DAN TRUE

Dan True To Speak At Quitaque Chamber of Commerce Banquet

Dan True of Albuquerque, New Mexico will be in Quitaque next Friday, April 26, when he will be principal speaker at the annual Quitaque Chamber of Commerce Banquet.

This is the third year for the Chamber banquet, and it is always one of the big events of the year. Two years ago Kenneth Wyatt of Tulia was the first speaker, and last year the late Marshall Formby of Plainview entertained a full house.

The program this year promises to be another good one, for Dan True will be coming back to his "home country" to speak and visit with friends from the Caprock area.

True is currently employed by TV Station KGGM in Albuquerque, where he handles the weather and wildlife presentations. He also serves as pilot for KGGM news crews, and is often in the middle of news events as they happen.

True has an interesting background. Born in Nashville, Tennessee he was reared in the shadow of wildcat rigs in Oklahoma, Kansas, Indiana, New Mexico, Illinois and Mississippi. He attended twenty-four schools between first grade and high school graduation.

His first love has been the outdoors, and many of his weather forecasts are interspersed with photographs of nature. Many still remember his "roadrunner movie," which portrays on film the classic battle between the roadrunner and a rattlesnake, the battle continuing until the snake finally succumbs.

He has authored two books in hardback, entitled "A Family of Eagles" and "Flying Free." Both are intriguing tales with accompanying pictures of his experiences with a family of eagles in Palo Duro Canyon.

His first book is in the third printing now, and was condensed in Readers Digest in April of 1981. It has since appeared in several foreign editions and a German issue was released in November of 1984.

During the 1950's, True wrote a weekly column for the Amarillo Daily News, and he produced, filmed and narrated a one-year series of wildlife programs for KFDD-TV in Amarillo.

On another occasion he filmed, wrote and produced a prime-time special about one of the flights he made filming wildlife and scenery throughout Baja.

He is an avid flight instructor, and because of his background in aviation he is able to make personal appearances over a wide area, as evidenced by his presence in Quitaque next Friday.

True has had an interesting and varied career, and he is looking forward to his visit in Quitaque next week. In a recent letter to the Chamber he said, "I am looking forward to seeing Quitaque again and meeting old friends."

Tickets are now on sale for the April 26th Chamber of Commerce Banquet. The tickets are $5.00 each and can be secured from any Chamber member, or purchased at the First National Bank.

Mark the date of Friday, April 26, on your calendar and make plans to attend the 1985 Chamber banquet at the Quitaque Community Center.

SCOUT NEWS

March 18, 1985, Den III met in the Scout Room. Those present were Danny House, Kyle Mars and Joe Dee Robison. These boys began work on two activities: "Taking Care of Your Plant," and "Conservation." Each boy took a different soil sample and planted a bean seed in his chosen soil. He is to care for his plant for a month and bring it to a meeting and compare growth of each plant. The boys dug an apricot tree from a flower bed and took it to Gladys Wilson and planted it for her.

March 25, 1985, Den II met in the Scout Room. Those present were Garrett Mills and David Lane. They began a study of CPR. Later, they hope to have an EMT visit and help them with this activity.

April 1, 1985, Den I met at the Pinkerton home. Those present were Tommy Pinkerton, Chad Calvert and Henry McNary. After discussing the progress on their "Scholar," they began a study on "Geology." They drove north of Turkey to the river and observed the different land formations and picked up a few rocks.

April 9, 1985, Pack 264 met at the Pinkerton home. Those present were David Lane, Jason Smith, Garrett Mills, Danny House, Joe Dee Robison, Kyle Mars, Henry McNary and Tommy Pinkerton.

We drove to the home of Otho Stubbs to visit him and tour his museum. We had a very enjoyable time listening to Mr. Stubbs tell of the places he had found various artifacts, how he began painting, where his collection had been acquired.

Photographs were made outside of the boys and Mr. Stubbs together. We appreciate very much Mr. and Mrs. Stubbs having us in their home.

April 13, 1985, Pack 264 met at the Pinkerton home at 8:00 a.m. All members were present. We drove to Lubbock for the long-awaited trip. Traveling with us were Pat House and Vera Pinkerton. We toured the Ranching Heritage Center and the Museum of Texas Tech. While there we had a Coke break and the boys shopped in the gift shop. They bought gifts varying from wooden eggs, paddles and balls, to sharks teeth.

