What Garland Did About High Rates

(From an address by one of its City Commissioners)

I have been requested to tell something of the history of Garland's Municipal Power Plant. Pretty much the same conditions, in principal, prevailed in our little city just prior to the time we put in our little plant. Without getting all the facts our city had voted bonds in the sum of $100,000.00 in 1921 to build water and sewer systems which had increased our outgo from the municipality by $9,000 per annum. However, from the standpoint of the citizens who paid fire insurance premiums it meant an actual saving to them as the amount of insurance premiums was reduced by approximately $18,000 per annum, based on the same amount of insurance they had been paying on. However, the bonds, and the interest on them, for our water and sewer systems had to be paid out of taxes and our tax rate was increased from 40 cents per hundred to $1.50 per hundred dollars.

On completion of our water and sewer systems we found that our citizens were rather slow to connect because of the unexpected high cost of plumbing. We asked for rates on water pumping from the high line company and were advised that because of such a large connected load that we would have to pay a high minimum and our power bill was estimated to run $300 to $450 per month. Here is when community thinking started in earnest for our town. We were starting out with an income from water and sewer service of approximately $150 per month and we had to provide for three employees to operate the water system which added to our power outgo would mean a total expense of $700 per month, with $150 per month to pay with until more people got to using water and sewer service. We put another fact down by the side of this $700. Our citizens were paying $1,250 per month for electricity and not using nearly all they wanted to use because of the high cost. We got another fact, the fuel oil for a Diesel engine to generate electricity for the whole citizenship would cost only about $200 per month if they used the same amount of current as they were paying $1,250 per month for. Still another fact that we put down was that it would require only one more employe to operate a power system, including looking after distribution of electricity, with the water system than if the water system operated alone. Here are the facts as presented to our citizens for their thought:

"Our Revenue from water and sewer service, $150. (This was January 1923)

Our expense of operation as follows: 2 Engineers (night and Day Pump Operators), $250

1 Outside man (Meter reader and service man), $125.

Electric power to operate pumps, $325

Total Operating Cost of Water Department per month, $700

Cost of five Street Lights on Public Square per month, $25.

Cost to Individual Citizens for Electricity per month, $1,250

We have one Diesel engine and generator as a standby for fire protection in event of breakdown of power company's service (this was in 1923) and have demonstrated that, with one more Diesel engine and generator, 5,000 gallons of fuel oil will produce all the electrical energy our citizens are now paying $1,250 per month for and furnish enough power to operate water pumps for a month. At the present time the 5,000 gallons of oil costs $200 while lubricating oil and incidentals will cost not to exceed $100 per month additional and one more man than needed to operate water plant will operate both systems. The extra machinery and electrical distribution lines will cost not to exceed $27,000 payable $3,000 cash and balance on monthly installments."

Our community had a thought and that thought preceded the act of installing a municipal light plant which began operation in three months from the time of the thought. Our earnings turned out as expected. The first cost was paid for in three years out of savings to the community and since that there has been added 375 more horsepower generating capacity and at this time (May 1931) has already been paid for except for two notes of $442 each.

prize awards will contribute to the entertainment of the afternoon.

Both of the above picnics promise to be real events, and are staged at the choicest spot in West Texas for such occasions, a place which is growing ever more popular for such purposes--Lake Cisco.

Burned Currency Ashes Valuable

When the Alexander Hotel burned here on June 18th, W. E. Keeter, the proprietor, lost heavily on the contents and furnishings, above the small insurance he carried on them. But in addition to this he also lost a purse containing almost $65 which was in a dresser drawer and was left there. This he considered as hopelessly gone. But while he was gathering up some coins where the purse was burned, he was advised to carefully gather up the ashes where the purse was burned and send them to Washington, where it was entirely possible that they could be identified as to what bills had been burned, and if so, the government would send him a

Better Prospects For Our Federal Building

Postmaster Blankenbeckler, Guy Dabney and W. J. Leach left last Saturday for Washington as a committee from Cisco to urge that there be no delay in going forward with materializing the plans for the erecting of the proposed federal building for this city. In Ft. Worth this committee stopped for a conference with post office officials there, in regard to this situation. They were assured that it was expected that there would be no delay in going forward with the extensive building program which the government had mapped out, which includes a new building for Ft. Worth, as well as many other Texas cities and towns.

