SCHOOL OPENING MONDAY WAS WELL ATTENDED

The public school opened here Monday morning, with everything pointing to a very successful term. Many patrons were present—in fact there was such a crowd that the seating capacity in the auditorium was soon filled, and many left standing. A number of addresses were made, which were impressive and to the point. Those who spoke were: Rev. Stutts, Rev. Richbourg, Jeff Clark, Mr. Harroll, principal, and supt. Mr. McAdams. The program was enjoyed by all present, and the exercise closed with a feeling of optimism, as to results of this year's work. This idea prevails with the faculty, school board, patrons and the students, so natu- rally a successful year is expected.

Correction.

An error was made in Higgin' botham's ad last week. "Phoenix Shoes" were advertised, when it should have read Phoenix Hose. A number of inquiries were made by customers, about the "Phoenix Shoes," so we make the correction, to eliminate confusion.

MORE COTTON COMING IN, SELL AT GOOD PRICE

There is considerable cotton coming in now, and if it remains dry—that is, if it doesn't rain for a week or ten days, the roads will be lined with cotton wagons, going to and from the gins. The market remains strong here. On Thursday several bales sold at 24.50. Market your cotton here.

"ANNOUNCEMENT STORY" OF FORD MOTOR CO.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. — Intro- duction of a higher radiator, bring- ing new and improved body lines to all types of Ford Cars, is announced today by the Ford Motor Company.

The new radiator sets an inch and a half higher than the former and has an apron at the bottom which joins a similar apron effect of the fender on either side, giving a high- ly finished appearance, to the front of the car. The larger radiator also increases cooling efficiency.

Most conspicuous among the new types is the Ford Coupe which is of entirely new body design and construction, resulting in a more trim exterior appearance, more comfortable seating arrangement and a greater luggage carrying capacity.

From the dash there is a grace- ful sweep in the cowl to the radiator bringing a pleasing effect to the front. The doors are wide and open forward making access and exit easy. They are heavily framed for rigidity and strength. The compartment at the rear has been enlarged to afford increased carrying capacity. The gasoline tank is under the seat, with divided cushions to afford easy filling of the tank from the right side making it un- necessary for the driver to leave his seat. Ventilator in the cowl and a visor over the windshield add much to the attractiveness of the car. A new rear tender of more sturdy character also is a feature.

Marked, too, is the improvement in the four Door Sedan. Highly popular since its introduction a year ago, because of its low, graceful lines, the car now presents even much better lines and a sturdier appearance.

This has been brought about by the installation of an entirely new cowl with a graceful sweep from the dash blending into the larger hood and radiator. The change also affords an increase in leg room for occupants of the front seat.

In the open types, the Touring Car and Runabout, the cowl has been enlarged and flows in a grace- ful curve to the higher hood.

The new radiator also is extended to the Ford Truck chassis, affording improved appearance and better cooling to delivery services.

These new Ford types and the generally recognized performance ability of the Ford under all motoring conditions, promise to bring a greater demand than ever before as the public becomes more fully ac- quainted with the higher standards and greater values which have in- corporated. No changes are con- templated in prices.

SUNDAY'S RAIN WAS PARTIAL SAYS RESIDENT

Last Sunday's rain was not gener- al, it seems, as was at first thought. In the south part of town, it was very light. One resident living in that part of town says he watered his garden from a nearby water passage which was running full and roaring like a river, from water that fell in the north and east part of town. It wouldn't rain on his garden, so he got his bucket and supplied the much needed liquid.

Chris Parsons has purchased E. E. Baum's residence in the north part of town, and will move back to Cross Plains. All are glad to have their splendid family move back.

Jewel Browning and family, ac- companied by Mrs. Albert Elliott, motored down from Sweetwater, and spent the last week-end here, visiting relatives and friends.

BEAUTIFUL DEATH OF A BEAUTIFUL LITTLE BOY

At Three Rivers, ninety two miles from San Antonio, Aug. 20, 1923, little Jimmie Lightfoot fell from and oil derrick break- ing the back and one arm, which resulted in his death one week later in a San Antonio hospital.

Little Jimmie was born in Chicago nearly eight years ago, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Lightfoot who spent several months as residents of Cross Plains, (Mr. Lightfoot being an oil operator) leaving here not long ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Lightfoot un- intentionally brought themselves into notice at Cross Plains thru their liberal charity to the un- fortunate.

Little Jimmie was quite well known because of his regard for his playmates, love of parents, aptness to learn and specially because of his strong personality as a young public speaker.

Our little friends body soon after death was carried to the residence of Hon. J. C. Smith of Fort Worth, (Mr. Smith being Mrs. Lightfoot's father) where it rested surrounded by hands full, arms full and baskets full of beautiful flowers sent and brought by friends from various states.

At 3 p m August 31, a large congregation assembled at the Smith residence for the funeral. The scriptures were read by Rev. Coleman, one of Fort Worth's most popular Methodist ministers. The funeral was preached by Rev. B. G. Richbourg, Baptist pastor at Cross Plains, Texas.

The body was softly laid to rest in a beautiful grave in a Fort Worth cemetery.

While the little soul without labored action searches heaven's river, city, beholds the trees and Jerusalem foundations, and joins in with the Angelic and heaven, home gone redeemed hosts, sing- ing praises unto Him who loved us and saved us by His blood.

It was little Jimmie's intention to be a missionary for Jesus. Did he realize his desire? He did, because he influenced many about that matter, and now since he has gone away from us into another world his influence will live on and on.

This little boy's death was perfectly beautiful because of his failure to complain at his suffering and misfortune. A while before death came he ask his mother this question, "Did Christ while dying suffer as much as I am now suffering?" The answer was "yes, and many times more." "Well then I will not cry" was the reply.

Hundreds of friends are in deep sympathy with the parents and relatives of the dead child, while innumerable hosts of An- gels and Saints rejoice upon the arrival of his soul in heaven, where there is no death.

—A sympathizing and realizing friend.

Grandma Hughes, who lived just a few miles this side of Rising Star, died last week, and was buried in the Cross Plains cemetery Thursday. She had many friends in this section, who mourn her loss. She was a consistent member of the Church of Christ for 39 years.

Bob Black, who has been at Herm- leigh for sometime, has returned.

W. C. Adams, with wife and daughter, Mrs. Frank Williams and children, spent the week-end with relatives at Dudley.

OPPOSITION WINS IN WATER BOND ELECTION

The opposition had the lead in the city election Tuesday on the water bond issue—but the issue may have to be resubmitted, as the polls were closed at 6 o'clock, when the law specifically states 7 o'clock. It seems that the presiding officers of the election were under the im- pression that six o'clock was closing time, so the polls were closed one hour too soon—and quite a number did not get to vote, which brings up the question of the legality of the election. At this writing, no official action has been taken, but it is generally believed that the law will hold the election illegal, and in that case the issue will very likely be submitted again at a later date. At this writing, there is much specu- lation as to the possible methods of procedure.

Many Uses for Milk. It is said that in France 20,000 quarts of skimmed milk a day is used for making substitutes for horn, ivory, amber and such things. The casein in the milk is precipitated by a chemical process and then mixed with formalin. This produces a gelatinous or petrified milk, a hard, elastic, insoluble substance that is easily worked. The French dairy experts think that the demand for skimmed milk for this purpose will be great enough to increase profit in the butter-making business by producing a ready market for the by-products.—Washington Star.

