REVIEW TO CLOSE FOR ARMISTICE

The Review will be published on Wednesday this week, so the entire office force may enjoy Armistice Day in the spirit for which the day was declared a holiday. Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1918, was truly a great day in the history of the civilized nations of the world—the greatest war the world has ever known was ended on that memorable day.

BUILDING PROGRAM CONTINUES HERE

Contrary to the prediction of many, Cross Plains continues to build. Low price cotton has failed to subdue the spirit of progress here. One new business house just completed, a modern church building and masonic lodge building, all brick, will be completed soon, with other buildings expected to be constructed soon, and new and modern residences under construction.

others being remodeled—sounds like Cross Plains does not mean to stop or look back. We have our oil, poultry, dairy business, feed and peanuts besides the cotton. It is true that some of our farmers have been hit hard, but they have been through storms before. The pecan crop is good and they will be a nice source of revenue. So will the turkey crop and etc.

This section is in much better condition than most places in general.

SMALL FIRE HERE DAMAGE LIGHT

Just as people were preparing for church services here Sunday evening, the fire sire sounded and when it was learned that the fire was in the business section, hundreds of people rushed to the scene, but the excitement was soon over. A small storage room at the rear of Henkel's Second Hand Store was destroyed, but it was too far away from the store buildings to cause much alarm. The fire was promptly extinguished by the Volunteer Fire Department.

THE CITY DRUG STORE (YOUR STORE)

Our oil reporter turns in his report on Wednesday each week but on account of getting out a day early this week, our oil news is abbreviated, as the report is not in now and we are going to press. However operators continue to make progress.

T. B. Slick on his McDonough No. 4, is drilling in The Humble Oil Co. on Irvin wildcat north of town drilling at 3400 feet.

In Cross Cut section J. S. Cosden completed his Arledge No. 2, for 200 barrel well.

Curry & Moore completed small well on Pickett lease. They are drilling in on their Williams No. 2, looks like a good well.

Wilson & Rose drilling in Williams No. 2, showing for nice well.

Williams & Beal are drilling in on Woodridge No. 4, looks like nice well.

DISTRICT COURT IN SESSION

(Baird Star, Nov. 5)

The fall term of District Court convened Monday morning with Judge W. R. Ely on the bench, M. S. Long, District Attorney; Mrs. Kate Hearn, District Clerk; Harvey Brown, Court Reporter and Sheriff G. H. Corn, present.

The following is a list of the Grand Jurors empaneled: Jeff Clark, Foreman, E. L. Smith, D. Peavy, T. J. Humphreys, John Burman, G. L. Brasher, T. A. Butler, H. L. Breeding, A. R. Kelton, L. A. Coats, Robert L. Edwards, Deo Young. Up to last night the Grand Jury had returned five indictments, as follows:

W. W. Lincecum, assault to murder. G. W. Lincecum, assault to murder. J. G. Brookshire, assault with prohibitive weapons. Bill Lewis, possessing liquor. Bill Lewis, possessing and transporting liquors.

The Lincecum cases are set for trial on Tuesday, November 9th; Lewis case set for Monday, November 8th; Brookshire case set for Monday November 8th.

The following civil cases have been disposed of this week:

Mary Nell Mahan vs Moutray Oil Co., suit to quiet title. Judgment for plaintiff.

Canyon Oil & Gas Co., vs Prairie Oil & Gas Co., trespass to try title. Judgment for plaintiff.

Putnam Supply Co. vs Pennant Oil & Gas Co. Judgment for plaintiff.

O. N. Wingfield vs Roxania Petroleum Co. Remover to Federal Court, Abilene.

The following civil cases are set for trial this term:

J. P. Monday, et al. E. C. Nell, trespass to title. Set for November 10th.

CHEVROLET DEALERS MAKE IMPROVEMENTS

Orrell-Dodson Chevrolet Co. are remodeling their building, and when completed will be one of the most up-to-date places of its kind in this section. The building will be extended 25 feet east, to make room for used cars and place to wash cars. While the entire rear part of the building will have net work of glass, in metal sash, which will furnish abundance of light. A modern work shop will be arranged in the northwest corner. And other improvements will be added.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

On last Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 2, Miss Mina Montgomery was given a surprise birthday party at the home of her mother, Mrs. L. D. Montgomery.

After the guests had arrived Mina was called home from her work at the bank. She was led into the bed room where she found lovely gifts displayed.

