Mrs. J. T. Bradley, a former Quitaque resident, was honored Saturday, October 18, 1986, on her one-hundredth (100th) birthday anniversary with a party held at the Lockney Care Center. There were approximately fifty relatives and friends present to help her enjoy the day. All six of her children were present. Six children, four girls and two boys, were born to this union while they were living in Erath County. They moved to the vicinity of Sherman, Texas in Grayson County in 1918, making the trip in a covered wagon. Their furniture was shipped by train. They farmed in this area and raised livestock. Ruptured Appendix is Fatal to Mike Rice: Nothing that has happened here for many years has so shocked and grieved the community and this area as the sudden and untimely passing of Mike Rice. Among those from Turkey attending the funeral of Elbert Grady (Mike) Rice at Quitaque were Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. Alga Turner, Mr. Porter Lacy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Young and Bob, Mrs. Gene Gibson, Bert Degam, Drew Holcomb, Floyd Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lacy, Mr. and Mrs. George Setliff, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Nall, Mr. and Mrs. J. Red brought along some of his choice taters, sweet variety, donating about a bushel to the Lions Club. He gave one to the editor—enough for the whole family. The yam weighed about six or seven pounds and was about the size of a person's head. Thanks, Red, from all concerned.

Horace Elmer Mullin and J. A. Adams returned home Monday from a deer hunt in the mountains of Colorado.

Mrs. Lee Gregory, Mrs. Roy Cooper, Mrs. Roy Russell and Mrs. Jim Guest are in Houston this week attending an Eastern Star meeting.

were Elmer Lacy, Smith Guest, George Gafford, Don Masterson, Bud McKay, O. D. Coleman, Harold Lane; Gary Barnhill was reinstated.

The membership campaign came to a close with Tuesday's meeting and resulted in a tie between the two teams, one headed by Arville Setliff and the other by Lewis Eudy. Thirty-four new members were added to the club roster, 17 going to each side.

It was decided by the club that since the result was a tie that the feed will be held and will be paid by all the membership. The date for this affair was set for Thursday night, October 31, and will be held at the Utility Substation on the Hill. The Wednesday was Dress-up Day. Thursday was Sixties Day, and Friday was Red, White and Blue Day.

The Pep Rally was held Friday afternoon amid signs and balloons. The gym had been beautifully decorated. The cheerleaders led several yells and chants and did a routine. Attend Plainview District Meeting

Marcella Patterson, Fredia Fuston and Nadine Baisden were in Dimmitt Saturday to attend a Plainview District Meeting of the United Methodist Women.

Mrs. Fredia Fuston brought the devotional for the meeting. The message for the program was presented in film by a returned missionary, Bill Fitzgerald. He demonstrated on film his agricultural talents in working with the Nigerian people in doing things their way while improving the grain, trees, animals to better their living through improved ways of raising their food and animal feed. Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald are on leave in the USA with their family of five children and are enjoying a normal family life while the children are away from their schooling in Nigeria.

Marcella Patterson closed the program with the dismissal prayer and gave the grace for the luncheon that followed.

Mrs. Smith Has Narrow Escape

Mrs. Gerald (Anna Mae) Smith was driving down the Lockney cap Wednesday night of last week and was about halfway to the turnoff to Quitaque when she saw something in the road. She hit her brakes and hit it before she went down an embankment, through a four-wire fence breaking the top two strands. She was in shock and says nothing is clear even now, but she turned the car around, held the two bottom strands of wire down and got the car back onto the road. She drove to the Arnold Johnson home, and she and Mrs. (Carolyn) Johnson went back with a flashlight to see if they could find what she had hit. They found a dead fawn.

Mrs. Smith reports she was not hurt in any way, and the car was only damaged by the wire that the car hit and broke. She is very grateful for her escape. She said she knew "there was someone riding beside her" who took care of her.

Foam is right at home in a variety of unusual uses.

