Proposal For Sewerage System Accepted By City Council

A meeting of the city council was held Wednesday morning at which it was voted to accept a proposal submitted by the Municipal Engineering Company of Dallas, whereunder they will make complete surveys, plans and specifications for the construction of a system of sanitary sewers for Cross Plains.

This action was taken after considerable investigation of various companies and plans of financing, and after negotiations with at least one other concern had failed to result satisfactorily to city officials. Preliminary surveys were begun Wednesday and it probably will require at least three days to complete this phase of work, after which this data will be taken to the Dallas office and as shortly thereafter as possible the detailed plans, specifications and statement of cost will be submitted to the city officials for their approval and for such modifications as they may deem advisable in order to best serve the interests of our town.

The proposed system will be standard in every respect, and will be of such capacity as to meet the needs of our town for many years to come. All plans for the system and disposal plant will be approved by the State Board of health before construction is begun. Details of the system and plan of financing will be published in next week's issue of the Review. We would advise urgently that our citizens read and familiarize themselves with the proposition.

FORMER CROSS PLAINS CITIZEN DROWNS AT ABILENE

G. T. Yarbrough, until about one year ago a citizen of Cross Plains, and Miss Evelyn Cate of Coleman, a student in the National Business College at Abilene, were drowned in Lytle Creek at a location in the suburbs of Abilene known as Cameron Dam, late Thursday evening of last week. The Abilene Reporter's mention of the tragedy states that Mr. Yarbrough accompanied by his daughter, Miss Ruby, and Miss Cate were about to enter the water of Lytle creek at Cameron dam, near the Texas and Pacific right-of-way, Miss Cate slipped and fell six or eight feet from the dam into the water and was dazed, Mr. Yarbrough, who was on the creek bank went to her assistance. According to Ruby Yarbrough, only daughter of the dead man and the only witness to the tragedy, her father had reached Miss Cate and was bringing the girl from the water when she ran for help.

When Miss Yarbrough and a man whom she found after running about fifty yards returned to the dam neither Miss Cate or Mr. Yarbrough could be seen.

A bruise on Mr. Yarbrough's head led to the belief that he stumbled and struck his head on a rock. Miss Cate's body was recovered immediately, but efforts to revive her were futile. Mr. Yarbrough's body was taken from the water about forty minutes later by Theron Funk, who went to the scene in an automobile in answer to a telephone message from a house near the creek to a local drug store.

Miss Cate's head and body were buried by the fall from the dam. She had been a student in the local business college for about nine months.

W. C. Cate of Coleman, the drowned girl's father, with J. N. Ferguson, in whose home Cate roomed at Abilene, and Mrs. G. E. Lawson of the National Business College, accompanied the body to Coleman Friday morning. Funeral services were held there Saturday morning.

Ernest Moore, contractor of Cross Plains, and husband of Mr. Yarbrough's niece, accompanied by others went to Abilene immediately after hearing of the unfortunate accident, and returned the body of the deceased here, which was buried in the Cross Plains cemetery beside the grave of his wife, who died here six years ago. The burial service was conducted by Minister George Mickey of the Coleman church of Christ.

Mr. Yarbrough is survived by four sons and a daughter, all residents of this community, except the son, J. B., age 22, who is in the United States Navy. Miss Ruby Yarbrough, 16, is in the Abilene Christian College.

Another double drowning occurred near Abilene the preceding Sunday afternoon. While bathing in Cedar creek, R. C. Milikin, age 21, and his wife, age 17, were drowned. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Dameron, who were with the couple, witnessed the tragedy. From their statement it seems that Mrs. Milikin stepped into deep water by accident, which was over her head. Her husband attempted to get her into shallow water, but through her frantic efforts she dragged her husband into deeper water and both drowned. Efforts, it is stated, were made within five minutes after the parties had drowned to resuscitate them, but all efforts failed.

ADDITION TO BE MADE TO C. P. SANITARIUM

Rev. S. P. Collins informs the Review that an addition will be built to the Cross Plains Sanitarium, the work to commence immediately. Eight rooms will be annexed to the east side of the present building, one of which will be a large ward room. This room will be used to accommodate many patients who are not financially able to occupy single or private rooms, but its occupants will receive the same efficient care and treatment that has been conducted at the institution since it opened a few months ago.

C. E. Bray, who has re-entered the race for sheriff, was in Cross Plains Wednesday, returning from a canvassing trip over the county.

GRAVELING HIGHWAY LINK THROUGH CROSS PLAINS

Another stretch of gravel and white clay, which is an excellent road surfacing material, and the next best that can be used in the absence of an asphalt surfacing was placed on the state highway through Cross Plains during the past week. The work of graveling will continue on to a connection with the hard surface road at the Eastland county line as fast as grading up the present road bed can be completed. We are informed that fifteen thousand dollars has been appropriated by the state highway commission to complete this unfinished link of a few miles through the Cross Plains section. The route of the highway through the town reaches Main street a few blocks south of the business portion, following Main street to the intersection of 8th street, thence to the Eastland county line, and is designated as State Highway No. 23. This gap is reported to be the only unfinished link in the chain from San Angelo to Fort Worth, via Rising Star, Cisco and the Bankhead highway.

JUDGE J. R. BLACK ENTERS RACE FOR LEGISLATURE

J. R. Black of Baird, and mayor of that city, has entered the race for representative of the 107th floratorial district, composed of Eastland and Callahan counties, as an opponent of County Judge Victor B. Gilbert, who announced some time ago, and has been making active campaign in the two counties. The date for the filing of candidates has eliminated Eastland county from having a candidate in the field for the democratic primaries, and the contest for the honor will be between these two life-long natives of Callahan county. They are both well known to the voters.