Delicious refreshments were served. Everyone present enjoyed the occasion. Mina declared it was one birthday she would never forget.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels

Give "California Fig Syrup" at once if bilious or constipated

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without gripping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless, "fruity laxative," they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

FOR INFLAMED BREATHING TUBES

Try Dr. Blosser's Medical Cigarettes in the Next Attack.

If you have catarrh you are in danger of losing your hearing. The first symptoms of catarrhal deafness are roaring or buzzing sensations and a stopped-up feeling in the ears. A neglected cold, or an uncurbed cold, leads to catarrh, and as everybody knows, catarrh affects the ears, nose, throat, lungs and frequently undermines the general health.

The secret of the successful medication of these hidden parts was discovered by Dr. Blosser in his medical practice. This remedy is applied by smoking a certain combination of medical herbs (containing no tobacco) in a pipe or cigarette. Dr. Blosser's Remedy produces a dense smoke vapor which is inhaled or forced into the Eustachian tubes leading to the middle ear. It penetrates to parts impossible to reach with balms, salves, sprays, douches, pills, tablets, liquids and so-called "constitutional treatments." This Remedy is absolutely harmless and is being used successfully by adults and children.

You can get from any drug store a convenient pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes and prove for yourself their pleasant beneficial effects.

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Harry Ormerod, long proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart partisan, returning from France to London rescues Alderman Robert Juggins from a band of assassins. Juggins proves to be the grandson of a former steward of Ormerod's father, to whom Juggins feels himself indebted. Ormerod tells Juggins he has abandoned the Stuart cause. Juggins informs Ormerod of a Jacobite plot in the American colonies to weaken England by forwarding French interests. At its head is Andrew Murray, a Scotsman, and a Frenchman, De Veulle, deadly enemy of Ormerod. The two are in London furthering their schemes. Anticipating the plotters' early return to America, Juggins arranges for Ormerod to go there with letters to Governor Burnet, friend of Juggins, and work to foil Murray. Disguised as Juggins' servant, Ormerod arranges to take passage to America.

CHAPTER III—Continued

"Why, a war for the right to grow and to flourish, a war for trade. At other times, mark you, nations clash over questions of honor or territory. So their statesmen say." Actually there is a question of trade or merchantry at the bottom of every war that has been fought since the world began. Today we are fighting with France for control of the trade of the Atlantic—and control of the Atlantic trade means control of the Western Plantations, America. We are fighting, Master Harry, with laws and tariffs and manufacturing skill and shipping instead of with men and deadly weapons.

"The country which wins the fur trade will win control over the greatest number of savages. And the country which is so placed, especially if it be England, will win the military struggle which some day will have to be fought for dominion in America. So I would have you feel yourself a soldier, a general of trade, sent out upon a venture of great danger and importance. It may be, Master Harry, that you carry on your shoulders the future of England and of nations yet unborn."

"All that I can, I will do!" I exclaimed.

"Good. I cannot ask more."

He clasped my hand in a wringing grip. "Good luck to you, lad, and write as occasion serves."

He went over the side with his lips pursed as if to whistle and a look of doleful pleasure on his face. Him, too, as it happened, I was never to see again. In fact, I wonder whether I should not have leaped over the yessel's side at that moment had I realized how complete was to be the severance of my life from all that I had known before.

By the cabin entrance under the poop I found the seaman who had collected my scanty baggage. "Where do you berth?" he asked me, pausing at the foot of the ladder-stairs.

"With the second mate."

He opened the door on the right-hand, or starboard, side, revealing a space so tiny that I marvelled how two men could force themselves into it at once. Two short, shallow bunks occupied two-thirds of its area.

"Do all the passengers lodge aft here?" I asked him carelessly as he disposed of my trappings.

"All save the negro; he is to sleep in the galley behind the companionway."

When he had gone I curled up in the lower bunk, which the second mate obviously had surrendered to me. At last I must have dozed, for I was awakened suddenly by the strangest of sounds—a woman's voice singing. It was a song I had never heard before, with a Scots accent to the words and a wonderful lilting melody that was somehow very sad and all the while it was pretending to merriment.

I rose from my bunk, and, stealing to the door, set it open, so that I might hear the better. I was so interested in the song and the singer's voice that I forgot even to watch the door of the cabin next to mine where she was singing. And judge to my surprise when the singer's door swung open and she stepped into the passage, almost at my side.

