Good Rains Fall On Quitaque Vicinity

The Quitaque area has been much below normal in rainfall until the past weekend. In last week's Valley Tribune, the rainfall report for Quitaque was 1.80 inches for the month with the total for the year being only 4.90 inches.

It rained .40 of an inch on Thursday, May 29, and on Saturday night and until noon Sunday, another 1.90 inches fell, bringing the yearly total to 7.20 inches. City Secretary James Brunson states that "looks much better." All around this area, at Something NEW has been added to Pre-Registration for Vacation Bible School this year, according to the workers in the Quitaque Vacation Bible School.

Jimmy Newton of Canyon is bringing his Trained Animals to put on a show on Saturday, June 14, at 3:00 p.m. at the First Baptist Church. The animals are "Sinco, the horse," "Mr. T, the bull," and "Harry, the rooster." This promises to be great entertainment for the youngsters who come to register for Vacation Bible School which starts on Monday, June 16.

Children from the age of three years to those who just completed grade six in school will be included. There has been much preparation already and the children will have a great time in Bible School as well as learning a lot.

Be sure to remember the date and time, June 14 at 3:00 p.m.

Results Given of Voting for Delegate to Special Legislature

The election for the Texas Silver Haired Legislature was held May 30, 1986. This election was held in Texas to elect 116 representatives, with four from the Panhandle, which was divided into three areas: Northern 10 counties; Central, including Amarillo, and the Southern, which covers 11 counties. This is the area which includes the counties of Oldham, Deaf Smith, Farmer, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Hall, Donley, Collingsworth, Gray and Wheeler. There is to be one representative from this area and there were three candidates. They were Poppy Hulsey, Murrell Whitaker and C. P. Worthan.

This is how the votes tallied:

Do-Gooders Club Seeking Recipes

The Do-Gooders Club of Flomot is working on a cookbook to be sold at the Tri-Annual homecoming in July, 1987. Money from the sale will be used for repair on the Community Center Building. Anyone who is an ex-student, ex-resident, current resident, or has any connection with Flomot is requested to send in one or several of their favorite recipes.

Your name and other information you may wish on the recipes is necessary. Send the recipes to Mrs. Howard Rogers, Route 1, Flomot, Texas 79234 before July 10, 1986.

Bristen and Colin Phillips of Amarillo have been visiting with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Eudy, while their mother was completing her teaching at Highland Park.

Alice and Bud Richardson of Tulia were visitors in the home of his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Arville Setliff, and attended the Coker reception.

Run-Off Elections Are Saturday

There is no competition in Quitaque in the run-off election Saturday, June 7, and we believe the contest between U. F. Coker, jr. and Doyle Proctor is the only local race in the Turkey run-off.

There are several state races involved on the ballot, and everyone is urged to go vote Saturday.

The Republican Party of Hall County will hold a run-off primary on Saturday, June 7. Absentee voting began Wednesday, May 28, and ended Tuesday, June 3. Absentee voting was conducted by the County Clerks.

Since the Valley Tribune was started in June, many of the subscriptions fall due in this month. Will you please check your subscription date across from your name on your newspaper and see if it is due. We don't want to lose a single customer and we don't want you to miss a paper.

Mary Jane Thompson Gives First-Hand Account of Wagon Train

I, Mary Jane Thompson, spent Saturday, May 24, and Sunday, May 25, in Turkey, Texas with the Wagon Train as a guest of my nephew, Winfred Cooper and his wife, Oma. They have been traveling with the Wagon Train since the second of January. I met up with the train when it reached the Mulberry bridge several miles out of Brice about eleven o'clock Saturday morning.

