Caprock Public Library News

by Arlene Hinkle
New books at Caprock Public Library include Dragon by Clive Cussler. Cussler's hero, Dirk Pitt, is described by New York Times Book Review as a combination of Boy Scout, Doc Savage, and James Bond. Pitt is usually one step ahead of his adversaries, but this time he is fighting a mighty war machine.

A treasure, which was donated to us is Spur Jingles and Saddle Songs by L. Gough. This little book published in 1935 is dedicated "To The Old Time Cow Puncher's Round Up Of Each Other On The T-Anchor Range" which met for the first time in August in 1922.

For Juveniles: The Big Wanderer by Will Hobbs. Clay's older brother decides to return home, but Clay continues his search for his uncle throughout the beautiful Southwest canyon country.

The Dark Frigate by Charles Boardman Hawes, a pirate tale from long ago.
HAPPY READING!

Turkey Fire Department Sponsors Annual Hamburger Supper

by Ann Coker
This Sunday, July 2nd, the Turkey Fire Department will be hosting their annual hamburger supper. Hamburgers, with all the trimmings, drinks and home made ice cream will be served. The Fire Boys will begin serving at 6 p.m. in the City Park and will serve as long as they have customers.

This year's hamburger supper is definitely catering to the children. The Women's Auxiliary will be providing several activities for the youth. They will be sponsoring booths, games, dart throws, touch football, bobbing for apples, musical dishpans—a new one to me, water balloon throws, tug-of-war, bean bag throw and lots of other activities. A few of the activities will require a small fee and the children need to wear clothing that they won't mind getting wet.

Anyone who would like to furnish a freezer of ice cream will be greatly appreciated.

The annual display of fire works will be presented when it becomes dark.
Hope to see you Sunday, July 2nd, at the Turkey City Park.

Safety Tips For Fourth of July

Use Caution With All Fireworks!!

To help Texans celebrate the Fourth of July holiday safely, the Texas Commission on Fire Protection offers the following safety tips:

1. Purchase fireworks only from a licensed vendor. Fireworks vendors must have a valid permit from the Texas Commission on Fire Protection.
2. Know the laws in your community. Many Texas cities and communities regulate the possession and use of fireworks. Contact local fire department or law enforcement authorities regarding fireworks rules in your community.

3. Read and follow all safety directions. Fireworks sold in Texas must be clearly labeled with safety instructions. The label must show that the fireworks conform to U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission and U. S. Department of Transportation standards.
4. Use fireworks outdoors only, in an open area away from houses and flammable materials. Be sure that fireworks—especially aerial fireworks—will not come into contact with or land on objects such as power lines or automobiles.

5. Keep a bucket of water handy while setting off fireworks. Use the water to pour on malfunctioning fireworks, to immerse minor burns, and to dispose of used sparklers.
6. Never give fireworks to children. Designate a responsible, sober adult to ignite the fireworks. Keep everyone—especially young children—a safe distance from where the fireworks are ignited.

7. Never touch a firework after it has been lit. If the firework malfunctions, do not try to re-light it or pick it up. Douse all used fireworks with water.
8. Don't make fireworks at home, and don't take fireworks apart or mix anything with the contents. Don't set off fireworks in metal, glass or other types of containers.

9. Never point or throw fireworks at another person.
10. Store fireworks in a cool, dry place. Never carry fireworks in your pocket.
11. Dispose of used fireworks properly. After you have finished lighting fireworks, pour water on the remains. Collect all used fireworks, put them in a metal container, and cover the remains with water again to reduce the chances of an accidental fire.

THEN and NOW!

by Eunice McFall

July Fourth is just around the corner and it is time for us to stop a moment and remember just how it is in our world that we are free to do with our lives as we would like to do! This freedom did not come without a great cost. Someone, somewhere, sometime had to give a lot of their life for us to be able to celebrate the Fourth of July each year as we choose to do. The birth of a nation as great as ours does not happen overnight nor does it happen without great cost to the people who are trying to gain their freedom.

We need to give thanks every day for those who made our lives the best that the world has ever known in any country. Sure we have problems, but not one of those problems is unsolvable. All it takes is for people to agree to put their heads together and work out a solution. Now I did not say it would be easy or cheap but it can be done!

Dale Carnegie once said that one of the most tragic things that he knew about human nature was that all of us tend to put off living. We are all dreaming of some magical rose garden over the horizon—instead of enjoying the roses that are blooming outside our windows today.

Good morale is critical to every organization, (nations included). No matter how capable the people, when morale sags, so does performance.