Walter Lee and family are visiting with S. H. Lee. While these visitors are there, Mrs. E. Barton, who is now in Chicago, will be with them Friday, for a visit before returning to Slaton.

DAN MOODY FOR GOVERNOR RALLY IN CROSS PLAINS

Judge H. N. Graves of Georgetown arrived in Cross Plains Saturday afternoon, and was the chief spokesman at the Dan Moody for Governor rally held in the large basement of the first Methodist Church at 8:30 o'clock. The rally was at hour during the closing of a busy Saturday trade, when a great majority of the business men who would otherwise have been present, could not leave their places, a large crowd had gathered to hear the speakers, and we doubt if a deeper interest was ever displayed at a political meeting.

The meeting was presided over by Rev. Tom W. Brabham which, at his request, was opened with prayer by Rev. S. Swimme. Rev. Brabham followed with a short talk, commending the character, prominence and honesty of purpose of Judge Graves, comparing them as identical with those of Dan Moody, and vividly explaining why, after a careful study of the candidates, he favored Moody for governor.

Judge Graves, amid cheers from the audience, was then introduced, and from the start of the Judge's speech it was obvious that the Ferguson administration was in for a vigorous skinning. Taking Jim Ferguson, in connection with nearly every branch of the present State government, he told of conduct, however true, why the Fergusons should not be returned to the governor's office. He contrasted the official conduct and records of Jim Ferguson with those of Attorney-General Moody, from what he stated to be true, and gave this as his chief reason for supporting the latter for Governor of Texas. He made no mention of the other candidates in the race.

MAN THOUGHT FATALLY HURT IN CAR WRECK STILL LIVES

Ed Brewery, head driller for Gladney-Bell Oil Co., of Santa Anna, who was seriously injured when his car left the road about midway between Cross Plains and Burkett early Sunday morning of last week, and who was twice reported in a dying condition at the Santa Anna Hospital, still lives and there is hope of his recovery. Nearly every rib was broken from the chest frame on the left side and two ribs were broken on the right side, together with other bruises, one of the broken ribs penetrating the lung. He was enroute from the oil field to Cross Plains in quest of an urgently needed piece of drilling machinery, and claims that the wreck is due to his having lost his sleep, stating he had fallen asleep on the car left the road, it is reported. The wreck occurred while he was speeding on a steep hill at two King place.

BAIRD STAR NOTES OUR IMPROVEMENTS

The Baird Star, which recently donned a linotype dress, of last week, noting the completion of our new building, and the fact that we want to be fashionable also by having ordered a linotype machine, heartily congratulate us on the improvements made. "The Linotype way" is the only way, our neighbor has learned, and states that hand composition, except on the large type in ads and the finer quality of job work is gradually being abandoned for machine composition. With a linotype in the Review office all three papers in Callahan county will be equipped with machines. Editor Butler of the Clyde Enterprise, led the way two years ago and put in a No. 15 linotype. As the Star states, with a machine one has a new dress for his paper each week. That is one advantage, but there are others that appeal to all printers, but nothing appeals to them more than a new type face, and that is what you get every week for news items with a machine. We appreciate your congratulations, Bro. Gilliland.

CANNIBAL MOUNDS WILL BE EXPLORED

Seek New Facts on American Man-Eating Indians.

Washington.—With the departure for the Louisiana coast of Henry B. Collins, Jr., ethnologist, the Smithsonian Institution initiates an exploration of an almost forgotten area of prehistoric life on this continent. The region, which extends westward from New Orleans, was the camping ground of the Attacopa and Chitimacha Indians. It has been overlooked by archeologists and nothing has ever been written about it.

Mr. Collins, who is assistant curator of ethnology in the National museum and whose expedition the bureau of ethnology is financing, will investigate the mounds in the area with a view of determining whether they are true mounds or mere shell heaps, and to collect bones, artifacts and pottery. So far all the pottery found along the gulf from Florida to Louisiana has been similar, indicating a cultural relationship among the peoples and suggesting a migration route.

Cannibal Tribe.

The Attacopa Indians were one of the few known cannibal tribes of the American continent. Whether they engaged in the practice for ceremonial purposes or for the love of it is not known. Other cannibal tribes were found in Cuba, Jamaica, Venezuela, Colombia and Brazil.

The Chitimacha possessed a much higher culture and seem to have been related to the Natchez. They had the same caste system—division of the tribe into nobles and proletariat—and their language is similar. It is interesting to note that caste was transmitted through the mother, so that a high-caste mother could bear high-caste children to a low-caste father, while the children of a low-caste mother must remain low caste no matter who was their father. Incidentally, one method of climbing the social ladder and entering a higher caste was to sacrifice one's relatives at the death of a noble.

Explore Choctaw Mounds.

From Louisiana Mr. Collins will proceed to Mississippi to continue excavations begun last year of Choctaw mounds. The old belief that these mounds were the work of some fanciful ancient race, entirely distinct from the American Indian, has long been exploded. It is now known definitely that they are the work of the ancestors of the Choctaw or related peoples, who built them as burial mounds or more commonly as platforms for the erection of their temples and the homes of their leaders.

The largest of these mounds is 100 feet high and covers an area of about 16 acres. When it is realized that the builders had nothing but crude sticks and stone implements with which to dig, and reed baskets in which to transport the dirt, the intensity of the religious feeling which could produce such a monument may be understood.