A SCHOOL GIRL'S SUCCESS

Everything Depends upon her Health

Mrs. George E. Whitacre Tells of her Daughter's Breakdown and How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Healthy, Happy, Strong Girl

Every mother possesses information of vital importance to her young daughter, and the responsibility for her future is largely in her hands. When a school girl's thoughts become sluggish, when she suffers the consequences of wet feet, pain, headaches, fainting spells, loss of sleep and appetite, and is irregular, her mother should have a thought for her physical condition and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which has proved a reliable aid to nature for just such conditions in so many cases.

This Mother Writes: Mahoningtown, Pa.—"I would like to say a few words about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About a year ago I thought it would be necessary for me to take my daughter out of school. She was losing weight, was nervous, and when she would come home from school she would drop into a chair and cry, and say, 'Mamma, I don't believe I can go to school another day!' I gave her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now she is a healthy, happy, hearty, strong girl and weighs 120 pounds. She has no difficulty in doing her gym work, and she works at home every night and morning, too. I am a mother who can certainly praise your medicine, and if it will be of any benefit you may use this letter as a reference."—Mrs. GEORGE E. WHITACRE, 621 W. Madison Avenue, Mahoningtown, Pa.

Every girl ought to be healthy and strong, and every mother wants her daughter to do well in school and to enjoy herself at other times. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for young women just entering womanhood. Mothers can depend upon it. It is prepared from roots and herbs, contains nothing harmful, and has great power to tone up and strengthen the system, so it will work in a healthy and normal manner. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been used by women of all ages, and these women know its great value. Let it help your daughter and yourself.

Earl Sande: Jockey

Best American Race Rider Ran Away from Home to Win Fame and Fortune

ONE day in the spring of 1917 a man in a covered wagon drove by a country schoolhouse near American Falls, Idaho. Behind the wagon were two led horses. The driver stopped and called to a seventeen-year-old boy through the window. The boy came out. The man said the led horses were thoroughbreds and that he was going to Arizona to race them.

"Want to come along and ride 'em?" asked the man.

"Yes," answered the boy, who went back into the schoolhouse after his cap, climbed into the wagon and rode off.

Earl Sande was that boy, and Earl Sande is now hailed by horsemen and the racing public as the best of all the present-day jockeys of the American turf. Certainly, so far as the American racing public is concerned, his name is one to conjure with. Probably it is no exaggeration to say that he is the most popular of all the little fellows who rouse the thousands of spectators to frenzied excitement as they bring the winners home in the thrilling, struggle down the stretch to the wire.

The figures of racing statistics substantiate the popular idea of the worth of Sande's horsemanship. In 1922 Sande finished in sixth place in respect to the number of races won. This means a lot for Sande who is only 21 years of age.

Sande can ride this year at 112 pounds. And at that he has his troubles to avoid taking on weight. He's bigger of frame than most jockeys, and riding at 112 pounds means careful dieting and strenuous road work. During the racing season he takes coffee and fruit for breakfast. Six days a week he has a cup of beef broth for lunch. He dines on meat and vegetables.

Past question all experience is valuable. Anyway, Sande was born and brought up in a horse country and learned to ride at the age when most city children are trundling around the sidewalks on three-wheeled bicycles. Soon thereafter he was riding bucking bronchos and racing ponies. In short, he was pretty much brought up in the saddle. So he got to know horses and their ways, and he learned a lot about horse racing in Arizona—another horse country. Probably this early experience in part accounts for the fact that horses run well for him and that his admirers call him "a born race rider."

But in addition to perfect balance and the ability to "go with his mount," Sande has brains and uses them in a race. He's alert at the barrier. He's a good judge of pace. He watches the other horses and times his move to a second. He is a strong finisher. He doesn't get rattled. He comes pretty near getting the best there is out of his mount.

Also Sande has nerve. Success and pride of place make many jockeys conservative about taking chances in a big and tangled field. A jam has no terrors for Sande; if there's a chance to get through, he takes it. He seems to be equally at home in a five-furlong dash of two-year-olds and in an all-age handicap over a distance of ground. So it is that if Sande's mount belongs in front at the finish it is usually there or thereabouts.

Sande does more than win on the best horse; he brings many an inferior mount home first by clever horsemanship. Some of his winning mounts are long-shots; there would be more of them but for the fact that his loyal and enthusiastic following always and invariably backs everything he rides. Both lawn and grandstand say the same thing when Sande is up on a mount of unknown or doubtful quality:

"Don't know what chance the horse has, but I'll sure get a ride for my money."

And that's no small part of the battle these days on the American turf. The truth is that many lovers of the thoroughbred and keen critics of racing declare that horsemanship is today a lost art. They go so far as to say that there are only three or four great jockeys riding in America today and that the best of the others are mediocre compared with the riders of twenty years ago.

These experts attribute this mediocrity to our American intensified specialization of two-year-old racing and sprint races at the expense of handicaps and stakes over a distance of ground. They say that these scrambles over a short course have destroyed all sense of pace and all judgment in the average jockey. The boys ride a mile and a quarter race just as they do a five-furlong dash. Their one idea seems to be to get off as rapidly as possible and drive the mount frantically as far as it can stagger.

There is no way of accurately ascertaining Sande's financial reward for his horsemanship. It is large, however. He gets $15,000 a year from the Ranocosa stable for first call on his services and in addition fees for every horse he rides for. He also accepts outside mounts and is very well paid. There is no telling how much he receives in gifts from the owners of winning mounts. For example, Sinclair is reported to have handed Sande $5,000 after he won the $50,000 1923 Kentucky Derby with Zev.

When Sande gets too heavy to ride—may that be many seasons away—he will become a trainer and apply the experience he is gaining under the veteran Sam Hildreth, a master of the art, whose niece he has married.

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 9

JOHN MARK
LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:51-52; Acts 12:12, 25-26; Acts 15:36-40; II Tim. 4:11.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Whoever they had need to do, do it with thy might."—Eccles. 9:10.
PRIMARY TOPIC—John Mark, One of Paul's Helpers.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Man Who Filled and Tried Again.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Warning and Encouragement From the Life of Mark.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Mark's Contribution to Christianity.

I. Mark's Home Life (Acts 12:12).
He had the wholesome influence of a Christian home, for his mother was a good woman. There is no heritage to be compared to that of a godly home. Nothing has such a far-reaching influence upon the life of a young man as the memory of a praying mother. Even when it was so perilous to be known as a follower of Jesus, she was not afraid to have a prayer meeting in her home.

II. Mark With Jesus in Gethsemane (Mark 14:51, 52).
At the sight of the Roman guard, the disciples "all forsook Him and fled." This timid lad still followed the Lord till laid off by the young men. He then fled, leaving behind him his linen garment. This Gethsemane experience doubtless had a decided effect upon his life.

III. Mark a Servant of Paul and Barnabas (Acts 12:25-13:5).
Mark was with the company when Peter told of his wonderful release from prison. This, doubtless, made a great impression upon him and was the beginning of his desire to accompany the missionaries of the cross. He was not a missionary on the same footing as Paul and Barnabas, but an attendant upon them to look after their needs.

IV. Mark Deserting Paul and Barnabas (Acts 13:13).
We are not told the cause of this desertion. Three conjectures, one or all of which had a bearing upon his action, are offered.

