CROP PROSPECTS IN THIS TERRITORY CONTINUE BRIGHT

Crop prospects in this section of the county continue bright, according to reports. Practically all of the farmers have their crops in fine condition and almost free of grass and weeds. The ground has been kept stirred to conserve the moisture and few crops are needing rain.

Maize is now heading and a big yield is assured if the weather continues favorable. Cotton is fruiting rapidly and most of it is beginning to bloom.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted and sympathized with us during the long illness and death of our father, J. O. Kidd. May God's richest blessings rest on one and all.

CROSS PLAINS BOOSTERS AT CROSS CUT PICNIC

Harrah for the boosters. We are never so happy as when we are together. We are never so close as when we are together. We are never so friendly as when we are together. We are never so holding and pulling together for the betterment of our town and community. Quite a number of our boosters accompanied by the Chamber of Commerce Band, made a booster trip to the Cross Cut picnic Wednesday. The band gave an hours concert after which Mr. Gwin, Secretary of Chamber of Commerce, spoke to the crowd.

Mrs. Harry B. Baker entertained several guests at a one o'clock luncheon Saturday to honor the birthday of her aunt, Miss Etta Grocer. A pretty color scheme was carried out in yellow and white with shasta daisies and yellow candles used on the table. A four course luncheon was served.

low site well, on the McC... just south of town, came in Wednesday night at 1400 feet; they have just touched the top of pay; it is thought when it is drilled in, it will be a gusher. Much interest has been manifested in the out come of this well, and now that it has proved to be a producer, much activity, in this section, is expected in the near future.

Just before going to press we learn that the well is flowing by heads every ten or fifteen minutes, it is estimated at about 300 barrels.

We were unable to get report on the Cross Cut and Burkett oil fields this week. We will give a full report next week.

Boomerang Proof

Robert W. Chambers, the only novelist in the world to pay a five-figure income tax, said at a luncheon in New York:

"Novelists are conceited. Some people declare they are modest but—"

"Well, any such declaration as that reminds me of two pretty girls who reclined in their bathing suits on the warm sands of Palm beach."

"So you're flirting with your Scrawler Scribbles, the novelist, are you?" said the first pretty girl. "I don't see how you can stand him—such a conceiteduffer as he is!"

"Conceited?" said the second pretty girl. "Conceited? My granddaught—er! Scrawler Scribbles is a model of a woodlark violet. My, I asked him last night who was the greatest living novelist in America, and he blushed, and bit his lip, and murmured confusedly that it wasn't for him to say."

Festival of C.d Music

A festival of the chamber music of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries is being given at Haslemere, Surrey, England. The program will include the works of Vivaldi, Corelli, and other composers of the period. The festival is being given in honor of the late Queen Victoria.

London Resumes Polka

Dances of twenty-five years ago have come back as one of the season's novelties in society. On these occasions the dancers wear costumes of the period. The polka, the mazurka, lancers and the barn dance have all been reintroduced with favor, and even that known as the Washington Post, danced to the march of that name, which is often heard on the London radio these days as played by England's best-known jazz orchestra, according to the New York World.

One of the first "quarter-century-ago" dances was arranged by Miss Belle Harding, a social favorite, who was attired in a black dress worn originally by her mother and which revealed a pink petticoat, considered a true symbol of Victorian days.

Interesting Anniversary

Abbotts Langley, a little village in Hertfordshire, England, is preparing to hold a commemoration this summer in honor of its most distinguished native son, Pope Adrian IV, the only Englishman ever to occupy the Vatican. A tablet is to be unveiled in the parish church to mark the fact that this pope was once a little Hertfordshire boy, named Nicholas Breakspear. A pageant will be held in the grounds which once formed the garden of the house in which Nicholas was born some four centuries ago. Being only an easy hour's motor-car run to the north of London, the village is expecting to entertain a large number of pilgrims.

Congress' Record for Laws

In sixty-eight sessions, covering 136 years of its existence, congress has passed 50,000 laws, or about 735 for each session, according to figures published in the Congressional Record. Of these forty-nine were unconstitutional.

H. L. Breeding and family, of Cotton Wood, visited relatives at Big Spring the past week.

Mr and Mrs. Barnett, of Cross Cut, were trading here the first of the week.

"ONLY CHILD" IS UNDER HANDICAP

Fated Not to Succeed Well in Life.

In a discussion of the "Influence of Early Environment on Personality," before the members of the New York Academy of Sciences, section of anthropology and psychology, Prof. William Ogburn of Columbia university presented the results of his research into one specific phase of the general subject, but added that some additional data were not quite ready for presentation.

Taking for granted that a repeated stimulus in the life of the child interests the personality of the child, Professor Ogburn expected to find some evidence of this factor in a study of family life. He therefore decided to study "the intelligence quotients" to see if they varied with the position of the child in its particular family; that is, to see in what manner the oldest child, the youngest child and "the only child" would be affected by the investigation.

