SHERIFF INDICTED IN LIQUOR RING

THREAT UPON FEDERAL MEN IS REVEALED

FORT WORTH, April 22. — A federal grand jury today indicted Sheriff J. L. Irvin of Lamb county for fostering and protecting illegal liquor business in the county and for "threatening federal investigators sent into the territory."

The indictments also charged 28 other persons with conspiracy, distilling and possession of liquor. The sheriff's son, Driscoll Irvin, is in the group.

The grand jury action climaxed several months of intensive investigation by U. S. District Attorney Clyde Eastus and his staff into alleged vice conditions in several West Texas counties. The probe was opened as the result of the machine-gun slaying of Federal Narcotics Agent Spencer Stafford at Post by Sheriff W. F. Cato of Garza county. Cato goes on trial May 20.

Sheriff Irvin is charged in three counts with threatening the lives of investigators.

In one instance, the government charges, he announced publicly he would give $100 if he could "get some of the federal men out where he could use a gun on them."

Second count alleges that he once told Vernon Herman that he was running Lamb county and if the federal men ever came to get him "they had better come with both guns."

The government also charges that Irvin received $200 a month from Mr. and Mrs. William Herdman for the exclusive right to make and sell liquor in the county. This agreement was entered into in 1926, the government alleges.

SIX PLEAD GUILTY IN NARCOTICS CASE
SAN ANGELO, April 22 — Three physicians and three druggists pleaded guilty in federal court today to charges of narcotics law violations. They were Dr. S. L. Hess, Dr. C. B. Quinlan, and Dr. R. H. Linchley, and pharmacists C. S. Galloway, L. C. McAllister, and J. T. Lindley. Sentences were deferred.

BRAVE CHINA MISSIONARIES STAY AT POST
(Copyright, 1935 by United Press)
SHANGHAI, April 22 — Two plucky American women and three male Canadian colleagues braved torture and death at the hands of Chinese rebels today by sticking to their mission and hospital post in war torn Szechuan province in the western part of China.

Disregarding the advice of officials and the pleas of other foreigners to flee from rebel same armies which last year executed two American missionaries, and five remained on duty in the city of Chengtu, capital of the province.

Kingfish Long Hurls Abuse At New Dealers

PRESIDENT IS MAIN OBJECT OF EPITHETS

WASHINGTON, April 22 — Huey Long today delivered a blast of epithets against the New Deal, declaring that its officials had been "announced and appointed" instead of being truly representative of the people.

During his tirade, Long struck directly at President Roosevelt. "Roosevelt desires that there shall be inflicted upon the state the rottenest, most corrupt political debauchery ever known, and I don't mean maybe."

Long was limited to 40 minutes under a ruling by Vice President John Garner. The Kingfish went down the line of New Deal officials, passing a name for each.

This is what Long called them: Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes with whom Long has been quarreling over PWA funds in Louisiana; the chinch bug of Chicago.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace: "The Lord Destroyer, the ignominy of Iowa."

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA's first administrator: "Hugh 'Sitting Bull' Johnson, the expired and lamented."

Long entered the senate chamber at 12:05 p. m. and sauntered down the center aisle giving the crowds in the galleries ample time to note his double-breasted suit, lavender shirt, and gaudy necktie.

ICKES STRIKES BACK AT KINGFISH
NEW YORK, April 22 — PWA Administrator Harold Ickes, speaking before the annual Associated Press luncheon today, attacked Sen Huey Long's "share our wealth" plan as "despicable beyond my powers of description."

Ickes, a former newspaper man renewed his attack of the Louisiana senator. He did not mention Long by name but maintained his verbal barrage against him by asserting "I despise the demagogue who hurls his voice through the air to advocate false doctrines, the acceptance of which by a majority of the people destroy this America I love. I have nothing but contempt for the man of crooked intelligence who deliberately sets out to fool the underprivileged."

State Librarians To Meet In Austin
AUSTIN, April 22 — Austin, noted in Texas for its libraries, will be host to librarians of the state April 25 to 27 when they gather for their association's biennial convention.

Speakers will include Miss Clanton of the Dallas Public Library; Miss Ella V. Aldrich of Louisiana State University; E. W. McDairmid, Jr., of Baylor university, Waco; Miss Dorothy Amann of Southern Methodist university, Dallas; Miss Elnora Edgar of Houston; Miss Marguerite Hester of Midland; Miss Reta Duncan of Beaumont; Miss Violet Hayden of Dallas, and Miss Kathleen Munn of Beaumont.

