Flomot Church Closes After 98 Years Service

by Earlyne Jameson
The book is closed and a chapter is finished in the history of the Flomot Methodist Church. The Reverend Earl Blair, Plainview District Superintendent and the Reverend Tommie T. Beck, pastor closed their Bibles at the church Sunday morning, March 3, 1991 bringing to an end regular religious services.

A way of life has passed. The action of the church trustees, Wilburn Martin, Bill D. Washington and Ronald Clay, has written the final chapter in a pioneer organization which held the flag of Christianity through all the blessings and disasters that may befall a small community.

The Flomot Methodist Church was organized August 1893. In the records of the church are many of the names of pioneers who shaped the destiny of Motley County and West Texas. The first Methodist elders ordained were W. M. Martin and W. A. Martin. Other charter members were Lizzie Martin, E. B. Creach, Mandi Martin, Mollie M. Barton, Betty, Callie and Ruth Karnes and Baron Martin. In 1893, the Reverend Bauchman, a Methodist minister received Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Martin and H. M. Martin in the church. In 1903, the church joined the Northwest Conference of the Methodist Church and has been a continuous member. The approximate 32 membership included great-grandchildren of the original founders as the final light of the church is out. It has been a losing battle with small churches everywhere caught in the wake of a changing world. Mechanized farming and the great loss of population in this and other West Texas counties has been a prime factor. The decision to dissolve the church was by membership agreement. The fate of the church building and furniture will be resolved at a later date by the local trustees and the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference. For 98 years the Flomot Methodist Church has been an influence for the good and a tribute to the pioneers who lived by the creeds of religion. A little church has served its destiny.

He gave several ideas for planning strategies to sell the Caprock Adventure.

THEN & NOW!

by Eunice McFall

I think the March wind came by last week early and tried to blow me away--At least it did a good job on my memory--Got the Gasoline Homecoming date a month early for one thing--My apology to one and all--Please try to overlook the mistakes I make and give me another chance to do better next time.

I understand that a lot of stories are going around about the article written about the school board meeting last week, most of which seem to be just that STORIES. Yes, Coach Paris's contract was not renewed simply, because of the economics of running such a plant as Valley School. Choices have to be made in the best interest of all and the board felt that at this time three coaches would furnish enough coaching staff for Valley School.

I was handed the following article by a well-known Quitaque lady--now whether it's true or not I'm not sure but thought it good for a laugh anyway.

This is one way to describe March 1, 1991 in Quitaque. It was so windy that when Buster spoke to Ann the words blew around the corner to Cora. She heard "Come on Honey" from the man in front of her. She hit him so hard on the head with her cane that his false teeth flew out. The March wind caught them and took them down to where Billie Jeane was waiting for her husband to bring the car around. Well, when she saw those chattering teeth, she thought Weldon had become invisible and promptly fainted. The wind was so strong, it carried her across the street to the undertakers and into a coffin waiting to be moved into the funeral home. But the teeth kept on going out east to where Mr. Wilson was yawning. When he closed his mouth, his jaws clamped down on the new choppers and he immediately gave thanks for this miracle.

No wonder the old timers say "It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good."

So be on your toes as you walk down the sidewalk in Quitaque in March--who knows what mischief the wind will cause next.

HEALTH for the whole family

Living Wills Help Patients Retain Responsibility for Their Medical Treatment

While the recent case of Nancy Cruzan and her family's battle with both the Missouri and U.S. Supreme Courts has focused much attention on advance directives such as living wills and durable powers of attorney, very little knowledge exists about these documents among the general public.

"If the goal for most patients is to retain responsibility for their healthcare, even in the case of incapacitation or terminal illness, living wills and durable powers of attorney can achieve this objective," said Marcelino Oliva, D.O. Dr. Oliva recently submitted testimony to a Senate Subcommittee of Medicare and Long Term Care on the importance of living wills.

A living will is a document in which you state the types of treatment you want and how far you want them to go. It's important to be as specific as possible because vague language or direction leaves treatment decisions up to the doctor or loved one, he said.

Additionally, a living will does not take effect until you're terminally ill, and the definition of "terminally ill" varies from "imminent death" to "death within several months," depending on the state in which you live.

A durable power of attorney for healthcare delegates responsibility to someone you trust, for all healthcare decisions, when you're not fit enough to make them. One characteristic is that the person you appoint can make decisions whenever you're unable, not just when you're terminally ill, Oliva said.

It's important to give a durable power of attorney for healthcare to someone who knows your wishes and is prepared to execute them.

If you choose to execute both a living will and a durable power of attorney for healthcare, you may be able to avoid being forced by the courts to stay on life support (unless you so state in your living will), and your relatives won't have to make any life or death decisions for you without your prior consultation.

Marcelino Oliva, D.O.

To aid people in this predicament, Congress, as part of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990, is now requiring hospitals and other healthcare providers to make patients aware of the existence of these health directives.

Specifically, the healthcare provider must ask the patient about the existence of either a living will or durable power of attorney already executed by the patient; provide information to the patient about relevant state law governing advance directives; and outline to the patient the hospital's or health provider's written policy concerning advance directives. This law won't take effect until November of 1991.

"I recommend seeing an attorney for advice on completing a living will or durable power of attorney," said Dr. Oliva. "And, make sure your doctor has copies of both documents and that your family and friends are aware they exist and what they contain."

Genealogical Society Conducts Monthly Meeting

The Caprock Genealogical Society met Monday, February 18, in the Court House at Silverton, Texas. The Society was organized in April 1990 and meets on the third Monday of each month with the exception of June, July and August. The meetings are held alternately between the Floyd County Historical Museum in Floydada and the Court House in Silverton. "To Participate, Encourage and Share" is the motto of the Society.

