'Just Round About

As we walked up and down the street * * * It seems that everyone we met asked who might be elected Mayor of Baird in the June 29th write-in election. No name was mentioned until just the last few days, and then we began to hear that people want to draft Harold Ray for Mayor. Now, it seems that everybody we meet is urging folks to write-in Harold Ray when they go to vote, and with this kind of talk going the round, seems like Harold had just as well get ready for the inauguration. We can say this: he has the qualifications and energy to make a good mayor — and it's going to take a good one to keep up the pace set by Mayor B. H. Freeland, who has resigned due to his health * * * More than a hundred local people made special trips to the Star office to tell the editor they approved of last week's editorial and congratulated us on the stand we have taken against crime. With this kind of backing it isn't hard for an editor to take a stand and stick to it * * * J. W. Hughes came in from the Belle Plain community to bring the editor three huge turnips. They were the biggest turnips we ever saw, and Aunt Lettie cooked one that made a meal for four of us. They were tender and sweet in spite of their giant size. The three turnips weighed six and a quarter pounds. Mr. Hughes says he has a whole patch of these fine, big turnips. Later he will have some fine Belle Plain tomatoes and watermelons * * * The most enjoyable part of the Trade Day event held in Baird every Saturday is the musical program directed by E. P. (Pop) Whitaker. All the musicians and those who have special numbers throughout the county are invited to be on this program every Saturday.

CHILDREN'S DAY PROGRAM

Everyone is invited to attend the Children's Day program at the First Presbyterian Church, Sunday, June 24 at 8 o'clock. Poems, songs, and a pantomime showing the acceptance or rejection of Honor, Riches, Pleasure and Jesus Christ will be given by the primary department.

Prospects Bright For Baird To Get Syrup-Candy Firm

Directors of the Callahan County Club and other civic leaders of Baird heard C. T. Chapman, of Grand Prairie, explain his plans to move his syrup factory to Baird. Mr. Chapman, who has been manufacturing syrup at his Grand Prairie plant for twenty years, has found it impossible to continue operation there in competition with the nearby defense plant labor scale. In selecting Baird as his prospective location, he will have solved his problem of high wages. The factory would employ approximately sixty local people in making syrup and candy.

In the event that Mr. Chapman moves to Baird, he will probably be a buyer of peanuts and pecans grown in this area, as well as some fruits and other native crops.

In discussing the matter with local men Mr. Chapman did not ask the town to give him anything. He prefers to operate on his own. All he asks is the good will and moral support of local people. He must have a certain number of workers and he must have a building site. Local people might be able to assist him in these ways.

If someone has two or three lots that he would sell at a reasonable price to be used by the syrup factory, he should notify Terrell Williams or Marvin Hunter.

Two New Professors Added to Paymaster Market Research Division at Abilene

ABILENE — Appointments of Allen A. Heidebrecht as chief nutritionist and Mylan E. Ross as head of the market research division of Paymaster Feeds has been announced by Western Cottonoil Co. of Abilene, manufacturers of Paymaster.

Professor Heidebrecht, one of the most prominent nutritionists in the Southwest, has joined the Paymaster organization upon his resignation from the faculty of Oklahoma A. and M., where he was head of the swine department of the college. Prof. Heidebrecht received his bachelor's degree with major in animal husbandry from Oklahoma A. and M., took his master's degree in animal nutrition at Colorado A. and M., and is currently completing work on his Ph. D. at Oklahoma A. and M.

He brings to the Paymaster organization the benefits of the most recent experiments in the scientific nutrition of livestock and poultry, with special emphasis on feeding conditions and requirements of this section. His experimental work at the college has gained recognition throughout the Southwest.

Professor Ross joins the Paymaster staff from the faculty of Washington State College, where he has been instructing in marketing, advertising and retailing, and serving as consultant on farm and ranch practices. Prof. Ross, like Prof. Heidebrecht, has an extensive background in the farm and ranch fields, having specialized in agricultural economics and animal husbandry.