Then about a mile past Red River I met my nephew who was upon a high bluff overlooking the Red River area. He was taking moving pictures to be played on tape of which he plans to give copies to Texas Tech University, Lubbock; WTSU, Canyon, and Amarillo College. As it was now 12:30 o'clock and time for a rest break and lunch—hamburgers, hot dogs and soft drinks to those wishing to eat with the Chuck Wagon for a price of $2.00. I wish I had space to describe the capers and the way people were dressed, especially the ones riding horseback. Every one seemed to be having a good time! The people on the Wagon Train were from most all counties in Texas as well as many states—California, Missouri, Virginia, Maryland, Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico—all totaled, there were registered 23 states, 100 wagons, 300 horses including horses and mules pulling the wagons. The average rate of speed was four miles per hour. In addition to wagons and riders, the train is accompanied by a kitchen trailer, portable toilets, a school house and water trucks, three school teachers, a registered nurse and a veterinarian. OH! yes, a real Santa Claus driving a wagon that has a radio and other modern equipment with a team of two mules. He had a real snow white beard, mustache and hair and wore the traditional red Santa Claus suit, boots and cap. He is from Alpha, Illinois, not the North Pole.

I met and talked with the following outstanding Wagon Train people: Quinton McGovern the camp manager, Donna Stepp, poet and camp secretary (she is the one who interviewed me about some of the Turkey history) she tries to keep up with the personnel, wagons, horses, supplies and writes up interviews with prominent people in places where they camp for a historical book she is writing and for a permanent record to be placed in the Capitol at Austin. Boyd Ivey, the blacksmith, said "I like to train and be around horses." He is from DeKalb, Texas. Most people stay and sleep in their wagons from daylight to dark come rain, snow or sunshine. The Morrison family had been living in their wagon since they married in 1976 and now they have four daughters, ages five and under. They said, "It sure is a lot of fun and we are seeing and making history."

Saturday night we went to a dance that was held in the high school gym, music furnished by a hillbilly orchestra from Lubbock. Believe me that was a sight to be seen but everyone had a good time!

On Sunday, May 25, at 10:30 a.m., a community church service and awards ceremony was held in the old Turkey football stadium with a huge crowd from all towns in West Texas, all the Wagon Train people, and passing tourists in attendance. The awards ceremony was held in the old Turkey football stadium with a huge crowd in attendance. The awards were issued to the three best equipped wagons on the train by a local Turkey committee. Also through the Turkey Post Office and the townspeople, they presented the Wagon Master a sheet of 100 stamps in a block of 22 cent Texas Sesquicentennial stamps dated 1836-1986. Several other gifts were presented and accepted by the Wagon Master.

Quinton McGovern, the Wagon

Master, introduced my nephew, Winfred Cooper, and me, Mary Jane Cooper Thompson, and he read the early-day history of Turkey. We are the only living relatives in this area. My father, Dave Cooper, and William Cooper and grandfather, came to Hall County in 1890 in an ox wagon pulled by two oxen. My father had a wife and three children and they lived in a half dugout three years until a home could be built. My grandfather, William Cooper, gave an acre for a townsite where the town of Turkey is today. He also gave material for the first nondenominational church building and he named the town Turkey, because many wild turkeys roamed this area in 1890.

About 11 a.m. an old fashioned sing-song was held with a church service by Baptist lay preacher, Jim Fullingim of Petersburg, who was holding a revival in Turkey and Quitaque. He sang several religious songs and gave the sacred message, closing with a prayer. The meeting adjourned to the Bob Wills cafeteria where a turkey dinner was served free by the Turkey community to all people present.

In the afternoon, after meeting, visiting and bidding farewell to the Turkey and wagon train people, I left for Memphis with many memories that I shall cherish always. If you did not see the Wagon Train you missed a treat.

LIVING SPACE

A covey of quail will usually remain within a relatively small area. Their range is governed by the quality of habitat. A population of quail is generally considered satisfactory if a covey of quail of 10-15 birds occupies 20-30 acres of habitat.

FOOD

The quail diet consists of about 15% insects and 85% plant matter. Insects are particularly important to chicks and young birds which need high protein food for growth. Plant matter usually consists of large, smooth, hard seeds. Forbs commonly called "weeds" and legumes provide the bulk of these seeds. Seeds from plants such as safflower, snow on the mountain, western ragweed, partridge pea, small wildbean, fringed leaf psakum, switchgrass and johnsongrass are readily eaten by quail. If a habitat evaluation shows that additional food is needed for quail, overseeding with adapted plants that have smooth hard seed can be considered. Some of these are switchgrass, Kleingrass, Bristlegrass and Blue Panic. These species can be planted in pure stands. If wildlife food plots are established, they should be designed to create a as much "edge" as feasible. For example, a rectangular shape is better than a square. All seedings should be done on well prepared and firm seedbeds.

