District Masons To Meet Here Friday Night

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

I congratulate Miss Ella Andres and her high school choral club which won second place in the state contest at Belton last Saturday. Mrs. Ernest Hittson was accompanist and deserves a large share of the praise for the success of the high school club. We are prone to overlook the contribution of the accompanist. He or she sits unromantically at the piano or with some other instrument, and the audience overlooks the role in its absorption with the featured artist. But at this one's fingertips is the power to make or ruin the program. There is an art and a study in the business of accompanying a singer, an instrumental soloist or a chorus that commands genius, for nothing short of genius can achieve the support that genius requires. The player of an instrument who cannot feel with John McCormick the intricate and sublime emotions that the shadows of his voice inspire has not the magic to move with that voice through the genius of his song. A mere piano pounder is not an accompanist. An accompanist is the other half of the artist, a worker and a student of a definite art, and the cooperation that exists between the perfect accompanist and the perfect soloist is a marvelous instance of coordination between two beings.

Therefore, I congratulate the accompanist. I do not mean to detract from the splendid work of Miss Andres and her students. She carried the club into competition with schools such as Waco high, whose singers won first; Austin high school and other schools of that class and the success she achieved is a splendid testimonial to her ability as a director and the excellent work she has accomplished with the talent at her command under circumstances that were certainly difficult.

We ought to be proud of every victory that Cisco achieves and speak of it proudly. Each instance is evidence that we need not go abroad for talent or for opportunity. These things are here. Only recently a Cisco boy appeared as a singer over a national radio hookup, rewarded for the conscientious study and use of his talent by being chosen from among a national field of young contestants. Talent of that character is still being born and reared in small towns. It depends not upon the gratuity of some rich patron for discovery, but fundamentally upon a sincere community interest in its people and its opportunities. This local interest cultivates and brings to attention the talent that is later recognized by persons and influences that bring it to fruition.

But I am leading myself astray. What I want to say is that, as a community, we ought to be concerned to develop what we have, rather than wish for a stroke of fortune. We will astonish ourselves with the wealth of our discoveries by the active effort to promote our civic fortunes. Individuals of whom we thought lightly, if at all, will all at once become marvelously able. Opportunities which we regarded scarcely at all will suddenly become great realities.

It is all a question of human spirit and human enterprise. The world with its rocks, its trees, its rich soil and its hidden wealth of minerals and oil is worth absolutely nothing except in relation to the human factor.

The human factor is the determining thing. What it thinks and does determines.

We can build in Cisco just what we want.

BASEBALL SUNDAY
The Cisco baseball team will play Okra Sunday afternoon at Chesley field. A good game is anticipated. No admission.

Near Half Inch Rain Falls Here

A shower which measured about half an inch in Cisco Thursday afternoon extended with increasing density to the northwest breaking a drouth that was rapidly assuming serious proportions over this section. Promise of additional rainfall was seen. Motorists arriving from the west after the shower reported that the precipitation was heavy between Cisco and Putnam, in some places flooding the road.

Dryness of the top soil over the Cisco country has been a serious factor in delaying germination of seed and stunting young crop growth, although many farmers reported that the subsoil was still moist in places.

Lions Easter Egg Hunt to Be Held at 4 p. m. Sunday

The Cisco Lions club's Easter Egg hunt for Cisco children will be held in the Lions-Rotary park and vicinity at Lake Cisco Sunday afternoon beginning at 4 o'clock, according to plans announced at the club meeting Wednesday noon by the special committee, consisting of Charles Sandler, chairman; H. L. Dyer and Horace Condeley.

Trucks will be provided to convey to the parks children without other means of transportation. The party will gather at the city hall and leave from that place at 3:30 p. m. Lions will go with each truck to see to the safety of the youngsters and parents who wish may also accompany the trucks.

Three Sections
The hunt will be divided into three sections to accommodate children of different age classes. Each section will hunt in an area of its own with separate prizes. These sections will consist of children from three to six; six to eight and eight to 12. In each area a gold egg and a silver egg will be hidden. To each finder of a gold-colored egg a prize of $2 will be awarded. The finders of the silver eggs will each receive $1. Various members of the Lions club are offering individual prizes to add further interest to the hunt.

Just before the hunt the children, club members and parents will assemble at the bandstand in the city park where a brief program will take place, including an explanation of the origin of Easter by W. H. LaRoque. There will probably be music.

Mayor J. T. Berry will give the signal starting the hunt.

Instead of the regular lesson period, the Sunday school will convene in special assembly Sunday morning at which time those of the school who wish to unite with the church will be received. Parents who wish the pastor to baptize infants were requested to bring the babies at this time. An Easter story by Mrs. Lucille Gragg will conclude the assembly program.

Miss Jessie Gaye Preston has returned to her home in Lubbock after a visit with her sister, Mrs. J. M. Bird and Mr. Bird.

Mrs. J. W. Mancill has as her guest this week, Mrs. Elmer Renfro, of Fort Worth.

Convoy Cars Plunge Into Residence; No One Injured

Two cars of a used car convoy travelling from Memphis, Tenn., to San Diego, Cal., left the sharp curve in the Bankhead highway at A avenue and 14th street Wednesday night and crashed into the front porch of the home of W. R. Taylor, 1504 A avenue. No one was injured although Mr. Taylor was in bed next to the wall of the front room against which the two cars piled up and his wife and five children were in an adjoining front room.

Driver Vincent DiMonaco of the coupe which was towing the second car, a sedan, said he was unable to turn clear of the house because of a telephone pole in the path of the car. He said he was driving at about 25 or 30 miles when the cars left the curve.

Porch Demolished

The porch of the house, owned by Miss Myrtle Eddleman, was demolished. The coupe, a 1934 Chevrolet, was damaged, but the second, a 1933 Chevrolet, was not harmed. The convoy of 20 used cars, driven west by 13 men, was owned by the Kensington Chevrolet company of Memphis, and was accompanied by Jack Kennedy representative of that company, and Roy Halliburton, fleet boss. DiMonaco, who said his home was in Los Angeles, was en route from New York city, where he had been attending high school and prep school, had been engaged as a driver at Memphis. Sharpness of the curve was believed to have taken the driver, a youth of 18, unaware.

Damage to the property was adjusted before the convoy, the main part of which had reached Abilene, resumed its journey.

Taylor, who had been lying in bed, said he heard the cars leave the highway and before he could raise the shade they struck the house with terrific force. The engine of the coupe was running when he opened the front door and told the youth to shut it off, he said.

MOVE INTO HOME

Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Pittard have moved into their home on Bullard avenue which they recently purchased.