1. Homesickness. His home was of easy circumstances if not wealthy. As they were carrying the gospel into the rough, mountainous country, occupied by a rough, half-civilized people, the gentle of this young servant was tried. We ought not to condemn him too readily, for we know how trying it is to leave home when struggling against the rough world. While sympathizing with him, we must remember that duty is stronger than the tender ties of life. The time comes when the soldier must spurn the ties which bind him to father, mother, wife and children, in response to the call of duty. The missionary must turn his back upon home, native land, and friends in his devotion to his Lord.

2. Disbelief in Foreign Missions.
There was a common prejudice among the Jews against taking the gospel to the Gentiles. When he saw that these missionaries were going to the "regions beyond," his prejudice may have caused him to turn back.

3. Cowardice. The dangers before them were not imaginary but real. The missionary today faces awful dangers: climate, wild beasts, deadly serpents and insects, and savage and cannibalistic men. However, fear is no excuse for cowardice because we are linked to the Almighty by faith; there is nothing in heaven or on earth that can harm us. Courage is required of those who would do the Lord's work.

V. Mark With Peter in Babylon (I Pet. 5:13).
Some years after Mark's desertion, when Paul and Barnabas were arranging for a second evangelistic tour, they had a sharp dispute over the question of taking Mark with them. Paul would not consent to Mark's accompanying them, so they departed asunder one from the other." Mark went with his uncle. By this time he must have been cured of his cowardice for we see him associated with Peter in Babylon.

VI. Mark Honored by Paul (II Tim. 4:11).
Paul is now an old man in prison. Mark is a middle-aged man associated with Timothy at Ephesus. Mark has proved himself, for Paul gives the pleasing testimony that "he is profitable unto me for the ministry." Mark is an example of one who made good in spite of his early backsliding.

Heretism.
The world's battlefields have been in the heart chiefly; more heretism has been displayed in the household and the closet than in the most memorable battlefields of history.—H. W. Beecher.

You Must Be Calm.
The language of excitement is at best but picturesque merely. You must be calm before you can utter oracles.—Thoreau.

Little People.
I love these little people and it is not a slight thing, when they are so fresh from God, love us.—Dickens.

Carl Sande: Jockey

January of 1918 he went to a Goodman, who gave him a letter to a jockey named Albert Johnson and a leading jockey. One of the winners, Mary's Beau, both at 50 to 1. At the end of the race, Sande was seized with a cold and a crushed foot laid a while. By way of ring meetings he arrived there Trainer H. G. Bed's contract and he rode J. K. L. Ross, the sultan owner. One day at the race in the fall of 1910 six winners out of seven of them his employer's the fall of 1920 he went to a stable, owned by a man named C. Hildreth.

He led the list of winning jockeys with 63 firsts, 44 seconds and $229,285. Nothing of the spectacular about him, contrasted in this respect with such jockeys as Tod Sloan or Garrison. He is a serious young fellow—and art. He's bound to be strictly Scandinavian—he is Norwegian parents. He and slightly under medium for a jockey. He has a shoulders and large hands, strong fingers, thin about him to attract a crowd of young men of his age.

And that's no small part of the battle these days on the American turf. The truth is that many critics of the thoroughbred and keen critics of racing declare that horsemanship is today a lost art. They go so far as to say that there are only three or four great jockeys riding in America today and that the best of the others are mediocre compared with the riders of twenty years ago.

These experts attribute this mediocrity to our American intensified specialization of two-year-old racing and sprint races at the expense of handicaps and stakes over a distance of ground. They say that these scrambles over a short course have destroyed all sense of pace and all judgment in the average jockey. The boys ride a mile and a quarter race just as they do a five-furlong dash. Their one idea seems to be to get off as rapidly as possible and drive the mount frantically as far as it can stagger.

There is no way of accurately ascertaining Sande's financial reward for his horsemanship. It is large, however. He gets $15,000 a year from the Itanecora stable for first call on his services and in addition fees for every horse he rides for it. He also accepts outside mounts and is very well paid. There is no telling how much he receives in gifts from the owners of winning mounts. For example, Sinclair is reported to have handed Sande $5,000 after he won the $50,000 1923 Kentucky Derby with Zev.

When Sande gets too heavy to ride—may that be many seasons away—he will become a trainer and apply the experience he is gaining under the veteran Sam Hildreth, a master of the art, whose niece he has married.

She felt he ought to have a whipping and talked on and on, to nerve herself for the ordeal of administering the spanking. Imagine her surprise when suddenly the child began crying "Amen, mother, Amen."

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 9

JOHN MARK
LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:51-52; Acts 12:12; 25:12-13; Acts 15:36-40; II Tim. 4:11.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might."—Eccles. 9:10.
PRIMARY TOPIC—John Mark, One of Paul's Helpers.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Man Who Failed and Tried Again.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Warning and Encouragement From the Life of Mark.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Mark's Contribution to Christianity.

I. Mark's Home Life (Acts 12:12).
He had the wholesome influence of a Christian home, for his mother was a godly woman. There is no heritage to be compared to that of a godly home. Nothing has such a far-reaching influence upon the life of a young man as the memory of a praying mother. Even when it was so perilous to be known as a follower of Jesus, she was not afraid to have a prayer meeting in her home.

II. Mark With Jesus in Gethsemane (Mark 14:51, 52).
At the sight of the Roman guard, the disciples fled. This timid lad still followed the Lord till laid hold on by the young men. He then fled, leaving behind him his linen garment. This Gethsemane experience doubtless had a decided effect upon his life.

III. Mark a Servant of Paul and Barnabas (Acts 12:25-13:5).
Mark was with the company when Peter told of his wonderful release from prison. This, doubtless, made a great impression upon him and was the beginning of his desire to accompany the missionaries of the cross. He was not a missionary on the same footing as Paul and Barnabas, but an attendant upon them to look after their needs.

IV. Mark Deserting Paul and Barnabas (Acts 13:13).
We are not told the cause of this desertion. Three conjectures, one or all of which had a bearing upon his action, are offered.

1. Homesickness. His home was of easy circumstances if not wealthy. As they were carrying the gospel into the rough, mountainous country, occupied by rough, half-civilized people, the mettle of this young servant was tried. We ought not to condemn him too readily, for we know how trying it is to leave home when struggling against the rough world. While sympathizing with him, we must remember that duty is stronger than the tender ties of life. The time comes when the soldier must spurn the ties which bind him to father, mother, wife and children, in response to the call of duty. The missionary must turn his back upon home, native land, and friends in his devotion to his Lord.

2. Disbelief in Foreign Missions.
There was a common prejudice among the Jews against taking the gospel to the Gentiles. When he saw that these missionaries were going to the "regions beyond," his prejudice may have caused him to turn back.

3. Cowardice. The dangers before them were not imaginary but real. The missionary today faces awful dangers: climate, wild beasts, deadly serpents and insects, and savage and cannibalistic men. However, fear is no excuse for cowardice because we are linked to the Almighty by faith; there is nothing in heaven or on earth that can harm us. Courage is required of those who would do the Lord's work.

