Thanksgiving Proclamation
 It is the duty of nations as well as of men to owe their dependence upon the overruling power of God, to confess their sins and transgressions in humble pardon; and to recognize the sublime truth, announced in the Holy Scriptures and proven by all history, that those nations are blessed whose God is the Lord.

"We know that by His divine law, nations, like individuals, are subject to punishments and chastisements in this world. May we not justly fear that the awful calamity of civil war which now desolates the land may be a punishment inflicted upon us for our presumptuous sins; to the needful end of our national reformation as a whole people?"

"We have been the recipients of the choicest bounties of heaven; we have been preserved these many years in peace and prosperity; we have grown in numbers, wealth and power as no other nation has ever grown. But we have forgotten God. We have forgotten the gracious hand which preserved us in peace and multiplied and enriched and strengthened us, and we have vainly imagined, in the deceitfulness of our hearts, that all these blessings were produced by some superior wisdom and virtue of our own. Intoxicated with unbroken success we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to the God that made us.

It has seemed to me fit and proper that God should be solemnly, reverently, and gratefully acknowledged, as with one heart and one voice, by the whole American people. I do therefore invite my fellow citizens in every part of the United States, and also those who are sojourning in foreign lands, to set apart and observe the last Thursday of November as a day of Thanksgiving and praise to our beneficent Father who dwelleth in the heavens.

Valley 30-Silverton 26 Valley Patriots-Regional Champs

by Cliff Gilmore
 The Valley Patriots took on their cross-county rivals Friday at Silverton and came away with a Regional Championship. Valley will face Sands at Jayton Friday the 29th of November for the Quarter-finals.

Three plays later Silverton was on the board. The kick was blocked by Chad Calvert and Valley's lead was cut to 12. Silverton forced another turnover as Valley went back to kick but a high snap forced Jason Smith to throw and was flagged for grounding the ball and Silverton had the ball on Valley's 7 yd line. Brian Martin went over for the score and with West's kick Valley's lead was cut to 4.

score in the 3rd quarter. On a 37 yd run by Ivory, to pull Silverton to within four.

To start the fourth quarter, Price went over from the 9 and Valley was up again by 10. Valley Defense held and the Owls were only able to score with 0:00 on the clock. Final score Valley 30 Silverton 26.

"We did a good job on the offensive line. We just moved the ball at will. House, Pinkerton, Powell did a great job. On defense, we held them to nothing. Price, Pointer, Calvert, Powell, Pinkerton and Smith are really playing as a group."

Valley started out fast as they took the opening kick off and drove down to the Silverton 1 yd line. But Clay Edwards was stopped on a 4th down play and Silverton took over. On their first, Brian West took a hand off and was hit hard by Tommy Pinkerton and forced a safety. Silverton had to kick into the wind and Valley had good field position. Valley took the ball down field and Edwards took it over on a 9 yd run. Bradley Price added the extra point and Valley lead 10-0.

Silverton could not move the ball and went for a first on 4th and one but a hard hit by Price stopped West short of the first down. Valley moved down field and scored on a 4 yard run by Josh Scoggins. Price's kick was good and Valley lead 18-0. The teams exchanged possessions and after a 57 yd punt by Brian Martin Valley was on their own one yd line. On the first play Silverton forced a fumble.

But Valley came back and Price went over from the one. The kick was wide but Valley had a 10 point lead at the half. Silverton was the only team to THEN & NOW!

Do you recall the old song "Count Your Blessings?" Have you counted your blessings lately? Sure I realize not everything is as you would have it be--that would cause us to be self-satisfied and a very obnoxious people--But stop and think about the many blessings we have to be thankful for. At the top of the list we should put Thanksgiving Day. We should be thankful that we live in a country that acknowledges the fact of a God to be thankful to. Not all nations have this privilege. Yes, we should give thanks for our freedom to express our thankfulness publicly as a nation. For a whole nation as diverse as ours to have a day set aside just to say "Thank You God" for your bounty is very special in the world that we live in today.

Yes, we all have problems, some that seem to have no answers but when we really take the problem, piece by piece, we usually can at least handle it, even if we don't know the solution to the whole problem. I read once where the more problems you have the more you are living. Some days we feel that we are living life to the fullest then because of the problems to solve--So guess we should also be thankful for our problems and the God given ability to either handle the problem or solve it!

