Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

A mystery has confounded the Cisco police department. For differing reasons the only two persons who are able to offer a solution to the mystery are silent upon the issue. It concerns the disappearance of a couple of calendars that Desk Sergeant Henry Stubblefield, with a flare for the artistic, had hung upon the plastered walls of the station.

One day the calendars disappeared and Henry began a quiet but thorough search for the missing art. It was noticeable that Night Desk Sergeant Evans kept mighty quiet upon the subject. Henry looked volumes in his direction, but he refrained from making any comments.

I wonder what was upon the calendars?

In the windows of the building between the First National bank and the J. C. Penney company is an exhibit of needlework that is one of the most convincing commentaries on the character of work being done in the adult education schools of Cisco. The exhibit embraces a great variety of work done in the sewing classes of the schools. Quilts, dresses, embroidery, etc., exhibited in a mingling of colorful and attractive designs, are shown.

The name of Melvina Heyser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Heyser, was inadvertently left off the list of graduates of the Cisco grammar school published in last Thursday's edition of the Citizen-Free Press. I regret the omission, and extend our apologies to Melvina, whether it was our fault or the fault of someone else.

Coleman O'Brien wants to contact someone who is going to El Paso or beyond this week. He intends to leave Monday, if possible, to enter school at that city. He said he will be glad to do the driving, if desired. Anyone who would like his company on such a trip may get in touch with him through Leon Maner's City Drug store.

In the absence of things we appreciate them. For a hundred miles east of El Paso where the road stretches through areas of sparse vegetation, the paved highway is embellished with Spanish daggers set in little circular beds of stone at regular intervals to form an attractive avenue.

In this country where we have a profusion of wild flowers and the possibilities for greatly beautifying the roads, we even cut down some of the trees that nature has placed on the right-of-way.

Various proposals have been advanced for making the roads beautiful with flowers and trees. It takes a lot of talking and arguing to make an impression. Perhaps, after twenty or thirty years, when traffic shall have been lifted from the highways into the airways and beauty on the asphalt no longer is important, perhaps, to repeat, after that time we shall act on the suggestions and have really beautiful lanes.

Ivan Little Heads Randy Honor Roll

Ivan Little of Woodson headed the Randolph college honor roll for the first semester with an average of 7.4. Mary Wilson, Cisco, was second with an average of 7.3. Mr. Little is a member of the freshman class. Third place was held by Thad Doty with an average of 7.2. Others making the honor roll for the first semester were: Pat Cochran, Throckmorton; Nell Alexander, Corpus Christi; Ruby Russell, Ft. Worth; Vivian Filpatrick, Cisco; Powell Sharpe, Corinth, Mississippi; Ilene Webster, Cisco; Frances Bacon, Cisco; Ila Smith, Eastland; Tequila Nance, Cisco; Crystal Jackson, Cisco; Jack Brooks, Moran; Mary Jane Morehart, Cisco; and Rubye Vaughn, Hereford.

Quick Trial of Assault Case Is Planned

Mayor and 2 Comm's Run Again

The names of Mayor J. T. Berry and City Comm's H. A. Bible and W. J. Foxworth Saturday were posted as candidates for re-election at the general municipal election to take place Tuesday, April 2, 1935.

Announcement of their candidacies was made in the following brief statement, signed by them:

We, the undersigned, in announcing for re-election as Mayor and City Commissioners of the city of Cisco, feel that it is unnecessary to relate what has been accomplished during the tenure of office of the present administration. The citizenship is thoroughly familiar with everything that has been done, and has cooperated with us to the fullest extent. We think the program of rehabilitation should be continued, and will appreciate an opportunity to assist with it.

We sincerely feel that with the continued co-operation of our fellow citizens, a great deal may be accomplished toward improving conditions in Cisco. Business conditions generally are slowly improving; and with our united efforts we should fast approach normal business conditions.

Your assistance in all of these matters will be appreciated very much.

J. T. BERRY,
Candidate for Mayor.
W. J. FOXWORTH,
Candidate for
City Commissioner.
H. A. BIBLE,
Candidate for
City Commissioner.

Of the three, Mr. Bible is facing election for the first time, having been appointed to his post upon the resignation of Joe Clements shortly after the election two years ago. Mr. Foxworth has served one term. Mayor Berry is seeking a third term.

No Plans Made at Star to Protest Action of Katy

RISING STAR. — Consensus of opinion among the business men of Rising Star and Cross Plains seems to be that it will be better not to protest the action of the Katy railroad in their application to curtail train service on the local branch to three trains per week.

A hearing is set to be held in the Laguna hotel at Cisco at 10 a. m. February 7, and while officials of the local chamber of commerce expect to attend the meeting, they will not protest the action of the railroad, and at the same time will pledge the system their cooperation in helping the railroad over the hump.

The De Leon Free Press carried the following story on the action of the Katy in a recent issue:

The president of the M-K-T issued a statement a few days ago containing the information that the annual deficit for the entire Katy system in 1934 was $1,375 greater than the deficit in 1933. The management of the road took drastic steps to curtail expenses, and the move in the interest of economy effected men from one end of the system to the other.

Tri-Weekly Service
The road has asked the railroad commission to grant permission to operate tri-weekly service to Cross Plains. Should this appeal be granted, which it doubtless will, the crew operating the branch line will move back from Cross Plains to De Leon.

Commenting on the change, Mr. Malone said the road has suffered greatly during the depression

Delinquent Tax Collections Reflect Better Conditions

Improving community conditions are reflected in the increased collections of delinquent city taxes, City Sec'y J. E. Cate said Saturday. Building and loan companies with large residential property holdings in the city last week paid almost $7,000 in current and delinquent taxes into the municipal till.

This transfer of property from the delinquent rolls to the active list speaks of arising values and the prospect of activity in real estate, it was pointed out.

On immediate reason for the payment of delinquent taxes is the moratorium on penalties and interest that extends by legislative decree to March 15. Current taxes, however, become delinquent and subject to penalty and interest charges on February 1. Friday the secretary received payments totalling $2,300 and Saturday one check was received for $4,300, making a total of $6,600 in current and delinquent taxes from these sources alone. In one instance back taxes were paid on a vacant lot for 1928, since which time a house has been erected there.

Payments of taxes by building and loan associations during the depression, Mr. Cate said, and by the large industrial concerns represented here, was responsible for the fact that the city was able to go through the period without getting into the red.

Wheel Leaves Car and Breaks Store Window

A freak accident on D avenue Friday sent a wheel spinning from a car driven by B. Montgomery to crash through a plate glass window of the Osborn Bakery in the 500 block. No one was injured. Except for the broken window, the bakery was undamaged.

CHECKS FOR CALLAHAN

Callahan farmers are receiving government checks this week, according to the Cross Plains Review. There are, the Review says, 850 parity checks, 72 rentals and 50 cattle checks, which were received by Ross Jenkins, county agent. These are being distributed to the farmers of that county.

Payment of Poll Taxes Is Dragging

Payment of poll taxes is slow this year, Deputy County Tax Collector C. S. Karkalits said. At noon Saturday only 1,580 receipts had been issued.

This is about half the number of the payments made to the corresponding date of 1934.

Payment of the county poll tax is essential to qualification for voting in municipal elections and in all other state and district elections that may be held during the year. Although this is an off year, speaking politically, citizens face the probability of a vote on repeal of state constitutional prohibition and other constitutional amendments.