Her surprise, as was but natural, was greater than mine. So we stood there a moment within a long yard of each other, gazing mutely into each other's eyes. Her face, flower-white in the dim light that came down the companionway, had a sweetness of expression that belied the proud carriage of her head and an air of hauteur such as I had seen about the great ladies of King Louis' court. Her hair was black and all blown in little wisps that curled at her forehead and neck. Her eyes were dark, too.

"I heard you singing," I said.

She turned and made to re-enter her cabin. But I raised my hand involuntarily in a gesture of appeal.

"I am sorry," I went on quickly. "I did not mean to be rude. I—I could not help it."

She regarded me gravely, evidently puzzled by the incongruousness of my voice and my plowboy garments.

"You are never Scots, sir?" she answered finally.

"No, but I know Scotland." A light dawned in her eyes with the words.

"Ah, then you will be knowing the song that I sang! 'Lochaber No More' 'tis called, and a bitter lament of exiles out of their own homeland."

"No, I never heard it before—but I have a brother buried on a hillside far north of Lochaber, in the Clan Donald country."

The sorrow that came into her face was beautiful to see. None but a person who had Gaelic blood could have sympathized so instantly and so generously with a stranger's grief.

"That will have been the great sadness upon you," she cried in the odd way that the Highland Scots have of using English. "Oh, sir, your woe will have been deep! So far from his own home!"

"Yes," I assented, "and he an exile, too."

"An exile!"

She leaned toward me, her eyes like stars.

"You will be one of the Good People?"

I did not answer her, too confused in my wits to know what to say; and suddenly my confusion spread to her.

"It is wild I am talking, sir!" she exclaimed. "Never heed my words. Sure, who would be trusting his heart's blood to the stranger that stepped in his path?"

"I think I would trust mine to you," I answered boldly.

She smiled faintly.

"From your manner you would be no Englishman, sir, saying such pretty things without consideration."

"I have been long out of England."

"Then your sorrow will not be so great for parting with all you have held dear. Lucky is your lot."

"You have never been to America?" I asked.

"I had never been out of Scotland until I came south to take ship today. Ah, sir, there is a great sorrow at my heart for the country I love."

We said nothing while you might have counted ten, and in the silence she looked away from me.

"And you go with us to New York?" I asked fatuously.

Her eyes danced with a glint of humor.

"Pray, sir, will there be any other shipping-place in the ocean?" I laughed.

"My name," I began—and then I stopped abruptly.

My name at present was William

Travesty on Coffee Served by Javanese

Java coffee is renowned the world over—in the bean. In the cup, as served in the Dutch tropical possessions, it is a frightful travesty on coffee, writes Samuel G. Blythe in the Saturday Evening Post.

They roast the bean until it is almost burned, and grind it. Then they let water drip through it or employ some other occult process, and produce a black, thick, acrid mixture they call coffee essence. This is served cold in a little pitcher, with a larger pitcher of hot water. The plot is to pour some of the essence into your cup, fill the cup with the hot water and revel in the murky combination.

It doesn't taste like coffee. It

Juggins, and I had a feeling of reluctance at practicing deceit upon this girl at our first meeting. But she saved me from my quandary.

"You will not be what you seem, sir," she said gravely. "That I can see, and perhaps you will not think me indiscreet if I say so much."

"'Tis true," I assented eagerly. "Indeed—"

"But you will be meeting my—" she hesitated ever so little—"my father presently, no doubt, and he will make us known to one another. Now I must go on deck."

And she walked by me with a faint swish of skirts that sounded like an echo of far-off fairy music.

Her father! Who could he be? And then realization smote me.

Plainly, she could not be De Veulle's daughter—nor Captain Abbot's. She was Murray's.

Murray's daughter! I rebelled against the idea. It could not be. It ought not to be. What right had she to a daughter—and such a maid as this? 'Twas absurd! Manifestly absurd!

Why, I must hate the man. I had no other recourse. And he had a daughter! And above all, this daughter!

When I came on deck the next morning we were driving down-channel before a smart northwest wind. Murray stood by the weather rail with the negro, who I learned afterward was called Tom, at his elbow. As I emerged from the companionway Tom leaned forward and whispered something to his master. Murray walked straight across the deck to my side, his eyes fastened upon my face.

"How, now, Master Juggins," he said heartily, his hand outstretched, "and did you leave your good uncle—or is it cousin?—well?"

