REBEKAH TEAM CONFER DEGREES AT RISING STAR

Wednesday night the degree team of the Goodwill Rebekah lodge of Cisco, by special invitation, attended the meeting of the Rising Star Rebekah lodge and conferred the degrees on several initiates. After the initiatory work a social hour was enjoyed when iced refreshments and cake were served by the Rising Star Rebekahs. Those attending from Cisco were Mesdames J. T. Maddux, G. P. Rainbolt, H. C. Wippen, J. D. Alexander, E. H. Roberts, W. S. Delossett, N. A. Brown, A. M. Hicks; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Jarrett, Misses Louisa V. Rainbolt, Blanche Smith, Mae and Lydia Jensen, Cleo Wright, Sylvesta Lee, Letha Eager and Chas. Kleiner.

HAMLIN ORATOR PLEASED CISCO ROTARY CLUB

Thursday's Rotary luncheon was not as well attended as usual, a large number of the members being out of the city and others being absent because of business reasons. Forrest Wright presided and interesting talks were made by Mr. Reese of the Atlantic Oil company, Rev. Joseph Keovil of Randolph college and Gerald Morgan, of Hamlin. Mr. Morgan's reading, "Ingersoll at the Tomb of Napoleon," was given in a masterly, impressive way and pleased all who heard it. Young Morgan, who is about 17 years of age, has been a guest in the family of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Moss. He has competed in state oratorical contests on two different occasions and tied for first place the last time he competed.

REMOVES THORN FROM EYE CAMERON, July 31.—Pain in the eye, suffered for 40 years by Mrs. J. L. Scott of Rogers, DeWitt county, was found by physicians Wednesday to have been caused by a thorn in the eyeball. A part of a thorn stuck in her eye when she was 5 years old had been broken off. An operation was performed Wednesday when the other eye became affected.

REV. THOMAS LENOX The Newly Called Pastor of the First Christian Church, Will Preach Sunday.

The progressive Lion's club, at Wednesday's noon luncheon, appointed a committee composed of Dr. Charles Hale, Chapman Williamson and C. A. Whitfield to go into the matter of providing free drinking water for visitors to Lake Cisco.

In the discussion of the matter it developed that some criticism has been registered by visitors from neighboring towns and communities as to the lack of drinking water facilities at the lake. Inasmuch as this criticism might redound to the detriment of Lake Cisco as a playground for people of this section of the state, the club thought it might be a wise and constructive move to provide free drinking fountains for all visitors.

The above committee was instructed to confer with the management of the Lake Cisco Amusement company and if agreeable to the company, the Lions will consider a report by that committee as to plans and cost of construction of at least two drinking fountains on the grounds, so constructed that the water might be iced during the summer months.

Since Dr. Charles Hale is a member of the chamber of commerce Parks and Playgrounds committee, it was thought that he could make the contemplated improvements by the Lions fit in with the larger general plans of the chamber of commerce.

FORMER LOBOES MAY MAKE TECH GRID FAMOUS

There is probability that the Texas Tech may put out a winning gridiron team next season. Five of the famous loboos of 1924 were in Lubbock a few days ago, and had a conference with Coach Freeland and some of the faculty. These lobo stars were Ernest Wilson, Frank Turner, Cecil McCord, Waymond Westerfeld and Jimmie Fields. It is not stated at this time whether they will matriculate in the Texas Tech, but it is a safe bet that the West Texas school will have a strong team if she enlists this aggregation.

CLAIMANT TO ACTRESS MONEY UNDER ARREST

BOSTON, July 31.—Charging that she is a "brazen adventuress," and declaring her whole case was peck marked with fraud, Judge Priet today ordered Mrs. Ida Blenkenberg of Tulsa, Okla., arrested on a charge of perjury. Mrs. Blenkenberg has been contesting the will of the late famous actress, Lotta Crabtree, who left an estate of three million dollars. She claimed she was a daughter of John W. Crabtree of Lincoln. A brother of Mrs. Blenkenberg was also placed under arrest, and both are held under a bond of $1,000.