Paging Mr. Barnum!

A colt with one 14-inch stump in lieu of front legs, but otherwise perfectly normal, was born to a mare on the farm of R. T. Donham, farmer of the Bluff Branch community northwest of Cisco, this week. Thursday, at the age of three days, the animal was doing well. It was unable to rise, however, and Mr. Donham was feeding it from a bottle.

Miss Spruill Rotary Club Entertainer

Miss Lucille Spruill entertained the Cisco Rotary club at its noon luncheon Thursday with freehand crayon drawings and cartoons of various members of the club. Her clever caricatures of R. N. Cluck, Dr. E. L. Graham and Pete Nance and her jokes at the expense of Phil Pettit and others drew rounds of applause from the members. Mrs. Elizabeth Wood accompanied at the piano during portions of Miss Spruill's program. O. J. Russell was program chairman.

Carpenters Remodel Cisco Relief Office

Randolph Day To Be Celebrated

Preparation is still in progress on the hill for Randolph Day Saturday. No part of the formal program will appear till Saturday at 10 a. m. when the parade will proceed from the arch to the business section and through it. Decoration for this parade will be competitive.

At noon near the administration building a barbecue will be served to 500 or more friends who have tickets. Goat and beef roasted to a delicious brownness over a slow fire, and all the trimmings imaginable, according to Dean Isaacs who is in charge, will constitute the bill of fare. Seniors of nearby high schools are invited.

A program in the auditorium follows immediately at 2 p. m. Music, and expressions from the college and from others, will be features of the program. At 3 o'clock one of the games in the season's softball schedules will be played on Randolph's new field.

Ex-Student's Banquet

At six o'clock in the dining room at the girls' home the banquet of the Ex-Students association will be held. Last year about 60 attended this banquet at the first anniversary of its beginning. A number of students have already sent word of their coming. Most of them will answer in person Saturday.

Barring unforeseen weather interferences this promises to be one of the best celebrations that has been held. Some adverse conditions have been overcome by the hearty cooperation of students, faculty, and friends, especially business men of the community. The program for the day comes to a climax in the coronation at 8 o'clock when King Badger II will be crowned with his queen amidst attendant dukes and duchesses and other nobles from Randolph classes and from high schools of this section.

League Completes Quarter Century Service Next May

AUSTIN. — Twenty-five years of service to the public schools of Texas will have been completed by the Texas Interscholastic league next month, May 3 and 4, when one thousand boys and girls will come to the University of Texas to participate in the silver anniversary state meet of the league. Twenty-five years ago, the Texas Interscholastic league was organized at the State Teacher's association convention. For a quarter of a century boys and girls of Texas who have won the distinction of qualifying for the final state contests in one or another of the forty events sponsored by the league have come to Austin to represent their rural and high schools in athletic, forensic, art, typewriting, English and other events, according to Roy Bedichek, chief of the university bureau of public school interests, which is the state headquarters for the league.

"Many of these boys and girls return to the university after their high school days are over," Mr. Bedichek said. "Of the 25 students who made the university debate squad this year 24 had previously participated in the Interscholastic league debate contests. Governor James V. Allred, in presenting the trophies awarded in the state basket ball meet recently, said that as a Bowie high school student he was a contestant in debate and in track and field events of the league. Many distinguished men and women trace their interest in various activities to the stimulus they received from participation in high school Interscholastic league contests."

"A distinctive feature of the Interscholastic league contest is that it is a strict 'qualification' meet, every contestant having gone through local, county, district and regional meets in order to qualify. This guarantees that only the most talented product from the schools of Texas shall participate in the state meet."

Contestants in the league state meet will be in Austin two days, and Austin citizens are asked to provide rooms for them. Free rooms are to be provided only for actual contestants and their faculty advisors.

which it was understood had the approval of the relief authorities. Also the office force is in taking the scholastic census, but the work had not progressed to that stage where results of the census could be given. However, the Citizen-Free Press was informed that there would be a slight increase in the scholastics of the independent districts.

Also the superintendent is working out the relief projects for the rural and smaller independent districts for the extension of school terms under federal aid, neither of which have advanced to that stage where results may be given.

91ST DISTRICT COURT NEW CASES FILED

T. O. Bray vs. J. L. Chance, debt and foreclosure.

John M. Brown vs. Ella Jay Brown, divorce.

Judge G. L. Davenport is still confined to the hospital at Ranger, where he submitted to a second major operation. News from that his condition was most favorable. He is expected to be returned to his home in Eastland Saturday.

88TH DISTRICT COURT PATTERSON BACK HOME

Judge B. W. Patterson has returned from Dallas where he resided for two weeks, relieving Judge Royal Watkins, of the 95th district court. Judge Patterson said he was busy every day until his return home. The first case assigned him was a huge damage suit for $1,160,000, involving a number of complications. This case consumed practically all of the first week, the litigants being represented by some of the best legal talent in the state. The case resulted in an instructed verdict for the defendants, Anderson-Clayton Cotton Company, of Houston. The remainder of the time absent was taken up in trying other matters, principally non-jury cases, Judge Patterson stated.

But the 88th court judge was not destined to remain idle after his return home the first of the week. Finding Judge Davenport in the hospital, cases in the 91st court had to be taken care of. The first of these was to take the plea of guilty of Dr. L. C. Keel, who decided to enter his guilty plea to the charges pending against him in Eastland county for robbery. At the defendant's request the court named Judge R. L. Rust to represent Keel. The sentence was two years in the penitentiary, as he had at the time 40 years over him. However, this last sentence is immaterial, as the law is, under the indeterminate law, the maximum sentence cannot be less than two nor more than 20 years. The sentences against Keel will run concurrently.

Radio Servicing to Be Taught at State

AUSTIN. — Latest developments in radio servicing will be taught at a school for radio servicing men to be sponsored this summer by the University of Texas bureau of industrial teacher training and department of physics and the state department of industrial education. The school will open July 15 and close July 27.

Only men who are engaged in the servicing of radios will be eligible to enroll for the courses, which will deal with the practical phases of radio maintenance and repair, according to Miss Laura Murray, chief of the bureau of industrial teacher training. The aim of the instruction will be to acquaint service men with the new developments in their field, to teach them to locate troubles which may develop in the modern receivers, and to give them an understanding of the more intricate circuits.

The school will be financed by state and federal funds made available through the state department of industrial education by the national vocational education act, commonly known as the Smith-Hughes law. A nominal enrollment fee will be collected, but no tuition will be charged the men who attend.

