Parker Square branch slates grand opening

The Iowa Park branch of Parker Square Bank opened its doors Monday for business, but will observe its grand opening Saturday.

The facility now occupies the former office of TU Electric, and has been completely renovated, inside and outside.

Directors of the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce will participate in a ribbon-cutting ceremony with bank officials at 12-noon.

Activities will continue until 4 p.m., including food and refreshments which will be served under a tent, tours of the building, hourly prize giveaways, the bank's "treasure chest" where "scooping up coins" will be available, music by the T-Bone Road Band, and a live radio remote broadcast.

The east-bound lane of West Park will be closed in the 200 block, to make room for the tent and activities.

Workers were still putting on the finishing touches inside and outside the building when the branch office opened Monday.

However, Iowa Park native Douglas James, a Senior Vice President of Parker Square Bank who will serve as the branch's manager, said Monday he expects all work to be completed in time for the grand opening.

The facility was originally to have been opened March 31.

The building had been constructed for and occupied by TU Electric since 1976.

Leader to print early next week

For the second time in four weeks, the Leader will be printed one day early next week.

In order to print Tuesday night, instead of the usual Wednesday, all deadlines will be one day early.

Similar to the early printing in June, the change in publication date is necessary to allow members of the staff to attend another press convention, this time the West Texas Press Assn.

Regular deadlines will be observed for the July 29 issue.

'SMASH AND DASH'

Convenience store is hit

The third "smash and dash" burglary of a local business in about nine months was discovered by a patrolling officer early Wednesday morning.

Someone knocked out a front glass door at K & K Food Store and reportedly took 21 cartons of various brands of cigarettes, 17 pairs of sunglasses and 10 food stamps of $1 denomination. Along with the damage to the door, the business suffered an estimated loss of $646.

The other two similar burglaries were at Food Depot.

The officer on patrol said he had checked K & K approximately two hours prior to his discovery, while making his rounds.

Three different persons were arrested for unrelated offenses during the past week, according to the police blotter.

FIRST OF MANY new homes are under construction on Johnson Road, where one home is already occupied and four others are in various stages of completion. At least three developers have

Trustees facing budget with less state funding

With the knowledge that they are facing a year in which considerably less money from state can be expected, Iowa Park school trustees got their first look at the proposed 1993-94 budget.

Supt. Glen Mitchell told the board he has been informed by the state education agency that Iowa Park would receive $351,000 less in state funds than it did last year.

"We're going to get about $2001 per student," Mitchell told the board. He added that this year's funding is absolute, and no "proration" formula would be used, he has been told.

During Tuesday's work session, principals Richard Davis and Randy Lovelady explained their budget requests, as did Robert Palmer for the transportation department and Allan Shewmake for the tax office.

The next meeting, expected in some two weeks, both elementary principals will make their presentations, and requests for maintenance will be detailed.

Using a formula of a $1.12 tax rate for the purpose of organizing a tentative budget, revenues of $7,813,761 were presented and estimated expenditures were $7,808,526.

The district expects to have $800,000 carried over from this year's budget, the superintendent told the board. However, $100,000 of that is earmarked for the construction of a special education facility at the high school.

The 1992-93 budget for Iowa Park was $7,374,109.

Significant in the proposed budget, compared with the outgoing year's, is the fact that total salaries would be reduced from 71.63 percent of the total budget to 69.76.

Reductions also were figured in the areas of contracted services, supplies and materials, capital outlay and "other uses," while minor increases were requested in debt service and "other operating expenses."

Board chairman Keith Fisher, after hearing that the district had made no gain in its carryover fund, which is necessary to meet payroll and other first-of-the-year expenses before state and local monies are received, told the board he was "concerned we are losing ground again."

In his written introduction to the proposed budget, Supt. Mitchell stated, "The preliminary budget is being presented to you just as the administrators presented their budgets to me. An eight cent tax increase will be necessary to fund the preliminary budget. The revenue is based on preliminary figures from the Texas Education Agency and the Wichita Appraisal District. The budget does not include any of the additional personnel that were asked for in the campus plans."

May sales tax down slightly

Sales tax collections in Iowa Park slipped somewhat during May, and as a result the city's percentage of gain over the previous year fell below two other cities in the county for the first time in about two years.

Burkburnett and Electra reported whopping gains for May, as compared to the same month in 1992. Burkburnett had an 18.45-percent increase and Electra a whopping 78.51-percent.

