Sarpalius Appointed To Key Senate Committees

Sen. Bill Sarpalius today was appointed to four key Senate committees and to continue his role as chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Agriculture.

Sarpalius, D-Canyon, was assigned to serve on the Natural Resources, State Affairs, Education and Nominations committees in addition to retaining his subcommittee chairmanship. The appointments were announced by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby as the 70th Legislature convened here to begin its 140-day regular session.

The senator said he was pleased with the assignments and that each will be beneficial to the people of the 31st Senatorial District.

"There are no better committees in the Senate than the five we're serving on," Sarpalius said. "All you have to do is look at the subjects that come before those committees to realize how important they are to the people of the Panhandle and South Plains."

Sarpalius has served on the Natural Resources Committee and chaired its Subcommittee on Agriculture since he was a freshman senator in 1981. He joined the State Affairs and Education committees in 1983. This year marks the first time he will serve on the Nominations Committee.

The Natural Resources Committee is responsible for hearing all legislation relating to oil and gas, wildlife and agriculture. The subcommittee specializes in agriculture matters, making recommendations to the full committee on specific agriculture legislation and conducting interim studies on agriculture-related issues for the committee.

State Affairs Committee members hear a broad range of legislation and traditionally deal with about 60 percent of all bills introduced in a legislative session. The Education Committee deals with all public education and higher education issues. Sarpalius is the only former teacher serving on the Education Committee.

Nominations, the senator's newest committee, is responsible for reviewing all gubernatorial appointments to state boards and commissions and recommending to the Senate which should be confirmed. Sarpalius said he hopes his new assignment will serve as a reminder that gubernatorial appointments should come from all parts of the state, not just the major downstate urban centers.

Sen. Sarpalius is in an Amarillo hospital in satisfactory condition after undergoing surgery Jan. 14 to remove a loose bone fragment near his spinal column and to perform a second bone fusion on a damaged vertebra.

Sarpalius injured his back in a Dec. 26 off-road vehicle accident. The accident occurred while he was on a family outing with his son at the Canadian River in northeast Oldham County.

Doctors are not sure how soon Sarpalius will be able to resume his legislative duties, but the senator is hopeful he will be back on the job by the third week in February.

Commissioners Begin New Year

The Hall County Commissioners Court, with newly sworn in U. F. Coker, Jr. of Turkey fulfilling commissioner duties for the first time, met Monday, Jan. 12, in the Commissioners Courtroom, Memphis.

After the Commissioners dispensed with routine business, accepting reports, examining and approving payments of bills for which there were no questions concerning, and hearing the County Treasurer's and County Sheriff's reports, the Court handled its agenda of matters.

The Commissioners approved by a vote of 3 to 1 paying the Hall County Deputy Sheriffs an additional $1.00 per month or 20 hours for their overtime pay. This salary increase for Sheriff Deputies has been tabled for the past few months.

Publisher's Corner

—By Frank Adams

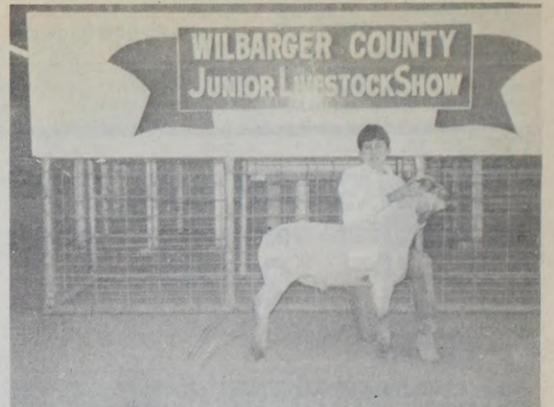

Your encouragement and hospitality meant a great deal to Patty and me when we visited Thursday prior to assuming duties as publishers of The Valley Tribune.

We are fortunate in having Barbara Mayfield to serve as Tribune editor and advertising manager. We are grateful to Lottie Owens who has consented to show Barbara "the ropes" for a couple of weeks. In Turkey, we are pleased to have Nadine Baisden who will continue to furnish news and advertising from her community.