The first school of this kind to be held in the state was conducted at the University of Texas last summer. Thirty-two men were enrolled for the courses and asked that the school be held annually. "Since radio is a comparatively new industry, the service man finds that he must constantly improve himself professionally if he is to keep up with the developments and meet competition," Miss Murray said. "Only those who are technically trained and who keep pace with changing conditions can hope to continue to serve a public which is becoming more and more critical of the service it receives and demanding expert workmanship."

Mrs. W. C. Shelton, Mrs. Ida Lee Bell and Mrs. R. W. Mancill left Tuesday for a two week's visit in San Antonio.

The Future Life—(Easter Lesson) ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matt. 25:31-46; Mark 12:26, 27; Luke 24:1-12; John 14:1-6; I Cor. 15:3-20, 50-58; I Thess. 4:13-18; Rev. 22:1-5.

To teach his disciples the reality of the future life beyond the grave, Jesus reminded them of God's speaking to Moses out of the burning bush: "I am the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob." They had died centuries before and yet they were living still with God.

Our hope of the future life and the resurrection of our own bodies rests chiefly upon Christ's bodily resurrection from the grave and his appearance to his disciples. He first appeared to Mary Magdalene, then to other women and to the apostles.

As the other women came to the tomb they found it empty and saw two angels who said to them, "Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here but is risen." They rushed back to report the glad news to the apostles.

Paul used Christ's resurrection as the proof of the Christian's resurrection, calling him "the first-fruits of them that are asleep." This faith was made clear to John in a vision of heaven as a place of beauty in the presence of Christ. (GOLDEN TEXT—John 11:25)

OLD TIMERS

Sketches of the lives and experiences of the Fathers of Eastland County and the Cisco Country. The Citizen-Free Press Welcomes anecdotes and stories concerning pioneer residents of this section. Send them to the Editor of the Old Timer Department.

Frank Hagerman One of German Settlers Who Have Contributed to Cisco Prosperity

The Cisco country has been blessed with quite a number of early German settlers who came into this section, if not directly, at least indirectly, from the fatherland. But each of them has proven an asset, rather than alibi. Among these early German immigrants who have located in the Cisco country is Frank Hagerman, well known farmer who owns a fertile sandy land farm out beyond the Lutheran community. On Hagerman's farm is located the old Ballard school house, which is now abandoned, as the scholastics of that district have been transferred to the Romney school district, leaving Hagerman with a school house on his land without any school. But he says that's all right. He is entitled to his land rental of $10 per year, and as it has been four years since the school has been taught there, Hagerman appears to be the possessor of a school building without scholars.

Frank Hagerman came to America from the German fatherland when only 17 years of age. He was born in the province of Hannover, Germany, August 17, 1867. Landing at Galveston, he located in Brenham, Washington county, where he hired out as a farm hand. Though he had been apprenticed as a shoemaker in the old country, he did not follow his trade after coming to America. His work as a farm hand earned him $60 the first 14 months after his coming to Texas, but other farmers seeing with what fidelity and application he discharged his duties offered him places on their farms. In fact, Hagerman said, he had no trouble in getting work after his first year, as he tried to give an honest day's work for his wage.

Operated Cigar Factory
The first 10 or 12 years after his coming to America he spent in Washington, Austin and Lavaca counties, then he went over into Llano county, and later moved to Mason, where he established a cigar factory. "That was a rather profitable business," Hagerman told a representative of the Citizen-Free Press. "The trouble was the saloons. They were our best customers, but if you sold your cigars to the saloons, you had to buy more beer than the profits on the cigars. I could not drink that much beer, so I finally gave up the cigar business.

"As stated, I had learned the shoemakers trade in the old country, but never followed that trade after I came to the United States, except making shoes for a few friends. I made a pair of house shoes for one of my friends and 30 years later those shoes were still doing service, and I suppose he has still got them.

"After Oklahoma was opened for settlement I went up there in the hope of getting a piece of land, but failed in locating a homestead, and have never regretted it. I remained in that country two years, renting land from an Indian the first year in the Wichita bottom, where I made only a poor crop. The next year I farmed on another Indian's land but my family was stricken with malarial fever, so I decided to come back to Texas, with Llano as my destination. I had nothing but my wife and a bunch of kids, and while en route I stopped in Cisco, and here I have been for the past 35 years, and it is probable that my mortal remains will remain in the Cisco country till Gabriel sounds his trumpet for the graves to give up their dead.

"Soon after I arrived in Cisco I was offered work on a farm for wages on the Shaltanbrand farm, now known as the old Molencamp farm, just east of my present home, which is now owned by E. K. Winge. I worked there for two years. This was in 1901, the year they closed the saloons in Cisco. "After working for Shaltanbrand for two years, I bought Sam Hitt's equity in the 160 acres on which I am now living and cultivating, which was state land, that he had settled on. I still owe the state a small balance, which I expect to liquidate this year, when this homestead will be mine."

Married in Brenham
There was no dearth of comely lassies of his native tongue in Washington county, and, as might be anticipated, this intrepid German boy was not long after coming to America, in finding his mate. After a brief courtship Hagerman, then 20 years of age, induced Miss Minnie Holt to change her name to Hagerman, and the two were married in 1887. To this union nine children were born—six boys and three girls—all now grown and most of whom are rearing families of their own. They are Henry Hagerman, an employe of the Humble company at Cisco; Andrew Hagerman, farming at Sagerton; Theodore Hagerman, a farmer in the Cook community; Mrs. Tilda Tonne, wife of Ed Tonne, of Scranton; Robert Hagerman, farming in the Lutheran community; Mrs. Anna Tonne, of San Angelo; Mrs. Sophie Hoffer, of Sagerton; Charles Hagerman, with the Thornton Feed Mill in Cisco, and Otto Hagerman, with the firm of Norvell & Miller in Cisco. All the children of Mr. and Mrs. Hagerman have left the parental homestead, but he and wife are still carrying on, cultivating the arable lands, and pasturing that which is not in cultivation. Most of their farm is in a high state of cultivation, growing feed for man and beast. He said he had raised no cotton in 15 years, so the process tax on the south's staple has given him no concern. He has a bearing orchard of eight or ten acres in apples, peaches and other fruits, including a new orchard of 120 trees just set out this year. He says he planted about 100 apple trees, but some of them have died. He has about 400 peach trees, including the 120 new trees put out this year. This is exclusive of his vineyard of one-half acre, mostly of the Delaware variety.

"The Delaware grape is unquestionably the best variety for this section," he told the Citizen-Free Press representative. "Speaking of these grapes I feel like doing a bit of 'cussing.' I ordered Delawares from the nursery, but when they put out the next spring I found the nursery had sent me Concord. But I am replacing them with Delawares as fast as I can, as it is the most desirable variety for either table use or for wine.