BELIEVED COAL STRIKE AVERTED IN GT. BRITAIN

LONDON, July 31.—At a late hour this afternoon English mine operators announced they had withdrawn notice of reduction of wages. This action is believed to have averted a national strike which was to go into effect at midnight. The strike, which earlier in the day, miners had said could not be averted, would have meant a national crisis and the throwing out of employment of more than one million men. The mine owners agreed to withdraw for two weeks the proposed cancellation of wage scale. During which time additional negotiations will be carried on. The heads of the mine workers' organizations immediately sent telegrams to scattered mines ordering that work be continued for the present.

He was removed from the hospital yesterday evening to the home of a friend of the family, and will reach here on the Sunshine. His recovery has been so rapid in the past few days that the attending physicians permitted him to leave the hospital and gave his consent for him to be brought home today.

Eastland county, with the rest of west Texas, is soaking today from the splendid rain that began falling early Thursday evening, and continued throughout the night, and most of today, with short intermissions. Fully two inches of rain fell in Cisco during Thursday night and today, and it is still raining steadily, while the clouds are heavy and indications are that it is not over.

Superintendent Bob Scott of the water service says Lake Bernie shows a one-foot rise from the two last rains, and the water is still running into the lake. He says he neglected to gauge Lake Cisco, though a few inches would be the run-off in the big lake.

Farmers in town today from all directions report good rains, indicating that the precipitation was general. South of Cisco it is reported the heaviest rain of the year fell during last night, and farmers stated that the ground has the best season since planting time. Crops that could be saved by rain will now grow off and mature, and cotton will grow off rapidly, while all feed crops will produce bountifully. Everyone is wearing a pleased expression, as the rain puts a finishing touch to local industry and all growing things, and there will be plenty of water to still further increase drilling operations in the already busy oil fields.

JOE BURKETT OPPOSES AID GRAVEL ROADS

AUSTIN, July 31.—"More than $100,000,000 of public roads have been blown away in Texas during the last 12 years and I am against the state making any further allotment of funds for primary or secondary roads to be constructed of gravel," declared Joe Burkett, member of the state highway commission, Wednesday.

Mr. Burkett said in the future he will insist that roads of that class be constructed on a high type base with hard surface, so that they will stay put and not grind up and blow away.

"I have seen roads in some 15 or 20 states," continued Mr. Burkett, "and in my opinion we should not build any more roads of gravel of the primary or secondary class; that is, roads carrying more than 300 cars daily. It is a willful waste of money to do so."

"During the last 12 years the counties have voted $167,000,000 in road bonds and most of the proceeds went into gravel roads. It is no exaggeration to say that more than $100,000,000 of this has been blown away and entirely lost to the people. It is for that reason I am going to stand for hard-surfaced roads of high type in the future. They cost more, but are far more economical."

He says if necessary he may place a protest before the board of directors of the college. all adjoining towns and communities and a glorious time was spent. The towns represented on this occasion were Cisco, Ranger, Eastland, Carbon, Gorman, De Leon, Comanche, Post City, Romney, and other communities. All the representations brought well filled baskets, and a most palatable picnic lunch was enjoyed.

So much enthusiasm was manifested in this first meeting of the Mississippi society that it was unanimously voted to make this gathering an annual event, and a permanent organization was perfected by the election of the following officers:

President, Dr. J. W. Gregory, Cisco; vice president, M. McCullough, Eastland; secretary, Miss Lillian Wood, Eastland. An executive committee, who was commissioned to act as a publicity committee, was also elected, composed of the following: Mrs. R. H. Bush, Eastland, chairman; George D. Fee, Cisco; J. C. Brewer, Gorman; Thos. Patterson, Rising Star; V. V. Cooper, Ranger; Sam Murray, Eastland; J. D. Brummell, Carbon; W. P. M. Wilson, Cisco.