Iowa Park, according to the state comptroller's office, received only 2.14-percent more in sales taxes in May than it did the previous year: $14,506.34 as compared to $14,202.54.

Burk's report lifted that city to an increase of 8.03 percent for the year, as compared to 6.65 for Iowa Park. But it didn't dig Electra out of the minus hole, as that city is 0.03-percent below its total for this time in 1992.

Council again delays trash decision

Because all the information they wanted was still not available when the city council took up the issue of solid waste disposal, the future of Iowa Park's landfill will not be decided until at least next week.

Aldermen had been hopeful that information they felt they needed to decide what to do in the future with garbage would be on hand during Monday night's regularly-scheduled meeting.

It wasn't, however, so the issue will be on the council's agenda for a called meeting next Monday, which had originally been set to work on next year's budget.

The council had called for bids from private disposal firms, to find the cost of providing either a landfill for city's trash collection, or both collection and disposal.

Two firms, Bell Group and Texas Waste Management, had submitted bids. But those bids were different, as Administrator Mike Price found when the sealed documents were opened.

Bell had submitted its bid, based on future anticipated prices it will be charged by the City of Wichita Falls, where it plans to dump. The prices reflected costs the corporation anticipates, when Wichita Falls increases its rates to meet federal mandates for landfills.

Texas Waste Management's bids were on current prices, which do not reflect prices which are charged once the government's "Subtitle D" mandates go into effect on Oct. 9.

Information on a possible joining of three cities, Iowa Park, Burkburnett and Vernon, all using a landfill at Burkburnett was not available.

In fact, Mayor Wayne House said Burkburnett Manager Gary Bean had told him he didn't want other cities using that landfill.

Bean had explained that the Burk pit was rapidly filling with shingles, following a major hail storm that struck that city about a month ago.

Mayor House said Bell representatives had expressed considerable interest in assuming Iowa Park's landfill site, especially since adjoining land owners had indicated they would sell that property so the site could be used several years in the future.

House said if the landfill were assumed by Bell, the city could likely survive several years without raising its trash collection rates to local customers. indicated they plan to build more than 150 other new homes in Iowa Park during the coming months, to meet the demand of people moving into the area.

Another possible alternative was sought by Alderman Johnny Crawford. Expressing fear of the city getting completely out of the garbage collection activity, thus becoming at the mercy of a private operator, he wants an option explored that would have the city continue collections and then hauling it to the Wichita Falls landfill.

Crawford said he had spoken with Wichita Falls Mayor Michael Lam about that prospect, and when he asked what the cost might be, was told the price would not be known until the end of August.

In the bidding by the private firms for trash collecting, prices were asked for once-a-week pickup, twice weekly, of residences, and variations for pickups at commercial operations.

Bids also were asked, should the same size trash containers now in use be continued, and then on various size roll-out containers for residences.

Keith Hooks, sales manager for Texas Waste Management, answered numerous questions posed by aldermen, and said his firm's bids would be honored, whether the waste were trucked to the Wichita Falls landfill, or the firm's own facility at Sherman.

Aldermen decided to wait until Monday's meeting before making a final decision, both to have time to weigh the options and also in hopes of obtaining additional figures on which to base their decision.

The city had planned to close out its landfill operation prior to Oct. 8, having originally set Aug. 1 as the cutoff date any trash could be taken there.

However, that closing date could possibly be extended, according to some informal information voiced during the meeting. It was said cities that needed more time to close out their existing landfills might be given until the following April.

Price said he would attempt to get something in writing from Austin on what the closing date must be.

The council had originally been told the landfill must be closed by Oct. 8, or be faced with complying with the mandates of Subtitle D, which would cost the city several thousands of dollars both initially and in the future.

In other business, the council authorized Price to advertise for bids to purchase materials and construct a facility to be used as a used-oil reclaiming center. Most of the cost, estimated at less than $5,000, will be funded by the state.

News Briefs

Showers grow smiles locally

"Just a few weeks ago, we were crying for the rains to stop. Now we are needing a couple of inches," commented an Iowa Park resident early this week.

Early morning showers Tuesday and Wednesday brought smiles to most farmers and homeowners, but they weren't satisfied.

The city received a quarter of an inch Tuesday and, by early Wednesday, an additional tenth, bringing the total to .35, Virgil Woodfin reported.

Commodities available Thursday

Surplus U.S.D.A. food commodities will be distributed between 3 and 6 p.m. Thursday, July 22, at the First Christian Church.