• One Virginia farmer places a foam cup at the end of each ear of corn to drive away the birds! He explains that foam cups insulate, but don't generate heat. Available in the right size to cover ears of corn, and sturdy enough to withstand the elements, foam cups might just put the scarecrows out of work.

• Fast food restaurants around the country are switching from paper to polystyrene foam containers as they keep hot things hot and cold things cold longer, according to the Society of the Plastics Industry. In addition, this energy saving material doesn't get soggy or lose its shape. It's considered a good choice to hold the beverage of your choice.

• At the Eye and Ear Hospital in Pittsburgh, Pa., foam cups are put to good use in still another way: as insulators in an important new cryosurgical (freezing process) operation to protect healthy tissue during surgery.

• A Washington State nursery plants seedlings in seven-inch (malted-milk) foam cups, placed in large, flat cardboard cartons, loaded on trucks, then shipped to their destination with little danger of damage. After the plants are safely transported, the empty cups are returned to the nursery for re-use. The insulating properties of the cups protect the plant roots from sudden changes in temperature. They also maintain the necessary moisture while allowing the plant to breathe.

two daughters, Retha and Leslie, married while in Grayson County.

The Bradleys had the urge to move to West Texas, so with the remaining four children, they started on their journey to Quitaque, Texas in Briscoe County. J. T. drove a truck loaded with furniture with sons, Bill and Jack, riding with him. Bertie drove a Model T Ford with the two daughters, Opal and Ruby, riding with her. The roads were freshly graded west of Childress. Late in the evening, Bertie was blinded by the sun shining in her eyes and the car slipped off the shoulder of the road and flipped over on its side. No one was injured, but there was some broken glass. Bertie drove the car on to Quitaque after it was righted. They arrived around 1:00 a.m. on New Year's Day, January 1, 1928, at their new home. The family farmed on a place located just north of Quitaque, raising livestock, milking cows, selling milk, cream and butter.

J. T. and Bertie celebrated their fiftieth (50th) wedding anniversary on October 18, 1967. J. T.'s health failed and he passed away on June 15, 1962. Bertie lived alone until October 1977, when she entered the Lockney Care Center, Lockney, Texas, where she resides at the present time. She has one sister still living who resides in Littlefield, Texas.

All of Mrs. Bradley's children were with her Saturday. They are Mrs. C. C. (Retha) Moss of Anson, Leslie (Bradley) Beard of San Angelo, Mrs. Dick (Opal) Taylor, Quitaque, Mrs. Jim (Ruby) Witcher of Shafter, California, Bill Bradley, Shafter, California, and Jack Bradley, Dalhart. She has eight (8) grandchildren, nineteen (19) great-grandchildren and four (4) great-great-grandchildren.

At the party Saturday, refreshments of birthday cake, chocolate cake, angel food cake, punch and ice cream were served from a table laid with a white cloth edged with lace. The centerpiece was a birthday cake decorated with white and red roses and centered with the numeral "100". There were a number of gifts and bouquets of flowers on the table, too.

This occasion is something very unusual for Mrs. Bradley to live so many years and have all of her children still living on her one-hundredth birthday.

Others attending the party were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lynn Bradley, Dalhart; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bradley, Shafter, California; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thompson, Shafter, California; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Anglin, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Anglin, Mr. and Mrs. John Gilbert, all of Anson; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Gilbert, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Duncan and Darcee, Panhandle; Mr. and Mrs. Jim T. Witcher, Shafter, California; Wes Wood, Panhandle; Mrs. Leslie Beard, San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bradley, Dalhart; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Moss, Anson; Mrs. Leslie Beard, San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Taylor, Quitaque; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bradley, Dalhart; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moss, Anson; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Ray Duncan and children, Dalhart; Wes Wood, Panhandle; Mr. and Mrs. Randy Martin, Abilene; Lauren Gilbert, Abilene; Mrs. Anna Mae Smith, Quitaque; Nena Loudermilk, Lockney Care Center; John and Joyce Taylor, Canyon; Mr. and Mrs. Lottie Gilbert, Flomot; Linnie Gilbert, Flomot; Eula Merrell, Clarendon; Leon and Lockwood McCracken, Lottie Owens, all of Quitaque, and Mrs. Edna Cox, Lockney.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lane and family joined his father, Tink Lane, in Amarillo Sunday for a visit with Estelle Lane who is showing some improvement with her treatment at the Bivens Rehabilitation Center.