The feature address was that of M. McCullough of Eastland, who chose for his subject "Mississippi," and his remarks were most appropriate. Short talks were made by W. D. Owens of Eastland, J. D. Brummell of Carbon, Sam Murray of Eastland, Mrs. R. H. Bush of Eastland, W. H. Kittrell, Mrs. J. D. Alexander and W. E. Spencer of Cisco, and Judge McFadden of Ranger.

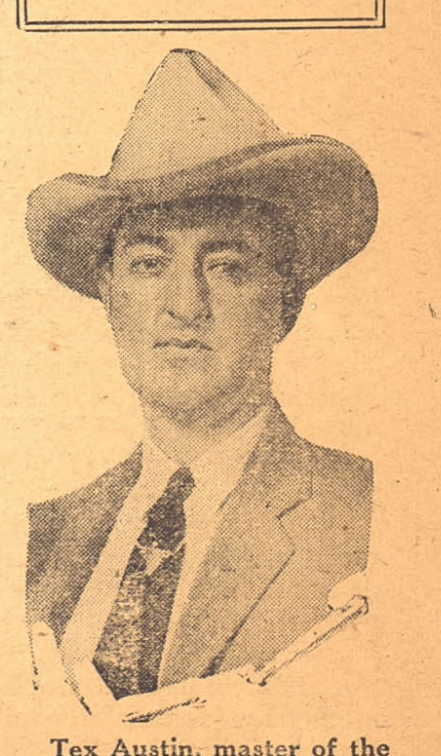

The next meeting of the Mississippi society will be held at Lake Cisco on the fourth Wednesday in July, 1926. In selecting the next meeting place Cisco and Ranger were placed in nomination, but the result of the first ballot showed Cisco a clear majority, the Ranger delegates moved to make Cisco unanimous, which was done.

The Mississippians living in this part of the state were much encouraged by the large attendance at the first meeting. All predict the 1926 meet will see the attendance close on to one thousand. A great time was had, and a great feast was enjoyed.

A SOLDIER'S GRAVE

It has struck many people with surprise that William Jennings Bryan, of all men, should wish to be buried in a military cemetery. He was one of the foremost pacifists of our time, and sometimes carried his pacifism to unusual extremes. He appeared to hate not only war itself but all the associations of war. His activities of later life would seem to suggest a quiet churchyard as the most fitting place for his last rest.

Yet there is a genuine fitness in laying away the Commoner's body in Arlington, as he desired. It comes not merely from the fact that Bryan, like Roosevelt, had been a soldier, raising and commanding a regiment in the Spanish-American war—a fact that the public had almost forgotten. That alone would justify the choice of burial place. But there is other and ampler justification.

Bryan was a soldier all his life—a soldier of the crusader type. Always he was fighting, aggressively and hotly, for what he considered at the time a crying need and a holy cause. It matters little now whether any particular one of those wars was justified or not. The crusader regarded them all as justified; and if the motive and the spirit of action are the important things, as many wise men hold, William Jennings Bryan may rank deservedly as a great military leader.

Let it be remembered that he fought hardest for peace, as he understood peace. There could be no greater military achievement than success in such a war.

HATS IN CHURCH

The city of Rome is much exercised by the "shameless" way American women tourists dress—or don't dress. Especially is it shocked by their hot-weather practice of entering churches with uncovered heads.

Roman newspapers say there may be signs put up on the churches strictly forbidding women to enter without hats. "We must act promptly," says a leading paper, "because more of these exotic excursions from the United States are coming. But we shall not tolerate those who profane our temples."

This is really a curious criticism.

A visitor to a Mohammedan mosque must take off his shoes. A worshipper in an American church must keep on his shoes. In a Christian church in Rome, and perhaps most other places, the man must take his hat off and the woman keep hers on. An orthodox male Jew anywhere must keep his hat on in church. Is all this religion or fashion?

