RUBBER SEEDS TO REVIVE LATIN-AMERICAN INDUSTRY

THE DAILY PRESS, CISCO, TEXAS

NEW YORK - More than a million descendants of the Hevea Braziliensis family are on the last leg of their journey to the home of their ancestors who left their native heath some fifty years ago and wandered around the world. They are rubber seeds going to Brazil from the Firestone Plantations in Liberia, West Africa.

Their wanderings and the purpose of their return to South America constitute a dramatic saga in the development of one of the vorld's greatest industries and the efforts of the Governments of North and South America to re-establish the rubber growing industry on a large commercial scale in the Western Hemisphere.

Their departure was marked by a ceremony at the pier and a luncheon on the SS Brazil in New York City recently when Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., (right) presented the shipment to Dr. E. W. Brandes of the Bureau of Plant Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture, an international authority on tropical agriculture.

These seeds are part of shipments totaling more than 2,000,000 seeds which are being sent from the Firestone Plantations to many of the rubber experiment stations that have been established under United States Government auspices in twelve Central and South American countries, including Costa Rica, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Guatemala, Panama, Columbia, Ecuador, Peru, Brazil. Sen. Karl Lovelady of Meridian has thought out a preventive for excessive campaign expenditures in Texas elections. But like most cure-alls, it overlooks one important factor. The overlooked factor this time is the state constitution. Lovelady has an elaborate formula for auditing of campaign expenditures during the campaign with a double check on the closing week of the campaign. During that time the candidate could spend money only if the campaign auditor approved the expenditure. Senator Lovelady said he has been advised by the attorney general's department that his bill would be valid, but so is the unenforceable present election expense law. The trouble with both is that a man elected to constitutional office cannot be prevented from taking that office by a state law. The fourth court of civil appeals at San Antonio decided that when an attempt was made to prevent Allred from taking office. The court held that the titution fixed the qualifica tions for a governor and the state could not by law add to them Former State Senator John Davis of Dallas, in a race for U. S. senator, also attacked the legality of an opponent, taking office despite failure to file expense accounts in Texas. There the obstacle rose that the U.S. senate is sole judge of the qualifications of its own

--- that's what we're getting! Twice as much Electric Service for what we used to pay for lights alone

OW that the season is open, duck unters will be shooting for doubles. Getting two birds with one volley means getting double for your money . . . something to brag about.

And something to brag about, too, is the electric service you're getting for your money!

You may not realize it but it's about the biggest bargain you can buy today. And it's about the only thing that has continued to go down in recent years while most everything else has been going up.

Why do we say you may not realize it? Two reasons. First, the reduction has been gradual, periodical over the last 10-15 years. Second, you may still be paying about the same sized bill.

Now-here's what we are likely to forget:

YOU, IF YOU'RE LIKE THE AVER-AGE FAMILY, ARE USING MUCH MORE ELECTRICITY THAN YOU USED JUST A FEW YEARS AGO.

Count up the appliances on the job in your home today - refrigerator? Toaster? Washing machine? Sweeper? Radio? Larger, better lamps? Probably several more. Fact is, if the amount of electric service you're using today were figured at the rate of 10 or 15 years ago, your bill would be two or three times as much as it is now. In all fairness, you'll agree you're getting double for your money. And where is the credit due?

The ultimate aim of the men and women who run this company is to give YOU better service at lower cost. Their training and experience is making it possible. Their payroll is helping our town. And the taxes paid by this organization are essential to our town, our state, and our nation.
