Tennis Teams Place In District

by Coach Browning

Amy Maupin and Gina Conner won their opening match at regional defeating Zambrano and Porras of Dell City 3-6, 7-5,

Gina and Amy

7-5. In the second round Amy and Gina were defeated by Lewis and Romero the #2 seeds in the tournament from Bordon County 6-1, 6-4.

Amy and Gina just never got it going in the match, even though they made a run in the second set. They were down 5-1 and battled back to 5-4 before losing 6-4. Amy and Gina finished the year as District Champs, and with 11 wins and 3 losses. Two of their three losses were to AA schools who finished high at their regional tournament.

Chad Isbell and Chad Calvert lost their opening match to Anton's Garcia and Rendon 6-2, 6-3. They played their best match since district but were unable to overcome the seasoned team from Anton, who were making their third trip to the Regional Tournament. Chad and Chad finished the season with 9 wins and 5 losses.

Chad and Chad

I am proud of the kids that played tennis this year. They put in a lot of time, sweat, as well as having to play in less than desirable weather conditions at times. It was a good year for us. The girls finished second in District and the boys finished third.

As I See It!

By Thelma Gafford

The way I see it, the Valley Track Team made quite a first time showing at Stephenville last weekend, in the 6-man State Track Meet. Congratulations to Katy, Bubba, Warren, Kirk, Jason, Clay, and Clay Merrell and the coaching staff of Valley High School. The pride of the entire area will be with you that are going on to Austin this weekend, as you compete before an expected crowd of over 40,000 fans.

This Sunday is Mother's Day, anyone out there listening? It is the phone company's favorite day of the whole year, their busiest.

The Birthdays and Anniversaries, as well as the Calendar Events will not be found in this issue of the Tribune. The disk ate them. This happens sometimes. I'm not sure what else it devoured, but I'll bet someone tells me real quick. Please, be kind, I am a mother, and it is Mothers Day.....

Blakney's Attend Austin Meeting

Virgil and Edna Blakney were in Austin April 18 to attend a Green Thumb Advisory Board meeting. The next day they made several visits in the Capitol with legislators. On the last day they attended a State Farmer's Union Board of Directors meeting. Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Reed of Quitaque were at this meeting also. State president Joe Rankin presided over the meeting. The National Farmer's Union president, Leland Swensen was urging those present to participate in one of the two "fly-ins" in Washington to lobby for a farm program.

Dear Sir:
Recently I had occasion to come to Turkey and get my car stuck in our wonderful red West Texas mud. Two very nice gentlemen, owners of R & T Welding Co., came and towed me out, no questions asked or money accepted.

Thank you for having such nice people in your area.
Sincerely,
Rosemary Foster

Dear Editor,
Thanks for your good publication of Quitaque and surrounding towns. Sure enjoy your paper. Lots of people trying to say Quitaque. Even my doctors who are from Tulia can't seem to pronounce it. Sure enjoyed the F Ranch write-ups. Louise Daton's father worked on the ranch. Louise died July 19, 1989. She latched one day being 76. She was raised in Clarendon, Texas. Had a shop years ago down the street from the First National Bank in the corner. I was surprised to learn of Edna Lee Morris' death.
Especially like Thelma's column. She is doing great work.
Sincerely,
Race L. Salazar

If you have questions about your conservation plan or would like to review it please contact the Soil Conservation Service office in Silvertown at 823-2320.

All programs of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are available without regard to race, creed, color, sex, age, handicap, or national origin.

If you grow crops on highly erodible land then you have already met the January 1, 1990 deadline for getting an approved conservation plan.

Now is the time to begin implementing that plan so you will not have to worry about being in compliance when December 31, 1994 arrives.

Almost all conservation plans have been written to begin practices each year between now and the December 31, 1994 deadline. These practices include terraces, waterways, crop residue use, windstrips, and contour farming.