The farmers have had a rough year with the early freezing rain that took so many of their high hopes for a bumper crop away. But still they can be thankful for the crops they can harvest, their families, their homes, the beauty of nature, the love of friends, music, happy times, abundant food, and the ability to show our families and friends that we care about them and share their joy, sad times, and love.

So this Thanksgiving lets all say a little extra prayer of Thanksgiving for the Blessings we have counted in our own lives. Yep it is time to "Count Your Blessings" again!

Fire Department Undergoes Major Change

by Jerry Beck

The Quitaque Volunteer Fire Department has undergone some major changes over the past few weeks. We have done a lot of remodeling and renovations to our firehall. We are all very proud of the way it is looking and have plans for many more improvements in the weeks to come.

We will have an open-house during Caprock Country Christmas, but we welcome you to come by any time and look around before then.

I am at the firehall everyday except Wednesday, from 8:30 until 5 p.m. Come by and visit and see for yourself what your fire department is doing. We greatly appreciate all the help, time and money donated toward the renovations of this project.

Our attendance has nearly doubled, but we are still falling below what the state has mandated for our town. We encourage anyone who is interested to attend our meetings. We are not asking for a commitment to start with, just come and decide for yourself if you would like to join.

We meet the second and the fourth Monday of the month at 7:30 p.m. If you are a little late come anyway. We would welcome and truly appreciate your participation. If you have trouble remembering, contact any fireman and we will call and remind you before the meeting.

Landfill Proposals Upset Cities

Area Administrators Seek Explanation from State
 by John Walls
 Lubbock Avalanche-Journal

A gathering of city officials from across the region gave a general thumbs-down on Friday to the state Department of Health's proposed rules on managing solid waste.

The meeting--which included a crowd of about 60 municipal representatives at Mahon Library--marked the first state public hearing on the proposed rule amendments.

Municipal officials repeatedly voiced frustration with the department's revisions and pelted hearing organizers with questions about the rules.

The amendments were published Nov. 12 in the Texas Register--just 10 days before Friday's hearing.

Tom Adams, Seminole city administrator, claimed that the state's proposals allow less time for landfill reform than the timetable set by the Environmental Protection Agency for implementing its regulations.

The state's proposal will be the enforcement tool for the EPA.

"It (the difference) is just not reasonable," Adams said.

Lee Ramirez, solid waste superintendent for the city of Lubbock, called for the state health department to withdraw the amendments until there is time for adequate review and comment on the proposals.

After the meeting, Ramirez said some of the state proposals are more stringent than the EPA regulations and that others are less restrictive.

Turkey News

Therma Farley went to Amarillo Friday November 15 to visit her two sisters, Esther Butler and Odie Latta. She came home Monday. She had a good visit and found her sisters doing better.

Marjorie Bain and Virginia Degan attended funeral services for Margaret Harper, Tuesday in the Presbyterian Church at Canyon. Before the services they enjoyed visiting with Margaret's niece, Evelyn Milan who had been a student of Mrs. Bain's when she and Mrs. Degan taught at Circle Back, a two teacher school in Bailey County in 1930.

Marjorie had been a long time friend of Margaret's. She remembers the efforts Margaret made to make her dream come true in raising money for the Panhandle Heritage Foundation that was established in 1961.

While visiting with Evelyn, Virginia and Marjorie remembered the fun they had together, such as the time when the high school boys picked up Marjorie's Austin Car and placed it over the fence so that the teachers could not go home for the weekend.

On the QT

Estelle Davidson spent Sunday by the bedside of her sister, Sophia Cook who had bypass surgery, Sunday. Jimmy Davidson spent Sunday with his mother and aunt at the hospital. Jimmy returned home Sunday night. Estelle returned home Monday after spending the night in Tulia with her daughter, Lavada McCracken.

Melba Jo Merrell is in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock receiving treatment.

Mable Wilson returned to her home last week after a recent fall and the resulting hip surgery at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

Floye McCracken and Estelle Davidson drove to Tulia Saturday morning to join Stewart and Lavada McCracken on a trip to Muleshoe to visit the Richard Edwards family for lunch. They were joined there by the Ronnie McCracken family of Lubbock, Mrs. Myrtle Carter and Peggy Burnham and A. J. of Muleshoe.

