Strange Origins Of Some Common Words

"LOVE" - In tennis, "love" means no score, a puzzling term for it makes no sense — until you know the reason. In France, where the game originated, the term for no score was "l'oef" meaning "egg" - just as Americans sometimes say "goose egg," meaning the very same thing - a big zero on the score board. To English tongues, "l'oef" soon be-

"QUIZ" - This word was deliberately created, in 1780, by a Dublin theater-owner on a bet that he could invent a meaning. less word and get people to use it. He and his friends painted the word "quiz" on fences, barns, and pavements all night long — and soon people were asking what it meant. Quiz became ask - and spread all over the world.

"OUCHLESS" - This word was also created - by an ad man to dramatize the fact that Curad bandages can be removed without pain because of a patented Telfa pad which will not adhere to a wound. Actually, this painless feature is not as important as another advantage of the same "ouchless" bandage: it does not interrupt healing, because the scab remains intact when the bandage is removed. Understandably, that's too long a story for even an ad man to compress into a single word! Try it yourself.

"SUNDAE" - An ancient Evanston law made it illegal to sell ice-cream sodas on Sunday, So, a resourceful druggist created a substitute - a large scoop of ice cream covered with a flavored syrup. He created the name "Sundae" to suggest its use when he was not allowed to serve the then

SUMMER DESSERTS MADE WITH COOKIES

Open two packages of cookies; combine with other instants; and produce this pair of summer desserts. The first package, Apple Strudel Cookies, forms the bottom crust for vanilla ice cream pie which is served with a fruit sauce.

The second package, Old Fashion Ginger Snaps is layered, parfait style, with instant butterscotch pudding enriched with Cool cooking!

COOKIE ICE CREAM PIE

Break 18 Apple Strudel Cookies into small pieces and spread evenly on bottom of an 8-inch round cake or quiche pan. Pack I quart softened vanilla ice cream on top. Preeze. In a small sauce-pan, blend 4 teaspoons cornstarch and 1 cup orange juice. Cook until thickened; add 1 (10-ounce) package frozen strawberry halves, thawed. Cool. Stir in 1 medium sliced ripe banana and 1 cup fresh blueberries. Serve over ice cream topped cookies. Makes 8 (3-inch) wedges.

GINGER PARFAIT Prepare 1 (3%-ounce) package butterscotch instant pudding according to package directions using 1½ cups milk. Beat in ½ cup dairy sour cream; chill. Break 18 Old Fashion Ginger Snaps into small pieces and combine with 6 tablespoons flaked coconut. Layer pudding with crumb mixture in 6 parfait glasses.

Garnish each with a whole cookie and coconut. Makes 6 (1 cup)

Read Books

If you read "Oh! Promised Land" by James Street and wish to continue the series, we now have a copy of "Tap Roots." We have "Tomorrow We Reap," and have ordered "Mingo Dabney."

Our thanks this week to Martha Canterbury and family, who are leaving town and gave 55 books to the library, and have given many books in the past. They have been constant library patrons. Hopefully in a year they will return.

"True Grit" by Charles Portis is eccentric, cool, straight and unflinching. It is the story of a young girl looking for a man with true grit to avenge her father's

"A Small Town in Germany" by John Le Carre takes place in a small provincial town elevated by the cold war to the artificial status of a capital city. 227 books were checked out of the library last week.