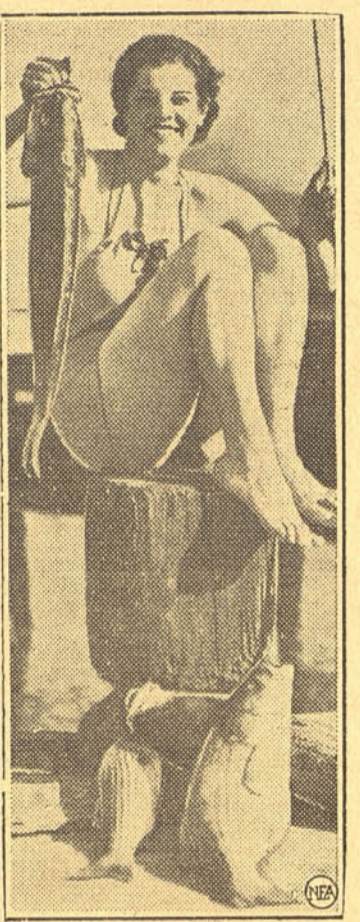

Other speakers are Miss Mary Shipp Sanders of Johnson county; L. A. Woods, state school superintendent, Austin; Mrs. Frances Coleman of Waco; Miss Alice Harrison of Austin; and Miss Lucia Powell, Wichita Falls, president of the association.

Robles Kidnaping Is Near Solution
TUSCON, Ariz., April 22 — The government "G" men today were reported to be near a solution of the year old kidnaping of 7-year-old June Robles, the only kidnap case that so far has baffled the department of justice.

SPECIAL SESSION FOR TEXAS GETS OPPOSITION OF ALLRED
AUSTIN, April 22. — Gov. James Allred today renewed his opposition to a special session of the Texas legislature. "I am opposed to a special session unless it is forced by necessity," he said.

"The legislature has made much progress since I have been gone," he said, referring to his trip to Washington last week. "I appreciate the cooperation given by Governors Woodard and Regan in my absence."

Pretty Catch For Any Angler

Bass just can't help stringing along with Marie Rigalle and it's easy to tell why they can't resist when you take a look at Marie, resting on her perch with her catch of strippers. She will be one of the main attractions at the annual striped bass carnival in San Rafael, Calif., in May, in both angling and bathing revue events.

ALLRED SAYS THOMAS BILL DUE TO FAIL

AUSTIN, April 22. — Gov. James Allred refused to say today what Texas will do if the Thomas federal oil control bill passes congress and becomes law.

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it," he said. "I do not expect the bill to pass. My confidence springs from a belief that Texas senators and congressmen will not permit such a monstrosity to be forced upon us."

"The federal control, if applied to all industry, can be applied to all. It would be the opening wedge to regimentation to all industry and business. There is no need for it. Many who support it now admit that it is to balance supply and demand."

Marriage Is Called Insanity Insurance

HOUSTON, April 22 — The best insurance against insanity, ill health and suicide is marriage, according to S. W. Henderson, head of the department of education, University of Houston.

"It is a proved fact," Henderson said, "that insanity, criminality, and poverty are found less among married than among single people."

NESSBITT PROMOTED
WASHINGTON, April 22. — Pres. Roosevelt today nominated Brig. General Carl Nessbitt of Texas to be a brigadier general, adjutant general, department, national guards.

HUGE EGG LAID
WEIMAR, Tex., April 22 — A black Minocra hen owned by Peter Hadash, farmer of this community, laid an egg weighing four ounces, twice as large as the ordinary egg.

JAPS HUDDLE OVER HOUSES SHAKEN DOWN

(copyright 1935 by United Press)
TAIHOKU, Formosa, April 22 — An airplane flight today over the area of Formosa shaken by an earthquake revealed whole villages "lanted to the ground and hundreds of coffins piled together awaiting burial."

The natives squatted on top of their roofs or sat on mats around their ruined homes. They looked like people huddled for a great picnic, but it was a picnic of death, for no less than 3,050 persons had been killed.

Bridges which formerly spanned water courses, large and small, were down. Brick and concrete schoolhouses, in some villages the only structures not of wood or earth were leveled.

Some towns in the path of the tremor reported little or no damage, but most of the communities in the north and western parts of Formosa felt the terrible strength of the earthquake.

The Men's Bible class of the Presbyterian church, has announced that it will serve the members of the class and men of the church with an ice cream supper tonight at 7:30.