He said that in this way he could study the emotional stability of the child, its achievement in school, and the teacher's estimate of the child's personality. His first consideration, he said, was to define the position of the child in its family, and in this proceeding he used fifty different categories, which included differentiations according to age, taking a period of five years as the dividing line, and also considering differentiations according to sex. But the data in the matter of the sexes had not been completed, he added.

Selecting "Who's Who" as a criterion of success, Professor Ogburn said that by analyzing the data given here in reference to the position of the child in the family, he might compare his results with the studies of Professor Brill and other workers in this field.

Three thousand names were selected at random, the professor stated, covering three separate lines of endeavor, namely, 1,000 artists, including painters, actors, musicians, authors; 1,000 scientists of all grades, and 1,000 of a more general classification, including statesmen, business men, journalists and others of "good mixing qualities." In these questionnaires, he said, the position of the individual in his family was requested.

There was no classification for families where there were only a few children. Of the 1,700 replies received, 1,000 were analyzed to see whether they were in "Who's Who" and appeared in the lists of "Who's Who" with the following results:

Of these families of "Who's Who" were found 577 individuals, who were the oldest children in the family, each of whom had a brother less than five years younger, and all of them living. 222 of them were in "Who's Who," making a proportion of 39 out of 100. There were 308 of these who were the youngest children with a brother five years older; 155 of them were found in the lists of "Who's Who," representing 50 out of 100. Regarding the intermediate children, that is, between the oldest and youngest, 729 were discovered and only 237 of these in "Who's Who." These results, Professor Ogburn concluded, seemed to favor the intelligence of the oldest child, with the youngest next and the intermediate child in last position. He found these data the most significant of the many categories.

Cannibals Still Exist

Until the recent murder of the Canadian explorer, Charles Penrose, in New Guinea, by cannibals, the fact that man-eating humans still existed was not generally realized. This tragedy, revealed authentic modern records of the cannibalistic tribes in the outposts of civilization. In New Guinea they live in the extreme interior where the country is thickly forested and the tribes are difficult to locate. No traveler has dared to go too far into this interior although neighboring tribes have given out information on their less sociable neighbors.

Mimic's Fun Ended

For some time at Pasadena, Cal., V. K. Fisher enjoyed his ability to imitate a police siren to perfection with his voice. He fooled the traffic policemen as he drove his car down the street at a terrific rate, emitting siren-like screeches. At each corner, the policeman would wave traffic to a stop and would give the youth the right of way. Fisher met his Waterloo when a motorcycle officer heard the siren and followed to see what was happening.

J. O. Kidd

Mr. J. O. Kidd, age 63, and a pioneer citizen of Cottonwood, died last Thursday, and was buried the following day in the Cottonwood cemetery. A large family of children survive him and his many friends and relatives will mourn his death.

On Monday night of this week, the thrilling picture, "Sinners in Heaven" was shown at the Electric Theatre and all ladies with long hair were admitted free. As bobbed hair has become such a custom with both the young and old, we would not think very many received passes, however, we are bound to confess our mistake for Dad Childs tells us the house was crowded and that 53 ladies enjoyed the evening's picture free of charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion N. Harvey entertained the 1925 bridge club at their home Monday evening. The house was attractively decorated with wild flowers and a delicious refreshment course was served. Three tables were in play and prizes went to Mrs. Harry B. Baker, Mr. Paul V. Harrell, and Mr. George M. Wilson.

Miss Hazel Dorr has been attending a house party at Medicine Park, Oklahoma the past ten days.

Mrs. C. W. Bailey, of Greenville, is visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Oak Lewis.

Fred Cutbirth and George Baum were visiting here Wednesday.

Modern Farming

In these days of Scientific Farming it is a pretty tough soil that won't succumb to modern farming methods.

Proper seed selection—proper preparation of the soil—careful cultivation—and crop rotation all go to make a larger crop and that is what makes farming pay.

This bank wants to see every farmer in this community prosper—if we can help you, let us know.

Vanderbilt Had Vision of Aviation, in 1849

Back in 1849, when most adventurous souls were yielding to California bonanza allurements, the original Cornelius Vanderbilt, he was not yet acclaimed as the commodore, wrote this note to a Kingston (N. Y.) editor who had been his Staten Island boyhood friend:

"Dear Johns: Of course, I can't take any long vacation like you write about. You come down to New York for a week. I will take good care of you at my house, if I do have to work shirt-sleeved all day, and we, anyhow, can have the evenings together. "Maybe I will find a way to show you how still some day we can find a way to do what your heart's set on, going out to the Pacific. I am working on something that's wonderful—not my own individual notion, but what a man who has been teaching school over at Hoboken has in his mind. Folks over there promised to support his ideas, but then turned and laughed at him. "I would mighty well like you to see him and talk with him. I have already backed him some and intend to keep along. He has a plan to make a real flying machine, and I reckon he is a pretty real calculator. "Well, John, if he does make good, you and I can be going to California soon in a proud way, not paddling down and round the Horn, but in our own wagon prancing up in the clouds across the rivers and looking down on the Rockies and reaching our landing right at Sutter's gold diggings, all in a few days, John. Instead of taking a whole summertime journey. "I wouldn't wonder if you will be bewitched, too."—Wall Street Journal.

