Facial Blemishes

Sallow, muddy, roughened or blotched complexions are usually due to constipation. When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication. Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine of laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

"Wed? Not Even for a Crown!"

ENGLAND WORRIES OVER HER BACHELOR HEIR APPARENT

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN

HERE is a short cablegram from London that might be expanded to a page article, since it deals with a situation that quite upsets the Britishers and is causing international comment:

"A flurry of criticism was aroused today by an exhibition of caricatures by Max Beerbohm. One depicted the Prince of Wales, aged and bearded, marrying the daughter of an English landlady. The time of his supposed marriage was set in 1917. It is entitled:

"Long choosing and beginning late."

"The basis for the caricature is the Prince of Wales' apparent aversion to marriage. There was, however, a storm of protest from press and public and the caricature was withdrawn."

The Weekly Aux Ecoutes of Paris prints a story in which it says on "inside authority" that the Prince of Wales has decided to renounce the throne in favor of the Duke of York. "Wed? Not even for a crown!" is practically the attitude of the Prince of Wales, according to Aux Ecoutes, which says, among other things:

"Queen Mary is insistent that he marry, but the prince will not. He, especially since during his voyage to India his parents married off his sister, Princess Mary, whom he desired to see the wife of his friend and comrade, Lord Louis Mountbatten, to Lord Lascelles. The prince did not even send a wedding present to his sister."

During the last season Queen Mary privately told the Duchess of Connaught, "Edward will marry this year."

"The duchess thereupon arranged a grand reception at which the news was scheduled to be given out. But the prince stayed at home, sending the Duke of York, to whom he said:

"Tell them if they want a king, I am here; but if they want a queen, too, then I renounce in your favor."

Really, you know, one of England's chief worries, even in these parlous times of reconstruction, seems to be fast what to do with His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. My word! He should have married long ago and given Great Britain a future queen and a whole fleet of little princes and princesses. Instead, when George and Mary talk marriage to him, he gives them the bird. When the London press picks out a new bride for him he goes steedlepeaching. When the whole empire shudders and protests because his horse falls, he gets a better mount and wins. When he should be on hand at some heavy state function he sends the Duke of York in his stead. With unmoved serenity he sees the advent of Princess Mary's Master Lascelles and the marriage of

MYTHICAL PROTEUS

In classical mythology Proteus was Neptune's herdsman, a prophetic old man who had charge of Amphitrite's seals. This aged man of the sea could tell all things, the past, the present and the future, but would only do so under compulsion. According to Homer, Proteus dwelt on the island of Carpathus, between Rhodes and Crete. The only method by which it was possible to obtain information from Proteus was to surprise him as he slept in his great cave at noon surrounded by his seals, seizing and binding him. Even when surprised and captured in this manner, he would endeavor to escape by changing into a great many different shapes—such as that of fire, water, a tree, a snake, a lion. If, however, his captor did not permit him to go until he gave the truthful answer required of him as a seer, he would answer and then plunge into the sea. There is a saying about having "as many shapes as Proteus"—meaning "expert in disguise."

Only Slightly Changed.

An instructor in a church school where much attention was paid to sacred history, dwelt particularly on the phrase: "And Enoch was not, for God took him." So many times was this repeated in connection with the death of Enoch that he thought even the dullest pupil would answer correctly when asked in examination: State in exact language of the Bible what was said of Enoch's death. But this was the answer he got: "Enoch was not what God took him for."

A Little Bit Humorous

POOR PIANIST

Mrs. K. L. writes that she had the piano tuner at her home for several hours recently and after he had gone her laundry woman, who had been working in the basement just below, said to her: "You know that man in the parlor?"

MRS. HICKEY SO WEAK COULD HARDLY STAND

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

Worcester, Mass.—"I had some trouble caused by a female weakness and got so run-down and weak from it that I could hardly stand or walk across the floor. The doctor gave me all kinds of pills, but nothing helped me. I happened to meet a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I thought I would try it. After taking it a week, I began to improve, and now I feel fine and am doing all of my housework, including washing, sewing and house cleaning. I have recommended your medicine to my friends, and I am willing for you to use this letter as a testimonial, as I would like to help any one suffering the way I did from such a weakness."—Mrs. DELIA HICKEY, 4 S. Ludlow St., Worcester, Mass.

Carrying the Load.

The recent publicity given co-eds at the university has caused quite a lot of apparently "tongue-twisted" comments from the co-eds themselves. For instance, in substance, the following is a conversation between two of the fair damsels.

"Well, what do you think of the scandal that they are shooting at us about petting parties?"

Other co-ed: "I have passed it up as a huge joke."

"Why, sure; that's all it is. Why should they accuse all of them by actions of a few of us?"—Columbus Dispatch.

Baby Ceased to Fret After He Had Teethina

"When my baby began to cut his teeth he was so fretful and feverish I couldn't do a thing with him. It took all my time to nurse him and I couldn't look after my housework," writes Mrs. Annie Reeves, Route 31, Roswell, Ga., "but as soon as I began giving him Teethina he stopped fretting and has given me little trouble since."

Teethina is far superior to soothing syrups and similar preparations for quieting a fretful child. It contains no opiates and is therefore perfectly harmless. Weak, sickly children thrive on it and doctors recommend it.

Teethina can be had at any drug store or send 30c to the Moffett Laboratories, Columbus, Ga., and receive a large package and a free copy of Moffett's Illustrated Baby Book.—(Advertisement.)

Do They All Do It?

The other day there came to a local hotel a young traveling man of a very effeminate type. The other men in the hotel watched him with amusement until he took from his pocket a powder puff and mirror and before the whole assembly powdered his chin and nose.

Then they laughed openly.

But he was not dismayed. "I just came from Pittsburgh," he explained, "and the coal dust there is so thick that we either have to wash our faces every hour or so or powder occasionally."

However, the other men laughed on.—Exchange.

Many people don't care so much for liberty. They only want to know it's there to be had.

FUR ANIMAL IS FASHION'S VICTIM

NATURALISTS SAY MANY KINDS ARE IN GREAT DANGER OF EARLY EXTIRPATION.

GOVERNMENT MAY INTERVE

Having Saved the Migratory Game and Song Birds, Uncle Sam Must Take Action to Preserve Fur-Bear Mammals.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington—Uncle Sam has succeeded in saving the lives of the migratory game and song birds of the United States, and now naturalists hope that the wild life generally, which so soon means life for the fur which the government can at least have in the plan to save the fur-bearing animals of the world from being sacrificed on the altar of fashion.

Uncle Sam has proved his power the bird case and it may be that he can prove his power in the case of a mammal. Signs point to the consummation of a plan to prevent the wholesale slaughter of the innocents of the field and forest and to force woman give over her desire to wear furs sweltering hot weather as well as winter, the said woman being willing to sacrifice her comfort for the purpose of being in style.

The government has a great many naturalists in its employment and while they have not as yet associated themselves in any movement to check the killing of fur-bearing animals, it is known that naturalists in other places are considering such a movement. Necessarily if a plan is proposed it will find support in certain bureaus of the Agriculture department, and probably will find its way into the halls of congress for action.

