COUNTY FRUIT GROWERS PRUNING YOUNG TREES

Fruit growers in the county are now pruning young trees for shape and old trees so that spraying can be easily done, states W. M. Meador, County Agricultural agent.
Young peach, apple, pecan, and pear trees on the Frank Browning farm are pruned to three main limbs, spaced so that no weak crotches are present.
By following this method of pruning, young trees can be easily shaped and later sprayed for insect control. Trees having too many limbs make successful spraying impossible. Old trees will be pruned by removing those limbs which are dead and branches that come in contact. Where two limbs touch, a scar always occurs which affords ideal conditions for disease and insect habitation.

FREEZING RAINS COVER BIG PART OF STATE

A freezing rain storm which began Monday night and continued through Tuesday and part of Wednesday is believed to be one of the worst in many years. Traffic through this area was nearly at a standstill Tuesday. The weather became warmer Wednesday but rain continued throughout the state.
Several trees in town were broken an split due to the weight of the frozen rain on the branches.
Forecaster H. S. Kenney of Chicago said that such a condition rarely covered so wide an area or lasted so long. He explained it was caused by a layer of warm air aloft precipitating rain which froze as it neared or hit the ground where the lower air strata had not warmed up since the cold wave of Monday night.

LETTER RECEIVED IN COMMEMORATION OF SEABEES 3RD BIRTHDAY

A letter was received this week from C. E. Allen W.T.C. containing a letter that a Seabee prepared in commemoration of his birthday, December 28; a birthday everyone should help to commemorate, for they are doing a great job over there.

The letter received is printed hereunder:
"The third anniversary of the 'workingest, fightingest bunch of men' in the nations armed forces, the Navy Seabee, will be observed on December 28 by 240,000 officers and men of the United States Naval Construction battalions.

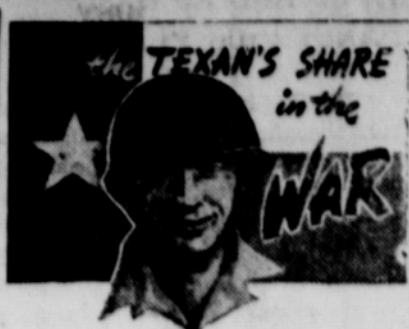

"Born just three weeks after the Pearl Harbor disaster, with an authorized strength of 3,000, the Seabees won their spurs at Guadalcanal and have been with the assault troops in every major American amphibious operation. They can now boast that they built the network of air and naval bases in the Pacific that pushed the Japs back 3000 miles; that they developed amphibious equipment and techniques that helped carry the day on the African, Sicilian, Italian and Normandy beachheads.

"Every commissioned Construction Battalion is either currently overseas or has completed a tour of duty; many battalions are on their second tours. Seventy-six percent of the Seabees are now outside the continental limits of the United States; only 3000 essential men have never seen foreign service."

"As General Douglas MacArthur wrote in a letter to Seabee Chief Vice-Admiral Ben Moreel, 'The only trouble with your Seabees is that you don't have enough of them.' Pat will be remembered here as the former tailor and we are proud to publish this letter from him showing us more of the task of the Seabees. We are mighty proud of them and their work and wish for them greater success in the coming year.

Pat's address is C. E. Allen W.T.C. 52 Naval Const. Batt., FPO, San Francisco, Calif.

Those having Christmas dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Elie Ensor of this place were Pete Walker and family of Lampasas, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hoover, and Bill Hoover and family of Burkett, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Byrd and family, and W. G. Ensor and family and Mrs. W. B. Ensor and son all of Eastland, and J. S. Gossett of Cross Plains.

Texans rarely are backward about advertising the old home state, but S-Sgt. Red Kimbrough of Coleman went one better when he landed in Southern France wearing a small Lone Star flag on his right shoulder. "It wasn't an affront to my country," said the veteran of Salerno, "but I've had many pals leave this outfit and I decided that it might make them happy to know that Red was going in there with Texas on his mind."