"The appointment of Professors Heidebrecht and Ross bring two outstanding men in the livestock and poultry industry to the Southwest, and we feel this will afford a further service to this entire area," it was stated by Western Cottonoil officials. "This, of course, is in line with the company's policy of constantly expanding its facilities to render every service that will benefit the territory and its people.

"The experience and knowledge these men bring us will enable Paymaster Feeds to keep pace with our growing markets and to apply to our formulas continuing development in scientific feeding. Too, they will provide our customers and dealers with a valuable counseling service of a most practical nature."

THIS WEEK IN Washington

THE NEWS in Washington ranges all the way from a concerted effort to defeat price controls, to continuation of the MacArthur custer hearings, to a tremendous utility lobby which is undermining the public power and the REA program while backs are turned, on down to the meeting of the International Federation of Agriculture Produce session in Mexico City, as reported by Kit Haynes of the national council of farmer cooperatives.

Probably not in many, many months has there been such a gathering of big business executives here in Washington to build up a lobby in order to defeat title four of the national production act of 1950. As observers point out, it seems that the memory of the public is all too short, but it was only five short years ago when the country was in the same position as it is today, and when the same forces, the United States chamber of commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers and a segment of the national farm organizations spearheaded the same movement in using the same arguments, the same folks all to the tune of, "Just eliminate government controls of wages and prices, let free enterprise have full sway and prices will find their own level downward."

The only fly in the ointment was, after they won their fight to eliminate price controls, and free enterprise had full sway, prices did find their own level, but the level was upward, a skyrocketing upwards which amounted to something like a rate of 30 per cent a year in the first five months of a free enterprise market, and from which the nation has never recovered, for prices have never gotten back to the level at which price controls were removed.

A part of that same refrain sung five years ago and which is being sung today by some of the big business and big business farm leaders also is that increased production is the answer, increased production will keep prices down—that is the answer to inflation along with high taxes, credit controls, high interest rates et cetera and et cetera. Let's see where production is.

According to a survey by Congressional Quarterly News Features, an unbiased, non political reporting service in Washington, production of goods and services in this country today—that is, right this minute—has reached an annual rate of $314 billion dollars a year, a production volume never before achieved in America's economic annuals.

In spite of this tremendous production, however, inflation is eating at the vitals of the nation and has gnawed away at something like $3 to $4 billions of dollars of the taxpayers' money in military expenditures. In other words, we have put up that much money more than we have been able to buy goods because inflationary prices have eaten it up before the defense department could spend it.

This spiral in our economy reflects only indirectly and minutely the result of defense spending which, within the next few weeks or months, will be at the rate of more than one billion dollars a week. That's tax money poured into a market on top of the billions spent for civilian goods.

In spite of the warnings by the nation's top leaders, from the President down, business wants to conduct business as usual on the theory that the emergency is not as serious as had been expected and therefore we can relax. The second excuse offered is that the people are apathetic and don't care what happens to the defense act. The observers here, together with this writer do not believe the people are apathetic or indifferent. If they are apathetic and don't care, it means we have lowered our guard which, if true, means our only recourse is prayer, and it had better be good, say these folks who know the score.

This meeting in Mexico City is most important to American and world agriculture and may mean a rebirth of FAO, the food and agricultural organization of the United Nations.

Popular Comedian Pass Laugh Milestone; Coming to Plaza Wednesday - Thursday

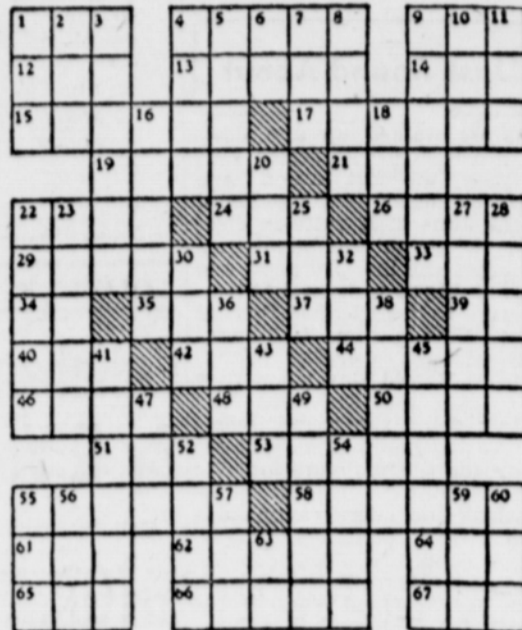

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello passed a mirth milestone with the filming of their new Universal-International comedy release, "Abbott and Costello Meet the Invisible Man," opening Wednesday at the Plaza Theatre. The new laugh hit marked their 26th movie together, their 16th year as a comedy team and their 11th year in Hollywood.