Pioneer of Anti-Cruelty.

Two centuries ago Rev. James Granger, a clergyman of the Church of England, preached a sermon against cruelty to the brute creation. He spoke of the sufferings that the fur trade involved, and he censured generally the abuse of animals. The parishioners of Mr. Granger said the sermon was pertinent and, in a formal protest, he declared "that it was altogether derogatory to the dignity of the Church of England, that horses, dogs and other animals should be mentioned in the pulpit and that cruelty should be mentioned as contrary to Christian mercy."

The history of this particular case shows in one place that the parishioners rather liked Parson Granger, at 80, after rapping him over the knuckles, they apologized to the rector of England for his conduct by saying that he should be held harmless because he simply lost his temper. This was two centuries ago, but the sound of a note of protest against cruelty even in this day and generation occasionally is considered as sufficient evidence that the sinner ought to be lashed up in a lunatic asylum.

The American Museum of Natural History is today attempting to secure from different parts of the world a few specimens of some of the mammal which are vanishing with incredible rapidity. The museum authorities feel that all these animals will be gone in short order, and their desire is to hasten that extinction but to secure a few specimens which, anyway, would be killed by the agents of fashion, in order that posterity may know what these creatures looked like when they lived upon the earth.

Slaughter Should Be Checked.

It is from the American Museum of Natural History that there comes the warning of the extinction of the fur-bearing animals of the world, and with it the appeal for some kind of an organization or movement which may check the slaughter and save to the woods and fields some of the inhabitants which add to their charm and to their living interest.

Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn, the president of the museum, quoting from a report on the subject, has just said this:

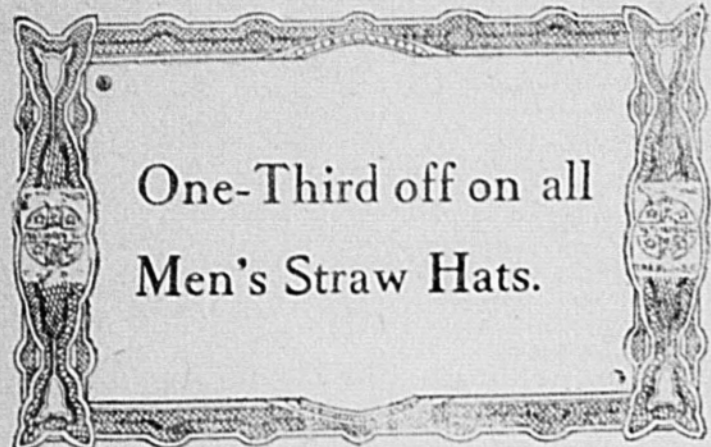

"Nothing in the history of creation has paralleled the ravages of the fur and hide trade, which, with the bone fertilizer trade, now threatens the entire vertebrate kingdom. The legitimate use of furs for protection in cold weather has long since passed. Furs are now a fashion, just as feathers were 30 years ago. The trade has passed almost entirely into the hands of people of Oriental and Asiatic origin. Furs are worn in midsummer purely for ornament and personal adornment, or to make a display of wealth and luxury."

In the art gallery of the National Museum in Washington there hung recently an oil painting at which, at one time or another, thousands upon thousands of fur-wearing women stopped to look. The picture represented a snow scene in the north, with a fox in the foreground with one leg fast fixed in a steel trap. The snow was blood-covered, for the plain inference was that the animal had struggled and had torn his leg cruelly to free it from the trap. Washington naturalists and lovers of the wild generally have been wondering ever since if this picture had the remotest effect on the women who looked upon it.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE CROSS PLAINS SCHOOL DISTRICT

We have in Cross Plains a little city of which its citizens and those in its trade territory have a just right to be proud, especially of its material prosperity, which is evidenced by the fact that it has more than forty offices and business establishments housed in splendid brick buildings, and a new brick is now in process of construction. Among her businesses are two strong banks, having combined deposits of more than $600,000.00 the last monthly report of one showing it to stand second in the county; two large general mercantile establishments, one of which is without a superior in West Texas; four lumber yards; five grocery stores; two meat markets, three exclusive dry goods and ready-to-wear houses; four drug stores; one exclusive furniture business; a second hand store; three barber shops; a variety store; four hardware stores; six garages; three feed stores; a bakery; six hotels and rooming houses; two wholesale oil stations; five supply houses; machine shop, planing mill, sheet metal works, and blacksmith shops; two gas, electric lights, gas city water works, telephones, and uptown telegraph office; movie show; printing house; two shoe shops and enough smaller businesses to make a grand total of seventy five business houses in Cross Plains. This together with the excellent and attractive resident sections shows our town, in many respects, to be the equal of those its size to be found anywhere.

stand up as well under the light of inspection? I shall leave the churches for those better informed as to their condition, but as your Superintendent for the coming school year I wish to review our school situation with respect to its condition, standing, possibilities, etc. Be it clearly understood that nothing which I shall have to say is to be construed in any way as a reflection on any of my predecessors. They wrought a good work, and doubtless met the conditions in the best way possible under the circumstances.

Texas' high schools are divided into three classes as follows: High schools of the third class, those doing two years of high school work; high schools of the second class, those doing three years of high school work; high schools of the first class, those doing four years of high school work. This is provided these schools meet certain requirements regarding length of free school, number of teachers in school, salaries of the teachers, number of pupils per teacher in the elementary school, number of lessons per day for each teacher in the high school, and material equipment possessed by the school. Schools failing to meet these requirements are denied classification. In this last group the Cross Plains school stands, and must of necessity remain there for at least another school year. But it does not follow that she shall stay there indefinitely. Of the counties adjoining Callahan, Shackelford has three independent schools two of which are classified, Taylor has five independent schools two of which are classified, Coleman has three all of which are classified, Eastland has eight, seven of which are classified, and all of the schools in these counties except three are schools of the first rank. In this county there are four independent schools only one of which, Baird, is classified. Thus it is easily seen that Callahan county stands lowest of any her neighbor counties in the standing of her better schools. Why not Cross Plains be next to raise the educational standard of her county by getting as soon as possible into the list of Texas' first class schools? Of the four independent schools on the DeLeon branch of the "Katy" road Cross Plains is the only school not offering four years high school work, and that does not have the maximum local maintenance tax for school purposes, and she has the lowest rate of any independent school in Callahan county.

Can Cross Plains with her splendid business, her excellent trade territory, and her enterprising citizenship afford to let her school go begging for want of that which can put her on a respectable basis with the other towns of her class in Texas? Surely she cannot, and when the time comes we believe the people will use the power lodged with them to give Cross Plains boys and girls their rightful chance for a first class high school education.

Your Superintendent has not come here merely as a teacher, or the supervisor of the work of other teachers, but as an exponent of the gospel of better schools for Texas and most especially for this town. This gospel I shall continue to urge while I stay here or until this school is second to none in point of classification and efficiency.