UNIFORM RURAL SPEED LIMIT

The chamber of commerce of Baton Rouge, La., has started a movement to secure uniform speed laws throughout the rural sections of the state. A limit which is reasonable and safe in one county certainly ought to be satisfactory in other counties in the same state under similar road conditions. Yet adjoining counties and even different towns in the same county have different rules.

This variety in permitted speeds is hard on even the most law abiding motorist. With the best intentions in the world he is likely to cross invisible boundary lines between different speed sections and, without changing his speed, find himself breaking the law in one place and obeying it in another.

The object of speed regulations surely should be to the promotion of safety and traffic efficiency, not the catching of unsuspecting drivers. Safety and efficiency are best served by uniform wise regulation, and more persons are coming to realize this fact every day.

WORKLESS JAILBIRDS

Under a new law, prisoners in Ohio jails are allowed $1.50 a day instead of 60 cents, for the time they serve, and the prisoners are joyful accordingly.

It is probably an improvement, at that, over the old rate allowed in the "working out" of fines by jail terms. Sixty cents a day—which is more than some states allow—is a ridiculous allowance for a human being's time when any able-bodied person can earn several dollars a day at ordinary labor. Even at $1.50 a day, wages being what they are, the present method of paying fines when the prisoner lacks money operates as imprisonment for debt, which is supposedly unconstitutional in this country, and discriminates unfairly between the poor man and the prosperous man.

Under this system, as practiced almost universally, the prisoner loses money by losing time, and society loses money by feeding and lodging him and virtually paying his fine for him. Why not provide real work for the prisoners, by which they could pay in fact as well as in theory, and make a rational pay allowance for it?

Labor leaders always object to any such proposal, on the ground that they don't want "prison competition." But under the present arrangement, honest labor itself, which pays most of the taxes directly or indirectly, is taking money out of its own pocket to support the jail population in idleness.

Under a proper system, jail birds and honest outsiders might, by their work, be making more work for each other. Clear-headed men no longer imagine that there is just so much work to be done in the world, but know that productive work, rightly managed, makes more work by increasing wealth and the exchange of products.

Good Roads, Well Maintained

Hordes of autos all remind us We should build our roads to stay, And departing leave behind us Roads the rains won't wash away. When the children pay the mortgage Father's made to haul the loads, Let them never have to question—Here's the bonds, but where's the roads?"

COMMISSION WILL TAKE UP BURKBURNETT BRIDGE

AUSTIN, July 31.—Decision as to whether to re-allot $163,000 toward the construction of a 3,000-foot bridge across the Red river at Burkburnett, in all likelihood will be made August 10, at the next meeting of the state highway commission, Senator Joe Burkett, member of the commission, said late today. Legality and the emergency of the question were argued today before the commission with Joseph Weldon Bailey, former United States senator, representing the owners of the present toll bridge at Burkburnett and arguing against the re-allotment.

LONDON JAILS ARE BARE

LONDON, July 31.—One-third of the jails and penitentiaries in England and Wales have been closed down during the past ten years, according to statistics of the board of prison commissioners. Of the forty prisons now left only one-third have their full quota of prisoners, the rest being by no means full. This reduction in prisons is reflected on the figures that show that there has been a decrease of practically 66 per cent in the number of persons sentenced to imprisonment since 1913. The total number of persons sentenced to imprisonment in the year 1924 was 58,216, as against 167,000 ten years previously. Of the twenty prisons closed down most of them have been put to use either as apartment houses, warehouses, or military barracks and training camps.

LARGEST PRICE PAID FOR HENS IN STEPHENS CO.

