Secretary Morgenthau on Costs of New Deal-Realignment of NRA Codes-Interesting Results of Recent Primaries.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY apply only to certain seasons and thus MORGENTHAU, in his first speech are not as objectionable to domestic since taking office, forecast an eventual inflation of $2,800,000,000 by announcing the treasury

expects sooner or later to apply its gold "profthe national debt. "For the present this $2,800,000,000 is under lock and key," Mr. Morgenthau said. Most of it, by authority of congress, is segregated in the socalled stabilization fund, and for the present we propose to keep it there. But I call your attention to the fact that ultimately we expect this 'profit' to flow back into the stream of our other revenues and thereby reduce the national debt."

The "profit" in question accrued through a bookkeeping operation when the amount of gold fixed by law as the equivalent of $1 was reduced from 23.22 grains to 13.71 grains. This meant that an ounce of gold was worth $20.67 one day and the next had a value of $35.

Just previously the treasury had taken title to all the monetary gold in the country, paying for it at the $20.67 rate. On every ounce it made a "prof-It" of $14.33, the difference between the purchase figure and $35.

The secretary gave in figures his es timate of the cost of the New Deal. Against an increase of $6,000,000, 000 in the national debt, he asserted. various assets should be deducted. He listed them as follows:

An increase of $1,600,000,000 in the treasury's cash balance since March 4,

The gold "profit," amounting to $2,-800,000,000

An increase in the net assets of agencies wholly owned or financed by the government, amounting to $1,005,-000,000.

Morgenthau did not carry the proposition through to its arithmetical conclusion, but the cost of the New Deal under his theory would amount to $505,000,000.

GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON, through the story of his dispute with Donald Richberg and Secretary of Labor Perkins over control of the NRA, but well informed persons in Washington be lieve it is true. The President enimed the storm but put off the decision. The NRA is being reorganized temporarily to serve until the next congress gives it permanent form, and for the present Johnson retains his supremacy.

To bring about greater exclency and economy the codes of the NRA are being realigned. Industry is diwided into 22 classes, the initial move toward cutting down the number of codes from 682 to about 250 and group ing them in ten grand divisions. Merg ers are relied on to make the drastic reduction in the number of codes, Codes with similar or related interests are grouped together. Allied businesses will thus receive identical cials said. The codes also are ex pected to be easier and cheaper to administer.

The 22 classifications in turn are based on four fundamental groups as wholesale and retail codes. GENERAL JOHNSON has repeatedto sacrifice his private business earning capacity by remaining at the head of the NRA on a salary of $6,000 a year, intimating that he would have to retire from his governmental job. It is now revealed that on July 1 his salary was increased to $15,000 a year by order of President Roosevelt.

MUCH political benefit to the administration in the congressional campaign is expected to accrue from the reciprocal trade treaty with Cuba which has just been announced. It is the first of the projected trade agreements and little criticism of it is likely to be heard. The domestic sugar producers, who of course do not like the reduction in the duty on Cuban sugar, were prepared for the action by discussions of past months and accordingly had adjusted themselves to the situation. The domestic tobacco interests are consoled for reductions in duties by the ilmitation of imports of Cuban eigar leaf tobacco, cigars and chepoots of all kinds to 18 per cent of otal quantity of tobacco used in ted States during the previous manufacture of cigars.

producers as they might otherwise be. As against the concessions made to cuba, which are regarded as so important from the standpoint of that country as to offer great promise of economic recovery, there should be rather widespread benefits to agricul tural and industrial producers of the United States. The most valuable con-cession is a great reduction in the Cuban duty on hog lard.

BELIEVING the emergency phase of agricultural adjustment is about over, the AAA officials are simplifying their program for the future. Tentatively they propose these control plans for 1935:

Wheat-10 per cent reduction in acreage below that of the base period, 1930-32 inclusive; desired acreage, about 62,000,000; desired production, 750,000,000 to 775,000,000 bushels. Corn-Possibly a 15 to 20 per cent reduction in acreage, instead of 20 to Hogs and other livestock-No direct ontrol, supply being regulated by adustment of feed crops.

30 per cent as specified by the 1934

Cotton-10 to 15 per cent acreage reduction under base period, 1928-32, nelusive, instead of about 40 per cent; desired acreage, 32,000,000 to 37,000,-000; desired production, 11,500,000 to 13,000,000 bales.

"FERGUSONISM" in Texas was struck a probably fatal blow when James V. Allred, the young attorney general of the state, won the Democratic nomination for governor in the Democratic runoff primary. By a maority of about 45,000 votes he defeated Tom F. Hunter, who was backed for the nomination by "Ma" Ferguson, the present governor, and her husband, James E. Fertil ousted by the legislature. The Fergusons have controlled Democratic pelitics in Texas for some twenty years, but their sway probably is now oming to an end. Mr. Allred is only thirty-five years old, but has come to the top swiftly. His nomination is equivalent to election.

UPTON SINCLAIR, the Socialist author who turned Democrat in order to run for the Democratic nomination for governor of California, succeeded in his purpose. In the primaries he ran far ahead of George Creel, who was director of propaganda during the World war; Justus S. Wardell, conservative, and Milton K. Young, the Democratic candidate in 1930, Sinclair campaigned on a plan "to end poverty in California" which was set forth in a book he published. It calls for the state to take over and operate defunct factories and businesses and farms acquired because of tax delinquencies as a means of placing the unemployed. Sinclair's opponent in the election will be Frank F. Merriam, the Republican acting governor. Senator Hiram W. Johnson easily won re nomination and is on the Republican, Democratic, Progressive and Commonwealth tickets; his only opponent is George R. Kirkpatrick, Socialist. South Carolina Democrats will have to hold a runoff primary to decide between Cole L. Blease, former governor and senator, and Olin D. Johnston, young attorney of Spartansburg, for the gubernatorial nomination. In a referendum held as a guide for the legislature the drys were defeated. Democrats of Mississippi also will hold a runoff primary to determine whether Former Governor Theodore G. Bilbo or Senator Hubert D. Stephens shall represent the state in the senate.