You can't build good morale once—and let it go at that. You have to maintain it on a day-to-day basis.

"The best morale," general Eisenhower once remarked, "exists when you rarely hear the word mentioned. When you hear a lot of talk about it, it's usually very poor."

It's not hard to spot low morale. The zest goes out of people's work. Loss of interest and enthusiasm shows in less effort and poorer results.

People can get disenchanted with their jobs for any number of reasons. Trying to find out why takes a willingness to talk and listen, to observe what bothers people, and to read between the lines of what they say and do. It's the only way to decide intelligently what, if anything, you can do about it.

Good pay is important to morale, but it's only part of the story. The most vital things is the knowledge that your leader cares about you as a person, not just as a means of turning out work. When you know that he or she is genuinely interested in you, your feelings, your problems and your ambitions, good attitudes come naturally.

People want to be appreciated. They like to know that what they do is significant, that they are an important part of a team effort. Most of them would like increased challenges and responsibility, a chance to be more important. They would like to see some hope for a brighter future.

You can't give your people everything they want all the time. But you can be aware of what they want, show some appreciation of how they feel, and satisfy their needs whenever possible. Doing this, on a daily basis, is what good morale is made of.

The only way to have good morale is to work at it—continuously. It demands constant attention to how people think and feel.

If England had listened to the colonists and tried to make their demands a reality, there might never have been a United States of America. Government officials of today could take note of how to keep the morale up for the people that are living under the laws and regulations that are passed by them.

Reading The Label

by Ronda Alexander

Do you read the label on each of the products that you purchase at the grocery store? If you don't, you might be surprised as to the ingredients found in some of your favorite foods.

With the new labeling laws, most products now have labels, with only a few minor exceptions. Because the label form has changed, it is now more difficult in some cases to actually understand what it means. Probably the most difficult thing to understand is the "% Daily Value." This percentage is for that portion of food based on the entire days meals, with an estimated calorie expenditure of 2,000. If you eat more or less than 2,000 calories daily, this percentage will be different.

Other areas to pay close attention to are the serving size and the ingredient listing. The serving sizes sometimes vary from product to product, and from the food guide pyramid's recommended servings. When reading the ingredient list, the ingredients are listed in order by amount of that ingredient contained in the food. You may be surprised to see some ingredients in certain foods as well as the amount of that ingredient. We have a publication available at the Briscoe County Office of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service on "Understanding Labels." Please let us know if we can be of any assistance.

A man who causes fear cannot be free from fear.

Local 4-Hers Complete At Cattle Shows

By Rebel L. Royall

The last two weekends have been extremely busy for a few Briscoe County 4-Hers. The Panhandle Parade of Breeds Steer and Heifer Show was held in Plainview, June 16 and 17 with Leland, Monty, and Kenda Wood and Donny Burson completing. Leland placed Reserve Breed Champion with his Charlois heifer and received a nice picture frame as his prize. Kenda also did well in the Charlois division with a second place finish. Our other animals did not fair as well as these two, but most set somewhere in the middle of their classes, which is a good place to be at this time in the feeding period. June 23-25 found our 4-Hers at the Golden Spread Classic in Amarillo. Again, the Wood bunch took high honors in the Charlois division. Monty's heifer, with Kenda at halter, took Grand Champion of the breed honors, while Leland's heifer was named Reserve Breed Champion. Monty will receive a belt buckle for his win, and Leland received a belt concho. Molly Brook's Heford heifer won first place in her division, but was beaten in the championship drive. Our steers, again fell somewhere in the middle of each class with Kenda Wood showing a 4th place Maine Anjou and Jeremiah Brooks a 6th place Maine Anjou. Leland and Monty Wood also exhibited steers. Some of these kids will be out again this weekend at the Whataburger Belt Buckle Bonanza in Austin. Be sure and let them know what a fine job they are doing with their cattle. They are good ambassadors for us and represent our county well at these stockshows.

Protect Yourself

In the United States more people are killed every year by lightning than tornadoes and hurricanes combined.

Protect yourself from the dangers of lightning during severe weather season. If you are outside and see lightning go inside a substantial shelter. Avoid using electrical appliances or the telephone unless there is an emergency. Lightning can strike near a building and travel through power lines into the building.

If you must be outside during lightning activity stay away from metal surfaces and objects, water, large trees standing alone, and sheds in open area.

Just before lightning strikes your hair may begin to stand on end. Immediately drop to your knees and make your body into a ball allowing minimal contact with the ground. Do not lie down; the wet ground can conduct lightning.