Michelle Meharg of Lubbock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Young, has been undergoing tests at the hospital in Lubbock the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carter drove to Fort Worth Friday and spent the night with her sister, Mrs. Viola Fawver. Saturday morning, Ralph and Hattie Lois drove to Dallas to attend the State Fair. They enjoyed a short visit with their grandson, Todd Hedrick. They drove back to Fort Worth and spent Saturday night with Mrs. Fawver.

On Sunday after church services, they were met by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barnhill and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Broxson of Fort Worth, and they all had lunch together.

They left about 4:00 p.m. to return home Sunday, reporting a good trip and a good time.

History Day at Matador Ranch

Norma Hewett's Account

On October 18, Mom Hewett and I had but another treat along the Sesquicentennial line. Mom had the tickets and the directions to the Mott Line Camp of the old Matador Land and Cattle Company, 1879-1951. My maternal grandparents were pioneers in the Matador area and I spent many happy hours at the Seay homeplace. My mother, Josephine Seay Persons, was born, educated and married there. The "Living History" tours lasted three hours and were conducted by local pioneers and historians, cowboys, buckskinners and Daughters of the Republic of Texas. About 30 of us walked through typical caprock breaks or rode in the back of pickups or wagons to five different locations covering four periods of Texas history.

They were the Prehistoric and Historic Indian, Comanchero, Rancho and Nester periods. How excited I was to meet Wayne Parker, fourth cousin and descendant of the historic Quannah Parker. In stories told when I was a little girl, my Grandpapa R. J. Seay had spoken of meeting with Quannah Parker in Matador when the famous Indian chief and his tribe camped outside the town. It seems that Quannah had questioned Papa about the burial site of his mother, Cynthia Ann Parker. I had always wondered if this happening could have happened. When Wayne Parker and I compared dates, we found that it was indeed possible since Quannah and his tribe had camped outside Matador on at least two occasions known of by Mr. Parker's grandfather. History really came alive for me. History also spoke to me of family things at the half-dugout ruins as Edna Leonard Wayburn lectured of actually living there as a child. If memory serves me, Mama and Papa Seay lived in a dugout early in their marriage. On from the dugout we travelled back toward old Mott Line Camp (established 1879) in the back of pickups to a Tipi Lodge where a mountain man, member of the Free Trappers of Lubbock, demonstrated flint-lock shooting and escorted us inside the Tipi where he explained the steps to putting up such a Tipi. It had taken him 20 minutes.

At the Cowboy Range Camp, we sampled a delicious cowboy meal consisting of dutchoven sourdough biscuits, beans, stew and delicious tin can coffee. I had time to chat with three of the cowboys at the chuckwagon camp. They were Teen Burleson, an excellent stew and bean ladler; Bundy Campbell, co-owner with his brother of the south side of the Matador; and Quitaque's own Fish Wilson, champion fire-layer. Fish told us he would be bunking there and had brought his bedroll. I also met Tutt Garnett who told me that he is a former student of my mother when she taught at Flag Springs. In trying to bring this capsuled report to a close, I am flooded with pictures, words and thoughts from family experiences long past. My daddy, J. T. Persons, assisted in the break-up of the old Matador through the Federal Land Bank. My mother has kept beautiful scrapbooks all her life and they testify of the truths Mom Hewett and I have seen today on the tour at Mott Camp. One of the photographs in Mother's scrapbook dating back to her childhood which was taken at the ranch headquarters shows cowboys and businessmen gathered around an open "touring" (?) car and sitting inside with his full beard shining and his cowboy hat thrown back is my Papa, Uncle Dick Seay. When I described the picture to Bundy Campbell I was able to voice another unanswered question: "Could some of the other men in the photograph at the old Matador be the Scottish owners?" Mr. Campbell said they could be the directors of the old Matador who were from Scotland. Shades of history! Thank you, Matador people. Thank you, Mom, for the invitation. Thank you, Mother and Daddy, for such roots. How proud I am to come from such hearty Texas stock. God bless all. For the reader's information, there is to be one more such day at Mott Camp, and only one. Go if you can. Write or call Mrs. W. E. Burleson, 903 W. Lee, Floydada 79235.