BRITISH people the world over re-Prince George, fourth son of the king, was engaged to wed the lovely Prin cess Marina, niece of the late King Constantine of Greece. The announcement from the palace in London said: "It is with the greatest pleasure that the king and queen innounce the betrothal of their dearly beloved son Prince George to Princess Marina, daughter of Prince and Princess Prince George Nicolas of Greece, to which union the king has gladly given his consent."

An acquaintance that dated back five years to the young couple's first meeting in London ripened into love at the summer home of Prince Paul of Jugoslavia, where Prince George and Princess Marina bave been visiting.

The princess, who was educated in Athens, Paris, and London, speaks fluently French, English, Greek, Russian, and German. She inherits all the beauty and charm of her Russian mother and the pleasing personal qualities of her father.

FRANCIS J. GORMAN, head of the strike committee of the United Textile Workers, sent to the sectional leaders the secret instructions for a general walk-out in the cotton textile industry on September 4. The order affects approximately 500,000 cotton mill workers; and about 300,000 more will go on strike then or soon after in the silk, rayon and woolen mills. "I am fully convinced," Gorman told reporters, "that the strike not only will materialize but will be success-

The administration, however, still hoped that the strike could be averted through the efforts of the national labor relations board headed by Lloyd Garrison. The union leaders have made it plain that they expect the strike will be indirectly financed by the government through the relief organizations. They admit that their unions have not sufficient funds to carry the workers through the prospective period of idleness.

SENATOR THOMAS D. SCHALL of Minnesota, Republican, engaged in an acrimonious controversy with President Roosevelt concerning the former's assertion that the administration is seeking to curb the press, and the blind enator used language that was so disre-spectful to the Chief Executive that even Mr. Roosevelt's severest critics could not approve of it. The President had asked Mr. Schall for the Senator Schall "facts" on which he based his recent assertion that plans are under consideration for 'a national press service to take the place of the Associated Press, the Hearst News service and the United Press." This service, Mr. Schall said, would "have exclusive use of all government news and be in a position to give its service only to ose newspapers loyal to the Roosevelt dictatorship."

"Once these facts are in my hands," sald Mr. Roosevelt, "they will receive immediate attention in order to make impossible the things you say will be done, because I am just as much opposed to them as you are." The senator immediately sent to the President and made public a 650 word letter in which he said in part:

"You ask me for 'information' concerning what you yourself have done. Are you attempting to secure the facts. so that you may be in a position to re fute yourself?

"Your telegram to me bears out the suggestion of the constant effort to mislead and fool the public. Your desire to make yourself appear before the people of the United States as champlop of a free press may be as insincere as your promises to the people when you accepted the Democratic nomination at Chicago with the statement that you were for their platform 100 per cent.

"To date you have not kept one of the covenants you pledged the peo-ple at that time. Let me recall your testy anger at your disappointment in keeping out of the press code the expression of a free press."

Schall went on to cite what he called "specific evidence" of an intention by the President to force a cen sorship of the press so that "your acts and the acts of your Communistic bureaucrats might be hidden from public gaze."

Mr. Roosevelt sent the senator az answer sharply rebuking him for ble "vituperative" letter "which gives no facts and does not answer my simple request." In conclusion he said: "The incident is closed."

MORE electricity for more people at lower rates is the aim of the federal power commission in a national survey which has just been started According to Basil Manley, vice chairman of the commission, the survey will enable that body to complie and submit to the next congress the "most comprehensive and authentic exhibit of our power resources and possibilities ever made in this or any other country." To obtain the data required the commission has sent a questionpaire to every private and municipally owned power plant in the land.

"Determining the nation's power re quirements and how they can be most conomically and advantageously sup plied is the primary purpose," Mr. Manley explained. "Markets must be considered, as well as power sites that can be developed at reasonable cost, either by governmental enterprise or private capital. "One purpose is to establish and maintain that balance between steam and hydro-electric power which will give America the most dependable ources of energy at the lowest possible fates."

ESPITE the Polish denials that a secret pact has been concluded between Germany and Poland, La Liberte, nationalist newspaper Paris, charges that such a treaty has been signed, and gives its alleged stipulations which provide that Poland shail relinquish the Polish corridor to the reich in exchange for German support of a Polish attempt to gain con trol of Lithuania, peaceably or other

The nationalist organ reports in addition five military and territorial articles and the fact that the treaty con tains a series of economic agreements. The chief of the latter calls for furnishing raw materials to Germany by Poland, even in time of war, in return for German exports to Poland.

Feed Everybody? Big Job Roads Ask $170,000,000 Can't Shoot Santa Claus Steel Coffin for Wong

It is announced that the government will feed, at public expense, men that go on strike while the strike lasts. The American Federation of Labor representative in the South says the 500,000 textile workers about to go on strike will look to the government to take care of them while the strike lasts.

According to the Associated Press, Harry L. Hopkins, government relief administrator, says: "It is a surprising thing to me we haven't had a d-d sight more strikes than we have."

We shall probably have strikes in sufficient number if the government supports all strikers, and, if it should decide to pay them out of public moneys the wages they are asking while the strike lasts, there might be a great many strikes.

Railroads ask for an increase of $170,000,000 in freight rates to offset increased expenses which "re-flect economic policies of the government." Railroads must run, and if the people are not paying enough they must pay more. It is to be hoped that increased payment will provide good pay for railroad workers, conductors, engineers, trainmen, track walkers, all others.

