General rains of quite nice quantities have been pouring out in this area the past several days and everybody is happy to weleach and every drop!

Beautiful part of the whole deal is that the rains have not neglected the watersheds of Iowa Park's three lakes. J. C. Keiningham, water superintendent, has been keeping an eye on the rain gauge at the e. ping station, and watch . the vater run into the lakes with great interest and satisfaction. He reports:

A 4-foot rise in the Old City Tale. A 3-foot rise in Lake Iowa Park.

A 5-foot rise in Buffalo Creek Reservoir. He siso said late Wednesday the creeks are full and still running into the storage lakes. Pumping of water from the irrigation ditch has been discontinued, and in a day or two all the water used by Iowa Park homes and businesses will be of highest quality. Buffalo Creek Reservoir, which was completed in the fall of 1964 and which has never had sufficient water to allow its use, now has enough to start pumping.