We called in our pizza order from the museum, then drove to the Pizza Hut on 50th Street. Our waitress moved five tables together so that we could all be seated together. Four large pizzas were consumed.

After an enjoyable meal, we stopped by Pat's sister's so she could spend a few minutes visit and exchange some Scout shirts at Latham's. Then we drove to Target to look for some items for craft projects.

At 3:15 we attended the showing of "Baby." On our way home, we stopped at the Dairy Queen in Floydada and were treated to ice cream cones by Pat House. We found the Valley FFA group there having refreshments after their trip to Lubbock.

This trip was made on the proceeds from our sale of aluminum cans but we could not have done all of the things if it had not been for the generous donations from the Nuevo Study Club and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barnhill.

After we returned to Turkey and had cleaned the bus, each boy was given a two-dollar bill. We extend a very special thanks to the City of Turkey and the Panhandle Transit for allowing us to use the bus.

April 15, 1985, Den III met in the Scout Room. Those present were Joe Dee Robison and Kyle Mars. Joe Dee brought his plant but Kyle's plant suffered an accident and didn't make it. We completed the activities we were working on, and Joe Dee completed his achievements for the Bobcat Badge. We visited the library and started Joe Dee on the Wolf Trail.

The United Methodist Women of Turkey United Methodist Church met Monday at 4:00 p.m. in the church chapel for a Centennial program. The women's missionary work was established 100 years ago in the Methodist Church. The leader, Mrs. Roy Patterson, said that six denominations have come together to form what is now the United Methodist Church. Basis for the program was a reprint of a 1916 World Outlook magazine.

Mrs. Gene Fuston gave the opening prayer. During the business session, Mrs. Nadine Baisden announced that she had sent letters to the women in Silverton, Matador, Flomot and Quitaque, inviting them to a luncheon to be hosted by the Turkey UMW on May 6. The two rummage sales to be held on May 11 and May 18 were discussed.

In closing Mrs. Patterson told of the many hardships suffered by women and children in foreign lands and comparisons were made of the better treatment today. More needs to be done, she added. Mrs. Armstrong gave the closing prayer.

The "plastic" in plastic surgery comes from the Greek meaning "to mold, to form."

Home Lawns Need Extra Assistance This Time of Year

About this time of the year, home lawns need a boost to get them in shape for the spring season just around the corner.

Buddy C. Logsdon, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, suggests three operations that can get a lawn off to a good start—scalping, fertilizing and applying a weed killer.

Scalping a lawn in early spring serves to revitalize it and promote early spring green-up, points out Logsdon.

Begin the operation by lowering the blade of your lawnmower 1/2 to 1-inch below the normal setting. Then mow the lawn in two directions that are at right angles to each other. Remove the clippings after each mowing.

Logsdon also recommends keeping the lawnmower blade lowered until mid-summer.

After scalping the lawn, apply a complete fertilizer (one containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium) to promote leaf and root growth, advises Logsdon. Use one pound of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn area. This is equal to 12 pounds of an 8-8-8 fertilizer or eight pounds of a 12-4-8 fertilizer. Repeat the application in the early summer and fall.

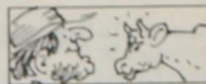

For a dark green lawn, Logsdon suggests applying nitrogen every 50 days at the rate of one pound to 1,000 square feet. Monthly applications of iron chelate or iron sulfate during the spring and summer promote a healthy color in St. Augustine lawns.

To keep crabgrass or other unsightly weeds from becoming a problem, apply a pre-emergence herbicide (weed killer) containing benefin, dacthal or bensulide in early spring, after the grass has recovered from winter, says

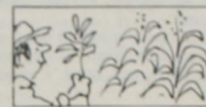

Logsdon. Applying a pre-emergence herbicide too early this year could further weaken turfgrasses injured by winter conditions. Combinations of herbicides with fertilizers are available and convenient to use but, as with all herbicides, should only be used according to instructions on the label.

Proper maintenance is essential for a healthy lawn, and these practices will give new life to a dormant, weedy lawn, notes Logsdon.

Hypercholesterolemia — Are You A Victim?