BRISBANE TO CHANGE

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart

In the Nation's Capital tend to indicate. Campaign in the opinion of long time observers, that the issues of the Issues coming election campaign and for the next session of congress are being sharply drawn. It is recognized here that the line of cleavage will be whether the Roosevelt administration shall go further to the radical side or whether it shall be forced to a more conservative be-

Washington.-Recent developments

There has been so much confusion In administration affairs that the issue is being forced. Each time heretofore that conservatives have fought against proposals by the Roosevelt administration or have criticized acts performed under the discretionary authority granted the President by congress, the conservative element has been badly defeated. It should be said that the conservatives have lacked any particular punch, nor have they had leaders worthwhile. Consequently their attacks have lacked virility and have amounted to the same thing as an attempt to kill a bear with birdshot.

Now, however, there seems to be a stiffening of backbone on the part of conservatives, both Democratic and Republican, as is evidenced by the formation of the American Liberty league. This group, headed by such men as Jouett Shouse, former Democratic national committee head, former United States Senator James M. Wadsworth, a New York Republican, and Alfred E. Smith, one time Democratic candidate for President, has announced its purpose to fight in defense of the Constitution. It also is prepared to make war on radicalism. Mr. Shouse. who will be the league's president, declared it was not anti-Roosevelt, or anti-administration but that it admittedly will be against some features of the New Deal. Thus, for the first time since Mr. oosevelt became President, he is confronted with frank outright opposition of a serious kind on those parts of his program which the league and other conservatives believe go beyond traditions of American history. My information is that the league is well supplied with funds and that it will able to disseminate its views in extensive fashion. The purpose, it is said, is to make sure that the rank and file of voters hear all sides to the various questions.

The pon-partisan character of the work to be done is being emphasized The names of the men who head the organization are advanced as proof of the statement that it will not dabble in partisan politics. It remains, never eless, that this group naturally must oppose a good many of the New Deal plans and in some quarters it is believed the New Dealers will attempt to catalogue it purely as an anti-administration propaganda machine. It is to be seen thus that Mr. Shouse and his associates have a battle on their hands in addition to defense of the Constitution. But those factors do not change the belief of many here that in the American Liberty league we actually are seeing the birth of a new political party. It is this manner that parties are born.

The lack of co-ordination in govern-Richberg's and a new program Job is being considered in order to fend off partisan attacks. Donald Richberg. Chicago lawyer and former general counsel for the NRA, has the job in charge. He will attempt, where his predecessor Frank Walker failed, to straighten out the tangled skein that has resulted in many of the agencies of the New Deal running counter to each other.

Mr. Roosevelt wants "balanced cor trol" among these agencies. That is, he wants to see that the various units whose functions may overlap are not working at cross purposes and he wants to see the recovery machine settled down so that there may be harmony among the officials of the administration.

For an example of what I mean take the case of NRA and AAA. It has been recognized for some months that the purpose behind these two groups and upon which they have been attempting to expand government supervision of agriculture on the one hand and industry on the other have led officials in different directions. It has resulted in an undercurrent of dissatisfaction each with the other. Mr. Richberg thinks that some way must be found for this to be eliminated.

Then we have the Public Works administration. the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and the Home Owners Loan corporation and now the Federal Housing administration. It is easy to see how many times any one of these may cross up the plans of the others. The result obviously has been difficulties and embarrassments that ought never occur and would have been avoided had the machinery been geared together when the programs were worked out.

Mr. Richberg's job, therefore, plainly is one fraught with great difficulties and one that is fraught with potential fireworks if his program steps on toes If he does not succeed in revamping and reorganizing the various set ups, observers here think they foresee a mere serious disagreement among administration leaders than has yet taken

If he succeeds in accomplishing the purpose assigned to him by the President, Mr. Richberg will face the opposition of the newly formed American Liberty league and the conservative element throughout the country with a well oiled machine to carry out his policies.

The critics of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, have had their turn Their Turn to laugh. The gen-to Laugh eral, who has be come famous for his frequent threats to "crack down" where industry failed to live up tothe codes which the administration laid down, has run afoul of one of his own agencies, the national labor relations board.

Some months ago the general fired John L. Donevan, a labor board advisor apparently because Mr. Donovan had been active in organizing a union among employees of the NRA of whom there were some 2,000. Mr. Donovan was dismissed officially for being "inefficient" and for "insubordination," but few observers ever accepted that as the explanation.

Now, General Johnson has been directed by the labor board to re-employ Mr. Donovan, and told that if he did not reinstate the dismissed worker he would be violating one of the provisions of his own law and one which he had used many times in his threats to crack down. The incident has a further significance, however, as observers here There is much discussion around Washington to the effect that General Johnson in the Donovan case was reaping the crop which he had sown in his many promises to organized labor. In other words, it is made to appear in the opinion of many persons that the general promised too much and when he found the vulnerable spots in his own program he sought to get away from his oft repeated preachments only to be confronted with the ruling made by his own labor board after that body had made an investigation of the merits of the case.

No one can tell at this time how far-reaching the Donovan case decision may prove to be. Some observers figure that a way will be found to eliminate Mr. Donovan from the NRA organization later but if that takes place it seems assured that organized labor itself will rise up and there will be not one group but many to tell General Johnson of their interpretation of the labor provisions in the recovery act. Suggestions have been heard likewise to the effect that if an employer, private or public, is not per mitted to discharge a worker for in-efficiency or insubordination, employers of labor through the country, subservient to the national recovery act and the codes, are faced with a situation the scope of which cannot now even be hinted.