(Thanks, Norma, for a well-written article.)

"We Care" Mission Began With Supper

The Turkey Methodist Church was involved in "Minister's We Care Mission" beginning on Sunday night with a Potluck Supper. Then everyone present divided into three groups. The two visiting pastors were Rev. Rusty Dickerson of St. Luke's Methodist Church in Lubbock and Rev. David Odum of the Methodist Church in Amherst. The two visiting pastors were in charge of the two adult groups and the local pastor and his wife, Rev. Dennis and Mrs. Jill Flaugher, were in charge of the youth group.

The groups held discussions and worship experiences. On Sunday night, the groups discussed the church. Monday night the discussion was Christ, and Tuesday night concluded about "ourselves." Each night was concluded with the leaders being in charge of the worship service where the groups were to gather as one large group. Rev. Flaugher was in charge of the Sunday night service, bringing the message to the group. Rev. Dickerson gave the message on Monday night, and Rev. Odum gave the Tuesday night message. Everyone enjoyed the group discussions immensely.

TRAVELING THE STATE DEFEATS TEXAS MYTHS

O.C. Garza, Media Chief, Texas Tourist Development Agency

Every Texan has heard them: Texas is flat; Texas is dry; there are miles between Texas trees; and Texas is all the same.

Lies, falsehoods, and myths — each and every one of them. The proof is in a trip across Texas. Read on.

Myth #1: Texas is flat.

Wrong. There are 90 mountains in Texas over a mile high, most of them west of the Pecos. The highest point in Texas, at 8,749 feet, is Guadalupe Peak, located in The Guadalupe Mountains National Park. Three more of the state's highest peaks are also in the park. Pine Springs, little more than a store/gas station, borders the park at an elevation of 5,634 feet, making it the loftiest Texas town, higher than Denver.

Southeast of the Guadalupe range, the Davis Mountains are home to another high-altitude city, Fort Davis, at 5,050 feet. The highest scenic road in Texas is located in the Davis Mountains and few "HIGHways" offer the spectacular sunsets of this mountain road.

Few hiking trails in the country offer the vistas of Big Bend National Park, where the Chisos Mountains are located. From the summit of the South Rim or Emory Peak, which rises 7,825 feet into the clear Texas sky, visitors can easily look into Mexico for 60 miles. We mustn't forget the Rocky Mountains either. The southern end of that historic range continues south into Texas and runs smack dab into El Paso.

Myth #2: Texas is dry.

Only if you don't like water. Folks, Texas has more freshwater in it than any other state except Alaska and if some of those icebergs and glaciers were to melt, Texas would best Alaska by a mile. There's also a stretch of border called the Gulf of Mexico that runs for 624 miles.

Texas has 3,065,600 acres of inland waters. Rivers, streams, creeks, springs and lakes make up Texas' vast freshwater resources. All are popular places with rafting, tubing, swimming, fishing, sailing and diving providing everyday activities.

Lakes? We're talking lakes so big cartographers call them "reservoirs." On the Texas/Louisiana border, Toledo Bend Reservoir has 181,600 acres of water. On the Texas/Mexico border, Falcon Reservoir has 87,210 acres of water and Amistad Reservoir holds 64,900 acres of liquid. And those are only three of the 139 major lakes in Texas.

Texas has some great rivers, too. It has to since there are 3,700 major streams and rivers here. Among the best is the Rio Grande which cuts through canyons and cliffs four thousand feet high. The Guadalupe River in the Hill Country is considered a great waterway for tubing, canoeing and rafting. The spring-fed San Marcos and Comal Rivers possess unmatched beauty. The Brazos and Trinity rivers have seen history forged along their banks since the beginning of mankind in Texas.

