Pope Denounces War Spirit As Nations Form Alliance

EDEN STARTS FOR WARSAW PACT PARLEY

By UNITED PRESS
Pope Pius denounced the spirit of warfare while Capt. Anthony Eden, British diplomat, turned from Russia toward Poland in an endeavor to obtain her adherence to an eastern European peace pact.
Russia is willing to form an alliance "to resist aggression" in the east, to make the circle around Germany complete, the sanction from Poland and Czechoslovakia are necessary.
Eden therefore will visit Prague after he has conferred with Polish statesmen in Warsaw, after which the way will be opened for an important conference of French, British, and Italian foreign secretaries at Stresa, Italy.
Pope Pius, from the Vatican City, condemned the "warlike spirit" that has been gaining ground and pleaded with statesmen to "promote peace" and prevent the "deplorable crime of war."

THE POWERS SEND WARNING TO LITHUANIA
LONDON, April 1. — Great Britain, France, and Italy have issued a strong warning to Lithuania against abuse of her right in the Memel territory. Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, informed the house of commons today.
The three powers, Sir John said, held Lithuania that "the present situation in Memel is incompatible with the principles of autonomy guaranteed to the territory by the Memel statute and they consider it the duty of the Lithuanian government to terminate the situation without delay."

U. S. BUILDING UP FIGHTING STRENGTH
WASHINGTON, April 1. — The United States, despite a determination to remain aloof from the quarrels of Europe and Asia, is keeping fully abreast of these fast-moving nations of both continents.
A survey of preparedness moves during recent months showed today that the United States, without adding greatly to the manpower of its national defense, as compared with increases in some of the armies of Europe has actually built up a formidable war machine. The task is by no means completed, but high army and navy officials say it is well under way.
Included among the preparations are: conditional money voted for national defense, increase of naval combat strength, increase of the air force in the number and speed of fighting planes.

Four Are Killed In Mississippi Tornado
JACKSON, Miss., April 1. — At least four persons were killed and five injured when a tornado tore through south Mississippi yesterday.
The twister swept across the state, starting near the Louisiana line and blowing itself out near the Alabama line.
Two of the injured were residents of Nola county, hardest hit section of the state.

TWO ARE KILLED IN HOUSTON STORM
HOUSTON, April 1. — Clear skies and balmy temperatures prevailed over south Texas today after a windstorm, accompanied by an inch of rain, took two lives over the weekend.

Jail Break Effort In Garbage Fails

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 1.— The ingenious Ted Cole failed today in an escape attempt that paralleled his recent departure from the state penitentiary in a laundry bag.
Cole, held in county jail on a federal kidnaping charge, was found doubled up beneath rubbish in a garbage box when Deputy E. E. Heron started to remove the box. Last November Cole crawled into a laundry bag at the McAulister prison shortly before it was loaded on a truck. He was serving a 15-year sentence for robbery. Once outside the walls, he slashed the bag open, jumped from the truck and escaped.

Political Foes? Nonsense! All Is Harmony!

By pony express, hitch-hiker and carrier pigeon, The Daily News has just received pictorial proof of this astonishing new development. Here is the first picture of the new Harmony Three formed by Father Coughlin, Senator Long and General Johnson. After weeks of bitter wrangling about financial problems they have accepted a vaudeville contract which solves, for them personally, at least, all further worries about money. They were snapped during rehearsal of their opening number, which begins like this:
"Oh, we're Charley and Huey and Hugh!
"We're pals; no hoosey—that's true!
"The state of the nation—depression—inflation
"No longer makes each of us blue—hey-hey!
"For we're Charley and Huey and Hugh."
Note how enthusiastically the general, who sings bass, is coming in on the last note. Each member of the trio also does a specialty turn. Father Coughlin sings: "Love Thy Neighbor." Senator Long performs a political contortion by straddling a fence, keeping an ear to the ground, and playing "Every Man a King" on the big bassoon—all at the same time. General Johnson does an interpretive dance, "The Dying Eagle" in the manner of Mary Wigman.

NEGRO VOTING IN PRIMARIES IS HELD VOID

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Barring of negroes from the democratic primary in Texas by action of the democratic state convention was upheld by the supreme court today.
The court on previous occasions had condemned various methods employed by Texas democrats to prevent negro participation in the primaries which usually are conclusive elections in the state.
Provision of the state law barring negroes were stricken out of the party rules. Later the democratic state committee attempted to bar them. This too was held invalid. As a result the convention prescribed party qualifications, among which was limiting the primary vote to white people.

Test Car Driver Said Feeling OK

P. I. Sinner, endurance driver of the Ford V-8 test car sponsored by Nance Motor company, today was recovering from the strain of 100 hours of driving. During the test he had driven the car 3,082 miles, on 167 1-2 gallons of gasoline. After only five hours of sleep, he was up and about, apparently without feeling any ill effects of the hard drive.
The report first was published that two quarts of oil were added to the crank case, which was erroneous.
"There was no extra oil added to the automobile during the drive, and of the original five quarts three were left when the seal was broken by the judges."

Co-Eds Have Jump Week At College

WESTERVILLE, O., April 1.— Co-eds at state old Otterbein College are having "jump week."
That is their name for a week in which women students may make dates with their favorite men and pay the bills for the evening's entertainment.
Oddly enough, headquarters for "jump week" were established in quarters of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, Westerville for years was the national cradle of the league.
MAY HAVE THIRD PARTY
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah. — A third political party in Utah is expected to come from the dissatisfaction expressed toward the all-Democratic legislature's handling of the social, liquor, and labor problems.

Negro Asks Rain; Tornado Is Answer

DEL RIO, Tex., April 1. — Officials in a bank here gave a negro minister an extra five dollar donation when he promised them he would pray for a two-inch rain before nightfall to end the drought.
About nightfall a cloudburst and tornado struck the city and caused damage estimated at $800,000. The storm was accompanied by two and one half inches of rain.
The negro was frightened for fear citizens would blame him for the damage caused by the storm.