Many Briscoe County farmers are not waiting to begin implementing the planned conservation practices. Windstrips are already beginning to show up on many of the Quitaque area farms. Windstrips not only improve the scenery, but more importantly, prevent erosion and protect young cotton. Most windstrips are 14 ft. wide and placed at calculated distances across the field.

W.I.F.E. Members Form Puppet Program

Women Involved in Farm Economics (WIFE) is a grassroots organization committed to improving profitability in agriculture production through educational, legislative, communicative efforts.

One of the issues of concern to WIFE is Agriculture in the Classroom. With a grant awarded them by the Foundation of Agricultural Education and Development (FAED), members of Swisher County and Caprock Chapters of WIFE have created a puppet show entitled "The Farmer is the One".

This show presents the food and fiber story in an educational and entertaining way.

Members of these two chapters who wrote the script, designed and built the stage, made the puppets and present the show are Ramona Miller and Inette Johnson, Tulia; Janinne Brooks, Silvertown; Janice Hughes, Flomot; Ella Colvin and Opal Meyer, Turkey. The puppet voices were recorded by the puppeteers of Hale Center First Baptist Church, directed by Naomi Brown. They were assisted by Joyce Peggram, pianist.

The show has been presented to students in the Tulia, Silvertown, Hale Center and Cotton Center schools.

Dockery-Johnson United In Afternoon Ceremony

Miss Lucretia Diane Johnson became the bride of Breck Keith Dockery in an afternoon ceremony held in the chapel of the First United Methodist Church at 4 p.m. Saturday April 21, in Vernon, Texas.

The Reverend Paul M. Chambliss, Baptist minister, officiated for the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold W. Johnson of Flomot and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burt Dockery of Vernon.

Decorating the chapel were two brass spiral candelabra surrounding an arch centerpiece holding white tapers and entwined with greenery.

Pews were marked with large white bows.

Mrs. Rex W. Johnson of Silverton, aunt of the bride played traditional prenuptial selections.

Miss Iva June Johnson of Lubbock, the brides cousin accompanied herself on the piano as she sang "To Me." Using taped background music she beautifully sang "Doubly Good To You" and "Wind Beneath My Wings."

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal-length gown of white bridal satin with a bodice overlaid with lace and trimmed with sequins and pearls from a V shaped neckline to the tapered Basque waist. The gown had puffed sleeves and a hemline that featured a ruffle-edge which continued completely around the gown forming a petal shaped train.

Simulated pearls and white roses decorated the band which held a finger-tip length veil of bridal tulle made for the bride by her mother.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white silk roses, rosebuds, and Lily of the Valley entwined with white net tulle surrounded by baby breath and pearl accents, with white satin ribbons. The bouquet was designed and made for the bride by Mrs. Aline Welch of Flomot.

For the traditional "something old" the bride wore a gold wedding ring that belonged to her maternal great-grandmother. "Something new" was her gown bought for the bride by her grandmother, Mrs. C.

J. May. "Something borrowed" was a pearl necklace belonging to Mrs. H. B. Dockery, grandmother of the groom and "something blue" was a garter. In her shoe she placed a sixpence given to her by Mrs. H. B. Dockery, grandmother of the groom. She also wore diamond and gold earrings, a gift from the groom.

Miss Kayla Johnson of Flomot attended her sister as Maid of Honor. She wore a tea-length dress of mauve ripple satin featuring a dropped waistline, puffed sleeves and a large bow in back. She wore a headpiece encrusted with mauve and iridescent flowers and pearls. She carried a bouquet of mauve roses and rosebuds, pearl accents and ribbon streamers.

Flower girl was Dana King of Oklaunion, niece of the groom who wore a pink satin dress and a halo of mauve and white flowers with lace and satin ribbon and carried a basket of potpourri petals.

The groom wore a silver grey tuxedo with a silver grey cummerbund and tie accented with a white rose boutonniere.

Burt Dockery served his son as best man for the ceremony. He wore a slate grey tuxedo with a mauve cummerbund and tie, accented with a mauve boutonniere, as did the father of the bride.