BRECKENRIDGE, July 31.—The largest purchase of chickens this year from the largest poultry farm in the United States was made here recently when L. P. Guice of the Model Poultry farm of Breckenridge bought 1,400 White Leghorn pullets eight weeks old, from M. Johnson Poultry ranch of Bowie, Texas. Mr. Guice paid $1.25 each for the pullets, the purchase price coming to a total of $1,750. Accompanied by C. K. West and W. W. Byers, the chickens were brought back Wednesday night, loaded on two large trucks in 40 coops with about 35 chickens to each coop. With the addition of these pullets the Model Poultry farm now has approximately 3,000 fine chickens. Another large laying house 22x60 feet is being erected now to take care of the added stock. The M. Johnson Poultry ranch has about 80,000 chickens on it, including about 20,000 baby chicks, hatched last week. It has incubators with a capacity of 112,000 eggs.

14 TRANSFERS RESULT SHORT DRIVE PUT ON

Owing to the field secretary of the chamber of commerce having to fill the place vacated by Secretary Richardson, the matter of securing transfers for the Cisco schools has not been pushed. But as the time for transfers expires August 1, there was a small drive put on Wednesday by Superintendent J. H. Morgan, President of the School Board Stockard, Principal T. C. Williams of the West Ward school, and Field Secretary Whitehead. This drive resulted in securing twenty-one transfers. These transfers will bring to the Cisco school board $14 each, or a total of $294. The time for transfers expiration is near, and those wishing to send their children to the Cisco schools this fall should not neglect to have them transferred at once.

HOW THE GREAT COMMONER BECAME FIXED ON BRYAN

CHICAGO, July 31.—The Chicago Herald and Examiner Monday night says that the title, "The Great Commoner," was given to William Jennings Bryan by a newspaper man, Willis J. Abbott, now editor of the Christian Science Monitor, just before Mr. Bryan's nomination in 1896 as the Democratic candidate for president. After Mr. Bryan's famous "Cross of Gold" speech, which brought him that nomination, his hotel room was filled with newspaper men. The secretary of the president of the Burlington railroad, following a railroad custom of many years in those days, came to tender the candidate the use of the railroad president's private car to return home to Nebraska. "But, Mr. Bryan, you certainly can not do that," spoke up Mr. Abbott, the theme of the "Cross of Gold" speech still in his mind. "You are a commoner, you are the great commoner." Mr. Bryan did not accept the railroad president's offer. Several years later, in 1901, he founded his weekly, entitled "The Commoner."

FLYERS TO GATHER AT BRECKENRIDGE RACING

BRECKENRIDGE, July 31.—Elaborate preparations are being made here for what promises to be one of the biggest flying exhibitions ever staged in the southwest, August 8 and 9. The ceremonies will mark the formal opening of the new aviation field at Breckenridge and the Oil Belt Fair grounds. COTULLA IRRIGATION REPORT TO BE MADE

AUSTIN, July 31.—On Tuesday the state board of water engineers will receive the submission of the record in the application of La Salle County Water Improvement District No. 1, better known as the Cotulla project, and which proposes a total expenditure of some $5,000,000 to water approximately 80,000 acres. It was to have been submitted Monday, but postponed because of the illness of a board member. John W. Gaines of San Antonio, attorney, and Andrey Rollins, engineer, are here to present the matter to the board. When the plans are approved an election will be held to vote bonds to put over the project. A gigantic dam over the Nueces, fifteen miles west of Cotulla, will be constructed. It will make the largest reservoir in Texas and from it will be irrigated the 80,000 acres, mostly on the west side of the International-Great Northern railroad.

SAN ANTONIO DAM TO COST $1,300,000

SAN ANTONIO, July 31.—The Olmos dam, which the city of San Antonio will build in Alamo Heights for the retention of flood waters off the Olmos watershed, will cost $1,300,000, according to bids which were opened today by the city commission. The city prepared the foundation for the dam at a total cost of $417,000, $277,000 of this amount being for 1,000 acres of land needed in the project. The city also purchased all materials needed in the construction of the dam at a total cost of $471,000.

You Hate to Look at a Pimply Face

There is perhaps nothing more distressing to people who are bothered with them, and surely nothing as displeasing to others who see them as pimples, blotches, bumps, rash, scurf, eczema, "breaking out," and similar disfigurements.