Did No Military Service
"No, I did no military service in Germany," he said. "I was 17 years of age when I left the fatherland. Then every boy was subject to military service at 18 years of age, so after leaving the common schools I offered my service to the army, to enlist in the cavalry. After examining me the officials decided I was too fat and hardly tall enough to ride a horse, so they rejected me. I told them if they did not take me then they would not get me. I was told that 'we will get you when we want you.' Soon after this I left Germany and came to America. Later I was notified to come back for military service, but I told them they could go to hell. I did go back on a visit in 1921, but not to fulfill my term in the army.

"No, I remember very little about the war with France, as I was most too young. "All German children are required to attend the common schools in Germany until they are 14. At that age they are graduated from the common schools, and if they desire more advanced learning they may attend the colleges and universities at their own expense. But when they pass through the common schools they are about as well educated as the college students are in this country," he said.

Cisco Hi School Choral Club Is Second in State

The Cisco high school choral club, directed by Miss Ella Andres, won second place in the state contest at Belton last Saturday, sponsored by Mary Hardin-Baylor college. Mrs. Ernest Hittson was accompanist.

The club competed with 12 other schools, including Waco high, which took first place.

Last year the Cisco club was the only entrant in the contest and automatically took first place.

Miss LaRue Ely, who last year won first place in the soloist contest competing with entrants of many other high schools, was not eligible for participation this year, by reason of that victory. The trio of the Cisco club, however, won second place also. Misses Ely, Dorothy Jean Walker and Jane Kizer were members of the trio.

Choral club personnel is: First sopranos—Jean Alexander, Louellyn Clark, Lucile Clark, La-

Rue Ely, Francis Gorham and Doris Surles.

Second sopranos—Bessie Rae Coates, Mary Catherine Donahue, Jane Kizer, Dorothy Jean Walker and Esther Walker.

Altos—Mignon Clark, Ruth El Duff, Norma King, Bobbie McWhorter, Lurline Poe and Jacqueline Porter.

RECLUSE HOARDED $12,995

NEW YORK. — Dim nooks and crannies of a musty old brownstone house where Mary V. Welsh, 80, lived and died in the sedate but frugal atmosphere of the early '90s yielded $12,995.39 in loose currency, searchers reported Tuesday.

The body of the aged woman, fully clothed, was found Monday on the floor of the front room of her house where neighbors said she lived a recluse.

A physician said death resulted from natural causes.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Conner, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Conner, Jr., were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Anderson.

Mrs. Goodson Sellers, and daughter, Bobbie Starr, of Abilene are spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Leon Maner.

Hectic Days Sleepless Nights

Miss Currier relieved of nervous days and sleepless nights.

Christine Lanier finds Nervine best nerve medicine she ever used.

Miss Redman takes Dr. Miles Nervine when ever she feels restless.

IF YOU are nervous today, you probably will not sleep well tonight. If you don't sleep well tonight, you will probably be nervous tomorrow.

Don't allow yourself to become nervous. Take Dr. Miles Nervine. It will relax your tense nerves and let you get a good night's sleep.

Irritability, Restlessness, Sleeplessness, often lead to Nervous Headache, Nervous Indigestion, Hysteria—sometimes to a nervous breakdown and organic trouble.

Some of the people, whose letters are printed below, were as nervous as you are—possibly more so—yet they have found relief.

Three years ago I was so nervous I could not bear to go out in company and could not sleep nights. A friend recommended Dr. Miles Nervine. I now enjoy myself thoroughly and sleep every night. Miss Juliette Currier, New Market, N. H.

I have used Dr. Miles Nervine in liquid form and find it the best medicine for the nerves I have ever used. Christine Lanier, Middleton, Tennessee Whenever I have over-indulged and feel restless I take one or two Nervine Tablets just before I retire. In the morning when I awake I feel like a new person and can go about my work as usual. Dr. Miles Nervine Tablets quiet your nerves, brace you up and are the simplest, most convenient tablets to take I have ever found. Miss Grace Redman, St. James, Minn.

Before using your Nervine I was very nervous and irritable. Since I have started to take it I feel so much better that my family notice the difference. I still take it from time to time and the good result is wonderful. J. H. Redding, 1027 18th Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Mr. Redding His family appreciate his improved disposition.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

For the Lord God is a sun and shield; the Lord will give grace and glory; no good thing will He withhold from them that walk uprightly.—Ps 84:11.

Help me to give today from out the store
That thou hast given me; help me to soar
Above the sordid things that seem to claim my day;
Help me to be about Thy business sweet, to watch and pray;
Thy peace apparent in the morning hush, the robin's song,
Help me to keep within my heart the whole day long. —M. A. THOMAS.

In the midst of all this confusion of the present day we should not be pessimistic, but hold to the true belief that the increasing power of God will prevail and overcome such present day conditions if we follow him and only him.—Rev. J. H. MAC-CONNELL.

THE Fort Worth Star-Telegram takes editorial cognizance of the trend toward simplification of the jury system with the statement that the requirement of unanimity in jury verdicts "seems to have arisen as accidentally as did the number twelve as determining the size of the jury."

The Minority Rules
It is more difficult to change custom than to tunnel through a mountain of rock but there is an unmistakable reform disposition nowadays to eliminate this requirement of unanimity except in cases involving capital punishment. The evils of the unanimous verdict have long been recognized. Probably no single attribute of our judicial system has been so employed to defeat its proper ends. Crime has literally flourished behind this ironic safeguard of its activities while the crooked lawyer and his ilk have fattened upon the means it provides for defeating justice. Rather than equipping the court with the wisdom of the majority, it makes the imprudent or corrupt minority the real arbiter of the cause. The pleader who must rest his case not upon facts or extenuating circumstances can appeal to the gullibility or the cupidity of one juror to thwart the minds of the eleven. In that case the cause of justice is being put to tremendous odds. The power of one man to determine a cause is magnified far beyond its just proportion, and rather than a positive assertion with its force and influence, we are confronted with a negative disposition. The spectacle of a majority opinion thwarted at finding its way over the opposition of one man is not a stimulating commentary upon the jury system as it now exists. It is certainly, on the other hand, a temptation to that predatory type of mind which prostitutes virtue and seeks fortune in injustice. A crooked lawyer can permit his legitimate colleagues to select 11 jurors and then defeat their case by naming but one. That sort of a condition is nothing short of a travesty. By the simple amendment of the system the crooked one can be placed upon an equal footing with his honest fellows, and compelled to face a just and proportionate adjudication of the evidence.