The tentative list of foods that will be available that day, according to local coordinator Frances Park, will be canned peaches and canned pork.

VFW may form post here

An organizational meeting that could lead to the establishment of a Veterans of Foreign Wars post here will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, July 22, at the Optimist Club building, corner of Magnolia and West Highway.

Persons interested in the VFW or participating in the organization can contact Bobbie Birdett at 592-27411.

Methodists welcome new minister

By MYRNA SMITH

That lives and careers often change from the goals set by individuals during their maturing years is typified by Rev. Derrel Glen Blackmon.

Rev. Blackmon and his family arrived in Iowa Park in June for him to take over duties as pastor in charge at First United Methodist Church, by appointment of the Northwest Texas Conference of Methodist Churches.

The Texas "born and bred" pastor saw the first light of day in Dallas. He spent most of his growing up years in the piney woods of deep East Texas and was raised in the Baptist Church.

But, at the age of 26 Blackmon became a member of the Methodist Church. He said, "Many people become Christians through their upbringing, but change to another denomination later in life because of the way they believe as they get older."

He graduated Hawkins High School in 1975 where he was active in the sport of football, one that he still is a fanatic about. By his own admission, "I love the game", adding that he always thought he would like to play pro-football.

At that time his real desire was to be in law enforcement and in 1976 he went into the military, serving in the Air Force Security Police, spending some time in Turkey.

His plan was to pursue his chosen career when he got out of military service, which he did until 1981.

"Then I was called into the ministry, with God as my only guiding force," the pastor said.

He attended East Texas State University at Commerce where he received his Bachelor degree in Business Administration. He then enrolled in Southern Methodist University Perkins School of Theology where he received his Master of Theology degree.

During the time he was a student at East Texas State and at SMU he worked as a student pastor. His last three months at SMU he did circuit preaching, serving three churches at the same time by staggering worship schedules. His last circuit preaching was in 1989.

Iowa Park is Rev. Blackmon's second church to be pastor in charge.