In the meantime letters have been received here by J. E. Spencer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, in response to communications he had sent to Washington urging the necessity of immediate and continued action in carrying out the building program here. One letter came from the U. S. Treasury Department, and the other from the president's Emergency committee for Employment. Both letters assure that no time will be lost in this matter. The letter from the Treasury Department states that "Definite action looking toward the selection of a site may be expected during the month of July. As soon as contract is made for the site," the letter continues, "it is expected that plans will be started for the building within thirty days thereafter."

"You may be assured that every effort will be made by the departments in Washington to expedite federal construction. At the present time and during the succeeding three or four months from twenty to twenty-five construction contracts will be let each month. This output is practically at the rate of one construction contract every working day. The Cisco project will be taken up in order unless site complications arise, the plans for the new building should be started within the next couple of months."

A portion of the president's Emergency Committee for Employment states: "We have taken the matter up with the office of the assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of the supervising of architect's office. The site report was received by the treasury department only last Saturday, June 25. We have, therefore, asked the treasury department to put a red flag on this project for the purpose of seeing that everything possible is done to expedite it."

check for the amount. Dubiously he did this, not feeling much hope that it would gain him anything, but willing to take any steps that might lead to a possibility of recovering anything.

The ashes were carefully boxed and shipped to Washington. The other day the First National Bank here presented Mr. Keeter with a check for $64.51, in the form of a U. S. Government Treasury warrant. The bills were identified, by experts and a special process the government has for this purpose, and Mr. Keeter is consequently $64.51 better off than he had thought for in that fire.

A valuable piece of advice that was for Mr. Keeter—and a good pointer for all to remember.

Reduction of Gas Rates Is Refused

Gas Officials Say Reduction Impossible

The City Commission met in special session at the City Hall Thursday evening for the purpose of considering the securing of lower gas rate for Cisco. The public was invited and a representative attendance of the citizens was present. Several out of town visitors were present, among them some of the officials of both the Lone Star Gas Company and the West Texas Utilities Co.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor J. T. Berry, who stated in a few words what was the purpose of the meeting.

Short talks were made by P. W. Campbell and others of the West Texas Utilities Company, in which it was insisted that if an exorbitant rate is being charged that the West Texas Utilities is not responsible for it, adding that the rate which they are having to pay to the gas company makes it prohibitive for a cheaper rate to be made. Judge Wagstaff of Abilene, an attorney for the Lone Star Gas Company, argued that the company was operating at a loss and that he knew it would be absolutely impossible for any reduction to be made on the part of the gas company.

An extended talk was made by city attorney F. D. Wright who stated that he understood that that gas being bought by the gas company at the well at 6 cents per foot was being sold at 67 cents in the city. He estimated that $25,000 would probably be sufficient amount to give proper connection system which the gas company has in use. And quoting figures to substantiate his remarks urged that the great profit being made by the gas company on this gas is entirely out of line with the present financial and business conditions and costs. He called attention to the fact that there were a number of local people who have good producing gas wells near Cisco who could not even get market for their gas, and asked what reason there is in our town submitting to the rates now in force with the conditions which exist right at our door—in the middle of a great gas field. He stated that he had given quite a lot of thought and investigation to this matter, and estimated that gas could be furnished to the consumer in this city for 15 cents and not more than 20 cents, and still make a profit.