COVER

Quail require different cover types for different use.

1. Nesting Cover—Quail prefer clumps of perennial bunch-type grasses such as bluestem, switchgrass, lovegrass and Kleingrass.
2. Loafing and Escape Cover—This cover is usually low-growing brush that is open underneath.
3. Travel and Feeding Cover—Movement from place to place is primarily by walking. Vegetation should be thin enough to prevent movement yet provide concealment from ground predators, and tall enough to protect from Avian predators. This cover type is deficient on heavily grazed pastures, but with proper grazing a variety of plants provide travel and feeding cover.
4. Roosting Cover—Roosts are usually located on south and southwest exposures where vegetation is low and sparse.

The longer canned foods remain on your shelf, the more nutrients they lose.

Habitat Development For Bobwhite Quail

The Caprock Soil and Water Conservation District can now help Briscoe County landowners restock gamebirds which in the past few years have been on the decline mainly due to weather conditions. Gamebirds that are available include quail, pheasant, turkey and duck. Information on habitats is available through the Soil Conservation Service Office. There will be informative articles on various wildlife habitats through the month of May. If you are interested in these gamebirds, you can contact the SCS at 823-2320.

Bobwhite quail habitat consists of space to live, food, cover, and water, to some extent. All these must be present and closely related to one another and be available all 12 months of

Consulting Family Farmers As Tough As Management Problems

taken from the Express-News San Antonio, Tx. April 6, 1986

Offering expert financial advice to family farmers can be tougher than managing an agribusiness operation for a multi-million dollar corporation, according to San Antonio-based consultant William R. (Bill) Schott, a native of Silverton who is the son of Mrs. Rena (Persons) Schott and the late W. E. Schott.

Schott, 42, owner of Schott Agri-Service, has done both in 17 years of agricultural economic consultation.

In that time he has managed an 18,000-acre irrigated farm in eastern New Mexico and large livestock cattle feeding operations throughout the Great Plains as well as farm management consultant assignments throughout the western United States.

It was not until 1981 that he began his specialized business management analyses and feasibility studies for operators ranging from feedlots, grain elevators and livestock auctions to row-crop farmers and commercial cattle raisers.

The change necessitated a mental shifting of gears, Schott said.

Consulting with a large institution involves working with management used to hiring experts, used to paying consultants, he said.

However, he said, "How do you deal with the family farmer who's got 700 acres?"

Small farmers and ranchers by nature tend to be of independent spirit, Schott said.

"They're not used to telling anyone their business. There's not the same appreciation for numbers and business accounting practices."

And as for hiring a paid consultant, he added, often "the only consultant they ever hired was an entomologist."

Schott stressed that nevertheless, "There is a tremendous need out there."

The need is for sophisticated business management techniques as applied to agriculture, including computerized management information systems, economic feasibility studies, financial structure analyses and—sometimes—fee management of agricultural properties.

Few financial consultants look to that kind of market, he said.

Some large banks and insurance companies may have farm and ranch management departments; however, Schott said, "I don't know of anyone who is involved in it from the approach I am."

Acceptance in the agricultural marketplace is "not as much as I would like," Schott said.

He added: "If I have a frustration, it is that people don't come to me while there are still solutions. They say, 'I have a problem,' and they do—but there's no solution."

The years since 1981 have not been kind to agriculture or agribusiness, Schott said.

"It was not until the last year or two we realized it was not a blip we were going through, but a major realignment—that this was not something that would feel bad but go away soon."

Such times make it important that producers become "cost conscious, business oriented and opportunity oriented," he said.

"To grow a crop and take it to the elevator at the end of the season is not going to work. There's got to be some kind of marketing plan."

Measuring one's success by whether the checkbook shows a positive balance at year's end is not the answer, he said.

That, said Schott, is where his expertise comes in.

Part of his strategy involves moving from accounting procedures oriented toward income tax preparation to procedures meant for business management.

Using a computer and specialized software and taking numbers supplied by the client, Schott said he can go from an enterprise budget, through a cash-flow budget to arrive at a total farm budget in a matter of hours.

"Within a half day we can get some numbers together and start doing some what-ifs," he said.