"This has the net effect of increasing your engineering cost for the operation of your landfills," Ramirez said, "because you can develop engineering plans for the current rules, and then you'll develop a set for these rules, and then you'll develop another set for the subtitle D (EPA) rules."

During the meeting, Dave Marr Jr., Muleshoe city manager, asked for a show of hands from those who favor the proposed amendments.

Not one hand was raised. Michael D. Graeber, a representative of the state health department's bureau of solid waste management, told the group to note specific comments and complaints on the proposals and forward those to the department.

Four more public hearings on the proposed amendments will be held across the state before the changes go to a state Department of Health board review on Jan. 25.

Experts are estimating that tougher landfill regulation will cost millions of dollars.

The EPA document requires installation of monitoring systems for ground water and methane gas. And it mandates storm water controls and steps to keep regulated hazardous waste out of landfills.

Landfill owners and operators also will have to verify that they have the necessary funds to cover landfill closing costs, post-closing costs and any necessary cleanup of the facility.

Among those city officials attending this meeting was Mayor Elgin Conner of Quitaque.

Cotton Report

USDA raised the production estimate for the High Plains by 20,000 bales to 3.05 million bales in their November 12 estimate. General opinion is that the estimate fails to reflect accurately the severity of the October 28 freeze. Instead of receiving a light frost or two before the hard freeze, area temperatures plummeted below the freezing mark and stayed there for several days.

The freeze apparently damaged many bolls before they were fully mature. Boll numbers had promised a good size crop, however the full extent of the damage will not be known until producers can get back in the fields. The majority of the bolls in question were in cotton fields planted late and already pushing the limits of available time before harvest.

"From what we understand from discussions with people from across the area the majority of this year's crop was ready for the freeze. Unfortunately the southern portion of the High Plains had a good bit of late planted cotton that really needed another week or ten days of warm weather in order to put the final touches on the bolls they were carrying.

"Indications at this time seem to be that many of these bolls were permanently harmed by the freeze and simply will not open up and produce any lint at all," Notes Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President. "Taking this into account many of the people venturing a guess about the eventual size of this year's crop are staying in the 2.6-2.8 million bale range. Most estimates are on the low end of that range."

Happy Thanksgiving

Long ago on a brisk clear day in a sheltered, wooded clearing, a harvest feast, a humble meal of wild turkey and Indian corn, was shared by native and newcomer.

With this act of sharing of the harvest of a bountiful land, began the tradition of a feast of Thanksgiving, a tradition carried on through the years.

Today, in observance of this commemorative day of Thanksgiving, we shall be gathered together again in thanks for the blessings of a land bestowed upon a people and shared by a people, as it once was and is now.

We will be closed Thursday, November 27th, in observance of Thanksgiving. The Officers, Directors and Staff wish all of you an enjoyable Thanksgiving Day.

Student Attends Retreat

by Rhonda Cochran

Michelle Ramos, daughter of Ramiro and Maria Ramos of Quitaque, attended a "Life Management Skills Retreat" on November 6-8 at the Ceta Canyon Methodist Camp-ground.

A trained staff of migrant counselors under the direction of the Texas Migrant Interstate Program, seek to meet the needs of migrant students in the area schools by emphasizing decision-making leadership potential and improvement of self-esteem through a series of activities and events. The retreat experience can make a valuable contribution to helping a migrant student succeed in school.

Michelle is an eighth grade student at Valley Schools this year. Michelle and her family moved to Quitaque from Batesville during the summer months. She says the hardest thing about moving was making new friends and having to attend a new school.

Michelle was given the opportunity to make many new friends while attending the retreat. She says she will probably remember her new friends the most and the respect she felt while at the retreat. "The counselors were real nice to me," says Michelle.

"The thing I learned most from the retreat was not to drop out of school and that we do have a future." Janice Wheeler, migrant

Program and Records Facilitator for the Valley Schools, made arrangements for Michelle to attend and provided her transportation.

American Smoke-Out Observed At Valley

by Rhonda Cochran

The American Cancer Society's Great American Smoke out was observed by students at Valley School last week. November 21st marked the 15th annual celebration to encourage smokers to take a day off from smoking. Valley students were busy adopting smokers for a day and entering poster and essay contests, along with various other activities throughout the week. Students adopted an estimated 60 persons community wide and encouraged them to give up smoking for a day.