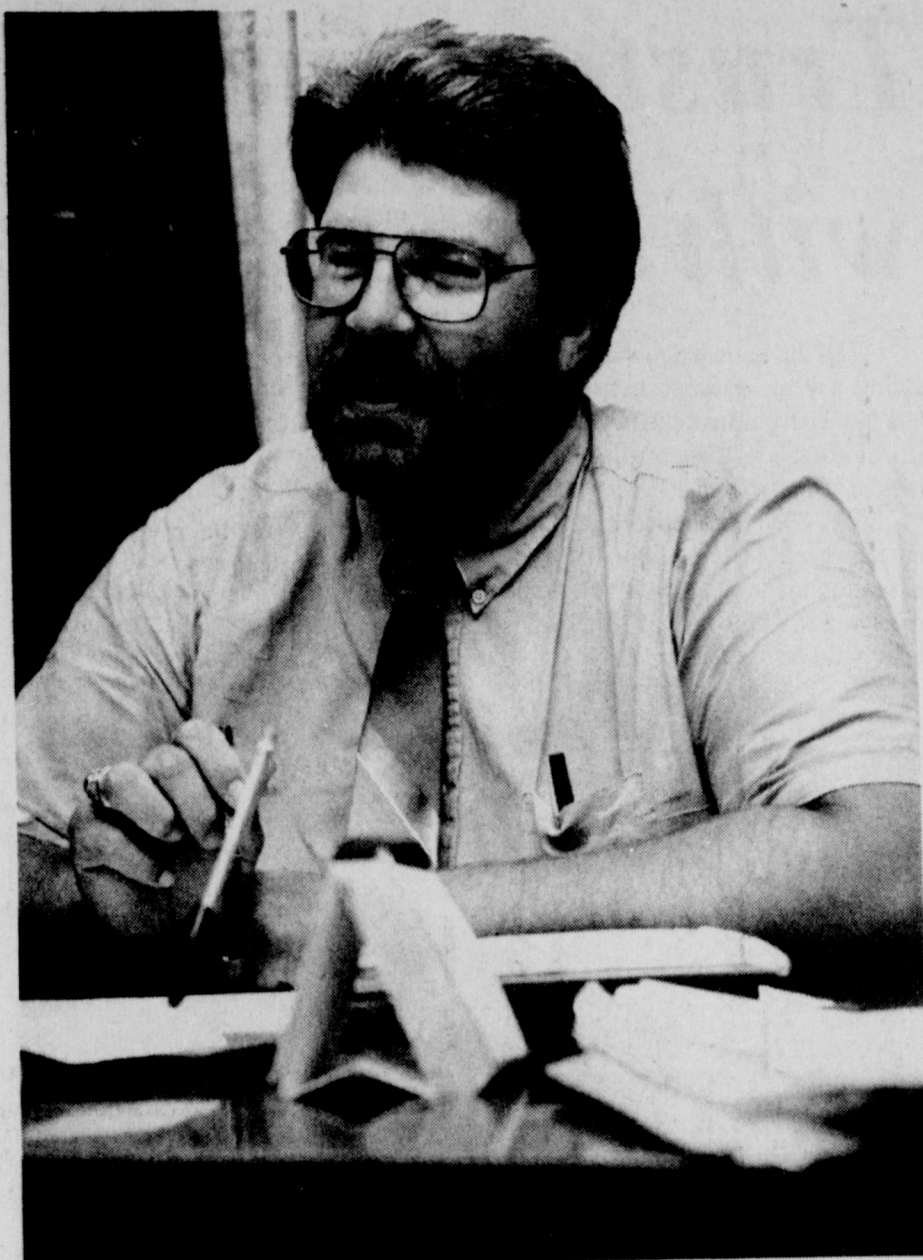

He moved here from Greenville where he had been pastor of Westview United Methodist Church. He also had served as associate pastor at Wesley United Methodist Church.

He has had some training in Crisis Counseling, and hopes to be able to go back to college and get his Doctorate in that field. He also has had some training in marriage counseling, but his goal is for pastoral counseling.

The pastor says his family is now comfortably settled in, "and we love it here."

With his ready smile, he said "In fact we have agreed we think that Iowa Park is just a really nice place to call home. We love the area and the community."

The Blackmons have two sons, Darrel Glen Jr., 15, who will be a sophomore this year, and Derek Gene, 12, who will be a seventh grader. Their daughter, Deidra Gail, soon will be five years old and will start kindergarten this fall.

Rev. Derrel Glen Blackmon

He jokes that the kids get a little upset with him when he calls them by the wrong name and finally says, "whichever one you are, come here." It's understandable their names might be easy to confuse, when you look at all of the Ds and Gs.

Rev. Blackmon praises his wife, Charlotte, for what he considers being the perfect homemaker. "She really cares for her home and taking care of and doing things for and with the children", he said. She has done some substitute teaching at times.

The family enjoys doing things as a family and share their hobbies. Blackmon and his oldest son are avid golfers, and Charlotte is taking up golf now.

Derek isn't interested in golf, but loves archery, which also is a favorite of his dad's. Derrel Glen doesn't like bow hunting, but likes to hunt. The only time Rev. Blackmon uses a gun to hunt is when he and Derrel hunt together.

"I learned to love hunting when I was growing up in the East Texas woods," Blackmon commented. He has done some wild game hunting. He added, "To me hunting is so much more than a sport or game, it is therapy for me and is part of my communion with God. To be able to be outside, next to nature and to observe and meditate on all that God has done."

Rev. Blackmon believes any gift he has come from God and that his number one gift is his family. "I will do my best to spend quality time with them and give them the best deal that I can", he said.

"I am very proud of the active youth program in the church here. We have a lot of young people in the more than 450-member congregation.

"I am looking forward to being able to serve the community and toward continuing the active part the church has exercised in the community, and to my being active in the Ministerial Alliance," Rev. Blackmon said.

As I See It... By Bob Hamilton

Somebody needs to take their finger off the fast-forward button.

Where has this summer gone already? Have you given any thought to the fact that school starts in only five more weeks?

wouldn't pass so quickly. Nah, I kinda like it the way it is.

GARDEN HINTS Saving water

By MARK TERNING
County Agent - Horticulture
High winds coupled with blistering heat can result in high water bills and drought-stressed plants.

I'm afraid to blink my eyes while looking at the calendar, because, the way time is passing so rapidly, after I blink it might be December already.

Council

Lytle was officially named the city's fire marshal. He had several years experience in that position at Anson.

Some very simple, easy-to-follow techniques can take the heat out of your monthly water bill while keeping your lawn and landscape in the green.

During my youth, I was always looking forward to something way ahead in the future, like Christmas, a birthday, the end of school or another football season.

Price said he expects the street crew to complete all the work on opening the 400 block of West Park, except laying of the asphalt, within two weeks. After that, it will be open for use, including entrances onto the parking lots of the businesses.