BOOSTERS TO HOLD MEETING THIS EVENING

Cisco Boosters will hold their bi-monthly open meeting of officers and directors in the Chamber of Commerce rooms this evening at 7:30. It has been announced.
The bi-monthly meetings are planned for the purpose of discussing projects and possible improvements for the city, it was announced.
"We intend to have these meetings not only for the officers and directors, although they certainly will be there, but for members of the club and for all who are interested in the work," Dr. H. Seale, vice president of the Boosters, said today.
He added that there will be some important plans taken up at tonight's meeting and urged all who possibly can do so to attend.

OPERATION BY SKIPPER SAVES SAILOR'S LIFE

PORT ARTHUR, April 1. — An emergency major operation performed by a captain at sea saved the life of a chief engineer, it was learned here.
The operation was performed by Capt. George Anderson of the Texas company tanker "Solitaire" while the ship was 150 miles off the Halifax coast.
The chief engineer, Olaf Erkelind, was in poor health when the tanker cleared Port Arthur several weeks before but he was taken on board as he believed his condition would improve in a short while.
When the ship was off the Halifax coast, Erkelind's condition became worse and Captain Anderson believed he would die unless an operation was performed.
Accordingly he consulted his medical books, prepared his surgical instruments and made an abdominal incision. Nocaaine, the only anesthetic available, was used to partially deaden the pain.
As soon as the ship reached port, Erkelind was transferred to a hospital and his condition was reported much improved as a result of the operation.

WEATHER

West Texas—Cloudy, colder in north portion, freezing in Panhandle tonight; Tuesday cloudy and colder.
East Texas — Cloudy, scattered showers tonight and in east Tuesday; colder west and north Tuesday.

DUST STORM RELIEF BILL IS TO BE HEARD

WASHINGTON, April 1. — House leaders today decided to rush passage of legislation to meet the dust storm crisis in the middle west.
At the request of the administration, leaders decided to bring up today, under suspension of rules, the Dempsey-Jones bill giving Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, Jr., broad powers to carry through a soil erosion control program.
Under this procedure the bill will require a two-thirds majority for passage.
The bill was introduced in the house Wednesday and favorably reported by the agriculture committee Friday. It authorizes use of funds out of the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill for a federal drive to save the land resources of the west.

CRISIS SEEN IN RELIEF SITUATION

WASHINGTON, April 1. — The national relief situation, aggravated by weeks of bitter congressional deadlock, neared a climax today.
Administration leaders on direct orders from Pres. Roosevelt, battled in house and senate to overturn a last-minute conference change in the $4,880,000,000 work relief measure.
A picket line appeared at the White House, made up of an Ohio unemployed group which protested that contemplated payment of the huge relief funds would be inadequate.
Meantime the federal relief bills were virtually empty. Funds for only two days remained and the new relief tieup in congress indicated that no new money would be forthcoming until very cent of the present fund had been spent.

Arrest Expected In Death of Salesman

EDINBURGH, Tex., April 1.— Officers expected to make an arrest today in connection with the death of Perry Calkins, 39, Houston salesman, whose body was found in a clump of cactus near here.
Calkins was shot once in the back with a .38 pistol and had been dead several hours. The body was found by a cowboy yesterday clad only in underclothing. Two rings, one a Masonic ring and the other a diamond, were found on a finger.
Identify was established by Calkins' name on the Masonic ring.

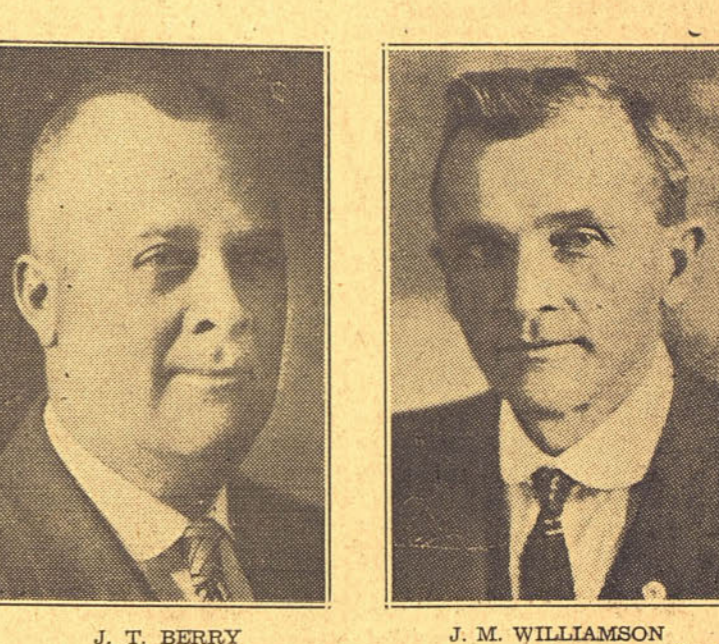

Negro Questioned In Torch Slaying

DICKINSON, April 1. — A negro was questioned today in connection with the torch murder of Roy Benson, 55, rancher, whose body was found in his shack near here yesterday.
Sheriff Frank Blagone said the negro lived less than a mile from Benson and had had trouble with the ranchman over a debt.
The negro's best friend and charged body was discovered by his small son and his wife, Mrs. Kathleen Benson, Galveston county school superintendent, when they went to visit him. His clothing had been soaked with gasoline and set afire.

STUDIO MOVED

The Kizer Studio which has been located at 700 D avenue has moved its place of business to 613 D avenue, the building recently occupied by the Walton Studio.

Two Candidates—Which Will Be Mayor?

Texas House Votes Adjournment May 7

AUSTIN, April 1.—The house of the Texas legislature today voted to adjourn the session May 7.
Senate concurrence in the resolution is necessary to make it effective. Adjournment on May 7 will end the session at the end of 120 days. It began Jan. 8.
Adjournment on May 7 admittedly will kill a large part of the bills before the legislature. Many of the taxes advocated by the governor frankly will not be passed.
Rep. W. E. Jones of Jourdanton, chairman of the house committee on revenue and taxation conceded this but said that if needed legislation has not been passed when the regular session adjourns, the governor will have a better chance with his program in a special session.
Such a session could act on only what the governor submits.