Our major goals for this paper are: 1. to speak truth with accuracy and fairness. 2. to present both sides of issues and include information about which you have a right to know and which affects your lives. 3. to provide, along with news items, articles and event coverage about which you enjoy reading. 4. to be positive in tone, outlook, and image.

While this newspaper will, at times, have out-of-town advertising, we advocate "shopping at home" as much as possible. We believe in giving your merchants the opportunity to supply your needs.

Both of us enjoyed meeting many citizens and merchants in both Quitaque and Turkey. We are looking forward to working together as we endeavor to continue publication of The Valley Tribune.

LET'S TALK TURKEY
 By Nadine Baisden

As Patty Adams stated in her column "Editor's Viewpoint" from the Paducah Post, "It's time to climb back upon my soap box again!"

The city employees under the direction of Jerry Laundry were very busy this past week getting old junked cars moved out of our town to an area on the Virgil Blakney place. Virgil was very generous in donating this area for this project and we say many thanks, Virgil.

The Turkey Quilting Club was very busy this past week doing their monthly project of getting two quilts quilted at the Sr. Citizens Room at the Bob Willis Center.

Merchandise and writer, Beth Butler from Amarillo Colleges Current Magazine stated "as far as I can tell girls toys, are anything promoting drudgery and banality. . . boys toys are any items relating to mayhem and destruction."

Another thing we see in the papers every day how drugs destroy lives. . . "God didn't put people on this earth to be stoned and half out of it all the time."

Our weather really changed from warm to cold this past weekend. It's getting cloudy and colder, said a spokesman for the N. M. police, and the weather liars are predicting snow. Well, this time they were right.

We of Turkey were proud to see the picture of Kirk Saul among the four 1986 Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame special achievement award winners, as a national record-setting quarterback for Valley High School.

That's -30- for this time, remember, don't talk about yourself, that will be done as soon

Superintendent's Corner

By Wilbur Leeper

The State Board of Education in Austin has revised, and then revised the revision to develop a Discipline Management Plan compatible with the needs of schools in Texas. A number of changes have been made to the original Plan, making it more usable in dealing with unruly students. The original Plan made it difficult to discipline students without unnecessary appeal procedures.

One function of the Discipline Management Plan is to designate a method of providing continuing education opportunities for students who were removed from the classroom for incorrigibility. Under this Plan, it is assumed that is is best for the student to be provided for his continuing education than to expel him and put a possible delinquent out on the street. If one method doesn't work, then the alternative punishment would be to suspend the student from school with still opportunities to continue his education. As a last resort, an incorrigible student may be suspended from all educational rights.

The most commonly used method to deal with students who persist in misbehavior and are incorrigible is to place them in a supervised educational setting called "in-school suspension." At Valley School a special area of the school has been designated for this purpose. At such times a teacher or aide is assigned to supervise the student and will always be on duty. In this setting, the student receives assignments/instruction in each course to the extent possible. Little or no opportunity will be allowed for social interaction with friends. Lunch and restroom breaks will occur while other students are in class. In-school suspension may continue until the end of the semester, or longer if the infraction occurs during the last six weeks of school. Cooperation by the student could decrease the stay.

More serious misbehavior or continued incorrigibility could cause the student to be assigned to home-based instruction or suspended from school altogether. Suspension from class or from school has not been necessary at Valley.

Last year was the first time that all eleventh grade students in Texas were required to take an exit level test to see if they were eligible and qualified to receive a diploma. The test performance by the Valley Juniors exceeded all expectations with 100 percent passage of the test. This year's 11th graders were given the exit test in November and the results show again 100 percent passage. That's great! Results from the math portion of the test indicates that the class as a whole rank on the national scale percentile rank of 89. The average score nationwide is 50. The language art score earned by these 11th graders is the 70th percentile and 55 rank in reading.

Football and basketball game officials continue to compliment our school on the good conduct of Valley students. One official recently stated, "I'm amazed and impressed with the attitude and conduct of these Valley kids." This statement only confirms what we already know and enjoy. Valley School takes pride in the reputation the students have established and thoroughly appreciate the expressed compliments. This compliment is passed on to parents, teachers, coaches, and the community.

