BRITISH NEAR JUNCTION WITH AMERICANS

My Generation Has Failed Miserably; Bureaus Take Over the Peoples' Power

—HATTON W. SUMNERS

AUSTIN, Feb. 19.—Hatton W. Sumners, for thirty years congressman from Dallas, told the legislature Thursday that Texas should take the lead in regaining for the people authority which has been heaped upon federal bureaus.

Members asked Sumners how they could help attain the objectives he cited.

"The lead must come from the people," said Sumners. "When they speak, I get busy and so do you. We've got to begin exercising. The people are beginning to think about the security of this republic, and I'd like to see Texas take the lead.

"The states are going to assume their responsibility and say to Washington: 'Keep your hands off and do what you were hired to do.' We've overloaded that thing (the Washington government) up yonder."

For more than an hour, Sumners spoke and answered state legislators' questions. He mixed political history and philosophy with criticism of bureaucracy, which he said predated the new deal. The British found more than 500 years ago that control of the purse strings brought control of the government.

During the Jazz Age of the 1920's, Sumners said, somebody "discovered" the federal treasury. Local officials found it fairly easy to get money from Washington and the officials got a nice trip besides, the congressman commented.

"But the people are discovering we are mortgaging the taxpaying power of future generations to get those things," Sumners said. "And they aren't so keen about the folks who put it over."

The federal government, created, Sumners declared, as an agent for a group of sovereign states, has pre-empted state tax sources, taking money from the states, deducting administrative costs and sending it back loaded with federal authority.

"It takes my breath away to hear that these federal agents are talking to my people as if they were the masters," said Sumners. "Too many people connected with our public life want to go down as leaders of the people rather than as humble public servants. We've got to get rid of the bureaucracy out of which these abuses grow."

Sumners paid tribute to Coke Stevenson as an outstanding governor.

"Nothing is more disgusting to me than boot lickers," he declared.

The federal government now has 600 elected officials and more than 2,500,000 nonelective employees of the executive department alone, Sumners reported.

Unless the people act promptly to regain control, he said, government by bureaus will be so firmly entrenched that it will hold on for centuries.

"My generation has failed miserably," said Sumners.

"I know this democracy faces danger from within, but you have the stuff to represent a sovereign people and when our soldier boys come home you face them unashamed. The whole history of democratic progress has been movement of the government back toward the people. If you don't know that, you've got no business here."

Sumners told a questioner that executive power must be concentrated in wartime, but expressed an opinion that the war could be conducted without some of the numerous bureaus.

"The greatest peril to democracy is in those periods when the people are willing to confer power," he said. "They (in Washington) are getting suspicious now that Texans are determined to get this government back under control and that the people don't propose to be kicked around by bureaus any longer."

FOXWORTH GROCERY CLOSES FOR DURATION

The closing of the Foxworth wholesale grocery marks the first time in more than 40 years that Cisco has not had at least two wholesale grocery stores, part of this time supporting three such establishments.

J. M. Radford grocery company and J. P. Webster & Sons were pioneers in Cisco; then, during the oil boom, the J. M. Wooten wholesale grocery had a house here. Then Webster left Cisco and Mr. Foxworth took over the building and has operated since 1933.

Mr. Foxworth came to Cisco in 1919 and soon became a salesman for the Wooten company, later aligning himself with the Webster company, with whom he continued until the launching of his own company in 1933.

"I shall devote some time to ranching and may later secure some kind of defense job. After the war I may reenter the grocery business," Mr. Foxworth said.

ONE DELIVERY OF CITY MAIL MONDAY MORN

Monday being a national holiday—Washington's birthday—there will be no delivery of rural mail out of Cisco.

However, says Postmaster L. H. McCrea, there will be one city delivery Monday morning and the general delivery and finance sections of the Cisco office will remain open until noon.

Working incoming and outgoing mails on national holidays is mandatory, but the additional service mentioned above is furnished because of the war.

KRUEGER WELL LIKED BY HIS MEN, OFFICERS

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 19.—Assignment of that exponent of military efficiency, Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger, to Australia, brings here in his place as head of the third army and southern defense command Major Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, who, like Krueger, won his commission from the ranks.

Known among his men and officers as a first-rate soldier, Krueger, who looks much younger than his sixty-two years, is of medium height, and a compactly built. A rather humorous expression, say those who know, hides one of the sternest disciplinarians and perfectionists in the army.

His men knew him as a general who exacted efficiency from subordinates and was solicitous of the welfare of men in the ranks. As commander of huge maneuvering forces in Louisiana and Texas under trying weather conditions he emphasized the necessity of hard training.