RAY HAMILTON IS BELIEVED IN NORTH TEXAS

DENTON, April 1. — Raymond Hamilton today was believed to be back in north Texas, where he began his career as a desperado. Officers were checking reports that he was seen near Denton yesterday.
Luther Harris, hitch-hiking from Denton to Fort Worth reported that two men, one of whom he believed was Hamilton, picked him up on the highway on the outskirts of Denton.
As he entered the machine, he noticed that one of the two men was crouching in the back seat with a machine gun and several pistols on the seat beside him. This man Harris said he believed was Hamilton.

Golf Meeting For Tuesday Announced

Cisco golfers will meet at the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening at 7:30. It has been announced by Leon Cagle. Some important matters that must be attended to right away will be discussed, he said in urging a large attendance.

Fathers Are Taught Rearing of Child

TYLER, April 1. — Fathers and prospective fathers are taught how to rear their children in a class organized in the public schools here.
The class is taught by Mrs. Rebecca Nelson, instructor in parent education, who was recently added to the staff of the Tyler public school system.

CAMPAIGNS IN ELECTION ARE NEARING END

Both sides predicted a victory as candidates wound up their campaigns for election in tomorrow's municipal voting.
Supporters of the present administration predicted that their candidates would win "by a good majority." At the same time, the opposition ticket said that the election "is going our way," and when asked by what margin replied "by about 100 votes."
The present administration saw possibilities of 950 votes being cast, while the opposition believed that between 800 and 900 would go to the polls.
Voting booths today had been contacted and were in the city hall, pending opening of the polls at 8 a. m. tomorrow. The election will be held in the front office of the city hall.

Two Tickets

Two tickets will be represented in the election tomorrow. The present administration is represented by Mayor W. J. Foxworth and Commissioners W. J. Foxworth and H. A. Bible.
Opposed to the present regime is the ticket headed by J. M. Williamson, former mayor, seeking the same office again. His running mates are W. W. Wallace and L. F. Mendenhall, seeking positions as city commissioners.
To observers the race appears to have narrowed down to a question of returning the same group to office or of bringing in three new officials. There apparently is not much talk of split tickets.

The present administration points to its record and asks to be returned to office on the ground that its work justifies reelection. Principal planks in its platform are its records in the bond settlement, reduction in fire insurance rates, contesting of a gas company act, system of countersigning city checks and park and other projects.
The opposition ticket advocates, as the principal plank in its platform, the securing of federal aid for projects which will give employment to Cisco's jobless. It has advanced the argument that the city should make a settlement on water bills and enable everyone to afford water for a garden.

April Fool Means Holiday to Class

Seniors of Cisco high school celebrated April Fool today by declaring a holiday, cavorting on the high school stage in phagel, and then hieing away for a picnic while their less fortunate schoolmates spent the day poring over their books.
The annual custom of senior day called for a chapel program, which the class willingly presented, in full costume befitting the occasion. The pupils appeared for their first two classes attired in gorgeous garb, and after two classes and the program left for Big Sandy, where they held their picnic.
Sponsors were Vice-Principal C. C. Duff and Miss Elizabeth Daniel. Following are the names of those taking the holiday:
Harry Brannon, Opal Crawford, Thomas Graves, Frank Shackelford, Kathleen Wilson, Rankin Blackburn, Wendell Russell, Jeannie Hagaman, Sybil Holder, Livius Lankford, Garner Altom, Doris Surles, Shannon Ramsey, Johnnie Sue Slaughter, Jacquelin Porter, Mable Halbert, Novell Hurdleston, Earline Farmer, Elsie Richardson, Kathryn Hunterman, Theron Graves.
O. C. Barnhill, Lola Guffey, Edna Huey, Daskam Stephens, J. G. Rupe, Billy Doty, Nadine Mayhew, Durene Cogburn, Maxine Gallagher, Garland Kinard, Christelle Reynolds, Catherine Meglasson, Muriel Whitaker, Edna Hightower, Johnnie Ladd, Mary Catherine Donohoe, Robert E. Lee, Senteil Caffrey, Jim McAnillis, Annie Muriel Throp, Edward Galleman, Clifford Phippen, J. W. Thomas, Elaine Evans, Mercie Clark, Robert Bates, Blodwyn Thomas, Devon Warren, Melba Ray, Eileen Francis.

Wants He-Men For Gravel Pit Work

DALLAS, April 1.— The county can't expect him to get much work done when it sends him pretty men with plucked eyebrows and red-painted fingernails to work in the gravel pits, Tom Field, commissioner of relief work complained here.
"Some of the men on relief sent to work in the county gravel pits," Field said in a report to E. J. Stephany, relief director, "have no business here. They come to work with red stuff on their fingernails and their eyebrows all fixed up. Bah, we can't have that."
He also protested against the present system of working relief clients half shifts or less on county projects.

Sec'y Ickes As A Humorous Minded Person

Secy. Harold L. Ickes was asked by a Washington correspondent what he considers his major achievement under the New Deal. He made a terse reply. "Keeping a sense of humor." Then the conversation drifted into a serious mood. He is for a national policy of conservation regardless of state lines or the voice of the people where mineral wealth known as treasure wealth abounds. "The one thing I am most interested in is conservation. I had rather do a good job here in conservation than anything else. Conservation has never been recognized as the major concern of government and it won't be until it is all concentrated in one department—the head of which is a convinced conservationist." Secy. Ickes believes that all power should be lodged at the top—meaning of course the national capitol. Alexander Hamilton preached the gospel dear to the hearts and pocket-books of those Americans who are Ickes minded.

On with the oil and gas program outlined by the oil producing states (nine in number) who agree with Thomas Jefferson that all power comes from the people down below but not at the top of the government. There are state rights and national rights. They should be dovetailed together and at all times the citizens and lawmakers and rulers of a sovereign state should be given the constitutional privilege of protecting their rights.