I perceived that he took me for the lout I was dressed to represent, and strove to play up to the disguise.

"Well enough, sir," I answered sullenly, shifting clumsily from foot to foot.

"'Tis good!" he exclaimed. "Faith I am vastly relieved. I have a warm regard for honest Robert Juggins. He has spoken of me, perhaps?"

The question, designed to catch my simple mentality unawares, gave me considerable amusement.

"Oh, aye," I muttered.

"We have been rivals in our ventures, as you doubtless know," continued Murray.

"But he doesn't take it seriously, sir," I assured him gravely.

"Eh? What's that?"

"He laughs about it, sir."

And I giggled at him stupidly. After a moment's inspection of my countenance he seemed constrained to accept the remark as witless innocence, for a grim light of humor appeared in his eyes.

"Laughs, does he? Zooks, I might have known it. He is a merry soul, Robert Juggins, and I should like to see him footing a morris to a right merry tune. Mayhap we shall see it some day. Who knows?"

"Who knows, sir?" I repeated vacantly.

"And you are to cast your fortunes in America, lad? You may count upon my good offices in New York. Faith, I shall be glad to do a favor if I can, for Robert Juggins' nephew—or did you say cousin?"

"I am—"

But he saved me from the lie.

"Ah, here is come one of our fellow passengers," he interrupted.

I turned to see De Veulle approaching us.

"'Tis a French gentleman," pursued Murray, bent upon winning my confidence with his easy manners and glib tongue, "on his way to Canada. Ha, chevalier, meet a young countryman of mine, Master Juggins—the Chevalier de Veulle."

All unsuspecting, De Veulle made me a slight bow, a look of indifferent disdain on his face at sight of my plebeian figure. The disguise was good, and I hoped I might cozen him for a time at least. But no man forgets another who has toyed with his life, and his indifference was dissipated the instant his eye met mine.

"Juggins!" he exclaimed in bewilderment. "Parbleu! 'Tis Harry Ormerod, the Jacobite refugee!"

Murray snapped his fingers to Tom, the negro, who had been a silent witness to our conversation. In an instant he stood beside us.

"Is this the man who came with Master Juggins to the hearing before the lords of trade?" snapped Murray.

"He de man, massa."

"You are sure?"

"Yes, massa."

Ormerod is to be brought to a realization of the treachery of which a man of "honor," led by overweening ambition, can be capable.

Lesson for November 14

CALEB'S FAITHFULNESS REWARDED

LESSON TEXT—Josh. 14:6-14. GOLDEN TEXT—I wholly followed the Lord my God. PRIMARY TOPIC—The Brave Spy Rewarded. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Reward of Service. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Caleb, the Courageous. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Blessings That Follow Whole-hearted Obedience.

1. Elements of Caleb's Character.

1. Independence of spirit (Num. 13:30).

Though the multitude clamored to follow the report of the ten, Caleb determined to stand alone. This is an element in human character which is highly important. One should stand for what he knows to be right, regardless of the sentiment of the crowd.

2. True to convictions (Josh. 14:6, cf. Num. 14:6-9).

What Caleb knew and felt he spoke out. He did not wait for the opinion of others and then modify his suit to the populace. A true man and one who can be trusted will be loyal to his convictions.

3. Unselfish (14:12).

He did not wish for some easy place. He did not wish to thrust someone else into the place of difficulty. He wanted to go into the place where it would require fighting in order to drive out the giants which were in the land.

4. Courageous (Josh. 14:12, cf. 13:30).

This courage he displayed when he insisted that they were able to go up from Kadesh-Barnea and take possession of the land. Forty-five years have elapsed since that time. He would be considered an old man now, but still he desired that place for an inheritance which would require some fighting. He said, "I am as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me, as my strength was then, even so is my strength now for war."

5. Loyalty to God (Josh. 14:8, cf. Num. 14:24).

He served God with a whole-hearted devotion; indeed, this is the way to his character.

6. Caleb Laying Claim to His Inheritance (vv. 6-12).

Caleb did not come alone to make his claim. He came in the presence of the children of Judah, lest he be suspected of taking advantage. He did not wish to wait until after the lot was cast, for God had already given a certain portion to him. It were useless to ask God to decide a matter which He had already determined. The basis of his plea was:

1. The ground of his service (vv. 6-8).

He had endangered his life in spying out the land—had gone to Hebron when the giants were there. He brought back a true report when his brethren were all against him. He bore his testimony and insisted that they go up and take the land though to do so incurred the displeasure of his brethren and necessitated his standing practically alone.

