Good Guy Award

Hall County employee, Danny Stewart, was working in Memphis with the other county employees recently.
 As he was returning home late that afternoon he saw a man and woman walking on the road that goes south after passing through Lakeview. Mr. Stewart turned around and returned to the couple. It was Mr. and Mrs. Ben Parks of Memphis and they had gotten their car stuck. Danny took them back to their home in Memphis.
 For this considerate gesture to the Parks, Danny deserves our Good Guy Award.

I, Janice S. Hill, have submitted my resignation as County Treasurer to the Commissioners' Court of Briscoe County, effective January 1, 1998. I have accepted a job with the State of Texas, Department of Criminal Justice.
 In my resignation I have suggested that Mary Jo Brannon be appointed to fulfill my unexpired term. I believe she is very capable to perform the duties as County Treasurer and she has shown a sincere desire to do so, by filing for the 1999-2002 term.
 I would like to thank everyone for their support throughout these past 11 years. Because of the support of the citizens of Briscoe County, my job as treasurer has been very rewarding.
 I would also like to thank the commissioners and judge for their support through the years. I believe we have had a good working relationship, even when we might have disagreed.
 Thank you, once again, to each person that has voted for me or had a kind word of support throughout these years.

THEN & NOW!

by Eunice McFall
 Well, did you do your self a favor and make all those New Years resolutions easy to keep or did you go for the gold and put in a few difficult ones to try to keep during 1998? Yes, it is that time of the year when we start to think about how we can make changes in our lives to make them better not only for us but for those around us. Even if we only make one that we keep and it has improved our style of living, it is well worth the effort. Of course many of us make many of the same ones each year and break them just as quickly this year as we did last year but, hey, this might be the magic year and we can stick with that most important one, the one that has eluded us all these years. Who knows? We certainly do not until we give it a trial.
 Of course we think of New Year's resolutions as a way of improving the way we live or do things. But it can also be a way that we can consciously plan to be better to our fellow man and to plan ways of helping others have a better and happier life. A resolution does not have to be a selfish resolution but can be quite the contrary.
 I know that we will feel better if we try to do a good deed than if we just let the opportunity pass us by and never even try to help our fellow traveler. How often at the end of the day do we go to bed wishing that we had helped someone when we had the chance? After all we only go around once in this life so we had better make it count when we are passing by or life itself will pass us by and we will often wonder now where did all those golden opportunities go and when did I miss out on all the fun! We must catch that golden ring when it flies by us the first time as it may never fly by us again.
 Perhaps our prayer for the coming year should be to have deliverance from our fears of the unknown. What a wonderful relief this would be to many of us who just really don't relish change but have to face it each day of the year. May 1998 bring to you and yours fulfillment of all your fondest dreams and wishes. May 1998 be a very special year to all of you who make this such a wonderful world to live in!

Bridge To The Future

(NAPS)—Whether it's the majestic beauty of the Golden Gate Bridge, the architectural marvel of the Brooklyn Bridge or the great sweeping expanse of the Verrazano-Narrows, a bridge is a sight to behold.

Halfway around the globe, Hong Kong holds a special treat for all bridge lovers. The Tsing Ma Bridge, the world's longest road-and-rail suspension bridge, links three historic islands to each other, the mainland and modern times.

The "Ma" end of the bridge is Ma Wan Island, where a small community nestles in a Qing Dynasty pirate's lair. It still needs its own ferry service to reach the mainland.

Facing Ma Wan is Lantau Island, whose green hills are dotted with Buddhist monasteries and nunneries where vegetarian meals or silence are the orders of the day.

Plans are now underway to build a Hong Kong Film City theme park on Tsing Yi Island, the "Tsing" side of the bridge. As a result, the Tsing Ma Bridge—a sightseeing attraction in its own right—may soon become a global symbol of Hong Kong.

TURKEY NEWS FROM JAN 1

A tornado struck the Houston area recently. Harvey Case, a former Turkey resident, received some severe damage to his home. The storm prevented Harvey coming to Matador to spend Christmas with his parents, the Jack Cases.

We departed home on Saturday, December 20, in the rain. It rained on us all day so we finally stopped for the night in Junction.

Sunday morning was a beautiful day, so we drove on to Sabinal where our daughter, Brenda Coker, lives. Brenda had recently bought a home in Sabinal and we were anxious to see her new home, which is quite nice.

While in Sabinal we traveled to Uvalde for some sight seeing. We toured the home of John Nance Garner, a former Vice President of the United States under Franklin D. Roosevelt. While going through this beautiful old home-tourist attraction, we discovered that Garner's mother was named Sarah Guest and she was related to the Smitty Guest family of Turkey.

On Tuesday, December 23rd, we all drove to Brenham. We followed Brenda or we would probably never made it through San Antonio. Again, we drove all day in a heavy rain and arrived in Brenham at Kim and Lisa Coker's home in the afternoon.

We enjoyed Christmas with them and especially enjoyed our 3 year old granddaughter, Makenzie.

Brenda returned to Sabinal on the 25th. Most of the Sabinal School employees and I think half of the town left on the 26th for Colorado for a week of skiing. This is a yearly occasion.