The comedians announced shortly after the start of production on their current film that they're all through with such anniversaries and aren't going to have any more birthdays, either.

"Why should we make people think we're old men?" reason the pair. "Especially when we're not." Bud and Lou also announced they planned to take insurance against the breaking up of the team for any reason, and stated further that they were toying with the idea of insuring every-

DALE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

Desire for Importance

HENRY MILLER, Chicago, told me once that there was a time when he was surely going insane. How? What did he do about it?

From the age of seven to twenty-three he was continually sick. He had begun life as a frail and weakly child. The other children taunted him about his condition and this worried him. So he exerted himself to do everything better than the other boys did, and often he succeeded. But he stayed as much to himself as he could. This practice kept him going around in the well known vicious circle: the more he held himself aloof from others, the less they liked him; the less they liked him, the more he kept to himself.

Carnegie

By and by he was living in a dream world, and his dreams, of course, were not pleasant. But all this time, he longed to have the boys like him; he wanted to be important to them.

At the age of eighteen, he joined the Marine Corps—the war was on its way to a close. He wanted to be a hero—dead or alive. He used even to dream about exposing himself to danger. But he came home safe, if not sound.

Then he fell in love, married. They argued and fought incessantly. There were times when he wanted her to die; even wanted to do the dreadful deed himself. Then he, too, would die! What was the use of living anyway. But somewhere down deep within him, a voice was telling him he was on the wrong track.

Finally, after all these years of suffering—after a third of a lifetime had gone by—he decided to do something about himself, not just think.

So he went to a psychiatrist, who told him to do the opposite of what he had been doing, naturally. He told him to go out among people whether he wanted to or not; to mix and to take an interest in others. Then he told him that an easy way to make a start was to join a class in public speaking, and to get on his feet and talk. His first attempts would be poor, said the doctor, maybe even ludicrous. But that wouldn't matter. They would improve. Henry said he would do as advised, tho he had no intention of carrying out his promise. But since there was no other gate open, he walked down the path that beckoned to him, and joined a public speaking class, and paid for it. Now he would have to attend or lose his money.

Would you believe that during the three weeks that psychiatrist held out a helping hand that Henry Miller was changed from a man who couldn't think straight to a man whose thinking was clear and sound?

Well, Henry Miller was only demonstrating in a big way what learned philosophers and psychiatrists have long been telling us: that the desire for importance is one of the strongest urges—if not the strongest—in a human being. Because of it, men have done noble deeds, performed the greatest feats of courage, become heroes. Improperly guided, it can do what these same learned men advise us is being done every day, keep on filling our institutions with men who have never got a start on the right path.

THE PRICE RUCKUS has hit Dawdle Dell. Sam Steepbelly, proprietor of the General Store, allows that his price setting swap with Henry Potter, storekeeper over at Sweet Lick, is hereby null and void by authority of the Supreme Court, spiking the fair trade laws.

Sam aims to cut the price on buggy whips 50 per cent tomorrow. Sam sees by the papers about those big stores up in the city cutting the price on electric mixers, and he has some hand egg beaters he's hankering to let go cheap.

Potter says he "ain't pestered." He doesn't carry buggy whips in his up-to-date emporium, and he doesn't see Sam cutting prices on Model-T magnetos and other new stock. "If Sam tries any more polecatting," Hank swans, "I've got some slick auty-mobile curtains I can fetch from the back room at creek bottom prices."