Bernard N. Baruch Given a Clean Bill

Bernard M. Baruch has been given a clean bill of health by the Nye senate committee. It was not a whitewash. The famous New Yorker appeared before the committee. He threw his cards on the table. He opened his books. He demonstrated by documentary evidence that he never made a dollar out of the World War, that he parted with his bonds committee appointed by Woodrow Wilson, that he believed then and believes now that wealth as well as man power should be drafted should another war come, and lastly, he never did believe in tax-exempt government bonds or securities.

Baruch is a South Carolinian by birth. His father, a noted physician in Civil war days, was a surgeon in the army of Lee. His side fought for the lost cause until its banner was furled. There are men of millions who are just as patriotic as liberty-loving and as willing to be called to the colors as there are men who carry lean pocketbooks and are ever ready to fight as rifle bearers under the banner of the great republic of the western world. Men should play the game according to the rules. This is a hint to Father Coughlin that he owes an apology to the man who was the non-salaried adviser and friend of at least four presidents.

Pink Slip Sent To The Graveyard

Income tax payers are reminded of the power of the press as well as the power and the right of petition by the citizen. First, the house of representatives voted for repeal of the pink slip feature of the income tax law. This before the coming of March 15 when the flag man marked the deadline. Now the senate has okayed the house repeal bill and the pink slip is as dead as dead herring. President Roosevelt had a vast deal to do with its coming and then its final passing. Why should there be mourners away down here in Texas or anywhere else? As the blowholes have been removed from the income tax law, there should be a fair deal for the high and the humble who contribute to the revenues of the government.

An Important Measure Pending in the Senate

It has come to pass that the senate committee on civil jurisprudence has reported a bill forbidding issuance of temporary injunctions without notice and hearing applicable to all civil cases. And why not? This measure provides temporary injunctions shall be effective only 10 days "unless extended by agreement of both parties of the controversy." Moreover, a sub-committee has been working on a securities bill—a measure effectively preventing sales of bogus securities and worthless stocks in Texas. Why not protection for the people from those who would sell or offer to sell bogus securities and worthless stocks? More than 40 years ago James Stephen Hogg, after a tremendous contest, procured the passage of an act known as the stock and bond law. The Hogg measure was armed with a double row of shark teeth. It saved the people many millions of dollars. Is it a dead letter—and if a dead letter, when and how and why did it happen?

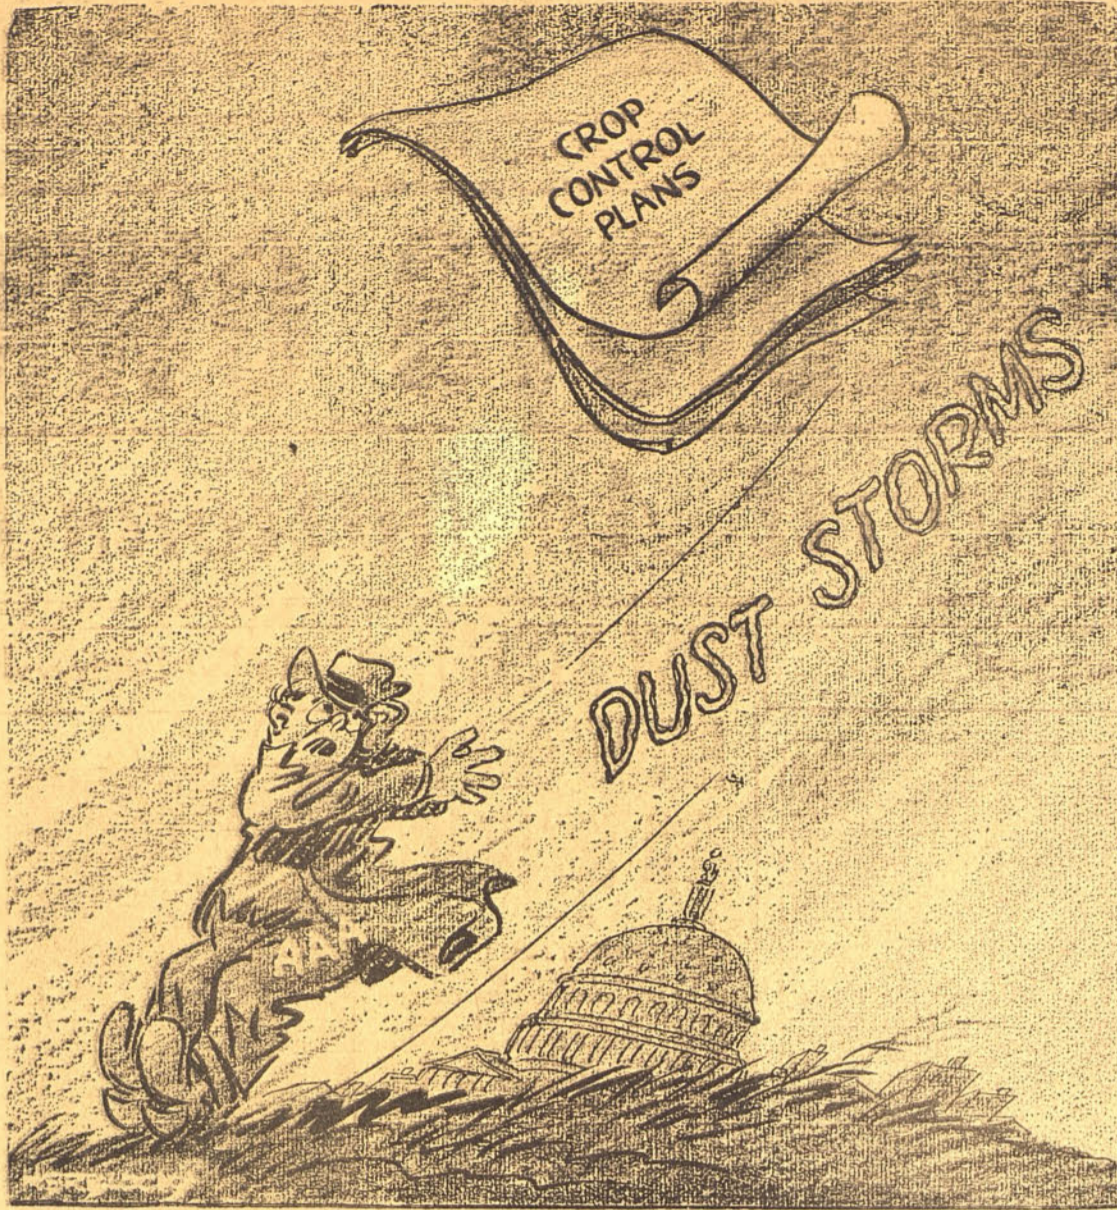

Immensity of Dust Storms

If you have wondered just how much earth was moved in the recent western dust storm, you might be interested in the estimate submitted by A. F. Turner of Kansas State college.