Boxelder Bugs A Problem In Lawns

by Rebel L. Royall
In the last few weeks I've had several question about Boxelder Bugs. These bugs suck sap out of kinder growth, flowers and fruit, primarily on box elder trees. Hence the name Boxelder Bug.

Their worst habit seems to be in the fall when they swarm on walls, or venture indoors in droves looking for places to hibernate.

In the spring, (as in our current case), the adults come out of hibernation, and swarm outdoors. They lay eggs in cracks etc. and in tree bark. Their offspring (bright red nymphs) hatch shortly after that. They feed until fall, and mature to 1/2 inch long black bugs with red undersides and black stripes. Two generations of these can occur per year.

Weldon Griffins Host Woods Reunion

Weldon and Billie Jeane (Woods) Griffin hosted a Woods family reunion last week-end.

Attending were Louise (Woods) Grundy, Quitaque and her daughters, Wallace and Aubrey Lou (Grundy) Slayton, Plainview, Earlette (Grundy) Anderson, Plainview, Adell (Grundy) Winston, Kirkland, Washington, Sue (Grundy) Shannon and her daughter, Catherine and her children from Roaring Springs, and Jerry Beth (Grundy) Tyler and two granddaughters from Plainview.

Two of Sonny Woods daughters attended, Mary (Woods) Ranky and her friend Bert Goodfallow from Bedford, Texas and Alvin and Thelma (Woods) Swann of Clovis, New Mexico.

Also enjoying the week-end were Bill Woods' two children, Earl Lee and Ann Woods of Arlington and the hosts, Weldon and Billie Jeane (Woods) Griffin of Quitaque.

Two of Sonny's daughters were unable to attend. Louise and Bill's children had not seen their cousins Mary and Thelma since they had attended Sonny's funeral 39 years ago.

Salad Bar Savvy

By Ronda Alexander

How much salad bar savvy do you have? Do you think that you are eating healthy and lite, just because you are having a salad? Well, you might want to rethink that idea. Salad bars can be very tricky. Although the majority of your salad bar choices are healthy, there are a few that aren't. Fresh fruits and vegetables are good choices because they are relatively low in fat and calories. Some salad bar selections you might want to reconsider are olives, cheddar cheese, bacon bits and sunflower seeds. Beware of related items in these food categories. They can quickly add a few calories and lots of fat. Other selections to be wary of are salad dressings and prepared salads like potato, pasta or coleslaw. If low calorie salad dressing are unavailable, then make your own with vinegar and oil. Use a lot of vinegar and just a little oil. Pre-made potato salads, pasta salads and coleslaw are usually made with lots of fat. So think twice before piling these on your plate.

Myopic parents may be more likely to have myopic children. Early eye exams can detect myopia and offer treatment options.

The best time for you, the homeowner, to take control of these bugs is now, during their swarming stages. You should spray your trees and yard with malathion or diazinon. I've been told that the malathion has not worked very well, so maybe you should try the diazinon first. Thoroughly wet the foliage and trunk of your trees, and repeat the spraying as reinfestation occurs.

The Boxelder Bug has proven to be a very hard adversary to kill. You may not be very satisfied after you spray. They are very bad about migrating from other yards and fields. But don't give up the fight, or you will have to live with the critters until they hibernate again in the late fall.

The Valley Tribune, Quitaque, Texas, Thursday, June 29, 1995 Texas Livestock Owners Alerted To Watch For Vesicular Stomatitis

by Rebel L. Royall

Texas livestock and horse owners are being urged to be on the lookout for animals with excessive salivation, loss of appetite, blisters or lesions around their mouths, tongues, hooves or teats, a sign that their livestock has been affected by the virus, Vesicular Stomatitis.

Vesicular Stomatitis, which is usually not fatal, has been confirmed in horses in New Mexico in three regions: in a 15 mile area round Las Cruces, and in 30 mile areas around Albuquerque and Silver City. A task force from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Veterinary Services has been dispatched to the state to assist state personnel with diagnosis and quarantining of infected animals.

In Texas, the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC) is urging producers to be alert to signs of the infection, so that immediate action may be taken to halt the spread of disease, which has an incubation period of two to eight days. If compatible symptoms are noticed in any animals in a herd, veterinarians or owners should call their TAHC area office, or the headquarters in Austin at 512/719-0700, or the USDA at 512/482-5555. An animal health inspector or veterinarian will be sent to the premise to assist in making a diagnosis. Affected and exposed animals will be quarantined for 30 days after the last lesions heal.