The Valley J. V. Tournament will be held this weekend. The next Varsity home game will be Tuesday, the 27th. Come out and watch the Patriots play. You will be impressed.

Valley Jr. High

The Valley Jr. High boys and girls played Lakeview on Jan. 12, 1987 with the Lakeview boys coming out on top by a score of Lakeview 32, Valley 17.

The girls game was won by the Valley team in a close contest.

Final score was Valley 29 - Lakeview 24.

Leading scorer for the Valley boys was Clardy with 7 points, Williams scored 4 points; S. Silva, Brittain and N. Gray each scored 2 points.

Leading scorer for the Valley Jr. High girls was Clay with 10 points. Mullin scored 9 points; Pinkerton, 8 points; and Stark, 2 points.

Piano Students Attend Concert

Mrs. Ross Herrington took some of her more advanced students during the Christmas holidays to a Christmas concert featuring the Plainview Symphony Orchestra. Those attending other than Mrs. Herrington were Melissa Maupin, Amy Maupin, Gina Conner, Joe Morrison, and Kimberly Burson, Tara Nance, Silverton.

These young musicians and teacher first had dinner at Furr's Cafeteria. Then, before the concert they toured up and down holiday Street which featured thousands of Christmas lights beautifully decorating each home. This was breathtaking. Next they attended the Christmas Concert at Herral Memorial Auditorium. Plainview is the smallest city in Texas to feature a Symphony Orchestra. It is composed of talented musicians from Plainview, Lubbock, Amarillo and surrounding area.

The program was outstanding and first featured the "Star Spangled Banner", "The Nutcracker Suite" by Tchaikovsky, "Piano Concerto" by Grieg, Opus 16 with artist Mark Pair, soloist, at the piano. The second half of the program was devoted entirely to Christmas music with numbers by the young Junior Guild and Symphony Chorus. Outstanding selections included "Away in a Manger", "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear", "The Syncopated Clock", "The Christmas Song", "Sleigh Ride" and others. The program was enhanced by the continuous changing of Christmas background scenes and fantastic lighting displays.

This was truly a rich experience for all and left each enthusiastic and looking forward to future presentations.

Fort Sill Okla., Jan. 16 -- The Bronze Star Medal was awarded posthumously today to Staff Sergeant William G. Buchanan, 1st Cavalry Division. The medal was presented by Maj. General Cliff Andrus, commanding general, the Artillery Center, to Porter Buchanan, Turkey, Texas, father of the sergeant.

Other members of the sergeant's family who were present for the ceremony included his mother, brother Alfred Buchanan of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Buchanan of Sterley, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Buchanan, A. C. and Lewis Buchanan of Turkey.

In the residential contest the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Meacham was awarded first place. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Barnhill was awarded second. In the business district Stewart Funeral Home was awarded first place.

Judges were Mrs. J. V. Mohon and Mrs. Lewis Eudy. The Lions Club fully appreciate these two young matrons and hereby express its proud thanks.

A note from Bill Hardcastle, a Turkey former mayor, who now hangs out around Meridian: "Enclosed find check for $1.50 so we can enjoy and keep up with all you guys, of course if it was so I could go to Hill & Hill Cafe for coffee every morning, I wouldn't need the paper."

Texans Eligible To Bid On Forfeited Land

Information on 106 tracts of state land included in a February high bid sale of forfeited Veterans tracts is now available to both Texas Veterans and the general public, Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro announced today.

All tracts are open to bids from the general public as well as Texas Veterans. Bids may be placed on more than one tract.

Located in 56 Texas counties, the tracts range in size from 10 acre tracts in several counties to an 80 acre tract in Yoakum County. Tracts are also available in the Childress area.

A public reading of bids submitted to the Texas Veterans Land Board will be held on February 25, 1987 at 10 a.m. in Room 831 of the Stephen F. Austin Bldg. at 1700 N. Congress in Austin.