LONDON WATCHING WORLD SENTIMENT

MUCH INTEREST FELT IN EFFECT OF STATEMENT AS TO REPARATIONS

FAVOR HUGHES' SUGGESTION

Formula of American Secretary of State May Influence Later Memorandum

London.—Great Britain is watching with eager interest for the return of the opinion of Premier Baldwin's announcement on reparations in the House of Commons recently.

Officials here appeared especially anxious to see what the United States thought of the Government's latest gesture, and the evening newspapers were eagerly scanned for some reflection of Washington's attitude.

If the American Government gives evidence of disappointment at the failure of Mr. Baldwin to present specific terms Secretary Hughes' suggestion for an impartial international audit of Germany's assets, it may be said that the idea will probably be set forth more fully in Great Britain's proposed draft reply to Germany's latest memorandum, since it was Germany herself who first adopted Secretary Hughes' formula.

The Prime Minister, Stanley Baldwin, in the House of Commons, and Marquis Curzon in the House of Lords, to great audiences made identical pronouncements on the Government's policy on the reparations problem. In contrast to such statements by his predecessors, Mr. Lloyd-George and Mr. Bonar Law, which were very long, Premier Baldwin's pronouncements were particularly brief, taking about sixteen minutes for delivery, and as in neither House did the opposition offer criticism of any consequence, the momentous proceedings were quickly ended.

The question on everybody's lips—how far the British Government's open disapproval of the French Ruhr policy and its holding aloof therefrom were to be converted into an active policy, separate from France—was to a great extent unanswered. Premier Baldwin certainly moved quite perceptibly away from Mr. Bonar Law's attitude of passivism, inasmuch as he announced the Government's decision to submit to the allies a separate reply to Germany's latest offer.

This was the only important point in the pronouncement, which, for the remainder, was a warning couched in the most friendly language, but plainly telling France that the British Government could not much longer remain a passive spectator to a policy which concerned the economic collapse of Germany, and with it disaster to the whole of Europe.

TWO MORE TOWNS ARE TAKEN BY THE FRENCH

French Occupy Barmen and Lemburg as Penalty Measures Against Germans

Dusseldorf.—The town of Lemburg, just beyond the Coblenz bridgehead, which the Americans formerly held, is now occupied by French troops as a permanent occupation town.

The French official announcement of the occupation does not give the number of officials thus taken as hostages, but it is understood the operation, which was on a considerable scale, was undertaken to impose a penalty for numerous recent frontier incidents. Barmen is just outside the occupied area and the frontier affairs culminated recently in one which involved the security police near that town.

Recently two French soldiers who were following some German smugglers were surrounded in the woods by a band of fifteen of the security police, the French say. The police seized the Frenchmen, kidnapping them and taking them to Elberfeld, where they were questioned and disarmed. Their arms were finally returned to them without cartridges and they were taken to the frontier and allowed to reenter the occupied area.

When the soldier got back they reported they had been insulted and jeered at by civilians while in the hands of the police.

This incident, it is explained, has caused the punishment of Barmen. It is also claimed that the security police in Barmen and Elberfeld have recently been engaged in sniping operations against the French.

JURY ACQUITS BERRY AT SEYMOUR

Jury Deliberates But Fifteen Minutes Before Bringing in Its Verdict

Seymour, Texas.—A verdict of "not guilty" was returned by the jury trying C. B. Berry on a charge of murder of John Beal Sneed, at Paducah, Cottle County, Texas, on Nov. 10, 1922.

The jury deliberated but fifteen minutes before bringing in its verdict, and only one ballot was taken. The defendant and his wife, who were in the courtroom when the verdict was read by Deputy District Clerk Goss, shook hands with all the jurors and thanked them. Mrs. Berry's eyes were filled with tears as they told each juror amid sobs that their prayers had been answered.

Relatives of Barton were not present to hear the verdict announced. They went downstairs with the crowd a few minutes before, when a recess of court was taken after the case went to the jury, and so quickly was the verdict brought in that they had not returned.

The closing argument for the State was made by Judge A. J. Fires of Childress, employed by John Beal Sneed to assist the District Attorney.

After Judge Fires spoke Judge Milam's charge was handed to the jury, and that body retired to an adjoining chamber to consider its verdict. After a few minutes' wait Judge Milam announced that recess would be taken until 1:30 p. m.

The crowd and the Judge then departed and only a few spectators, some of the lawyers, newspaper men, the defendant and some of his relatives and the Sheriff and his deputies remained.

Judge Milam had just left the room when there came a loud knock on the door leading to the chamber occupied by the jury. An officer investigated and the Judge was hastily recalled. The jurors filed slowly into the box and the written verdict was handed by the foreman to the Judge, who, after glancing at it, handed it to the deputy clerk.

Deputy Clerk Goss read the verdict: "We the jury find the defendant not guilty. Signed, E. T. Caldwell, foreman."

Court recessed and the jurors dispersed.

$500 REWARD FOR SLAYER OF LANGE

The Masked Mob is the Most Dangerous of All the Species. There is No Defense

Austin, Texas.—Acting Governor Davidson has issued his proclamation offering a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the slayers of Otto Lange. Because of his brief tenure he will not offer standing rewards for all mob participants, but only in the cases arising during his incumbency. His proclamation in part follows:

"Whereas, on or about the night of July 2, 1922, Otto Lange, a citizen of Burleson County, was shot and killed by a body of masked men, while sitting in his home near Somerville, and his assailants have not been located or apprehended, and

"Whereas, in the same county, about the 29th of November, 1922, Ed Thuber, a well known and respected citizen of said County, was shot by a masked band, at or near his place of business, on a public street, and no arrest or indictment has ever been had in that case, and whipping and floggings have become promiscuous and general in many sections of the State, calculated always to lead on to shootings and to death as at Somerville, and

"Whereas, the stability of civilized Government and society depends upon the reverence and respect of the people for the law of the land, and upon its enforcement by duly constituted Government, and the people look to the law of the land as their protector and avenger;

Now, therefore, I, T. W. Davidson, acting Governor of the State of Texas, desiring to bring to justice the murderer, or murderers of Otto Lange, in particular, and to check mob violence in the State of Texas do hereby and now offer a reward of $500 in the name of the State of Texas for the apprehension and conviction of the slayer, or slayers, of the said Otto Lange."

Mr. Davidson made the following statement when he issued the proclamation: "In offering a reward for the assailants of Otto Lange I am doing it in the hope that it will impress the people of Texas that mob violence should and must stop.

"Mobocracy in its various forms has grown to such an extent in Texas that the whole public must frown upon it. I do not here offer the few paltry dollars to bring in the evildoers in any great number, but I do hope that it will, to some degree, sound the tocsin of alarm and that, in aroused public sentiment, it will stiffen the arm of the courts in stamping out an evil which can grow into such proportions as to choke civilization itself.

"The masked mob is the most dangerous of all the species. It is a conspiracy, organized with a formed design, and with malice aforethought to commit a crime and conceal its perpetrators. It works as from ambush. It protects its members by disguise, as well as by its numbers. There is no defense, and should be none to murder committed under the mask."