Squire Gladmoney Debitside, moneylender herabouts, figures a real price fall won't come until Sam starts cutting staples like hog jowl and molasses instead of luxuries like egg beaters and buggy whips. "Folks still are gonna need lots of greenbacks, and I got 'em to lend," chuckles Squire.

Effie Spindleshanks came back from the city with news that Bloomberg's is starting a price war in girdles. You know how women folks can't let a bargain alone. They all traipsed up to get girdles, the skinny ones as well as the fat. Now the beanpole gals look lumpy, with those loose girdles folded around them a couple of times, and the potato sacks look like somebody just stirred up the potatoes—that cheap elastic just rearranged the bulges.

Bernard Benchwarmer, elder statesman and courthouse bench philosopher, sees a business trend in female duds: "After this buying binge in girdles is over, I predict a complete relaxation of elastic controls and further inflation, but until then, there won't be much freedom in women's garments."

Elevating Elucidations for Enjoyable Enlightenment of Everybody Everywhere.

Everyone is about to get the dirt out of their eyes and most everyone in the community who had minor damage in the storm is about to get things back in place. Those who suffered the heaviest damage are still waiting to see what they can do and for an insurance adjuster to look over the rubble. Every available storage place in the community has been used to store household possessions of the storm victims.

It certainly is working a hardship on the whole community for everyone in the neighborhood has suffered some loss.

Last Friday night we almost had a repeat performance of the same thing. There was little damage, but it sent people scurrying to the protection of cellars.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Brock and daughter of Sweetwater and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Scarabrough and Helen Brock of Abilene were guests in the home of their parents Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Brock also visited in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otho Gist.

Mrs. Dortha James and daughters Maunie Lou and Clarita have returned from a tour of Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and Arkansas. Mrs. James is a former teacher and they have recently moved to their home in Abilene. They were out visiting in the community Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Tate and family will move to Paint Rock in the near future where he has accepted a position on the school there.

Mrs. Evelyn Welland Scott has accepted a position in our school as Homemaking teacher. Mrs. Scott taught here in the 1949-50 term and we are glad to welcome her back.

We are glad to report that we now have all the teachers for the coming school term, but there is much to be done before the buildings will be ready. It is hoped that as soon as the farmers in the community can get their crops laid by that they can congregate and donate some work to help out.

It seems the common consent in the community that what material can be salvaged from the tabernacle be given to the Vocational Agriculture boys to re-build their building. It is community property and neither of the local church groups feel that they can help replace it. Money that might be spent on the tabernacle could be spent to a better advantage on the churches putting on screens and maybe air-conditioning.

The Vacation Bible School commencement exercises that was scheduled two weeks ago at the Baptist church will be held this coming Sunday night at 8 p. m. Everyone is invited to attend and bring the children. Handwork completed during the school will be displayed and the children can take their things home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Millhorn and family attended the funeral of his uncle John Birchfield of Rowden who passed away Saturday afternoon in Hendrick Memorial hospital from injuries sustained last Wednesday morning as he stepped in front of an automobile on highway 36 in the Rowden community.

Pvt. Joe Ross Millhorn is spending a short furlough in the home of his parents, after attending an Army Bakers training school in Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Reese and daughter, Martha Sue, are moving to Big Spring this week. Mr. Reese is employed by the T. and P. Railroad Co. The Reeses have lived in Baird for the past fourteen years.

Mrs. Hoyt Walker of Marble Falls and Mrs. C. G. Hodges and children of Route 3 Hico spent Father's day in Clyde with C. N. Bales and Mrs. Pearl Hodges.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Rocky spent Father's day in Fort Worth with Mrs. Rocky's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Beavers.

THESE FOLKS KNOW HADACOL IS EFFECTIVE
Today's Great HADACOL Relieves The Cause of Aches and Pains, Stomach Distress, Weak, Run-Down Conditions, Poor Appetite and Nervousness When Due to Lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

Mrs. Ressie Bryant, 509 Mill St., Huntsville, Alabama: "My little granddaughter is eight years old. She was very weak and nervous and would not sleep well at nights. I would be awake with her all during the night. When she would be restless she could not sleep. We feared we might have to keep her from school, so she could get the rest she needed caused from her weak, nervous condition and sleepless nights. I heard so much about the wondrous HADACOL. I decided to try a bottle. I gave her the HADACOL according to directions. She has taken two large bottles and two small ones. She eats well, sleeps well and has gained nine pounds. Thank God for HADACOL. I can certainly tell the difference I see in her. She feels better, looks better and enjoys herself better now."