Vesicular Stomatitis is usually not fatal and has occurred with varying frequency in North and South America. Typically, the infection affects cattle, horses or swine, but sheep and goats, deer, bobcats and raccoons can also become infected. Initially, an outbreak may be caused by insect vectors, but then the virus can move from animal to animal by contact with the fluid from ruptured lesions, or saliva. Persons who handle potentially infected animals should wear rubber or latex gloves, as they can contract the virus and develop symptoms including fever, muscle aches and headache.

Infected animals develop painful blisters that swell and break, leaving raw tissue that cause them to refuse water or food. The blisters also may appear around the top of hooves, resulting in temporary lameness. Severe weight loss accompanies the infection, and in dairy cattle, a dramatic drop in milk production occurs.

"Affected animals will usually recover in about two weeks from Vesicular Stomatitis," said Dr. Max Coats, state epidemiologist for the TAHC. "There is no specific treatment or cure, except preventing a secondary infection where the blisters have broken."

"A major concern about Vesicular Stomatitis is that the signs in cattle, sheep and swine are similar to the dangerous foreign animal infection, foot-and-mouth disease. Only laboratory tests can determine which virus has infected an animal. We are always on guard against foreign animal diseases, and that's why it is very important to know which disease has affected a herd," said Dr. Coats.

In New Mexico, state and federal personnel are investigating 37 reports of affected animals. The team is advising livestock owners to avoid congregating animals, to prevent the spread of infection. A number of horse shows, rodeos and livestock exhibitions in southern New Mexico have been canceled.

"Animals with any Vesicular Stomatitis symptoms should not be moved from the premise, as this could spread disease to other farms and ranches. The owners or veterinarians should call the TAHC or USDA immediately for diagnostic assistance," said Dr. Coats. "To aid in preventing infection, flies should be controlled, and persons should remember to use rubber gloves if they handle any animals that appear to have been infected."

Myopic Parents And Offspring

(NAPS)—A recent study shows myopic or nearsighted parents may be more likely to produce nearsighted children.

The study, done at the University of California at Berkeley, has uncovered information that, in the future, may help eye care professionals detect myopia more easily in the early stages.

Myopia can create problems at any age. For children, it can create problems in school since they may not be able to see the blackboard or take part in sports.

"The impact of an early eye examination can be dramatic and long lasting," said Paula Newsome, O.D., of the Better Vision Institute. "If your child is myopic, glasses, contact lenses and vision therapy are three options offered by eye-care professionals."

For more information, call The Better Vision Institute, P.O. Box 77097, Washington, D.C. 20013 or call 1-800-424-8422. Outside the United States, call 703-243-1528.

Juanita Owens was taken to the Tulia Hospital one day last week. When she is able she will be taken to the Tulia Nursing Home.

Coker celebrated his 39th birthday last Saturday. Our daughter, Linda and family called and they all sang Happy Birthday to him. Zach and Josh sang the loudest. He also received a call from Brenda who called on her car phone between Junction and Sabin. Kim, Lisa and Makenzie also called. Makenzie is too young to sing, but he could hear her talking!

Keith Lane and daughter, Jonda have been recent visitors in Turkey. Jan Lane was already here. Jan, Keith and Jonda all drove to DeSota last week-end to visit with their son and brother, Jeffrey. The Lanes returned to their home in Greeley last Monday.

Wasn't the rain nice last week? We received 2/10 on Thursday night and another 6/10 on Friday night. It all soaked in. The Wolf Flat area received more rain, probably an inch or more on Friday night.

Connie Dvorak and sons, Benjamin and Matthew arrived a week ago Tuesday to spend some time with Connie's mother, Linda Ferguson. Connie had to travel to Dallas on business and went home to Tulsa from Dallas. Bob Dvorak arrived on Friday and picked up the two boys and they returned to their home in Tulsa, Oklahoma on Saturday.

Bonnie Brown of Amarillo visited Louis and Oleta Randell one day last week.

Visiting Oneal and Nadine Davis last Friday were Garwayne and Rita Wills from Kermit, Texas.

Clifton and Joy Stodghill of Silverton visited Louis and Oleta Randell Wednesday evening.

Perhaps the greatest social service that can be rendered by anybody to the country and to mankind is to bring up a family. But here again, because there is nothing to sell, there is a very general disposition to regard a married woman's work as no work at all, and to take it as a matter of course that she should not be paid for it.