But now that Black and White Ointment, and Soap, are proving to be so dependable in quickly getting rid of these diseases of the skin, it seems foolish for people to neglect using them and making themselves attractive to others instead of being slighted all the time.

All dealers have Black and White Ointment, and Soap, in the convenient, low-priced, liberal packages. The 50c Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size.

HE WENT ABOUT DOING GOOD

Speech of Acceptance by Grand Exalted Ruler William H. Atwell, Before the Grand Lodge, B. P. O. E., at Portland, Ore., July 14, 1925

Henry Ward Beecher said that, "next to ingratitude the most painful thing to bear is gratitude. Doctor Johnson wrote that "gratitude is a fruit of great cultivation; it is not to be found among gross people." Talleyrand said that "gratitude is the least of virtues; ingratitude the worst of vices;" while Addison assures us that "there is not a more pleasing exercise of the mind than gratitude."

"Whatever may be the logic of the poet—whatever may be the philosophy of the great essayists—the sophistries, pitfalls, or heights of gratitude, I cannot allow you to go without letting each one of you know that an ocean of gratitude rolls, and swells, and ebbs, and flows in my heart.

There is the courtesy of the offering. A unanimous choice. Though 12 full months have passed since Boston's great reunion, and, though the order is teeming with worthy and deserving brothers, no one sought to make this year's honor competitive.

Then, too, not a single promise of preferment has been made. I enter upon the duties of the office of grand exalted ruler without commitment. Not even my private secretary has been chosen. There has been no ulterior force of any sort or kind. I enter upon the duties with an open mind, and without shackles of any sort.

It is a great thing to be chosen by the ballots of citizens to political office; it is a great thing to be chosen by the governor of a state or the president of the nation for important work; but it is a still greater honor to be chosen by the voice of a great fraternity where selfishness plays no part, and where love is the dominating spirit.

For this fine thing that you have done to me I am intensely grateful!

I summon all strong-thinking and nation-loving Elks to a 12-month consecration to the motto, "He went about doing good."

This fraternity, made up of men who do not waver, worry, whine, nor wrangle—this fraternity, that is made up of men who love, and laugh, and serve—this fraternity that does not stir its tasks—this fraternity that is not hard and cold and selfish; this fraternity which is made up of men of the morning; this fraternity—men of the sunrise—I salute!

You are to be guardians and saviors to little men and women. You are to hear the call of life; you are to know that bodies are more than gold, and that the soul of a child or the virtue of a woman are of more value than the building of a city!

Your fields are to be broadened. The city is not to be neglected, but the smaller town is to have a redoubled energy. Christmas and Thanksgiving are to be left on the calendar, but any day, and any need, and any time are to be the hours of service.

"The way is long and sometimes very weary, and we crowd and bruise one another in passing," but to relieve somewhat the great emptiness that frightens so many away from the right we are to labor, and when old and gray our journey will be more joyous because we have done so.

The petty shames of clever men and the mistakes of foolish good men shall not stand between us and the "old time religion"—a tonic for both person and country.

"It is the old-time religion, It is the old-time religion, It is the old-time religion, It's good enough for me."

"It was good for our fathers, It was good for our fathers, It was good for our fathers, It's good enough for me."

I want to see printed across every letterhead that is in every lodge room in America during the next twelve months, "He went about doing good." I wish to see it indelibly impressed upon every heart; burned into the busy brain of every one who wears the antlers.

"He went about doing good," not only to the individual, but "He went about doing good" to his country. The stirring days of the present and the mysterious, veiled, unseen days of the great future that lies out before us, must not dull our intellects to the vital importance of continued watchfulness for the perpetuity of our country, and the glory of our institutions.