Built 5,900 Miles of New Roads in 1925

New York.—Motorists will have about 5,900 more miles of concrete road to travel over during 1926 than they had in 1925. Added to the 31,700 miles built in previous years, there are now approximately 37,600 miles of concrete on the highways in the United States outside limits of incorporated cities and villages.

The building of 5,900 miles of concrete highway in a single year establishes a new record and along with the improvement of many other miles of gravel and grading was no small job for the road builders. It involved the use of tremendous quantities of materials and the employment of a great army of workers.

A feature of the last year's highway construction activities was the efforts of the road builders to inconvenience the motorists as little as possible. In every way the policies of the state highway departments were to serve the highway user.

More attention was paid to detours around construction jobs. They were kept in good condition and were carefully marked so that the motorist could reach his destination with the least inconvenience.

Identify Fish

New York.—It is possible for a fish cast upon the waters to return. The federal fisheries people put some infant mackerel in Massachusetts water two years ago with identifying marks. One of them, just caught off Cape May, N. J., weighs one and one-half pounds.

Oysters Catch Cold; 600,000 Pearls Lost

Tokyo.—Because oysters, like humans, are subject to bad colds, a loss of more than 600,000 embryonic cultured pearls is estimated to have been suffered by pearl raisers of Ago bay near Nagoya.

Ago bay is the center of Japan's cultured pearl industry. Here tiny seeds implanted in oysters grow into rich necklaces. The season's drought is said to have caused the water of the bay to become extremely cold and the change in temperature, experts said, resulted in the parent oysters' catching cold and dying.

THIRTY-NINTH ANNUAL STATE FAIR OF TEXAS OPENS ON OCTOBER 10

Many New Features Scheduled—
Great $500,000 Auditorium to Be Dedicated.

Saturday, Oct. 10, is the date for the opening of the thirty-ninth annual State Fair of Texas, which, according to all indications, promises to be the most pretentious and complete sixteen-day exposition of Texas' development and growth—its capabilities and possibilities—that has been given during the nearly half a century of the State Fair's existence.

Among the principal features of this year's State Fair will be:

A seven days' race meeting, with five races daily, including three stake events; all races beginning at 2 p. m. and with twenty sensational circus and hippodrome acts given before the grandstand between the race events. The race meet dates are Oct. 10 to 17.

Old West Rodeo.

An "Old West" rodeo, to be given every afternoon, Oct. 13 to 25, inclusive, with first-magnitude rodeo stars in large number participating for the rich prizes and premiums to be offered.

Dedication and initial use of the new $500,000 Fair Park Auditorium, in which is to be presented "The Student Prince," a Broadway "Spectacular Operetta" success with the original company of more than 100. This will be offered each night, with matinees on Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday.

Also in the new auditorium, Clarence Eddy, dean of American organists, is to give daily organ recitals between 11 and 12 o'clock a. m. The dedication recital will be at 2 p. m. on Saturday, Oct. 10.

Every evening, before the grandstand there will be presented "Rome Under Nero," a stupendous fireworks spectacle, with the circus and hippodrome numbers as an extra added attraction.

Big College Night.

The All-College Circus and a night football contest will be offered in the athletic stadium on the night of Saturday, Oct. 17, and six football games of major class are scheduled for as many afternoons during the Fair.

The annual State Fair Poultry show will be held Oct. 10 to Oct. 19 inclusive, with the Texas Kennel Club Dog Show to follow in the poultry building, Oct. 23, 24 and 25.

Special Exhibit Train.

Two polo games are to feature the annual Horse Show, Oct. 20-21, inclusive, and a highly interesting and attractive feature for the live stock section of the grounds will be the famous "Blacklanders'" train of special Gulf Coast country agricultural exhibits. To stand on a spur track, built into the grounds, the train will be on exhibition throughout the Fair. Its location will be close to the poultry building.

Fifty or more counties will have splendid agricultural exhibits in the big Agricultural Hall; there will be a great display of the products of Texas manufacturers; members of the State association, and the annual State Fair Automobile Show in the Automobile and Manufacturers' building; complete and comprehensive demonstrations of the latest improved implements and agricultural machinery on Implement Row; a magnificent display of varied exhibits in the "Spanish Village"; a unique and interesting art display, with the varied work of Texas women in the Fine Arts building, and many other exhibits, demonstrations and displays throughout the 156-acre Fair Park, constituting the great State Fair grounds.

The new municipal radio station "WRR" will be in operation from its new location within the Fair Grounds throughout the 1925 exposition, and from another location three famous radio entertainers will be seen daily as they broadcast their programs.

Many improvements will be noted throughout the grounds, including largely increased parking facilities for automobiles.

SPECIAL TRAINS FOR STATE FAIR CROWDS.

Several special trains are to carry people to the State Fair of Texas, Dallas, Oct. 10-25, from different sections of the State. There will be a special from Mt. Pleasant, Oct. 16; one from Marshall, Oct. 13; another from Tyler, Oct. 18 and from Longview on Oct. 20, it is announced, with others in prospect. All railroads have granted special low rates on account of the State Fair.

"S-Y's" at State Fair.

The "S-Y's" are members of the "Silent Y" Club of the Dallas Y. M. C. A.—all deaf mutes. They have a special day at the State Fair, Dallas, on Oct. 17, and have invited relatives and friends from all over the State to meet with them.

Tyler Band at State Fair.

The Tyler Municipal Band, accompanying a big delegation from that East Texas city, is to give an open air concert at the State Fair of Texas, Dallas, on the morning of Sunday, Oct. 18, which is Tyler Day of the Fair.