The collector's office will be kept open as long as there are applicants for poll tax receipts, Collector Haley told the Citizen-Free Press. "The office will remain open Thursday night until the last minute or as long as anyone is seeking to pay the tax," Haley said.

Judge Hickman to Be Speaker Upon Rotary Program

Chief Justice J. E. Hickman of the eleventh court of civil appeals at Eastland will be the speaker for the annual Rotary club Ladies Night program to take place at the Laguna hotel Thursday evening at 7:30.

The program will include musical numbers and entertainment to be arranged by a committee of which Mrs. S. E. Hittson is chairman. Vocal solos by Mrs. Stuart Cate of Breckenridge will be featured.

These "Ladies Night" programs annually are outstanding events on the Rotary calendar.

National Red Cross Chairman Is Buried

Judge Barton Payne, National Red Cross chairman, was buried at Washington, D. C., Saturday afternoon with services at 2 o'clock at St. John's Episcopal church, Eastland County Chapter Chairman J. E. Spencer was notified. Judge Payne died Thursday.

Eastland county received liberal awards from the Red Cross during the early years of the depression.

Cisco Miller Describes Flour Making Process in Local Mill

(Editor's Note — For the dual purpose of acquainting the people of Cisco and the Cisco County with Cisco's industries and stimulating the growth of those industries, the Citizen-Free Press will publish a series of articles dealing with each. Below is the first of the series, a story on the Cisco Flour Mill.)

Most people are aware that the flour housewives use for making biscuit, bread and pastry is produced by milling wheat. But we wonder how many understand the process of manufacturing the flour we consume in bread each day? The writer confesses unfamiliarity with the details of the milling, so at the manager's suggestion he took a stroll down to the Cisco Flour Mill, millers of "O. K. Cisco" flour, to get the low down on this milling process for the readers of the Citizen-Free Press.

Trio Thank Cisco Police Officers

The two men and the girl who were held prisoners by a gun-flourishing negro for hours Friday night in a wooded spot near Cisco, Saturday asked the Citizen-Free Press to publish the following "thanks."

"We, Mary Kertesz, Joe Kertesz and Dewey Ball, wish to thank Chief of Police M. L. Purdue and his officers for their fine work of catching the man that held us up last night."

Fund Is Raised For Purchase of Terracing Drag

The Cisco Boosters committee, charged with raising funds for the purchase of a terracing machine to be used by Cisco County farmers through the agricultural department of the Cisco chamber of commerce, reported Saturday that the fund had been raised, the machine ordered from the Brown Tool company at Breckenridge and the commissioners court of the county petitioned to purchase two additional machines for the precinct. The petition, signed by donors to the local fund, will be presented to the court through County Comm'r Arch Birt. If the plea is successful, four terracing machines will be available for the use of Cisco County farmers in soil conservation work. The Cisco FFA chapter already owns one awarded in a state contest.

Following are the names of the donors to the terracing machine fund:

Skiles Grocery, J. H. Mitchell for the Continental Oil company, Mize and Son, Schaefer Bros., Cisco Lumber and Supply company, J. L. Thornton, J. D. Hampton, West Texas Produce company, Norvell and Miller, J. C. King, P. H. LeFeuvre, Rockwell Bros. & Co., Coco Cola Bottling Co., Community Natural Gas company, Savoy Cafe, Wende Bros., Vaughn and Elkins, Grist Hardware, Cisco Gas Corp., H. A. Bible, R. L. Ponsler, Hubert Seale, H. G. Bailey, Johnny Cox, F. E. Shepard, Huestis Bros., K. H. Pittard, J. B. Pratt, Guyle Greynolds, Leach Stores, J. C. Penney Co., John H. Garner's, First National bank, Altman's, Moore Drug Co., Piggly Wiggly, Powell Cleaning plant, E. P. Crawford, Perry Bros., Collins Hardware, The Boston Store, Cisco State bank, Nance Motor company, Johnson Grocery Co., Hyatt and Wood.

The fund raised totalled $72.

Black Holds Girl, 2 Men as Captives

Speedy trial will be asked for Frank Allen, colored, on three assault charges growing out of a harrowing night episode near here Friday in which Allen is alleged to have held three persons prisoners at gun point while attempting attacks upon an 18-year-old Hungarian girl, District Atty Grady Owen said late Saturday.

The case will be laid before the grand jury Monday morning, and if indictments are obtained, effort made to bring it to trial in 91st district court Tuesday.

The charges do not permit of the death penalty, said Owen, which is assessable in the event of actual rape. A life sentence is possible, however.

Charges
The charges on which the state will seek to convict Allen, alias Henry Williams under which name he is said to have served a term from Parker county, are assault with intent to rape, assault with intent to rob and assault with intent to murder.

Allen was arrested here at the home of a colored woman, Mary Lee Adams, early Saturday morning by Chief of Police Milton Purdue and Police Officer O. Gustafson who traced him to that place with descriptions furnished by his alleged white victims. He was taken immediately to Eastland and from there transferred to an unannounced jail, believed to be at Breckenridge, to escape possible mob violence. Action of the officers was quickened by an incident in the Cisco police station which occurred when Joe R. Kertesz, brother of the girl, sought to seize a gun worn by Desk Sergeant Henry Stubblefield as Chief Purdue and M. H. French were taking Allen's fingerprints.

Seized Gun
Stubblefield was sitting upon a newel post of the partition across the police station, the hilt of his gun sticking out of the scabbard. Kertesz seized the weapon but before he could draw it, G. E. Young caught him about the body with both arms and Stubblefield grabbed the hand upon the gun butt. There was excitement for a moment in the crowded room. It subsided, but chance suggestions prompted the officers to hurry their prisoner to a place of safekeeping.

The search that ended with the arrest of Allen began when Kertesz, his sister, Mary, and Dewey Ball, transients en route to El Paso, were brought to George's Cafe by Marvin Elliott, son of W. S. Elliott, T. P. section foreman, with a story that they had been held prisoner in the "jungle" east of Cisco since 8:30 Friday night by a negro who wielded a .38 Colt revolver and threatened to kill them as "bums." They told their story to Night Officers Pierce and Hendricks who searched the railroad yard district, including a freight that had just pulled in, and other probable hiding places without success.

Allen Arrested
Saturday morning descriptions given by the trio led to the arrest of Allen at the home of the Adams woman. Investigation revealed that he had slept at the home of a negro man known as "Tanner" with whom he lived while in Cisco, and had gone to the woman's home about 7 o'clock Saturday morning. A pistol found slipped into a pasteboard box in the kitchen at the woman's house was identified by the trio as that used in the holdup. It had a ring in the butt as had been described to the officers. Clothing worn by Allen and found at the "Tanner" house corresponded with descriptions furnished by the three victims. In Allen's pocket at the time of ar-

Old Letters Trace History of Stephen F. Austin in Settlement of This State

(Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles taken from the special family collections of historical materials in the University of Texas library. The Austin papers, including documents and letters of both Stephen F. Austin, father of Texas, and his father, Moses Austin, comprise but one group of approximately three hundred such family archives in the university library. The collections cover all periods of Texas history, from the earliest days of the Spanish missionaries in the province of Tejas, through the colonial era, to the present. This series of articles presents interesting excerpts from a number of these family collections, some chosen for their intrinsic significance in the development of the empire of Texas, others for their purely human interest in portraying personalities, economic conditions and social intercourse.)