Working with cash flow, producers can determine cash requirements. Using that number, the next step is to determine cash availability including whether one should borrow money, spend existing reserves or sell off some assets.

As for marketing strategy, Schott said in more normal times he encourages split marketing of crops.

"You don't have to sell all the wheat at market time to pay the bills," he said. "The objective is, over a year's period, to achieve a profitable average marketing price. That works better than selling it all at market time or trying to pick the top of the market," said Schott.

Schott said by following futures markets, reading extensively and talking to others in agribusiness, he can aid the producer in deciding when to sell his product.

He also can analyze production and market data to "assign a number to risk," helping the producer make an objective decision rather than a subjective one in determining how much to risk without disrupting the entire marketing position.

For this year and probably 1987 as well, however, the government already has made most of the marketing decisions, Schott said.

Given current economic conditions, participation in the federal farm program is "an absolute economic necessity."

The break-even price for cotton, for example, may be 60 to 65 cents with good yields for a farmer working outside the government program.

The loan rate, meanwhile is 55 cents, some of the 26-cent deficiency can be recovered by a participating farmer through a payment based on historically established yields and base acreages.

"That's really how he can afford to raise 55-cent cotton," Schott said.

As for working through the details of the federal farm program with producers, Schott said, "That's the county officer's job," adding he is not in business to replace the county extension agent or the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

What happens when all his analysis and number-crunching convinces Schott a producer's only rational decision is to sell out?

"I tell them to sell," he said, adding that giving that kind of advice "definitely is my job."

Some clients are upset by such advice; others are appreciative, he said.

"Sell decisions bother me a lot. We see a lot of that in the media," said Schott.

Just as bothersome are decisions to sell off part of an operation to save the rest; "Selling part of a farm does not solve the problems of a farm or a business unless something is done about its problems at the same time," Schott said.

Other tough decisions involve aspects of agriculture that are deemed almost sacred, such as a farmer or rancher sharing the operation with his or her children.

For some father-son farming teams, Schott said, "I think the son needs to go get a job in town part-time and quit trying to support two families on an operation that has a hard time supporting just one."

"If you've got a circumstance where a farm is barely viable and the son wants to help his dad, is the son doing a lot of good if all he's adding is $3.35-an-hour tractor driving?" Schott asked.

He added, "Or is he going to contribute more by going to town and getting a job that pays a decent wage?"

That is one of those points at which objective, outside analysis collides head-on with the mystique of the family farm.

"It's more than a mystique. It's emotion: love for what they're doing and fear of the unknown," he said.

But there are alternatives, Schott went on, strategies to help producers survive times that are tough not because of their own doing, but due to market forces beyond their control.

Schott said: "Part of where I think I can contribute is to help the people involved understand that lack of success doesn't mean you're a failure."

Bill Schott is the nephew of Mary Ollie Persons of Quitaque.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Young and children, Rowdy and Allison, of Shawnee, Oklahoma have been visiting in the home of his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Yates, this past week in Turkey.

In the 19th century Karl Waetzel, an Austrian, invented a machine with which one man could play 378 instruments. The panomino, as he named it, numbered 150 flageolets, 150 flutes, 50 oboes, 18 trumpets, 5 fanfares, 3 drums and 2 kettledrums.

Miss Vickie Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verlon Hamilton of Roanoke, spent last week visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hamilton and Mrs. Ella Colvin in Quitaque and Turkey. On Saturday morning, she accompanied her grandfather, Leroy Hamilton, to the Tom Christian Ranch for breakfast and took the Memorial Day Trail Ride with the group. There were forty-four this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hamilton of Lubbock visited in the Leroy Hamilton home on Sunday, and they and Mrs. Hamilton drove out to the Caprock Canyons State Park to pick up Vickie and her grandfather. Fish Wilson was along on the drive in his pickup to help keep things going.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bradley of Dalhart came to Quitaque Thursday and spent the night with his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Taylor. The next morning, they all drove to Lockney to visit their mother, Mrs. J. T. Bradley, then they drove to Anson where they visited Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Moss and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moss. The Bradleys took a trip to Houston and back to Anson. They all returned to Quitaque Tuesday morning. The Bradleys went on to their home after leaving Dick and Opal here. They report a good time. The Taylors said it rained big rains all the way home.