2. On the ground of the oath of Moses to him (v. 9).

Joshua had respect for Moses, and was bound to follow the counsels of his faithful master whom he had succeeded. This plea was effective.

3. On the ground of God's providential dealing with him (vv. 10-12).

God had preserved him in bodily health. Though he was now eighty-five years old, his natural forces were not abated. He said, "I am as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me, as my strength was then even so is my strength now for war."

4. Joshua Giving the Inheritance to Caleb (13:14, 15).

1. Joshua blessed Caleb (v. 13).

He not only acquiesced in Caleb's claim, but bestowed the blessing of God upon him in it.

2. The inheritance given (vv. 13, 14).

Hebron was the name of the inheritance. The name Hebron means fellowship. It was given because Caleb had fully followed the Lord. Only those who fully follow the Lord can enjoy fellowship with Him. Though Caleb now legally possessed Hebron, it was necessary for him to fight to drive out the giants who infested it. In Christ we have an inheritance which God has given us. We, too, must fight because the enemy is unwilling to relinquish his claim upon it.

Believing in Christ

Many men do not believe in Christ because they do not want to do what Christ demands of them. Their doubts are not intellectual, as they pretend, but practical. They deny Christ so as to escape obligation and effort—Young People.

Another Need of Cross Plains Fulfilled

Cross Plains has had openings for many new places of business, as well as a sewer system, ample water supply, a good school, paved streets, and supply houses.

We have the supply houses, we are getting the sewer system and water supply and now we are in hopes of having a new school and paved streets, but one thing Cross Plains has needed for sometime, was an exclusive Gents Furnishing Store, now that I have installed one, at no little expense, I am ready to serve the public with the best in this line.

It costs a great deal to install a business of this kind as well as the earnest co-operation of each citizen to make it a success.

I am ready to serve you with—

The Growing Vogue of Enclosed Lighting Units

With the ever-changing style in lighting, at present trending strongly toward the enclosed type of unit, it is interesting to note the reasons for this marked swing in illumination taste. Perhaps primary reasons for the enclosing unit's popularity are its simplicity and grace of contour.

Closer inspection reveals the fact that the totally enclosed unit is proof against dust and bugs. When the caretaker wipes off the outside the unit, the globe is clean. And experience proves that the easier it is to clean a unit, the oftener that unit gets cleaned.

In presenting the '99" and "'66" Enclosing Units, we feel that we are offering a wide selection in design, size and decoration, without neglecting the necessary factors of efficiency and quality.

Let us figure with you on your lighting job.

"A Good Place to Trade"

"If" the biggest word of its size in our vocabulary. How could we get along without it? In every statement where it is used, it makes the expression conditional—and it is used profusely these days. So much depends on it. Yet it is abused and over worked, as it makes all statements conditional in which it is used—infact the word itself is conditional. If this, if that. Can't we be sure, emphatic, confident any more?

Advices Ailing Women

"I was rundown in health some years ago and was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," said Mrs. Effie Carter of 2516 Rosewood St., Dallas, Texas, whose picture appears here. "It was recommended to me as the most reliable feminine tonic and I believe it is. It helped me in every way and I have heard a great many say that it did the same for them. I believe all who try the 'Favorite Prescription' will be greatly benefited."

The root of discontent is selflove.—J. F. Clarke.

Keep Fit!

Good Health Requires Good Elimination.

To be well, you must keep the blood stream free from impurities. If the kidneys lag, allowing body poisons to accumulate, a toxic condition is created. One is apt to feel dull, languid, tired and achy. A nagging backache is sometimes a symptom, with drowsy headaches and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. If you have reason to suspect improper kidney functioning, try Doan's Pills—a tested stimulant diuretic. Users praise them throughout the United States. Ask your neighbor!

Piles

CURED In 6 to 14 Days All Druggists are authorized to refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case of ITCHING, BLIND, BLEEDING or PROTRUDING PILES. Cures ordinary cases in 6 days, the worst cases in 14 days. PAZO OINTMENT instantly Relieves ITCHING PILES and you can get restful sleep after the first application. 60c.

Coughs and Colds

are not only annoying, but dangerous, if not attended to at once they may develop into serious ailments. Boschee's Syrup is soothing and healing in such cases, and has been used for sixty years. 30c and 90c bottles. At all druggists. If you cannot get it, write to G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

A blanket mortgage will not keep the house warm next winter.