THIS is not to say that all cases of "hung juries" are the result of a deliberate intention of a minority to defeat justice. Probably not one in a hundred might be traced to such a reprehensible motive. But why should the will of one or two prevail against the findings of five times that number in such democratic institutions, no matter how sincere may be the thought of the one or two upon the issues involved? Few, indeed, are the instances in which efforts have been made to "fix" juries and usually these efforts are disclosed by the very jurors approached. But every trial lawyer knows that it is extremely difficult to collect 12 minds among which there are not some elements of radicalism or incipient rebellion upon which he may call by some adroit direction of his case and thus make subterfuge a master of discretion. IN the case of capital punishment the provision requiring a unanimous decision of the jury ought to be retained; but in cases of lesser significance and in civil matters, except in certain special instances, the rule of unanimity is a hindrance rather than an aid toward justice.

Maybe you think that statement is a "lot of Huey." But every day we repair Mail Order Furniture for customers who thought that they could get more for their money than they could get from the Home Dealer. The money they spend for repair would more than pay the difference for good furniture from the Home Dealer.

Believe it or not, we have Good Furniture on our floors at less than the Mail Order Houses sell it

WHEN WORLDS COLLIDE

SYNOPSIS

David Ransdell, commissioned as Capt. of the Space Ship, reaches New York. Tony Drake calls at the Hendersons' apartment. Tony Drake, with whom Ransdell is in love, introduces Tony Ransdell. A statement by Henderson says that Professor Bronson has discovered two planets approaching the earth. The result of the inevitable collision must be the end of this world. The approaching bodies are referred to as Bronson Alpha and Bronson Beta. Henderson in contemplation of a "rocket" in which to transfer a party of human beings, lower animals, and other forms of life, to Bronson Beta. Tony Drake, up to date, has not been able to find a metal which will withstand the heat and pressure of atomic energy to be used in propelling the Space Ship. The tides sweep to the Appalachians on the east and to the mountains on the Pacific side, and quakes change the entire surface of the earth. Ransdell and Eliot James, an English poet, make an aerial reconnaissance. They report almost universal destruction. Ransdell, Peter Vanderbilt, and James leave Henderson's camp for a fight over the devastated country. They are attacked, and each member of the party wounded, but they return alive, and Ransdell has found the metal Henderson needs for the Space Ship.

"We had landed on the water from the north. We anchored near shore and quickly made our way to land. All of us were armed. Lots were drawn to determine whether Ransdell or Vanderbilt would remain on guard beside the ship. I was useless in that capacity, as I would be unable to fly in case of emergency. It was agreed that the lone guard was to take off instantly upon the approach of any persons whatever. Our ship was our only refuge.

"Vanderbilt was elected to remain. Ransdell and I started off at once toward the city. As we scrambled to the top of a sea-wall, the streets of the metropolis stretched before us—empty. Chicago was a dead city. We strained our ears and eyes. There was nothing. No light in the staring windows. No plume of steam on the lofty buildings. Unconsciously, we had both drawn our revolvers.

"Directly ahead of us were the skyscrapers of the northern business district. Large sections of brick and stonework had been shaken from the sides of the buildings, leaving yawning holes which looked as if caused by shell-fire. The great windows had been shaken into the street, and the sidewalks were literally buried in broken glass.

"We moved forward into the business district. We had crossed the railroad tracks before we found any bodies; but on the other side they appeared here and there. It was immediately manifest that the people who had left Chicago had taken with them every object upon which they could lay their hands. The stores were like open bazaars; their glass windows had been broken in by marauders or burst out by the quakes, and their contents had been ravaged.

"We continued to notice that the dead on the street did not represent even a tithe of the metropolitan population, and I expressed the opinion that the passing of the Bronson Bodies must have caused a mighty exodus.

"Ransdell's reply was a shrug, and abruptly my mind was discharged upon a new course. "You think they're all upstairs?" I asked.

"He nodded. A block farther along we came to an open fissure. As we approached it, the wind blew us a wisp of this exuding gas, and instantly we were thrown into fits of coughing. Our lungs burned, our eyes stung and we snatched each other's arms and ran uncertainly from the place.

"'Gas,' Ransdell said, gasping. "No other words were necessary to interpret the frightful fate of Chicago; nothing could better demonstrate how profound was the disturbance under the earth's crust. For in this region noted for its freedom from seismic shocks and remote from the recognized volcanic region, it was evident that deadly, suffocating gases such as previously had found the surface only through volcanoes, here had seeped up and blotted out the population. These gases, largely hydrochloric, were heavier than air; and apparently they lay like a choking cloud on the ground. When those who escaped the first suffocating currents—and apparently they were in the majority—climbed to upper floors to escape, they were followed by the rising vapors. That frightful theory explained why there were so few dead on the street, and why no one had returned to the silent city.

"Darkness was approaching, and moreover our single experience with the potency of the gas even in dilation warned us that a deeper penetration of the metropolitan area was more than dangerous.

"The Waters of Lake Huron Had Poured Through the City and Surrounding District, Completely Depopulating It and Largely Destroying It."

"We found Vanderbilt sitting upon a stone on the shore beside the plane. We pushed out to it in the collapsible boat, and while we ate supper, we told him what we had seen.

"His comment perhaps is suitable for closing this record of the great city of Chicago: "Sitting alone, I realized what you were investigating; and for the first time, gentlemen, I understand what the end of the world would mean. I have never come so close to losing my nerve. It was awful."

Henderson turned a few pages. "I am now skipping a portion of Mr. James' record. It covers their investigation of the Great Lakes and describes with care the geological uplifting of that basin. From Chicago they flew to Detroit. In Detroit they found a different form of desolation. The waters of Lake Huron had poured through the city and the surrounding district, completely depopulating it and largely destroying it. They were able to land their plane on a large boulevard, a section of which was unbroken, and they refueled in the vicinity. They saw no one. Cleveland had suffered a similar fate. Then they continued their flight to Pittsburgh. I read from Mr. James' record:

"Like God leading the children of Israel, Pittsburgh remains in my memory as a pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night. As we approached the city, we saw smoke arising against the sky. Vanderbilt damped the motors and we dropped toward the Monongahela river, which was full to the brim of the levees and threatened to inundate the city. Earthquakes had half wrecked its structures.

"Our ship came to rest, and we taxied cautiously toward one of the submerged bridges. I threw a rope over one of the girders, and we made fast. We went ashore by way of the taut rope.

"It was easy to perceive the cause of the smoke. A large area of what remained of Pittsburgh was in flames, and to our ears came clearly the din of battle. Rifles cracked incessantly; machine-guns clattered; and occasionally we heard the cough of a hand grenade.

