Turkey Fire Boys Throw Big July Fourth Bash For Community

Children get free rides on the Turkey Fire Truck at the Fourth of July celebration Sunday.

The people of our communities once again showed their support for the Turkey Volunteer Fire Department Sunday night at the city park. And once again the Fire Boys gave the people what they came for, good food, plenty of homemade ice cream, and a lot of fellowship, along with a good firework display.

There were approximately 375 hamburgers sold and 24 freezers of ice cream. The crowd grew to about 450 to watch the fireworks.

The color television was won by Miss Robyn Lane of Turkey. She is the daughter of Frank and Cindy Lane. Frank Lane is a member of the Turkey Fire Dept. and Robyn is a Freshman at Valley High School.

Fire Boys Lavon Gafford and Jim Majors present Robyn Lane with new TV set won at Turkey Fourth of July celebration.

Rodeo Needs Another Mahan or Phil Lyne

By Brett Hoffman
Ft. Worth Star Telegram

Professional rodeo has not been the same since film producer Keith Merrill shot The Great American Cowboy in 1972. In his Oscar-winning documentary film, Merrill compares five-time all-around champion Larry Mahan and reigning all-around champion Phil Lyne.

The film features Mahan as the cowboy who grew up in a small town in Oregon and became the best bucking-stock rider of all time. In addition to his riding feats, interviews with Mahan featured his charismatic personality, his flamboyant style of dressing and his drive to win despite adverse circumstances.

Phil Lyne is portrayed as the champion cowboy who came off a brushy ranch in South Texas. He is filmed punching cattle into a loading chute, practicing roping in a remote roping arena and competing at major-league rodeos.

In the movie, Lyne is noted for his ability to master bucking stock and roping animals. Since Lyne semi-retired after he won his second all-around title in 1972, no all-around champion has qualified for the National Finals Rodeo in a bucking stock event and a timed event at the same time.

Lyne's decision to return to the ranch closed an era of cowboys who were title contenders in riding and roping events. Every all-around titleholder since Lyne, including Mahan, who won a record sixth all-around title in 1973, either qualified for the National Finals Rodeo in timed events or bucking-stock events.

The Great American Cowboy features Mahan as ambassador of rodeo. Since he retired in 1977, no one in professional rodeo has caught the attention of the general public like Mahan and no cowboy has mastered the three bucking-stock riding events - bareback riding, saddle bronc riding and bull riding - with the consistency of Mahan.

Today, Mahan, 44, has shifted his focus from rodeo to competing in cutting horse events. He and his wife, Robin, live on a small ranch in Texas, between Bandera and Kerrville.

Phil Lyne, 41, occasionally competes in calf roping and qualified for the National Finals in steer roping last year. He and his wife, Sarah, live on a cattle ranch near Cotulla, in South Texas.

Since Merrill shot his award-winning film 15 years ago, no one has caught the public's eye like Mahan and no one has been as versatile as Lyne. In a day when prime-time television captures most of the attention of today's youth, rodeo could use another charismatic leader.

Let's Talk Turkey
 by Thelma Gafford

We've all heard a lot about the July 4th weekend celebrations that went on all across the country, as well as locally, but I've got one more thing to say on the subject. Monday as I drove through town and saw Old Glory blowing in the wind, I couldn't help but get goose bumps as I thought how much I love that flag. It is a beautiful sight, waving ever so freely. And if you saw the fireworks display Sunday night, you may have noticed as the rockets burst in the air, we saw star shapes fall from the sky. Do we realize just how lucky we are to live here in the United States of America? I've seen people and kids at ball games that never place their hand over their heart, and men who never remove their hats or caps as the National Anthem is being played. What has happened?

We all had enough food to eat, and some of us spent our hard earned money on fireworks, instead of something we needed, but that's o.k. we'll make it up somewhere, sometime, somehow. Some even had too many spirits, I said had too many, not had spirit. That's okay, too, for some, but to some it does more damage than ten beatings. And the cost is a lot more than dollars spent. We are full of whys that have no answers.

This past holiday has, as others, got caught up in the rat-race of modern day holidays. It seems to have lost some of the original meaning. Now, it seems like it's the time to pull all plugs, drink til there is no more, or see who can spend the most on fireworks. And when it's all over, we realize... we forgot the real meaning. In this case - Freedom. I'm not knocking the celebrations, I love it the same as the next person, I'm just saying let's take a look at why we have something to celebrate, instead of looking for something to celebrate.

In closing, I'd like to ask a favor, the next time you see an American flag, take 5 seconds to look at it, study it. I promise you the pride will begin to well up inside you. If you have time, take another few seconds to say a prayer of thanks for your freedom, and our America, and Old Glory.