It has been anticipated generally that the administration will have House May the house of repre-Make Trouble sentatives next win crop of members than obtained during the last session of congress when the house was quite subservient to the White House orders. Advance notice of the difficulties already has appeared in the shape of a four-cornered race for the speakership made vacant by the death of Henry T. Rainey of Illinels. It is said new that the White House is prepared to stay out of the fight because, traditionally, the Chief Executive has not messed with the choice of house leaders. It is a fact nevertheless that the present list of entries for the speakership assure a battle between the friends of the brain trust and the more conservative. practical politicians in the house men bership.

To date Joseph W. Byrns, the present floor leader and long time representative from Tennessee, appears to have the jump on the other candidates. It cannot be overlooked, never theless, that Representative Sam Rayburn of Texas, chairman of the powerful committee on interstate commerce, and Representative William Bankhead, of Alabama, are very much in the race. Representative John Rankin, of Mississippi, must be considered also because Mr. Rankin has been active in assisting the Democratic organization in the house in the last two sessions and he has many friends.

No one can tell, of course, what kind of a jam will result and what trading will be initiated between the various candidates in order to get the most political advantage out of the situation. Trading always features selection of the speakership and in this instance, as in all previous speakership fights, it is safe to say that there will be trading done which will allow one of the number to be speaker and his choice to be floor leader. It is considered that Mr. Ayrns has the best chance at this time because ordinarily the floor leader of the party in power has been elevated to the speakership in event of a vacancy in the high office in the house.

SYNOPSIS

Jim Wall, young cowpuncher from Wyoming, seeks a new field in Utah. He meets Hank Hays, who tells him he is working for an Englishman, Herrick, who has located a big ranch in the mountains. Hays and others are plotting to steal their employer's cattle and money. With Hays and two other rustiers, Jim Wall goes to Herrick's ranch. Herrick announces that his sister, Helen, is coming to live with him. Hays unfolds his plan for getting possession of Herrick's 12,000 head of live stock. He and his lieutenants ride away to drive off the first bunch of cattle. Heeseman, Hays' rival among the cattle rustiers, tells Wall that Hays was once his (Heeseman's) partner and double-crossed him, Jim is sent to meet Miss Herrick. He tries to impress on her that he (Jim) is a desperado of the worst type, but the girl treats the information lightly.

Jim let Barnes take the team, while he crossed the bench and made his way down the steep, rocky declivity to Hays' cabin. Happy Jack was whistling about the fire, knocking pans and otherwise indicating the proximity

"Howdy, Jack. What's tricks for today?" asked Jim.

"Glad you're back, Jim," declared the cook, cordially. "Anyone'd have thunk you was goin' to dish the outfit -judgin' from Hays. He's been like hound on a leash. Smoky rode in today full of ginger, news, an' a roll of long green that'd have choked a cow. But even thet didn't ease the

"What ailed him, Jack?" Inquired Jim, not without impatience.

"Dinged If I know. It had to do with your goin' to Grand, a darned sight more than Smoky's."

Heavy footfalls outside attested to the return of Hays. Without more ment Jim stood up and away from the table, to face the door. Hays entered. He was not the genial Hays of other days, yet it was hard to define the change in him, unless it consisted in a gloomy, restless force behind his stride. Smoky followed him in, agreeable by contrast,

"Hullo, here you air. I waited at the barn," said Hays gruffly.

"Howdy, boss. I took a short cut down," replied Jim. "I seen Barnes an' had a word with him. So your trip come off all right? You shore made them blacks step." "It wasn't as pleasant a drive as you'd imagine," returned Jim, darkly.

"Haw! You must be one of them women-haters. . . Outside of that side of it, what happened to jar you?" "Nothing to concern you or your outfit. Smoky saw me yesterday be-fore I got a line on him. He ducked off the road. At Grand Junction nobody paid any more attention to me than I'd expect." "Ahuh. Thet's good," replied Hays, and going over to the pack beside his bed he rummaged about to return with a packet, which he slapped down upon the table.

"There you air, Jim. On our first

Your share. Smoky fetched it." Jim did not care to give the impression that he was unused to this sort of thing. Straddling the bench he sat down to run through the bills. "Five thousand six hundred," he said, as if to himself, and he slipped the money inside his pocket. "Much obliged, Smoky. Now I'll be able to sit in a little game of draw."

"Jim, ain't you got any news at all?" inquired Hays, searchingly. "A feller with your ears an' eyes shore would pick up somethin',"

"Miss Herrick fetched a Wells-Fargo package to her brother," rejoined Jim, slowly. "Then it's come," said Hays, cracking his bands. "Herrick was expectin' money last stage." After supper Smoky was the first to break silence: "Boss, now Wall is back you can make up your mind about what I'd like to do,"

"Jim, listen to this: Smoky an' the other fellers, except Brad, want to make a clean sweep with this next drive. What you think?" "Clean Herrick out?" asked Jim. "Thet's the idee." Jim pondered a moment, "It'd be harder work, but save time, and perhaps our bacon as well. These cowboys are going to find out pretty soon that the cattle bave thinned out. Smoky drives a couple thousand more it'll be sure to be found out.

"See thar, boss. Wall sees it just as I do. There's plenty of water along the road an' feed enough. . . . Let's make it one big drive."

sooner or later."

"Wal, It'd mean leavin' Star Ranch sudden," cogitated the robber chief. "Shore. An' thet's good."

"But I don't want to pull out of here sudden," declared Hays. "Why not, if we get away with ten thousand head?" queried Smoky, astounded. "Thet ten thousand won't close the deal I'm en. "What've you got up your sleeve, Hank?" "Thet's my business. Yours is drivsome job there, which no doubt was a ruse to keep them away from Limestone Springs, where most of the stock grazed. And the day had ended without one glimpse of Helen Herrick.

At brenkfast the following morning Hays surprised Jim. "Was the Herrick girl out yesterday?" he inquired. "Didn't see her." "You didn't say what kind of looker she was."