Born in Prussia Jan. 26, 1881, he came to the United States when he was 8 and went to school in the Midwest. He enlisted from his home at Madison, Ind., as a private in the Spanish-American war. Service took him to Cuba and after that war he served in the Philippines. He was made a second lieutenant in 1901.

MENINGITIS INCREASE TEXAS IS REPORTED

AUSTIN, Feb. 19.—The Health department reported today the incidence of meningitis for the first seven weeks of the year is greater than that for the same period in any year since 1936.

Sixteen new cases were reported for week ended Feb 13 compared with a seven-year median for the same week of four cases. A department bulletin emphasized the importance of early diagnosis, hospitalization and proper treatment since by these measures the mortality rate is lowered, complications are minimized and control is facilitated.

It pointed out that specific immunization is not available despite much research in recent years.

ALLIED AERIAL OFFENSIVE IN S. W. PACIFIC

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Feb. 19.—Japanese shipping and airdromes at Madang, New Guinea, and at Buin, in the Solomon Islands, were the targets of heavy aerial offensive in the Southwest Pacific Thursday, headquarters said today.

Catalina bombers, attacking from medium altitudes, ranged for two hours over the Kahili airdrome, at Buin, destroying a number of enemy aircraft and setting explosions that caused fires in dispersal and dump areas visible for 50 miles.

The Japanese sent up heavy bursts of antiaircraft fire, but all of the Allied planes returned safely. No enemy craft contested the air.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Herbert Hoover will discuss Europe's food situation, particularly as it affects children, in a CBS broadcast at 2 p. m. Saturday. He will be joined in the program by Dr. Rufus M. Jones, chairman of the American Friends service committee. Hoover is expected to propose a plan for the relief of starvation among children of the occupied countries.

NAZIS NAB 2,876 ALLIED MEN

The Rome radio said today that Nazi forces had captured 2,876 Allied soldiers in recent Tunisian fighting and captured or destroyed 169 tanks.

"Local actions in Central Tunisia, which are still in progress, developed favorably," said the broadcast, which was recorded by the Associated Press in London.

It declared that, in addition to the 169 tanks, 95 armored cars, 36 mobile guns, 66 other guns of various caliber, six planes and "a large number" of trucks were wrecked or seized.

These figures were not confirmed by Allied announcements. Secretary of War Stimson said in Washington Thursday that fairly heavy losses in both personnel and equipment were being inflicted on United States forces by the German thrust in Tunisia.

Axis planes were reported to have bombed Tripoli and Bengazi harbors, Libyan supply ports now in British hands, and torpedoed four ships, sinking two from an Allied convoy off the Algerian coast. A DNB broadcast from Berlin, referring to the same action, said one of the damaged vessels was a light cruiser.

RED CROSS DRIVE

FT. WORTH, Feb. 19.—A goal of $276,000 has been set for the Tarrant County Red Cross war fund drive, Ben E. Keith, war fund chairman, announced today. Mr. Keith said $160,000 of the total will go toward the $125,000,000 quota of the National Red Cross, while the remainder will be retained here to finance the local chapter.

MANPOWER PROBE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The question whether the armed forces should number less than the 10,700,000 planned by the end of this year will be brought to the fore next week in a report of a special senate subcommittee, headed by Senator Bankhead of Alabama. The committee expected to complete its investigation of the subject today. It has heard from officials connected with every phase of the manpower problem, as well as some outsiders, including Herbert Hoover.

DOUGHBOYS DIGGING TRENCHES AND PLACING GUNS ON HEIGHTS DOMINATING NAZI ARMY BELOW

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The Middle Eastern Command revealed today that the British Eighth Army had occupied Fom Tatahouine, southern outpost of the Mareth Line, and that its big guns were thundering 24 miles to the north, indicating the imminence of a big drive to crack the line in the center and flank it at the same time.

American forces consolidated new positions along the rugged Tunisian dorsal, 200 miles northwest of the Eighth Army's positions. Marshal Erwin Rommel was believed to have called off his offensive against the Americans to meet the threat of the Eighth Army.

The Middle Eastern Command's communique said Eighth Army artillery dueled yesterday with enemy artillery in the area of Medenine, central outpost of the Mareth Line. General Montgomery's Eighth Army's advanced units entered Medenine two days ago, but its occupation by the British has not yet been announced. Apparently, British guns were in range of the Afrika Korps were believed to have withdrawn behind the line.

Axis reports that the Eighth Army had already begun its assault were received with reserve. But it was not doubted in London that the British would soon be hitting the Afrika Korps hard enough in southeastern Tunisia to divert considerable pressure from the Americans.