V. Mark With Peter in Babylon (I Pet. 5:13).
Some years after Mark's desertion, when Paul and Barnabas were arranging for a second evangelistic tour, they had a sharp dispute over the question of taking Mark with them. Paul would not consent to Mark's accompanying them, so they departed asunder one from the other. Mark went with his uncle. By this time he must have been cured of his cowardice for we see him associated with Peter in Babylon.

VI. Mark Honored by Paul (II Tim. 4:11).
Paul is now an old man in prison. Mark is a middle-aged man associated with Timothy at Ephesus. Mark had proved himself, for Paul gives the pleasing testimony that "he is profitable unto me for the ministry." Mark is an example of one who made good in spite of his early backsliding.

Herodism.
The world's battlefields have been in the heart chiefly; more herodism has been displayed in the household and the closest than on the most memorable battlefields of history.—H. W. Beecher.

You Must Be Calm.
The language of excitement is at best but picturesque merely. You must be calm before you can utter oracles.—Thoreau.

Little People.
I love these little people and it is not a slight thing, when they, who are so fresh from God, love us.—Dickens.

Greatness and Truth.
If any man seeks for greatness, let him forget greatness and ask for truth, and he will find both.—Horace Mann.

Simplicity in Coat Styles; Fashions for the Juniors

THERE seems to be a disposition on the part of well dressed women to demand that the excellence of their fall coats be evident more in precise and beautiful tailoring than in elaborate trimmings, and new models in garments of this variety attain a fine degree of that elegant simplicity which is always in good taste and is, at the same time, almost universally becoming. The vogue of the straight lines, at least, may be used with good effect whether the wearer is slim or stout, short or tall. The element of individuality, always a desirable feature, may be expressed in material, trimming and cut without any sacrifice of style.

Camel's hair, in a new pattern, is used for making the coat shown here. The long stripes of brown and tan make it an ideal pattern for short or stout women, since their effect is to lead height to the figure. The long kimono sleeve is set low at the shoulder and is made knuckle length. Brown fox exactly matching the dark stripe of the material is used for the collar.
Fur-fabric coats are promised in greater variety than ever before, as the season progresses, and that they will be even more popular than usual is a safe forecast in view of advancing prices for fur and fur trimmed coats.

SLIPOVER PATTERN IN CREPE DE CHINE

The beautiful new material broadens and oriental patterns in silk weaves, that have appeared in the past few weeks, have been immediately used in linings for fur coats and they are so rich and luxurious that it is often difficult to say whether the coat or its lining is the more attractive.
The heavier twills, camel's hair and fine pile fabrics are leading favorites among coatings. They are usually lined with plain crepe de chine, and nothing could serve this purpose better.

Could See Big Change in Baby From the First

"I could see a big change for the better in baby right from the first when I began giving him Teethingin. He grew quieter, his stomach pains left off and now he is as fat and healthy a child as you please," writes Mrs. Maude Neighbors, 1638 W. 4th St., Texarkana, Texas.

CROSS PLAINS, TEXAS

To the Young People of Cross
Plains and Community

From a short acquaintance by associating with the people of our little city, I have been very favorably impressed with the possibilities of great things being done by our young people for the betterment of our town, in various ways. The nobility is unsurpassed; the best of material is not lacking, in fact all that Cross Plains is lacking in being one of the leading towns from an enterprising standpoint, is to exert some of the noble man and womanhood which our young people possess. First we should read a little passage of scripture, Mat. 6:33, and then apply it to our every day life. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." Let us see for whom should we praise for our existence, for life, for the opportunities which we enjoy daily, for what we have and are. Our fore-fathers tell us all these every day blessings come from God. The one who gave his only son that we as ungrateful as we are, might be permitted to live in this world in peace and happiness and afterwards attain a home in that bright beyond, after we have served our time here on earth. The question we should ask ourselves is, are we worthy of a home in that sweet beyond, which God has prepared for us? If we will only give a part of our time and substance to his service. The requirements are very small compared to the reward which God has promised us. We are prone to seek God last, not intentionally, but unthoughtfully. Are we guilty of this omission. God looks over our negligences largely; he knows our weakness and helps us from day to day, giving us another chance to seek God and his righteousness. We are guilty of trying to prosper in this world without God. Should we exert our intellectual power honestly after considering how grateful God is to us, it seems it would be almost impossible for us to neglect God and his righteousness.

It requires but little energy to serve God if we have the willingness of heart to do right. With these few remarks from one who has a tender feeling for the people of Cross Plains, especially the young whom the responsibilities of the days will soon fall upon, let me urge that we as honest and intelligent people forget largely the world and worldly things and give God a part of our time and lives. Let us resolve to begin now and do better, live better, be more thoughtful as to what we are and why we are what we are. Start now, join Sunday School, and study the lessons, go to church and hear the great messages that are delivered by the pastors of our town. (Again) Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and his righteousness, and prosperity will be added unto you.

A Citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Williams and son, James Russell, of DeLeon, came by Sunday for a visit with W. A. McGowan and family, on their way to California, where they will make their home for a time.

Land of that place, visited with relatives here the latter part of this week, and held a family reunion at the old home place of this place; Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Elder, of the Bayou; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Renfro of Cross Plains; and Mr. and L. N. Moss of Foss, Okla.

L. P. Jones, of this city, while on top of the walking beam at the Nanna D. Newton well, of the Phillips Petroleum Co., et al, lost his balance and fell. The distance was some twenty feet, but no serious damage was done. He sustained a few bruises and scratches, which are considered of minor importance, considering the fall he took.

S. M. Buatt has sold his interest in the Racket Store to Mr. Cunningham, present owner. Mr. Buatt, it is understood, contemplates re-entering the newspaper field somewhere, after a rest, which in all probability include a hunting and fishing trip. He is a splendid newspaper man, but we would regret to lose him as a citizen.

Miss Alice Hemphill, sister of Chas. F. Hemphill, and Miss Magie Hugon, sister of Mrs. Hemphill, who have been visiting here, left Monday for their home at Gainesville.

Do You Need Good Cotton Wagon?

You Will Be Proud
Of This Wagon

When you hitch your team to a new John Deere Wagon you can be assured that the same proud feeling of ownership will still exist even after the wagon becomes old and scarred through years of hard use.

JOHN DEERE FARM WAGON

As you use this wagon, the fact that it is made of the best materials, that it "stands up" under severe strains, and that it pulls lighter than any ordinary wagon, will manifest itself from day to day—and you'll realize that you made a "good buy" when you got this John Deere Wagon from us.

Here are the reasons why this is a light draft wagon—the wheels carry the correct dish; the axles have accurate gather so that the wheels run straight ahead—there is no binding or dragging; all the skews have the proper pitch so that the heaviest load is carried on plumb spokes.

This is the guaranteed wagon. Drop in at our store the next time you are in town and look at this wagon. Ask us about the John Deere Guarantee.

We also have the well known Weber and Thornhill Wagons—and they are good ones, too. Let us SHOW you our Wagons.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD SUPPORTS CO-OPERATIVES

PLENTY OF MONEY AVAILABLE FOR EXECUTION GRADUAL MARKETING.

NECESSARY SERVICE

Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association Conducting Membership Campaign in Interest of Co-operative Marketing Texas Cotton Crop.

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 23, 1923.—That the Federal Reserve Board at Washington heartily indorses gradual and orderly marketing of the cotton crop this fall and stands ready to lend every assistance which will further this end, was the opinion voiced by George R. James of the Federal Reserve Board who arrived in Dallas recently to observe conditions in this district.