Mr. Turner says that if a 96-mile line of 1 1/2-ton trucks could be put to work hauling 10 loads apiece daily, it would take them a year to haul back to western Kansas the dirt that was blown over to the eastern half of the state. Altogether, he says, there would be 46,500,000 truckloads to be moved.

Putting the thing in that form helps us to realize the terrible destructiveness of the storm. You don't need to use your imagination very hard to understand that a lot of good farm land must have been ruined to provide those 46,500,000 truckloads of dust.

J. K. R. Schropp, publisher of the Lebanon (Pa.) News-Times, says: "Advertising is playing a bigger part in the trade of the world today than ever before in history. No product is today considered too mental or too large to be able to reap the benefits of advertising. In fact, no marketing is attempted without the use of advertising to pave the way. "Faith in advertising is certainly established when it is known that a manufacturer will spend several million dollars in advertising before the product is put on the market for sale. "It is only thru advertising that products are no longer known to the consuming public by their trade name, but by their brand name. A man will not ask for a pack of cigarettes, but will ask for the brand name that has pleased his taste. The housewife will not ask for a can of peaches, but will demand the brand name that has been impressed on her mind. "Constant brand advertising—keeping before the public—has affected the average mind until 'canned soup' may make the stomach revolt, but the use of a brand name will make the mouth water."

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, April 1. — University of Texas professors may do some out-of-the-way research work but Shearer reports that four professors were traveling abroad while on the university payroll.

"One," he said, "was reported to be receiving $7,000 a year investigating the contents of King Tut's tomb; another getting $6,000 trying to determine whether or not hair can be made to grow on an armadillo's tail; one was getting $5,000 a year trying to determine if he could grow another leg on a house fly and still another was getting $4,000 to find out whether green turtles came to the United States through Greenland or the Isthmus of Panama."

The office of the attorney general of Texas may have a high sounding title, but it did not impress a British airplane gadget manufacturer, Attorney General William McGraw discovered this week.

McGraw is a veteran pilot. He read the advertisement of a jigger to compute wind drift while flying and wrote to the English manufacturer ordering one. He suggested it be sent C. O. D.

Instead of the jigger, McGraw received a letter advising him that the firm "has had unfortunate experiences with even distinguished gentlemen." McGraw decided a post office money order might be distinguished enough to get recognition.

U. S.-Mexico Bridge To Be Open Longer

ZAPATA, Tex., April 1 — Opening hours for the Zapata-Guerrero international bridge linking the United States and Mexico, have been extended. It was announced here.

Since its construction about five years ago, the bridge has been daily for six hours. Under the new regulations, however, it is open for traffic from 10 a. m. until midnight daily.

schools to have attended college for two years. She lacked that much college training. Keeffe answered: "I cannot support such an amendment; it lowers school teaching standards." The constituent thus answered was his sister.

Blind Senator Olan Van Zandt of Tioga may have a congressional race with Rep. Rayburn of Bonham if a states rights issue he has set with the congressman from his home district develops into a lively fight.

Van Zandt complains that Rayburn's public utility bill before congress is casting away the state right to regulate utility rates. With a warning finger Van Zandt pointed to the way the Interstate Commerce Commission absorbed the railroad rate-fixing powers once exercised by the Texas Commission.

On last January 8, all of Austin and much of Texas was much concerned as to who would preside over the house of the Texas legislature. Coke R. Stevenson of Junction won the contest, defeating Allred-backed Robert W. Calvert of Hillsboro.

Wednesday afternoon, a person visiting the house might have thought Calvert won. He was presiding by invitation of Stevenson. By a strange irony the very first matter he had to rule upon was a point of order which Calvert was compelled to decide adversely to Rep. Clarence E. Farmer of Fort Worth, who had been one of Calvert's active supporters.

Boomerangs in house rules were illustrated twice recently. Rep. Jack Padgett of Austin is a nervous legislator who frets at delays. He broke up a long debate by a motion to table. Then he decided he wanted to talk on the subject. "You can't do it under your motion to table," Speaker Stevenson advised him.

Later, members sought to carry over the day's session into another day by recessing instead of adjourning. They refused to adjourn. Then they refused to recess the usual hour. Another motion to recess followed. Floor leader Jesse James of Cameron taught them a lesson. Rule book in hand, he cited the provision that business must be transacted between motions to recess. The weary legislators had to consider another bill.

Rep. Earl Huddleston of Oglesby says he is not worried about the appropriation being voted by legislators without providing revenue. "When the times comes, we'll hitch the big mules to the wagon," Huddleston said. His prototypes of the "Four Horsemen," he explained, will be taxes on natural resources.

QUINT LAMBS, TOO

BROCKVILLE, Ont. — Quadruplet lambs were born to a ewe owned by B. Markley here recently. All four are in good health. At Campbellford a ewe owned by Thomas Bright produced quintuplets, one of which died, the others being normal.

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, April 1 — Uneasy reminders of the laggard pace of revenue measures are likely to reach the legislature in the next few days.

The regular session faced necessity of making large appropriations. One or the other branch has voted for further ad valorem tax relief. The Centennial appropriation has had rather easy sailing. Biennial appropriations, expected to remedy somewhat the drastic salary slashes of two years ago, are on their way. But no tax bills have shown symptoms of progress, with approximately five weeks of the three-month session left for virtually all the important business embodied in over 1200 bills.