Each person was given an adoption kit with tips for quitting smoking, buttons, stickers, smokeless matches, etc. Fourth and fifth grade students entered a poster contest. Jamie Taylor, 4th grade, and fifth grader Latika Clardy were the winners.

In the sixth grade, Jeremy Taylor won the essay contest entitled "Creative Ways to Stop Smoking." The three winners were presented t-shirts by Mrs. Delene Tyler with the logo "Kiss Me I Don't Smoke."

Their teachers are Barbara Fourier, Dianna Gilmore and Cliff Gilmore. The 4th grade class was presented a balloon bouquet by Mrs. Tyler as part of President Bush's "America 2000" education strategy. The goal is for every school in America to be free of drugs and violence by the year 2000.

Students in K-6 were given stickers, book markers and a book entitled Growing Up Drug Free-A Parent's Guide to Prevention. They were asked to take these home to share with parents. This handbook helps families learn about drugs, including the drugs, most children use first—alcohol and tobacco. It gives important information on child development at four key stages of growth and suggested activities to reinforce drug prevention messages at home. Please ask your child about this if you have not already received this booklet.

A Creative Way To Stop Smoking

by Jeremy Taylor

You can stop smoking but it takes a little work. One way is to always wear a rubber band around your wrist. Make sure that it is not so tight that it cuts off your blood circulation. Each time you want to smoke, pull back the rubber band and pop yourself. After awhile you will get tired of getting popped and you will quit smoking.

Another way is to dip the butts of the cigarette in something you don't like, like vinegar. Each time you put it in your mouth you will spit it back out and finally you will quit smoking. It takes a little time but try one. Please!

Andrew Johnson was the only ex-President to be elected to the United States Senate.

Those who are parents of young children must now confront the tasks involved in getting them ready for the new school year which is approaching. In addition to clothes, eye examinations and a refresher course in discipline, unfortunately one more preparation is needed in today's world. In light of all the recent horror stories about kidnapping and other dreadful crimes perpetrated against children, be sure yours are safe. You must caution them to beware of strangers who might offer them a ride or some candy, and encourage them to tell you of any unusual occurrence. However, your children should be taught common sense and discretion without the trauma of unnecessary fear. Your house of worship can help guide you in this, along with its Sunday school, which can balance your warning with the faith in God that they will need right now; as well as all the rest of their lives.

"The most important thing that parents can teach their children is how to get along without them."

Need To Identify Property States Sheriff's Department

by Jerry D. Beck

Over the years we have seen a rise in the number of thefts and burglaries not just in the Panhandle, but right here in our communities. Some of us have been victims ourselves, and certainly we know someone who has.

There are a number of reasons for this, one being the economy. There doesn't seem to be any real hope for an improvement any time soon so we can expect to see more crime until it does.

There are few things more irritating than to have your possessions taken from you.

Given that the offender is caught, without some way to prove that the property does in fact belong to you, there is a good chance that he will not be prosecuted, and you will not recover your belongings. Securing your property will help, but we also know that this in not always effective either.

Around 90% of reported thefts go unpunished because they are either not reported, or the property was not marked or recorded.

First, mark your property in a place not readily visible, preferably with your Drivers License number. A phone number and address will help in the event that the item is located.

With proper recording of identification numbers some property has been recovered as much as 10 years later. One such case happened this year right here in Quitaque.

We realize that not everyone has access to engravers to mark their property with, so if you would like to mark your property, the Sheriff's Department will be happy to do this for you, or loan you the necessary items to do it yourself.

I am at the firehall in Quitaque every day except Wednesday, and will be very happy to help you with this. I can also be reached through City Hall, or the Sheriff's office.

Don't be victimized twice. It is bad enough to have something taken from you, but it is worse to have no hope of recovering what belongs to you. It probably will get worse before it gets better, so help us to help you.

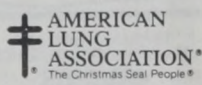

To Anyone Who Has A Lung Disease This Is A Breathtaking View.

Climbing even a short flight of stairs can leave a person who suffers from a chronic lung disease fighting for breath.

An estimated one out of ten Americans suffers from chronic lung disease. And the mortality rate from lung diseases is increasing faster than any of the other top ten causes of death.

Until we do something about lung diseases, no one can breathe easy.

It's a matter of life and breath.