"It was not wise to proceed farther. Nevertheless, I insisted on going forward while my companions returned to guard our precious ship. I had not invaded the city deeply before bullets buzzed overhead. I took cover. Not far away, in a street that was a shambles, I saw men moving. They carried rifles which they fired frequently; and they wore the tattered remnants of the uniform of the National Guard.

"A squad of these men retreated toward me, and as they did so, I perceived their enemy. Far down the street a mass of people surged over the barricade-like ruins of a building. They were terrible to see even at that distance. Half naked, savage, screaming, armed with every tool that might be used as a weapon—a mob of the most desperate sort. The retreating squad stopped, took aim and several of the approaching savages fell. In their united voices I detected the tones of women.

"As the guardsmen reached my vicinity, one of them clapped his hand to his arm and staggered away from his fellows to shelter. The squad was at that instant reinforced by a number of soldiers, who carried a machine gun. The mob was temporarily checked by its clatter.

"I made my way to the wounded man, and he gratefully accepted the ministrations I could offer from the small kit I carried in my pocket. His right arm had been pierced. It was from him that I was able to learn the story of Pittsburgh.

CHAPTER IX

"THE man was George Schultz, a National Guardsman. Henderson continued, reading from Eliot's diary. 'He said the mills at Pittsburgh had been working to the last moment. The government deemed that the great steel city was in no danger from the tides and had used it for manufacturing during the last days.

"After the quake, what was left of the administrative powers immediately organized the remnant of the police and National Guard. Food ran low; medical supplies gave out; the populace rebelled.

"Three days before our arrival a mob armed itself and attempted to take over the distribution of the remaining food and supplies. I had appeared on the scene apparently after the mob and the forces of law and order had been fighting for three days; and it was not necessary for Schultz to explain to me that in a very short time the National Guardsmen and police would be routed; their numbers were vastly inferior; their ammunition was being exhausted, and organized warfare was out of the question in that madman's terrain.

The Rural Housewife

Being News of Progressive Eastland County Farm Women Who Are Making Happy, Comfortable Homes in the Best Place of All to Live.

Conducted by MISS RUTH RAMEY, Co. Home Dem. Agent.

DIRECTIONS FOR SCOURING SMALL WOOL SAMPLES

Mrs. Lillian Neal, Eastland, bedroom demonstrator for the Ranger Co-Workers Home Demonstration club has worked with scouring wool and mohair for using in comforts, rugs and other household articles. Mrs. Eastland gave the following information and directions to help the other club women of the county who have the wool and can use it for filling comforts or quilts.

- Equipment:
1. Four galvanized wash tubs.
 2. Small wooden paddle to agitate wool in scouring solution.
 3. Laundry wringer.

Preparation of Solution
Heat 10 gallons of water, then add one-half pound sal soda and stir well. To his add three pounds of soap. In the preparation of a soap solution care should be taken to use good mild soap for best results.

The temperature of the first tub should be one hundred and twenty degrees F. and best to use a thermometer, but can be tested by hand. The water is hot enough to be uncomfortable to the hand, soap solution added to show rather heavy suds when the water is agitated.

Water in second tub should be 115 degrees, slightly cooler than first and with one half the amount of soap solution.

Temperature of the third tub is one hundred and ten degrees F. and a very small amount of soap solution. The fourth tub should be heated to one hundred degrees F. and should be clear water for the rinse.

It may be difficult to keep the temperature of the four tubs constant, but care should be taken not to allow the first to get more than the one hundred and twenty degrees F. and not below one hundred and ten degrees F. Experience will help you more than anything else in the scouring of the wool, and it will soon be an easy matter to judge the correct amount of the soap solution to use for the best results.

DON'TS IN SCOURING WOOL

Mrs. E. E. Barnes, bedroom co-operator for the Ranger Co-Workers Home Demonstration club offers the following don'ts to women who are planning to scour the home grown wool. Mrs. Barnes uses the wool she scours for filling comforts, making into yarn and hooking into rugs.

1. Do not take bar soap and rub the wool with it.
2. Do not rub or pound the wool while it is in the scouring solution.
3. Do not use washing machine.

Development of Church Camp Site Proceeds Rapidly

Development of the 33-acre site atop a wooded, level promontory overlooking an impressive expanse of canyon and the charming lakes of the state fish hatchery at Lake Cisco for the location of the summer encampment grounds of the Fort Worth presbytery is proceeding rapidly. Major project under way now is the construction of a road to and encircling the grounds. This construction entails filling a deep ravine. Enormous chunks of rock are being wrested from the sides of the ravine and dragged into the bottom by means of the city's big tractor.

Clearing of the site is two-thirds completed.

Native Stone Buildings.
The ground was offered the presbytery through a 99-year lease, accepted by the church body in recent session here. Plans are now being formulated for the construction of buildings out of the natural stone. Plans also include the development of a natural amphitheater under the brow of the rocky hill that overlooks and slopes swiftly to the state fish hatchery on one side and the state park canyon to the right and beyond the hatchery. This amphitheatre, facing east, would be used for sunrise worship services. In its natural state, and but for the presence of brush and a few trees, is almost completely equipped for the comfort and convenience of the worshippers. Even a pulpit exists ready made of stone in the exactly proper spot for the pulpit.

Natural Cathedral
On the western edge of the grounds and directly confronting the zoo, from which it would be hidden by a natural wall of craggy rocks, is a spot hardly less suitable for an outdoor cathedral where it is planned to hold vesper or sunset services. The place is broad and level, equipped with impressive rock in formations easily adapted to the seating of a congregation. It is high, giving a clear view of the sunset over the level plateau that intervenes between the site and the grounds of the country club, and the trees that spring from the rock crevices add the influence of a cloistering roof. The prodigious shapes of the natural stone surrounding the practically level floor give it a further touch of religious awe.

A force of more than 50 relief workers has been allowed for the development of the site.

Big Future Seen

The buildings to be erected for

4. Do not soak wool in water before starting to scour.
5. Do not let wool stay in scouring bath over eight minutes.
6. Do not put too much wool in tub at once.
7. A good lather should appear when wool is put through the wringer after the second bowl.

Dry the wool and then card into bats and fill comforts or spin into the yarn for other purposes.