"There is plenty of money available to member banks for the execution of a gradual marketing program," he said, "and the Federal Reserve Board is very much in sympathy with co-operative marketing associations. With efficient management they perform a very necessary service in aiding the grower to receive the full benefit of his labor."

MORE MONEY FOR COTTON CAMPAIGN CLOSES SEPT. 1

TEXAS VICTORY WEEK AS LAST WEEK IN AUGUST TO BE DEVOTED TO SIGN-UP ACTIVITIES.

8,000 NEW TEXAS MEMBERS

Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association Last Year Paid Members $25,000 More Profit Than Secured by Non-members Through Street Sales.

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 22.—September 1st closes the "More Money for Cotton" campaign which is being conducted in the cotton growing sections of the State under the direction of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association, it was announced here today by officials of the organization.

"More than 8,000 new members in Texas have joined the association since the campaign started," John T. Orr, president, announced. "We have formulated our plans, however, for the intense sign-up work to be done the last week, and with an increased membership of 8,000 already, we are hopeful of doubling last year's membership and balance," he said. "Last year we paid our members $29.56 more per bale for their cotton, than non-members received through street sale process," Mr. Sloan Simpson, treasurer of the Association, said. "This was possible through the use of business principles in the handling of the crop; efficient gathering, grading, warehousing, and marketing as needed by consumers, instead of dumping it on the market at one time."

TWENTY MILLION DOLLARS LOANED COTTON ASSN.

TEXAS FARM BUREAU COTTON ASSOCIATION EXTENDED TREMENDOUS LOAN FOR 1923 CROP.

MORE AVAILABLE

Texas Co-operative Marketing of Cotton Receives Backing of Commercial and Financial World Through Large Loan. Association Expects to Handle 200,000 Bales This Year.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 22.—Twenty million dollars credit has been extended the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association by New York banking interests for use in financing the 1923 cotton crop through the co-operative method, according to recent advices from New York, and confirmed by Mr. Sloan Simpson, treasurer and trustee of the Association. Mr. Simpson recently returned from New York where he went for the purpose of arranging this loan.

"This initial credit will be supplemented with additional funds if needed," he said, "and in view of preliminary reports indicating that the Association will handle in excess of 200,000 bales of cotton this year, we will possibly need a total of from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000. The Texas banking institutions will have an opportunity to loan on this additional amount."

According to John T. Orr, president of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association, this tremendous line of credit extended the Association again this year "attests to the sound and substantial standing of the Association in the commercial and financial world, and the extent to which the business element respects the co-operative marketing of the Texas cotton crop as handled by our Association. I am sure this information will greatly interest our large membership and have a tendency to interest thousands of prospective members who will be approached to join the association during the "More Money for Cotton" campaign now being conducted."

Notice to Farmers

It is not long ago that we could almost make a crop of cotton by losing a few cotton seed in the fields in the springtime. Now under adverse conditions that prevail it is only the better farmers who succeed in making their operations show a profit. This being true, it is very necessary that the cost of production be considered when you go to gin. So costly a commodity should receive the best, and that is the kind of service that we are prepared to give. Our gin is equipped with the latest and last improvements known to the industry. We will be glad to demonstrate this fact to you.

POLICE AND KLANSMAN BATTLE IN NEW JERSEY

FIRE APPARATUS DRIVEN DIRECT ON ASSAILANTS TO DISPERSE GATHERING.

150 ARE STILL BESIEGED

That Number of Klansmen Still Surrounded as Thousands of Autos Pour into City.

Perth Amboy, N. J.—One hundred and fifty members of the Ku Klux Klan are besieged in Odd Fellows hall, surrounded by a crowd of more than 5,000 persons, who broke up a meeting of 500 klansmen, despite a desperate resistance by 75 patrolmen, 150 firemen and a large force of State troopers.

Although shots were fired by both sides, no one was reported killed. Two men, however, were believed to have been seriously injured. Both were klansmen. One, wearing a white robe, was beaten unconscious when he attempted to leave the hall. He was beaten with clubs and his attackers were about to throw him into a sewer manhole. A patrolman, however, pleaded with members of the mob and persuaded them to stop.

The other klansman was badly beaten when a mob overturned an automobile in which he was trying to escape. The full extent of his injuries are not known, and it was said many others may have been badly hurt.

Thousands of automobiles choked roads leading into Perth Amboy. Citizens from all parts of the State are arriving and police fear another outbreak as a result of a Klan threat that they would "return 10,000 strong."

Friday morning the mob about the hall was larger than when the battle started. A constant babble of voices was heard in the streets, and this occasionally burst into a roar when a klansman's head appeared at a door or window. The mob continued to throw sticks and stones.

Patrolmen fired shots into the air, threw gas bombs, and swung their night sticks while the firemen turned streams of water on the fighting throng to quell the attack.

Police Chief Tonneson then ordered his men to throw tear gas bombs and thirteen of these, the town's entire supply, were exploded. The crowd fell back, but advanced again, hurling more stones. It was then that a riot call was sounded and 150 firemen dashed to the scene.

After the firemen had run their apparatus directly at the surging mass of humanity and had failed to disperse the crowd, they attached hose lines to every available hydrant and drenched the rioters with several streams of water. Drenched for few seconds, the crowd fell back. Several of the more sturdy, however, braved the water and cut the hose lines with axes and knives while those in the crowd threw stones at the firemen.

Chief Tonneson, in the meantime, had ordered the klansmen to leave the building. Clambering out windows, down fire escapes and through every available exit, they were met by their assailants and many hand-to-hand fights ensued.

A patrolman sized him, shoved him into an automobile and hurried him to the police station. Other cars, loaded with men, followed, but the prisoner was rushed through the station and locked in a stable at the rear. After searching the station, those who had followed returned to the scene of the fight.

As some of the klansmen broke away from the fighting mass they shouted, "We're coming back—10,000 strong."

"All right," came the answer, "we'll be waiting for you—20,000 strong."

INDIRECT OPERATION OF FLEET PLANNED

Shipping Board to Form Number of Subsidiary Corporations.

Washington.—After a thorough discussion of the merchant marine question at a White House conference between President Coolidge and members of the shipping board, Chairman Farley announced that the board would move forward with its plan for indirect government operation of its fleet through a number of subsidiary corporations.

The President, it was indicated, would put the plan up to Attorney General Daugherty for an opinion as to its legality, the point raised by the three minority board members. Whether he would ask for a formal ruling or merely discuss it with the Attorney General was not definitely communicated to the board members, all of whom were said to be convinced that the legal question should be determined promptly.

Boy Sole Survivor of Shipwreck.

Shanghai.—One lone Chinese boy, dying from thirst and hunger aboard a life raft, has been picked up by the Hong Kong-Shanghai Coast steamer Sinkiang and is believed to be the sole survivor of the British steamer Mylie which foundered in a typhoon recently en route from Chingwangtao to Shanghai with a cargo of coal. The mess boy, according to statements of the Sinkiang officers, survived for six days aboard the life raft and saw two of his companions perish.