Look almost anywhere these days and you will find the advice to cut down on red meat and start eating more fish and poultry. This is supposed to lower your cholesterol. But, is this advice necessary?

Cholesterol is a naturally occurring compound that is used as a building block for a number of hormones and steroids used in the body. The most notable of which being the sex hormones.

If cholesterol is not contained in the diet, the liver can synthesize it. Actually, liver synthesis is the source of most cholesterol used in the body. Most estimates run about 80 percent for cholesterol produced within the body and 20 percent from outside sources (diet). When the amount of cholesterol is high the amount that is synthesized is usually depressed.

There are, however, people who are unable to regulate cholesterol synthesis. The condition is known as hypercholesterolemia, and it is an apparent metabolic disturbance. For some reason a balance between dietary cholesterol and synthesized cholesterol is well known to be a risk factor for heart disease. But, just because there is a small segment of the population with a metabolic dysfunction, should the population as a whole be concerned with cholesterol?

Making a sweeping recommendation to avoid fats and cholesterol brings the public to the conclusion that all they have to do to avoid heart disease is eat a low-fat diet. The truth of the matter is that in hypercholesterolemia diet modification alone is often not effective in lowering blood cholesterol levels. In many cases the use of drugs is required to gain the desired results.

Diabetes, like hypercholesterolemia, is a serious metabolic problem and requires professional medical attention. No one would dream of telling a diabetic all he has to do to be healthy is avoid sugar, yet for some reason, we are not telling a hypercholesterolemic he must do more than avoid foods with cholesterol. It is not a simple matter of diet, when blood cholesterol levels become a problem, you often need drugs to suppress the liver's synthesis of cholesterol.

As for diet, the public has to realize that it is total calories that are important. Obesity has been proven to be a risk factor for all —cholesterol has not. That means everyone must watch calories and eat foods that have a "high nutrient density"—like beef.

TUITION INCREASE COMING

AUSTIN — More than 2,000 students participated in the march. Some carried protest posters; most chanted anti-establishment slogans. These students claimed the government was forcing them to do something they didn't want to do.

In the late 1960's, scenes like this were routine in the United States. But, this scene didn't occur in 1968. It happened last Tuesday. This issue wasn't the Vietnam War; it was tuition. The crisis wasn't part of a fading memory; it is upon us right now.

College students are incensed at what they consider an unnecessary government intrusion into their pocketbooks. They see no reason why their tuition has to be tripled.

Sadly, there is a reason, a very good reason. The state just doesn't have the money to subsidize education costs at the level it has in the past.

Texas' tuition — an unbelievable $4 per semester hour — is the lowest in the nation. Ten years ago that $4 per hour paid for better than 10 percent of a student's education costs. Now, it pays for less than 3 percent.

Four years ago, when lawmakers last were discussing seriously a tuition increase, there was not that much concern about what percentage of education costs a student paid. Now, there is grave concern. The state is facing a $1.1 billion shortfall, and state funds to colleges and universities almost surely will be cut.

The quality of higher education in Texas will decline with the state contribution. That money must be recovered somewhere, and tuition seems a logical way to make up for the lost revenue.

There also seems to be a myth that Texas students will be hit hardest by this tuition increase. Nothing could be further from the truth. Even if tuition is tripled to $12 per hour, Texas will rank only 48th among the states in tuition costs.

Instead, we in the Legislature are going to try to shift more of the tuition burden on out-of-state students. Right now, Texas taxpayers essentially are subsidizing those students. It is cheaper for students from many other states to pay out-of-state tuition in Texas than to pay in-state tuition at home.

Back in the days of huge budget surpluses, such a luxury was affordable. Sometimes, the cheap out-of-state tuition reaped an economic benefit as the "foreigner" who came to school in Texas decided to stay in the Lone Star State.

Such benefits are minimal, though. As the budget becomes tighter, luxuries must be discarded.

Though we support some type of tuition increase, we are not unsympathetic to students. We realize student fees in this state are not as cheap as the tuition. We realize that federal aid to students is being cut.

For those very reasons, we are not going to vote for an unrealistic tuition hike. We will vote only for a reasonable increase in the student contribution to the cost of education.

Let us know how you feel about this emotional issue. Please write to us at P. O. Box 12068, Austin, TX, 78711.