The weather prohibited extensive offensive air operations on the Mareth Line front yesterday, and it might be that the Eighth Army was waiting for better flying conditions to begin the final assault.

Meanwhile, planes from the Middle East continued to blast the Axis on other parts of the African front.

The Royal Air Force announced that torpedo bombers based on Malta sank a medium-sized enemy vessel northwest of Sicily Wednesday night. The Admiralty and RAF have announced the destruction or damage of at least 12 enemy vessels in the Mediterranean this week. Most of them were destroyed.

Allied planes from the Middle East ranged over Italy Wednesday night, and west of Taranto damaged four locomotives and started fires along a long line of freight trains, undoubtedly destined for the African front.

Enemy motor transport vehicles were shot up yesterday between Soussa and Sfax, in Tunisia. All Allied planes returned from all operations.

Having withdrawn from Feriana, Kasserine and Sbeitla, below the dorsal, the Americans now held positions running from a point near Pichon, southwest to below Tebessa, the big Allied base just inside Algeria. Pichon is 80 miles southwest of Tunis; Tebessa is 86 miles from Pichon.

All day yesterday, a dispatch from Allied North African headquarters said, husky doughboys swung picks and shovels along the dorsal, digging trenches and emplacing guns on heights that dominate German positions on the plains below.

American field guns and mortars concealed among the evergreen trees on the slopes pointed down toward the barren valley, where the Germans dug slit trenches with a minimum of natu-

PLANE CRASHED INTO BUILDING AND KILLED 28

SEATTLE, Feb. 19.—Firemen think 28 persons were killed when a huge, four-engine bomber plunged through the fifth floor brick wall of the First A. Co. meat packing plant, spreading gasoline-fueled flames through the building.

Twelve bodies had been recovered from the twisted wreckage of the plane and from the blackened rubble of the plant's interior. Eight of them were the bodies of the plane's crew members, and four were identified as those of packing plant employees.

The bodies of three other crew members were found near the plant.

Their parachutes failed to open when they leaped from the falling plane.

Thirteen employees of the packing company were listed as missing by the Packing House Union, which checked the homes of all workers.

Five destroyed 107,000 pounds of pork, including 80 live hogs, and plant officials said the loss would permeate seriously the meat shortage in the Puget Sound area.

EVERYBODY'S SHARE.

One of the things that any American should be ashamed to patronize is a "black market," whether connected with coffee, meat, shoes, or anything else. It is this nation's patriots and sportsmen, or a nation of sneaks and cheaters?

Those are nasty words, but isn't it sneaking and cheating to try to beat our friends and neighbors, and get more than our share of rationed things, leaving them without their proper share? These are not mere matters of business competition. They are matters of decency, morality and neighborliness.

People who grab and hoard probably wouldn't do it on a desert island, or on a raft at sea. In their extremity, if they were normal Americans, the sportsman's spirit would rise and they would take share and share alike, as Eddie Rickenbacker and his companions did in the rubber boat. But they have far less justification now, because there is really enough for everybody - if everybody will be satisfied with his share of food, clothing, profits and wages.

This is a good time for a fine old American saying, which goes about as follows: "There is so much good in the worst of us, and so much bad in the best of us, that it hardly behooves any of us to speak ill of the rest of us."

ISLAND BASES.

One of the finest co-operative measures of this war has been the British transfer to the United States of islands for strategic bases in various parts of the world, especially in the Pacific Ocean. Those transfers are in the form of ninety-nine-year leases, and have been paid for by ships transferred to Britain. They are being used to advantage for the construction of air bases particularly. And they may be regarded also as a series of stepping stones to Japan.

Now some senators at Washington are suggesting that, instead of the present leases, Britain shall transfer the islands to this country in fee simple, so that we shall own them permanently beyond all question.

There would be no harm in that, but isn't the proposal a little premature? Uncle Sam still has them for 98 years, which is quite a bit of time. Many things may happen in that time, to many nations. Conditions will change. New problems will arise. And we're busy just now with matters more pressing. Why this haste?

FAR-SEEING.

Television, the assurance goes, is particularly with us. Putting it on a "black market" basis has been the chief obstacle. But this difficulty, had it not been for the war, might now have been cleared away. There are some subjects, eminently suitable for television, which would certainly popularize the sale of the apparatus. For instance, the surrender of Hitler and of the Japanese.

POLITICS AS USUAL.

The great James V. Allred, who resigned a life-term federal court job to run for the United States senate, and who ran into a buzz saw in the form of W. Lee O'Daniel, now wants to get back on the federal payroll and has been nominated by the president for the position of judge of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, Louisiana district.