GREECE BALKING AT ITALIAN DEMANDS

Athens Government Must Agree in 24 Hours to 50,000-Lire Indemnity and Conditions

Athens.—The Italian Government has demanded from Greece an answer within twenty-four hours to a note handed the Greek Government declaring that Greece shall pay an indemnity of 50,000,000 lire, salute the Italian fleet and punish the Greeks responsible for the killing of the five Italian members of the Greco-Albanian frontier delimitation mission.

Premier Gonatas told the newspaper men that while all the demands of the Italian Government were not acceptable, some of them would be agreed to, and that the Greek Government would ask modifications of the others. The Premier added that the Government would make reply to the Italians within the time limit set by them.

Premier Gonatas said that, according to reports received from the authorities at Epirus, he had concluded that the murderers were Albanians and not Greeks. The Premier expressed the conviction that the incident would not affect the good relations between Greece and Italy.

As an outcome of an exchange of visits between G. C. Montagna, the Italian Minister to Greece, and Foreign Minister Alexandris, the latter, after again expressing his Government's regret over the assassination of the five Italian members of the Greco-Albanian boundary delimitation mission, said that with a view to conducting an inquiry it had been decided to dispatch a warship to Santi Quaranta, one of the ports of Janina, Albania, near where the murders occurred.

The warship will take on board a commandant of police, two superior officers of the department of military police, and two police surgeons, who will aid in the investigation.

The secretary of the Italian legation, speaking in the name of Signor Montagna said the murder of the Italian mission was a political crime, due to Greek hatred of Italians, which hatred was the outgrowth of piopaganda. The opinion that the murders had been committed by Albanians, therefore, was to be excluded.

Apart from the reparation which would be demanded, the secretary said the crime would have the gravest consequences for Greece.

CONCILIATION POINTS OFFERED BY PINCHOT

Submits Four to Anthracite Miners and Operators Now Deadlocked

Harrisburg, Pa.—Governor Pinchot has proposed to the deadlocked anthracite coal operators and miners that they settle their differences on four points of conciliation. These are:

- 1. Recognition of the eight-hour day for all employees.
2. A uniform increase in wages of 10 per cent to all employees.
3. Full recognition of the union by the operators with a semi-check-off, which would permit the union to collect its dues on pay day at the mines.
4. Complete recognition of the principle of collective bargaining.

Gov. Pinchot suggested that the miners and operators consider the proposal, and if they are unable to agree they shall select a man agreeable to both sides to attend and take part in the discussions.

This man would not have a vote and would be only an observer, not as an umpire or referee.

If the two sides were unable to reach an agreement in this manner Gov. Pinchot suggested that their differences be referred to the conciliation board, which, he said, would be provided with whatever equipment is necessary for rendering prompt decisions.

Has 400 Buffaloes for Sale

Portland, Ore.—The government would like to sell about 400 buffalo ranging on the bison range in Montana, near the old Flathead Indian reservation at Dixon, according to Smith Riley, head of the bird and animal reservation department of the United States. He reports that the buffalo are increasing so rapidly that the food capacity of the range, has been reached.

Man Goes Into Raising of Bees.

Van Alstyne, Texas.—C. E. Davis, farmer living seven and a half miles northwest of Van Alstyne, has gone into the honey business rather extensively. Mr. Davis now has eighty stands of bees and says he expects to receive 5,000 pounds of honey this year.

Women Preachers to Meet

Chicago, Ill.—The International Association of Women Preachers, comprising women preaching to seventeen different denominations, will meet here soon for a three-day convention.

Recovered 148 Bodies; Is Now Dead

Chicago, Ill.—Capt. Daniel Donovan, veteran hero-diver, who recovered 148 bodies after the Eastland disaster, died here recently of heart failure. He was 69 years old and had made his last dive two years ago.

PINCHOT SAYS STRIKE MUST BE AVERTED

With the Coal Strike Only Four Days Away He is Going to Meet Them Again.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Gov. Pinchot, the fighting progressive of Pennsylvania, served the anthracite operators and miners with his notice that the strike must be averted, conferred three hours with the union leaders and then retreated to the solitude of his executive mansion in complete and—to use his own expression—"golden" silence.

In a speech opening the joint meeting of the two parties he told them that the distribution of anthracite coal must be continued, and that the public must be served and that the State of Pennsylvania was prepared to use all its power to see that no suffering occurred.

This situation of peril can and must be avoided, Pinchot said.

With the coal strike only four days away he is going to meet both sides separately to see if peace developments can be carried forward.

While Pinchot's announcement that the miners are going to see him again was interpreted in some quarters as a hopeful sign, it was learned at the executive mansion that the Governor intends only to continue to "hear the case of the miners" at his next meeting with them.

The miners refused to comment on developments at the meeting, saying the Governor had requested that they be silent. The operators, who are to meet the executive did likewise.

A new phase of the situation developed when Bishop Hoban of the Catholic diocese of Scranton called upon Pinchot at the executive mansion. Bishop Hoban has a strong influence with the workers in the mines.

Simultaneously Father Curran, a Catholic priest who aided Roosevelt in the negotiations years ago, was understood to be on his way to Atlantic City to confer with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who lies ill there.

Both these clerics have been mentioned by Pinchot before and it is believed he may be seeking their aid in keeping the men in the pits.

The only announcement Pinchot would make after his three-hour conference with the miners, was:

"We have discussed the case of the miners this afternoon and we shall resume our discussions tomorrow."

NEFF SCORES LAXITY IN ENFORCING LAWS

"Collusion With Violators" is Condemned By Governor at Austin.

Austin, Texas.—Lawlessness said to reign in many sections of Texas is attributed by Gov. Neff to "laxity of duty by local authorities," the Governor charging that most of the lawlessness results from "collusion and conniving by these officers with the lawless element, particularly the law breaker who manufactures and sells liquor and the man who participates in mob work."

Views on the subject of lawlessness were given by the Governor just before he left Austin for Lubbock to attend the Texas Technological jubilee.

"It has become necessary, because of the secrecy with which local officers work with the lawless element for the State forces to first throw a 'smoke screen' around the county where lawlessness is to be investigated," said the Governor.

With a law which would permit "the yanking out of officers who enter into collusion with law breakers," the Governor said, "lawlessness would soon be driven out of Texas." He had reference to the so-called quo warranto officers' removal bill, which has met defeat every time it has been introduced in the legislature.

Large Rattlesnake Killed.

Marshall, Texas.—One of the largest rattlesnakes that has been seen in this section of the country was killed and brought to town by G. W. Gray, who killed the snake in the Sabine River bottoms. "The snake was five feet two inches long and had seventeen rattles and a button."

Names Texas Acting Postmasters

Washington.—The following Texas acting postmasters have been appointed: Evans H. Angell, Longview; Henry C. Wilson, Marshall, and John H. Wilson, Quanah.

Farmers Turning to Timber.

Gilmer, Texas.—The short crop has caused many of the farmers to turn their attention to other sources of supplementing their short income, not the least of which is securing hardwood railroad ties. Thousands of these ties have been blocked out, hauled in trucks and shipped. Another source of revenue has been gum timber, cut in four-foot lengths and shipped to box and basket factories. It is selling at $17 per thousand and feet f. o. b. Gilmer.

Condensed Austin News

Gov. Neff issued a requisition on the Governor of Iowa for the return to Texas of Ralph E. Davis, wanted at Dallas to answer an indictment charging embezzlement. Davis is reported to be at Council Bluffs.