A Raw, Sore Throat

eases quickly when you apply a little Musterole. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain and won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. Brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. Jars & Tubes.

She Laughed! Thought It Was a Joke Brooklyn, Mrs. K. Kunmer writes:—"Please take notice that I can write again. I have been troubled with what I thought Rheumatism. I laughed when someone suggested that I try Carter's Little Liver Pills for I never thought that my trouble was constipation. About three months later I found out that I am a new person. I am thankful to you for the help your pills have done for me and my friends." Carter's Little Liver Pills remove the constipation poison from the system. Not habit forming. TINY DIATOMS HOLD SECRET OF SEA LIFE

Study Plants No Bigger Than Grain of Dust.

Washington.—Millions of plants no larger than a grain of finest dust and invisible to the naked eye have been brought to the Smithsonian Institution by Dr. Albert Mann, custodian of diatoms of the National museum, as a result of summer field work at Wood's Hole, Mass., and at the Carnegie Marine Biological laboratory on the Florida keys.

These diatoms are the grass of the sea. They transform within themselves inorganic matter into food material for the smaller animal life of the sea, which in turn forms the food of other larger animals and finally man. Therefore, in spite of their microscopic size, their importance is immense. Doctor Mann illustrates this very graphically in the case of a young hake whose stomach contents he once examined. The hake was filled with very small herring, these in turn were gorged with copepods or water fleas and the copepods were full of diatoms.

Diagrams by Carnegie Institutions. So great is the economic importance of these microscopic creatures that the Carnegie Institution began to support Doctor Mann's work on them ten years ago, and he is now co-operating with the United States bureau of fisheries, the Canadian fish commission and the national research council.

Diatoms exist all over the earth, in salt water, fresh and brackish water. About 8,000 different kinds have already been described and this figure is steadily growing. What the diatoms lack in size they make up in numbers, some water containing as many as 35,000 of them to a quart. Doctor Mann's program involves a survey of living diatoms on the American seaboard and in its inland waters; a representative collection of these and of all fossil diatom earths so far discovered. In this way he is building up in the Smithsonian institution a diatom collection of practical usefulness which will have no peer. With the aid of this basic material such practical problems as maintaining the diatom food supply for the support of food fishes can be better understood and investigated.

Require Delicate Instruments. Mounting specimens of such minute plants requires the most delicate instruments and touch. Doctor Mann has developed a glass needle attachment to a microscope with which he can pick up, turn over and otherwise arrange the infinitesimal diatom. This permits him to mount a single specimen on a slide.

Under the microscope the diatom is seen to be one of the most intricately formed and beautiful objects in nature, following every conceivable geometric pattern. Each little cell builds for itself a case of silica, which is capable of enduring for millions of years. This quality has produced results of great economic importance, for during past ages these shells have been laid down on ocean floors in immense deposits which in turn have been raised as the result of geological convulsions and are now available to man. They occur in all lands. At Lompoc, Calif., is a huge deposit of fossil diatoms covering an area of 12 square miles and 1,400 feet thick.

This diatomaceous earth is mined and used as a polish, is combined with nitroglycerin to make dynamite and as a filter for certain serums and especially for thick liquids like sirups, oils and varnishes. It has even been used as an adulterant for cheap candy and also as a base for tooth paste. Finally the diatom is the standard test for microscopes and microscopic investigations.

RADIO INVENTOR

An amazing radio development, hailed as the one evolution of naval communications which will put the United States navy above any danger of enemy interference with its signals and which may prove of wide value in commerce, was announced by Maj. Francis E. Pierce, radio officer of the United States marine corps. Complete and conclusive tests have demonstrated that the invention of Major Pierce is capable of transmitting radio signals in such a manner that they can be ricocheted over intervening objects between the sender and receiver of the signal.

FRENCH PORTERS ROB TOURISTS

Charges for Service Said to Be Excessive.

Paris.—One hundred francs for carrying two suitcases from the customs shed at Cherbourg to the tender, a trip of less than 100 yards, is charged by porters.

The imposition has caused the foreign steamship companies to take drastic steps against it. The union of baggage porters appears to have singled out Americans for its holdup tactics. In some instances passengers, especially unescorted women, have been literally robbed.