A very informative slide presentation was given by June Sherman on Norway, Sweden and Denmark. June's grandparents immigrated from Sweden in the late 1800's and, while on tour in 1976, she visited with relatives living there. Many historical landmarks and scenic views were included in her program.

While enjoying refreshments provided by Jackie Mercer, the group informally discussed sources from which they had received help in their genealogy research and looked at family pedigree charts of the members.

Those attending were reminded that the next meeting of the Society will be Monday, March 18, 1991 at 7 p.m. at the Museum in Floydada. Jane Bean will have a program on computer genealogy. Preceding the regular meeting the Society will hold a Genealogy Workshop at 1 p.m. in the Museum. Everyone is reminded to bring books and resource material to the workshop.

Present were: Polly Montague, Bessie Bradford, Sharon Pigg and Jackie Mercer, Silverton; Virginia Taylor and Nancy Marble, South Plains; Katherine Stephens, LaVerne Cook and Joyce Burnam, Tulia; June Sherman, Vera Jo Bybee, Mary Lou Bollman and Carolyn Jackson, Lockney.

How Common is the Common Cold? Consider These Questions

Cough and cold season is nothing to sneeze at. Experts say colds are so common during the cooler months of the year mainly because we huddle together indoors, releasing contagious viral particles into the air as we sneeze and cough.

A cold is defined as a collection of infections that can affect the upper respiratory tract: nose, sinuses, throat and lungs, sometimes the ears as well. But, as our nasal tissue swells and no one appears clear-headed enough to create a cure for the common cold, we become all too aware of its accompanying discomforts — stuffy nose, sore throat, hacking cough, and that aching feeling.

another. Consider these common questions from the experts at Halls-Plus, Warner-Lambert's new cough suppressant tablet with syrup in the center.

Q. How common is the common cold?

A. Adults reportedly suffer from one to six colds a year, with children averaging six a year. Under age four, boys catch more colds than girls. Annually, nine out of 10 Americans catch a cold, and colds are believed to be responsible for 23 million work days and 26 million school days lost.

Q. Why did Benjamin Franklin insist on sleeping with his window open?

A. Franklin refused to believe that getting chilled or wet would cause one to catch a cold and advocated breathing lots of fresh air for prevention. Many years later, scientific studies indicated he was on the right track. Although chilling and dampness may make an individual more susceptible to catching a cold, scientists now believe colds are caused by viruses — some 200 different kinds of tiny organisms that can be transferred from the mouth or nose of an infected person who sneezes or coughs contaminated material into the air.

Q. What is the most common way to catch a cold?

A. While traditional belief held that colds were spread mostly by coughing and sneezing, current theory is that these contagious illnesses are frequently passed on by hand as, for example, by an individual who touches a virus-contaminated object and then rubs his own eyes, nose or mouth. Thus, professionals advise handwashing to help protect against catching colds.

Q. How long do colds typically last?

A. Generally, a cold — known as an upper respiratory infection — lasts about a week, no matter what you do. Some studies say the third day is generally the most miserable. While home-grown remedies range from chicken soup to kerosene plasters applied to the chest, the main concern is often relieving the cold's accompanying symptoms, whether a sore throat, runny nose, coughing, stuffy feeling or the "blahs." Smoking is thought to worsen the discomforts of a cold. Drinking lots of fluids may make one more comfortable.

Cough drops like new Halls-Plus, the first cough suppressant tablets with syrup in the center to be introduced nationally in the U.S., are formulated to relieve the symptoms of a cold when you need to go on; that is, to fight coughs, soothe sore throats, and help nasal passages feel clearer.

Q. What is the harm in coughing?

A. On the one hand, coughing is one of the body's defenses that helps rid the lungs of harmful substances. On the other, coughing can spread germs. A hacking cough also can prevent you from sleeping through the night — or finishing a sentence in your morning business meeting.

Q. Why do we refer to our nose as "stuffy" when we have a cold?

A. Catching cold means a cold virus has invaded the cells that produce mucus. As a cold progresses, nasal tissues often swell and mucus accumulates in the nose which then feels stuffed up and runny. Mucus is the thick liquid that lubricates the nose, throat and lungs.

Russia is the world's largest oil producer, followed by the United States and Saudi Arabia.

Congratulations to our basketball teams. Our girls made it to the area playoffs and the Dragons are going to the State! I've had the confidence all along that if they ever put it all together, they could go all the way, and bring another Championship back home. They just might do it.

Even with fair weather, March still came in like a lion. Tumbleweeds rolled thru like the Allies in Desert Storm, scattering their seed from Cee Vee to Chalk and beyond...maybe it will go out like a lamb...there's one thing certain about March weather...It's gonna be uncertain!

CARDS OF THANKS

Dear family and friends,
Thanks for being there for us when I was in the hospital and since I've come home. Thanks for the visits, flowers, food, cards, and prayers. A special thanks to our great EMTs who took such good care of us, and our little friends across the street for the cookies.

God bless you,
Wendell and Roberta Farley

Our family will never be able to tell each of you personally how much every member of this community has meant to us over the past few days. The outpouring of friends to give us so many expressions of sympathy has seemed to help us through our loss. We received so many beautiful flowers, cards, delicious food, telephone calls and comforting words from you all. We can never thank you enough but hopefully the memories that Arch left you with will begin to repay you for your kindness. He took so many memories with him until he sees you again. And we can never thank you enough for that. Our heartfelt thanks are only a beginning but please accept our deep gratitude.