"Oh, that," hughed Jim. "I forgot or didn't think you were interested." "Wal, I'd like to see her once before our deal's off here."

Hays had his wish fulfilled next day. He was at work on the new barn, on the far side from where Jim was occupied, when Miss Herrick came down with her brother. Jim stared as if his eyes deceived him. An English riding babit was known to him only from pictures. She looked queenly, Jim did not look at her face. Besides, he wanted most to see the effect upon Hank Hays. That worthy's hawklike head was erect, but Jim could not see the telltale eyes, Hays stood transfixed.

Herrick and his sister walked toward Jim's side of the barn.

"Good morning," she said. "Bernie told me how you shot bob-no, jack rabbits-from the saddle, I want to see you do that. And I want to learn Will you show me?"

"I'd be pleased, Miss Herrick." "Tomorrow, then, you will ride with

"I'm at your service." "Wall, you'll oblige me by riding with my sister when it suits her," said

"Yes, sir," returned Jim, gazing across at the statue-like Hays. The couple moved off toward the open yard, where mounted cowboys were leading out saddled horses. "I seen her, Jim," Hays said, as if the event were epic. "She walked right by me." "What If she did, Hank?" "Nothin'. What was she sayin' to

"It seems Herrick told her about my shooting jacks from my horse, and she wants to see it done.'

"You're goin' ridin' with her? . . . "Hank, shall I tell Herrick you'll go in my stead?"

"Nix, much as I'd like to. I can't hit jumpin' rabbits." Hays bung around the barn, mostly idle, watching the valley, until the Herricks freturned. The cowboys brought the horses down. Whereupon Hays abruptly left. And he did not come back. From that hour he became an elusive man, That day ended Jim Wall's carpentry. On the next he was summoned early after breakfast to ride with the Herricks.

Under the stimulation of this girl's inspiring presence Jim gave an exhibition of swift and accurate shooting that surpassed any he had ever accomplished. "Marvelous!" she exclaimed.

"Helen, he's a bally good shot," declared Herrick That night Hank Hays evinced slight but unmistakable symptoms of Jealousy, occasioned, perhaps, by Jim's report of killing thirteen out of fifteen bounding fack rabbits. Happy Jack, wideeyed and loud-voiced, acclaimed Jim's feat as one in a thousand.

"Air you thet good frontin' a man who you know is swift?" drawled the robber chief. Jim stared. "Hank, I'm not so good then," he replied, slowly. "Wal, somebody'll try you of these days," added Hays.

"I daresay," he rejoined, coolly, and sought his seclusion. He refused to let that linger in his mind. Something else haunted him. His slumber was

CHAPTER VI

Next day Herrick did not accompany his sister on the daily ride, a circumstance which, if anything, gave freer rein to her spirit. Jim had concern for her safety. He could not judge well of her horsemanship, because of the side-saddle she rode. Bluntly he disapproved of the atrocious thing and said it was worse than the "pancake" her brother rode. But she rode after the hounds just the same, and held her own until she was thrown. If she had fallen upon rocks or even hard ground she would have been seriously injured, if not killed outright. But when the horse stumbled she hurtled over his head and hit in the sand. Jim was off almost the instant she struck, and he yelled for the cowboy.

"Water, Barnes," he called, as the cowboy dashed up. "There ain't none close," replied

Barnes. "I'm all-right," spoke up Miss Herrick, weakly. "I came-a cropper-

She sat, evidently not hurt, though he clung to Jim's arm. With his scarf he wiped the sand from her face, aware that his hand was not steady. Her hair had come partly loose to fall in a golden mass on her shoulder. She rearranged it and put on her hat, deftly despite gloved fingers.

"Help me up, please," she said, Jim placed a strong arm under hers and lifted her to her feet. Then something cold and tight within let go, and his reaction was to take refuge in an-"Miss Herrick, I told you that saddle was no good. It's a wonder you were not killed."

"Oh, don't exaggerate. I've come many croppers cross-country riding at

"Barnes, back me up in this," op-pealed Jim to the cowboy. "Miss, he's tellin' you true," said Barnes, earnestly. "You was ridin' fast. If this hyar had been stony ground, like it is lots of places, you'd never knowed what hit you." "I believe I did strike pretty hard,"

she admitted, ruefully. "You want a cow-saddle with a double cinch, and overalls," concluded "Overalls!" she exclaimed, and she blushed rosy red. "You mean like these blue trousers Barnes has on?" "Yes. Then you can ride. This is the West, Miss Herrick. You like to run a horse. It's dangerous. I shall have to speak to your brother." "Don't. I've never ridden astride, fearful about it." That experience left Jim shaky, probably a good deal shakier than it had left Miss Herrick. But it was not fear for her. Jim reveled in the torturing sensation engendered by contact with this beautiful girl. He shook like a leaf at the staggering realization that when she lay on the ground with her arms spread wide, her hair gold against the sand, he longed to snatch her to his breast. A natural impulse, under the circumstances, but for him-idlotic! Miss Herrick took to the Western saddle like a duck to water. She could ride. Moreover, that spirit of which she had hinted certainly overtook her. More than once she ran off alone, riding like the wind; and upon one of these occasions it took the cowboys till dark to find her. That with Hank Hays and Heeseman there to see her gallop away unescorted! Herrick did not seem to mind,

As far as Jim Wall was concerned, however, these rides with her centered him upon the love which had come to consume him; and the several she took alone were more torturing because they aroused fear of Hank Hays. It could not be ascertained whether or not Hays followed her, but when the day came that Jim discovered Hays had been riding the traffe frequented by Miss Herrick, it seemed time to act.