AUSTIN. — The history of Texas during the decade and a half from 1821 to 1835, the years which immediately preceded the birth of the Republic of Texas, was the history of Austin's colonies. Small wonder, then, that romance and drama attach themselves to the figure of Texas' first empresario, Stephen Fuller Austin, and small wonder that generations which have followed and will follow him treasure even the smallest fragment of his personal effects, his papers and documents, minute relics which keep alive his memory and the recollection of his accomplishments in the creation of the commonwealth of Texas.

The Austin papers, comprised of materials accumulated by Moses and Stephen F. Austin in the progress of their busy enterprises from Virginia through Missouri and Arkansas to Texas, form the keystone of the invaluable Texas collection in the University of Texas library. Hundreds of other pioneer Texas families have now added their family archives to the rich Texas history section of the library, and additional material is constantly being deposited or given outright.

Formerly a private collection, the Austin papers have been presented to the University library by the Austin heirs.

Some of Subjects.
Some of the subjects with which the papers deal are: Indian affairs, military affairs, internal improvements, customs duties, census reports, slavery, colonial disturbances, and insurrections. There is a great deal of material upon the beginnings of the Texas revolution and upon the work of the Texas commissioners, of whom Austin was one, in the United States during the first half of 1836. There are several letters from Andrew Jackson and a good many from Anthony Butler and Joel R. Poinsett. There are approximately four thousand letters and documents in the collection.

The Austin papers consist of business memoranda, physiological observations, petitions and memorials to local and superior governments, political addresses and proclamations, and much personal and official correspondence, according to Dr. Barker.

"Moses Austin illustrated in his own career the typical aspects of the business man in the westward movement," Dr. Barker said, "and Stephen F. Austin was, to a degree not approached by any other colonial proprietor in our history, the founder and the indispensable guardian and director during its early vicissitudes of a great American commonwealth."

Hundreds of Letters
"Hundreds of letters in the collection are from inconspicuous persons, unknown to history, who exerted no ascertainable influence for the betterment of themselves and of their families. Many pieces illustrate minutiae of local administration too small, no doubt, to interest a great number of students; and others have only a biographical value. Taken together, however, they give a composite picture which the most careful selection could not equal in clearness accuracy, or authoritativeness."

"Considering his many harassing duties, Stephen F. Austin was a voluminous and remarkably painstaking letter writer. Of most of his official papers he apparently preserved copies, and we frequently find several drafts of a document, interlined and deleted almost beyond decipherment before it reached the copy-book stage."

Moses Austin was born October 4, 1765, in Durham, Conn., the youngest son of Elias Austin, according to the genealogical record of the Austin family in the university collection of Austin papers.

In 1783, he became a dry goods merchant in Philadelphia and a year later entered the import trade and shortly thereafter the wholesale business. In August, 1784, he extended his business to Richmond, Va., and a month later took charge of the establishment in that city. On September 29, 1785, he married Maria Brown, daughter of Abia Brown of New Jersey. Two daughters were born, but both died in infancy. Stephen Fuller Austin was the first son of the couple, born November 3, 1793, at Austin Ville, Va. Moses and Maria Austin had moved to the Lead Mines in Wythe county, Virginia, in 1791, where, together with Stephen Austin, Moses' brother, they purchased an estate and established the village of Austin Ville. In 1797 Moses Austin obtained a grant of land, three miles square, in Louisiana from the Spanish government, and removed his family to Mine a Burton, on this property. In 1816, Moses Austin gave up his Mine a Burton property to his son,

Stephen, and moved his family to Missouri.

Best Tradition
The family record shows that Stephen Fuller Austin and his younger sister, Emerly Margaret Brown Austin, were well educated in the best southern tradition. Stephen spent three years in Colchester academy and two in the academy at Lexington, Ky., while Emily, as her name was later spelled, attended Mrs. Beck's boarding school in Lexington for four years, and later spent more than a year at the Mermittage Academy in New York. James Elijah Brown Austin, a much younger brother, born in 1803, was educated under the tutelage of the Rev. Whiteley of Washington, New York, and under other tutors.

The following excerpt from the family record briefly tells the story of the share Moses Austin had in paving the way for the colonizing of Texas:

"April 20, 1816, Moses Austin and family removed from Mine a Burton and gave up Durham Hall negroes and plantation together with lead mines and furnaces to his son Stephen F. Austin. In 1818 James Elijah Brown, son of Moses Austin, returned from Connecticut, remained at home until June, 1819, when he went to Kentucky near Nicholas Ville to finish his education under a Mr. Wilson.

Went to San Antonio
"In 1819 Stephen F. Austin left the Territory of Missouri and went to reside in the Territory of Arkansas, Red River at Long Branch. Moses Austin left Missouri about the first of May, 1820, and went to the Little Rock in the Territory of Arkansas where he remained some months after which he proceeded on to San Antonio where he arrived (after a journey through a perfect wilderness and attended with much fatigue) about the tenth of December, same year, he there petitioned the supreme authorities of New Spain, through his Excellency Don Antonio Martinez (then governor and political chief of this province of Texas) for a grant of land and permission to settle 300 American families in that province. The petition was forwarded on to his Excellency Don Aredondo then governor-general of the internal eastern provinces of New Spain who confirmed the grant after a previous decree of the provincial deputation (then assembled at the City of Monterrey) to that effect, and the necessary papers were forwarded on to San Antonio immediately. Moses Austin left San Antonio on the 29th of December (previous to the confirmation of the grant) and after a tedious and distressing journey he reached the settlements on the Sabine river not having tasted any kind of nourishment for eight days. Their provisions having failed and the powder they supplied themselves with proved to be so damaged they could not kill any game, although the country abounded in game of all kinds. His hardships were so severe that he was taken with the fever and confined to his bed three weeks at the house of Mr. Hugh McGuffin, 20 miles west of Natchitoches, at this place he was met by his nephew Elias Bates who had left Herculam, Mo. Some time in December in pursuit of him. As soon as he could travel they started together, descended Red River to the Mississippi and arrived at Herculanium some time in March, 1821. The journey proved too great for his constitution which was much impaired, nevertheless he commenced settling his affairs in Missouri with the intention of returning to Texas in August following, but unfortunately he took a cold when at the Mine a Burton, but reached his daughter's, Mrs. Emily M. Bryants on Hezel Run; in a few days the cold terminated in an inflammation on the lungs and after lingering in much pain for ten days which he bore with Christian fortitude, he resigned his soul to his maker without a groan on the tenth of June, 1821, in the 57 year of his age."

The second article of this series will trace Stephen F. Austin's activities in Texas, and two additional articles will give excerpts from heretofore unpublished manuscripts and documents in the Austin collection.

Peter's Denial

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell
And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 14:12-72

In the upper room about the Lord's Table, Jesus plainly foretold his disciples would all forsake him. Simon Peter was especially warned that Satan would tempt him severely and that before morning he would deny Christ thrice.

In the Garden of Gethsemane, Peter with James and John were especially asked to watch with Jesus as he prayed, "Watch and pray that ye enter not into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing but the flesh is weak," he said.