Among the Derricks

ALBANY. — One of the most interesting wildcat tests for western Shackleford was contracted for this week when Fain-McGaha Oil corporation of Wichita Falls completed a deal for a block of leases five miles northwest of the famed Bluff Creek pool, east of Lueders, and staked location for an 1800 foot test in center of northeast quarter of southeast quarter of section 169, BBB&CRR lands, Fannie C. Fife fee No. 1, located adjoining the Swenson ranch and one and one-fourth mile west of the Domestic Oil Co. of Fort Worth No. 1 R. V. Colbert (now Col. T. G. Hendrick fee) which encountered highly favorable showing in test drilled in southwest corner of section 15, AB&M lands. The block was acquired from Albany operators and is rated a choice spot from surface and subsurface geology.

L. H. Choate No. 1 C. H. King is rigging up for a new wildcat test on the Shackleford-Jones county line, located 1800 feet from west section line and 420 feet from south section line of section 213, ETRR Co. lands, three miles due west of Bluff Creek pool, 2 1/2 miles south of Lueders, a new 1800 foot test that will be of interest to both Shackleford and Jones county lease holders and operators. W. J. Rhodes of Breckenridge owns leases around this new test, and has other valuable lease holdings in western Shackleford.

In Bluff Creek pool Roeser & Pendleton, Inc.-Humble Oil & Refining Co. No. 22 J. P. Morris is drilling at 500 feet, a forced offset to C. A. Jones No. 1 J. P. Morris, located in the center of the north line of northwest quarter of northeast quarter of section 201, ETRR Co. lands, one of the few tests drilled in the center portion of the pool within the past year.

L. H. Choate No. 1 W. O. Reeves is a new wildcat location for the northwest corner of Shackleford, located in the northeast corner of west half of southwest quarter of section 14, H&TCRR lands, being 1 1/2 mile west of the Simpson & Bean pool in section 13, which has shown two nice pumps in the 1500 foot horizon, the last well being completed for 35 barrels initial in sand at 1550 feet; this play being on the southwest flank of the big structure worked by H. H. Adams, Dr. Victor Zeigler and Roy Reynolds in the area, but thus the permanent encampment will be of native stone and the architecture will conform to the outdoor motif that is desired for such encampments. All modern conveniences will be brought to the service of the project which, if the development of other and less naturally adapted encampment sites is to be trusted in projecting the future of this, will grow into an annual program drawing many hundreds of people to Cisco and the lake area.

These plans, however, are only in formative state. That they will be aggressively pushed was evident from the seriousness with which the presbytery accepted the proffer of the grounds.

far big gas wells have been developed and only two oil pools, that of Choate on Simpson & Bean and the old Superior Oil Producing Co. pool on the Reynolds Cattle Co. ranch in Haskell county, across the line from Shackleford in northeast corner of the A. Rodriguez survey, an area that received more attention and more purchases from big companies and big operators in the past than probably any like area in this territory.

Tannehill Petroleum Co. No. 37 W. P. Newell in the northwest part of southeast quarter section 11, block 11, T&PRR survey, is shut down at 2265 feet pending orders. This is the deepest test ever drilled in the old original Tannehill pool area, the first shallow oil ever found in western Shackleford county, in a pool that has been producing for over 12 years and is still active.

F. W. Peckham et al No. 1 J. A. Matthews in southeast corner of northwest quarter of northwest quarter of section 56, ETRR Co. land topped the Fry sand at 920 feet and is preparing to drill in. Located east of the Cook pool, this test is adjoining acreage held for the past eight years by Republic Production Co. The best Fry sand production in Shackleford county, outside of the original Fry pool developed by Roeser & Pendleton, Inc., eight years ago in the TE&L survey 384, is in the J. A. Matthews ranch area in sections 56 and 57, ETRR Co., five miles north of Albany, for in this area Gilman & McMurray wells have been completed for as high as 120 barrels initial in this 900 foot horizon, and the sand has shown good recovery of oil per acre.

A large block of leases has been acquired in the area five miles east of Albany by a prominent firm of geologists, with intention of drilling a deep lime test, and a scattered leasing play is under way in various directions around Albany, and two blocks recently acquired in the W. Y. and L. G. Davis ranches eight miles southwest of Albany were leased with a cash bonus and drilling obligation by a Tulsa company and an Albany operator.

Albany News Man Welcome Visitor

While Mrs. Fryar was attending the cooking school here last Saturday Editor C. A. Fryar of the Albany News, was a pleasant visitor at the Citizen-Free Press sanctum, and the force appreciated his coming. Taking over the Albany News under a lease contract more than a year ago, Mr. Fryar is maintaining the splendid standard established by the owner of the News and its former editor, Col. Dick McCarty. Mr. Fryar informed the Citizen-Free Press that the News will put on a cooking school, beginning Thursday, and we wish him abundant success. True, Albany is a small town, and the News is only published once a week, but such a spirit of enterprise as that which is manifested by Mr. Fryar will come out all to the good.

State Assistance in Municipal Tax Problem Needed

AUSTIN. — A permanent solution of the problem of municipal revenue in Texas calls for a system of financial aid by the state to supplement the yield of the general property tax, it is pointed out by J. T. Barton, assistant in the University of Texas bureau of municipal research, in a recent published bulletin, "A Revenue System for Texas Cities."

"State assistance to cities may take the form of grants-in-aid, direct grants, development of new sources of municipal revenue, assumption of local functions by the state government, or state-administered municipally-shared taxes," he said. "Municipal officials in this state exhibited opposition to grants-in-aid, direct grants, and state assumption of local functions, procedures which are likely to bring in their wake a strong element of state control over local government which in turn means that local functions probably would fall into the hands of those not acquainted with local conditions. There are comparatively few new sources of revenue which the state may throw open to municipalities because most sources already have been exploited. State-administered municipally-shared taxes, however, embody the benefits resulting from state administration of the taxes and local administration of the governmental functions thus financed. The need for and the equity of state-administered municipally-shared taxes may be indicated by reference to the state gasoline tax. "Also available as potential state-administered municipally-shared taxes are the severance, inheritance, and the sales taxes. Without attempting either to attack or to defend any of these taxes on the ground of public policy, it may be said that, if any is to be used, the state, from the very nature of the tax, must assume responsibility for its administration. Yet it is hardly to be doubted that the cities are as much entitled to the revenue so produced as the state itself. In brief, if one or more of these taxes is to be adopted, the state should serve as the administrative agent and should divide the yield with the cities. The portion of these taxes allotted to the municipalities would take the place of revenue supposedly received at present from the ad valorem tax on personal property. This would make possible the recommended modification of the present ad valorem tax, and a more equitable distribution of its burden. State-administered municipally-shared taxes may be said to be the most important single proposal yet made for the solution of the problem of a revenue structure for Texas municipalities."