A. Rudloff was a visitor at the Review office the first of the week. He called to renew his subscription, which he has not permitted to expire for a number of years. Mr. Rudloff reports that Mrs. Rudloff, who had been confined in the Santa Anna Hospital, receiving treatment for paralysis, had entirely recovered and returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Poly Williams have returned from a vacation trip to Houston, Galveston and other places of interest in the southern part of the state.

CARBON KNOCK

A CARBON KNOCK or motor detonation aside from being annoying greatly reduces power efficiency—combustion taking place before the complete rise of the piston. The mechanical method of correcting such knocks is to retard the spark which again reduces power efficiency. Many gasoline mixtures have been devised which in a way might eliminate the knock but oftentimes the remedy is worse than the ailment. In NO-NOX Motor Fuel we have the remedy without a single harmful feature—it positively takes the carbon knock out of the motor, and any motorist knows that this means easier and quicker acceleration, smoother running motor and More Power, less gear shifts and generally a more satisfactory operation of the car at a lower repair cost.

COLEMAN BATHERS TAKE ONE FROM CROSS PLAINS

The local base ball teams were contestants in three interesting games during the past week. Saturday the Bangs boys came over and crossed bats with them on the home diamond, but this game was rained out in the fifth inning. Sunday they went over and played the Coleman team, but a bad start proved their finish and the Coleman boys carried off the mits in this game. However, the Cross Plains team defeated Coleman in the previous Sunday game, and the play-off game will now be watched with greater interest.

Lee Champion, also champion vegetable raiser, as his recent donations to the Review office verify, of Cottonwood, brought in three onions this week, of the white Bermuda variety, that could be classed as prize winners in any agricultural exhibit. The three onions were of about equal size in comparison, of a delicious flavor, if the flavor of an onion can be classed as delicious, and the three together weighed four and one-eighth pounds. They were raised on his farm near Cottonwood. Mr. Champion recently brought in two turnips that were probably the largest ever raised in this county.

M. S. Moore has been employed to clean up the Cross Plains cemetery, the work commencing Wednesday of this week. Mr. Moore will receive pay for the work through public donations, and all who he could conveniently see have contributed, or agreed to do so. There are many who are interested in the work that he will not have time to see, and he requests they send to him the amount they desire to contribute or leave it at the Farmers National Bank.

CERTIFIED STOCK BEST FOR CHICKS

Persons who buy baby chicks should see to it that they are from tested stock, which affords protection against bacillary white diarrhea, advises the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment station. Otherwise a great many of the chicks are likely either to be dead on arrival or to begin to die soon afterwards. Many times the loss of shipped chicks is said to be caused by chilling, over-eating, or early feeding, when in reality it is due to bacillary white diarrhea.

The station has already tested over 45,000 breeding birds this season and there are still some to be tested. These birds will probably produce over a million chicks, or nearly enough to supply the state. Furthermore, they have been culled for type and egg production, which also makes for better chicks.

Bacillary white diarrhea is transmitted to the young chick through the egg produced by infected breeding stock. Little can be done if the disease makes its appearance, as the losses usually continue until the chicks have outgrown the most susceptible period. If only one chick has been infected through the egg this chick may serve to infect the others in the brood. Strict regard for sanitary measures and the feeding of milk products may keep the loss down somewhat. The disease is prevented by using hatching eggs produced by breeding stock that is free of this infection. Infected birds are detected by means of a blood test.

Those who are interested in buying chicks from tested flocks may obtain the names of owners of various breeds by writing to the Experiment Station, New Brunswick, N. J., or the State Bureau of Markets at Trenton, N. J. Such chicks may, in some cases, cost a few cents more than the regular price, but they are worth it.

Chicks Prompted to Eat

Dirt by Abnormal Taste

It may be an abnormal taste in chicks which prompts them to eat dirt, but clean dirt will do them no harm and seems to satisfy a craving. Give them a sod every day, roots up, and see how the little things love their miniature jungle.

Dirt which is taken up with food is another thing. If the practice is to feed on the ground the food quickly becomes foul and may be poisonous to the chicks. The modern method with baby chicks is to give all feed from clean boards and water in vessels that cannot be polluted, and are chick proof. A chick has the faculty of drowning in a very little water, accessible through a very small hole.

Ohio's Big Ten Rules

Ohio poultry experts and farmers have worked out ten rules for the successful raising of chicks. They are: 1. Hatch early. 2. Prepare the brooder house and move it to clean ground. 3. Provide sufficient brooder house space and large enough stove. 4. Do not feed chickens too soon. 5. Feed a wholesome, complete ration. 6. Feed large amounts of milk. 7. Provide green feed liberally. 8. Get chicks outdoors as soon as possible. 9. Rear young stock away from the old. 10. Separate cockerels and pullets as soon as possible.

Poultry Hints

Sanitation is the most important factor in raising poultry.

Most of the roup and colds in the poultry flocks are due to poor ventilation.

Hens must be kept in a good healthy condition if they are to produce eggs.

Bread soaked in milk and squeezed out nearly dry makes a good starter for young turkeys.

To get high-grade results from your chickens you must expect to give them high-grade attention.

The good type hen is strong, vigorous and capable of standing the heavy strain of continued egg production. Her head is neat, feminine, with no extra flesh.

Though some consider it an unnecessary drudge and extra work, it pays to keep records on the poultry flock.

To prevent egg eating, gather the eggs often and have the nests darkened so the eggs are not easily seen.

While the egg production of pullets is higher, as a rule, than that of old hens, old hens may possess qualities desired as to be profitable to keep them over several years.

Marathon

A FEW years ago a young Canadian achieved fame by running from Marathon to Athens, and winning the classic "Marathon Race." But not every one knows why that race is classic and how and when it was first run.