U. S. Senator John H. Overton at once made the statement that the president's action was taken "presumably to requite a political obligation."

Senators Overton and Ellender of Louisiana had nominated Judge Archie T. Higgins of the Louisiana Supreme court for the position.

During the O'Daniel-Allred-Moody campaign it was generally predicted that Allred would be "looked after" politically if he failed of election.

In this connection it will also be recalled that after the people of Oklahoma had rejected Cong. Josh Lee at the polls, he was immediately placed on the federal pay rolls.

HE DICTATED TO HITLER.

Believe it or not, there was a time when Mussolini dictated to Hitler. In 1934 the Duce even ordered the Fuehrer to let Austria alone. Italian troops stood on the Austrian border, ready to attack the Nazi if they made a move. Hitler was not then ready for war, and he backed down. But the chances are that he never forgot this public humiliation, and whether or not Hitler ever forgets, he never forgives.

Now the shoe is on the other foot. German troops pulled Mussolini out of grief in Greece, German troops overran Italy, German troops alone keep Benito in power. Before Mussolini does anything whatever, he must have Hitler's permission. To anyone possessing Mussolini's boastful conceit, it must be galling.

In this case Hitler has got even. But there are some humiliations coming to him which he will never be able to repay.

One of the country's leading geologists was quoted the other day as saying that this year Japan was due for a serious earthquake. She had one in 1923, and again in 1933. If Jimmy Doolittle gets over there again, she will certainly have another one.

Foreign friends learn with envy that Americans are now allowed to buy only three pairs of shoes a year. They'd like to get one pair.

People who have wished Hitler were in hell needn't worry. He's in a living hell now.

Cisco Grammar School Midgets, showing the most scrap they have displayed this season, won a 6 to 0 victory over the Boy Scout team on the grammar school field yesterday.

Preston, Midget captain, scored the only counter on a plunge through the line for six yards, after the Midgets had worked the ball into scoring position with single and double reverses. The drive which ended in the score was for 60 yards. For the Scouts, Slicker, Wallace, Stubbielfield and Webster were outstanding in the Midgets' line on both against that of their lighter opponents. Stewart and Donovan were outstanding in the Midgets' line on both offense and defense. Fleming and Morris played a good game at the defensive ends. The Midgets kept the Scouts worried throughout the game with their reverses and played chiefly a defensive game in the second half.

VICTORY Rides the WHEELS

Yes, this man will tell you that "Victory Rides the Wheels," on his train and all Texas and Pacific trains. For this is essentially a war of rolling wheels. Twenty-four hours a day wheels like these speed over shining rails, carrying men, machines, supplies and raw materials to their destinations. And should these wheels stop . . . victory would be lost.

Every mile of rail transportation is as indispensable to the war effort as the vital metals used in the implements of war. Transportation must not be wasted.

Today, the railroads are serving on two fronts, the battle front, and the home front. As the fighting on all fronts grows fiercer, so will the battle of transportation become more severe.

To win our battle of transportation, the Texas and Pacific asks its civilian friends to travel only when it is necessary, and thereby help to adequately serve actual wartime travelers.

LYNCH-HADDERTON WEDDING SUNDAY.

In an impressive single-ring ceremony, held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Wanda Frances Lynch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Lynch of Cisco, became the bride of Staff Sgt. Charles Hadderton of Duncan Field, San Antonio. Hadderton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hadderton of Roby, Texas.

The marriage took place in the home of the bride's parents, with Rev. Cooper Waters, pastor of the First Baptist church, performing the ceremony in the presence of immediate relatives and a few friends.

The house was decorated with daisies, sweet peas and daffodils. The dining table was laid with lace cloth and held as centerpiece a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom.

Miss Gladys Mae Lovelady of Abilene, high school friend of Miss Lynch, sang "I Love You Truly" and played Lehengrin's wedding service.

The couple will make their home at San Antonio where Sergeant Hadderton is now stationed.

march as the bridal procession entered. Miss Lois Donham was bride's maid and wore a soldier blue costume with a corsage of white carnations. The groom was attended by Corp. Stanley Piascil of San Antonio.

The bride, attired in a baby blue wool crepe suit, with white accessories, entered on the arm of her father. For something old, she carried a silk embroidered handkerchief, 45 years old, that had belonged to her mother since childhood. Something borrowed was a cameo brooch, belonging to Mrs. J. W. Brown, an aunt of the groom. She held a bouquet of white carnations tied with satin ribbon. The groom and his attendant wore military uniforms.