Coastline? We're talking miles and miles of clean, sandy beaches, most of which you can still drive on. It's not very dry east of Galveston, Corpus Christi or South Padre Island. Out there water lovers will find the seemingly endless Gulf of Mexico.

Myth #3: There are miles between Texas trees.

A tourist official from Massachusetts believed that myth before she found out that Texas has over 11.5 million acres of forests in East Texas alone, bigger than the total area of Vermont and Massachusetts combined. All told, Texas has over 23 million acres of woodlands, including four national forests.

Texas woodlands come alive every fall with colorful fall foliage. With over 40 "foliage spotters" coordinated to find the most intense color changes, the East Texas Chamber of Commerce makes it easy for beauty seekers to locate the best foliage. Foliage watching is also popular at Lost Maples State Park in Central Texas, McKittrick Canyon in the Guadalupe Mountains National Park and some areas of the Hill Country.

Myth #4: Texas is all the same.
Read above.

NEWS OF HEALTH

Lung Disease: A Major National Concern

Lung disease, the third leading cause of death in the United States, is also the fastest rising, reports National Jewish Hospital/National Asthma Center (NJH/NAC) of Denver, a leading medical center for research and treatment of respiratory and immune disorders.

The number of deaths from chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) increased nearly 60 percent during the past decade and the rate continues to rise 10 percent a year. COPD is a category of diseases that includes emphysema, chronic bronchitis and related conditions.

Lung diseases will be directly related to 240,000 deaths in the U.S. in 1984 and will contribute in some form to 240,000 more.

Eighteen million Americans—one in 12—now suffer some form of chronic lung disease, and the rate is expected to soar as the population ages.

In 1983, medical bills for respiratory ailments excluding lung cancer totalled $17.3 billion, and the cost of lost wages and productivity added another $30 billion.

Respiratory illness is the most frequent reason people seek medical attention, causing more lost workdays and disability than any other form of sickness.

Asthma is now the number-one disabler of American children, causing more school absences than any other ailment.

The key to reducing the incidence of lung disorders lies in early detection and prevention. Ask your doctor for a spirometry (lung capacity) test during your next visit.

Information on current research and treatment of lung diseases is available on the NJH/NAC toll-free phone number—1-800-222-LUNG.

Extension Highlights

Dirk Aaron
 Briscoe County
 Extension Agent

The cotton crop, as everyone knows, has received another many this year) devastating blow. The early-morning freeze on Monday, October 13, for practical purposes, ended the season for our crop.

In analyzing our heat unit year, it was quite apparent that most cotton had reached potential but development relation to the heat unit were available was not adequate in plain terms, the six before the freeze, the crop receiving very little help from the wet weather and cool temperatures.

This means, of course, lower grades, yields, etc. Another of the matter will be in the bark.

Many of you who attend crops tour on October 9, Dr. Supak, Extension Specialist, talk about some ple stripper modification to reduce the bark content. He say that bark problems cost producers up to $25 per penalties. Dr. Supak was as saying, "It is hard to the extent of the bark problem from season to season, but past experience, we know large, limby plants and harvest due to wet conditions have resulted in high number borky bales."

Researchers suggest that ber paddles be cut down inch and be synchronized to brush, and paddle to Paddles are normally two in width.

These modifications are field demonstrated and across the Panhandle at different locations, with support of Cotton Incorporated and the Extension Service.

One such test will be conducted on the farm of Don Don has agreed to assist analyzing these modifications.

The demonstration will several bales of cotton by both conventional and field harvesters. Field loss be determined. The cotton will be ginned and samples from each bale sent to the USDA classification and other laboratories for sis. Test results will be at my office and will be published in the 1986 Result Derivation Handbook.

I realize on-farm tests this are sometimes a burden the cooperators. But cooperators like Don Brown are determining the feasibility new research in Briscoe and their assistance is appreciated.