Upon Jesus' arrest "Peter followed him afar off." At the trial of Jesus he sat and warmed himself at the fire with Jesus' opponents and when charged with being his disciple he denied it with curses and oaths.

When Peter made his third denial the cock crowed the second time and Jesus turned and looked at Peter. This reminded him of Jesus' words of warning and Peter went out and wept bitterly for his sin of denying his Lord. (Golden Text—I Cor. 10:12)

OLD TIMERS--

Sketches of the lives and experiences of the Fathers of Eastland County and the Cisco Country. The Citizen-Free Press Welcomes anecdotes and stories concerning pioneer residents of this section. Send them to the Editor of the Old Timer Department.

Pumpkin Center Pioneer Couldn't Wait For County to Be Organized to Be Born

The subject for the Citizen-Free Press "Old Timer" department this issue is N. Aho, of Pumpkin Center. Instead this is an autobiography, for Mr. Aho writes the story himself, and sends it by mail. But he is eligible to our "Pioneer Department," though not born in Eastland county, he says the county was too late in organizing and "he could not wait," but was born before the county was organized.

Here is Mr. Aho's story as he wrote it:

Pumpkin Center, Jan. 24, 1935. Dear Judge:

I see in the Cisco Citizen-Free Press, which I borrowed from my neighbor, that you are running an "old-timers" department in the Citizen-Free Press, and I think it a real good idea. I was not born in Eastland county, because they were a little too slow in getting the county organized, and I could not wait, so I beat them to it. But I was here when the popular outdoor sport was cutting wire fences and hanging horse thieves.

There were no schools here at that time, but I learned more use-less things accidentally than my boys learned in high schools.

When I was ten years old I could mould bullets, plat raw-hide ropes and weave baskets out of burr-oak splits, and when I learned to build rail fences and carry up one corner of a log house straight I thought my education was complete.

That was long after the Civil war when a man from north of the Mason and Dixon line was a social outcast, and I was wearing long pants before I learned that "damned yankee" was two words. I have seen Eastland county develop from the ox-wagon to the airplane, and from the side-saddle to the rumble-seat.

I was married in the first store-bought suit of clothes I ever wore, and my wife was married in a dress she made herself without the use of a sewing machine. But she could make good cracklin' bread that would tempt the appetite of an epicure, and lye hominy, which, when seasoned with "brindle gravy," excelled the choicest menu ever served by Delmonico's famous cafe.

The first clock we ever owned was obtained by saving the labels of Arbuckle's coffee, and it kept good time for 20 years.

I don't like to borrow my neighbor's paper. He won't let me have it every time till he and his entire bunch read it, and then he wants it right back so he can send it to his son in California. So, just as soon as Mr. Roosevelt gets his Townsend plan through congress I am going to send in my subscription for myself, and if Bill Arp and Uncle Remus are still writing for the Atlanta Constitution I am going to subscribe for it also. Amen.

N. AHO.

P. S.—The next time I come to Cisco I will drop in and tell you about some good old break-down dances we used to have, when the boys and girls danced all night, and some good old camp-meetings that lasted all summer.

AHO.

Brownwood Man Finds Ancient Bones

AUSTIN — Part of the skeleton of a mastodon, prehistoric elephant-like animal, has just been obtained by Dr. E. H. Sellards, director of the bureau of economic geology of the University of Texas. This skeleton was found by Chris Hoover of Brownwood. The parts uncovered consists of one large molar tooth, a tusk, part of the shoulder blade, and several ribs. More of the skeleton is believed to be preserved and will be collected at another time.

"The mastodons as well as the true elephants were abundant in Texas in relatively late geologic time," Dr. Sellards explained. "A special effort is being made to determine both the geographic and geologic range of these animals in Texas. They are known from many counties and reports of the findings of any such fossils will be appreciated."

Lift Penalties On Delinquent Taxes

AUSTIN. — Governor James V. Allred signed Tuesday a concurrent resolution to make effective immediately a bill passed by the preceding special session to release all penalties and interest on taxes delinquent on last Aug. 1 if paid by March 15.

The bill failed to receive a sufficient majority on enactment to become effective immediately and would not have become operative until Feb. 9 without the enabling resolution. It also provided a graduated scale of interest charges for payment from March 15 to June 30.

The scheme of making it effective at once was resorted to as a means of placing thousands of dollars of badly needed revenue in the bankrupt general revenue and confederate pension funds, tax collectors reporting taxpayers were delaying payment of delinquencies until the law became operative.

The senate Monday amended and adopted W. E. Pope's double-barreled house concurrent resolution to put the tax penalty remission act of the last special session into effect at once instead of waiting until Feb. 8, the ninth day after the adjournment of the enacting session.

W. R. Poage of Waco had an amendment adopted providing that there shall be no remission of tax penalties, interest or costs after June 30, 1935, and that it shall be the policy of the state to refuse waivers after that date. As the resolution came from the house, it provided that the remission act become effective when the resolution is approved by the governor and also, if that provision is held void, that tax collectors be instructed to waive the interest, costs and penalties, or originally provided, on taxes that became delinquent Aug. 1, 1934, and were paid by March 15, 1935. The last dates are fixed in the law sought to be given immediate effectiveness. If the house accepts the Poage amendment the resolution becomes effective if and when the governor signs it.

T. J. Holbrook of Galveston said the resolution is of no effect as a statute can not be amended by a resolution, a bill being necessary to change it.

Students Come From 230 Texas Counties

AUSTIN. — Students came to the University of Texas last year from 230 of Texas' 254 counties, according to the annual report of the university registrar's office. Aside from Travis county, in which the university is situated and which is naturally represented by the largest proportion of students, the county furnishing the largest number of students was Dallas, with 409; the next, Harris, with 357; the third, Bexar, with 348; the fourth, Tarrant, with 205; the fifth, McLennan, with 122. Total enrollment was 6,752. Last year El Paso county on the west sent 74 students to the university; Bowie county on the east

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God. — Isaiah 52:10.

Step by step I climbed the rugged hill
Of thought to heaven's door. It is quite still Clear and peaceful here. I wonder why
I have not tried before to climb so high.
—ALICE TROXELL MCCOUN.

The more absorbed we become in contemplating infinite Love, the more we shall become convinced of the unreality of sin, sickness, and sorrow, and the more shall come to see everything as harmonious and good, proceeding from the creative power of the one altogether good. This brings calm to the storm, peace to strife; endows with capacity, buoyancy, and the power to overcome.—Rosa Frei.

The Citizen-Free Press has received formal announcement of the intentions of Mayor J. T. Berry and City Commissioners H. A. Bible and W. J. Foxworth to stand for re-election in the forthcoming general municipal voting April 2. The announcement appears on another page of this issue of the Citizen-Free Press.

Three Men Announce

The past two years, during which these gentlemen have served as city officials, have witnessed some developments of a decisive character with reference to the course of the municipal future. To deny these developments were in a measure the result of a conscious effort on the part of the city officials, and these officials in particular, would be doing them the injustice of a prejudicial attitude. They had something to do with the course of these actions and for that reason the Cisco citizen may thank them or fail to thank them as his personal interests in the matter may dictate. The fact, at least, that some positive action was taken, in contrast to the usual history of city governments in such a crisis, is cause to award credit.