"I want to urge all Texans that have been looking for good land to take advantage of this unusual high-bid sale. Everybody has an equal shot at winning under this arrangement," said Mauro, who serves as chairman of the Texas Veterans Land Board.

"Naturally, there's an enormous interest in a sale of this kind," Mauro said, "so I urge you to get out as soon as possible, take a look at the tracts that interest you and get your bids in."

The sale will be by sealed bid only with a minimum bid set by the Veterans Land Board. All bids must be received by the board before February 25, 1987, at 10 a.m., at which time the bidding will close. Any and all bids received after that time and date will be rejected. Bidders need not be present at the bid opening.

Texas Veterans submitting winning bids will pay an interest rate of 8.75 percent while winning bids from non-veterans will pay 11.47%. Both will carry a 30-year assumable fixed-rate loan. A $25

The BACKYARD NATURALIST™

By Craig Tufts, National Wildlife Federation

The Attraction of Grasses

Think of "landscaping grasses" and most of us picture an expanse of manicured green lawn. But there are many other kinds of grasses that can be used in place of shrubs or perennials: tall, graceful, murmuring grasses that look great all-year round (with once-a-year cutting); some that can be plucked to make dry-grass arrangements; and, as a bonus, most are highly attractive to wildlife (especially to birds and butterflies) for both food and shelter.

Meadows and prairies are primarily grasses. The grasses lie thick under the showy meadow wildflowers—sort of like the noodles under a colorful pasta sauce (though I admit that image may have occurred to me in one of my hungrier moments). At any rate, the flowers give the whole mass flavor and character, while the grasses give a meadow substance and structure.

Whether your yard can accommodate a meadow or just a spot or two of decorative grasses, here are some native kinds to consider:

- Switch grass (Panicum virgatum): A tall (4 to 6-foot), dense-stemmed grass that hisses and rustles pleasantly in winter winds. It's a good soil binder, and is often used in erosion control work. Its dense growth makes it good wildlife habitat and its large seeds attract a wide variety of sparrows. Its bleached blond winter color enhances a landscape.

moistened with water—probably a help to these light seeds in reaching the soil through dense, unburnt prairie thatch.

- Broom sedge (Andropogon virginicus): A relative of big bluestem, it is intense pinkish-orange in winter, spectacular against new-fallen snow. Its tiny seeds are relished by a number of sparrow species.

- Big bluestem (Andropogon gerardi): Another tall (4 to 6-foot) grass, a mainstay of midwestern U.S. prairies, and as excellent a forage for cattle as it once was for buffalo. Its early-summer first leaves are blue, but its flowering heads are deep purple. Its texture is quite delicate.
- Indian grass (Sorghastrum nutans): Another tall grass, and one in color

If you'd like to seek out some native grasses available for landscaping you'll find a good resource in Grasses, an Identification Guide by Lauren Brown. There's still time this winter to harvest some seeds from nearby meadows or to order seeds from a nursery or mail-order house that sells grasses, as species or within mixtures. Why not give grasses a try?

Congressman Beau Boulter Reports from Washington

HIGH EXPECTATIONS AND REALISTIC APPROACHES

At the beginning of any endeavor, expectations run a little high. The beginning of the historic 100th session of Congress was no exception. As my colleagues and I in the House of Representatives took our oaths of office and began work last week, high hopes and higher ideals combined to create an atmosphere which many of us hoped would lead to solutions to the many problems challenging our nation.

In particular, many of us from the farm belt are looking forward to passing legislation that will finally help return prosperity to the American farm. And while expectations are currently very high, what is needed right now is not unrealistic illusions, but common sense proposals that will aid the American farmer in regaining his valuable foreign markets.

Helping to increase U.S. agricultural exports was just what I had in mind last week, when I began work on what will be one of my main legislative efforts during the 100th Congress. On the first day of the new session, I introduced a revised version of my original Foreign Agricultural Investment Reform (F.A.I.R.) Act.