We will be announcing and where the test conducted. All interested members will be welcome to For more information, contact the County Extension Agent, 823-2343.

Extension Highlights

Briscoe County
Extension Agent

The cotton crop, as everybody knows, has received another (of many this year) devastating jolt. The early-morning freeze on Monday, October 13, for all practical purposes, ended the season for our crop.

In analyzing our heat units this year, it was quite apparent that most cotton had reached its potential but development in relation to the heat units that were available was not adequate. In plain terms, the six weeks before the freeze, the crop was receiving very little help due to the wet weather and cool temperatures.

This means, of course, reduced grades, yields, etc. Another fact of the matter will be increased bark.

Many of you who attended the crops tour on October 9 heard Dr. Supak, Extension Cotton Specialist, talk about some simple stripper modifications to reduce the bark content. Experts say that bark problems can cost producers up to $25 per bale in penalties. Dr. Supak was quoted as saying, "It is hard to predict the extent of the bark problem from season to season, but from past experience, we know that large, limby plants and delayed harvest due to wet conditions have resulted in high numbers of barked bales."

Researchers suggest that rubber paddles be cut down to one inch and be synchronized, brush to brush, and paddle to paddle. Paddles are normally two inches in width.

These modifications are being field demonstrated and tested across the Panhandle at several different locations, with the support of Cotton Incorporated and the Extension Service.

One such test will be conducted on the farm of Don Brown. Don has agreed to assist me in analyzing these modifications. The demonstration will include several bales of cotton stripped by both conventional and modified harvesters. Field losses will be determined. The harvested cotton will be ginned and lint samples from each bale will be sent to the USDA classing office and other laboratories for analysis. Test results will be available at my office and will be published in the 1986 Result Demonstration Handbook.

I realize on-farm tests such as this are sometimes a burden on the cooperators. But cooperators like Don Brown are vital in determining the feasibility of new research in Briscoe County, and their assistance is appreciated.

We will be announcing when and where the test will be conducted. All interested farmers will be welcome to attend.

For more information, contact the County Extension Office, 823-2343.

RICHBURG RECEIVES GOLDEN HARVEST AWARD IN ARKANSAS

Clinton Richburg, Route 1, Box 215, Paris, Arkansas, former Hall County resident, recently received the 1986 Golden Harvest Award, which is given each year to someone over 65 who volunteers his or her time to the community in Paris.

Clinton and his wife, the former Elvia Wilson, are former residents of Turkey.

The following nomination essay which won Mr. Richburg this honor:

"This is an individual who is dedicated to doing his part in keeping worthwhile community organizations on the move. He serves as president of a county-wide farmers' organization; secretary of the fair board; head of one of the fair departments; assists in another fair activity; member of the board of a local farm cooperative; on the governing body of his church and also teaches an adult Sunday School class; and he is his political party's representing in his voting district.

"He is not an 'in name only' member or officer of these organizations but conscientiously attends and participates on a regular basis, and, at times, represents these groups on a district and/or state basis. He has been known to postpone or shorten vacations in order to be in attendance and fulfill his duties.

"Since he participates in all of the above-named groups, apparently he has no time for anything else. Wrong; he owns a 300-acre stock farm and is active in its day-to-day operation. In fact, on his 75th birthday (celebrated in August) he was working in the hayfield all day and then found the energy left over to attend a farmers' meeting at Russellville that night.

"His neighbors will tell you he is a 'good neighbor,' sharing everything from his own labor and machinery to the fruits of the garden, especially okra. He is a quiet, unassuming person and determined not to be a 'bother' to anyone. Neither his size nor his manner would make him outstanding in a crowd.

"Yet, to those who know him (relatives, neighbors, friends) he is head and shoulders above the 'crowd' and has already won the 'Golden Harvest Award' because of his willingness to serve in what are sometimes thankless positions and because he is a 'good neighbor' every day."

In Chinese, "chop-sticks" are "k'wai-tsze" meaning "the quick ones."