Mrs. C. H. Williams, 402 Hawthorne St., Abbeville, Louisiana: "I just didn't have one bit of energy. I was tired all the time. I had to do my housework in spells. . . . rest awhile, and then work a bit. I couldn't eat a full meal either—I guess I didn't eat enough to keep a bird alive. There was many a night I didn't get but a few hours' sleep. So many of my friends had been praising HADACOL that I finally decided to try HADACOL. After three bottles of HADACOL I could tell a definite improvement. . . . now, after taking HADACOL for over a year, I feel wonderful. I am not tired or restless during the day; I can do all my housework and still have energy to spare. I sleep like a top. I can actually eat the way a person should — and really enjoy my food. HADACOL is absolutely wonderful."

Mrs. A. Jimenez, 141 East 13th St., Port Arthur, Texas: "My son Floyd was very subject to colds. He's eleven years old, and he was run-down, didn't seem to have an appetite at all, and just simply lacked energy. I heard about HADACOL and it was about this time that Floyd was just recovering from a siege of a bad cold. He was very run-down, lacked an appetite, and I started giving him HADACOL. After about a bottle and a half I could notice an improvement. His appetite picked up and he had increased strength. I think HADACOL has done wonders for Floyd, and can't praise it enough. I have continued to give him HADACOL and intend to always have it on hand for Floyd."

Mrs. Frank Jones, 1220 Bell, Montgomery, Alabama: "For a long time I had been bothered with indigestion and sour stomach. Food didn't seem to agree with me. I always had that uneasy fullness after I ate. I got to where I didn't want to eat. I had no pep or energy. Felt like I couldn't make it during the day. I also was very nervous. I didn't rest well at night. A friend of mine told me about HADACOL. After the fourth bottle I felt wonderful. My food agreed with me—no more indigestion or sour stomach. My appetite is terrific. I now have lots of pep and energy and my nervousness has gone. I rest wonderfully now. In fact, I feel good all the way 'round. I recommend HADACOL to everybody—it's wonderful!"

Mrs. Etta L. Letsinger, Route 1, Box 93, Macomb, Missouri: "I want to write and tell you what I think of HADACOL. It's a most wonderful product. I have a little boy who is eight years old, and he was always ailing. He was small, and underweight for his age, and his appetite was poor—I heard about HADACOL, and I started giving it to him, and now he sleeps all night, can't seem to ever get enough to eat, runs and plays, and looks so much better. He goes to school now, and doesn't complain of anything hurting him. I've started him on the third bottle. His name is Bobby. From now on I'm a HADACOL user."

Mr. Gobel Cannon, 1105 Herbert St., St. Louis, Mo.: "My job as crossing watchman for the railroad keeps me in one place and I don't have a chance to get much exercise. I seem to get gas on my stomach and then I lose my appetite. Many times I have had nervous spells and been unable to sleep at night. Then I heard how other folks were being helped. Now the gas on my stomach has vanished, my appetite is first rate, and I get a good night's sleep and those nervous spells? I very seldom have them any more. I think HADACOL is mighty fine for what it has done for me."

Mrs. Sweede Nilsen, 1006 East 26th St., Houston, Texas: "Before I started taking HADACOL I was just plain lazy. I felt groggy and tired all the time. When a man feels that way he naturally doesn't do good work. What really gave me a bad time was my eating habits—I would go all day sometimes without a square meal. I couldn't sleep at night. But all that's changed now that I have been taking HADACOL. I guess I've taken from six to ten bottles of HADACOL—and, compared to the way I used to feel, I've now got the energy of six men. Now I get a wonderful night's sleep—and eat—why, I swear I eat everything in sight. Yes, sir, HADACOL sure is wonderful!"