COMPLETES OPINION VOIDING ELECTION

Numerous Authorities Are Quoted in Sutton's 32-Page Document

Austin, Texas.—It was an elaborate opinion that Assistant Atty. Gen. Sutton wrote in holding that the highway amendment election would be void. It has just been completed and consists of thirty-two typewritten pages, much of it single spaced, quoting numerous authorities to sustain the position taken.

Discussing Section 1, Article 17, which requires publication to begin at least three months before the election, Mr. Sutton said: "Having placed it there, everyone, including the people themselves, are bound thereby, until the Constitution is altered in this regard. It would be a strange procedure to disregard or disobey an existing provision of the Constitution in order to make more constitutional provision; if we violate one in making another, what assurance have we that the one we are about to adopt will not also be ignored?"

Again Mr. Sutton says: "While it may be true that it is unfortunate and will cause temporary inconvenience to adhere strictly to the Constitution in this instance, yet the good, wholesome result from obedience to the provisions of the Constitution we already have is far more important than the temporary advantage to be gained by ignoring it."

Corrado, Famous Poet, Dies

Turin.—Professor Corrado, of Corrado, famous poet and ex-president of the Albertine Academy of Fine Arts, is dead.

Population Shows Big Jump

Havana, Cuba.—The report of the directors of the national census gives Cuba a total population of 3,123,040 on December 31, 1922, as compared with 2,889,004 on September 15, 1919. Population at end of last year is given as 2,192,936 whites and 869,886 colored. Added to these two classes were 118,084 immigrants who were not classified and 1,134 inhabitants whom the census takers failed to register as to color.

Texas Items

The Yoakum District Ginners' Association will meet at Yoakum, July 25 in annual convention.

Broom corn, planted in the vicinity of Edna for the first time in several years, is now being harvested.

A permit to do business in Texas has been granted to the Interstate Trust Company of Wilmington, Del., capital stock $443,750, with its Texas office at Houston.

The number of convicts in Texas is reaching the high mark, the total being 3,906, of which twenty-one are in insane asylums. Some years ago the number exceeded 4,000 by a small margin.

The asphalt topping is now being given the highway from Lufkin to Diboll. In a short time this road will be completed to the Neches river, connecting there with Polk county's splendid highway.

The contract for three and a half miles of state highway of the Angleton road district has been let. The road leads north from the town of Angleton and connects with the Anchor road district, in the main highway from Angleton to Houston.

The school tax election held in the Yarellon school district last month to increase the school tax from 50 cents to 75 cents on the $100 valuation, has been declared void by the district court. The court held that the election petition did not allege the specific amount of the increase.

With one of the biggest cotton yields in the history of the county in prospect, but being threatened by pests of various kinds, Bell County farmers are now resorting to the methods generally and successfully used thirty years ago for eliminating cotton pests, that of the torch light and pan.

Farmers of Bell County have just successfully harvested the largest and best oats crop in many years. The acreage was below normal, but the yield was much larger than usual, averaging between 50 and 60 bushels per acre. About 125 cars were shipped from Belton and Temple. About one-third of the crop was held in reserve.

One hundred and sixty-four counties in Texas conducting tick eradication in its three phases dipped 4,056,875 head of live stock in efforts to stamp out Texas tick fever during June, according to the monthly report of work done in the state under the supervision of the live stock sanitary commission of Texas and the bureau of animal industry.

Railroads must meet the expense of reconditioning compressed cotton arriving at destinations of less than 22.5 pounds per cubic foot, the railroad commission has ordered. Certain railroads had declined to meet the expense of reconditioning, it is stated. After reconditioning the cotton the railroads must look to the original compressor for reimbursement.

The fig crop of Galveston County, with the exception of the territory around San Leon, will be less this year than last, according to reports from throughout the county. The majority of the growers report that the late freezes this year delayed the crops considerably. Not only will the crop this year be small, but the time of picking will be delayed.

There will be about 1,200 students attending the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, from July 28 to August 26. The army estimates feeding each one at a cost of 70c per day. This is a total of $840 per day, which will be spent in San Antonio, paid out for groceries and vegetables. Grocers and dealers in other kinds of food will get $25,500 worth of business during the month's training.

The Coleman County Pioneers' Association has just been organized at Coleman for the purpose of keeping alive history, tradition and memories of early civilization in Central West Texas. Charter members number 100 and it is expected that this number will be greatly increased when the organization becomes permanent.

Contracts for $89,000 worth of asphalt surfacing were awarded by the Smith County highway commission recently. Nineteen miles of roadway will be treated with asphalt under this contract, the work costing an average of $5,000 a mile. The completion of the work will give Smith County over 40 miles of concrete and asphalt county roads by the first of next year.

The Alamo Association at San Antonio has been presented with an old Spanish cannon, said to have been used by the Spanish in their defense of the Alamo against Mexicans in 1813. W. H. Maverick, the oldest living native of San Antonio, gave the cannon to the association. The gun was found by Maverick's father in 1851 while excavations were being made for the pres. Maverick home.

State warrants are now being discontinued 4 per cent and Austin local buyers assert that the rate will be 5 per cent by September 1, when the new appropriations become available. A call was made this week to pay warrants up to No. 66,990 and represents $275,390. The last outstanding warrant was No. 79,745. Before the call the deficit was $2,104,098, therefore it was reduced to $1,828,618.

Colorado County crops are reported looking better than they have for many years.

Condensed Austin News

H. C. Morrow Jr., who for fifteen months was secretary to Railroad Commissioner Earle B. Mayfield, has assumed the position of executive clerk in the Department of State.

Assistant Attorney General Caves and Land Commissioner Robison have gone to Montague to appear in a law suit in which an attempt is being made to enjoin the Land Commissioner from declaring vacant 190 acres of land near an oil field.

District Judge George Calhoun took under advisement the case testing the validity of the gasoline tax act of April 1, which was in effect but two months. Upon the validity of this act depends the collection of over $500,000 in the gasoline tax of 1c per gallon.

Announcement has just been made of the resignation of Dr. A. C. Judson, associate professor of English in the University of Texas. Dr. Judson will go to the University of Indiana, where he will hold the position of professor of English in that institution.

The Attorney General approved and the Secretary of State filed the charter of a railroad that is to extend from Fort Worth up to the New Mexico border and probably into New Mexico. It is the Texas, Panhandle & Gulf, with offices at Tulsa and capital stock $2,700,000.

Fort Bliss army reservation, near El Paso, was granted the same freight rates as apply to and from El Paso in an order issued by the State Railroad Commission, after hearing on complaint of War Department authorities that old rates were too high.

W. A. Nabors, Railroad Commissioner, and R. B. Walcott, chief oil and gas supervisor, left for Galveston, after which they will make a tour of some of the Gulf Coast oil fields, of which there are twenty-two. It will be their first inspection of that section of the oil industry.

Acting Governor Davidson sent a cordial invitation to General J. J. Pershing to visit Camp Mabry during the infantry encampment of the Texas National Guard asserting his presence "to be a great inspiration to the citizen soldiery." General Pershing will be in Texas at the time and will inspect Fort Sam Houston.