Whether that warning will be in the hint that the appropriations bills may have to be held up to see what sort of taxation will permit the state to meet them, or whether it will come from the governor at all or from an apprehensive public, is yet undetermined. The legislature, which must provide first and last for revenues to pass off an $8,000,000 deficit and a $20,000,000 already-spent relief bond issue, also must fact the task, before its quits, of submitting another relief bond issue or devising some procedure for future relief financing.

Long-range speculation now hints that with the educational appropriation bill sent back for two weeks' committee work for itemizing it, and other budget bills still requiring attention, the measures either will be caught in a pay-as-you-go veto or fail to be reached in the final legislative jam.

This brings up the recurrent prospect of having a 30-day special session of the legislature before August to pass the appropriations, after the 120-day regular session. It did not appear improbable this week that all the chief budget appropriations bills and virtually all the new taxation program may go over to form the chief business, and the definite assurance of a special session. The biennial appropriation are effective from Sept. 1, so that they would cause a session to be called if they fail to pass before the end of the present long session.

HEIRESS MARRIED
CINCINNATI — The marriage of Jean DeWolfe Weill, 25, co-heiress of the late President Warren G. Harding, to William Foster, 33, of Dayton, Ohio, in Newport, Ky., was revealed when the couple returned to Dayton, Mrs. Foster is the granddaughter of Mrs. Harding.

OPERATION SUCCESSFUL
CLEVELAND — Joseph Krichmar, Chardon, Ohio, farmer, upon whom Dr. Claude S. Beck, Lakeside Hospital surgeon, performed the first recorded operation for angina pectoris direct on the heart, today was apparently still on the way to recovery, five weeks after the delicate surgery.

AIDS BLIND 100 YEARS
NEW YORK — A century of service to the blind is rounded out by the American Bible Society in April. During this time 116,000 volumes of the Bible have been distributed among the sightless, at home and abroad, an annual output of 6,000 being reached for the second time in 1934.

The DARK BLOND

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MILlicent Graves, secretary to GEORGE DRINGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. Millicent has a notebook in which Dringold had begun to dictate a confession.

In panic she rushes away, registers at a hotel under an assumed name.

JARVIS HAPP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty parlor where she is transformed into a brunette, then takes her home and introduces her as his secretary. She meets HAPP'S son, NORMAN, his stepson, ROBERT CAISE, and MRS. HAPP.

Millicent falls asleep and wakes to find a note under her door reading: "The woman in black ermine here." Millicent dresses, sees the woman in black drive away and follows in Robert Caise's car, but runs out of gas. She goes to the chauffeur's quarters and finds his dead.

Next morning Jarvis Happ tells her the chauffeur has been murdered and shows her a Pandora's chest (Millicent's) which he found in the dead man's room.

Robert Caise enters Millicent's room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVI

Millicent held her hand close to her side, hoping she had concealed the key container which was pressed against her robe.

"Will you learn to keep out of my room!" she blazed with an indignation which did much to conceal her panic. "Is it going to be necessary for me to have a spring lock put on that door, or must I appeal to your mother to force you to show at least ordinary decency and respect to a woman?"

He laughed and said, "Oh, come off your high horse. You'd go down to a beach in a bathing suit with nothing more on than a bandana handkerchief, and . . ."

"But I'm not down at the beach," she said, "and if I were I would exhibit myself in such apparel as I choose for public exhibition. I wouldn't invite the public to drop in on me at inopportune moments. Will you learn to get out of here?"

The smile faded from his face and he became instantly surly.

"I'm going to ask you a few questions first."

"I'm not going to talk with you," she said. "Did you know that there'd been a murder committed here last night?"

Millicent narrowed her eyes, stood very straight, very erect and very dignified.

"I am not going to let you get away with such an intrusion," she said, "by making any startling statements. If you told me the whole family had been murdered, I wouldn't let you dodge the question we were discussing."

"What question?"

"Your right to come into my room without knocking."

"I don't claim it's a right. I did it because it's a matter of an emergency."

"I tell you that I'm not going to allow you to distract my attention."

"You're suspected."

HIS eyes were boring steadily into hers. "The police," he said, "are going to suspect you. They're going to suspect everyone. You're going to be questioned by the police. They're going to ask you who you are, where you've been living, how long you've been living there, and a hundred other things. What are you going to tell them?"

"What I'm going to tell them," she said, "is my business."

"Listen," he told her. "I'm your friend—that is, I want to be your friend, but you and I need to come to some understanding. You can't be high-hat with me. I just wanted to let you know that whether or not the police suspect you of the murder depends a lot on what I say. You'd better know which side of your bread has the butter."

"Meaning, I suppose, that I should fall in your arms."

"You could do worse."

"What would your mother say?"

"She wouldn't know."

"I take it then that you're not proposing matrimony."

"Don't be silly."

"I'm not," she said, "and what's more, I have no intention of being."

"Someone," he told her, "stole my car last night."

"Indeed."

"They took the ignition keys from the car."

"I'm sorry, Mr. Caise, but I'm not interested in you or your car."

"Well," he said, "a moment ago you were pulling something out of the pocket of your fur coat and . . ."

He took a step toward her, reaching out as though to pull her right hand from her side.

Millicent thought rapidly. There was only one thing to do. She did it with bewildering quickness. Her left hand lashed out, striking him across the side of the face with a stinging slap. As he recoiled she slapped him again and again. He grabbed at her arm, and as he did so she took advantage of the opportunity to toss the key container far into the interior of the closet.

"Get out," she said, "or I'll scream."

He had caught her arm now. His face was suffused with emotion. "Damn you," he said, "I'll show you whether you can do that and get away with it! Just who do you think you are, you little shrew-devil!"

SHE struggled to break free, and he gave her arm such a savage twist that it almost broke the bones. Despite herself, an involuntary scream was wrung from her lips.

The door from the hall crashed open. Norman Happ stood on the threshold.

"You dirty cad!" Norman Happ said, striding across the room.