ELECTION CHANGES POSSIBLE

AUSTIN — Texans pride themselves on their political independence. Though the state until recently was considered Democratic, Texas in truth always has been more aligned with a conservative philosophy than with any political party.

We in this state have taken for granted political trends that baffle the rest of the nation. Many wonder that Texans think nothing of voting in a Democratic primary one year and in a Republican primary two years later.

All this may change, though, if a bill currently pending before the Senate State Affairs Committee becomes law. The measure, Senate Bill 74, effectively would eliminate "crossover" voting by requiring Texans to register according to party affiliation.

Texans currently register to vote without declaring membership in a political party. In effect, the existing practice makes Texas a state of seven million independent voters.

That independence is reflected at the polls. Republicans and Democrats probably would be vain to believe that all those voting in primaries do so because of allegiance to a party. Instead, voters usually pick a primary because of the slate of candidates offered.

S.B. 74's sponsor, Sen. Oscar Mauzy, believes otherwise. The Dallas Democrat told the State Affairs Committee that most "crossover" voters are trying only to disrupt a party's nominating process. He indicated that Republicans were the most serious offenders, crossing into the Democratic ranks to support conservative candidates normally shunned by rank-and-file Democrats.

Mauzy says the process should stop and that his bill provides the equitable solution. The bill would require all voters to declare party affiliation at the time they register, locking them into a May primary. Those who wanted to change parties from one primary to the next would have to do so through the registration process. "Crossover" voting would become far more difficult.

Opponents of the bill say it would ruin Texas' unique electoral process. They say Texans enjoy their right to vote a candidate's worth instead of his political party. They say the bill would lessen the chance of voters being offered two quality candidates in an election.

These opponents even say that Mauzy's bill might be detrimental in the long run to the Democratic Party. They point to last year's senatorial primary in which conservative voters nearly made Kent Hance the Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate.

Hance, then a Lubbock congressman, narrowly lost a run-off with liberal State Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Austin. Doggett was trounced in the November general election by Phil Gramm, the Republican nominee, and many election analysts said those conservative Democrats who would have supported Hance defected to Gramm's side in the general election.

Gramm acknowledged that polls indicated Hance would have run an "extremely close" race and possibly beaten Gramm.

Without "crossover" voting, those conservative Democrats will have to make an early decision about their party affiliation. Opponents of S.B. 74 think Mauzy won't like the result.

Please let us know how you feel about requiring voters to register by party affiliation. Write us at P.O. Box 12068, TX, 78711.

Q&A

Q. What is the environmental impact of a resource recovery facility?

A. As with any combustion process, a waste-to-energy facility will generate emissions. In an independent analysis, however, the Environmental Protection Agency concluded that a properly designed and operated resource recovery facility presents no significant public health hazard.

Those designed by Combustion Engineering, a leader in energy technology world wide, use the most advanced air quality control devices in the world. They meet or exceed all federal, state and local environmental control standards. Nevertheless, the facilities offer both economic and environmental advantages over most existing solid waste disposal methods. The plant emits no nuisance noise or odor, dramatically extends the life of landfill, and provides an important new source of renewable energy that conserves our fossil fuel resources.

"Consumers Should Know..." is the theme of this year's National Consumer's Week April 22-28.

Every week is consumers week at the County Extension Office because we have up-to-date factual information available to each of you 365 days a year on family record keeping, financial planning, food buying, home care and maintenance, food preservation, buying a home computer, using credit, buying clothing, avoiding consumer frauds, and numerous other topics.

Many agencies provide information to consumers to help us make wise, informed choices for all the goods and services we purchase. However, if we fail to take advantage of this free information, we are no better off than we were before the consumer movement began.

The Food and Drug Act and the Meat Inspection Act in 1906, were early attempts to protect the consumer from unwholesome products. During the 1930's the consumer movement gained support because of the Great Depression.

After World War II interest in consumer issues was again required. But it was John F. Kennedy's Consumer Message to Congress in 1962 which resulted in the Consumer Bill of Rights: (1) The right to safety; (2) The right to be informed; (3) The right to choose; (4) The right to be heard.

