July 4th agenda being set

By HEATHER SHIPMAN
Journal staff writer

The Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce & Agriculture is finalizing plans for its annual July 4th celebration.

The celebration is being moved back to Main Street this year, where it was held for many years.

"We've had a very positive response to the move," said Chamber president Wade King. "It will help keep people from having to drive all day instead of enjoying the day's events."

Main Street will be blocked off from Ave. D to Highway 84.

The street will be lined with games, food vendors, merchants, and entertainment. Local talent will provide entertainment during the day and several local merchants will hold sidewalk sales along Main Street.

Food will be available from various vendors and refreshments will be served at the Bailey County Coliseum open house.

The Chamber will have an information tent set up on the Mule Lot to help visitors locate certain events and to register them for those events. It will open at 8 a.m. and remain open throughout the day.

Summer jobs weren't always a breeze

By HEATHER SHIPMAN
Journal staff writer

The concept of a "summer job" has changed drastically.

Years ago, from the time a child was age seven, and sometimes younger, they were out in the field working. They worked because they had to.

"We picked and hoed cotton from sun-up to sun-down," said Harvey Bass, owner of Bass Appliance. "Back then we didn't work for extra money, we worked to live."

"Before we could work for other people, we had to take care of the chores at home. I can remember working all day and then coming home and having to milk the cows before going to bed. I think I probably made about 75 cents a day."

Joe Shipman, co-owner of Joe Shipman and Sons Body Shop, also toiled in the fields.

"We worked from the time school was out until the first frost. I think that it taught us to appreciate what little we had, something most kids don't have to worry about today," Shipman said.

But not everybody worked in the fields.

Some started out as a carhop, baby-sitting and working the counter at a pharmacy.

"My first job was a carhop at a drive-in at Clovis. I can't remember exactly how much I made, but I know it wasn't very much," Lucille Franse of Muleshoe said. "I couldn't complain though, because it was the only job I could find since I was only 15."

Stephanie Chester of Sudan worked at a gin weighing trucks and posting the weight tickets. "I worked for my grandmother at Center Point

Muleshoe part of World War II escape plans

Atomic energy and nuclear weapons are part of everyday life nowadays — have been for years.

But times were different during the World War II era, when the United States and rival nations were on the cusp of discovering the atomic bomb.

Moonene (Alwert) Blaser was just a little girl then, maybe five or six years old. It was also the first time she had heard of Muleshoe, Texas.

"World War II began in 1939, and to say the least, war is uncertain and frightening, and there was always a concern to safety," Blaser wrote in a recent letter to the Muleshoe Journal. "Especially considering the Atomic bomb was part of our defense."

Blaser said that her parents had told her and her three brothers all about the fall-out shelters in Enid, Okla., which was located about 10 miles away from the family farm.

Having a plan

"But our mother took it one step further," the letter said. "If there was an atomic bomb attack on the USA and we were separated, we needed a place to meet."

"Of course we were small children, and mother knew we needed to remember this place for months or years to come."

Sylvia Alwert, the wife of a German farmer from Fairmont, Okla., chose Muleshoe.

"Our parents had never been to Muleshoe, but they knew it was a small town in a rural area that would give us safety and promise of a united family."

"We always wondered how we would have gotten 450 miles from our home if we were separated. We talked of our plan many times in those early years, and now 59 years later, we are still talking of how important Muleshoe was to us, and what a lasting impression it made on us."

Life was hard

Moonene Alwert was one of four children of Delbert and Sylvia Alwert, who settled and farmed in Fairmont, Okla.

"They were beginning their married lives during the Great Depression (1930-41) and farming was a very hard living," Blaser wrote. "It was also the Oklahoma Dust Bowl era, which totally wiped out a lot of farmers."

"We raised our own meat and vegetable garden. Wheat was yielding seven bushels

Guy and Gilles, French-Canadians, first hooked up with the sisters on a French twins' Web site last summer. They met their wives-to-be only once, when the women came to South Carolina for a two-week stay around Valentine's Day.