One September morning, in 490 B. C., 11,000 heavily armed men lined the crescent-shaped foothills of Mount Pentelicus, overlooking the sea. Between hills and sea lay the plain of Marathon, six miles long and two in width. This plain, to seaward, was alive with a carnival of barbaric color. One hundred and ten thousand Persians were encamped there, while the six miles of beach and harbor were choked with their warships. They were invading Greece, and the only obstacle to their triumphant progress was that handful of Athenians on the hills, just one-tenth the size of the Persian force.

Greece, in those days, was made up of a number of small states, more or less independent of each other. Athens was not only a city, but a state, and represented the highest form of democracy the world had then known. It was divided into ten communities or districts, each ruled by the people, and each furnishing a general for the army. Each of these generals was in full command for only one day at a time.

Persia was then the strongest despotic power on earth. Vast in wealth and resources, it was ruled by an emperor, Darius I, who reigned with absolute sway. Athens, Sparta and one or two other Greek states alone refused him submission. Hence, according to the Imperial will, Athens and the other rebels must be crushed. A fleet of 1,200 ships, bearing 110,000 Persian fighting men had landed at Marathon, less than thirty miles to the northeast of the Athenian capital. Thither, to oppose the invasion, the ten Athenian generals hurried all the men that could be mustered at such short order. Miltiades was Greece's greatest soldier, and the other generals wisely surrendered their "days of command" to him.

The fate of the world hung in the balance. Greece represented all that was highest in art, culture, government and civilization; Persia, all that was barbaric, despotic, non-progressive. A Persian victory must mean a setback of centuries in progress.

While the Persians waited, lazily considering the easiest means to attack their puny foe, they were dumbfounded to see the 11,000 Greeks rush at full speed down the slopes and into the plain. Spread out in a thin line, so that they could not be outflanked, and shouting their wild battle hymn, the heavily armed Greeks—athletes all—ran furiously across the mile of level ground at the base of the mountain and hurled themselves on their unprepared enemies. Through the looser, more lightly equipped Persian lines the two Athenian wings bored their way. The Greek center alone gave back before superior numbers. The wings then whirled and, reinforcing the center, again tore through the Persian ranks. The invaders, panic-stricken, fled to their ships. And there, in the confusion of embarking, a second and fiercer fight waged. The Persians got to sea at last, leaving more than 6,000 dead and seven captured galleys in the victors' hands. The Greek loss was but 192.

Fearing lest the baffled foe might sail to the harbor of Athens and take the city unawares, Miltiades sent a swift runner to bear a warning and the news of the victory. Thus was the first "Marathon" race run. Thus, too—against odds of ten to one—was civilization saved.

Ten years later Xerxes, son of Darius, sought to wipe out his father's disgrace by invading Greece with an army of more than a million men. As the mighty host lay encamped before him the Persian monarch wept aloud at the thought that within a century the entire million or more would be dead. Eight hundred Persian warships entered the Gulf of Salamis. There they were attacked and routed by a far smaller Greek squadron.

A mighty land force of Persians, meantime, had invaded Greece, conquering, burning and slaying as they advanced. The only road from southern to northern Greece lay through a narrow pass, Thermopylae by name, between a steep mountain and a marsh. Here the Spartan king, Leonidas, gathered about 5,000 men from Sparta and other Greek states to block the invaders' way. For two long days the Persians hurled their vast legions against the dauntless 5,000. On the third day, through a traitor, a secret road over the mountain was revealed to them and over this they marched an army to hem in the Greeks on both sides. The defenders, hearing of the approach of this flanking party, for the most part fled. But Leonidas, with 700 Spartans, stood his ground. Though they could no longer check the invasion, they could and did oppose it till all save one or two lay dead. It was one of the most heroic defenses in history, and the names of the men who thus died were immortalized throughout all Greece, while the survivors were treated with contempt and their relatives went into mourning for their shame.

In this way, more than two years ago, Democracy defied the Persians.

MOSTLY ABOUT FOXES

Mr. and Mrs. Wolf were still talking about the days when they were free. "We had a fine old time," said Mr. Wolf.

"We had a fine old time," said Mrs. Wolf. "You must tell us many stories about those days," said the little zoo wolves, "for we weren't at those parties, you know."

The big wolves promised they would tell the little ones stories, not only of days gone by, but of nights gone by.

The little ones' eyes looked so bright and happy whenever it came time for an adventure story by Mother Wolf or Daddy Wolf, for oh, they had such wonderful, such terrible times, and they had always been so devoted to each other and had shared their good times and their dangers together.

But the Red Fox next door was talking now.

"I can't help talking about how clever I am," he said.

"It isn't because I am conceited, but I just love to tell of the fun I've had fooling people when I was free."

"Tell us something more," urged the little foxes when the Red Fox stopped.

"Well," said the Red Fox, "I will, for it is funny to think how smart we are and that we can live where dangers are all about and yet escape them."

The little foxes shivered for they were nervous at the word "dangers."

Their home had always been in the zoo and they really did not know anything about dangers.

They liked to hear about them, but sometimes even hearing about them made them nervous, for they were nervous little creatures.

"We haven't been particular about where we had our homes," said the Red Fox.

"Some of our families have lived in Alaska and some near the Arctic ocean where it is very, very cold."

"Even that doesn't half describe how cold it is up by the Arctic ocean."

"But it is so cold that you can hardly believe how cold it is!"

"We've lived north and we've lived south and we've lived east and we've lived west."

"We, as a family, have not been so fussy about living in just one spot, or two spots or three spots."