VALLEY KINDERGARTEN CLASS

Kindergarten Receives Diplomas

The highlight of the school year came Monday afternoon at 2:30 when twenty-eight kindergarten students walked down the aisle in their caps and gowns to receive their diplomas. Not only were the children excited, according to report, but the parents were equally excited.

Mrs. Greg (Susan) Ramsey is the teacher. She had prepared programs rolled and tied with ribbon, just like the seniors received. The program on paper was topped by printed caps and gowns.

Tina Clay presented the professional. Susan gave the welcome. The kids sang the Color Song. They sang the Paper Clocks and holding the clocks they had made, they moved the hands of the clocks to the time as they sang. They sang the Triangle, Circle and Square, and acted it out, too.

The children each told their favorite thing to do and most of them chose to go to Caprock Canyons State Park. Mrs. Ramsey gave the awards each had received. One boy and one girl were chosen as Favorite Americans.

They sang "Sing a Song of Sixpence," "Little Drops of Water," "There's A Little Wheel a Turnin'" and closed with "Jesus Loves Me."

Principal Jerry Maupin and Superintendent Wilburn Leeper gave the diplomas at this time.

The program ended with the Class Yell.

Students in the class were (in picture) Karyn Conner, Veronica

The Tribune hopes to be able to get a picture of the boys and girls in their caps and gowns when the film is developed.

Truelock, Paducah; Letty Jean Mayberry, Chuck Garza, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. James Truelock, Mr. and Mrs. Jody Truelock and Shane, Paducah; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phelps, Canon City, Colorado; Mr. and Mrs. Namon Phelps, Farmington, New Mexico; Mr. and Mrs. Claud Conner, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Billy Harkey, Rob and Keith, Lubbock; John Castleberry, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cook, Paducah; Mrs. Tommie Harrison, Quitaque; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Yeary, Silverton; LaDonna New Brough, Paducah.

Despite the current oil glut, Americans are turning to renewable energy resources, reports National Wildlife magazine. Nine percent of our country's energy comes from wood-, hydro-, and wind-powered generators; that's up fifty percent since 1979.

Retirement Tea Held for U. F. Coker Sunday Afternoon

Sunday afternoon, June 1, many friends and former students of U. F. Coker gathered in the Valley Cafetorium to extend "best wishes" to him on his retirement from the teaching profession.

The cafetorium was decorated with an array of beautiful cut-flower arrangements. The flowers were done in two different school-color schemes and the registration table and serving table were centered with gold and purple flowers to represent Coker's 24 years in the Turkey School System. Two big baskets of red, white and blue flowers were on either side of the stage. These represented 14 years as a Valley teacher.

Valley students Amy Hewett, Lacy Price, Sandy Price, Melissa and Amy Maupin served refreshments from two tables.

The first table was covered with a lace cloth and held a big tiered white cake trimmed in gold. The name "U. F. Coker" was inscribed on top.

From the second table, coffee in a gold urn and punch were served. Gold flatware and crystal plates and cups completed the setting on the lace-covered table which held a flower arrangement.

A lace-covered table was placed in front of the stage. Some of Mr. Coker's former students had placed a money tree on this table to help "tide him over" during his retirement. An arrangement of fresh flowers and a miniature rocking chair centered this table. This arrangement was a gift from C. C. Bogan of Borger (Ann Coker's brother) as they were unable to attend.

As the guests entered, they were registered by Leia Price who served at the registration table. Hostesses for the reception were Valley employees and former teachers.

The Swiss government is charging that acid rain and other air pollutants have increased the possibilities of avalanches and landslides, says International Wildlife magazine. Declining tree counts, due to air pollution problems, provide fewer natural barriers against heavy snows and rains.

Packaging People

Know why we build skyscrapers? In order to have many more people working in a limited area. We package people vertically!

Among the skyscrapers our photographer has discovered a church. It too has a vertical element — a steeple pointing heavenward.

Church architecture with its traditional spires expresses our beliefs. People today are packaged too tightly. Pressure, custom, conformity crowd in upon our souls. Christ teaches that every person is important . . . each one of us is loved by our Lord.