Caïse whirled to face him.

"You keep out of this," he said.

Norman Happ placed his right hand on the shoulder of Caïse's coat. His fingers gripped the cloth.

"Wait a minute," Caïse said, "before you do anything rash. See what she's got in her right hand and you won't be so chivalrous."

Caïse had relaxed his grip somewhat, and Millicent swung her right palm in a slap against the side of his face.

"That's what I've got in my palm, you beast!" she said.

Caïse cursed, jumped back, letting go his grip of her. He completely lost control of himself, and swung his fist at her chin.

Millicent flung up her hands instinctively. The blow crashed through her guard, struck her on the side of the head. Then she heard the smacking impact of bunched knuckles against bone. She opened her eyes and stared dazedly at Robert Caïse staggering backwards, while Norman Happ, standing with his feet planted wide apart, his jaw thrust belligerently forward, glowered at him.

"Get out of here!" Happ said.

Caïse caught at the foot of the bed to keep his balance.

"This officer, is the woman," he said.

"I'll get out of here," he said,

"when she tells me to, and not be frowny. And if she tells me to, she knows what it's going to mean."

Millicent felt Norman Happ's eyes turn toward hers dubiously.

"Don't think she's one of those sweet, innocent little girls," Caïse said. "She's got plenty to conceal. She . . ."

"Get out!" Happ said.

"Not until she tells me to," Caïse said.

By way of answer, Millicent walked to the door, stood with her hand on the knob, and said, "Get out."

"All right," Caïse sneered. "I'll leave you with your little boy hero. You can figure out how much good it's going to do both of you."

"Trying to insinuate that you've got something on the girl?" Happ asked.

"I've got plenty on her," Caïse said, "and when I leave here, I'm taking it with me."

"Take this with you, too," Happ said, and swung his right foot.

BUT Caïse jumped into the hallway ahead of the foot. Millicent Graves slammed the door shut, turned the key in the lock, turned to face Norman Happ.

"Thank you," she said. "I—er—"

"Has he got something on you?" Norman Happ asked.

"Perhaps," she said.

"Something you'd be afraid to have come out?"

She wanted to lower her eyes, yet could not tear them from his. She knew how a faithful dog feels when it has done wrong and is approaching its master. Her knees felt weak.

"Can you tell me what it is?" he asked.

"No," she said in a low, weak voice.

"My father," he said, "told me to come to you. He couldn't get away. He's talking with the officers. He said to remember that you had come here from Seattle, that in Seattle you were working for an attorney named Irving Charles Bachelier."

She faced him and said, "But I wasn't in Seattle and I don't know any Irving Charles Bachelier."

"Nevertheless," he said, "that's what my father says you are to tell the police. They'll ask you something about where you've been."

"But suppose they should wire Mr. Bachelier—if there is any such person?"

"My father," he said, "will take care of that. Please do just as he says."

"But," she asked him, "should I lie to the police?"

"You'd better do as Father says," he told her. "Father is nearly always right."

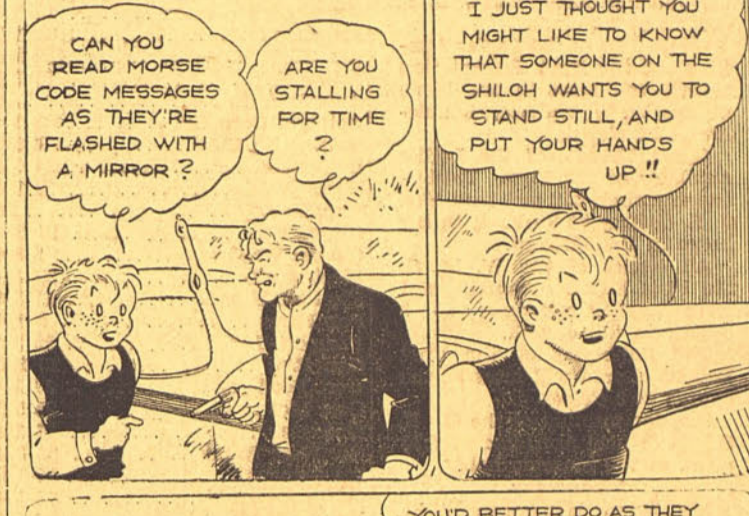

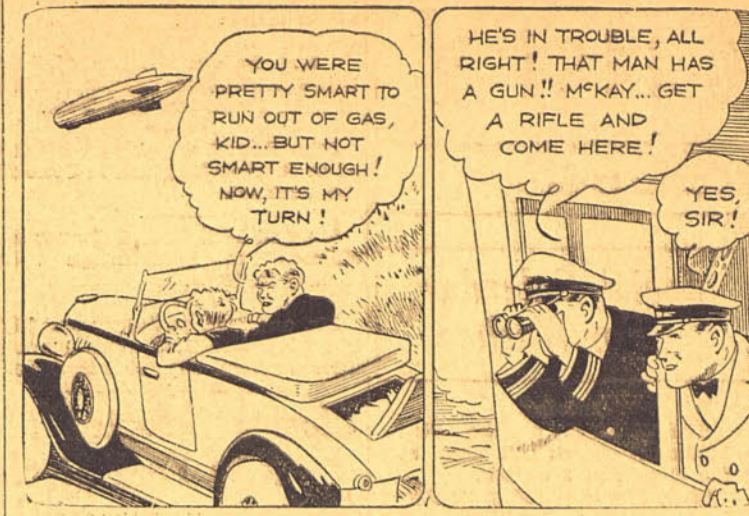

She wanted desperately to come to his arms, wanted to put her hands on his shoulders, wanted to lay her head on his chest and sob. Something of what was in her mind must have shown in her eyes. He stepped toward her.

At that moment the door opened. Robert Caïse stood on the threshold. With him was a man in plain clothes who, nevertheless, had the stamp of detective written on him, both in clothes and features.

"Is this the woman?" the man asked.

Robert Caïse, staring defiantly at Millicent, said in a loud, clear voice, "This officer, is the woman."

