

Vince F. Taylor New Ad Manager At Valley Tribune

Vince F. Taylor, of Roaring Springs, will be coming to work at the Valley Tribune office in Quitaque sometime in November. Taylor has been named as Advertising Manager by the Paducah Publishing Inc., of which the Tribune is a part, along with the Paducah Post.

Taylor, 40, his wife Laura, and their two children, ShaVonne, 16, and Luke, 11, live in Roaring Springs. The children attend Motley County Schools. He will commute daily to Quitaque

"I am looking forward to meeting and getting acquainted with folks over here," Taylor said. "I already know a few people in Quitaque and in Turkey, so I don't feel totally like a stranger, but I hope to get to know all of you before many weeks go by.

He has been a driller for an oil company, and for the last several years, a carpenter and contractor. Though he has not been involved with the newspaper business before, he says"I am excited about learning newspaper business from the ground up." He is the son of Corporation and Paducah Post publisher Jimmye and Frank Taylor of Paducah, and as a child was often in the Paducah office with his mother, at that time, a reporter for the Post.

Eunice McFall, editor of the Valley Tribune, will continue in that position, and will be in the Quitaque office every day. Eunice and Vince invite you to come by and get acquainted.

PROCLAMATION By Executive Order of the Honorable Wilburn Leeper, Mayor of the City of Quitaque, it is proclaimed:

WHEREAS, April 1997 marks the twenty-ninth anniversary f the passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1968, which included Title VIII, the Fair Housing Law, for guaranteed equal housing pportunity for all citizens; and

WHEREAS, Fair housing is consistent with the principle of quality and justice for all, providing the challenge to combat discrimination, and to broaden the protection of the beliefs upon which our nation was founded; and

WHEREAS, This month provides an opportunity for all Americans to rededicate themselves to the principles of free choice and to reaquaint themselves with the rights and responsibilities that are theirs under the Fair Housing Law

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Wilburn Leoper, Mayor of the City Quitaque, do hereby proclaim December 1997 as FAIR HOUSING MONTH IN THE CITY OF QUITAQUE and urge my fellow citizens to join me in reaffirming the obligation and commitment to fair housing opportunities for all people.

> Let all within the reach of this proclamation heed its directive

> > By his Honor the Mayor of the City of Quitaque, Texas.

Death Ruled Apparently Self-Inflicted

Tom Bowman, 64, seven year resident of Quitaque was discovered Friday, November 7, 1997 in his garage. Justice of the Peace, Dale Ramsey ruled that Mr. Bowman died at 12:54 p.m. of an apparent gunshot wound to the head.

Sheriff Max Whitworth and Deputy Ruel Gomez as well as the Texas Rangers investigated the death. An autopsy was performed in Lubbaock.

Mr. Bowman moved to Quitaque in 1990 with his wife Phyllis from California. They were in the process of selling their home in Quitaque and returning to California where their children live.

Veterans Day

by Ann Coker November 11 is celebrated as Veterans Day. For years this day was celebrated as Armistice Day

When I was in grade school we always had an assembly for the whole student body. Following a program on what Armistice Day meant, at 11:00 a.m. the fire sirens sounded off in town for a few minutes to signify the time the Armistice was signed.

This November 11 we see the American flags waving in the air on the streets and some at homes Sure gives you a good feeling to see our veterans so honored.

our lives. But if we continue to progress day by day in our daily lives, changes we will have. We can fight them or accept them but come they will. Many changes are easy to accept and do make our lives more pleasant and then there are those changes over which we have absolutely no control and they just simply turn our lives upside down. Since we do not have any control over the circumstances of the change, all we can do is try to make the best of it! Perhaps we even need to work on our attitude--you know--you have heard someone say that they need an attitude adjustment.

Actually we began to see changes in our lives the day we are born.

As babies everything is done for us, food is provided, warm dry clothing is always available and cuddling is an ever yday affair. Then we expand our world and learn to walk and behold there is lots of changes we see, so much to touch, taste and try. We want this change because it makes us feel like we are independent. Probably the next big change to come along is the trama of starting to school and realizing that we are not the center of the world after all. Why there are hundreds of children out there that had felt the same way. Well we compensate for the feeling by acquiring lots of new friends.

And then the teen age years strike and once again so many changes are happening so fast that we just can't keep up with all of them. But one of the most dramatic changes we face is when we trapse off to college and are adult enough to be on "our own"! Boy do we have a lot of shocks when the changes of adulthood start to descend on us.

Then along comes that someone special that we plan to spend the rest of our days with and lo here comes change again--we must change our ways to accomodate that person that we love and change we do, quite happily. These few items are just the tip of the iceberg when it comes to change--taxes, jobs, death, illness friends, loved ones all can come into our lives and do such a number on us that our whole world is turned upside down and we have two choices, either accept the change and go forward or fight and kick all the way to the bottom, which is where we will be if we are not forward enough thinking to change our attitude! Here's to change and attitude adjustments to be able to make the good changes and to leave the bad changes alone and the wisdom to know the difference!