This placed Jim in a worse quandary. To act, for a man of his training at such a time and place, was to do only one thing. But how could he kill his leader upon mere suspicion of sinister intent to kidnap the girl? It was a predicament for a man who had always played fair, alike to honest triend and crooked ally.

Jim paced under his dark sheltering trees, in the dead of night, when he should have been sleeping. Days had passed without his once seeking to avoid disaster; and he had not sought because he knew it was of no use. To wish to be with his blond girl seem irresistible. More than once he had caught himself in the spell of a daring impulse—to tell Miss Herrick that be loved her. The idea was sheer madness. Yet the thought persisted, and when he tried to shake it the result was it grew stronger in a haunting maddening way.

RECORDS OF AGE, AS USUAL THING, MERELY HEARSAY

A doctor, commenting upon the boast of the late Zaro Agha that he had survived 160 winters, says that after a man is past 70 it is hard to tell how old he is. Those who can can vouch for him go their way one by one; records of bureaus of vital statistics have disappeared. The ancient's memory counts for nothing. He gets to believing that he took part in events because he wishes he had, as George IV, in one of the delusions of his latter days, believed that he had been with Wellington at Waterloo and had helped a lot in the defeat of Napoleon,

This difficulty of getting at the facts applies, of course, only to the obscure, men like the late lamented Turk. Celebrites are in another class. Their lives are an open book, plentifully sprinkled with dates, and when they reach a great age there is no dispute about it. Perhaps it is the rarity of centenances among dis-tinguished men and won en that leads physicians to doubt the claims of those in humbler stations of whose beginnings there is no trustwort record. It is a wise child that knows its own father's age. He doesn't even know his own. Both are a matter of hearsay. If you ask for proofs they are not forthcoming. The count of candles on the birthday cake is not accepted in a court of law; it is valld only in the family circle. We are as old as our parents have taught us to think we are.

We don't attempt to explain the extraordinary age reached by many of the patriarchs recorded in the twilight chronology of Genesis, but it is to be noted that from the day of Moses down, man's longevity has undergone no marked change. Moses is said to have been one hundred and twenty when he dled; Joshua one hundred and ten. But Moses himself, in that far-off time, recorded the tradition that "the days of our years are three score years and ten," at the same time observing that if a man lived to be eighty, labor and sorrow would be his portion.-Boston Transcript.

Young Men Don't Often Travel Far or Mates

Maybe "distance lends eachant-ment to the view" of the boet, but the honest laborer is likely to seek his enchantment nearer home, states a contributor to the Des Mola

That, at any rate, is the couclusion of a Lehigh university investigator who has completed an interesting survey of the part played in marriage by residential nearness,

His survey covered 570 wedding IIcenses issued in a Pennsylvania city. He found that the percentage of marriages contracted by sweethearts Uring more than 20 miles apart increases steady as one goes up the occupational ladder, from laborer to executive.

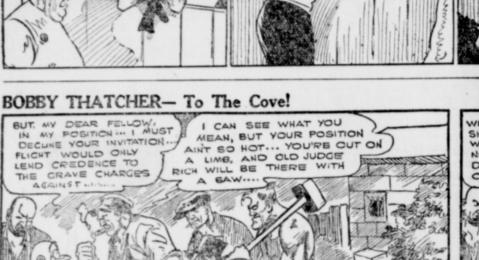

The young unskilled laborer generally chose for his bride a girl living within a mile of his own home. Advancing age, as well as growing income, seemed in the majority of cases to be the signal for seeking a helpmeet farther afield.

What great truth is to be drawn from these interesting facts? Is it that the youthful laborer won't walk any farther for his bride than for his favorite brand of cigarette? Or is his trouble merely that he doesn't have a car?

And what role does advancing age play, to broaden the matrimontal horizon as it seems to do? And what becomes, then, of the theory that old men are most susceptible to youthful feminine wiles?

Impatient Snail

The director of the London Zoe aquarium tells a queer story of a large species of snall. These creatures can live for long periods without foed. The snall in question was a specimen in a museum. It was gummed to a label with other specimens, but suddenly decided that such an existence was unsatisfactory, so it broke away from its card and explored the case.

American and European Scientists Agree That Mineral Water Is Beneficial

TRY THIS NATURAL WAY

People spend hundreds of millions of dollars every year going to the great mineral water health resorts of Europe and America.

Many of these people have to travel thousands of miles. Many of them were suffering untold pain from "rheumatic" aches, from arthritis, from neuritis, from gout. Others suffered from certain stomach ailments or excess acid or sluggishness or a general rundown condition.

or a general rundown condition.

The scientific and medical records of Europe and America show that a very large percentage of these people gained blessed relief and help by these natural mineral water treat-

Today, however, you do not have to travel long distances to partake of the healthful qualities of fine natural mineral water. You do not even have to pay the excessive cost of having it shipped to you in quart or gallon containers. For Crazy Water Crystals bring to your own home the precious minerals of one of the world's fine mineral waters in crystal form at a great saving in expense.

The Great Express Company Robbery

I T WAS in the early eighties that one of the cleverest crooks in the country stood outside of the wired enclos ore of an Adams express office and looked longingly at a package of bank-notes on a shelf beyond his reach.

It was near the noon hour and most of the clerks were preparing to go out for lunch.

The crook noticed that some of them wore linen dusters and that when they left the enclosure they doffed these of fice coats and tossed them to one side. It did not take this gentleman long to come to his determination. The door leading to the enclosure was partly opened.

He slipped inside and, tossing his bat into a corner, hastily put on an ink-smeared linen duster that had been discarded. He stuck a pen behind his ear and in that guise readily resembled one of the regular clerks.

