of cross-burnings to celebrate the Supreme Court's ruling that a law against the practice was constitutional. "We're so pleased with the announcement, we thought it was time to light the cross," James Stansfield, Imperial Wizard of the Confederate Knights in Channelview, said.

WHAT TIME IS IT? TIME FOR VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL!
We would like to issue a special welcome invitation for children to attend our Vacation Bible School. The date for this will be July 6 - 8 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. We would be happy to come by and pick up your child if you will give us a call at the church office. The theme for Vacation Bible School will be "LET YOUR LIGHT SHINE!" The text for our study will be from Matthew 5:16: "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."
As we pass down memory lane, one of the most delightful times of all as a child is to think about Vacation Bible School. It was fun to sing special songs and learn God's truths at the same time. I remember the teachers always presented a very interesting informative lesson from the Bible.
Of course, as one thinks about Vacation Bible School, it would not be complete without refreshments. I can still imagine in my mind the love and flavor that went into the making of those cookies. The Koolaid that was served always seemed to taste just a little bit better at Bible School.
We would like for your child to share in this special time of learning more about Jesus. We will have classes through the sixth grade. Give your child the opportunity to have some of these special memories.

Prostate problems common

Just about every man will develop some sort of prostate problem in his lifetime. Although prostate cancer is the most serious condition, two other ailments affect even more men.

Prostatitis, an inflammation of the prostate, is usually found in young men in their twenties and thirties. It is common and easy to treat.

Typical symptoms of prostatitis include bladder irritation, burning when urinating, frequent urination, a sense of urgency to urinate, low back pain, and sometimes a high fever. Prostatitis is not a predictor to cancer, but some of the warning signs are similar.

There are three types of prostatitis: acute infectious prostatitis, caused by bacteria; chronic infectious prostatitis, also caused by bacteria; and noninfectious prostatitis, cause unknown.

"Acute prostatitis is easy to diagnose and treat," says Dr. C. Eugene Carlton, deputy chief of The Methodist Hospital Urology Service. "It responds well to treatments with a variety of antibiotics."

Carlton says chronic prostatitis is the most common cause of recurring urinary infections in males. Although it is harder to treat, symptoms are less severe than those of acute infectious prostatitis.

The only symptoms may be recurring infections of the bladder. Treating chronic prostatitis requires a patient to take antibiotics for a prolonged period -- six weeks or more, according to Carlton.

For noninfectious prostatitis, treatments include a change in diet or use of alpha blockers, drugs that reduce the difficulty of urination by relaxing muscle tissue in the prostate.

An even more common prostate problem is benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH), or enlarged prostate. This affects 70 percent of all men over age 65, and men who live into their mid-80s have at least a 90 percent chance of developing it.

The most routine treatment is a transurethral resection of the prostate (TURP), a removal of the enlarged part of the prostate that re-opens the urinary tract.

"An enlarged prostate is the most common reason for surgery in men over 50," says Dr. Peter Scardino, chief of Methodist's Urology Service. "A TURP is very effective, and it generally cures the problem for life."

But the surgery does have some complications. Scardino says there is a small (one percent) risk of death during surgery due to a typical patient's advanced age. A TURP can also cause incontinence and can lead to impotence in some cases.

A new drug being tested at Methodist may eventually offer an alternative to surgery for many men. "The drug, Proscar, should be in general use by 1992," says Scardino.

Volunteers re needed for a four-year, multi-center study.

Males ages 50 to 85 who urinate frequently, have difficulty urinating, or who have trouble delaying urination are needed.

Anyone interested may call 1-800-367-9090 from 12:30-3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Why is it?

A man wakes up in the morning after sleeping on an advertised bed, in advertised pajamas.

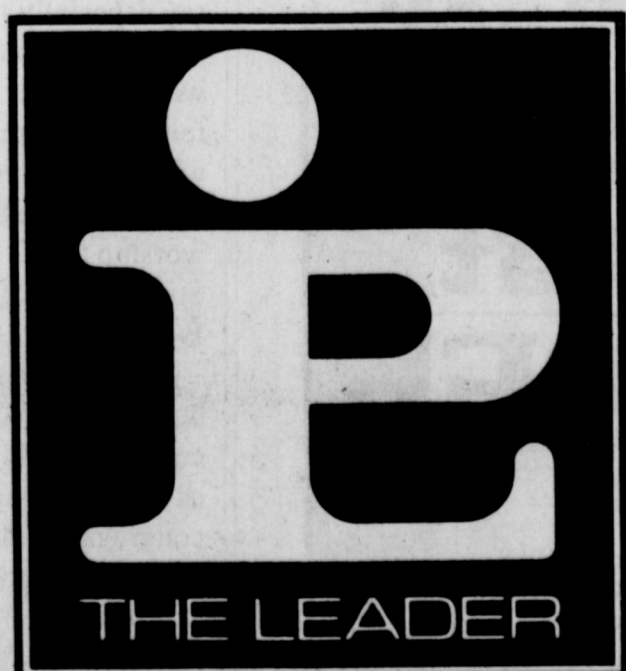

He will bathe in an advertised tub, wash with advertised soap, shave with an advertised razor, have a breakfast of advertised juice, cereal and toast (toasted in an advertised toaster), put on advertised clothes and glance at his advertised watch.

He will ride to work in an advertised car, sit at an advertised desk, smoke advertised cigars and write with an advertised pen.

Yet this man hesitates to advertise, saying that advertising does not pay.

Finally, when his unadvertised business goes under, he will advertise it for sale.

Iowa Park to host Major All-Star tournament

Iowa Park will host the area tournament for Little League Major All-Star teams next week.

SPORTS

Breckenridge High will have a new baseball coach next year. He is Thomas Dittmar, who most recently has been head coach and athletic director at Dublin High School. He explained he wanted to get out of the responsibilities of athletic directing. Dittmar played seven years in the Cincinnati Reds' organization.

Bowie's top-scoring basketball player, Brady Fitzner, has signed a letter of intent to play for Hardin-Simmons Univ. He averaged 23 points a game his senior year, including a high of 45 against Gainesville.

Players age 11 and 12 years old will be playing at the W.F. George East Field on West Magnolia. The tournament is a double elimination format.

Sheppard AFB and Burkburnett will play the first of two games slated Monday, starting at 5 p.m.

That will be followed at 7:30 by Iowa Park and Electra, according to Steve Smith, local Little League president.

In the first game Tuesday, losers of Monday's game will face off, and winners of the first night will play in the second game.

Wednesday's competition will be between the two teams with one loss. That is to get underway at 7:30 p.m.

The championship game will be played at 7:30 Thursday evening. Because one team will not have a loss and the other will, a second championship game could be played Friday, should the team without a loss going into Thursday's game lose.

Winner of the area tournament will advance to the district tournament, which is scheduled to commence July 13 at Sheppard AFB.

The Air Force base will be hosting three tournaments that week, all starting July 13.

Besides the Major League meet, the Senior League district tournament will be played there, with six teams competing. Additionally, the District tournament for Senior League girls' softball is scheduled, between Iowa Park, Jack County and Graham.

Also getting underway July 13, at Burkburnett, will be the Junior League (age 13) tournament for boys from Iowa Park, Burkburnett and Olney.

Iowa Park's three boys' All-Star teams include:

MAJOR LEAGUE

SENIOR LEAGUE

James Armstrong, Kyle Cox, David