But 1,300 e-mails took care of the rest. "There wasn't anything else to do but talk on the Internet," the brothers said.

St. Mary, Methodist hospital merger final

The long-anticipated merger of St. Mary and Methodist hospitals became reality Thursday when the two hospitals signed the final legal documents consummating the agreement and, subsequently, creating a new organization called Covenant Health System.

"With the creation of Covenant Health System a unique opportunity to positively impact health care services in the west Texas and eastern New Mexico has been created," said St. Mary Hospital President/CEO Charley Trimble, who will serve as CEO of Covenant Health System.

Together, the two organizations have 1,338 licensed beds, approximately 4,400 full-time equivalent employees and net operating revenues of more than $600 million.

The agreement brings to a close the first phase of an intense effort which began in January of 1996 when the two hospitals signed a letter-of-intent to pursue a merger.

When the letter-of-intent was signed more than two years ago, officials of the two hospitals originally announced that the new entity would be named Methodist/St. Mary Health System.

Alan B. White, chairman of the board of Lubbock Methodist Hospital System, will chair the CHS board for the next three years.

The name Covenant Health System was chosen because it reflects the mission of the organization, has Biblical roots and references, and depicts the partnership and commitment between the two organizations.

McElroy going on mission

A local teenager will travel to Italy later this summer on a seven-week, church mission.

Muleshoe High school senior Josh McElroy is leaving June 15 to travel with a team of 30 teens and their leaders as part of Teen Missions International.

The non-denominational mission group will help plant a garden and build a retaining wall for the Comunita Evangelica "Emmanuele," an evangelical church in Cantanzaro, Italy.

He will spend two weeks of intensive training at Teen Missions Primitive Boot Camp in Florida. Classes in spiritual growth, Bible study, evangelism, music, drama, puppetry and construction will help prepare him for the mission.

Several days will be set aside for rest and relaxation in Zurich, Switzerland at the end of the mission.

McElroy, a member of the First Baptist Church of Muleshoe, will return home Aug. 14.

He welcomes the opportunity to share his experiences with area youth upon his return.

What Would Jesus Have Done On Monday?

I drove to Lubbock Monday to take our van back to the garage which did some still-warranted and still-not working air conditioning repair for its previous owner. I almost blew a fuse. Not on the van. On the van's driver. It's been a busy spring, and a very busy summer is well underway. I leave for a week's worth of speaking and teaching in Indiana this Friday, then one day at home, and then a week of the same in Dallas. Busy.

Focus On Faith
Curt Shelburne

But I'd managed to make an appointment to get the needed repair work done on Monday in Lubbock. And I'd re-arranged an already packed-full week to accommodate the trip. I had a briefcase and a computer and a wad of work with me and was planning to camp out at a friend's house all day Monday, displaced but productive. At least the phone wouldn't be for me.

Now, getting to Lubbock these days is a bit of a nuisance (which I personally expect to last until 2010 or so). The speed drops to 45 at least a mile before you see even a hint of any construction taking place, but a number of ominous signs are plainly visible. Something about "double fines." But I managed to eek past the miles of wreckage.

Just in time to have a guy in a beat-up gray pickup pull out right in front of me and pretty much camp there all the way from Littlefield to the other side of Lubbock. Oh, yeah, Lubbock. Did I mention that when I got there, I finally managed to find the out-of-the-way garage, whipped in, and immediately saw a wreath on the door and a "CLOSED" sign? It's not Christmas, folks. One bay door was open, a car or two hung forlornly up on racks, and a secretary was padding around smoking a cigarette. There'd been a death in the boss's family, she told me, and they'd re-open tomorrow. I could come back. No, I couldn't. I felt bad about feeling bad (angry, I confess). I had an appointment. It was planned, you know. But nobody plans to die, and death is always inconvenient especially for those whose hearts are breaking. I felt sorry for the family. And then I wondered how bad I should feel about wondering, well, why the secretary had time to puff and wander and not time to use the telephone. I felt bad again. I left, and I got a cup of coffee. Really dark (like I needed help being upright). I drove back home. After I finally got around the Suburban driven by the woman who missed the part in driver's ed about the slower traffic staying in the right lane. Yep, I almost blew a fuse. But it occurred to me later, much later, that I'm supposed to be serving a Lord who was a lot busier than I'll ever be. And he always seemed to have time. Time for important stuff. No, not stuff. People. Did I mention that the theme of my week in Indiana is "What Would Jesus Do?" I'm pretty sure he wouldn't blow a fuse. Curt Shelburne is minister of the 16th & D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