Cantaloupe Crop Is Earlier This Year

ROCKDALE, April 22 — Approximately 1,500 acres of cantaloupes in this section are reported in good condition and prospects are that the crop will begin to move about June 1, 10 days earlier than last season.

New Oil Casing To Be Aid To Industry

MILWAUKEE, April 22. — After nearly a year of research engineers disclosed that patents have been obtained for a new type of casing which is expected to revolutionize the oil well drilling industry.

The mysterious process, which includes electric welding, will produce a casing capable of withstanding terrific external pressure, thus creating the possibility of sinking wells to far greater depths than at present.

House Demands San Jacinto Memorial and Alamo Repair

AUSTIN, April 22 — Definite allocation of part of state proposed $3,000,000 Centennial appropriation to a memorial at San Jacinto battlefield and improvement of the Alamo was demanded by the house of representatives today.

It instructed its conferees to a committee conference to insist on such allocation. An attempt to peg them at $300,000 each was defeated. Proposal to reduce the total appropriation to $1,000,000 is pending.

Before voting on allocation, the house instructed conferees to require payment of prevailing wage scales in building of Centennial structures.

MOROSE BANK TELLER SLAYS OWN CHILDREN

CHICAGO, April 22. — William Gardner, bank teller, shot to death a sleeping son and a daughter today, wounded another son, and attacked three policemen after walking to a station to surrender.

About Our Friends

Mrs. J. T. Berry admiring the roses on the various streets of Cisco's residential district. Mrs. Wm. Reagan disappointed because she didn't get to help wrap some Easter eggs. Mitt Williams dressed up in a new gray suit. Mrs. Williams also looking very tailored. Dick West chooses to complete his Master's degree rather than accept a job. Fine decision. The job will come later if one prepares himself. Young men often make the mistake of getting into life without preparation. Ed Huestis getting off to a good start. Marjorie Ann Dyer enjoying the egg hunt. Also Nina Holder and Marian Jacobs. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burnam looking very happy Sunday. S. H. Nance with a new Easter suit. Mrs. Harve Woodridge and Mrs. J. B. Hunter attending the egg hunt. H. C. Henderson inviting a few friends to the ice cream supper. P. P. Shepard waving a greeting to some of his friends. Kingfish Perot admits he is over worked but says he likes it. Mrs. A. L. Foster receiving many compliments for her clear, bell-like voice in her Easter solo. Mr. and Mrs. Leon Maner waving at some friends. Mrs. W. J. Leach enjoying the Lions Easter egg hunt. Mrs. Charles Kleiner, and little daughter, having a good time finding eggs. Mrs. J. A. Bearman, very obliging with some information. Thanks, very much. Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Kelly driving off somewhere. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown have erected a new back yard fence. Looks good. Made of steel and plenty high. Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Nance with lots of visitors Sunday afternoon. H. A. Bible and R. W. Mancill seem to busy this morning. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Hale having a good time at the lake parks Sunday afternoon. They are the kind of people who get much pleasure from seeing others happy. Incidentally they are planning some picnic lunches soon. Blair Clark planning a goat barbecue. A. V. Clark too busy to wear his new hat. It is said that J. B. Pratt retires at sundown.

KIDDIES HUNT EASTER EGGS HERE SUNDAY

With the largest crowd ever to attend an Easter egg hunt in Cisco, the Lions club turned loose a horde of little tots and other children ranging in ages up to 12 years, who soon covered the hills south of the Lion-Rotary park at Lake Cisco yesterday.

Lion Horace Condey, speaking for the committee, made the assignment of where the various age divisions were to hunt and asked them to await further preliminaries which would end with Mayor Berry giving the signal for the start. But enthusiasm was too strong. A few straggling children and mothers began sitting out of the crowd, no longer able to contain themselves, so speech-making was abandoned and the word given to begin.

Painting Up One's Home

At least one a year if not oftener, all agencies interested in the progress of their home community ought to agitate for the use of paint to brighten up all buildings that have a decadent look, and are in danger of deterioration as a result of exposure to the weather. It is interesting to see how much more pride people take in their home places as the result of a good coat of paint. It has a useful psychological effect. People living in a house that looks run down are apt to feel run down, and they are likely to get the idea that they are falling behind and are not keeping up with the game. Induce folks to paint up their place and make it look well cared for, and the effect is to give them a greater degree of confidence. They feel as much better for it as a man does in wearing a new suit of clothes. Buildings that look run down for need of paint attracts unfavorable attention. If the owners could hear the remarks made about people who fail to do their share to keep up the appearance of the town, they would be more disposed to co-operate. A few buildings of that kind here and there are a drag on the appearance of a town. Visitors look at them and remark that the place must be asleep, to allow its homes and business structures to present such an unprepossessing appearance. But after these buildings are painted, then the respect of the visitors for such neighborhoods increases amazingly. They say that the town is on the map, and is putting its best foot forward and is likely to be a good place for residence or to do business in. Incidentally property deteriorates when not properly painted. The money saved by not painting is apt to be all lost through the depreciation of property.