A "shuttle march" through France brought to Sgt. Gilbert Ricketson of Llano, among other things, a case of arthritis which sent him home for treatment. Some of the "other things" were the Purple Heart and the experience of seeing German troops surrendering in droves. "About all we had to do was walk out of line and a bunch of Germans would come over with their hands up," he told home-folks. "They had no leaders—they were just trying to get away. Our air forces had just cleaned them out."

Posthumous award of the Congressional Medal of Honor to Maj. Horace S. Carswell of San Angelo has been strongly recommended, by no lesser an authority on bravery than Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault.

Major Carswell died trying to land his badly damaged B-24 so that his bomber, without a parachute, might have a better chance to live. Hungrily and aggressively, said Carswell's group commander, Col. John G. Armstrong, "he waged war against the enemies of his country." Major Carswell's toll included a Japanese cruiser and destroyer, another Jap naval vessel sunk and others damaged. He made bombing runs from as low as 600 feet, Gen. Chennault pointed out in a glowing tribute.

Other Texas heroes of recent note, winners of the Silver Star for gallantry in action, included T-Sgt. Virgil O. Eckroat and S-Sgt. Theodore Duckworth of Pampa.

Sergeant Eckroat's feat was accomplished on the Italian front, after his company had been pinned down, shot up and badly disorganized by enemy artillery, mortar and machine gun fire. Eckroat assisted Gerald, Harold and Pauline Moon are home from Baylor for the holidays.

The wounded men, brought one to safety across a 100-yard stretch of exposed terrain and finally reorganized the remaining men in time to repulse a German counter-attack. Not yet through, he immediately launched a renewed attack on the objective.

Sergeant Duckworth's company encountered an enemy strong point in Brittany. The Texan led a volunteer detail of four men to the rear of the hostile position and directed such an effective volume of fire that an entire machine gun crew was wiped out and four prisoners taken. Sgt. Duckworth's company then moved on to its objective.

It wasn't funny at the time, but Sgt. Abner Spruell will get many a laugh with his story about "ears in the seat of his pants." The Waco sergeant sat down in a shell hole near Saarguemines. He was tired. But he didn't sit long, because he heard a whirring sound in an object just beneath him.

Sergeant Spruell jumped quick and he jumped far, and it was a good thing. He had been sitting on a German buttercup mine, which explodes three seconds after contact.

Sergeant Spruell figures he beat all existing records for distance travelled in three seconds. Even so, he got some strapped in his back.

THE Army Answers
Your Personal War Problems

Your questions on allotments, insurance, legal problems or other matters as they relate to Army personnel and their dependents will be answered in this column or by letter. Write Headquarters Eighth Service Command, Dallas 2, Texas.

Q. The Army did not know my brother's true age when his National Guard unit was federalized in 1940. If he told the Army that he was now 41, instead of 38 as the Army believes, could he get a discharge?

A. Overage is, of itself, not sufficient grounds for discharge. In the interest of accuracy, however, your brother should have his age corrected on Army records.

Q. I have moved since my husband went overseas last month. Will the Army get my new address from him, or should I inform somebody officially?

A. It is of the utmost importance that the next of kin of every person in the service keep the War Department fully informed on changes of address. Write the Adjutant General, War Department, Washington 25, D. C., giving both the new and old addresses. Also include your husband's full name, rank, serial number, organization and APO number.

Q. My son is in the Army overseas. I am sure he is still buying War Bonds every month, but the last bond mailed to me for him was for September. How should I go about checking on the bonds I should have received since then?

A. A new system of War Bond distribution requires notification from a soldier's unit overseas before the bonds are mailed. Bonds purchased overseas since September are mailed 30 to 60 days later than those bought previously. You should wait at least 90 days after the time you usually receive the bonds before writing to the Army War Bond Office, 336 West Adams Street, Chicago, Illinois, to check on them.