When to water
* Turf and landscape areas should be watered in the morning when evaporative water loss is minimal. The next best time is the evening, however, plants and turf areas which stay wet over night can develop disease problems occasionally.

Time passed slowly, and I remember being bored a lot of the time.

The council also approved a request from Parker Square Bank to close the east-bound lane of the 200 block of West Park on Saturday, when that new business holds its grand opening.

* Avoid watering in the heat of the afternoon when evaporation rates are high.

These days, I have a hard time looking beyond another weekly issue of the paper. Actually, it's more of a day-to-day basis.

And I'm never bored.
Maybe I need to get bored, so time

How to water
* Use soaker hoses or drip-irrigation in landscape beds and gardens. These devices apply water at the root zone of your plants with very little evaporative water loss.

* Cover bed areas and garden soils with a mulch material (straw, cypress mulch, bark chips etc.). A good mulch greatly reduces moisture evaporation and serves as an attractive ground cover.

* In lawns, use a sprinkler which emits large droplets of water at a fairly low angle to the ground. Avoid using sprinklers which spray a fine mist high in the air.

* Lawns will require about one inch of water every five to six days during the driest periods of summer. This deep yet infrequent watering develops stronger and deeper root systems.

* Most hose end sprinklers will put out 1/4 to 1/3 inch of water per hour, so they would need to run about four hours in one turf area.

Avoid water run-off by watering in one-hour sessions which allows for water penetration into soil.

* Established trees, shrubs, and groundcovers will benefit from a thorough watering every two weeks. Normal lawn watering is not a substitute for thorough three and shrub watering.

* Water at the dripline of trees and shrubs where the feeder roots are located. Simply lay a slow-running hose on the ground and move it around the dripline as each area becomes saturated to a depth of 8 to 10 inches.

Worth Quoting

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was written by Walter E. Williams, who teaches economics at George Mason Univ. in Fairfax, Va. The column is distributed by Creators Syndicate.)

Let's face it. Tobacco smoke odor is offensive to some people. It causes allergic reactions and bronchial discomfort to others. But we all should take note of the issues surrounding the recently announced tobacco industry lawsuit against the Environmental Protection Agency. The critical issue it raises is whether we should allow zealots to rig data and misuse science in their efforts to command and control others.

When the EPA classified environmental tobacco smoke as a group A carcinogen, putting it in the category with benzene and asbestos, its actions were based on statistical methodology that would earn an F for a sophomore statistics student, if not expulsion for intellectual dishonesty.

Twenty-four of the 30 studies that the EPA reviewed reported no statistically significant environmental tobacco smoke-lung cancer relationship. Of the 11 studies done by U.S. scientists, not one reported significant cancer risk. The EPA was aware of and ignored the findings of the two largest and most recent studies on environmental tobacco smoke-lung cancer (Stockwell, 1992; Brownson, 1992, sponsored by the National Cancer Institute). Both studies report no increased lung cancer risk with exposure to environmental tobacco smoke, as did 80 percent of the studies EPA had in its possession.

Biased and sloppy analysis like that would earn EPA officials an F, but here's what would lead to expulsion. All scientists require minimally what is statistically known as a "95 percent level of confidence" before they report a causal connection between two variables. In other words, they will accept a maximum level of 5 percent that the connection was by chance. In most cases, scientists want to make it tighter than that -- a 99 or 98 percent level of confidence. But guess what the EPA did when it combined several environmental tobacco smoke-lung cancer studies. Unbeknownst and unreported to the public, it lowered the confidence interval to 90 percent! Had it stuck to the minimally acceptable practice of 95 percent, assignment of environmental tobacco smoke as a group A carcinogen would have been impossible. This is gross dishonesty, and all EPA bureaucrats involved should be summarily fired.

Let's say you hate the odor of tobacco smoke and smokers. That's OK. But the critical issue is whether you think it's good for our nation to allow government officials to deliberately misuse science. And when have you known liars to be satisfied with just one lie? The next lie could be about something you value that might be banned or restricted as a result.

You say, "But, Williams, tobacco smoke is offensive to me, and something needs to be done." I agree, and that's the benefit of private property. In your house, a person doesn't have the right to smoke without your permission. If you own a restaurant, bar or office, it's the same thing. If I don't like your policy, I don't enter. It works the other way too. If a person owns a restaurant, bar or office and he permits smoking, you have the right to say you won't eat, drink or work at his facility. As of late, Americans have abandoned this conflict-reducing role of private property in favor of government intimidation, threat and violence. That's fine except when you consider that you may not always be on the side of the dominant coalition, and it will be you who is victimized by official lies, threats and intimidation.