My friend Jack

BAXTER BLACK
ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

It was a small corner of the earth. Where seven women carried a cowboy to his grave. The spot sits on a small bluff overlooking Boulder flats. From his burying place one can see the Wind River ranger, the Salt Mountains, the pale blue sky and the Green River as it waters the valley floor all the way to Big Piney.

"It's windy up there," one of the pall bearers told me, "but Jack would've liked it."

Jack was a first rate cowboy, hunter's guide, son of Wyoming and paraplegic. The last several of his years were spent in a care center in a small town, 99 miles from the nearest freeway. Flat on his back, unable to lift a hand.

How he lasted so long after he contracted MS is a mystery to me. How one could keep his spirits up with so little hope is hard for most of us to understand. It gives a reality check to the saying, "You gotta play the cards that you been dealt."

But any letters I received or conversation I had with Jack were never tinted with self pity, depression or anger. Matter of fact, most were humorous and clever, even pullin' my leg. They never drew attention to his captivity. He let me off easy. I, of course, was aware or could imagine the orchestrated effort it took for him to write me one simple letter.

But he was in the care of angels.

A handful of beautiful women who nursed him, befriended him, loved him and kept him in line. They did for him all those things that he and I never discussed, from changing his diaper, to adjusting his cassette volume, to holding his hand.

They kept him from living his life inside his own lonely mind.

Their contribution to his well being cannot be measured in the single flash of a winning home run in the bottom of the 9th, the garish announcement of a million dollar contribution to United Way, or the gala winning of an Oscar.

It is measured in pleasant good mornings, endless bed adjustments, uncountable spoonfuls of soup, unhurried conversations and unconscious pats, squeezes, straightenings and kisses.

It is hard to go quietly into the good night. The will to live is a stubborn foe. But Jack finally went. He was carried to his grave by the angels who had watched over him and given into the care of their heavenly counterparts that watch over him now.

And, if I might say, since he's a horseback up there and mobile, the new band of angels probably has the tougher job.

CHAMBER

There will be activities for all ages, from the pony rides to the World Championship Muleshoe Pitching contest. After dwindling interest, the Muleshoe pitching contest will be revived this year with changes that will hopefully keep participation high.

"It will start at 8:30 a.m. and we will be through by lunch time so that those who want to participate in the Muleshoe Country Club July 4 scramble will be able to do both," said King. The scramble starts at 1 p.m. and will be a shotgun start.

The parade is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. and all who are interested in participating in it should talk to the chamber to register. "We will allow people to join in at any time, but if the judges have an information sheet on that entry there will be a better chance of winning," said King.

Other events taking place are the Bailey County Coliseum 20th Anniversary Celebration ceremony, featuring Texas Speaker of the House Pete Laney as the guest speaker. It starts at 1 p.m. and will be followed by the Old Settler's Reunion.

Concluding the day's events will be local talent performing in the park and will be followed by a concert performed by T. Graham Brown. The concert will be immediately followed by the annual fireworks display by the Muleshoe Fire Department.

For more information about the schedule of events, booths, parade entries or activities, call Laura Precure at 272-4248 or Wade King at 272-3010.

Gin in Levelland, and it was fun to get to spend time with her while earning money."

Experts say a summer job can teach children discipline, respect and how to manage their money. But they have to be willing to work.