Newspaper Advertising Best

An advertising expert declared in a recent public address that newspaper advertising is becoming more and more the chief medium through which the business, mercantile and manufacturing world is reaching millions of people. Other forms of advertising come and go, are experimented with an ultimately abandoned. But newspaper advertising has so thoroughly demonstrated its worth that it steadily gains in favor. Partly this is because newspapers are more widely had than they used to be and reach every class and group of consumers. Partly, too, because the best newspapers have co-operated with these advertisers who have worked for honesty in advertising. The public has come to have confidence in ads it finds in certain papers, and its response to them has helped not only the newspapers themselves, but the consumers and the advertisers. True profit in any business transaction involves the satisfaction of all the parties to it. A skin game can rarely be worked more than once on the same individual, but an honest ad interests the buyer in other ads of the same type.

Hungry Farm Children

A worker for the extension division of the department of agriculture asserts that malnutrition is just as much a problem in the country as in the city. A newspaper commenting on this, says:

But How About This Collection?

"This is probably due to our complex distribution system. The farmer raises his produce for the cannery or the city market; he finds it inconvenient to reserve a part for retail sale in his own village. So his village starves in the midst of plenty; it must eat canned corn, with fresh corn rustling in every field; it must do without milk, with cows in every pasture."

There is nothing to keep them from having these things. While the farmer is loading up a truck full of produce for the city market the wise modern farm wife is setting aside a generous amount of these things for home consumption. She sees to it that her family has everything it needs from the earliest lettuce and radishes on through green peas, sweet corn, tomatoes, squash, and late lima beans, along with the fruits in season, fresh eggs, and plenty of good milk and cream. And part of her strenuous day's labor in the summer consists in "putting up" a fair proportion for family use in the winter.

It Pays to Read the "News" Advertisements.

Peace and Good Will have always seemed the best words to represent the spirit of the season, but what they denote today is not a transient mood of tolerance, but the very foundation of a tolerable life for mankind. Peace has to be made by a resolute will to Peace and by deliberate and definite actions. It is something more than the chance of a familiar sentence that links Good Will with Peace, for their relationship, as we understand it, is that of cause and effect. The many changes being made are transforming the thoughts of the world more and more to peace.

Texas Topics

AUSTIN, April 22—Effective penalties to stop stock-sale swindlers in Texas apparently are assured under joint efforts of both the governor and the house and senate. Sen. John W. Hornsby has sponsored final passage 26 to 9, of an agreed stringent blue-sky bill, and house authors will take up the revised draft for final action soon. This long-sought public reform in inadequate enforcement machinery will come after Texans have been robbed of many thousands of dollars by stock-selling swindlers.

Texas panhandle farmers and landowners stuck out three dry years and short crops and are living through the fierce dust storms which have ravaged the section all this spring. They are looking for relief: and at the same time they hope to make the remedy effective in time that few will be driven out, and the normal inflow of new settlers will not be checked to the detriment of the section.

Above all, they want remedies in the hands of local people, to avoid the danger that the government would lease up or otherwise control thousands of acres turn the land to pasture and drive away and head off settlers on the lands. Such action would be a serious permanent setback for the entire tillable area.

The legislature has started out to extend relief in the form of helping the farmers finance adequate crop-control and wind-erosion control work. The farmers are willing to keep on paying taxes, and to borrow money and pay it back, in order to do the necessary job.

Already it is obvious that several hundred bills, on which members:

have labored in the writing, in committee hearing in revision and perfecting will die if the regular session is adjourned May 7, as now seems likely. Members have worked faithfully in committee hearings to 11 to 12 o'clock night after night. They have labored on sub-committees in diligent drafting of acceptable measures. It is a tremendous loss—not that a lot of new laws fail to be passed—but that so much work should be directed in vain, and in that there is not real selective machinery to pick out the measures that are needed and let those dies which are useless.