Mr. Chase of the Lone Star Gas Company then made some rather comprehensive and emphatic remarks on the subject in hand, stating that there was a lot of "misinformation" floating around, and that he thought that the city attorney here had "absorbed some of it." He termed as ridiculous many statements and figures quoted, saying that there is not more than sufficient gas in this field for the usage which may be expected here. Said that the company was paying the same salaries now as heretofore, and that to think of any reduction in rates would be impossible except to reduce in the expense all around, a matter which he labeled as "disastrous" He called attention to the large payroll of the Lone Star Gas Company, and their investment here, and insisted that the operations of this company meant very much to the financial conditions here, which if interfered with would work a general calamity on the city and its people., and added that the town is more dependent on their operations than upon any other thing at this time. He referred to the talk of Cisco getting an adequate supply of independent gas for her uses as "foolish." He said that the Texas Company had this job at one time and that they could not get it, and ridiculed the idea of it being possible for this city to get a really dependable supply of gas independently. He said that he saw no grounds for discussion, that he thought the rates very fair and reasonable, but that if the City Commission and the people here thought it otherwise they should take it up with the Railroad Commission, which under the new law going into effect places his company subject to the commission's setting of rate. In reply to Mr. Wright's statement that the City Commission should fix the rates to be charged by the Gas Company, Mr. Chase said that the City Commission could not know sufficiently about the Gas business to do any such thing as that. He insisted that his company was suffering along with everyone else in this time of depression, that it is now a losing proposition for them here, and flatly stated that any cut whatsoever would be impossible.

In our humble opinion Mr. Chase's remarks were made with a finality of manner which he apparently considered immediately settled the issue for all time to come. He left the impression with this writer that he felt that the people here had their "nerve" to even consider the question of asking for a reduction of rates. He charged the move to some misinformed disturbers and strife-creators.

Mr. Wright returned with some very apt comments questioning the statement that a dependable gas supply could not be secured here independently. He referred to several wells in particular which it is a known fact have been producing for quite a long while, and gave as his opinion that a dependable independent gas supply could be very easily secured here. Judge Lankford also made some very pertinent comments along this line, saying that the present exorbitant rates are prohibitive for many, and that many are now turning to other sources for their fuel supply because of them. After a direct question from him to representatives of both the Lone Star and the West Texas Utilities companies asking if the people here are to understand that no reduction would be granted from them on the rates was answered by both in the affirmative he declared that he saw no reason for further prolonging the meeting, as it seemed there was nothing to be gained by it. Mayor Berry declared the meeting adjourned.

Married

The Comer home on West Seventeenth street was the scene of a quite wedding Sunday morning, when Reford Comer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Comer, and Miss Juanita Hayward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hayward of Moran, became man and wife. Rev. C. H. Bryant officiated. The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers, and the ceremony was witnessed only by relatives and a few close friends.

After the ceremony a wedding feast was served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hayward, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Comer, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Kinsey, Rev. C. H. Bryant, Miss Loraine and Lionel Hayward of Moran, Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Forrester of Moran, Mr. and Mrs. George Sazama, Misses Maurine Bailey, and Laverne and Francis Comer.

Two Big Picnics Here Tomorrow

Arrangements are fast being completed for two big picnics which are scheduled to be staged at Lake Cisco tomorrow. One of these is the annual celebration of the employees of the Lone Star Gas Company, always a gala affair, and will draw a crowd of hundreds of guests from all over this section. There will be lots of "good eats", including a big barbecue and full lunch baskets of tempting viands to go with it.

The other picnic will be in the form of an old-fashioned "chuck wagon dinner" which is given for officials and employees of District B and four other districts of the West Texas Utilities Company. "D", "H", "A", and "C". The picnic was won by District for the best selling record on electric washing machines in a contest which they have had. The other districts are invited for having exceeded their quota in the contest. The dinner will be served from an old fashioned "chuck wagon" which is to be brought to the park for the occasion. A number of contests carrying

Disgusting Success Of Spiritual Medium

Nino Pecarro, the spiritualistic medium who convinced Arthur Conan Doyle, and who was one of the outstanding stars in his popular profession, recently admitted that he was only a faker, and that he was "sick and tired" of the business. "I have never seen a ghost and I don't believe any one else ever has," he declared. Then he demonstrated how he had been making "ghosts" talk, write and play musical instruments—the "ghost" always being himself.