Ushers and candlelighters were Hugh King of Oklaunion, brother-in-law of the groom and Dan Dockery, brother of the groom. They also wore slate grey tuxedos with mauve cummerbunds and bow ties.

For her daughters wedding Mrs. Johnson wore a pleated dress of various colors of ribbon striped mauve and light grey, with a pearl neckline and long sleeves. Mrs. Dockery selected a light pink lace over satin dress fashioned with a pearl neckline and long sheer lace sleeves with a fitted waistline defined by a shirred cummerbund. Each mother wore a corsage of mauve and white roses with pearl accents and ribbons.

The bride presented her mother with a long stemmed white rose on her way to the altar and following the exchanging of the vows presented the grooms mother with a long stemmed white rose. Guest were registered by Jan King, sister of the groom, at a table holding a crystal ball with a white votive candle, flanked on each side by crystal candlesticks tied with mauve and white ribbons.

A grey plume pen was used to register in the bridal book.

Reception Immediately following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held in Wesley Hall of the church.

The three-tiered white wedding cake was decorated with mauve roses and scalloped frosting and topped with a "Precious Moments" bride and groom, a gift to the bride from her sister.

The table covered with a softly gathered skirt of white taffeta and overlaid with a Battenburg Lace cloth was centered with a brass candelabra with 5 tall mauve tapers. Fresh English Ivy entwined the table from the brass epergne. Slush punch was served from an antique crystal bowl, and mauve and white heart shaped mints and toasted pecans were served from the table.

Serving at the table were Marilyn Dunson and Marsha Newth.

The bridegrooms table covered with a pleated skirt of ecru linen overlaid with an ecru Battenburg lace cloth was centered with a farm career oriented display and held a chocolate initial "D" sheetcake made by Jan King, sister of the bridegroom. A silver coffee service and silver appointments holding chocolate covered nuts, dried fruit, and finger sandwiches completed the table. Assisting with serving duties at the bridegrooms table were Jan King and Donna Dockery.

Other members of the houseparty were Charlie Sue Goins, Mary Torres, Mrs. Earl Gilmore and Mrs. Don Jones.

Guests were registered at the reception by Kayla Johnson, sister of the bride. For the wedding trip, the bride wore a beige blouse and skirt with a floral print and gold accessories. The couple will make their home in the White City community following the honeymoon.

The bride is a 1980 graduate of Motley County High School and attended Vernon Regional Junior College.

The bridegroom is a 1979 graduate of Northside High School. He attended Vernon Regional Junior

Mrs. Breck Keith Dockery

College and is associated with Dockery Farms.

As a heart longs for flowing streams, so longs my soul for thee, O God.

- Psalm 42

Have you ever felt cut off from God? The author of this moving psalm knew that feeling, evidently. After all, the people of the Old Testament had the same hopes and fears that we experience today. They worshipped God and turned to Him in times of difficulty, too. The words of the Psalms call on the God of Abraham and Isaac, and your God — come worship Him in the church of your choice this Sunday.

Gerald Smith gave highlights from the L. E. "Buddy" Surles tourism survey - a study of tourism potential in Briscoe County. Mr. Surles is a specialist in Tourism Development.

Extension agent, Lynda Foger-son and task force member, Virginia Hardin made a presentation titled "One Step Away from Involvement!"

All residents of Briscoe County are encouraged to attend the next county-wide meeting to be held at the Quitaque Community Center on May 14, at 7:30 p.m.

The talk has ended, the time of action has come. You, as a citizen of Briscoe County are needed to help form Action Groups.

Earth Day, Sunday, April 22 saw over 300 county residents and guests invade Caprock Canyons State Park. The crowd seemed to enjoy the talents of local cooks, musicians and cow callers.

A tree was planted in honor of Earth Day. It will serve as a reminder of our responsibility to care for the earth God has made.