TWO of these developments stand out. One is the successful negotiations for the settlement of the city's huge bonded debt. Under the terms of this settlement, yet to be formally consummated under the sanction of the federal court, the city will refund with 40-year, low interest-bearing securities, amounting in principal to $1,400,000, approximately six million dollars of a debt that has been hanging over the community consciousness for years like an onus of defeat and even despair. These bonds, on which interest is to be paid at the rate of one per cent for the first year, etc., in a schedule that reaches a maximum of five per cent after the 16th year, are to be issued in exchange for the defaulted securities after application is made to the federal court and the approval of that court is obtained to make binding the agreement upon all bondholders of the city. Consent of the holders of a sufficient number of the bonds, as required by statute, to make application to the federal court permissible, has already been obtained.

The effect of this settlement after years of uncertainty and argument, has already become apparent in improved real estate values and demand. A serious cloud has been lifted from the civic consciousness and community prospects brightened.

THE second significant development has been the introduction of a competing system into the local gas utilities field. This has resulted in lower rates and stimulation of activity in several related lines. Considerable money has been released in wages through new construction and in new drilling. Under the agreement with the new company, the plant will become municipally owned when revenues have paid for its installation.

This has thrust Cisco to the fore in the gas rate war that has developed into a statewide issue, and the outcome will probably exert a determining influence upon the final settlement of this question. Cisco is, therefore, a marked community in this respect.

THERE is the further fact that Cisco, during the depression, has remained upon a cash basis. This would not have been the case, certainly, if the city had endeavored to service even a small portion of its enormous municipal debt at the stipulated rates of interest. But it was done and a proportionate amount set aside for sinking fund. All bills were paid on time. This fact is in contrast with the records of most communities of this size during the depression.

From a political standpoint, the three men seeking re-election may point to a number of claims upon which to seek support. So far as the community welfare is involved, such claims are unimportant except as they may serve to influence votes. But the three things enumerated above, it seems to us, should entitle them to consideration on their merits.

THE movement to secure a state park for Cisco to be located in the scenic canyon area between the city and Lake Cisco is gaining momentum. A state park board engineer was to be here Saturday to inspect the site after owners of land involved had patriotically agreed to donate the 500 or more acres that will be necessary. The program for this development calls for the location of a civilian conservation corps camp here. With the announced policy of the administration for expansion of these camps, there is the probability that one can be obtained.

Why a Park?

The camp personnel would be employed in developing the natural attractiveness of the district and equipping it with what goes into the makeup of a recreational institution of its character.

THE possibilities that invite development in the canyon area have been pointed out many times. It has been explained that there is no other site comparable to it and so associated with other scenic and recreational values in all this part of the state. But the physical task of converting these values into assets has been so great that the resources of the community, taxed by the depression, have not been equal to it. Now, however, with the entrance of governmental aid, the opportunity is ripe. The Cisco citizens who have contributed the land have completed this opportunity. They have shown a community spirit and patriotism that ought to inspire the most determined community effort toward realization of this program.

THERE is plenty of logic to support the rather daring statement that the greatest asset that Cisco has is not its oil and gas resources or the agricultural values that contribute to the community economic status. Taking into consideration the influence of new conditions that have arisen with the advent of swift transportation, it can be argued that the most important resource the community possesses is its living conditions. Distances in this day and time count for little. Speed, rather than place, has come to play a determining part in the course of things economic. Speed and the mobility of power, have come to take emphasis from sources and place it upon the luxury of things. The first manifestation of this influence was in the development of suburban living, with employes of industrial concerns living many miles from their work and going to and from it in fast trains. The manifestation that is developing at present is the decentralization of industry, its distribution in smaller units over a large area, so that the freedom of space and the charm of sunlight and natural beauty may be realized.

THAT development is taking the emphasis off of factors that once governed and placing it upon new and interesting factors. With this come many new opportunities.

As remote from economic importance as this park proposition may appear, it is, on the contrary, a manifestation of the influential facts that enter into the coloring of this new picture. In other words, it is something that will contribute immeasurably to the living values that distinguish this community from others. As such it will exert an influence already demonstrated in the presence of Lake Cisco, and the recreational advantages it has provided. How many families in Cisco are living here today, not because of any particular advantage so far as their means of support are concerned, but because they like to live here better than elsewhere? An enumeration would surprise you.

In this fact, then, lies a great community asset. In the new order of things, it is possible for a man to live in Cisco and make his living hundreds of miles away. That is not the most important consideration however. The most important is that industry, tending to decentralize, will seek living conditions. The community that recognizes these facts and capitalizes upon the resources it has to take advantage of them, will assure itself of a promising future.

WHY REMOVE THE STREET AWNINGS?

Owners of a few of the store buildings have removed the street awnings in front of their business property. Two in the 100 block on West Sixth street are the latest to have been denuded of awnings that protected the pedestrians during rains, and afforded shade to the occupants in warm weather.

I suppose I am too much of a southerner to like the idea of no awnings in front of store buildings. The custom seems to be one we have copied from the eastern cities, but it strikes me as being without merit.

Texas is a southern state, and we have warm weather in this part of the world, and sometimes it rains. When a fellow has to be on the streets while it is raining he generally seeks the side of the street where there are the most awnings. Then he feels that the owners who would tear away this shelter have not manifested the right consideration for those who have to be out. The same is true in the summer time, when the mercury is reaching for the sky, and one has to be out on a broiling hot day. My! how pleasant it feels to get under a street awning for a few minutes. Perhaps in the east these awnings are non-essential, but in my opinion they are a great convenience in southern cities.

When the Gude hotel was being erected I asked the architect if the plans did not provide for some protection on the front—awnings, an arcade, or some other protection for the guests who might care to enjoy the breeze in the afternoon? He replied that such things were not being considered in modern buildings in the east any more. But Cisco is not an eastern city, I told him, and I believed an arcade or some other protection from the afternoon sun would be appreciated by those who may be guests of the Gude.

But it seems we of the South are sacrificing comfort for appearance. No awnings may cause a building to look some better, but certainly a building without an awning is less comfortable during the warm season.

Patterning after eastern customs in architecture is not confined to the abolition of awnings in front of business houses, but even in Cisco the copy of the English architecture in building homes became the vogue a few years ago. To me the idea of building a residence in Texas of the English type seems ridiculous. True, they look nice, but to enter the front door and immediately into the living or bedroom, while the thermometer registers 90 in the shade, is not my idea of comfort. The southern home affording the most comfort, especially in the summer months, contains wide verandas and spacious halls, in the manner of Mexican architecture, which prevails on the border. They have an inviting appearance that is refreshing, while the English type gives one the impression of inhospitality and selfishness. Perhaps this style is just the thing in London, where there is comparative little sunshine, but they never appealed to me for any of the southern states. But those who built many of the English houses in Cisco won't have to live in them, as they have been sold to the loan companies, so it doesn't matter.

AN EYESORE REMOVED

Cisco is rid of one nuisance, which has been abated by G. M. Meglasson. I refer to the disgraceful and unsightly sign, erected in front of the old Wilkerson lumber yard, by the sanitary section of the CWA while the campaign was on for building rural sanitary privies. At the time of its erection the Cisco Citizen forcibly reminded the CWA authorities of its nauseating and unsightly features, and I believe the story the Citizen carried had something to do with the modification of the sign, by obliterating the most disgusting feature. However, as modified, it was still "unpretty," and created much adverse comment, especially from tourists.