Know what creates the biggest newspaper headlines? It's when nothing at all happens . . . for instance: "It Don't Rain."

For the past thirty days or so, this has dwarfed all other headlines such as Bush-Dukakis, Noriega, Iran-Contra, Col. North, Reagan-Gorbachev, etc. . . "It ain't rained," has been the top story, then launching into a full front page as to the whys and wherefores of no rain . . . "The Ozone Layer is Gone" . . . the Mississippi is run dry" . . . "the price of food is going up" . . . "it's almost as bad as the early thirties," . . . "Lake Michigan can't spare any water," . . . "the Breadbasket of the Nation is now the Barebasket" . . . New York doesn't think the drought will affect them . . . they get their food at the grocery store, etc. etc."

It's been this way before, folks, and it'll be this way again some time. . . Just hang around long enough and you'll see!

We, in these small towns, really go all out to attract tourists and business. . . we do so by closing up shop and hanging up a small sign about the size of the ace of spades on the door saying "We'll see you next Tuesday" . . . "Two or three days ain't too long to have to wait to get a cup of coffee or a bite to eat, get your car serviced, get a prescription filled. . . besides that, you can always find something further down the road, if you can get any further. . . come back sometimes and we might be open then . . . if so, then give us all your business. . . we need it!"

It's about like throwing a drowning man botin ends of the rope!

It's much like saying, "If you don't go away and let us alone, we'll look for somebody who will!"

There's a lot of people out there who think a world of us, and we show them in return, what we think of the world!

Maybe we don't have that many faults, but we want to be sure we make the most of those we have!

Some of these days, we'll go too far. . . and probably have to stay there!

WE treat folks that they are about as welcome as alimony payments!

Maybe we ought to form a club and then beat customers over the head with it!

Of course there are two sides to everything, but we won't even listen to both sides of a phonograph record.

But at least the local headlines changed. . . they read "Rain-Rain-Rain!"

And then there was this young guy out for a wild night with his pretty companion, who asked, "do you tell your mother everything you do?"

"Of course not" she said, "Mother doesn't care . . . it's my husband that gets so upset!"

And the College student who wrote home for money to buy a study lamp, and was so upset when his folks sent him a study lamp!

The Town Loafer says the way his wife drives, if they were Arabs, she would come home with a dented camel!

Sign on a Foot Doctor's office. . . "You're only two feet from happiness!"

That's -30- for this time, remember, Blue Cross is the outfit that Docks your pay to pay your Doc!

VA News

Recent discovery of duplicate military medical records by the National Archives will enable thousands of World War II and Korean Conflict Army and Army Air Corps veterans to file for Veterans Administration disability compensation payments. The discovery of computer tape of some 10 million Army medical records partially fill a gap created when a 1973 fire destroyed millions of military files at a federal warehouse in St. Louis. The newly found records cover the years from 1942 to 1945 and from 1950 to 1954.

A toll-free number of the nearest VA regional office is listed in the Federal Government section of telephone directories.

Just Ramblin'

A lady was in early in the week, talking with Jeanette about her boys in Little League. Their conversation brought back lots of memories about the years -- gosh, how long ago that was -- when our eldest was in the Little League program.

Sure enough, one day, there he was... miraculously, paying attention, for a change. A hard-hitter on the Yankee team blasted a hit directly at right field, and it headed straight for our little boy.

Our hearts were in our throats, as he ran forward, then backward, then toward centerfield, with his glove out, and ever watching that flying orb. First baseman, second baseman and centerfield were also headed for the speculated landing spot of that baseball, but with a yell "I've got it! I've got it!" Vince stretched out his glove -- and missed the danged thing!! Went right between his hands, and after a scrambling gathering-up of the ball... which appeared to be a comedy of errors... he and another player finally got the ball away to some base -- who knows where -- and the hitter brought home a run or two.

It was total tragedy for our star, a heartbreak that lasted all of two minutes, before he got interested in a stray dog that wandered onto the field and took up with him.

We eventually learned to just take things in stride, and not expect him to be the greatest baseball player in the League, and let him just enjoy the game for play's sake.

Which is as it should be.

Jonathan and Tammy Price of Knox City are pleased to announce the arrival of a son, Christopher Dane Price. He was born Sunday, May 29, 5:36 a.m. in Harris Hospital, Fort Worth.

Weighing 1 lb., 14 oz., Christopher will remain in the neo-natal unit at Harris for several months.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Hulon Owens, Crowell; Sadie Price, Paducah, and Mr. and Mrs. Preston Price, Childress.

Great-grandparents are R. M. Cole, Beggs, OK; Mrs. Cecil Boyles, Paducah; and Mrs. Cecil Price, Quitaque.