"I've had mothers come into my office and demand that her son or daughter fill out an information sheet, but the kids are very reluctant," said Jeff Coffman, an interview specialist with the Texas Workforce Commission. "I can't recommend someone for a job if I don't think they will be willing to work, and to hold a job you have to be willing."

Coffman said there are plenty of jobs available for children ages 14 and up.

"There are some jobs that teenagers can't get according to the child labor laws, but there are still jobs out there," Coffman said.

Coffman receives calls everyday about miscellaneous work. Jobs like yard work and gardening are just some of the examples.

"I've even had people to call to get someone for the day just to clean out their pick-up," said Coffman.

Coffman said summer jobs can be for the long term or just a stepping stone along the way.

For more information about the child labor laws and available jobs, contact Jeff Coffman at 272-7537.

Dealers forced to apologize and extend liquidation event

CLOVIS/PORTALES - Sid Strebeck and Gary Hamilton, during an emergency news conference late Saturday, offered a public apology for the disruption their tent event on North Prince has caused in Clovis.

Strebeck was the first to speak, saying, "We had no idea when it started just how many people would respond. Due to railroad and trucking problems, some of our additional inventory won't be here until Monday or Tuesday. We realize people were forced to wait hours to take advantage of the great values and we never intended for that to happen."

Hamilton added, "To make up for all the confusion and congestion, we have extended this special event until next Saturday night. Our extra inventory will be here and we've taken steps to ensure customer waiting times are minimal."

Chuck Daggett, general manager of Teague-Strebeck Ford, apologized to the Clovis Police Department. "We regret our event has caused traffic congestion at the Llano Estacado and Prince Street intersection. We realize their job is tough enough without extra confusion. We have changed our entrance situation and this should be less of a problem."

Henry Greenfield, a tent event customer from Clovis, said, "We had some friends who came to the event Friday, but because of other commitments they weren't able to stay long enough to purchase their vehicle. They will be so excited when they find out it has been extended."

Sonny Smith, another customer from Clovis, said, "There was a little extra waiting but when we look at the money we saved on our new Ford Super Cab it was certainly worth it!"

Lucas Larson, a recent graduate of ENMU from Portales, bought a new 1998 Ford Escort ZX2 and said, "When the salesperson quoted my payment I thought he had made a mistake. I never dreamed a recent graduate with very little credit like myself could drive a new ZX2 for such a low payment. I don't know how he did it but I'm glad he did!"

Hamilton said, "When Ford Motor Company gave us the challenge to help liquidate thousands of new Ford cars and trucks, we just weren't fully prepared. Now we've gotten more organized and we're still able to offer 0.9% financing and the customer still keeps the rebate. During this kind of promotion we're able to offer the most attractive values I've ever seen."

Daggett said, "Even though our sales people are tired, we have promised them additional time off after this second week, we are committed to being open every night through Saturday until 10 p.m. These extra hours give all area residents a chance to take advantage of our exceptional values.

A sales manager at another local dealership who asked to remain anonymous said, "I hated it when I overheard the Ford event had been extended through Saturday. During the previous four days, we haven't sold anything to speak of. It is totally unfair when a big company like Ford pours so much money into a local event it's almost impossible for the rest of us dealers to compete. I've actually had to advise some of my own customers to buy from Hamilton Big Country Ford and Teague-Strebeck Ford during this event because there's no way we could match those prices or payments without losing money. I wish they hadn't extended it and I'll just be glad when it's over so we can start selling cars again."

Courtmasters rally to take regional title

LUBBOCK — Courtmasters won the Youth Basketball Organization of America girls 15-under regional title the hard way.

Working its way through the loser's bracket after a first-round loss, Courtmasters edged the previously unbeaten Dimmitt Stars 36-35 in Sunday's championship game.

Tommie Hernandez of Muleshoe scored the winning bucket on a putback as time expired.

Kristin Broyles of Springlake-Earth scored 13 of her game-high 16 points in the second half to lead Courtmasters, which is made up of players from Muleshoe, Springlake-Earth and Sudan.