Judge C. H. Jenkins, chairman of the board which is codifying the Texas laws, invites the various judges and members of bar associations to offer suggestions in the work of codification. The board has been at work since Aug. 1.

L. W. Tittle, member of the State Board of Control, was taken from his home to a local hospital recently a very sick man. Mr. Tittle has not been in the best of health for some time and his friends have become apprehensive over his condition.

Michael O'Toole, heir to an Irish estate valued at $750,000, has been located in Austin through the medium of a notice published in a newspaper at the request of John O'Toole of San Antonio, brother of the heir. O'Toole since May, 1922, has been employed as a workman at Seton Infirmary in Austin.

The racing program of the Texas State Exposition at Austin, October 1 to 6, which has been printed recently, shows that a grand prize of $1,000 will be offered for the Exposition Derby, on Thursday, October 4, and the remaining purse money will be distributed throughout the five racing days.

Violations of the law prohibiting seining of fish are being received from many sections of the State, according to W. W. Lloyd, Game, Fish and Oyster Commissioner. Commissioner Boyd said that the long drouth has caused many of the streams to quit running and the low stage affords splendid opportunity for seining. Considerable fish life is being destroyed.

The deficit in the general fund of Texas will not be as large on Sept. 1 as many times calculated by members of the Legislature and State officials, State Treasurer Terrell announced. All of the previous calculations had made it $4,000,000 or more, while Mr. Terrell pointed figures to show that it will be only a little over $3,000,000.

H. C. Connally, secretary of the State Prison Commission, has been in Austin with C. J. Moore and John D. McCall, representatives of the Brown-Crummer Company, executing the bonds of extending the $145,000 vendor's lien notes which the company took up for the commissioner to meet notes due on prison farm lands. The bonds bear 6 per cent and extend the time one year beyond the dates the notes were due.

The investigation into the killing of Otto Lange by masked men at his home near Somerville, Burleson County, July 2, has not been dropped, Gov. Neff said. He declared that as soon as Ranger Captain Frank Hamer is relieved from duty at San Antonio where he is a witness in a number of gambling and bootlegging cases resulting from ranger raids, Mr. Hamer will go to Somerville to resume the Lange investigation.

Robert A. John of Houston, general attorney of the Texas Company, and former District Judge Charles A. Wilcox, an attorney of Austin, were long closeted with Attorney General Keeling, First Assistant Wall and Anti-Trust Assistant Kemp. All parties to the conference refused to indicate what had been discussed or what action, if any, is in contemplation by the Attorney General.

Before leaving for Lubbock State Superintendent of Public Instruction Marrs said: "There will be books in the public schools when they open next month and when I return I shall make an announcement of my plan for the texts. There will be no book shortage in the schools as I now see it, and particularly there will be none if the local school authorities do their full duty, as I expect them to do," concluded Mr. Marrs.

The Railroad Commission issued notice of hearing for Tuesday, Sept. 11, to consider application of the traffic department of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce on behalf of the Texas Corrugated Box Company of Dallas for a reduction of the rates on corrugated boxes, knocked down in bundles, car loads, between points in Texas with minimum of 35,000 pounds. It is proposed to establish a basis of 5c less than class D rates for the transportation of the boxes. This would effect a reduction under the present charges as well as equalize certain conditions.

Of the twenty-five counties which have sent tax rolls to the State Comptroller, only one is of the large class of counties, that of McLennan. The tax rolls of McLennan County, submitted by County Tax Assessor Frank M. Miller, shows a total of $66,746, $40, which is $1,746,340 more than the estimate filed last month, and an increase of $2,355,635 over last year's total. The rolls from Bexar, Dallas, Tarrant and Harris, the four largest counties, have not yet been received.

MOTHER NATURE

"You are very clever," said the fern to the cactus plant in the greenhouse. The cactus had been telling the fern that the reason for all the prickles which it had on its leaves was to save the juicy stems from being eaten and destroyed by animals in the desert lands from which it and many of its family came.

"Oh, yes, we must have a protection if we're to grow, and in this way we're quite safe. No one wants cactus burrs!"

"Of course I don't have the trouble that you do, for no one wants to eat me. So I do not need to be protected as you do."

"Well," said the cactus plant, "it is useful. I believe there are other creatures who do the same kind of thing as we plants—have some means of protection."

"There is the skunk for example. I've heard visitors who've come to the greenhouse talk about the skunk."

"He has a curious odor that people do not like—other animals dislike it, too, and that is his protection. He can avoid this odor about when he is frightened or when he wants to be protected."

"I've heard some people say that they wondered how he stood it himself!"

"Well, there is the hedgehog, who can roll himself up into a prickly ball when he is frightened. That is his protection."

"Yes, there are many, many creatures who 'wear' their protection. 'The poisonous snakes have their poison right with them."

"Many little birds look like the woods in color so that they cannot be seen and some of the toads and frogs do, too."

"Ah, yes," said the fern; "all that you say is very true. But animals are different from plants."

"I think it is so particularly clever of you to be able to have protection such as you have and such very good protection when you're only a plant."

"Ah, fern," said the cactus plant, "you give me credit for more brains and sense than I have."

"All of this is owing to dear Mother Nature. She is the one who looks out for her children."

"She it is who saw that the cactus plants, or the Cacti as you speak of many of us, had prickles to save them from being destroyed."

"Yes, Mother Nature is the one who looks after us. She is not so busy that she hasn't time to remember all her children, every one."

"Then a voice spoke. 'I didn't think I would hear anyone now,'" said the fern, "for our keeper

"I wore My Summer Frock." "I was left for the day and the greenhouse is closed to people after the late afternoon has passed."

"I heard a voice; I most certainly heard a voice," said the cactus. And again they heard the voice more clearly.

In another moment they saw the loveliest of lovely creatures. "Oh, Mother Nature!" they all shouted. "Darling Mother Nature!"

"There, there," said Mother Nature, "if you make such a fuss over me I will cry with joy. I'm glad little Violet made me a yellow and a purple and a blue handkerchief. For even though I have three handkerchiefs I may have to use them all."

Mother Nature wore a beautiful cape made of leaves, which was trimmed with a collar of summer flowers. Her hat was of garden flowers and edged with a tiny border of little woodland wild flowers.

BATHING SUIT AND SILK HAT

Mayor of English Town Stages Novel Ceremony in Dedicating New Bathing Pool.

A unique ceremony of inauguration recently took place at Grimsby, Lincolnshire, England, when the lord mayor was requested to preside at the dedication of a municipal bathing pool.

His honor appeared at the head of an impressive procession clad in official frock coat and silk hat. Everybody naturally expected the usual delicate oration inseparable from such functions. What, then, was the general astonishment when the mayor, standing beside the pool, doffed first hat, then frock coat, vest, trousers, shirt, shoes and socks and appeared arrayed solely in a rather ordinary bathing suit, in which garb he plunged bravely into the pool.

This unexpected dedication was hailed with resounding cheers which greeted the sporting executive when he emerged spluttering from the water.

A Musical Preference. "Do you like modern music?" "No," answered the gentle grand-mother. "I liked the old square piano. It was so handy to put the patterns on when you were cutting out a dress."

Extraordinary. "Rastus, are you a married man?" "Nossah, boss, ah earns mah own living."

Made only of wheat and barley scientifically baked 20 hours. Supplies Vitamin-B and mineral elements.