Since 1982, when the bacterium Helicobacter pylori was revealed as the main cause of ulcers of the stomachs and small intestines in people, physicians routinely have been able to treat -- and cure -about 90 percent of all stomach ul-cers with antibiotics.

However, before the discovery of H.pylori, the major causes of stom-ach ulcers were believed to be spicy foods, stomach acid, stress, alcoho and a variety of lifestyle factors.

Even some physicians and health care personnel have been slow in urging patients who might have H.pylori infections to be tested for the bacteria. There are several kinds of tests that can confirm such an infection, ranging from a simple breath test, to more extensive exam:

If the tests confirm H. pylori infection, the physician can prescribe antibiotics and an accompanying antacid medicine which usually can cure the infection, including any stomach or upper intestinal ulcers in one to two weeks.

A person with ulcers may have burning pain in the upper abdo-men, frequently when the stomach is empty between meals and before breakfast. The pain may last from minutes to hours, and may be relieved by antacid pills or snacks. In severe cases, the patient may suffer nausea, loss of appetite and in-ternal bleeding. Unless their syptoms are severe or long-lasting, many patients fail to tell their physicians. Many -- perhaps most these may unknowingly be infected with H. pylori. Researchers are still looking for the common sources of H. pylori infections, and have yet to recom mend ways to avoid infection. Ex-perts can only advise people to always eat properly prepared and handled foods, and always drink water that is known to be safe. About two-thirds of the world's population is infected with the bac teria, although the majority of those infected seldom feel symptoms. The long-term consequence es of H. pylori infections are still being studied. There is some evi-dence that stomach cancer may be linked to long-term H. pylori infec-

Easy Tips For Safe Holiday Food Preparation

(NAPS)-The holidays are all UNAPS)—The nondays are all about joining friends and family to celebrate the joys of the season with food and festive gatherings. But before you cut that squash or prepare those cranberries, follow the advice of food experts and wash your produce thoroughly. Because fruits and vargetables

Because fruits and vegetables can be exposed to a variety of toxins due to human handling and food preparation in the home, protect the ones you love by ensuring that the food you serve is free of dirt-borne contaminants, pesticide residues and other harmful substances. Consider the following tips to ensure a safe and healthy holiday:

• Thoroughly wash your ands, cutting surfaces and hands utensils. Rickey Hughes visited in Floydada Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hughes and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Cody Barclay, Lane and Mandi of Matador visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Barclay and brother Ty, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Martin visited Mrs. Bessie Martin in Floydada Saturday.

• Never use bleach, dish or hand soap to clean produce. These formulas can soak through the porous skins of some varieties, causing you to ingest the soap and altering the taste of produce.

· Be diligent about dirt. • be angent about unit. Even though you see dirt rinse off, harmful deposits can still linger on the produce surface. Use a fruit and vegetable wash such as Organiclean to ensure these substances are removed. • Use a colander for thorough coverage when cleaning produce. • Take equal care with organic produce, which often retains more dirt on its surface.

Organiclean Fruit and Veg-etable Wash has a unique patent pending formula which contains a naturally-derived coconut-based cleaning agent, fruit acids and a newly engineered, biologically derived surfactant. It does not contain alcohol, bleach or chlorine and rinses clean, leaving no resid-ual after-taste or calories. Organiclean can be found in the produce department of grocery stores nationwide or purchased direct by calling 1-888-VEG-WASH.

Hearld To The Editor:

It is common knowledge that environmental tobacco smoke (ETS), or second-hand smoke, harms those who breathe it. But many people may not know that children in par-ticular face the greatest health risk from ETS.

Forty-three percent of children aged 2 months to 11 years live in a home with at least one smoker. Many of these young children may be spending that time exposed to onmental tobacco smoke. Children need to be aware of negative messages from the media. Children who are media literate are more likely to withstand potentially harmful effects, including smoking. That's why the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) encourages parents and teachers to educate chil-dren about the media so children understand how the media works, the intent of commercials and programming, and whether media messages are appropriate.

ETS exposure is linked to: Up to two million ear infections in children each year; Nearly 530,000 annual doctor visits for asthma; Up to 436,000 annual episodes of bronchitis in children under 5 years of ages; and

Up to 190,000 annual cases of pneumonia in children under 5 years of age. Gun Safety Urged

When Hunting

Hunting and Gun Safety With hunting season (gun) starting this past weekend, here are some tips to help this season be a safe one for you. Firearms Safety Depends On You-MakeNo Mistake would be virtually no firearms accidents. It's as simple as that, and it's up to you. 2. Firearms Should Be Unloaded When Not Actually Firearms should be loaded only when you are in the field or on the target range or shooting area, ready to shoot. Firearms and ammunition should be secured in ammunition should be secured in a safe place, separate from each other, when not in use. Unload your gun immediately when you have finished shooting, well before you bring it into a car, camp or home.