The Caprock Jamboree organizers, John and Maebelle Francis, Janice Hill, and all the local bands, Purcell Family, Caprock Country, Country Sounds and Gary and Lori House provided music during the afternoon.

Every cow-caller was a winner. The judges had a difficult time. Bright blue "wild rags" were presented to the following winners:

Master Class-men 65 years and older-Johnny Burson; Practicing Class-Men 19 to 64 years-C. L. Hawkins; Powder Puff-Women-Bessie Sauls; Novice-Kids-Birth to 18-J. Cobey Turner.

Contestants are listed in Class entered. Master: Johnny Burson, Eddie McConnell, Bailey Hill, Fish Wilson, Jake Merrill, Leroy Hamilton.

Practicing: Clifton Stodghill, Gary House, Arron Younger, C. L. Hawkins, Keith Ralston, Fred Strange, Danny Grant, David Cavitt.

Powder Puff: Maebelle Francis, Lorena Dayton, Connie Smith,

Janice Hill, Bessie Sauls, Pat Cervoski.

Novice: J. Coby Turner, Kenzie Burson.

We had one bug that we know for sure will have to be worked out before the next blow-out at Caprock Canyons Park. If you were asked to pay the $2 park entry fee even though you had tickets for the meal, you may lay the blame on the State of Texas. We had cleared our advertising with the State Parks and Wildlife Service and had put out the word that the price of the barbecue ticket included the park fee. A ruling by the "powers that be" came back to the state Park System that the entry fee must be collected, after we had the advertising out. This bug will probably be replaced by another bug by the time we have our next whing-ding. But then, what's a picnic without bugs?

The Weight Doctor Is In

The Number One Prescription Moderate Exercise Is Best Single Health Activity

By Herman M. Frankel and Jean Staeheli

News USA

(NU) — Marie is 41-years-old, active, intelligent, with an important government job. She has everything going for her. But on the day she came to visit me in my office, she told me that everything is not OK with her health.

"I have high blood pressure. I don't have as much energy as I should. I don't sleep well at night. My work schedule is demanding—if I miss a meal, I fall apart and end up feeling irritable, headachy and weak. So then I grab a couple of candy bars in the afternoon and by the time I get home, I'm a bear!" Marie is also 50 pounds overweight.

Although she is interested in losing the excess body fat, what was concerning her most on this day was her general feeling of unwellness.

Daily Essential

Well, I had good news for Marie. After we talked for a while, and I gave her some specific suggestions, I wrote out a prescription for something that is an essential part of any sound weight loss program. Incidentally, it will also help her blood pressure, improve the quality of her sleep, stabilize her mood, control her food cravings, and improve her body's ability to deal with sugar.

This may sound like an incredible list of benefits. The prescription, individualized for Marie, was for: "Exercise. Daily gentle walk, 30 minutes, continuous". Free, safe, and enjoyable. Your doctor knows that exercise is essential for health. In particular, bariatric physicians — doctors who specialize in working with overweight and obese people — are skilled at helping you develop and maintain a suitable exercise program as part of your comprehensive medical care. You have to do it for yourself but you do not have to do it by yourself.

If you are concerned about your weight, and want information about help available in your area, contact the Obesity Foundation, an affiliated organization of the American Society of Bariatric Physicians, 5600 South Quebec Street, Suite 160-D, Englewood, CO 80111; or telephone 303-850-0328 to hear one of the eight pre-recorded tapes on obesity and/or to obtain a physician. Dr. Herman Frankel is Chairman of the Board of the Obesity Foundation.

Do not be anxious about tomorrow, for tomorrow will be anxious for itself. Let the day's own trouble be sufficient for the day
- Matthew 6:34

Being a Christian doesn't mean having no problems whatsoever. We still have to pay the mortgage and taxes, regardless of what our faith may be. But that faith can make a difference in how we meet the difficulties of daily life. Jesus taught His followers to not be afraid of tomorrow, but rather to focus on what today has brought. Through His parables and the example of His own life, the Lord showed us how to live to the fullest. We invite you to learn more about Him in the church of your choice.