Czar Described Self
as Master of Russia

Leningrad.—The Revolution museum has received an interesting document from the Moscow government. It is the census return which was filled in by the czaristic family in 1897. The answer of the then czar and czarina to the question, "What is your profession?" was: "Master and mistress of the Russian empire."

Both Swift and Sure Was Vigilante Justice

The Montana Vigilantes, who delivered that territory of such notorious gangs as Henry Plummer's in the '90s were nothing if not methodical in their self-appointed task. Besides Plummer's band of bad agents and murderers, to which a total of 500 fugitives from justice from all parts of the country.

In many places the lawless element was totally superior in force to the honest citizen group, which was driven to the establishment of a Vigilance committee to protect lives and property. Outnumbered as they were, the Vigilantes worked in secret and as mysteriously as possible; their principal tools were the mask and the rope. Some time during the night a white card always exactly seven by nine inches and bearing the numerals 3-7-77 in black ink, was pinned on the tent or tacked on the door of the desperado who had been sentenced to be banished at a secret meeting of the Vigilance committee.

The men who received such a notice knew whence it came and that it meant, "Pack up and leave within 24 hours or swing on the second night." If he had the least glimmer of sense he also knew the warning was no bluff.

The Vigilantes held no public trials, but if sometimes a mistake was made and the victim appealed for a review of the facts through certain channels, he was certain of a second hearing. In such a case a midnight tribunal was held which reconsidered and sometimes reversed the sentence. More often it reaffirmed the banishment with a second placard, against which there was no appeal. If the warning was disregarded, the lawless one found himself the center of a very interesting and determined crowd on the second night and he did not live to see the next sunrise.

The Vigilantes constituted themselves judges, jury and executioners all in one, and their trials were certainly short. Whenever a highwayman or murderer was caught, the leader of the Vigilante band would say:

"All in favor of hanging this man step to the right of the road; those who are for letting him go step to the left."—J. R. Johnston in Adventure Magazine.

Positive Identification

C. S. Collins, superintendent of the Identification Bureau of Scotland Yard, who has made nearly 500,000 finger prints of criminals and suspects, retired recently after 30 years' service in the London police department. From the finger prints on file in Mr. Collins' department some 200,000 identifications have been made, according to authorities, without a single mistake. "I would stake my life on the probability that there never will be finger prints alike, even if the world goes on indefinitely," Mr. Collins said recently in speaking of his work. During the next generation, he asserted, finger prints would be much more generally used everywhere, not only in the identification of criminals, but as a matter of record in births, and numerous other directions.

Opportunity and Thrift Are Brothers in Blood

One of the benefits of thrift comes from the fact that often the possession of a small amount of money at the right time marks the turning point in the possessor's life.

The world is full of instances of those who have found the way to great success when, through thrift, they were able to take advantage of some special opportunity for self-advancement.

Disraeli said: "The great secret of success in life is to be ready when your opportunity comes."

To those who are drifting along from day to day without getting ahead and apparently making no effort to do so, this advice should come with special force. Money should not be saved merely with the object of being ready for some great opportunity in life, but the fact remains that without saving and getting ahead there will never be opportunity for any progress whatever.

It also is to be borne in mind that opportunities for personal progress often come to those who, because of their thrifty habits, have gained the good will and confidence of some person who is in a position greatly to advance their interests.

Thrift brings its rewards in countless ways aside from the mere piling up of savings. One of these is the development of industry. The thrifty man is well organized; he is of the type that inspires confidence upon the part of the employees and executives who are looking for men to fill important posts.

The man who is thrifty can rest assured he is making no mistake. It may not be possible for him to look ahead today and see the advantages that will come from today's sacrifices. But the day of reward will arrive.

Thrift and opportunity are always on friendly terms.

Sting in It

Edward S. Harkness of New York, congratulated on his recent gift of $1,000,000 to Yale, laughed and said: "Philanthropists never like to hear any allusions to their philanthropy. These allusions are always well meant, but they are apt to show up to resemble the butler's speech more or less.

"The Daily Bountiful, famous for her earnings, once declared to her butler that if the townspeople persisted in their design of building a garage right opposite her bedroom windows she would leave the town.

"That's what I told 'em, ma'am," said the butler excitedly. "I told 'em that at the town meetin'." And I asked 'em, ma'am, if they wanted to lose the goose what laid the golden eggs."

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By HELEN ROWLAND

LAS, poor woman! She can please some of the men most of the time, and most of the men some of the time; but no mortal woman ever could please ALL of the men any of the time, nor ANY man all of the time.

A man's love has to be repeatedly wound up, like a clock; but once a woman's heart gets started, it is supposed to go on working, automatically, forever no matter how many shocks it receives.