Hernandez finished with nine points in the championship game and Megan Tipps of Muleshoe added four points.

Courtmasters avenged a first-round loss in the loser's bracket final of the five-team tournament earlier Sunday, spanking the Lady Cats 50-33 as Chelyn Maddox of Springlake-Earth paced a balanced attack with 12 points. Tipps added eight points and Muleshoe's Melissa Flores, Broyles and Tara Chester of Sudan each added six points.

Courtmasters rebounded from a 30-27 loss to beat the Levelland Stars 39-29 Saturday behind Haylea Moudy's 12 points. Hernandez added 10 points and Broyles finished with eight.

Courtmasters whipped Whiteface 42-22 in the second round of the loser's bracket Saturday as Moudy poured in 11 points and Broyles added eight.

The team was coached by David Tipps and Roger Williams.

J.C. Shanks was born April 24, 1917 in the central Texas county of Brown. J.C., his eleven siblings and his parents moved to Mills County when he was 3 years old and then settled in Bailey County by the time he was 11 years old. Mr. Shanks attended school in Baileyboro but didn't get to finish his studies. He went to work driving a tractor and breaking land for his dad on the family farm. Mr. Shanks spent many years farming for himself and other people in this area. However he is really a "jack of all trades," spending time working at Bailey County Electric, delivering gas, driving transport trucks and working with the Highway Department. J.C. married Odessa Vaughn of the West Camp area on January 14, 1940. Mrs. Shanks passed away August 7, 1996. The couple parented two sons: Donald of Arkansas and Gerald of Muleshoe. Mr. Shanks has 4 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren. J.C. enjoys writing and collecting poetry. Why poetry? It helps him sharpen his typing skills. This has come in handy since he is busy writing a book about his memories and his family's history. He affectionately calls it "PaPa's Memories." The book was started after his grandchildren showed interest in their family history and came to J.C. to tell them the "tales" of the Shanks family. According to J.C., this interest "broke me out of my shell." Mr. Shanks also enjoys singing and is part of the Muleshoe Singers, a group that performs at the nursing home once a month. He is a member of the First Baptist Church. About M.A.H.H.A. J.C. says that he appreciates what they've done for him. He's well on his way to recovery after hip replacement surgery.

MULESHOE HERITAGE FOUNDATION NEWS

The Muleshoe Heritage Foundation board met June 8 at the Muleshoe Depot.

Board members present were Vivian White, president, Carolyn Johnson, Charles Flowers, Kristy Price, Gordon Green, Jean Allison, Chuck Smith, Jack Hicks and Peggy Bruton, hostess at the Heritage Center. The president brought the meeting to order and Mrs. Bruton read the minutes from the last meeting. Kristi Price gave the treasurer's report.

A discussion was held about getting estimates for repairs on the old log cabin. Carolyn Johnson noted that an itemized statement would be needed in order to present this to the City Council on June 16 when asking for assistance from the city.

It was stated that the T.R. White family is giving the building where the Heritage Thrift Shop is located to the Heritage Foundation. Vivian White noted that repairs and clean-up had started at the Thrift Shop but much more is needed. Gordon Green made the motion that the earlier telephone pole to accept this building be accepted by the board. The motion carried. A dinner will soon be held to formally accept the building and to honor other citizens of the area who have given assistance to the Center.

Chuck Smith then proposed that the board get assistance in applying for a grant. He suggested a Lubbock consultant service headed by Ed Mason, formerly of Muleshoe. Chuck Smith will contact Ed Mason to obtain further information.

Gordon Green made the motion that the Heritage Foundation get insurance to cover this (the Thrift Shop) as well as sufficient insurance to cover the buildings and liability at the Center. Motion passed.

Mr. Mario DeHoyos and son Rocky were then introduced. Rocky was interested in completing or doing a project at the Center in lieu of getting his Eagle Scout badge. It was suggested that a fire pit with a metal pot rack, as used by early cowboys in the area, would be a great addition at the Center.