Convict Wants His Automatic In Pen

HOUSTON, April 22 — Judge Langston G. King, sentenced Frank Lee, 23, negro, to a total of 30 years in the Texas penitentiary for robbery and assault to murder. That was all right with Frank, but he told the judge he had one request to make. "Ah'd like to get mah automatic pistol back," the negro said seriously. "Ah'm gonna need it up theah at the pen more'n evah." The district attorney locked the gun in his vault and officers locked Lee in jail. Patronize Our Advertisers.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON. — Dr. Rex Tugwell, white hope of the liberals in Washington, seems to be on top of the AAA heap, after a brief period in which his enemies thought he had been dropped to the ocean bottom with an anchor around his neck. The upset came within 48 hours of a press conference held by Secretary Wallace and AAA Administrator Chester Davis, at which many giggled over Tugwell's fate. Here's the first connected, accurate account of events surrounding and including the sensational purge of AAA liberals which ousted General Counsel Jerome Frank, deposed Consumers' Counsel Fred C. Howe, and booted out three or four of their subordinates: From AAA's birth, Frank and Howe led the fight to prevent AAA from being prostituted by food industries which hoped for big profits at expense of consumers out of a program designed to relieve farmers. They had Tugwell's support, and his men refused to recede. Wallace backed them up when the agreement reached him for signature. Meanwhile Frank, also differing with Davis as to books and records clauses and seeking a stronger license clause in the proposed AAA amendments which would let him win AAA decisions in the courts, was having his troubles with Davis. HE insisted that when administrative policies gave rise to legal problems that might react against AAA, administrators should be guided by legal counsel. Davis told Wallace he must choose. He himself must have a free hand, which meant removal of Frank and Howe, or he'd quit. Wallace consented reluctantly. The job was done with all the grace of an inept butcher while Tugwell was resting blissfully in Florida. Every liberal in the Agriculture building felt a sinking sensation and every conservative chortled with glee. THEN flabbergasted liberals began to holler—at Wallace and Roosevelt. Harry Hopkins protested at the White House. A couple of senators wrote horrified letters. Tugwell, besieged by long distance calls, boarded a plane and reached Washington airport at 4 a. m. Jerome Frank was there to meet him. They huddled and Tugwell made an early descent on the White House. He left with some definite promises and insiders know he is commissioned with far more power in AAA than ever before. So within 48 hours the conservatives—and possibly Wallace himself—became the ones to be flabbergasted. (Copyright, 1935, NEA Service, Inc.)

Automobile Jack Has Surgical Use

SAN ANTONIO, April 22 — A common automobile jack is a very useful surgical instrument in the treatment of persons suffering from broken backs, Dr. Sim Driver of Dallas told the Texas Surgical society here.
A person suffering from a broken back, Dr. Driver explained, is placed on a frame of metal splints with his feet tied down and a weight attached to his head.
An automobile jack is placed beneath the frame and the patient's back slowly raised to the level of his extremities. Thus the ligaments of the backbone are enabled to draw the fractured pieces of vertebra into place and the patient can be placed in a plaster cast, the surgeon said.
Dr. Robert Moore, associate professor of surgery, told of a method of eliminating pain in heart ailments by severing a certain nerve.

Taxi Driver Robbed With Toy Cap Pistol

DALLAS, April 22 — Wade Plumlee, taxi driver, thought he was taking his life in his hands when he resisted a negro who held him up.
After robbing Plumlee of $4.50 the negro fled, leaving the gun which Plumlee wrested from him. Not until he attempted to shoot the fleeing bandit did Plumlee discover it was a toy cap pistol.

The DARK BLOND

By CARLETON KENDRAKE ©1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MILLICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRINGOLD, finds her employer, in his office dead. JARVIS HAPP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a beauty, then takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets HANN'S son, NORMAN, his stepson, ROBERT CAISE, MRS. HAPP, and VERA DUCHENE, Mrs. Happ's maid.
This night a note under her door informs Millicent, "The woman in black ermine is here." Millicent sees the woman, tries to follow, but loses her. Millicent goes to the chauffeur's quarters. The chauffeur is dead from a bullet wound.
Next morning SERGEANT MAHONEY takes charge of the case.
Over the telephone Mrs. Happ learns that her husband has been kidnapped. She is warned not to inform the police.
Millicent and Norman learn that the owner of the car Millicent saw the woman in ermine driving is PHYLLIS FAULCONER. They go to her apartment, are about to go inside when Bob Caise appears. They see Bob enter and then leave. Millicent and Norman go into the apartment. Millicent opens a closet door and calls, "Norman—look!"
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIV

NORMAN HAPP stepped forward into the closet and took from one of the hangers a black ermine coat with a high collar. He brought it out into the living room of the apartment, where he regarded it curiously.
"Do you think that's the one?" he asked.
"I'm practically certain of it, Norman. It's exactly the cut, shape and style of the one I saw."
"Then this Phyllis Faulconer is the woman in the black ermine coat?"
"Yes," she said slowly, "but who is Phyllis Faulconer?"
"Some astroligical nut who has a great influence over Cynthia. Apparently Bob is working in cahoots with her in order to get something he wants."
MILLICENT stared at the fur coat, looking at it from various angles. "Yes," she said slowly, "this is the one. The woman who wore this coat is the one who took my purse in the tea room and left me the other one."
"And," Norman finished, "she must have gone to Dringold's office, unlocked the door and killed him. Let's give Sergeant Mahoney a ring and have him take her into custody."
"No," Millicent said. "I want to find out more about her before we make any rash accusations. After all, I didn't see her face clearly enough to identify her."
"But the man in the liquor store can identify her."
"First," she said, "let's make certain this was the woman who purchased the whisky."
"It's got to be," Norman exclaimed impatiently.
"I know just how you feel," she told him, "and there's not the slightest doubt in my mind but that it's the same woman. Just the same we've got to proceed cautiously and be certain of our ground before we call in the police."
"What are we going to do to be come certain?" Norman asked. "We can't do anything staying here and talking."
MILLICENT thought for a moment, then moved back toward the closet. "One of the first things to do is to put this coat back where it was and get out of here without letting anyone knowing we picked the lock on the door and found this coat. Then we've got to make arrangements with the man who runs the liquor store to take a look at Phyllis Faulconer and identify her as being the one who bought the whisky."

"How's he going to do that?"
"There are lots of ways," she said. "If necessary he could come here to the apartment, knock on the door and pretend to be selling something."
"Suppose she's not here?"
"Then he can come back. Probably she'll be working somewhere during the daytime and she is only here at night."
Norman nodded slowly. "Yes," he said, "I guess you're right, although I'd like to get some real action and bring this thing to a head."
"You can't do that," she told him, "until we've got some real evidence. Let's try to get it."
She hung up the fur coat in the closet. Norman crossed to the door and stood with his hand on the knob.
"Wait a minute," she told him. "We've got to pull down the curtain just the way it was. A woman would notice little things like that."
She pulled down the shade and turned to join Norman at the door. Then she caught sight of the corner of a piece of paper lying on the top of the mahogany table. The paper was all but concealed by an embroidered throw which partially covered the varnished surface of the cheap table.
She pulled back the edge of the throw, disclosing a sheet of note paper on which had been scrawled a hasty message.
Norman HAPP came to peer over her shoulder. "Bob's handwriting," he said.

MILLICENT picked up the note and held it so that they could both read the hastily scrawled lines.
The note read:
"You've got to ditch the car. Sergeant Mahoney has the license number. He's got it twisted, but it won't be long until he gets the right number. I tried to get a chance to talk with you but they were watching me too closely and I don't want them to suspect you. So far, you're absolutely above suspicion."
"No one suspects anything unless it's the Murder Girl. I'm going to take care of her. What's more, I'm going to get that notebook—the one that contains Dringold's confession. That will clean up the last piece of evidence. You ditch the car. Leave the girl to me.—Bob."
"Good heavens!" Millicent exclaimed, "then he was mixed up in the Dringold murder. What a mess it all is!"
"He may not have been mixed up in the murder," Norman HAPP said slowly, "but he certainly has cut in on the deal so that he's going to capitalize on it. You can leave it to Bob to know which side of the bread has the butter. He's always looking out for himself."
"But the woman must have had some man with whom she was working," Millicent pointed out. "She would hardly have committed the murder by herself. She..."

A Sad Story

Once there was a business man
And he was wondrous wise:
Said he: "We'll save the money
It takes to advertise."
"We've got the business going,
We'll sit and take the 'kale'.
Why squander cash for printing?
Our income cannot fail."
Things prospered for a season,
And prospects rosy grew;
Then sales began to dwindle:
The why?—Nobody knew.
The boss was fretful, worried,
His face grew pale and drawn;
The business "kept on going"—
Going—Now it's gone.