How Much Is Too Much?

by Jerry Beck

How much is too much? Well, it depends on what you're talking about. If we were talking about money, or happiness, there is no such thing as too much.

Unfortunately there are things in this life that aren't good for us, and any at all is too much. There are things that the law says aren't good for us, and getting caught with them, (any amount) is too much. What is too much for one may not be too much for someone else. Which brings me to my point.

I've recently had adults, even parents, tell me that the kids around here don't drink too much. Well, some do! How much is too much? How about every Friday, then again on Saturday? How about when they start on Friday, and don't quit until Sunday? At what age do we prefer that our kids become alcoholics? Any age at all is too soon.

People think that because you try to tell them this, you are fanatic because you are the law, or the preacher, or because you never had a drink in your life. Can't you listen just because they are your friend, or your child's friend? Could it be that they see things that you have missed?

I could look the other way and not see these things, but what kind of friend would I be if I let this happen to one of our kids? When do I quit looking the other way? When one of them becomes an alcoholic? Maybe when one of them dies! I'm not going to do that! Neither are our judges.

Some of you think we are fanatics. Some think we are too hard on these kids. There again, how much is too hard? We care about our kids, and what they become. We know which ones drink too much, do you? We watch them and sooner or later we'll catch the ones that are. First offense is a minimum of $128.50. Too much? We don't think so, compared to the alternative.

Ask your children how many of their friends drink. This should tell you which crowd your children associate with. I wish I never had to catch another child, take them to the judge, or tell another parent their child broke the law. I know this won't happen though, I just hope I never have to tell you it's your child.

I have three of my own, and as a friend I would expect you to tell me when the times comes. I don't think we can care too much what our children do with their lives.

Many households are quite diversified these days in the lifestyles and interests of the members, as well as in the biological sense because of step-children and half-brothers and sisters living under one roof. Indeed, many families find it hard to remember the last time they all had dinner together. Some of this is unavoidable, as in the case of a father who must travel on business or a mother involved in committee work for a worthy cause. However, the family members should make an effort to be together whenever possible, to discuss problems or just to have some kind of fun that spans the generation gap. Moreover, they should attend their House of Worship regularly, for this will help to cement the bonds. The family circle should be an unbroken one; a center of love and a haven of refuge from the outside world.

"Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

Social Security

by Mary Jane Shanes
The critically ill man lay dying. His only request was to be reunited with his long-lost son. How could his son be located?

One way was to contact the Social Security Administration (SSA). Although the Agency cannot disclose any information to the searchers, if the son was working or receiving Social Security benefits, SSA will forward a letter to the son's last known employer or address. If the son was working at the last job listed in SSA records or had left a forwarding address, the letter might be deliverable. The rest would be up to the son.

Each year about 25,000 people ask Social Security to help locate a "missing person." The reasons for their requests vary widely: a serious illness or death in the family; the availability of certain money, such as an inheritance; or a desire to locate lost children or parents.

When SSA began in the 1930s, these requests began to filter in. By 1945, the Agency recognized that the volume of letters and the significance of Social Security records as a vital and only link in locating an individual, required a written policy, and the first instructions were formulated and issued: letters would be forward only for humanitarian or monetary concerns that could affect the missing individual.

The basic policy and procedures outlined in 1945 remain in effect today. No information is given to the requester. The individual's right to confidentiality is the first and foremost consideration. A letter that meets SSA's criteria is sent to the Social Security number holder's last known address or to the last employer who reported earnings for the missing person. If the missing person is a Social Security beneficiary, SSA will mail the letter directly. In either case, it is up to the missing person to respond. Social Security takes no further responsibility in the process.

In cases that involve monetary consideration, SSA charges $3.00 to cover the cost of searching its records. Humanitarian cases are handled free of charge.

Over the years, various news articles have directed readers to Social Security if they want to locate long lost friends or former sweethearts. Such requests are not approved.

If you have an urgent and compelling need to locate someone, the procedure to follow is: Prepare your correspondence to the missing individual, and place it in an unsealed envelope bearing the name and Social Security number (or, if you don't now the Social Security number, include the missing person's and parents' name). Prepare a letter to SSA that explains the circumstances that require you to locate the missing person. Place both letters and the unsealed, unstamped envelope in a second envelope and address it to: Social Security Administration, Office of Central Records Operations, 300 North Greene Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.