3. Don't Rely On Your Gun's

Safety. Treat every gun as though it can fire at any time, regardless of pressure on the tripper. The "safety" on any gun is a mechani-cal device which, like any such cal device which, like any such device, can become inoperable at the worst possible time. 4. Be Sure Of Your Target And What's Beyond It. No one can call a shot back. Once a gun fires, you have given up all control over where the shot will go or what it will strike. Don't shoot unless you know exactly what your shot is going to strike. Be sure that your bullet will not injure anyone or anything beyond your target.

injure anyone or anything beyond your target. 5. Use Correct Ammunition. You must assume the serious responsibility of using only the correct ammunition for your fire-arm. Improper or incorrect ammu-nition can destroy a gun and cause serious personal injury. Use only ammunition that exactly matches the caliber or guage of your am your gun. 6. If Your Gun Fails To Fire-When The Trigger Is Pulled, Handle With Care. Occasionally, a cartridge may not fire when the trigger is pulled. If this occurs, keep the muzzle pointed in a safe direction. Keep your face away from the breach. Then carefully open the action, unload the firearm, and dispose of the cartridge in a safe way. Any time there is a cartridge in the chamber, your gun is loaded and ready to fire - even if you've tried to shoot and it did not go off.

Clarendon, Texas----Westwood Enterprises, Inc., which owns and operates Thunder Junction Western Heritage Park at Clarendon, Texas, announced that their securities offering is now effective.

According to company spokesman, Stan McClendon, the securities sell for $5.00 per share with a ten share minimum, and the total number of securities being offered is 258,000 shares or $1,290,000 at maximum.

McClendon said that a minimum of $365,000 has been established to finish the waterslides, build an amphitheater, and add infrastructure to the existing facilities at the park. "There is $45,000 to be used to extend water and sewer lines to the park, without depending on local taxpayers," according to McClendon.

Other projects to be built will include a midway area, bumper boats, minature golf, and two 5,000 square foot buildings.

Waco Orphans Home Visits Relatives Here

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert T. Johnson of Waco stopped over on their way to the Methodist conference at Albu-querque, N.M., to visit Thursday night and Friday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hamilton. Mrs. John-son and Mrs. Hamilton are sisters.

Mr. Johnson is superintendent of the Methodist orphanage at Waco where some 400 fatherless and motherless children are being cared for. Mr. Hamilton gave the editor a book published monthly by the orphans home which proved very en-lightening as to the life of a child in the home today. The book disclosed the orphanage as more of a large scale boarding school than merely a shelter; besides being fed, clothed and cared for bodily and spiritually, the children are trained and educated for future independence. The carpentering and woodwork department of the home is recognized as a state-aid vocational school. A fully affiliated high school course is offered and many of the young people, by working their way through, con-tinue their studies at college.

Give Kids A Boost

by Beth Whitener A booster shot means added protection for kids. Booster seats make it easier for toddlers to eat at the big table and car booster seats can protect kids in vehicles. Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of unintentional injury-related deaths in children. Nationally, nearly 400 kids of car Nationally, nearly 400 kids of car booster seat age die each year. In Texas last year, 25 kids between the ages of 4 and 8 died because they were unrestrained. Addition-ally, in that same age group, 2,892 kids were injured because they were unrestrained. Who needs a car booster seat? Any child who is too big for a con-vertible car seat and too small for a safety belt should use a car booster seat. A booster-weight child is usually between 40-60 child is usually between 40-50 pounds and about 4.8 years old. The booster seat protects a child from serious spinal cord and inter-nal injuries caused by incorrect safety belt fit. A lap belt should rest low over a child's hips, not on a child's tummy area. A shoulder belt rests correctly on a child's belt rests correctly on a child's shoulder, not on the face or neck. Many parents place their kids in the back seat and use the safety belt but as they go down the road they discover their child has unbuckled the belt and is no longer riding in a safe manner. Lucia Torres, the safety education officer with the Texas Depart-ment of Public Safety in El Paso said, many children cannot see from the back seat because they sit so low in the seat. Children are smart and figure out a way to unbuckle their seat belt and move to a position in the vehicle where they can see out the windows. It would behoove parents to make the investment in a car booster seat so children can see, are cont-ent to sit in the back seat and encourage seat belt use. When you decide the car booster seat is a good investment for your child, you need to know there are three types of car booster seats: 1. A car booster seat without a shield must be used with both lap and shoulder belts.

2.A car booster seat with a shield is used with a lap belt. 3. A high back car booster seat for a taller child (whose head rests above the seat back) will help protect against whiplash from a rear-end collision. This is good for minivans with low backs and no head restraints. Tips for using a car booster seat: 1. To correctly install a car booster seat, read both the car booster seat instructions and the vehicle owners manual. Never put a shoulder belt under a child's arm, and never use pillows or books to boost a child -- use the sure everyone in your vehicle buckles up. 4. Be firm and consistent if a child tries to unbuckle him or her-self, talk to him or her in a firm, serious voice. Show the child that you will not drive the car until you will not drive the car until everyone is buckled up. 5. Always make sure every pas-senger is buckled in, front seat and back seat and place children in proper child restraint system from birth.

Everyone riding in a vehicle needs to be properly restrained. The back seat of the car is the safest place to ride for children 12 and under.