Mr. Gladstone Meredith, R. No. 1, Box 261, Valley Station, Ky.: "Before I started taking HADACOL I didn't have a bit of appetite — seems like food didn't appeal to me a bit. Couldn't sleep either — sometimes I'd lay awake for hours before I'd get some rest. I was just as jumpy as I could be. I was really in sorry shape. Then I heard how other folks with the same trouble I had were being helped by HADACOL. I can say that after the first few bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now I feel first rate—have a wonderful appetite—get plenty of sleep and am not the least bit nervous. I think HADACOL is first rate—would never do without it myself."

Mr. C. M. Warner, 2620 Lewis St., Little Rock, Ark.: "I had been having aches and pains, and just seemed to hurt all over. My appetite had fallen off, and I just couldn't eat anything. Then I started taking HADACOL, and it seemed like in a week's time I started feeling better. My aches and pains just seemed to go away, and my appetite, why I feel like eating all the time now. It was about eight months ago that I first started taking HADACOL, and I just wouldn't be without it. I really feel like doing a full day's work every day now — and think HADACOL is wonderful."

Mr. Edlie Cooper, Box 1184, Marksville, Louisiana: "My 13-year-old daughter, Ollie May Cooper, was underweight, and she suffered from stomach distress. She is on her fourth bottle of HADACOL. Now, she feels fine, and she is able to go where she wants to, she has gained weight, and no longer suffers from stomach distress. I intend to continue giving her HADACOL. I give HADACOL to all the family now."

Mr. J. W. Simmons, Saunemin, Illinois: "says this about today's great HADACOL: "About three months ago, the druggist recommended HADACOL to me. I had been feeling run-down, lacked energy, and just felt that my system in general was run-down. After just a short time after I started taking HADACOL I noticed that I was feeling much better. I felt stronger and could sleep much better. I have since continued taking HADACOL, and have taken about three large bottles. HADACOL has certainly helped me."

Mrs. Ernest Johnson, Jacksboro, Tennessee: "I am writing you to tell what HADACOL has done for me. I have suffered with stomach distress for quite some time, and I was very nervous. Since I started taking HADACOL I eat anything I want. I sleep like a child — something that I hadn't done for some time. I am the mother of five children. I am 48 years of age, and I feel better than I have for years."

A Short Story

GLANCING BLOW

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

THERE WERE three people in the room besides the murdered man. Between the windows where stood Inspector Joe Warren, and the door, where Detective Jim Bradley held vigil, was a table. Close by the table was the third man. There was a certain boldness, a defiance in the face and manner of this individual.

The corpse lay sprawled across the floor. There were blood stains on the mat beside the victim's head. His legs were so arranged to suggest that he might have been sitting in a chair by the table when the bullet struck him.

The seated man's chair was so arranged that it was impossible for him to see the corpse.

Suddenly Warren came across the room and stood for a moment staring down at the corpse. He stooped over and appeared to be performing some sort of examination.

The room was deathly still. The man by the table stirred, coughed, as if the silence weighed on his mind. Bradley looked at him sharply, but turned away as their eyes met. The dull roar of traffic drifted up from the street below.

"Bradley!"

Inspector Warren was on his knees, looking across at the detective. Bradley came swiftly, and Ryan stood up and peered over the table.

"Sit down!" Warren rapped out the command, jabbing a finger at Ryan.

Ryan sat down, muttering, then fell silent, straining his ears to catch the meaning of the policemen's low-voiced conversation. But only the tops of their heads were visible, bobbing into view, disappearing. The murmur of their voices was meaningless.

Ryan shifted his position, coughed again. Little beads of sweat began to stand out on his head. He hated this infernal silence, this waiting.

Then suddenly Warren stood up and came to the table and leaned across it.

"Ryan, you're the landlord here?"

"Yes."

"You have access to all these rooms. Have a passkey?"

"Yes."

"You came in an hour ago, came to this room to see Carter and found him on the floor there?"

"Yes."

The inspector paused, staring thoughtfully, pulling at the lobe of his left ear.

"Carter hasn't been working lately, has he? Hasn't paid you any rent?"

"No. That's right. He owed six months back."