Regular readers of this column will recall some of the details of this legislation from last session. As was the case with the original F.A.I.R. bill, the new legislation targets for elimination loans made by multilateral lending institutions, such as the World Bank, for the purpose of enhancing foreign agriculture and mineral production. In most cases, these loans are used for the production and export of commodities which are already in surplus on world markets, further depressing commodity prices and eroding the already declining U.S. market shares.

Through its participation as the major contributor to these institutions, the U.S. government has, in effect, been supporting the foreign competition of U.S. producers.

The new F.A.I.R. bill, however, goes a step further, and is much tougher than my original bill. In particular, the new measure dictates that, whenever practical, foreign assistance should be made in the form of surplus agricultural commodities, instead of the traditional cash payments.

A proposal of this type promises to cut the taxpayer's cost of storing commodities, while at the same time reducing the incredibly large domestic surpluses that are strangling our producers. It will also ensure that our foreign assistance is used to aid the unfortunate, and will reduce the cost to the taxpayer of our extravagant foreign aid programs.

In the weeks and months to come, I'm planning on focusing the majority of my efforts on this and other legislative initiatives, all aimed at promoting realistic approaches to the very real problems we are facing in North Texas and the Panhandle. I have every hope that the enthusiasm and intensity that characterized the beginning of the new Congress will carry over into this vital work we need to accomplish. The prosperity of many Americans depends on it.

Second Hand Smoke Hazardous Health

The American Heart Association issues a new warning to all Texans: exposure to second-hand smoke may be hazardous to your health.

The Heart Association's warning matches similar findings released by the U.S. Surgeon General late last year. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, M.D. presented scientific evidence on the harm to non-smokers of breathing exhaled smoke or the smoke coming from the tip of a burning cigarette.

The Heart Association says pregnant women should not smoke, and parents who smoke should avoid exposing their children to the harmful effects of involuntary smoking.

"The evidence on smoking or health has been air-tight for years," says Addison A. Taylor, M.D., president of the Heart Association in Texas. "But recent evidence strongly points to a connection between second-hand smoke and increased risk of heart disease." This is the first time the Heart Association has commented on the risk of cigarette smoke in the air around non-smokers.

"The Surgeon General's report is the most comprehensive collection of scientific evidence on the hazards of passive smoke," says Taylor. "The implications are alarming. The health of non-smokers must be protected. The most logical way is to restrict smoking in public places."

Caprock Comments

As the new owners of this newspaper take over, it is our hope that they will be welcomed by the local folks. We've found them to be good citizens of the small rural areas and take pride in doing the best job they possibly can in providing a good weekly newspaper and promoting things in the Community. They attempt to fill the local paper with local news rather than the canned stuff from Austin or Washington. Local folks pitch in and help them try to make the local paper more interesting by contributing whatever they can to accomplish that goal, which brings around the reason for this column.

First: there is no reason at all, so don't be guilty of taking it very serious because it isn't. We have been doing something similar for many years in our local paper. Some like it, some don't; some read it, some don't. Some could care less either way. So in that respect, it's not much different from everything else. Its purpose, (if it has one) is to provide a chuckle here and there, a comment now and then, nothing earthshaking any time, and something you can read and forget it and still not lose any sleep. If you enjoy it, that's fine, if you don't, that also proves you read it, so either way it accomplishes very little to say the least!

So we can guarantee that it will be as understandable and make as much sense as a politician, an economist, a Government employee, or which there are many, or someone that don't know much about anything but insist on saying it anyhow!

It will be clean in every way, except grammatically, so please, no corrections from the English teachers. Us uneducated Country Folks (see there) have our own way of expressing ourselves and if it's a little-bit offbeat, please don't be offended. We just don't know any better!

We like all kinds of sports, humor, wit and wisdom, talking about the weather, rural people and their conversation, Country music, also the old favorites and bragging about how busy we are, how early we get up in the morning, how far we walked to school and the Great Depression. All this proves that we don't know as much as teenagers, because they already know everything!

We don't like big Cities, crowded shopping malls, heavy traffic, stuck-up folks, gripers, pessimists, know-it-alls and rhubarb pie, nor loud rock music which hits the same note for 15 minutes and words you can't understand!