The moral of this interesting story seems to be that mere success is not sufficient nor satisfying. Unless it carries with it self-respect and pride of achievement it may turn to Dead Sea Apples. In the eyes of the world Mr. Pecararo was a howling success—famous, wealthy and high placed. But the fact that the people "want to be fooled" and that they are paying millions a year for his kind of fooling is not enough to save his conscience. He is tired of pretending to be what he is not. What a beautiful example for some of our politicians!—Pathfinder.

The Hitch-Hiker Law

The law to relieve a motorist of liability to free passengers in his car, called the hitch-hikers' law, which was passed by the regular session of the forty-second legislature, goes into effect August 27.

After that date no free passengers of an automobile in Texas will have a cause of action against the owner of an automobile because of injuries which may be sustained by the free passenger. Exceptions are made of course, in cases where it can be shown that the injuries resulted from malice or recklessness on the part of the owner.

The law corrects a situation which contained the possibilities of an outrage. There have been damage suits by hitch-hikers against car owners because of injuries sustained in accidents for which owners were not to blame, and owners have been forced to pay. There have been, perhaps, more suits of this kind by persons riding in an automobile as invited guests of the owner. In the future it will be necessary for such complaints to show that malice or recklessness existed in order to get their claims entertained by a court. —Star-Telegram.

Fair Question

Lawyer (to flustered witness) —Now, sir, did you, did you, or did you not on the date in question, or at any other time, say to the defendant or anyone else that the statement imputed to you and denied by the plaintiff was a matter of no moment or otherwise—answer me, yes, or no!

Bewildered Witness—Yes or no what?

Think It Over

When Ft. Worth got busy in selecting a new city manager it went about it in a business-like manner. Out of 40 applicants they sifted it down to five, then to four. The mayor and the City Commission then invited these four to come to Ft. Worth and the mayor and city council met and talked with all of them. Then the selection was made from these four of the one considered best for the place.

Not long ago Cisco had to select some men to fill some places around the city hall. Did the city dads of Cisco make an effort to cut the twenty or so applicants down to four and then choose from these four? Did not Czarism show its hand there? Don't fool yourself. Cisco people are picking out these would-be czars, for a change in some faces at the city hall when they get another chance at the ballot box.

When our Savior was offering up his last prayer he asked that he might be spared the "bitter cup." But in the end he said, "Not my will, but thine, be done." Cisco city dads will do well to consider the will of Cisco citizens that put them in there, and not too much their own will, if they expect to stay in office, would be our first guess.

Some of our Commissioners were going to cancel that contract the city has with the Cisco Amusement Company, and met with that avowed purpose. But it seems that representatives of the Amusement Company interests turned the session into a meeting to consider the advisability of spending some more money out there for the benefit of the said amusement company.

If Cisco hasn't enough legal talent around here to cancel that contract, which was made by a group of city dads that let a million dollars and a few hundred thousand get away from them, our present city dads had better send to Dothan or to Olden or to some country community and get a lawyer to do it for them. Ye Gods! And shades of teapot dome!

Delicious refreshments consisting of sunset salad, cheese sticks, cookies and punch were served to Mesdames C. E. Hickman, E. Lennon, C. H. Parish, Rudolph Schafer, H. A. Crosby, John Flexico of Brownwood, Geo. Wild, Reford Comer, Geo. Szama and W. F. Evans.

The club meets next week with Mrs. C. E. Hickman on Bullard Avenue.

Married

A quiet wedding took place at the Methodist Parsonage in Cisco last Friday evening when Miss Opal Hennington became the bride of Mr. Howard Robinson. Pastor H. D. Tucker of the First Methodist Church officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hennington of Humbletown, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Robinson of this place. Both of these young people were former pupils of the Cisco High School, and have many friends that wish for them much happiness. The newly-wed couple is now at home at 704 West Fourth Street.

Red Sox Win

It took a twelve inning game between two heretofore undefeated teams to determine the winner in the clash between Ft. Worth's Night Hawks and Cisco Red Sox baseball teams here—but the final result was in favor of the local team with a score of 2 to 1. It was a hard fought game, and was witnessed by a good crowd.