Week-End Reunion Of Turkey Class Of 1955

by Ann Coker
The members of the Class of 1955 who attended Turkey Schools will begin gathering on June 30th, Friday afternoon at Hotel Turkey. The members plan to be there around 4 p.m. They will enjoy an evening meal on Friday.

Those attending the reunion will have a Worship Service Sunday morning at the hotel before brunch. Following brunch the group will leave for home from what we hope is a fun filled week-end.

Boll Weevil Counts Lower Than Expected

by Rebel L. Royall
Believe it or not, boll weevil counts across the high plains region are running slightly lower than expected for this time of year. According to Plains Cotton Growers this could be attributed to the unseasonably low temperatures we have been having.

Briscoe County, however, still tends to be recording relatively high numbers in the four active county traps. For the week ending May 22, 1995, one hundred and fifty seven weevils were caught. That averages 39.25 weevils in each trap. This number is well above the spraying recommendations of 4 weevils per trap.

Most of the weevil activity to date seems to be in the eastern part of the county, however, as the cotton crop continues to develop we could see weevil infestation across the entire county.

CARD OF THANKS

A belated thank you to the Flomot community for the kindness shown at my Uncle Berry Barham's funeral. It was a kind thing for the community to treat everyone to a respite before their long drive home. It was very much appreciated.

Old friends are truly the best and Berry had a lot of good friends in Flomot. He loved Flomot and the people.

God bless all of you.

Advice On Herbal Teas

by Ronda Alexander

The following article was written by Extension Nutrition Specialist, Mary Kay Bielamowicz. For those of you who are herbal tea drinkers, I thought that you might find this information useful.

Many people are being told to give herbal supplements and teas to family members including babies to build up the immune system, to soothe the colic in babies and for various other medicinal reasons. Some herbal teas contain a certain type of anticoagulant (coumarin) in sufficient enough quantities to disrupt normal coagulation, according to the Journal of the American Dietetic Association, May 1995 issue.

Teas made of three coumarin-containing herbs (tonka beans, melilot and woodruff) seemed to display the effects. These three plants contain coumarin, but the type of coumarin and the amount that would be present in tea made from the herbs were unknown.

Giving herbal preparations such as herbal teas or supplements for medicinal purposes is unwarranted unless upon the advice of a physician. Check with your family doctor before taking or giving any herbal supplement or tea just to insure the safety of this practice.

The importance of using and listening only to sound medical advice can never be underestimated.

Readers Hungry For Information

Reading the newspaper, it seems, is a great way to whet your appetite. More than three-fourths of shoppers surveyed recently said they would be buying at least some groceries because of ads for a particular store in the newspaper.

The great man is the man who does a thing for the first time.

HOW TO DISPLAY THE FLAG

When the flag is displayed over the middle of the street, it should be suspended vertically with the union to the north in an east and west street or to the east in a north and south street.

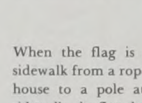

The flag of the United States of America, when it is displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, should be on the right, the flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

The flag, when flown at half-staff, should be first hoisted to the peak for an instant and then lowered to the half-staff position. The flag should be again raised to the peak before it is lowered for the day. By "half-staff" is meant lowering the flag to one-half the distance between the top and bottom of the staff. Crepe streamers may be affixed to spear heads or flagstaffs in a parade only by order of the President of the United States.

When flags of States, cities, or localities, or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the flag of the United States, the latter should always be at the peak. When the flags are flown from adjacent staffs, the flag of the United States should be hoisted first and lowered last. No such flag or pennant may be placed above the flag of the United States or to the right of the flag of the United States.

When the flag is suspended over a sidewalk from a rope extending from a house to a pole at the edge of the sidewalk, the flag should be hoisted, union first, from the building.

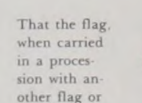

When the flag of the United States is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony, or front of a building, the union of the flag should be placed at the peak of the staff unless the flag is at half-staff.

When the flag is displayed in a manner other than by being flown from a staff, it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out.

When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, that is, to the observer's left. When displayed in a window it should be displayed in the same way, that is, with the union or blue field to the left of the observer in the street. When festoons, rosettes or drapings are desired, bunting of blue, white and red should be used, but never the flag.

That the flag, when carried in a procession with another flag or flags, should be either on the marching right; that is, the flag's own right, or, if there is a line of other flags, in front of the center of that line.

The flag of the United States of America should be at the center and at the highest point of the group when a number of flags of States or localities or pennants of societies are grouped and displayed from staffs.