But the CWA unsanitary sign is no more. Recently G. M. Meglasson moved his stock of groceries into the building adjoining the lot on which the sign was placed. Not liking its looks (as he is not an art connoisseur, so could not appreciate this specimen of the sign painter's talent. So he secured the consent of the relief authorities and wrecked the sign. Literally dismantled the boards, and stacked them under the lumber sheds. No more will this loathsome sign offend the fastidious citizen or tourist, for it is now nothing but a stack of boards.

"OLD MAN RIVER" ON HIS ANNUAL RAMPAGE

"Old Man River" is taking his annual toll of property and human lives. News dispatches from Memphis, Tenn., gave distressing accounts of havoc the breaking of levees on the Mississippi and its tributaries have already wrought, where plantations and towns are inundated and more than 3,000 are homeless.

Years ago I suggested a plan of prevention of these almost annual disasters, and that was to increase the United States army with sufficient enlisted men, place them under competent engineers, and put them to work, either building the levees or changing the channel at weak points, so that the waters would be confined to the channel. To do this I suggested that the army be made attractive by paying the men a decent wage, so that one would be proud to be even a private in the United States army. My plan was to do this work during the dry summer months and not wait till the waters had flooded the country and taken its awful toll of human lives and property. The men could be drilled and worked at certain hours each day, thus converting the army into an industrial organization instead of an idle aggregation of men lolling in army barracks when not doing drill duty. Have them do something useful instead of digging trenches and filling them up again.

The nited States is big enough and has competent engineers to work out some plan that will stop this terrible toll in money and people that is lost practically every year.

Some plan to confine the waters of the Mississippi into its channel would be less expensive—from a financial standpoint—than the value of the property that is annually lost, to say nothing of the human sacrifices that have and will occur.

I am no engineer, and know little of such matters, but I believe there are competent men in the United States army who can work out a plan, and should the government undertake the job the nation is plenty able to finance the enterprise. So, as an economic measure, I believe the country will save money. President Roosevelt might include "Old Man River" in his ambitious work projects.

Nature and Human Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

Negative Hypocrisy

Hypocrisy is not always a pretension to worth that one does not possess; sometimes it is a denial of worth that one does possess. One may pretend to goods or goodness that he does not have become of the advantage such possessions would bring him without the effort it takes to gain them. On the other hand he may hide these possessions in order to escape some disadvantage or responsibility their possession would incur. In either case the pretender is not true to himself. A good confession establishes a soul by giving it conviction; a denial sets it adrift and leaves it empty.

A denial need not always be in words, for here as elsewhere "actions speak louder than words." One denies a principle that would apply to conduct for anyone in his situation if he acts inconsistently with that principle. One denies his party or his club if in the midst of unfriendly critics he is ashamed to admit his membership. One denies his profession whenever it brings discredit upon the cause to which he has committed himself. Peter's denial of any part with the disciples of his Master was not in his "I know not" alone; it was even more in the language in which he expressed his denial. They took his Galilean dialect as evidence of his relationship with the Galilean; he used the language of cursing as being the least consistent with the spirit of the Master to prove that he did not even know the man.

As a confession commits one positively, so a denial is a negative committal. For one is too apt to begin to conform his life to his declarations. The emptiness of a denial leaves too much room for the coming in of action in a direction away from the truth denied. It is hard to be noncommittal. Peter came near to ruining his life by playing thus false to his true self. This is proved by the statement of Jesus that Satan had desired to have him; here is where he came nearest to getting him. Also Jesus thought the situation serious enough that He prayed for His wavering disciple. The lives of all of us may often waver between a positive life based upon a good confession of our true selves and an empty negative left that fills up with evil based upon a denial of our true selves.—W. F. BRUCE.

Today's Fashion

Frock of blue crepe, black taffeta trim.

By VERA WINSTON

THERE ARE so many occasions for which we need smart but not too formal afternoon dresses that a new model in that category is always given a hearty welcome. Therefore it was pleasing to find this model, suitable for a simple afternoon tea or bridge party. It is of dull, powdery blue crepe with printed figures of blue, green and black. The double collar and tie, the lining of the three-quarter length bell sleeves and the stitched belt are all of black taffeta, and the belt closes with a large black buckle. The whole effect is chic and graceful.

FROM THE WOMAN'S ANGLE

By MRS. PHILIP PETTIT

"Were There Not Ten?"

The road was long, the dust, gray and heavy lay like an ugly covering over the sparse vegetation along the side of the road. In the shadow of a great rock ten men were grouped, men with tragic faces and hopeless eyes. Thin disfigured bodies that instinctively shrank closer to the unyielding stone, and whose shrill voices would cry, "Unclean, unclean," at each passer by. "I see a great cloud of dust Silas, many travelers are coming this way, we shall move on." The man, but little past his boyhood struggled wearily to his feet, ever moving on, out of the sight of men who must be happy because there was no cause to cry "Unclean."

Gray haired Silas placed his hand kindly on young Jasus shoulder, "Have you not heard my son, Jesus the man with the power to heal all diseases will pass this way at noon."

"Jesus, and who is this Jesus, Silas?" "A man from Galilee who does many wonderful things my son, He has only to lay his hand on the unclean and, Lo, they are made whole."

Eagerly Jasus looked into the face of the older man, "And think you He will stop to lay His hand on us, Silas?" "Ha, Ha," laughed Flavus, "Even magicians pass on the other side of the road when we are near."

The cloud of dust came nearer, the steady tread of many feet could now be heard, Flavus leaning far out cried in a warning voice, "Unclean, unclean." He drew back waiting for the expected cry, "Begone you dogs of Satan." Strange, no such cry of reproach came. Stranger still, the steps drew steadily nearer. Slender Jasus' eyes burned with mingled hope and despair. Ah, dear God, if it might only be this Jesus of whom they had heard.

The dust covered men came to a stop in the shadow of the great rock. A young man with a tender understanding smile looked deep into Jasus pleading eyes. Silas fell in the dust at the Stranger's feet. A cry came from his bleeding lips, "Jesus, Master, have mercy on us." Not for himself alone Silas pleading cry for mercy, but for the others as well.

"Go show yourselves unto the priest," Simple words. Too simple, jeering unbelieving Flavus. After all he had expected nothing.

Slowly the men turned to be on their way, Jasus shoulder drooped lower, he was tired, so very tired and the way was long and hard, he drew his hand across his dim eyes. Piercingly, a cry broke the noonday calm, "Silas, look, look, I am clean, look at my hands, feel my arm, my thigh, I am clean Silas, I am clean."

In the shadow of a great rock by the side of a dusty road, ten men in a delirium of joy spoke

Beauty Is a Relentless Master

(The Beauty Box)

Maxine Doyle
Lovely screen star who keeps in step with beauty parade.

By HELEN FOLLETT

IT IS a steady, year-round job, this business of putting up an elegant front. No sense trying to ditch it. To neglect a single detail that goes to make for good appearance is fatal. We are living in a fastidious age.

The lovely creature must look as sup as a lettuce leaf, as fresh as daisy. She gets that way by making a rite of the daily bath, scouring the skin surface with soap suds and a brush that takes hold like the pangs of a guilty conscience. Every night her celestial countenance is creamed so that the epidermis will bear a soft, smooth, velvety finish.