Congressman Beau Boulter Reports from Washington

U. S. CONTRIBUTION TO IMF SHOULD BE CUT

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) has long been a source of controversy and disagreement. In 1983 there was a huge battle crossing party lines, to try to stop the U. S. from increasing funds by $8.4 billion. Those who supported the bill said without the additional help we would see a collapse of the international banking system. Those opposed, saw the increased funding for what it was—a bailout of big banks in this country.

Unfortunately the additional funding was approved, and we continue to sink money into what I consider a losing proposition. The IMF provides low interest loans to developing countries and in return, those countries must commit to policies of economic austerity which the IMF prescribes. However, there are many problems with this system, not the least of which is that many of the governments involved simply do not have the political strength to enforce the agreed austerity measures among their people. Moreover, the debt burden in many of these countries is expanding faster than the economy so that larger and larger portions of their capital is devoted to debt service. Then banks who made the original loans, faced with the threat of default, lobbied for increased IMF funds so that loans could be "refinanced"—which means throwing good money after bad.

At a time when every American is faced with potential reductions and cuts, I do not think that we should be throwing taxpayer dollars into a bailout program for big city banks. Although there is no request right now for additional IMF funding, something can be done. I have co-sponsored a piece of legislation which calls for the IMF to abolish one particularly ineffective program which hurts our economy.

The Compensatory Financing Facility of the IMF lends low interest money to foreign countries when those nations experience poor trade balances, with the stipulation that these countries increase their exports. Because the nations have made the mistake of nationalizing their industries, they respond to the call for greater exports by selling their nationalized commodities at whatever price they can get. The result has had a dramatic affect on U. S. copper and nickel industries with tens of thousands of American workers out of work. Foreign subsidized farmers in these nations have the same affect on world agriculture prices. The IMF in general is an unworthy organization, as it exists now. This change, although small, would be the beginning of the types of reform needed to bring the IMF under control. So long as the United States is making a large contribution to the IMF we must make sure the Fund's actions do not have any indirect but detrimental affect on our own commodity producers, which it presently does.

Valley FFA Team Goes To State Meet At Texas A&M Next Week

The agriculture teacher, Glen Braune, took his teams to the big contest before going to the one at Texas Tech where there were seventy-nine schools with approximately 300 students participating in this contest. The Valley teams made high enough scores to attend the one at Texas Tech.

In the Texas Tech contest, there were still 48 schools in the Area I contest. Only the top four teams or the top ten percent of this group were chosen to attend the State Meet.

The Dairy Cattle Team of Valley placed sixth in the overall contest, and placed fifth out of the Area Teams. They are, also, the First Place Team in the Greenbelt District. By placing fifth in Area I, they earned the right to participate in the State Dairy Contest at Texas A&M University in College Station on April 27. Only the top five teams from Area I will compete at the State Contest.

Team member, Kelly Patrick, was named High Point Individual in the Dairy Contest. Kirk Martin, Craig Setliff and Suzie Farley are the other team members. Kelly scored 345 out of a possible 400 points.

The Poultry Team placed fifth in its contest and was eleventh in Area I. This group was the second place team in the Greenbelt District. Team members are Gary Brannon, Joe Morrison and Jeff Fuston.

The Livestock Team also competed at Texas Tech, and it placed third in the Greenbelt

KELLY PATRICK

District. Scott Saul, Dan Meyer, Robert Patrick and Jess Little made up the Livestock Team.

Agriculture Teacher Braune told the Valley Tribune that no one person was indispensable on a team, but that Kelly Patrick made an individual mark with his high point scoring, and this ended in being the tie-breaker which won the Valley team the trip to State. The Allison team and the Valley team were tied in fifth place, and with Kelly's individual high score the tie was broken in Valley's favor.

Mr. Braune and the team will leave Friday, April 26, for Texas A&M with Kelly, Craig and Kirk representing Valley.

PAYNE FAMILY HAS EASTER DINNER INSIDE

The Archie Payne family had its Easter Sunday dinner inside this year due to the cold wind and with little ones present. Little Miss Jenna Payne had her first birthday cake, baked by her MawMaw Payne. She let her brother, Justin, and little cousin, Keshia Howerton, share her cake. She had one pink candle. Justin had five yellow candles, and Keshia had five blue candles. Their grandmother spoils them, and she said, "What else are grandmothers for?"

Only two boys were missing from the get-together, Jerry Payne of Marble Falls had suffered a broken foot and Henry Payne of Amarillo had special company. They sent their love.