One politician has complained that the small-town newspaper gives off "mixed signals." He says "they are too darn conservative with their politics and too darn liberal with their comments."

CRIME PREVENTION TIPS

Do you lock the doors of your residence at night?

Sure. But burglary can occur at any hour.

A thief does not mind if he has to work the day shift or night shift. Many of us assume that burglary only occurs after dark, therefore, we are leaving our property unsecured as an open invitation to a burglar during daytime hours.

Contact the Iowa Park Police Department Crime Prevention Unit for tips on how to reduce a crime risk in your area.

Mrs. Larry Stutte

Patsy Conn Stutte retired in 1992, after being in the nursing profession 18 and a half years, so she could become more involved with her church and family.

She is married to Dr. Larry Stutte, a physician at Park Clinic.

The Stutte's are members of Faith Baptist Church where Patsy helps with Vacation Bible School and visitation, and Larry teaches an adult Sunday school class. They accompanied a church youth group on a trip to Galveston during spring break.

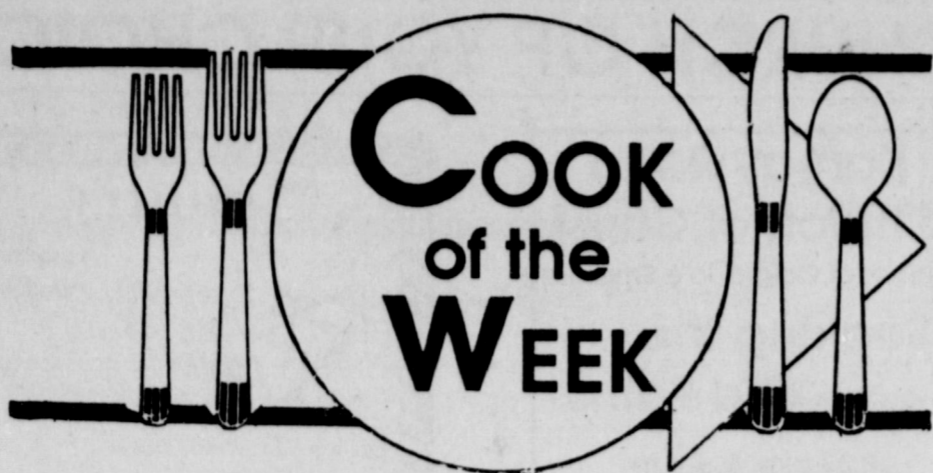

Patsy grew up in southwest Oklahoma and received her BSN in Nursing at Central State Univ., MSN in Nursing at Arizona State University, and PhD in Nursing at Texas Women's University.

She was a floor nurse six years, Director of Nurses three years at Frederick Memorial Hospital and Wichita General. She also taught nursing for nine and a half years at Midwestern State and Cameron Universities.

She met Larry, who grew up in southeast Oklahoma and is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, while they were both working at Frederick Memorial Hospital. They were married in 1981.

Patsy's favorite pastimes are movies, reading, handcrafts, and "petting" and raising cats. She also lists spending time with her husband, when possible, and other family members, including her mother and father who moved to Iowa Park two years ago.

Patsy said the recipes for this week's column were gathered with the assistance of her mother.

Rotary Club officers installed

Installation of new officers of the Rotary Club of Iowa Park was Wednesday, July 6, at the new conference room of Park Clinic.

New officers are Jack Martin, president; Doug Albus, vice president; Delbert Todd, secretary, and John Rains, treasurer.

Warren Silver, long time member of the Rotary Club of Wichita Falls, installed new officers.

Out-going president Jim Smeaton highlighted the impact Rotary Club has had in the community of Iowa Park and in the larger world community through the Rotary Foundation.

Focus of the club is being directed more in the local area than in the past, yet was able to remain near the top in per capita giving to the foundation when compared to all clubs in the District.

Martin, incoming president, indicated his focus will be on club membership growth. A larger club will be able to serve a wider range of needs in the community.

The Rotary Club meets each Wednesday at noon at the RAC.

JESUS IS LORD!