STUBBLEFIELD HIS OPPONENT CHARGE SAYS

J. M. Williamson, former mayor of Cisco and candidate for the same office in tomorrow's election, today charged that the mayor's race "has not been and is not between me and Mr. Berry but between me and Henry Stubblefield, whom I sincerely believe is directing municipal affairs at the city hall."

He predicted a victory for the new ticket and pledged himself, if elected, to go to work on the task of finding employment for Cisco's jobless.

Following is his letter:

Letter

Today ends a hard fought campaign for city officers and in its closing I can truthfully say that I have not done or said anything from a personal standpoint and I have no regrets of words spoken or acts done. I have made the campaign on what I believe to be fundamental issues here.

The race has not been and is not between me and Mr. Berry but between me and Henry Stubblefield, whom I sincerely believe is directing municipal affairs at the city hall.

I believe that we have this election won and if my friends use the same diligence they have used in the past until the polls close tomorrow evening the results will show a substantial majority for the new ticket.

If I am elected, as I believe I will be, I will apply myself to the task of furnishing employment for the unemployed, reducing taxes and lowering of water rates to the point where the ordinary citizen may be able to own and enjoy a home with the most favorable surroundings possible. And where the ordinary citizen may enjoy the magnificent water system and abundance of water supply in beautifying his home and raising a garden to assist in his subsistence.

I regret my inability to see and discuss the issues of this campaign with every citizen and I submit our candidacy on the capability of the men on our ticket and in full confidence that the entire ticket will be elected and we will be able to move in a united spirit toward the end of making Cisco a delightful place in which to live.

WEST COAST JUMPER SEEKS NEW RECORDS

By ROBERT E. SMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent
FRESNO, Cal., April 1.—Walter Marty, 23-year-old Fresno athlete who on three occasions has bettered the world's high jump record, has ended preliminary preparation for a campaign which he hopes may carry him to a new record of 6 feet, 10 inches some time between now and July.

Refreshed nervously and physically from a layoff that began last September, Marty resumed training on the Fresno State College track early in February and has cleared 6 feet 6 inches several times in practice.

A leg injury suffered early last season and which he believed caused ed his reversals of form at the late Eastern meets last year and during his tour of Japan with an American team has completely healed, according to his trainer, J. Flint Hanner, Fresno State coach.

Hanner, who developed Marty from "just another good prospect" to a world's champion in three years, predicted that Marty may near the seven-foot mark before he finally banks up his spikes.

Marty's physique is as much responsible for his performances as his perfect form, Hanner believes. The Fresnoan is six feet, one-half inch tall, weighs 160 pounds, and has arms and shoulders that match his legs in development. Besides his early season jumping, he keeps in condition by putting the shot and throwing the javelin.

OUT OUR WAY

AFFIDAVITS TO PROVE CHARGE ARE PRODUCED

Former Mayor J. M. Williamson today produced two affidavits to back up his charge that Cisco citizens had been refused the right to examine minutes of the city commission.

He had previously charged that City Secretary J. B. Cate had refused citizens this right. The Daily News Sunday published a statement from the city secretary in which he branded as "utterly untrue" the former mayor's charge and denied flatly that he had ever refused to allow anyone to see the records.

Following is Williamson's statement:

Statement
In Sunday's Daily News and Citizen-Free Press a statement signed by J. B. Cate to the effect that he had not refused to let anyone see the minutes of the City Commission and that no one except reporters had asked to see them. Following are two affidavits:

"On Monday, March 25th, 1935, I went to the office of the City Secretary and asked him to allow me to see the minutes of the City Commission and he curtly refused to allow me to see the minutes and added that he had "nothing to give out."

"(Signed) RICH HOLDER
"Sworn and subscribed to before me this 1st day of April, A. D., 1935."

"(Signed) JOE WILSON
"Notary Public in and for Eastland County, Texas."

Dill Affidavit
Something over two years ago I went to the office of the City Secretary and asked to see the minutes of the City Commission and the City Secretary refused me to examine the said minutes.

"(Signed) JOHN A. DILL
"Sworn and subscribed to before me this 1st day of April, A. D., 1935."

"(Signed) JOE WILSON
"Notary Public in and for Eastland County, Texas."

The above is an example of the 11th hour tactics and shows the desperation of the city hall bunch and how far they will go in trying to perpetuate themselves in office. I desire to call the attention of the voters to the fact that they may expect all kinds of 11th hour political propaganda for the sole purpose of influencing in this election regardless of truth or falsity of such propaganda.

Yours for the restoration of a government for the people and for a better Cisco.

J. M. WILLIAMSON.

IF YOU FEEL "USED UP"...

GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!

"THE MOST ENJOYABLE WAY of easing strain in smoking Camels," says this newspaper man. "When I feel 'all in,' I can restore my energy with a Camel." (Signed) RAY BAKER

"FIRE FIGHTING IS MY JOB," says Stanley Adams, fireman. "It's exciting, yes—but it's difficult, exhausting work, too. There's a lot of pleasure in a Camel, especially when you're tired out. When I feel 'all in,' I like a Camel to freshen me up. Camels give me new 'pep' and energy. Camels have more flavor—and yet they're mild, for I've found I can smoke them steadily and they never upset my nerves. I'm ready any time to 'walk a mile for a Camel!'" (Signed) STANLEY ADAMS

"CAMELS BRING BACK a feeling of vigor," says F. W. Evans, electrical engineer. "They're milder, but have a rich, appealing taste." (Signed) F. W. EVANS, E. E.

FROM THE BUSY COLLEGE WORLD comes this comment. John L. Filson, class of '36, says: "It's a great relief to smoke a Camel any time I'm tired and quickly experience a delightful return in energy. And boy! do Camels taste good!" (Signed) JOHN L. FILSON, '36

"RUNNING A HOME involves details that use up energy," says Mrs. Ross Kelley. "When things irritate me, I smoke a Camel. Soon I have renewed energy and can go on to the next task. Camels have such a mild flavor, I've become quite a steady smoker." (Signed) MRS. ROSS KELLEY