Hands can't be hidden, so they must have their quota of creams and lotions. Nails must glimmer like pink sea shells. The coiffure, arranged with the utmost care, must still carry that casual appearance of natural waves and ringlets.

The campaign for beauty goes merrily on. Every woman must step into the parade. If she doesn't, she might as well tote out the little ladder and climb up on the shelf.

The platinum blonde is now an old story. Some have changed to henna, but that wasn't such a bright idea. Now the proper caper for women who must dye or die is to carry a top-crest of lovely copper.

Professional hair dyeing is making strides, getting to be an art. Amateurs had better go easy. The home dye-ducking doesn't always pan out as hoped.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will publish the name of the Lord; ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, His work is perfect: for all His ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is He." (Deuteronomy 32:3, 4.)

The lesson-sermon includes also the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals try to believe without understanding Truth; yet God is Truth. Through spiritual sense only, man comprehends and loves Deity. The various contradictions of the Science of Mind by the material senses do not change the unseen Truth, which remains forever intact." (Pages 312, 481).

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL Copyright, 1935. King Features Syndicate, Inc. HOLLYWOOD—Being an heiress is not all thrills. Grace Bradley, red-haired Paramount actress, has had to move three times to escape cranks who want to help spend the $250,000 estate left her by her grandfather, William Schrader, the late rubber magnate. Since the story of her inheritance was printed, Grace's fan mail has changed completely in tone. Admirers used to write praising her acting. Now, nine-tenths of the letters are proposals of marriage or get-rich-quick schemes. A more sinister note has crept in recently with the receipt of three letters threatening violence unless demands for money are met. Grace lives with her mother, and the two women are growing a bit frightened. They have just moved for the third time and are trying to keep their address secret. Oddly enough, many of the letter writers express resentment that the actress wants to continue her career. This is the toughest of all. Especially as Grace is getting her first real lead in the Ben Bernie picture, "Stolen Harmony".

Joel McCrea

The rumor gains strength here that Ernst Lubitsch may not direct Marlene Dietrich after all. No story has been found, and it is whispered that the German star is reluctant, even now, to change from Josef von Sternberg. The split seems definite, however, as far as he is concerned. At least, von Sternberg offered to bet me 100 to one that he doesn't direct Dietrich again for the next five years. If nothing else, the opening of the Santa Anita track has changed Hollywood's official greeting from "What's new?" to "How did you do at the races?" Funniest answer to date was made the other day by Mervyn Leroy. "Swell," said the diminutive director. "I won the first six races and would have won the last, too, if I'd had any money left to bet on it." Here's a queer twist of fate. Joel McCrea's stand-in for "Private

How About the Forecast That the Day of The Horse Was Over With Advent of Auto?

By International Illustrated News
NEW YORK — "And," said the wise sages, "it won't be long before all horses are replaced by automobiles."

It was a quarter of a century ago when the prophets were making that prediction, about the time the "gasoline buggies" were becoming a nuisance with their noisy chug-chugs.

In the pasture one might have heard a defiant snort from the old gray mare, seeming to say: "That's what you think!"

Well, after all these years, it is finally established that the prognosticators of yesteryear are not such good guessers. True, horses are less numerous than before the advent of the automobile. Still, the horse is not becoming gradually extinct, as they foresaw, nor has it lost its place in the new and modern mechanical world.

The horse, let it be known to all and sundry, is here to stay—today, tomorrow, next week, to the end of time.

That is the word of officials of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. They have watched the decline in the number of horses since the coming of the auto, and now are happy to announce that for at least two uses, the horse never will be forced out by any kind of machine.

The horse always will be needed to haul a milk wagon, they believe. And they challenge science to produce a mechanical contraption that will serve the purpose of a saddle horse.

Of the latter, William Ryan, official of a veterinary hospital, says:

"There's the animal you can't replace."

For Exercising
"Saddle horses will remain because they're the only means the doctor has of making the wealthy business man exercise. He gets the idea the horse is carrying him, but every muscle in his body gets a workout."

The society estimates that in New York City there still are 20,000 horses, which would be quite a big herd on any prairie. Most of them work on the many milk routes of the metropolis.

Not so long ago, civic associations were pushing movies to take Rubber shoes and tires saved the horses on milk routes.

The milkman's horse is endowed with an uncanny knowledge.

LARGEST GAS WELL IN ALBANY AREA

ALBANY. — The Hope Oil & Gas Co. No. 1, T. W. Lee, scored last week as the largest shallow gas well in the Albany area with gauge of nine and one-half million feet of gas from Flippen sand 1057 to 1072 feet, but operators have mudded off and will drill the lower part of the sand with a chance for an oil well in this sand appearing about 50 feet above the Cook. The well is located in southwest corner of northeast 1-4 of section No. 23, block 11, T&PRR. Co. lands, and is just east of the Owens-Snebold Oil Corp.-F. H. E. Oil Co. 80 acre lease, on which lease the third oil producing sand is in evidence.

Owens-Snebold Oil Corp.-F. H. E. Oil Co. No. 6, T. W. Lee was a surprise well in the Flippen sand when a saturated oil sand was topped at 1077 and drilled to 1080 feet, showing for an estimated 75 barrels well. It was necessary to cement casing, the plug being drilled middle of the well. Same operators No. 5 was completed in the Tannehill sand at 993 feet for a 60 barrel well, and the first four wells drilled on the lease are producing in Hope sand; so this 80 acre tract promises to become one of the most prolific tracts in the shallow oil area.

W. L. Knight et al No. 2-B, E. A. Jeter is drilling at 1150 feet in the southwest corner of section No. 11, block 11, T&PRR Co. lands, near the Applegate & Conley test drilled 8 years ago with favorable showing of oil.

Dean & Adkisson No. 4, W. P. Newell is drilling at 1240 feet in the center of the west 1-2 of the northwest 1-4 section No. 87, E. T. RR. Co. lands in an effort to determine the production trend on their fine lease that has two flowing wells in the Cook sand and is rated as one of the best discoveries in 1934.

Charter Oil Co. No. 7, J. P. Morris is drilling at 400 feet in the center of the northeast 1-4 of northeast 1-4 section No. 200, E. T. RR. Co. lands.

DEEP TEST

ALBANY — The first deep test for Shackelford county within more than four years became an actual fact this week with the erection of standard rig for Pitzer & West No. 1, Geo. T. DeLafosse, in the northeast corner of T. E. & L. survey No. 1549, about ten miles east of Albany, less than a mile south of State Highway No. 1-A, on a block of over 4,000 acres that was assembled largely through the efforts of one of the largest land-owners in the area, Mr. DeLafosse.

In a territory that has never been drilled about four miles due north of the Ibox pool, the first deep oil ever found in the lime at 3600 feet in Shackelford county, the test is located on a large structure and one that has been leased to large companies for the past fifteen years, Magnolia Petroleum company still holding two small leases on the structure.

Operators and landowners have tried to revive deep drilling in the territory, the last well being that of Roeser & Pendleton, Inc., in the Cook pool, plugged over four years ago, and since that time they have consistently hunted for and found shallow oil pools, but the Pitzer & West test is hoped by many to be the first of a series of deep wells to be drilled in the shallow oil territory, and it is slated to go 4,000 feet or deeper. The operators are prominent Breckenridge oil men, and the News goes on record commending Mr. De Lafosse for his good work in getting this test drilled.