It was noted that an out-house was delivered to the Center on Memorial Day by Charles Flowers and wife. Board members voted to place it at the Center in its original condition as much as possible. Other business conducted concerned repairs on the windmill, and Chuck Smith volunteered to take care of this. Kim Shafer donated eighteen small plants for the porch to the depot and the ranch house. Jerry Bruton and grandson repaired the flag pole May 24. As Jerry has donated his services a number of times to the Center, board members voted to issue him a Certificate of Appreciation. Jack Hicks made a motion that an old light at the Center (not in use) be given to the VFW, as requested by Jerry Bruton. Motion passed. Kristi Price was asked to donate drip lines to water trees at the Center when the old windmill is repaired. Board members accepted enthusiastically. Meeting adjourned.

Dent, Rader wed in double-ring ceremony

Laura Michelle Dent became the bride of Timothy Merle Rader on May 16, 1998 in the First Baptist Church of Muleshoe. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was John Knox, minister of the Muleshoe Church of Christ.

Michelle is the daughter of Ronnie and Peggy Dent of Muleshoe. Tim is the son of Bob and Linda Hawkins of Charlotte, N.C. and Carl and Sandy Rader of Mooresville, N.C.

Grandmothers of the couple are Laura Mae Stansell of Muleshoe, Mrs. Earline Rader of Mooresville, N.C. and Mrs. Betty Clemons of Dade City, Fla.

Attending as maid of honor was Karen Bottoms of Abilene. Serving as bridesmaids were Laura McDonald of Cleveland, Texas, Renee Dorimany of Burke, Va., Mindy Green of Amarillo, Kristin Slavens of Abilene, and Betty Colwell of Austin. The Junior bridesmaid was Haley Rader, sister of the groom from Mooresville, N.C. The attendants wore long gowns of chocolate Montego Stantug with a square neckline and short dolman sleeves.

They carried bouquets of stargazer lillies and tree fern and ruska. They each wore a string of pearls, a gift from the bride.

Attending as best man was Ken Ajzmundt of Kileen, Texas. Groomsmen were Monty Dent of Littleton, Colo., brother of the bride, Chris Hewitt of Kileen, Texas, Chris White of Charlotte, N.C., Shane Peagler of Charlotte, N.C., and John Jones of Charlotte, N.C. Brennon Smith of Lubbock served as ring bearer.

The groom wore a traditional black notched full double breasted coat, black pleated pants with a black lower cut vest with a candlelight pleated shirt. His boutonniere consisted of bridal white rosebuds and stephanotis with misty. The groomsmen wore black tuxedos with candlelight tucked shirts. Their boutonnieres were white bridal roses and misty.

The bride wore an elegant gown of candlelight satin designed by Jacquilin. The bodice was heavily beaded with sequins and pearls and alencon lace, featuring a sabrina neckline and long-fitted, illusion sleeves. The gown was accented with a cathedral train beaded heavily with sequins and pearls. Her cathedral veil was attached to a tiara headpiece with a cascade of pearls and candlelight roses with a large tulle poof in the back that was scattered with pearls.

To complete her ensemble the bride chose a bouquet of candlelight stargazer lillies with white tulips, misty and cascading dendrobium orchids.

The traditional "something new" was her bridal gown and garter. "Something old" was her wedding band that was worn in the 1800's by her great grandmother Stansell, also her string of pearls which belongs to her grandmother Dent. "Something blue" was an antique linen handkerchief that belonged to her great, great grandmother Givens. "Something borrowed" was a penny of her birth year worn in her shoe.

Ushers for the occasion were Tyson Moncrief of Amarillo, Dale Dent, uncle of the bride from Clovis, N.M., Jonathan Wilson of San Antonio and Nathan Wilson of Ulyseses, Kan.