He was in the enclosure less than a minute, and when he departed he carried with him a package of bonds which was estimated to be worth $10,-

A few days after this it was reported that a man entered one of the oldest and wealthiest banks in the city of Philadelphia, and by means of a sharpened umbrella pulled out a package of money from behind one of the grilled windows and made his escape

The sum was placed at $1,000, but that was the least part of it. The audacity of the theft was what caused consternation in the financial district. If such things were possible, then no institution would be safe.

These two cases were much talked about, and they were especially interesting to Francis Kelly, the famous bank detective who patroled the financial district in Philadelphia and whose beat included the custom house, the sub-treasury and the famous banking house of Drexel & Co., the Philadelphia branch of Drexel, Morgan & Co.

Kelly was not only a keen student of human nature, but he knew the ways of the get-rich-quick members of the criminal fraternity.

He discussed the matter with one of

"I'd be willing to stake my reputation on the fact that both of these jobs were done by Chauncey John-son," he said. "I know his methods like a book and I don't know another man in the United States who could have pulled them off as neatly as

Kelly had been in the United States secret service and had also been chief f detectives in Philadelphia, but at that time was in the employ of the houses in the financial district.

He acted, as he often said, as a "preventive."

The bank crooks knew that he was on the job there, and as a consequence they gave that section a pretty wide

But the moth will hover around the flame, and one morning Kelly noticed a rather striking-looking man in the neighborhood of the Drexel bank.

The detective watched him for some moments, and presently the man entered the portals of the bank. Kelly walked up to him and touched him on the shoulder.

"Good-morning, Chauncey," he said familiarly, "what are you doing here?"
"I don't know you." was the gruff reply, "and that's not my name."

"Why," was the cheerful reply. "everybody knows Chauncey Johnson, and I'm somebody."

it was impossible to brazen it out any longer, and the famous bank robber admitted his identity.

He insisted, however, that he had no evil intentions on this particular bank and had walked in for the purpose of looking at the large oil painting of the founder of the house.

The explanation was accepted, but the man was taken into custody and lodged in the city hall. Later he was escorted to New York, where it was said that he was wanted for the Adams Express company rob-The moral is that it is dangerous to

Science Witnesses Evolution

Scientists are now permitted to see evolution in actual progress because of the discovery of red quall on a southern game preserve. This brick red specimen of the ordinary bobwhite is exactly like the rest of the famfly except as to color. This subspecies breeds true to color even when mated with the usual brown and white birds. It is the first time that natural evolution has ever been witnessed and consequently scientists are keeping a close watch on the birds.-Pathfinder

New Sleeping Luxury Celba fiber, the product of a tropical tree already widely used for insulating purposes, now bids fair to replace wool and down in the manufacture of bed quilts and comforters. Tests have proven it to be 22 per cent more efficient than wool for this purpose and as light in weight as the softest down. In addition this material is said to be naturally moth proof and resistant to odors and does not have a tendency to "ball up" in the cleaning process as do ordinary comfortable fillers.

Frocks for College-Going Girls college girl who is selecting her going-away-to-school frocks it is the stunning new and versatile materials which cause hearts to beat faster.

To be sure there is everything imaginable to be had in the way of super-hue buttons, and other clever gadgets together with most beguiling neck wear fantasies to help out when occasion demands, but in the main it's the garment which speaks in terms of handsome material along lines of studied simplicity which wins the highest number of credits.

There is that about the woolens and silks and velvets and synthetic weaves as shown this season which is so intrinsically decorative and satisfying to the eye, little or no frills or furbelows seem to be required to accent the cos tumes they fashion. Which, no doubt, is the reason why advance fashions indicate that the college girl's wardrobe will, for the most part, be styled on the same smartly simple tailored lines favored by chic business women.

The model to the left in the picture is a dress of this type. The plaid chulla crepe which fashions it is in itself so attractive and self-sufficient, fussy dressmaker detail would detract from its "classy" simplicity. For serv-ice, for looks and for real joy in the wearing a crepe of this sort is ideal, and listen to this, ye coeds who needs must watch your budget with an eagle eye, these all-rayon crepe prints are easily washable and iron out smooth and lovely as if by magic-the problem of going back and forth to be dry eleaned is entirely done away with. This plaid (brown, egg-shell and rust is its color scheme) two-piece is cut on the now-so-voguish shirtmaker lines with a neat grosgrain belt, bow tie and grosgrain-covered buttons (button links on the double cuffs) to set it off.

Speaking of unusual materials, the dress centered in the group, so sophisticated in its simplicity, is made of, guess what !-- sports tulle. This fabric is so perfectly new it's the "last word. The claim to fame of this novel and very good-looking sports-tulle is based on the delightsome sheerness of its weave which together with the fact that it lends itself perfectly to simple lines and classic tailoring assures its prestige as a medium admirably adapted to wear at teas and bridge parties and other smart daytime gatherings. In this model, so simple yet so distinctive in its cut, Alix, who created it of sports-tulle in a black and white mixed effect has certainly contrived to give the college girl or any young woman of fashion for that matter, the ideal all year-round afternoon dress.

A frock of satin and a frock of velvet should by all means be included in an up-and-going-places college girl's wardrobe. The new daytime satins are as practical as they are stunning in appearance, and so wonderfully slenderizing, fashioned as many of them are with sleek-fitting skirts slit at the hemline in order to give ease of movement. The model pictured to the right in the group is styled along girlish lines and with its jacket bemes a many-purpose costume which can be tuned at will to street or indoor rfternoon wear. The treatment of the neckline is interesting, the collar being formed of loops of white velvet ribbon edged with black.

In regard to velvet the big news is smart trimming suits with narrow skirts and neat-fitting fackets, the sort college girls simply adore.