"We have been known to get out of the way of dogs. We have steered clear of cruel traps."

"We have not tasted of bad poison and we have not been driven out of the way."

"To be sure, some of us have met with accidents, but these are few."

"For we can look out for dangers."

"Our family has been trained to do so for years, and we can get chicken breakfasts without the farmers getting us!"

"If they think up new ways of catching us, we think up new ways of not being caught and of steering clear of their cruel traps and their plans and their schemes."

"Oh, it's fine to belong to the Red Fox family and to feel that we're clever enough to be all around in so many places, near human beings, too, and yet that we can hold our own, win our own battles, look after ourselves, and that we always will."

"For we'll be around in years to come in freedom as well as in the zoo."

"Of course, when I speak of all the places we have been I mean various members of the family have been in these various places."

"You understand, don't you, little foxes?"

And the little foxes looked out of their bright, bright eyes, and said:

"Oh, yes, we understand. And we do love to hear such fine things of the Fox family."

Not Afraid of the Pup

The mother of the five-year-old twins next door to us has been trying to make them lose their fear of dogs.

The other day our six-months-old pup ran into their yard. The twins immediately ran on the porch.

"What is the matter?" said the mother. "You aren't afraid of that little puppy, are you?"

"No," said one of the twins; "we just want to give him more room to run in the yard."

Great Personages of the Bible

By REV. LEONARD A. BARRETT

Zaccheus

THE tax-gatherer was not a very popular person. Zaccheus was a gatherer of taxes. His headquarters were in Jericho. His task was to estimate values and make reports of all incomes to the government. He was a very rich man and lived the life of an aristocrat of his time. Zaccheus was an average man. There is nothing unique about him. Were it not for the incident of his climbing up a tree in order to see Jesus pass by, doubtless we would never have heard of him. The most interesting thing about him is his curiosity. He was an active, energetic and ambitious man, unusually successful for a man of his times. He will be known especially for his ingenuity and inquisitiveness.

The occasion which attracts our attention to him was the visit of Jesus to Jericho. As usual, a large crowd of people surrounded Jesus, and Zaccheus, because he was little of stature, would not be able to see over the heads of the people. He, therefore, resorted to the ingenious idea of climbing up in a tree and from that height would find no difficulty in seeing Jesus as He passed by. Zaccheus was not prompted to this act by any special loyalty to Jesus, nor even by the spirit of reverence. He was impelled by the spirit of curiosity. His only desire was to see Jesus.

The trait of curiosity is not uncommon. It is one of the important characteristics of our own age. This fact, in part, explains the marvelous success of the moving pictures of our own time. The most important and effective method of bringing into consciousness an object is through the eye. Hearing is not so effective a channel of information as seeing. A person remembers what he sees far better than what he hears. An eye trained to see the beautiful, lovely and good is a powerful factor in the development of character. An eye accustomed to see only the evil and grotesque is destructive to the development of character. Human life is like a mirror, in which one sees reflected what lies deepest in one's own experiences. The evil without responds to the evil within. Good from within answers to the good without. Eyes are windows through which there shines out what lies within. What a person desires most to see explains the kind of disposition and character one possesses. Zaccheus was at heart essentially good, as evidenced by the object of his curiosity. He wanted to see Jesus about whom everybody was speaking. His curiosity brought him success. He succeeded in his unique adventure. Never having seen Jesus before, he must have been greatly astonished and perhaps a little bewildered when he heard Jesus asking him if he would permit Him to be his guest. "Today I must abide at thy house," Zaccheus lost no time in climbing down from the tree. He hastened to Jesus and assured Him of a hearty welcome to his home. This experience worked a change in the standards of value by which Zaccheus judged the important things of life. Before this experience with Jesus he doubtless was much concerned with what the opinion of the populace might be concerning Him and His achievements. The standard of success or failure was the opinion of the crowd. If they applauded he was content. To obtain their favorable judgment was his chief concern. Success or failure in his adventure was determined by the mind of public opinion. The change which occurred in his heart is evidenced by the effect the visit of Jesus had in his life. This experience also shifted the seat of the judgment of values from public opinion to the ideal which he recognized in Jesus and which he accepted as his own. Human experience has shown that the former is evanescent and artificial; that the latter is real and abiding, and brings to one the true success and contentment in life.

Australian Songsters

The Australian output of singers has been unusually large during the last half century. Meiba was the first whose patriotism caused her to assert herself as an Australian, and Amy Sherwin and Ada Crossley were other fine singers who identified themselves with the country of their birth, much to its advantage. Lately the tide of incoming artists has swelled high. The fact that the British National Opera company recently included from Australia and New Zealand, Rosina Buckman, Florence Austral, Gertrude Johnson, Elsie Treweek, Clara Serena, Fred Collier, Browning Mummery and some others, says an English critic, raises the question whether there is any reason to hope that the British race in Australia is likely some day to rival Italy as a voice producer.

Fickle

When Herbert Spencer was in this country, a great dinner was given him in New York, at which many significant speeches were made, and the most significant and eloquent of all was by Henry Ward Beecher. Afterward a pompous and enormously conceited physician ran up to Beecher with this exclamation, "Beecher, you are the greatest man in the world," to which Beecher replied, with biting sarcasm:

"My dear doctor, you have, for the moment, forgotten yourself,"—Christian Register.

Says Mrs. Wolcott—All the Terrible Aches, Pains and Sour Bile Sickness Gone.