NEW WILDCAT

ALBANY. — John H. Sedwick No. 1, F. B. Cloud, a new wildcat test 5 miles southwest of Albany is drilling at 300 feet in the southwest corner of the north 1-2 of northeast 1-4 of section No. 33, block No. 11, T&PRR. Co. lands in territory that has long been held by big company leases. George Callihan, prominent Albany operator, has contract for this well, which will test the Cisco series sands through 1100 feet.

Reliance Oil & Royalty Corp.-Jones & Company No. 1, O. R. Davis, is rigging up for an 1800 foot test near center of the north 40 acres of east 160 acres of section No. 4, T&NO. RR. lands, a new test about 1 1/2 miles south of the Bluff Creek pool in western Shackelford county.

Dobbs Oil Co. No. 1, F. W. Alexander, is drilling at 150 feet in location 150 feet from southwest and southeast lines of northwest 1-2 T. E. & L. survey No. 577, in the shallow lime are 4 miles northeast of Albany.

C. J. Hodges No. 2, J. H. Nail Estate, is a 15 barrel pumper 450 feet from west and north lines of section No. 137, ETRR. Co. lands, the second well in that pool discovered a year ago, and is preparing to stake location for No. 3. Operators were largely shut down with the critical winter weather, but an active campaign in the shallow sand areas of Shackelford is indicated.

"Nerves" NERVES "Nerves"

After more than three months of suffering from a nervous ailment, Miss Glivar used Dr. Miles' Nerve which gave her such splendid results that she wrote us an enthusiastic letter.

If you suffer from "Nerves." If you lie awake nights, start at sudden noises, tire easily, are cranky, blue and fidgety, your nerves are probably out of order.

Quiet and relax them with the same medicine that "did the work" for this Colorado girl.

Whether your "Nerves" have troubled you for hours or for years, you'll find this time-tested remedy effective.

the horses off the milk routes because their clop-clop on the hard pavements aroused the ire of light sleepers, and the steel tires of the wagons kept the babies awake.

It looked bad for the milkmen's horses until someone came along with the idea to shoe the horses with rubber and to replace the old-fashioned wagon wheel with a balloon-tired wheel. That solved the difficulty and saved the horses.

Horse Sense

The reason that the milkman's horse is here to stay is because he does more than pull a wagon. Often the horse is endowed with an uncanny knowledge that sometimes makes the milkman himself look to his laurels.

After a short time on a route, a milkman's horse knows all the points of call. Given a free rein, he drives himself, and all the milkman has to do is deliver the milk.

Since the start of the depression, the horse has more than held his own against the automobile, the society has learned. The high cost of motor insurance and machine upkeep forced many small merchants to return to the horse-drawn vehicle to carry on business.

Of course, these horses and those on the milk routes are not the prize breeds of equine flesh that once strained at single-trees. The day when stately teams of Percherons and Clydesdales moved majestically down the street probably is gone forever. But the day of the horse isn't gone—it's still here.

Cisco Miller--

"The mill that does the grinding is composed of two break rolls and two reduction rolls. The break rolls crack the wheat and the reduction rolls do the milling. Each roll has one bolting reel covered with silk cloth, especially woven for flour mills, which sifts the flour and gives it the degree of fineness desired. This fineness is regulated by the texture of the cloth. For the fine flour the finest texture of the silk must be used, and of course, for coarser flour a coarser fabric.

"Then there is the bleaching process. The Cisco Flour Mill uses the most modern bleaching materials, which is chemically pure, and easily digested without harm or inconvenience to the most delicate stomach. This is the Novadell process. This strikes the flour during the milling process and in 24 hours a reaction sets up that gives the flour its snowy whiteness.

"The Cisco Flour Mill also manufactures whole wheat flour, which is milled on a French burr rock, the grinding process is similar to that of making corn meal. This whole wheat flour is of a superior quality and is gaining in favor for hot cakes, waffles and other purposes for which whole wheat flour is used. We take the same care and give the same attention to milling whole wheat flour, which goes through the same preparatory stage used in milling white flour.

"In addition to milling white and whole flour the Cisco Flour Mill manufactures wheat grits, which makes a very palatable breakfast dish. Many who have used it pronounce it superior to breakfast oats as a cereal. Wheat grits are manufactured by a cracking process that leaves the wheat grains broken into the size desired.

"The Cisco Flour Mill also is equipped with machinery for manufacturing all kinds of stock feed from raw material, mixed as desired, and make a specialty of custom grinding for farmers and stockmen. For this purpose a modern Hammer Mill has been installed that converts all kinds of raw stock feed into a proper ration.

Visitors Welcome

"Visitors are always welcome to come and inspect the plant at any time, and either myself or Mr. Kendrick will take pleasure in showing them through the mill and explaining every feature of milling. Especially are teachers and their pupils who may be studying the process of milling welcome."

Mr. LeFevre and Mr. Kendrick established the Cisco Flour Mill here about a year ago, and are making a success. The mill is not yet running to capacity, however. But the business is improving as the people are becoming acquainted with the products. Cisco grocers are beginning to handle O. K. flour, which is the leading product of the Cisco Flour Mill, from which the most wholesome bread is made.

This is one of Cisco's newest industrial enterprises, and it is gratifying to the Citizen-Free Press to know that local merchants are giving this home enterprise their support.

Holdup Friday Night

The holdup took place about 8:30 Friday night in the local yards. Ball, a World war veteran who said he was five times wounded and twice gassed while serving with the famous Yankee division, joined the Kertesz pair at Fort Worth. All were headed for El Paso where Ball said he intended to enter the government hospital for disabled veterans and Kertesz and his sister were to visit a brother.

Ball said his home is in Winstead, Conn., where he has a wife and five children. He left there two weeks ago to make the trip to Texas, he said. Kertesz and his sister said they left their home in Hammond, Ind., on January 13. Their mother is dead. Kertesz is an automobile mechanic and does clerical work.

Boarded Freight

At Fort Worth the trio boarded a Texas and Pacific freight. When it paused at Cisco they left the cars to get something to eat. Just beyond the T. and P. tracks they met a negro, later identified as Allen, and asked him the way to a store. The man directed them to Carmichael grocery. They also asked him the distance to Big Spring, the time of the day and the hour they would probably arrive in Big Spring, Ball said. He said the negro warned them not to go to the business district where they would be picked up by city officers and compelled to work a stretch at "some pond or lake."

Purchased Food

At the store Kertesz purchased bread, bologna and apples. As they returned to the tracks the freight had started up, gaining too much momentum for the girl to board it. So the trio sat down on the embankment and ate the food. Meanwhile, they told officers, the negro came up and they fell into conversation. They offered him food and he accepted an apple.

"Joe said he thought he and his sister would play the highway," Ball related, "and if that didn't do any good he'd come back and they would catch the next freight."

There was other conversation. "We noticed that the negro kept acting strangely, walking around and behind us," said Ball. Presently the three arose to go to town. But suddenly the negro, who had stepped ahead, turned around with a pistol in his hand.

Heard "Click."

"Stick 'em up," the girl quoted him as saying.

"I can still hear the click of that hammer," said Kertesz. According to their story, he ordered Ball, who was a short distance behind the brother and sister, to step up even with them.