HIGH-STYLE ITEMS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Women who delight in veils can wear them to their heart's content, for they are decidedly in the fashion picture. Worn with just the right air, veils can be coquettish and glamorous and the newer veils have that way about them. The pointed contour of the veil pictured is a recent accent which will especially delight the young girl who takes delight in an air of sophistication. Lace slippers for evening match the lace frock. Padova, who created this exquisite type of footwear, has combined black lace and black satin in this model, with white satin under the lace to bring out the delicate patterning. A great vogue is In promise for this type of luxury footwear, this coming fall and winter.

FALL BRIDAL GOWN HAS HEAVY TRAIN

The trains on the new fall wedding gowns mean a heavy day's work for some bridal attendants. Nine or ten feet of shimmering satin will slither down the aisle behind the bride.

To dress the bride will be no small task, too, if she has chosen Germaine Montell's favorite wedding robe.

This designer has a penchant for trains, surpassed only by her love for frills and bows. This fall she gives women a chance to wear stiff white jabots that protrude four inches from severe black frocks. And "fish-tai!" trains. She still likes them, although many designers have chopped them off. A pert little train for evening and a deep skirt slash in front.

Two-Piece Frock Is Due for Popularity This Fall

Many of the daytime frocks beginning to appear just now contain more than a hint of the sartorial picture for the autumn.

Two-piece tunic frocks appear at the smartest places, many of them in silk, making it easy to visualize this

A typical advanced style frock is a two-piece tunic town model in beige

The line is fairly severe but is softened by an enormous ruffled jabot cut from the dress fabric and pulled through a ring at the side of the neck line for fastening.

Long Sashes, Wide Belts

Wide belts are used on the new fall sports clothes. And long, flowing sashes, tied in front, are shown or street and afternoon dresses.

HEZEKIAH LEADS HIS PEOPLE BACK TO GOD

LESSON TEXT-II Chronicles 20:1-

GOLDEN TEXT—For if ye turn again unto the Lord, your brethren and your children shall find compassion before them that lead them captive, so that they shall come again into this land; for the Lord your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye return unto him, II Chronicles 30:5. PRIMARY TOPIC—A King's Call to God's House.

God's House.

JUNIOR TOPIC-A King's Call to Worship God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Makes a Good Leader?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Godly Leaders in Civic Life.

I. Hezekiah Calls the People to Keep the Passover (vv. 1-12). The way for a sinning and divided people to get back to God and be united is around the crucified Lord. The Passover was a memorial of the nation's deliverance through the shedding of the blood of the sacrificiallamb

1. The invitation was representative of the nation (v. 2). The king took counsel with the princes and the congregation to show that the proclamation was the expression of the nation's desire.

2. The time was unusual (vv. 2-4). There was not sufficient time to sanctify the people nor to gather them together at the regular time, so they resolved, instead of postponing it for a year, to hold it on the fourteenth day of the second month. This liberty had heen granted before to an exigency (Num. 9:6-13).

3. The scope of the invitation (vv. 5-9). It included all of both nations who would come to keep the Passover to the Lord God of Israel. "Israel" ts now used to include both kingdoms The effort was to win back the nation which had seceded. The posts who were sent with the message were autherized to supplement the proclamation with an urgent exhortation to join as a united nation. This urgent invitation was tactfully put as fellows:

a. It touched ancestral memories-"Turn again unto the Lord God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel" (v. 6). Both kingdoms had a common ances

b. Recent bitter experience - "Be not ye like your fathers and brethren who trespassed against the Lord God and were given up to desolation as ye see" (v. 7).

c. Yearning for captive kinsfolk-"Your brethren and children shall find compassion before their captors" (v. 9). d. The instinct of self-preservation

So that they shall come again into this land" (v. 9). e. The forgiving mercy of God-"For the Lord your God is gracious and merciful" (v. 9). God will not turn any sincere seeker from him (John 4. Israel's reception of the invitation (vv. 10-12).

a. Some mocked (v. 10). This orgent and sincere invitation excited only opposition and ridicule by certain h Some with humble hearts come to Jerusalem (v. 11). In Judah God gave them one heart to accept the summons to unite in the Lord around the great Passover.

II. The Passover Kept (vv. 13-27). 1. Removal of heathen altars (vv. 13, 14). These altars were erected in Jerusalem in the time of Ahaz (28:24). Before there could be worship of the true God, all these traces of idolatry must be removed.

2. The Passover killed (v. 15). The zeal of the people was shown in their going forward with the service, though the priests were not ready.

3. The priests and Levites shamed (vv. 15-20). The zeal of the people put to shame the priests and the Levites. They were stimulated to perform their duties by the law of God as given by Moses. They even took charge of the killing of the Passover, since many of the officers were not sanctified so as to render this service for themselves. The Lord healedthat is, forgave the people.

4. The praise of glad hearts tvv. 21, 22). They continued for seven days in this glad service.

a. The Levites and priests sang God's praises daily on loud instruments (v. 21). h. Hezekiah spoke comforting words to the Levites (v. 22) and commended them and their teaching of the knowledge of God. c. They made confession of their sins to God (v. 22). This was the evidence that their action was genuine. 5. The Passover prolonged seven days (vv. 23-27). The king's object in prolonging the feast was to make a

For Morning or Afternoon Wear

Pattern 1795

Here's the latest in feminine chie for morning or afternoon wear, Ruffles to accent the smart line of the yoke are irresistibly flattering, and the sleeves have puffed-up charm. A white yoke to top a sprightly silk or cotton print would be ever so lovely. The cost of pattern and fabric is so nominal that you could make this frock without imposing on your budget. A perfect model, too, for the be ginner because of its utter simplicity -the front and back are without waistline seams and the yoke is just to trouble at all to set in place. The eoves may be omitted.

Pattern 1795 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and Size 16 takes 31/4 yards 36 inch fabric and five-eighth yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing Instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.