As we worship God each week side by side, our beliefs point us heavenward.

Special Assembly Honors Retiree

May 27, the eighth grade and high school classes at Valley School gathered in the cafeteria for a special assembly to honor retiring teacher, U. F. Coker.

A representative from each class read a poem that the class had prepared. Each was appropriate for the occasion.

After the speeches, a 4 1/2-foot long board, especially made, was presented to Mr. Coker.

The gold plate in the center of the board was inscribed with his name and "To the teacher who put the board in education, Valley students - 1986." Then each student and employee of Valley had signed it.

Cokes and doughnuts were served.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Green and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Green spent the weekend with Conette and Truman Price of Center, Colorado. They attended the high school graduation of their grandson and nephew, Duane Price, and also visited Mr. and Mrs. Kent Price. They reported having had a wonderful time.

Pauline Gilmore was found in the floor of her apartment Wednesday morning by Dollie Kelly who helps take care of Pauline. The Turkey ambulance was called and Pauline was taken to the Hall County Hospital.

Later in the day it was learned that Pauline had suffered a broken hip in her fall and she was transferred to High Plains Hospital in Amarillo. A niece, Owen Lynsey of Memphis, accompanied Pauline on to Amarillo and another niece, Helen Taylor of Canyon, joined her cousin to help out with Pauline. Roy Gilmore happened to be in Childress and he was to accompany his mother, Mrs. Floyd Gilmore, to Amarillo Wednesday when the surgery was scheduled.

Memorial Service Held at Turkey Sunday Afternoon

The Memorial Service held in Dreamland Cemetery Sunday afternoon, June 1, was well attended.

The community choir had held its rehearsal as planned and was in tip-top shape to handle the open-air singing.

A large number of church pews had been moved in place prior to the service, and others of the crowd brought lawn chairs instead of lawnmowers as had been requested.

Melvin Clinton, Baptist minister, gave the introduction and filled in for C. F. Pulley with the invocation. This was followed by the Turkey Scouts presenting the flag and leading the group in the pledge of allegiance. The choir sang "How Great Thou Art," followed by prayer by Rev. Father John Dillon. The song, "Rock of Ages" was followed by the address by Herbert Gipson of Amarillo, Church of Christ minister.

The song, "The Old Rugged Cross," concluded the choral singing and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dennis Flaughter, Methodist minister.

When Souls Communicate

When souls communicate — it's like prayer. There may never be a word spoken . . . just a sigh, a wish, a hope, a longing. A child trying to express some simple feeling to its Mother. Mother trying to express her devotion to her child.

All prayer is founded on the idea that God loves us and cares about the things that affect us. Jesus taught us to pray "Our Father . . ." He wanted men to see God's love on the parental level.

When you feel the need to pray, reach out with your heart to God. You may not be able to find words. Yet He hears, He understands those deep feelings we find hard to express.

In church our efforts to communicate with Him are strengthened by the fact that many others are praying with us. They need Him just as much as we do. And we need their longings, their hopes and wishes and feelings to help us express our own. Join us in prayer at your local church or synagogue.

CARDS OF THANKS

Thanks to all of you for the visits, phone calls, flowers, prayers and every word of concern while I was in the hospital and since my return home.

Cecil and Lil Reagan
I would like to take this opportunity to say "thanks" to all of those kind people who remembered me while I was in the hospital and while I am at home recovering from surgery. The flowers, cards, phone calls and everything else that has been done for me and my family to show that you really care means a great deal to me. God bless you. Elois Price. 51-1tc

The Turkey Volunteer Fire Department wishes to thank each Auxiliary member and all the people who volunteered their help in preparing and serving the hamburger supper last week during the Wagon Train visit. The cook-out was a tremendous success, but would not have been if not for all the hard work of so many people. Thank you for your support. The Turkey Volunteer Fire Department

I would like to thank all the people who gave gifts and money from Turkey and Quitaque. I couldn't send you cards because I left for Georgia before I could send them out.
Rosendo Silva, jr.

We would like to tell you how much we appreciated the memorials, cards, flowers, telephone calls and the prayers given in our behalf at the loss of our dear David. They all meant so much to us in our time of sorrow. May God bless each of you.