Gridiron to Gov't

GERALD C. MANN

Sec'y of State Does Job Like He Played Football

It seems a far cry the battle scarred gridiron where the pigskin is thrown, carried and kicked, to the halls of government, but Gerald C. (Jerry) Mann made it. The present secretary of state under New Deal Government Jimmie Allred, takes his job as seriously as he did his football. And the opposing teams of Southern Methodist University, back in 1925-26 and '27 will tell you that that's saying a lot.

Each year the job of being secretary of state gets bigger. He is charged with the collection of a million and a half dollars in franchise taxes. He must attempt to protect the investing public from being "gypped" by salesman of bogus stock. He must see that all official documents are filed and properly kept.

In addition to these duties, Jerry will serve as a member of the newly created state planning board, a New Deal measure, which proposes to coordinate the forces of reconstruction in Texas.

It's a big order, but the former "Little Red Arrow" isn't complaining. Somebody asked him if there was any point of comparison between statecraft and football. "Sure," he replied. "The best way to do both is to shoot hard and fast. Play square. Put team interest above selfish interests." And that in itself is pretty good philosophy of politics and statesmanship.

Mrs. Leonard Simon and daughters, Mary Ann and Julia Lee, have returned to their home in Fort Worth.

Nearly 5,000 More CCC Recruits Asked

AUSTIN. — Authority to enroll 4,986 Texas boys in citizens conservation camps in the eighth corps area was received here last week by Neal E. Guy, enrollment supervisor for Texas.

County administrators were notified immediately to instruct boys selected to report to recruiting stations between April 17 and 23. Enrollment will be for a six months period as usual with an opportunity to re-enroll for an additional six months.

Effect of this new enrollment of boys will be to take approximately 5,000 Texas families off the relief rolls by June 1, at which time first checks will be received by beneficiaries of enrollees.

Guy said approximately 2,725 young men will be sent out of the state to camps in Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming. The remainder will go to the 55 camps in Texas.

Enrollment of these boys will again bring the quota of Texas young men in CCC camps to the maximum figure of slightly more than 14,000.

Employment Shows Slight March Decline

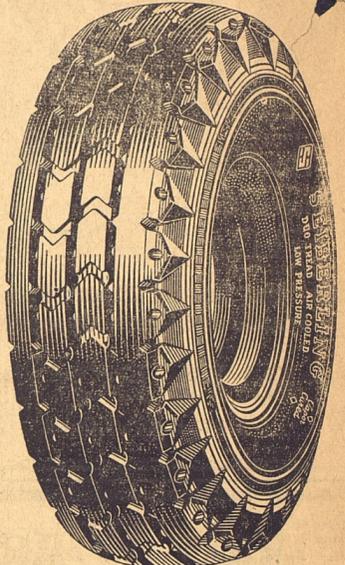

AUSTIN. — Industrial and commercial employment in Texas declined slightly during March in comparison both with the previous month and the corresponding period last year, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research.

Reports from 1,578 representative Texas establishments covering the week which ended March 16 show a total of 68,971 employees, an average decline of one per cent from the month before and 1.4 per cent from the corresponding week last year. The weekly payrolls for these firms were $1,564,000, a decline of 1.5 per cent from the previous month but an increase of 4.5 per cent over the corresponding week in March last year.

Groups showing improvement over the two comparable periods were: Electric railway car shops, foundries, machine shops, hotels, laundries, dry cleaning, millwork, retail and wholesale stores.

The Rural Community Has Come to Town

The rural community and small city faces a new future. Electric service and all that electric power and light mean to home life, commercial and industrial development is now available for a more constructive and wider field of achievement.

Much work, planning, testing, engineering and large investments of capital was necessary in order to make this possible. Our 2600 miles of power transmission lines, interlacing 49 counties in West Texas and serving 160 towns and communities provide an adequate and economical source of dependable electric service with precise regulation to meet the requirements of modern day appliances.

Today hundreds of small West Texas towns and communities can offer to industry this modern electric service in proximity to its raw materials... two very necessary prerequisites for industrial progress.

We point with pride to our part in assisting the small towns and communities in this way, thus guaranteeing to them the same opportunities in respect to power as the larger metropolitan cities enjoy. It is our policy to fully co-operate with the small towns and communities we serve so that they may realize the full benefits accompanying and made possible by electrical development.

OES Certificates Are Awarded to 21 Cisco Members

Twenty-one members of the Cisco chapter, No. 461, Order of Eastern Star, were awarded certificates of perfection among the 108 awards made at the district school of instruction for section 3, district No. 4, O. E. S. held with the Cisco chapter April 15. There were 11 "A," and 10 "B" certificates given to members of the local chapter.

The sessions were held in the Masonic hall, where 175 guests and delegates registered from chapters other than the Cisco chapter. Twelve of the out-of-town guests were grand lodge members, including Mrs. Mattie Mitchell, of San Antonio, grand worthy matron of the order in Texas; Mrs. Gertrude Joiner, of DeLeon, district deputy worthy grand matron; Mrs. Della Young, of Fort Worth, grand examiner; Mrs. Esther Baldwin, of Wichita Falls, grand examiner-at-large; Mrs. Josephine Raney, of Fort Worth, representative of Louisiana; Mrs. Mary Graves, of Fort Worth, district deputy grand matron.

108 Certificates
 The morning session opened at 9:30 with the registration of delegates, by the registration committee, consisting of Mrs. Pearl More-hart, chairman, Mrs. P. P. Shepard and Mrs. C. C. Duff.

The chapter was formally opened by the Cisco chapter, and the school was opened by the grand worthy matron, Mrs. Mattie Mitchell, after which she delivered the gavel to Mrs. Gertrude Young, of DeLeon, district deputy grand matron of district No. 3, who was assisted by Mrs. Della Young, of Fort Worth, of the grand examining board, and other grand officers in conducting the examinations for certificates of perfection. It was announced that 108 had successfully passed the examinations, and these were awarded certificates.

Chapters of towns in the district represented at the school included those of Cross Plains, Carbon, Ranger, Eastland, Breckenridge, Albany, Wichita Falls, Moran, Baird, Stephenville, Fort Worth, San Antonio and DeLeon.

Luncheon at Church
 The morning session was brought to a close at the conclusion of the ritualistic work and the examinations for certificates, when the school recessed for luncheon, as the guests of Cisco chapter. The luncheon was served in the banquet rooms of the First Christian church.

The afternoon session was called to order at 1:30.

Dinner at 7:30 in the Laguna hotel dining room, where plates were laid for 13, preceded the evening session when the address of the worthy grand matron was delivered and degrees were conferred. Among those receiving these degrees were Mrs. Kate Richard-