Every Elk must be not an intermittent foe, but a continuing gladiator—a foe of every band that would seek to play the "International" in the United States of America. There is no place in any of our forty-eight rooms of this great national mansion for red except as one of the stripes in Old Glory. There must never come a moment of mistaken freedom when we may look on lethargically, while the orator, either on the soap box, or on the rostrum, either in open, or in secret, attacks the fundamentals of our government and gives utterance to treason.

Because our government was a free gift to us; because it cost us nothing; because we take it as we do the air, and the sunrise, and the sunshine and the showers, we must not forget that it is the result of a struggle that lasted for more than seven hundred years. It is the child of the blood of our forefathers. It is the body that was bought by struggle and sacrifice and bitter suffering. It came to us as the harvest of a hundred battle-fields all scarred with wounds, all grimy with blood, all eloquent of banishment and confiscation; redoubt of prison and dungeon; the recompense of rack and thumbscrew and cruel punishment. Are we to enjoy, and with such enjoyment allow it to die? Or are we to continue to be militant lovers of the constitution and militant soldiers of freedom; constant, everlasting crusaders for this great thing that we call the freedom and liberty of the United States of America?

We are to stand beside the president when he takes the oath of office; when he signs the laws; when he orders out the army and the navy. We are to stand in the chamber of the supreme court, when that, the greatest earthly tribunal courageously strikes the life from unconstitutional enactment, or breathes the spirit of energy into necessary decision. We are to stand in the halls of congress and inspire the legislator with the fullness of his oath of office. Silently and reverently and constantly present are we to be with every office holder in the land, that he may be just and constitution-loving and constitution-keeping.

We are to be in all "places of amusement—the theater, the moving picture, the amphitheater, the coliseum—everywhere, standing immutably for our great country and its everlasting mission.

And now, my brothers, let us at this moment of consecration pray for deliverance from those things that estrange men. May we in this common love for man and country lose all little prejudices and mushroom affiliations which stand between us and the big things that mark us as members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks! God bless and keep you!

DEMOLITION OF SINCLAIR CAMP NOW UNDER WAY

RANGER, July 31.—Razing of the Sinclair Oil and Gas company camp, on the Tiffin road, one mile north of Ranger, marks the passing of one of the model and modern camps in the history of Ranger, built during the big oil boom of 1917-18. The houses now occupied by renters will be razed as soon as they are vacated in the future, according to J. L. Wheatley, superintendent of the camp. The big dormitory, that housed many workers in its day and continuing the club rooms of the camp during its heyday, is practically a thing of memory, as only the framework is now standing and workmen are busily engaged in tearing that down.

All the vacant buildings on the camp will be torn down and the lumber assembled and shipped to Tulsa as soon as possible, Mr. Wheatley said. The office building is next on the list for razing and several vacant houses will be removed as workmen get to them. Residents of the camp at present will not be bothered, as no definite information regarding the final disposition of the camp is available, Mr. Wheatley said.

The Sinclair camp was one of the first big camps to be erected by companies for their employees. The entire camp is laid out in an orderly manner and is strictly modern, all conveniences being available and when the boom collapsed around Ranger, the company was preparing to erect a school house and a big hospital in the camp. To add the last touch to a delicious salad...

SEASON your salads with a mayonnaise made with Mrs. Tucker's Shortening.

Just melt two cupfuls of Mrs. Tucker's and pour into lightly beaten egg. Add half a teaspoonful of mustard, a teaspoonful of lemon juice and vinegar, some salt and a pinch of paprika or cayenne pepper. Inexpensive, easy, this makes a delicious dressing.

This is but one of the countless uses for which Mrs. Tucker's is incomparable. A pure vegetable shortening, it imparts a delicious creaminess to all cooking and baking. It has all the richness of butter and none of the heavy greasiness of lard. And it goes further than ordinary shortening.

Get a pail of Mrs. Tucker's from your grocer today. It is made exclusively of choice cottonseed-oil. You can be absolutely certain that it will be absolutely sweet and fresh. The air-tight feature of the new pail makes sure of that. Interstate Cotton Oil Refining Company, Sherman, Texas.