Associate Justice Jenkins of the Third Court of Civil Appeals, named to head the board to codify the laws of Texas, said that the board will have its first meeting in Austin on Aug. 6 and arrange to start the work. It has two years to complete the codification. The last revisions were made in 1911 and 1915.

Acting Governor Davidson says he would issue some pardons, a few; but that he had not granted any thus far. He has been besieged the last two days as few Governors have, by persons seeking pardons. His announcement is the first intimation that he would grant any pardons during his temporary incumbency.

Comptroller Smith said he did not know who asked the Attorney General for an opinion as to whether the State Board of Education must as a member of the board, he would say that it is not going to meet until Gov. Noff returns to consider the textbook contracts of last December.

James L. Thomas, tutor in physics at the University of Texas, has just published a book on the subject of "Fundamentals of Radio." The book was published by the D. Van Nostrand Company of New York. It is intended to furnish a text that will give the elementary theory upon which all sets operate.

Supplementing a former opinion of the department, Assistant Attorney General Bryant has advised the State Highway Engineer that section 3-A of the acts of the Thirty-Sixth Legislature contemplates that an automobile dealer should have a current year's license for a second-hand car he demonstrates upon a public highway or elsewhere, as the purpose is to sell it.

State Comptroller Smith announced that the Confederate pensions for the quarter beginning Sept. 1 will be $30 each, the highest in the history of Texas. When Mr. Smith assumed office in 1921 the amount was $22. He also made the further statement that by Jan. 1, next, he hoped the pensions will have gone to $45 each. There are now about 15,000 pensioners.

An application to increase workmen's compensation insurance rates 12 1/2 per cent has been filed with the Insurance Commissioner in behalf of employes and hearing was set for July 21.

As a result of a conference at which a number of school men were present the date of the educational conference which was to have been called for July 12 at Waco was postponed until the latter part of August.

He found it in Valparaiso

Then he headed north and found it up near the "jumping-off place"

No matter what part of the world you may find yourself in, few things make you feel more at home than to walk into a store and discover your favorite smoking tobacco for sale.

You get a great thrill from seeing your home newspaper in a strange land and an even greater thrill on meeting someone from the old home town. But tobacco certainly comes next in the order of importance in away-from-home thrills.

With your favorite tobacco in your favorite pipe, life is worth living in almost any corner of the globe.

This thought was inspired by the following interesting letter from Mr. W. E. Bromley, Edgeworth smoker from Fort Wayne, Ind.:

Larus & Brother Co., Richmond, Va. Gentlemen: In some of your advertisements from time to time I have noticed letters from different users of Edgeworth Smoking Tobacco and I wonder if any of you ever had a more varied experience than I have had.

When in Valparaiso, South America, I could get it; and when I was as far south as a man could go without going to the "jumping-off place," I could get Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed.

I have an old briar that I had had for ten years and it never had a crumb of any had Edgeworth in it.

If that isn't going some, "you tell me." Yours truly, (Signed) W. E. Bromley.

If Mr. Bromley makes frequent skips from continent to continent, his record of keeping all tobacco but Edgeworth out of his briar is indeed noteworthy.

Although Edgeworth does reach the far corners of the earth, there must be times when the supply runs in Zanzibar and other remote districts.

But as a rule Edgeworth smokers, wherever they are, generally manage to find a way to get Edgeworth, for they don't feel as if they are really smoking unless the tobacco comes from a little blue can.

If you are not an Edgeworth smoker but would like an opportunity to find out if you are not, send your name and address to Larus & Brother Company, 66 South 2nd Street, Richmond, Va.

You will receive almost immediately free samples of both Edgeworth Plug Slice and Ready-Rubbed. Then you can judge for yourself what you think about this tobacco that so many smokers claim gives complete pipe-satisfaction.

If you will include the name and address of your regular tobacco dealer with your request for free samples, your courtesy will be appreciated.

To Retail Tobacco Merchants: If your jobber cannot supply you with Edgeworth, Larus Brother Company will gladly send you prepaid by parcel post a one or two dozen carton of any size of Edgeworth Plug Slice or Ready-Rubbed for the same price you would pay the jobber.

Fashion in Clocks. Not so long ago the bride was apt to receive ten or twelve clocks among her wedding presents. These were usually large, hand adapted to the "parlor" mantle. People needed clocks more those days than they do now in this day of wrist watches, yet clocks are still needed, but most of them are small and practically noiseless. Such clocks fill a real need on the dressing table, or a desk. The simpler ones are always in demand in the kitchen.

The relief that Sandy felt, and dismissed as selfish, was marred by the cordial understanding that had sprung up between the two. He wondered if they had discovered a real attachment for each other.

"I'll have to go first thing tomorrow," said Westlake. "I'm sorry, too. They've come up to my country-club. Bourke, and they want me to come on immediately. It means a lot to me. Everything," he added, with a smile that Molly returned.

"You'll write?" she said. "You promised."

Miranda broke in. "I'm sure glad it's good news," she said. "I've got some of my own. There's been trouble out to Jim Pillsoll's. He shot at Wyatt or Wyatt at him. I don't know which rightly. But there was a shot taken and a general rumpus. Several of his men quit or was run off the place. Pillsoll's ain't to sell out, Ed heard. It'll be a good ride."

"I'll have a telegram for you to take back, Miranda," said Sandy. "You send 'em, Westlake?"

"If you'll take it, Miss Bailey," Westlake said.

Westlake and Molly were both standing. They moved toward the door and out to the moonlit veranda together.

"They seem to hit it off well, that pair," said Miranda.

Kate Nicholson murmured something about the kitchen and left the room to attend to some refreshments. "Now tell me about Keith," demanded Miranda. "What's he been up to?"

Sandy told her.

"I ain't a mite surprised. That Westlake acts white. I liked him from the start. What are you going to do about Molly? You ain't told her yet?"

"No use spollin' her holiday here we have to," said Sandy. "I'm going to talk with Keith first."

Kate Nicholson returned and the talk changed. Westlake and Molly remained outside until the food was served. Then there was music. Miranda departed at last with the telegrams. Molly lingered as good-nights were said.

"I've got something to tell you, Sandy," she said. "It's private, for the present," she added with a glance toward Westlake.

Sandy sat down by the fire with a sinking qualm. Molly perched herself on the arm of his chair, silent for a moment or two.

"It's a love story, Sandy," she said presently.

"Westlake?"

"Yes. He wanted me to tell you before he went. He's very fond of you, Sandy."

"He?" Sandy spoke slowly, rousing himself with an effort. "I think it's a fine chap. I sure wish him all the luck in the world." He fancied a voice sounded faint.

"I suppose you wondered why we're so chummy all the evening?"

"Yes. I wondered a little about that. He didn't look at her, but gazed at her."

CHAPTER XVIII

Dehorned.

Miranda Bailey had offered to come in for Westlake with her car, but the train went early and he had refused. Molly drove him in the buckboard, his grips stowed behind, and Sandy saw them go with the old light back in his eyes. He gave Westlake a grip of the hand that made him wince.