Like many other folks thereabouts, Mrs. Wolcott was a picture of misery. She says: "I was ghastly white as cotton, all thinned out, bilious all the time, terrible headaches, bones creaked as if they would snap apart, ached all over, could hardly walk or lift an arm; had been taking calomel steadily, and it made me so deathly sick I was completely discouraged. Then one day my cousin who lives near the state line, came on a visit and she had a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. My! what a change. It gave me new courage. We sent to town for two bottles, and since then my face is filled out, with a ruddy glow. Gained over twenty pounds and am the picture of health. Whenever I feel bilious or constipated I take a dose of Dodson's Liver Tone and it works just fine."

KIEL-NOW DESERTED; POMP ONCE REIGNED

Defeat Most Clearly Shown in Once-Famed Port.

Kiel, Germany.—Nowhere would the Kaiser, were he to return to his country, find a more poignant contrast between the present and the past than in Kiel.

William II was the creator of this powerful naval fastness, with its huge docks and all the apparatus of ship-building and repair. He was the builder of the formidable fortifications defending the sea approaches. This was the scene of some of his great moments when as commander in chief of the fleet, he steamed into the harbor as rounds of applause poured from dozens of guns.

All Is Deserted. Today the harbor looks empty. The forts are partly dismantled. The naval academy is closed. The castle in which Prince Henry, the Kaiser's brother, lived is an office building. The yacht clubhouse, presented by the elder Krupp, is now a scientific institute. It was there the Kaiser, surrounded by his admirals and generals, made many an utterance that caused flutters in foreign chancelleries. Everywhere are suggestions of decay and neglect and change.

The Kaiser has not been here since that afternoon of June 28, 1914, when he was occupied with arrangements respecting the regatta. An aid delivered a dispatch, saying that Archduke Franz Ferdinand and his wife had been assassinated at Sarajevo.

"Now, I must do everything over again," were the emperor's first words. Flags were ordered half-mast. He terminated the regatta, sent messages to Winston Churchill, who was on an English boat in the harbor, to the prince of Monaco on his yacht and to others invited to dinner that evening, composed a telegram to Franz Joseph, and took a special train for Berlin.

Prince Henry comes to Kiel occasionally but not often since he left it in a closed automobile flying a red flag when the revolution broke here in the early days of November, 1918. This manner of leaving is the subject of adverse gossip among the townspeople. They say also that his democratic manner which made him a popular personage has changed; that he is now distant, brusque, somewhat bitter in speech. The prince lives on his estate, Hemmelsmark, near Eckenforde, not far from Kiel. The sailor-prince has become greatly interested in his farming and stock raising and shows his visitors fine cattle with as much pleasure as he formerly took in the equipment of his flagship.

Flag Hauled Down. The war appears to have placed the United States rather outside the prince's sympathies. An American yachtsman living in Hamburg, who is a member of the Hansa Yacht club, after the treaty of peace was signed, flew the American flag above the Hansa pennant, having first obtained a letter of assent from the club's secretary. Prince Henry was displeased and some of the club members questioned the propriety. The American explained that although the club authorities had approved of the American flag, he would remove the Hansa pennant and hoist that of the Royal Danish club, of which he also was a member. That he did.

Representatives of American automobile companies, members of the Hamburg Automobile club, were a little annoyed over the prince's insistence in his speech at the opening of the new clubhouse, that good Germans should not buy foreign cars; that the money went out of the country and that German cars were all right.

The prince at one time drove an American car. However, the prince is described as having the most agreeable recollections of his American experiences, of his cordial receptions, and of the successful political effect, as he believed, of his mission.

Ship's Doctor at Sea Aids Injured Priest Ashore

Montreal.—The increasing uses of radio were clearly demonstrated recently, when the C. G. M. M. steamer Canadian Forester, by a constant interchange of messages between the ship's doctor and a shore station, was able to render valuable medical assistance to the parish priest of Clarence town, Long Island, Bahamas. According to the story, as relayed to the Canadian Marconi station here, the Canadian Forester while at sea received an urgent call from station GOM for the service of a doctor. There was no doctor on the island, the message said, and the parish priest had fallen from a horse and injured his leg.

The steamer carried a doctor, but it was unable to get to the island, so the wireless operator was directed to ask the shore station for further particulars about the priest's injuries and to stand by for instructions. A message soon came back to the ship that the parishioners were standing by to render what aid they could. The ship's doctor, standing beside the wireless operator, then gave the shore listeners definite instructions as to how to proceed.

A week later, as the Canadian Forester was homeward bound, the doctor received a wireless message from the Bahamas informing him that the wireless prescriptions had been followed to the letter and that the patient was making satisfactory progress.

PANAMA CANAL IS NOW MAKING GOOD

"Big Ditch" Earns $15,000,000 for Government.

Washington.—With another good year's record in sight, the Panama canal has apparently reached a basis that will yield the United States government $15,000,000 or more each year. The steady growth of the "big ditch" joining the Atlantic and the Pacific leads government officials to predict that it not only will pay for itself but also prove one of the best investments of the government.

With receipts for the fiscal year exceeding $19,000,000, the canal has two months to go to pass the 1925 tolls of $19,021,419.77. The Panama railroad, power plant, and other business adjuncts also are showing handsome profits.

The canal, following a period of uncertainty after its completion in 1914, now is earning money at the rate of 6 per cent on the investment. Most of the funds with which the canal was built were derived from government loans bearing 2 or 3 per cent interest.

The net cost of the canal and its adjuncts is figured at $266,000,000, and net earnings for the last two years have exceeded $15,000,000. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, net revenues were more than $17,000,000.

The business of the canal has increased six-fold since the first fiscal year, which ended June 30, 1915, the net tonnage increasing from 3,792,572 to 22,855,151 tons.