We returned home on Saturday, December 27th on a beautiful day--no rain. Returning home with us was Chester, a tiny dog of Brenda's who couldn't go skiing. Brenda will pick him up on her way home, January 2. At least she promised she would.

THINGS SEEN OR HEARD

All of the Lane's children were here with the exception of Debbie and Jon Maxwell of Idabel, Oklahoma. Jon was on call at the hospital.

We met our daughter, Brenda Coker, on New Year's Day in Tulia. she and the rest of the people she was traveling with were returning to their homes in Sabinal after a week of skiing in Colorado. We had dog sat her dog, Chester, and returned him to her in Tulia.

K.O. and Connie Lyles were in town visiting with Ying Lyles for the holidays. They enjoyed lunch at Ying's with Billy, Patsy and Beth Lyles. They enjoyed their visit and conversation. On Sunday they attended the Church of Christ.

They brought news that Ying is a new Great Grandma. K.O.'s son Jeffrey and his wife Susan had a baby girl on November 18, 1997. Little Jenifer Lynn Lyles weighed six pounds five and 1/4 ounces and was 20 inches long. She made her debut at 9:55 p.m. Mom, Dad and baby are doing fine. Quitaque made news in the January issue of the Texas Monthly magazine. A Maryland animal rights group protested Quitaque's "guinea drop".

In the same article it stated emus' price drop caused many owners to just turn their emus loose. The article stated they could have dropped them from an airplane over Quitaque.

Christmas visitors in the home of Keith and Bettie Green were Jerry, Justen and Jaymie Green of Maumelle, Arkansas; James, Linda, Jessie, Zach and Dyllan Green of Holliday; Criss, Kaylene, Meagan, Crissta, and Chase Morrison of Lubbock; Anita Oschner of El Paso; and Elgin, Cathryn and Karyn Conner of Levelland.

The Dish On Antibacterial Soap

(NAPS)—When it comes to getting rid of the grime of the day, all soaps are not the same.

If you want to banish germs—which cause nasty winter colds to acne breakouts to stinky feet—doctors suggest sudsing up with an antibacterial soap to ensure long-lasting protection.

"Antibacterial soap forms a protective shield on the skin that slows down the growth of bacteria for several hours," said Dr. Sloan Beth Karver, an associate clinical professor at Allegheny University in Philadelphia, Pa. "This means less body odor because it's the bacteria that lurk in the sweat, not the sweat itself, that cause malodors."

Antibacterial soap will also make a dent in the bacteria population on your palms. "You can greatly reduce the risk of catching a cold if you wash your hands regularly, using an antibacterial soap," said Dr. Karver.

Besides killing nasty germs, antibacterial soaps, such as Lever 2000, also fight bacteria which can cause intestinal infections, strep throat and pneumonia. But unlike the other leading brands which can be irritating and drying to skin,

Mystery Angel Brightens Season

by Lee Hill Nelson (sent in by Mozelle Eudy)

When I was a child, I pictured angels as beautiful blond women with wings, wearing long white dresses and flying around in heaven taking care of my two baby brothers and all other people who died.

I learned that on the first Christmas, an angel came to shepherds out in a field to tell them Jesus was born.

And at Easter, angels came to the women at the empty tomb to assure them that "Christ is risen."

In Hebrews 13:2, we are told to not forget to entertain strangers because they may be angels unawares.

Other than these instances, I never thought much about angels--until one came into my life.

I dragged my feet to the mailbox, not caring whether there was mail. A stubborn respiratory infection sapped strength. I had not decorated a tree, addressed cards or bought gifts. The Christmas season was not calm and bright.

Instead of mail, there was a black jewelry box. Inside, a one-half inch angel glittered in red and green glass trimmed in gold. I stared. It seemed she smiled and said, "I'm yours."

From where did she come? Who left her? No message, no name, no clue told me.

The Christmas season brightened. I wanted to solve the mystery; she seemed a gift of love. Dorothy, my next-door neighbor, was my first suspect.

"No, I didn't leave you an angel," she said. Helen, my prayer partner, was my next suspect. Again, no. Each person I called suggested someone else. No one admitted leaving her.

The angel rode on my shoulder throughout the season with a bit of mystery, a bit of good cheer and even a bit of mischief.

Was she left by mistake? Was she left for a purpose? I don't know. I sensed a hard-to-describe emotion in all of this, a kind of promise, a kind of wonder, yet nothing tangible.

Is this the duty of angels? Do you have an angel in your life? (Mrs. Nelson lived in the Buffalo Flat community as a child and attended Turkey High School.)

Both firms are now esconced in their new locations and are carrying on their business in a normal manner, except that Farmers Supply is doing a lot of painting, including the walls, ceiling and floor, and will be in a more or less "disturbed" condition for a week or more.
The painting that the Farmers Supply is doing will be accomplished by degrees, moving things around until the task is completed. the McCay building occupied by Lacy only recently has undergone an interior paint job.
As for "location" both firms probably benefited. Hicks (Hardware & Imp.) says he is now completely surrounded by grocery stores--and should find no difficulty in finding something to nibble on (Lacy on one side and Meacham on the other.) ❄️