The ceremony took place before a setting of large floral arrangements consisting of peace roses, white tulips, caspia, tree fern, larkspurs on grecian columns. Large clusters of candles accented the piano and organ enclosures and along the front of the choir seating area. All of the candle arrangements were nestled in candlelight tulle. Flowers were done by Lasting Impressions of Muleshoe. Decorations were done by Cindy Magby of Muleshoe. The pews were accented with candlelight organza ribbons trimmed with a pearl edging. Crystal candlesticks dressed each stained glass window with ivy candle-rings nestled in tulle and twinkle lights. The stairways from which the attendants descended were dressed with twinkle lights and entwined tulle accented with large organza bows.

The foyer of the church was dressed with grecian columns holding urns of white wisteria. The table was covered with a candlelight brocade table runner holding a large arrangement of pastel spring flowers and brass hurricane candle holders. Lori Schwartz, sister of the groom from Charlotte, N.C. registered the wedding guests.

Musical selections were recordings by Wayne Watson, Clarke, Bob Carlile and Enya. Laura Mae Stansell, grandmother of the bride, entered the ceremony to "Watermark" by Enya escorted by Tyson Moncrief of Amarillo. The parents entered to "Somewhere in this World" by Wayne Watson. The bride's mother was escorted in by her son, Monty Dent of Littleton, Colo. "No Holly for Miss Quinn" by Enya was playing as all the attendants descended the stairway.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Rader

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her dad, Ronnie, to the music "Shepherd's Moon" by Enya. After the ceremony was completed the bride and groom and all the attendants exited to "Trumpet Voluntary" by Clarke.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall. The setting for the reception was grecian columns draped with crinkle cloth and tulle and topped with large ivy garlands. Each column was accented with large potted palm trees.

The tables were dressed with ivory moire linens and chantilly lace. The center table was adorned with a four-tiered bridal cake of bavarian cream with bavarian cream filling and buttercream frosting. The cake was accented with fresh pastel flowers of pink roses, alstrimarium, caspia and lavender freesia. The top layer was filled with these flowers that cascaded down the other layers.

The side tables were arranged with large bouquets of pastel spring flowers in the center.

The three-tiered groom's cake was a devil's food cake with chocolate mousse filling and mild chocolate icing accented with dark chocolate lacing and chocolate dipped strawberries.

Mock champagne was served in a brass punch bowl. Also coffee was served in a brass urn. Chocolate and cream mints were served along with peanuts. The mints were made by the bride's mother.

Serving at the reception was Neleen Dent, aunt of the bride from Muleshoe. Cindy Harrison and Cris Cleavinger of Muleshoe, Kim Jorden of Pampa, and Ginger Armstrong of Austin, and Haylee Moudy of Earth, all cousins of the bride. Lori Swartz and Haley Rader of N.C. served at the groom's table. They are sisters of the groom.

Following the reception the bride and groom were escorted in a white, horse drawn carriage to the home of the bride's parents where they left for a wedding trip to Orlando, Fla.

The couple will make their home in Austin. He works for Southwest Airlines, and she works in the design department of Dillard's in Lakeline Mall of North Austin.

On May 15, the bride and groom were honored with the rehearsal dinner at Leal's. It was hosted by Kay Moncrief of Muleshoe, Jan Wilson of Ulyseses, Kan., Beverly Carrole of San Jose, Calif., Lana Koziel of Waco, Texas and Sandra Ware of San Angelo, all close friends of the bride.

The home of Cindy Harrison was the scene of a bridal brunch on May 16. The brunch was hosted by Neleen Dent, Cindy Harrison, Criss Cleavinger, Kim Jordan and Ginger Armstrong, all relatives of the bride.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

PROPHECY FROM THE JAILHOUSE

AS MOST PROPHETS, JEREMIAH AROUSED THE ANGER OF HIS KING, CONCERNING THEIR ALLIES. THE PROPHET TRADITIONALLY LOOKED TO GOD, AND THE KING USUALLY TO EGYPT OR BABYLON... NEVER THE TWIN SHALL MEET! IN FACT, SO INCENSED WAS HE THAT THE KING PUT JEREMIAH INTO JAIL. EVEN SO THIS DID NOT STOP HIM FROM PROPHECYING. HE CALLED FOR HIS FRIEND BARUCH THE SCRIBE AND IN THE CONFINES OF THE DUNGEON DICTATED HIS PROPHECY WHICH BARUCH INSCRIBED ON LEATHER SCROLLS. JEREMIAH IS PROBABLY THE ONLY BOOK IN THE BIBLE WHICH ACTUALLY COMES TO US FROM BEHIND BARS.