The children had their egg hunt at the picnic grounds. Everyone reports a good time.

Dinner was served at the Virgil George home. Visiting guests were Trent McKay and children, Dr. Dora Crandall and husband, Otho Stubbs, Turkey (he is a long-time friend of Virgil's), and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Payne and family of Plainview.

Maybe next year the weatherman will be nice to us.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Ramsey and children attended a post-Easter get-together at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hartman, in South Plains. Others present were her brothers and families, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Long and children of Plainview and Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Long and family of Carlsbad, New Mexico.

Ricki LeValley was Miss San Antonio Rose in the Bob Wills Day Parade in 1979. She is now Mrs. Johnny King and the mother of two small boys.

This float was in the 1982 Bob Wills Day Parade.

CARDS OF THANKS

We want to thank the EMTs and the ambulance service for coming to our rescue last week when Carl Wayne got into trouble breathing. Thanks to everyone who came to help and thanks to Jimmy Davidson, Clara Ruth Davidson, Manuel Cruz and Elgin Conner for answering the ambulance service. There are some of the best people in the world in the Quitaque area.

Carl, Vera and Carl Wayne Woods

May we take this means of trying to say thank you to all our friends, relatives and neighbors for all your acts of kindness before and after the loss of our beloved brother. Thank you for the hours spent at the hospital and home. Your remembrances in so many ways, the food, flowers, words of comfort and prayers with members of our family that could not go to the hospital in those trying times. Bro. Jess and Bro. LOSING A FRIEND

When one day you lose a friend Who has shared with you the years,
In your heart will long remain Painful loneliness and tears.
And for many months to come For your friend your heart will sigh
And the loneliness you feel Never fully passes by.
In your mind you will recall The happiness you found
With your friend across the years
Often brought those smiles around.

And you constantly will miss Laughter of those by-gone days
And the kindly company Given you in countless ways.
But at least your heart will know That the angels high above Will have their turn to share
Such attention and such love.

May I dedicate this reading to anyone who has lost a loved one, or a friend. May it comfort you, as it has me. Mrs. Archie Payne. 45-1tp

TEXAS CANCER DEATHS UP 34% OVER DECADE

Deaths resulting from all types of cancer increased by 34% in Texas during the past decade, according to an article in the journal Texas Medicine.

During the same 1970-1980 period, lung cancer deaths among Texas women increased by 121%. Lung cancer has since passed breast cancer as the leading cause of cancer death among women not only in Texas but across the nation.

The article is by Dr. Vincent F. Guinee, chairman of the patient studies department at M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston. His story appears in the April issue of Texas Medicine, published by the Texas Medical Association.

"The lung cancer death rate among Texas males is definitely greater than the U. S. rate for males," Guinee writes, "but the lung cancer death rate for women in Texas is only slightly above the national figure."

Studies have shown that smoking is the primary cause of lung cancer.

Among Texas women, the number of deaths from lung cancer increased from 669 in 1970 to 1,482 in 1980, or 121%. Lung cancer deaths among Texas men rose by 47%—from 2,836 in 1970 to 4,170 in 1980. For all Texans, lung cancer deaths increased by 61%. "Furthermore, each year of the 1970-to-1980 decade contributed to the increase," Guinee notes.

Deaths caused by other types of cancer showed these increases in Texas from 1970 to 1980: colon, 33%; breast, 28%; prostate, 35%; and pancreas, 18%.

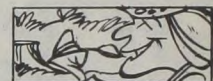

Sharon Wassom and children, Joey, James and Angie of Amarillo spent the weekend in Quitaque visiting their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Bailey.

Raw Milk Is Hazardous, Not Healthful

A study by researchers at the Center for Infectious Diseases has demonstrated the alarming risks of drinking raw milk, reports Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist Dr. Dymple Cooksey.

Eleven bacterial diseases, including salmonella, tuberculosis and staphylococcal infections are shown to be spread by contaminated raw milk.

Since the most important component of unadulterated raw milk is germs, people interested in their health should drink the safe, pasteurized product, she advises. The raw milk promoted as a health food can be a hazard.

In ancient India, it was believed that a prince who had lost his kingdom would have it restored if he ate food cooked on a fire made with wood grown out of the stump of a tree that had been cut down.