Comancheros

Their defenseless state gives the Indians little to fear. They suffer them to traverse the country, even whilst they are at war with the Mexicans.

Probably the Comancheros mentioned by Abert were "pack animal" traders. Being the careful chronicler that he was, the Lieutenant would have mentioned wagons are carretas had there been such. Neither does Abert mention Bent's Trading Houses, Adobe Walls, or Fort Adobe-all the same place though he was close to the site at the time. One explanation might be that he had crossed to the south side of the Canadian River a few miles up stream and didn't deem it wise or necessary to appear at the trading post, possibly realizing that the less attention drawn to his party, the better.

Historians disagree as to the type of structure or structures owned by the Bent Brothers there in 1845. Some say that Bent traders dealt out of teepees, other surmise that log houses were the structures, yet others contend that an adobe stockade, eighty feet square, was the establishment. In any case, it was a central trading post destined to play a dramatic role in the history of the West, but, for unknown reasons, Abert did not mention it. And so Lieutenant Abert and party passed from Comanchero land, bound to complete a survey of fabulous value to western historians.

As more and more settlers moved into central Texas in the middle 1800s to raise cattle and horses, and after military posts were built in New Mexico, the Comanchero trade became vicious and reached gigantic realms. Then the aggressive Mexican traders arrived in the Texas Panhandle with wagon trains loaded not only with trinkets, but with guns and ammunition. These were bartered to the Indians for stolen livestock and both white and colored captives. Armed with fine guns, the Redmen raid deep into Texas, wiped out entire settlements, and left blood and carnage in the dust of their flying ponies as they stole more stock and headed for the wild caprock country far to the West. Some of the arms were supplied by army men who managed to steal government shipments by bribing officials higher up. But probably the bulk of firearms and ammunition was furnished by cunning merchants looking for fast money with high returns.

Indian agents issued a few trading permits to legitimate Comancheros who immediately issued sub-licenses to others until the entire incident of permits was a farce. Any trader with enough money or backing to buy trade items paid no attention to permits, simply bootlegging himself into the Indian country any time he felt lucky.

A. B. Norton, Superintendent of Indian Affairs for New Mexico in 1866, was appalled at the wicked commerce and observed that thousands of Texas cattle were in the Territory, having been stolen by Indians on the Texas frontier and traded to Comancheros. The traders then sold the illicit livestock to unscrupulous stock buyers in New Mexico or equally unscrupulous stock merchants who had financed the Comancheros in the first place.

Norton mentioned incidents when the traders would meet the Indians who had nothing of value. The Comancheros would lend their guns to the Redmen who would raid into Texas and return soon with herds of cattle. At times, no doubt, the Mexicans accompanied the Indians on their savage tours and sometimes raided without them.

Texas cattlemen howled long and loud. Charles Goodnight screamed to the mountain tops, made trips into New Mexico, wrote letters to Washington, and, as late as the 1890s was trying to recover value for cattle stolen from him and Sheek by Comanche Indians in central Texas in 1865, 1867 and 1868.

Another salty old Texan, John Hittson of Palo Pinto County, used another method to recover his cattle. He recruited a group of rock hard gunfighters from his home country and went "agunnin'" in New Mexico. Aided by a few honest army men, Hittson took his cattle and left a few people drawn and quartered in the process.

The trade probably reached its peak in the 1860s. Streams of burros, wagons and carretas wound down from the high regions of New Mexico, moved through perfume-scented cedars and shadowed mesas of Plaza Larga, and slipped through the army's thin line of retention on the Texas border. Then they fanned out over the high, treeless plains to contact the Indians at a hundred places. Kit Carson, after being mauled by the Indians at Adobe Walls in the winter of 1864, reported to General James H. Carleton that the Comancheros had supplied the Indians well. Kit knew.