Incidentally, did you hear about the farmer who crossed a rooster with a rooster? You know what he got... A ver cross rooster!

Or, that guy who drove up into the farmer's yard and asked "how much is that old bull worth to you?" "Well, that depends" said the farmer, "Are you the tax assessor, do you really want to buy him, or have you run him with a truck?"

In today's world, large families are getting so expensive that only po-folks can afford them!

In fact, things are more like they are right now than they have ever been before!

That's -30- for this time, remember, our foreign policy is rated fair to meddin!

Anemia May Not Be Just "Tired Blood"

"Tired blood" or "low blood" is what many people call anemia. But feeling tired or run-down doesn't always mean you have anemia. And the Texas Medical Association says even if you are diagnosed as having anemia, iron tablets are not always the answer. Anemia has many causes -- some potentially serious -- and different kinds of anemia require different treatments.

The main component of red blood cells is the protein hemoglobin, which combines with oxygen in the lungs and carries it throughout the body, and releases it to those tissues that require it. Anemia is defined as a decrease in either hemoglobin or red blood cells to below the normal level. Iron is an essential ingredient in

Oil Production Down
Lloyd Bentsen United States Senator

By 1990 -- just three years from now -- the United States can expect its production of oil to have fallen by 232 million barrels a year.

By the turn of the century, domestic oil production will plummet by 532 million barrels annually -- to the lowest level since 1961 -- according to a study I requested from the Library of Congress.

The results of this study are discouraging and disturbing. U. S. Oil producers have fooled experts over the past 15 years. Through good times and bad, they have maintained annual production at a steady rate of three billion barrels a year.

But this report states we can expect oil production to fall by 17 percent over the next 15 years, to 2.5 billion barrels annually. That much of a decline in production -- coupled with an increase in demand -- would sharply increase our dependence on foreign oil.

We have already seen a sharp jump in foreign oil dependence during the past year. In 1985, about 27 percent of the oil we consumed came from foreign countries. By last count in 1986, our dependence on oil imports had jumped to over 40 percent.

Since most sources elsewhere are already pumping oil flat out, more and more of the foreign oil we buy will come from the Persian Gulf. Fully 80 percent of our new oil imports will be provided by OPEC.

We must take steps to ensure that our national security will not be held hostage to the whims and manipulations of OPEC oil sheiks. In the 100th Congress, I am again introducing legislation which would require the government to take extraordinary steps if U. S. dependence on foreign oil threatens to exceed half the oil our country consumes.

As Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, I will be pushing for early action on this measure.

My bill would require the President to submit each year to Congress a three-year projection of U. S. production, demand and imports.

For any year in which oil imports are projected to exceed 50 percent of demand, the President would have to develop a plan for holding dependence below 50-percent. My legislation does not tell the President what steps to take. That would be left up to him. Obviously, to be effective, the plan must include measures to conserve energy and encourage domestic oil production.

The only proposal so far that could achieve both goals is an oil import fee, which I hope the President will seriously consider as part of any plan he might present at some point down the road.

An oil import fee would stabilize oil prices and domestic production in this country -- providing the most effective means for holding down our dependence on foreign oil.

Events of the 1970's taught us that some nations are willing to try to influence our national policies by using energy blackmail.

We must not allow that to happen again.

Travel Up, Deaths Down in Texas

Reports are in for the first full year under the Texas mandatory safety belt law, and they are good. From September 1, 1985 through August 30, 1986, Texas residents and visitors traveled more miles by automobile than ever before. They buckled up at the rate of 65% in the front seats of their cars and light trucks. And they cut fatalities in those seating positions by an estimated eight percent, said George R. Gustafson, president of the Texas Safety Association.

Gustafson quoted preliminary statistics from the Texas Department of Public Safety, which show that 2,048 people were killed in the driver's and front passenger's seats of cars and light trucks during the first 12 months under the law. That's about eight percent below the 2,234 killed in those seating positions in the previous 12 months. Final statistics won't be available until later this year, according to David Wells, public information officer at the DPS.