American shipping has gradually taken first place in use of the canal. During the first year American and British tonnages were almost the same. At present American tonnage is more than double the British.

Tonnage of commercial vessels of the largest users of the canal during the last fiscal year were: United States, 12,271,487; England, 5,949,391; Japan, 623,869; Norway, 672,663; Germany, 723,067.

Gorillas Seize African Women; Troops on Trail

Madrid.—A Spanish military expedition under the leadership of General Munez de Prado, tracing the frontiers of Spanish Guinea in Africa, reports that large bands of enormous gorillas are terrorizing the natives.

Above the cataraacts of the Benito river near Otocho, the gorillas have raided the villages and have captured native women, whom they are keeping prisoners in the dense jungles around the town.

Nightly the women's screams are heard by the villagers, who are afraid to seek to rescue them. The general announces he is preparing an elaborate military expedition to rescue the women and to kill or to capture the gorillas who also are devastating the plantations.

The Spanish government has instructed the leader to capture the gorillas alive wherever possible for research on the Voronoff gland experiments.

Breaks Precedent

Boston.—The Hub has broken an other precedent. For the first time in its history, a woman, Miss Myrtle C. Dickson, has been appointed principal of a high school.

Russian Women's Feet Lost in American Shoes

Moscow, Russia.—Twenty-five thousand pairs of American women's shoes recently shipped into Russia have proved unsalable because of their large size. Next to the Japanese and Chinese, the Russian women have the smallest feet in the world. The 25,000 pairs of discarded shoes will be shipped into Poland, where the women are said to have considerably larger feet than their Russian cousins.

AMERICAN TO STUDY RICHEST OF MINES

Mexican Wealth Producer Over 400 Years Old.

Washington.—The mines which gave their wealth of gold and silver to the Toltecs of Mexico when the Spanish conquistadores discovered them 400 years ago, and which have produced unceasingly since, will be included in a mineralogical survey on which a Smithsonian geologist left Washington recently.

Dr. W. F. Foshag, assistant curator of mineralogy and petrology in the National museum under the Smithsonian, will make the survey under the auspices of the institution and of the mineralogical department of Harvard university. He will go to Chihuahua, Durango and Coahuila and other important mining regions of northern Mexico, as time permits. In spite of the great age of and great wealth produced by Mexico's mines, no one has ever described the mineralogy or geology of the region. Even collections are rare. Doctor Foshag will help to remedy this lack.

Richest in World. The richest silver mines in the world are at Guanajuato, 12 hours by rail from Mexico City. In historical times it has produced nearly a billion dollars' worth of metal. The Comstock lode in Nevada, which was the richest deposit in the United States, produced $340,000,000 in the 30 years of operation.

The great main shaft upon the Veta Madre vein at Guanajuato is one of the mining wonders of the world. It is 30 feet in diameter and 1,700 feet deep. To the depth of 300 feet it is lined with masonry, but for the remainder of the distance the rocks are firm and do not require timbering or masonry. The reason for the great width is to permit eight or more windlasses to be worked at once.

Until comparatively recent years these great mines had no machinery. Even the water was baled out of the shafts in cattle skins to be dumped. Production has therefore been slow, which accounts for the long centuries of operation.

Discovered by Convicts. Two escaped convicts discovered the Santa Eulalia mines in the mountains south of Chihuahua, where Doctor Foshag will go first, in 1703. Not daring to return to civilization, they sent Indian carriers to a priest with the request that he intercede with the government in their behalf. They promised that if allowed to go unmolested they would build the "finest cathedral in the western hemisphere." The bargain was struck and Chihuahua cathedral is the result—admittedly one of the finest specimens of Spanish-American architecture in existence.

Doctor Foshag has an invitation from the governor of Durango to make his survey of that state and has been promised aid in getting collections and information. He will inspect particularly the large gold, silver, copper and iron mines, and possibly the opal and tin mines, studying modes of occurrence of the ores, minerals in the ores, and, if possible, how they were formed.

Offers Timely Safety Hints for Swimmers

Chicago.—Some timely safety suggestions for swimmers are contained in a bulletin issued by the National Safety council, which says:

Don't swim if you have heart trouble.

It is advisable never to go in swimming alone.

If you are tired or overheated don't go in the water.

Wait at least two hours after eating before going swimming.

Dive only where you have accurate knowledge of the depth of the water.

Swimmers should not become exhausted. If you have overestimated your strength, rest on your back until you feel strong enough to swim ashore.

Do not struggle if caught in a swift current or undertow. The force of the current will bring you to the surface and then you can work in toward shore.

Be sure to learn the prone pressure method of resuscitation. Be capable of applying first aid methods to people who have been apparently drowned.

Gwinnette Signature Sells for $19,000

New York.—A promissory note signed by Button Gwinnett, signer of the Declaration of Independence from Georgia, was sold for $19,000 and a cut signature of the same patriot, detached from a memorial in support of a colonial political candidate, brought $10,500 at the Anderson galleries.

The two specimens were part of the historical library of Dr. George C. F. Williams of Hartford. Dr. A. S. Rosenbach purchased the document, bearing one of the finest examples of the signature. The price was $3,500 less than the same buyer paid last January for the Gwinnett signature from the Col. James H. Manning collection. The present clear and forceful signature was appended to a note for 14,365 pounds made out by Gwinnett to John Neufville, of "Charles Town," S. C.

A Child's Laxative Which Mothers Can Rely On

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he constantly advised mothers to give only a harmless laxative which would help to establish natural bowel "regularity."

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin mothers have a regulating laxative which they can depend upon whenever a child is constipated, bilious, fever-