"You can rely upon my information being correct," Westlake's last words, spoken aside before he climbed into the buckboard and Molly lifted the reins over the backs of the team shooting off at top speed.

She came back a little before noon, her eyes wide with excitement.

"Mr. Keith's in town," she said. "With Donald and his secretary, Mr. Blake. He asked me if Mr. Westlake had been here and he seemed annoyed when I told him I had just seen him off on the train. They all came from Casey Town in the big car. Mr. Keith has some business in Hereford. He and Mr. Blake will stay on their private car. He told me to tell you he would be out tomorrow to see you. Oh, here's a telegram for you."

"Thanks," Sandy tucked the envelope in his pocket. "Hop out, Molly, ain't I'll put up the team."

"I'll help you. I haven't forgotten how to unhitch." Her nimble fingers worked as fast as Sandy's with bundles, coiling traces and looping reins.

"Goin' to take Donald Keith out for a real ride on a real hawss?" he asked her.

"Yes. Tomorrow. He's keen to go. You'll come. And Sam and Kate?"

"I've got a hunch I'm goin' to be busy tomorrow. Keith's comin', for one thing."

"I forgot. I wish you could come." Molly went into the house and he opened the telegram. It was from Brandon, as he expected.

"Thanks. Coming immediately. Was starting anyway. That trap worked. May need horses for eight. Will you arrange?"

"BRANDON."

"It sure looks like a busy day tomorrow," Sandy said half aloud. "Keith and Brandon—which means roundin' up Jim Pillsoll. Sam don't get to any picnic, either. He'll have to 'tend to the hawsses'."

The Keith touring car arrived in mid-afternoon with young Keith at the wheel, the chauffeur beside him, grips in the tonneau. Young Keith inspected the corral and the stock with eager interest and the riders with a certain measure of awe, which he transferred to Sandy on learning that he had broken two colts that morning.

"Know what time your father expects to be out? Sandy yoked him.

"He didn't say. He's got some business to attend to. Some time in the forenoon, I imagine."

Keith Senior arrived after lunch had been cleared the next day. He was brisk and brusque, breathing prosperity.

"I was detained in Hereford, Bourke," he said. "I haven't much time for anything but a flying visit. Donald's out with Molly, you say. I'll leave him with you on your invitation and pick him up when we go back East. That will be in about a week. Sooner than I expected. I'd like to spare a day to look over the ranch. I've heard fine things about it."

"Thanks," drawled Sandy ironically. "Glad to have a talk with you, Sam. Mr. Blake might like to see the hawsses gentled that came up this mornin'."

Keith raised his eyebrows but said nothing. Leaving Blake, Sandy led Keith to his office, rolled a cigarette, offered a chair to his visitor and smoked, waiting for the latter to open the talk.

"There are some papers for you to examine, as Molly's guardian," said Keith. "But Blake has them."

"We'll take them up later. Anything else?"

"Nothing of great importance. I hear Westlake has been over here, Bourke. We had a misunderstanding. Sorry to lose him, since you recommend him. His opinion clashed with that of my engineer-in-charge, an expert of high standing. Westlake was overboarded and would not play being overboarded. There is no doubt that he was mistaken. He is a

He found it in Valparaiso

Then he headed north and found it up near the "jumping-off place"

No matter what part of the world you may find yourself in, few things make you feel more at home than to walk into a store and discover your favorite smoking tobacco for sale.

You get a great thrill from seeing your home newspaper in a strange land and an even greater thrill on meeting someone from the old home town. But tobacco certainly comes next in the order of importance in away-from-home thrills.

With your favorite tobacco in your favorite pipe, life is worth living in almost any corner of the globe.

This thought was inspired by the following interesting letter from Mr. W. E. Bromley, Edgeworth smoker from Fort Wayne, Ind.:

Larus & Brother Co. Richmond, Va. Gentlemen: In some of your advertisements from time to time I have noticed letters from different parts of Edgeworth's Smoking Tobacco and I wondered if anyone had had a more varied experience than I have had.

When in Valparaiso, South America, I could get it and when I was far north in a small town I could not get it. I have had a very varied experience than I have had.

If Mr. Bromley makes frequent trips from continent to continent, his record of keeping all tobacco but Edgeworth out of his briar is indeed noteworthy.

Although Edgeworth does reach the far corners of the earth, there must be times when the supply runs low in remote districts.

But a rule Edgeworth smokers, wherever they are, generally manage to find a way to get Edgeworth, for they don't feel as if they are really smoking unless the tobacco comes from a little blue can.

If you are not an Edgeworth smoker, you are missing an opportunity to find out if you want to be one, send your name and address to Larus & Brother Company, 66 South 21st Street, Richmond, Va.

You will receive almost immediately free samples of both Edgeworth Plug Slice and Ready-Rubbed. Then you can judge for yourself what you think about this tobacco that so many smokers claim gives complete pipe-satisfaction.

If you will include the name and address of your regular tobacco dealer with your request for the free samples, your courtesy will be appreciated.

To Retail Tobacco Merchants: If your jobber cannot supply you with Edgeworth, Larus Brother Company will gladly send you prepaid by parcel post a one or two dozen Ready-Rubbed or Plug Slice at the same price you would pay the jobber.

"Talkin' about what?" "His sweetheart. Now he can marry her with this opportunity. She may sell with him. Isn't it fine? He showed me her picture."

"It's the best news I've heard of a long time," answered Sandy soberly. "I'm sleepy," said Molly. "Good-night, Sandy, dear."

Miranda broke in. "I'm sure glad to hear of it," she said. "I've got some of my own. There's been trouble out to Jim Pimmsoll's. He shot at Wyatt or Wyatt at him, I don't know which rightly."

valuable man, under a superior, but he is intolerant." "He didn't strike me that way," said Sandy. "Me, I set a good deal on his opinion."

"I didn't imagine you knew much about mining, Bourke," Keith looked at his watch. "I'll really have to be going as soon as you have looked over those papers. Hadn't we better call Blake?"

Sandy looked out of the window. He saw Miranda Bailey's silver building by the big car, Mormon walking toward her, and wondered what had brought her over. Then he saw Mormon leave Miranda and come toward the office, bowing along at top speed.

"Excuse me a minute, Keith," he said. "My partner wants to see me." Keith's face wore a scowl as Sandy stepped outside. His conscience was entirely clear and he did not like the general atmosphere of the office.

He took out a cigar, bit off the end savagely and lit it. "Mirandy wants to see you," panted Mormon. "She's found out something about Keith that sure shows his play. He's been discardin'!"

The Keith chauffeur had wandered off to the corals where Sam was showing Blake around. Miranda handed Sandy a long envelope.

"Sure," said Sandy. "Spring what?" "I'm flustered," admitted Miranda. "I usually talk straight. Now I'll start to the headman. When Keith arrived on this trip he held quite a reception in his private car. Ed was there with the rest. He invited them up for cigars. Talked big about Casey Town an' generally patted himself on the back. Said it was too bad all the stock of the Molly was held locally, but of course the pore promoter had to have something for his money. He was real affable."