In Ephesians 1:19-23 and 5:22-33, we are fascinated by the awesome scope of the sovereign authority of the Redeemer. Jesus is not only the Lord of our life, He is also the head of the church which is His spiritual body. God is glorified "in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end" (Ephesians 3:20, 21). Faithful members of the Lord's body must never forget this. We are caused to rejoice as we bow in loving submission to the King of our lives (Revelation 17:14). If you have never allowed Jesus to be your Lord, you are missing the greatest relationship this earth affords. Please read Galatians 3:27 and 2 Corinthians 5:17. "For as many of you has have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ. Therefore, if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature." Living in harmony with these passages will cause one to exclaim the beautiful words of John 20:28, "My Lord and my God!"

On the day of Pentecost (Acts 2), when the church of our Lord was established, sinners were told: "God hath made that same Jesus both Lord and Christ." The Anointed One is also our Master. That very day three thousand people paid homage to the Lordship of Jesus. Acts 2:41 and Acts 2:47 tell us, "those who gladly received the word were baptized, and there were added unto them that day about three thousand souls...And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved." Will we own and crown Jesus as our Lord this very day? Remember, Christ must be Lord of all or He will not be Lord at all. May we commit all to His blessed care.

If you have questions concerning how Jesus can become the Lord of your life, give us a call. We welcome the opportunity to be of service.

Welcome To The

Tournament team finishes 2nd at Burkburnett

Iowa Park's eight-year-old tournament team finished in second place in a tournament last week at Burkburnett.

The club was to play Graham on Monday, but that team forfeited. Advancing into the second round Tuesday, Iowa Park knocked off Burkburnett 15-7, and Wednesday took measure of Sheppard 17-9.

Wednesday's win set up a playoff Saturday for the tournament championship. Because Sheppard had one loss and Iowa Park none, it turned out to be a doubleheader.

Despite losing to Iowa Park 17-9 in the first meeting, the SAFB club got its revenge with a 14-13 decision. That set up a one-game championship.

And Sheppard won that one also, again by one run, 15-14.

Coach Randy Kirksey said he was very proud of the Iowa Park team. "They played their hearts out," he said, "we were very proud of them."

Clensay tells of coaching assignments

Iowa Park Athletic Director Robert Clensay told the school board Tuesday night he still had one coaching position to be filled, but expects to make that decision in a very short time.

Clensay told trustees he has a large list of applicants from which he will make his decision within two weeks.

He explained changes he has made in coaching assignments, both of those who return from last year and new staff members.

In almost every case, coaches will be involved in three sports, as well as their regular classroom duties, Clensay said.

He emphasized the point, about the assignments, "We're going to concentrate on the sport in season (during the school year)."

The high school and junior high coaching staff this year include (* denotes newly-hired personnel):

ROBERT CLENSAY - athletic director; head football coach; assistant track; assistant golf.

JAMES SKEELER - varsity football, offensive coordinator; boys and girls golf; assistant track.

STEVE STEWART - varsity football; junior varsity defensive coordinator; head powerlifting; strength and conditioning coordinator.

* BRETT WHITE - 9th grade and junior varsity football; 9th grade and JV boys basketball; assistant track.

JOHN HOELTER - head girls basketball; cross country; head girls track.

* LARRY ZACHARY - junior high football; 9th grade girls basketball; assistant baseball.

CRYSTAL LEAR - 8th grade girls basketball; junior high track.

BOB GRAY - 7th grade football; 8th grade boys basketball; junior high boys track.

* JEFF STANDARD - 8th grade football; 7th grade boys basketball;

junior high boys track.

JOYCE SMITH - 7th and 8th grade girls basketball; track.

The remaining coaching position responsibilities will be junior high football; 9th grade boys basketball; 7th and 8th grade track.

Lake Buffalo stocked with Florida bass

By SCOTT ROBINSON
Texas Park & Wildlife Department

Two area lakes were recently stocked with fish by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Buffalo Creek Reservoir (known locally as Lake Buffalo) was stocked with 139,987 Florida largemouth bass fingerlings and Lake Diverson received 177,710 of the same fingerlings.

This was the first introduction of Florida largemouth bass in each of these reservoirs.

Florida bass are not stocked simply to provide more fish to anglers. Instead, TPWD biologists stock Florida bass to change the genetic characteristics of the largemouth bass population.

Florida largemouth bass grow faster and reach larger sizes than the native northern largemouth bass. As the Florida bass grow to maturity and reproduce, they will breed with native bass and produce offspring that grow faster and larger than native bass.

The end result should be more quality and trophy size largemouth bass available to anglers in the future.