"You've asked him for it, told him he'd have to get out unless he paid?"

"I asked him for it, yes. Naturally."

"And naturally you told him he'd have to get out if he didn't pay?" The inspector was mildly persistent.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Woosley and daughter, Melba, and Mrs. Woosley's father, Noah Griffin, visited relatives in Hollis and Duncan, Okla. from Saturday until Tuesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Darnell and son, Charles, of Lampasas, and Miss Marie Darnell of Abilene Christian College, were weekend guests of Mrs. Darnell's brother D. C. Cox and family.

Zone 3, W.S.C.S. Named to Honor Baird Woman in Moran Meeting June 14

At the Zone 3 meeting and officers' training school, of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at First Methodist Church, Moran, June 14, the zone was formally named the Baulch Zone in honor of Mrs. T. Baulch of Baird, first zone president.

All zones of the W.S.C.S. are changing from designation to a chosen name.

At the morning session, presided over by Mrs. K. H. Fleming, Abilene, president, the opening prayer was made by Mrs. W. V. O'Kelly.

"Love" was topic of the devotional by Mrs. Doyle Ragle, St. Paul. She said "Love is the food which produces spiritual life."

A skit depicting the changes taking place in rural districts of the church was given by Mrs. Pearl Roach, Mrs. Luke H. Hackey and Mrs. Alton Burton, all of Moran.

"Thy Kingdom Come" was subject for Clyde E. Smith, district superintendent. He reported the progress made in rural churches and told the meeting that some of them are now carrying a full church program. Mrs. Smith spoke briefly.

District officers who reported work from their departments were Mrs. A. A. Hackby, treasurer, of Hamlin; Mrs. Ragle, youth; Ethel Moore, First Methodist, Christian Social Relations; Mrs. A. B. Carlton, of Hamlin, publicity.

Conference officers who reported were: Mrs. Holland Holt, St. Paul, supply work and Mrs. E. P. Pittard, Anson, missionary education.

Mrs. A. B. Christian, Aldersgate, spoke on "Our Opportunities."

The Zone approved the election of the Wesleyan Guild district secretary, Mrs. Earl Brown of Hamlin. Mrs. Ragle was elected district youth secretary upon the resignation of Mrs. Floyd Chappell of Hamlin.

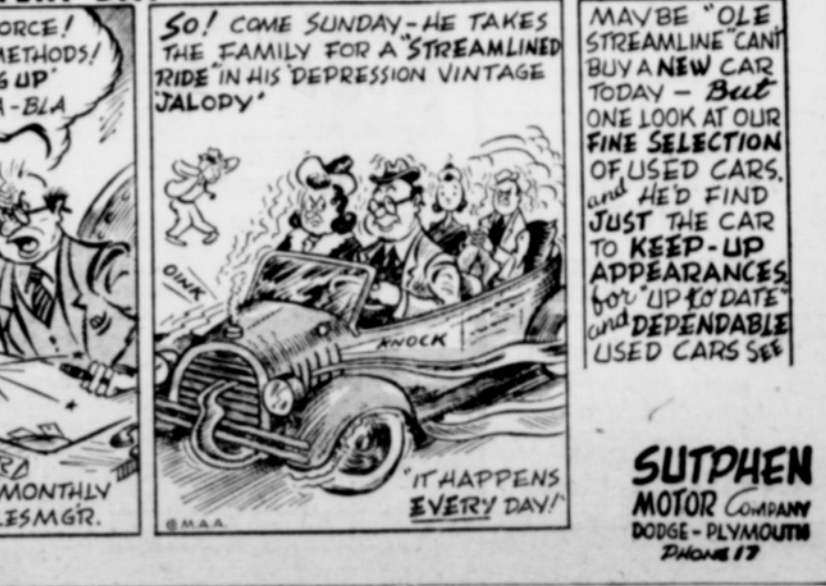

At the afternoon session Mrs. Alton Burton of Moran accompanied the group singing. A dedicational service was conducted by Mrs. Ralph L. Sabin, First Methodist, Mrs. Burton and Mrs. J. E. Harvey, Fair Park.