"This time, when he come back yesterday, he brings up the subject agin. I don't know how many he saw or just what he said, but this is what he told 'em. That Casey Town was boom'n' big an' that his own holdin' was nettin' him a heap. That he liked Hen fine an' had picked him out as a representative citizen. With a lot 'o' slush, the upshot of which was that he less him have a hundred shares of the Molly mine at par. Hen was to say nothin' about it because, says Keith, if it got out he was sellin' stock, it would send down the price of the shares. Hen was sure tickled. He said Hen had said a word about it only Ed picks these shares up out of the bed of the creek an' give them to Hen after he'd been fixed up."

"Ed went nosin' around hereforf this mornin'. He got eight men—their names is inside the envelope—Creel one of 'em—to admit they bought some shares. Mighty glad they was to have 'em. Ed didn't tell 'em anything different, but he come scottin' home at noon an' I borrowed Hen's certificate, seen' he was asleep. "Mirandy" said Sandy. "I'll let Mormon tell you what we all think of you. You've sure dealt me an ace."

He returned to the office. Keith eyed the envelope. "Blake coming?" he asked. "Not yet. When do we get another dividend from the Molly, Keith?" Keith laughed. "Needin' some ready money?"

"How about the dividend?" "Why, that depends upon the output. Keith's voice purred but his eyes had narrowed. "The output has been big. The Molly has been a bonanza, so far. I do not think it will always pay dividends according to the immediate production, however. It is better, as a rule, to average it, generally to develop the mine as a whole rather than work the first rich veins."

"That why you boarded up the stopes?" Keith's face grew dark. The veins twitched at his temples. "Look here, Bourke," he blustered. "You've been listening to some fool talk from that cub, Westlake. I know my business. You've got some stock in the mine, twenty-five per cent. I've put money and brains into it and I've got forty-nine per cent. Molly..."

"If you had forty-nine per cent I wouldn't be worryin' so much." "What the devil do you mean?" "I took you for a better gambler than to get mad," said Sandy. "I'll just ask you a question on behalf of myself an' partners' twenty-five per cent, an' Molly's twenty-six, me bein' her guardian. Plump an' plain. Is the Molly pinched up? How about it?" "It's a d-d falsehood."

"Then why you sellin' your stock?" The words came like bullets as Sandy whipped the certificate out of the envelope and stamped it smartly on the desk. Keith whitened, flushed again, recovered himself. "If I was not friendly to you, Bourke, I should take that as a direct insult. I can understand that you believe in Westlake and take stock in what he told you. But he is a discharged employee. He has every reason..."

"Sandy held up his hand. "He's a friend of mine," he said. "You may not know the mine's game—as you play it. In some ways it's gamblin', like playin' poker. I've played that a heap. I can tell pretty well when a man's bluffin', Mebbe you're losin' some of your nerve late..."

"I don't remember the names. Blake took the record of them," said Keith sullenly. "Then we'll have him in." (TO BE CONTINUED)

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL Sunday School Lesson

LESSON FOR JULY 22 JOHN THE APOSTLE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 9:49-56; John 19:25-27; 1 John 4:7, 8. GOLDEN TEXT—"God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him."—1 John 4:16. REFERENCE MATERIAL—Mark 13:24-25; John 13:21-25; Acts 4:13-20; 18:19.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Disciple Jesus Loved. SECOND TOPIC—John, the Beloved Disciple. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPICS—The Boston From the Jews. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Character Study of John.

1. His Intolerance of Irregular Service (Luke 9:49, 50). John was conscientious in his intolerance of this disciple. There seems to have been no question but what the man was really casting out devils, even though he did not possess the same credentials as the twelve apostles. There seems to have been no question as to the reality of the work which this disciple taught of the truth which he had. The same spirit has been manifested all through the Christian centuries. Whoever witnesses truly of Christ and does His work has God's recognition. Christ rebuked John's intolerance and declared that "he that is not against us is for us." May we everywhere show the same consideration to those who are doing the Lord's work even though they are not members of our particular church.

2. John's Righteous Indignation (Luke 9:51-56). 1. Jesus' Face Set Toward Jerusalem (vv. 51-53). He knew what the awful fate awaiting Him at Jerusalem. Even though the dark shadow of the cross hung across his path He resolutely nerved Himself for the ordeal. The cross was no accident. The supreme purpose of His coming was to save the world through His sacrificial death. This was in the plan of God from all eternity. The cross is the grand center of the Christian religion. Everyone who follows Jesus must take up his cross.

2. The Inhospitality Samaritans (v. 53). The Lord was to pass through that city on His way to Jerusalem. When the people discerned that His face was set for Jerusalem they refused to receive Him. This insult to the Lord so aroused the anger of John and James that they desired to call down fire from heaven to destroy the Samaritans. It was John's love for his Lord that prompted this suggestion. Christ rebuked him and corrected his spirit, but He knew that it proceeded from a heart of love. Love will brook no insult to its object. Mistaken love has done much harm in the church. The pages of history are red with the blood of heretics, to the everlasting shame of the persecutors. Persecution is not the way to deal with those who differ with us. The spirit is not only wrong, but it is futile, for the blood of the martyrs has always become the seed of the church. May Christ's rebuke to John take from our hearts the spirit of intolerance and revenge. Jesus came not to destroy men, but to save them.

3. John's Care of Christ's Mother (John 19:25-27). 1. Jesus Saw His Mother (v. 26). Perhaps His physical suffering had so dimmed His vision that He had not seen her before. But even His death agonies did not cause Him to forget her. While engaged in the redemption of the world, He displayed His tender human interest in this beautiful act. The cross is the center from which love flows.

2. John Took Mary to His Own Home (v. 27). The same John who wished to call down fire upon the inhospitable Samaritans now was engaged in the tenderest act of human affection. He was caring for the mother of his Lord. The reason Jesus entrusted her to John was that He knew his real heart of love. He knew that John's experiences were such that he could enter into full sympathy with her in her great sorrow.

3. Test of Divine Birth (1 John 4:7, 8). John's experiences in life were such that now near the close of his life he declared that the supreme test of fellowship in the divine life is love. Love is the bond of perfection—the cord that binds all virtues into one harmonious bundle. All the fruits of the Christian life spring out of this root. God is love. All that is good and beautiful in our lives is but the very life of God flowing through us.

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Brown County-- Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon J. F. Pattison by making publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the Justice Court, Precinct No. 6, of Callahan County, Texas, to be holden in the office of the Justice of the Peace of said Precinct in Cross Plains, Texas, on the second Friday in August, 1923, the same being the 10th day of August, A. D. 1923, then and there to answer a suit filed in said Court on the 13th day of June, A. D. 1923, said suit numbered 311 on the docket of said court, wherein Joe Shackelford is plaintiff, and Doctor J. F. Pattison and W. P. Strewbridge are defendants, plaintiffs demand being as follows:

Suit being for $175.65 on a sworn account for goods sold to and labor performed for defendants by plaintiff as shown by said sworn account filed in said cause and marked Exhibit A. Said goods and labor being furnished at the special instance and request of defendants and for the amounts set out in said account, that plaintiff has often requested defendants to pay said account, but they have refused to do so.