Stocking Florida bass has been quite successful in other lakes around the state, and nearly all the bass on the Texas Top 50 Largemouth Bass list were pure Florida bass or offspring of Florida and native bass.

Both Buffalo and Diverson have some good largemouth bass habitat and Parks and Wildlife biologists expect the recent Florida bass stockings to improve the quality of bass fishing in both these lakes.

Lake Diverson also received 3,388,000 walleye fry this year. Walleye are not native to Texas but have been stocked by the TPWD in areas with suitable habitat to increase diversity and provide an additional sportfish for anglers.

Walleye were first stocked in Lake Diverson in 1969 and appear to have established a small population since that time.

Occasional stockings of walleye fry or fingerlings are used to supplement the population when natural reproduction appears inadequate.

During the summer, walleye are usually caught in deep water near offshore structure or on the rip rap along the dam. Good baits to use include spinners, curly tail grubs, live minnows and nightcrawlers.

Stocking hatchery-reared fish has been a useful tool for fisheries managers since the late 1800s. However, stocking is not the answer to all fisheries management problems.

TPWD biologists stock fish in Texas to accomplish a variety of objectives. As mentioned earlier, fish are stocked in some situations to enhance the genetic characteristics of existing populations, to establish new species of sportfish, and to supplement existing populations when natural reproduction is limited.

Stocking is also used in new or renovated reservoirs to establish strong initial year classes of desirable species. Catchable size fish (primarily trout) are stocked to provide additional angling opportunities in heavily-fished areas or at times when fishing is typically slow for other species.

Hatchery-reared fish are also used to restore populations that have been reduced or eliminated by a natural or man-made catastrophe, and to increase catch or harvest rates by increasing populations.

The primary goal of most stocking efforts in Texas is to establish self-sustained fish populations that will provide quality fishing opportunities to anglers.

There are currently no lake records established for largemouth bass at Buffalo Creek or Diverson, and there is no walleye record established for Diverson.

The Inland Fisheries office at 409 Chester in Wichita Falls would like to establish records for these lakes. If anyone catches a fish they would like to have certified, they should bring it by the office or give us a call at 766-2383.

Helpful Facts

Persons other than the property owner doing work on a residence must be a licensed building contractor, plumber, electrician, or heating and air conditioning contractor with the City of Iowa Park, and carry a performance bond.

SENIOR LEAGUE ALL-STARS for 1993 include Camie Fischer, Ashli Thomas, Leticia Osborne, Shaye Wiese, Misty Beavers, Kim Scobee, Jennifer Nicholson, Lori Wiggins, Lori Spruiell, Tammy Myers, Belinda Terry and Geri Merrick. Lonnie Fischer is manager and Randy Scobee the coach.

SPORTS Shorts

Long-time Iowa Park coach, and graduate of Iowa Park High School, Daryl Frazier, has been hired as varsity football defensive coordinator at the AAA school of Frisco, north of Plano, under Coach David Kirkendal.

Shane Dunn, second-year Iowa Park Midget lineman, recently returned from the second annual four-day Emmitt Smith football camp, held this year at Texas Christian Univ. in Fort Worth. "I'm tired. They worked us hard," young Dunn said.

Senior All-Stars in tourney final

Iowa Park's Girls Senior League All-Stars will be gunning for the district tournament championship tonight in Graham.

The team knocked off both the other clubs in the tourney, defeating Jack County 27-20 Monday and Graham 32-11 Tuesday, to advance into tonight's 7 o'clock final.

Because the tournament has a double-elimination format, should Graham win tonight, the two teams would meet again Friday, and could possibly contest once more Saturday.

The district champion advances to Waco.

Shaye Wiese pitched for Iowa Park Monday and Lori Spruiell Tuesday, both working all seven innings.

Rural Housing Program applications encouraged

"Loan services from the Farmers Home Administration will be expedited for the rural residents in the state of Texas," stated George Ellis, new state director of the FmHA.

Ellis declared an all-out effort to review and process every completed Rural Housing Program loan application from throughout rural Texas.

In order to meet the tremendous housing needs of rural Texans by utilizing loan allocations that have been returned to Washington in past years, Ellis has set a deadline of Aug. 1 of this year for completion by all district directors.

Any assistance needed by a county or district office in order to meet the deadline will be provided by other district offices and by the state office in Temple.

Ellis said that he is implementing USDA Secretary Mike Espy's dedication to quality customer service.

"We want our applicants to regard us as partners, and we intend to treat rural Texans right.