"KISS ME AGAIN, ANNIE, DO!"

The man managed to lift his head "Don't you fret," he murmured. "It's an old wound. I'm just out of hospital." Then he dropped again and lay, limp and white, on the basement floor.

Ann cut away his blood-soaked trousers leg. She found that the bleeding came from a gash above the knee, which was only half healed, and had, obviously, reopened; it was a comparatively simple matter for her to stop the bleeding, and to dress the wound with towels torn into strips. She routed old Joseph from the cellar, where, on regaining his safety, he had taken refuge, and the old man and the women managed to carry the limp body of Ann's rescuer upstairs to the guest room.

When Ann bent over him she found something hauntingly familiar in his lean face, bearded only sparsely, and well below the cheekbones; she thought she might have seen him in a hospital somewhere. She gave him a tablespoonful of whisky and in a moment he opened his eyes and looked at her. He smiled and his lips parted. She bent to hear, impersonally, as she had done so often in the hospitals.

"Annie Byrne," the young man murmured, pleased. And then, "Kiss me again, Annie, do!"

So meet again in New York, Ann Byrne and Peter Smith, who haven't seen each other since the days of a boy-and-girl kiss in Milton Center. Ann is now one of "The Cortlandts of Washington Square" and Peter is a machinist with a little shop in Chicago. It's Civil war times and Peter has just rescued Ann and an old negro servant from the hands of a mob in the New York draft riots. Ann, red-headed and individual, has already been engaged twice. Peter is too ambitious and hard-working to bother with love.

This is the first novel by Janet A. (Mrs. Kellogg) Fairbank of Chicago, nationally known from her activities in politics, war work and women's affairs. It's already successful and has never before been serialized. New York, in the Fifties and Sixties, is its setting. Those were Civil war times and quite exciting they were. The author has written a story vivid with the spirit of the times. It is from the northern viewpoint, but not controversial in spirit. Ann, when a child in Milton Center, went skating in her best jacket and fell through the ice. But it was no fun skating, said Ann, unless you skated on thin ice. So that's why Ann, originally an Ugly Duckling, has many adventures and exciting experiences after she grows, good-looking and has social position through her relationship with the Cortlandts.

Mrs. Fairbank comes honestly by brains, being the daughter of the late Benjamin F. Ayer, one of Chicago's old-time brilliant lawyers. She has done feature-writing for Chicago newspapers and is the author of a play, "Three Years More," soon to be produced. In 1912 she was Western Chairman for Women of the Progressive party, joined the Democratic party in 1917 and was a member of the Executive committee of the Democratic National committee. Always deeply interested in Chicago city government, she was, in 1921, chairman of the Women's committee in the successful coalition judicial campaign. She is a member of the National Congressional committee of the Democratic party and vice chairman for Illinois of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation. She is president of the board of directors of the Chicago Lying-in hospital.

During the war she was member of the Women's Executive committee, Illinois branch, Council of Defense. She was appointed by Mr. McAdoo a member of the Women's National Liberty Loan committee with headquarters in the Treasury building, Washington. She helped organize the women of the country in five loans and during the time was in all but five states, organizing and speaking.

CHAPTER I

A little girl of ten years was clearing the snow from a path leading to the side door of a farm-house so snug that it barely emerged from its brilliant setting. Its walls, a soft yellow-white, poked out of the drifts with an air of innocent disreputability, and its long roof dipped deep into the solid snow. The child did not pause until she reached the gate; then she straightened her slim back experimentally, and breathed deep of the frosty air. With a wide sweep of her mittened hand she cleared the top rail of its incumbrance of snow, and swung herself up to perch there. She sat a funny, lunched little figure in a light jacket, and a full and too short skirt, which betrayed to a censorious world extraordinarily knobby long legs. She was a red-haired child, with an eager wedge of a face that took no color from the keen wind off the New York hills; against the pallor of her cheeks her lips showed brilliantly red, and her eyes glomed deep and ceremonious above an impudent nose. On the whole, she looked rather a difficult little girl; the old gate creaked, protestingly.

A lean little boy, whose red stockings and cap made a brilliant splash of color in the white landscape, came whistling down the road. The little girl paid no attention to him, and when he reached the gate he paused with elaborate casualness to scoop up a handful of snow.

"Mad!" he inquired—"you hadn't ought to be! You wanted me to kiss you!"

"They are always going it in books. I wanted to see what it was like." "It wasn't my fault. I didn't want to—much."

"You don't need to, again." The boy colored resentfully. "A girl with red hair," he scoffed. There was a pause, while the old gate wriggled in its bed of snow. "Your mother coming home today?" "Yep."

"You'll catch it for going through the ice." "I expect so. . . . I had on my best jacket."

The ice is always thin over the spring. Didn't you know that?" The girl laughed. "What'd you think I was doing there, silly? It's no fun skating where it's thick!"

The boy looked at her with reluctant admiration. "You're a queer 'un," he remarked, as he kicked up a cloud of soft white snow. There seemed to be nothing to detain him, yet he lingered, and turned, on a sudden his pulse. "Say," he said, "is it true that your mother is going to marry the minister?"

The girl's calm eyes kindled. "Wh says so?" she demanded. "Ma."

"Well, Peter—you can tell her that she doesn't know nothing—not nothing! That minister—he's so ugly—and my mother!"

I have solemnly promised my bankers and friends that I will not sell groceries to any body on credit as I have heretofore done, unless you pay your bills on the first of each month. I have sold lots of goods and lost the time of myself and clerks, and the persons I sold to on credit will not spend his cash with me. As my family and myself have been reduced to such circumstances that no Christian man or woman can live in the community as such and meet his honorable obligations.

So please call in and see us.

Albert F. Lutgens, was called to Rochester, Minn, on Wednesday of last week to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Hattie Rosenan Lutgens. A friend has contributed the following piece of poetry, in her memory:

In this land of sadness an angel appeared.

And stood looking around for a selected soul.

To take her up to heaven, as we have all heard,

Up to the land that is paved with bright gold.

The Angel looked at a mother old, Who had suffered for years and years in pain.

The thought of the smile that o'r her face rolled

And decided this treasure would be heavens gain.

Then the records were checked and found so true,

That a life had been spent in the cause of right.

Yes a saintly life that was lived through an through.

So, the soul was chosen, and started its flight.

The Angel bore it to Heavens bright land,

On the breeze of the morn, to the Judgment bar.

Then a jeweled crown soul, with harp in hand

Was gently seated in heavens great Choir.

Then the Angel whispered to the world below,

To the son and daughters with saddened hearts,

Grieve not, for God, your sadness knows.

Tho the time will come when all must part.

While mother waits you in a heavenly home

And bids you come and be with her there,

Don't grieve for the soul, that is on it's throne.

Have faith in God, and live in prayer.

ALL GINS ARE BUSY; MARKET STRONG, HERE

The Cross Plains Gins are humming, and cotton wagons are becoming thick on the streets. Things are getting lively, as the cotton is selling at top market price. Cotton sold here Monday for about 28c per pound. Judging from past records, there will be several thousand bales marketed here, that have been ginned elsewhere. Farmers realize that they will get a good price for their product here, and they haul it in for many miles distant. The buyers here are determined to see that Cross Plains is firmly established as a good market. In fact it has already been established—and they are maintaining the record.