Suit being for judgment against defendants as partners and severally for $175.65 and for costs of suit.

Herein fail not, but have before said court on the first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand this 16th day of July, 1923.

P. SMITH,

Justice of the Peace Precinct No. 6, Callahan County, Texas.

Aug. 10th

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Clark, of Corbin; Mrs. Mary Yynette, of Dallas, and Mrs. M. M. Angell, of Dublin, visited Mr. and Mrs. Bob Back Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. B. W. Webb and family accompanied by Olán Adams, of Kress are here this week, visiting home folks and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Reiger announce the arrival of a fine girl, who arrived in their home early Wednesday morning. Mr. Reiger is all smiles and has already begun to present a "fatherly air."

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Westerman left Sunday for a few days stay at Glenrose. Mrs. Westerman expects to take a week or ten days special treatment while there and if her health is not improved may go on to Mineral Wells before returning home.

J. E. Henkel and E. W. Dennis recently purchased some lots in the northwest part of town. Last week Mr. Dennis moved his residence on his lots, and Mr. Henkel expects to build later.

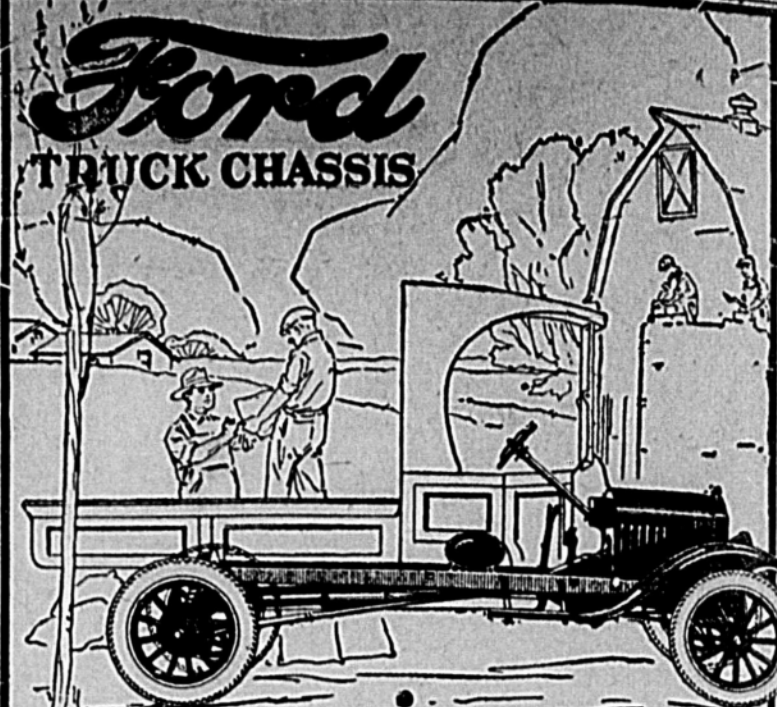

COTTON GRAFTED ON MULBERRY ROOTS, LONG STAPLE

A recent experiment at Galveston is remarkable—if true, and it must be, as the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News, so reports. They are grafting cotton on mulberry roots, with the result of an extra long staple. One grafted plant this season has 917 bolls and hundreds of squares. The bolls have from five to seven locks. The plant is 8 feet tall and 6 feet in diameter. This is remarkable discovery and may revolutionize the cotton industry at Galveston!

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Adams, Ralph Buckingham and Russell McGowan, were among the number who went to Baird Sunday.

Rev. Statts is conducting a revival at Dressy this week. A number attended the services from here.

J. B. Jones and family of San Angelo, were here last week, visiting friends.

Still Lower Hauling Costs

are open to every line of business because of the present price on the Ford One-ton Truck. This dependable form of motor delivery is in general use wherever hauling at low cost and good speed is essential.

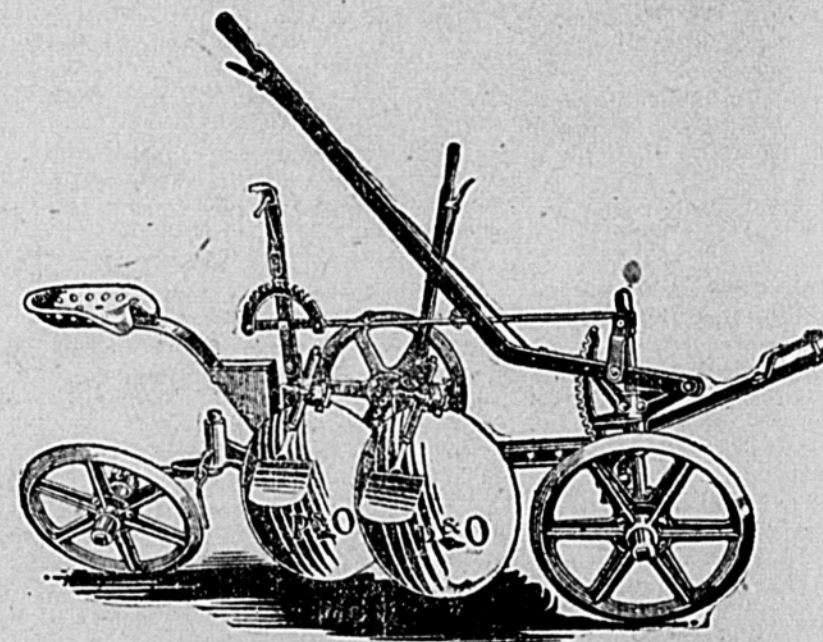

Original installation in your service costs so little and the subsequent saving in delivery cost is so great that further delay in putting a Ford One-ton Truck to work is needless extravagance.

List your order at once—a small down payment—convenient, easy terms.

WORK ON BRICK GARAGE BUILDING MOVES FORWARD

The big brick garage building, now under construction, and which will be the home of A. C. Dodson's Ford Sales and Service business, is going forward toward completion with a rapidity that is pleasing to note. This building's dimensions will be 120x50 feet, and will be modern and up-to-date, and when completed will be one of the finest and best equipped garage buildings in this section of the state.

BIG ANNUAL PICNIC AT COTTONWOOD, AUGUST SEVENTH

The Review printed an order for circulars this week, announcing a Basket Picnic at cottonwood on Tuesday, August 7th. All are urged to go and take a well filled basket. They will have ball games, Rodeo, and other entertainment.

Mrs. C. C. Crownover and daughter, Doris, of El Paso, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Causey.

CALLAHAN SCHOOLS MOVE FORWARD, ELECTIONS

School elections in five Callahan's school districts carried by substantial majorities Saturday, July 14th. They decided to advance their educational program, and they are going in a sane and logical way. The result of these five elections is significant, as it clearly demonstrates that there is a tendency favoring better schools. Callahan county has had a low rating, as her schools are concerned; last she seems to be stirred to a timely move—forward march.