Regional water management meeting June 18

Bailey County residents are invited to offer comments about the content of the proposed Llano Estacado Regional Water Management Plan at a public hearing to be held at 7 p.m., June 18 at the Plains Cotton Cooperative Association (PCCA) office auditorium, 3301 E. 50th Street, in Lubbock.

As part of the provisions of Senate Bill 1 passed during the 75th Texas Legislature, the Texas Water Development Board in Austin (TWDB) divided the state into 16 regional water planning areas. In February 1998, the TWDB appointed an initial coordinating committee for each region to begin developing regional water plans that identify both short-term and long-term water supply needs and recommend water management strategies to address them.

The initial coordinating committee, now known as the Llano Estacado Regional Water Planning Group, is made up of area citizens representing the 11 water user groups as defined by the TWDB. These water user groups include the public sector, county governments, municipalities, industries, agriculture, environmental issues, small businesses, electric generating utilities, river authorities, water districts, and water utilities.

"The regional water planning group is required by law to hold at least one public hearing prior to the development of the scope of work to gather public input about issues that should be addressed or considered in the regional water management plan," said A. Wayne Wyatt of Lubbock, chairman of the Llano Estacado Regional Water Management Plan. "This public meeting will give area residents an opportunity to comment on the direction to be taken concerning the conservation and preservation of the region's surface and ground water resources. It is their input that will help shape regional water supply management for the next 50 years."

Persons unable to attend the hearing may offer written comments to Wyatt at the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 office in Lubbock.

The Llano Estacado Regional Water Management Plan area is made up of 21 counties in the southern High Plains region.

Agribusinesses feeling effects of drought

COLLEGE STATION — With most of Texas suffering from a drought and the hottest summer months still ahead, agribusinesses across the state are feeling the heat. James Parker of Lubbock, region supervisor of West Texas for the Wilbur Ellis Co., said the drought is already having a negative impact on business.

"Business is down by at least 50 percent," he said. "If the drought continues, nearly 25 percent of the farmers in our area will not make it." Parker said the drought's impact is not limited to agribusiness.

"There's a trickle down effect," he said. "For example, we're not using as much fuel as we normally do, so our loss affects the business that we buy fuel from."

Dr. Carl Anderson of College Station, Texas Agricultural Extension economist and professor, said when farmers are suffering, it is likely that agribusiness is doing worse.

"Nearly any time the producers' incomes are in jeopardy, you'll find that agribusinesses are in more danger than the producers," he said. Anderson said agricultural production and agribusiness are restructuring, and the drought makes the restructuring more apparent.

On the row crop side, production is shifting from cotton to grain," he said. "We're seeing producers switch to production that requires a lower volume of inputs." Anderson said that shift is being felt by agribusinesses that provide inputs and services.

"I think you'll find producers and businesses working together," he said. "They need each other." Anderson said the restructuring primarily affects those businesses catering to row crop producers. "It's not all bad," he said. "It's just restructuring, but it happens to be going on during a drought."

Dwayne Bair, manager of Edinburg Citrus Association, said he is concerned about the drought but is trying to stay positive.

"We have had terrific bloom," he said. "If we have sufficient water, we would see a 20 percent increase in production." Bair said the drought does affect his ability to sell his product.

"Our out-of-state customers know about the drought," he said, "then they start thinking they need to buy from Florida, just to be safe."

Bair said the citrus industry didn't feel the negative impact of the 1996 drought.