One American woman recently embarking on one of the ships flying the American flag gave the porter 40 francs. He demanded that she open her bag and produce more money. Terrorized, the woman unclasped her handbag and showed the porter one 20-franc note, all the French money she had left.

"This will have to do," said the holdup man, snapping the bill away. The woman shrieked, and one of the officials came along and made the porter disgorge but not without a short, spirited fight.

These instances, which had multiplied by hundreds recently, caused the skipper of an American ship to send for the walking delegate of the porters' union and warn him that if such sharp practice did not cease he would call upon his crew to handle the baggage and give them instructions to give a forced bath to any porter interfering.

"They never come back, these people," said the walking boss. "I don't see why we shouldn't get all we can out of them."

Wood of Palmetto Tree Now Used for Furniture

Atlanta, Ga.—The sable palmetto tree, emblematic of the state of South Carolina, is about to attain its second place in the history of the United States. This time it will be chronicled in the annals of furniture manufacturing. The tree received first historical mention as a protection for the American colonists in their defense of Fort Moultrie, where the shot from the British fleet sank harmlessly in the soft, spongy logs.

His attention prompted by the unique porous quality of the tree, a large industrialist acquired a 300,000-acre tract of groves and enlisted the aid of 12 laboratories of furniture companies in an attempt to apply a veneer finish.

The work was assigned to the woodwork department of the Georgia School of Technology, which, after a two-year period of research, has just succeeded in applying a glasslike veneered surface.

Its only use in the past has been for dock piling and the building of rugged, picturesque log cabins.

Eggless Custard Sale Cost Him $10 Fine

Brockton, Mass.—Judge Carroll C. King had a busy day in district court here with cases that resulted from the Brockton fair. One case established itself as well out of the ordinary. It concerned one Lester Kohn, a concessionaire at the grounds. He was charged with "sale of custard containing no eggs." State Health Inspector Daniel G. McCarthy brought the charge, claiming that Kohn was doing a rushing business in selling custards, but he informed Judge King that a custard is not a custard without eggs. Kohn paid a $10 fine and it is the first time in the history of the local court that a conviction has been made on such a charge.

Presidents, Popes Have Longest Lives

Washington.—What class of persons live the longest as an average?

Occupants of the White House hold the record for longevity, according to statistics on notable men compiled by Pitrim Sorokin, a Russian economist. Their average life span is almost exactly the biblical three-score and ten.

Close on their heels as long-lived mortals are the popes of the Roman Catholic church, who average 69.6 years. A third group includes American millionaires, with 69.2 years. Scholars and scientists average 67.3 years and writing men 64.4 years.

The poorest showing was made by the hereditary monarchs of Europe. Though this group included some very long-lived families, the average longevity was only 53.6 years. In explanation of the poor showing of kings, it has been pointed out that other groups represent the results of selection.

The presidency and the papacy, for example, are both elective offices and are filled invariably by men of mature years and usually good health, who have made their own records, while monarchs are notable simply by accident of birth, and by the same accident of birth may come to an untimely and violent end.

ARCH DAM STANDS AGAINST ALL TESTS

Experimental Structure in High Sierra a Success.

New York.—The "arch dam," erected in a steep canyon of the Sierra, near Fresno, Calif., to settle problems that have baffled engineers of all countries for centuries, has so far withstood every test, it is announced in New York by the Engineering Foundation, a committee of which is directing the project.

For many months the engineers have been building and testing this dam to a height of 60 feet and at a cost of $110,000, contributed by more than fifty firms of bankers, manufacturers, engineers and power companies.

It is the purpose of the engineers to test the dam to destruction in the interest of science, but the structure's stamina in resisting the onslaughts of water that has been impounded will force them to build higher. The end may not come and with it an answer to their questions, until the dam has been built up to 100 feet at an additional outlay of $30,000.

Much Work Still Ahead. Many tests have been made, but they are still incomplete, according to the foundation's announcement, which said that months of work are still ahead. Thousands of records have been made, and are being studied, tabulated and graphed by the testing staff.

The dam, constructed of concrete, did not break at 60 feet, even when the reservoir back of it was filled so that water flowed over the top of the dam. The engineers will gradually increase the height of the dam until it finally gives way under the increasing pressure. It is planned first to extend the height of the dam ten feet, and then twenty, thirty or forty feet if necessary.

"While this is a unique example of the romantic side of engineering, it is, nevertheless, a straightforward endeavor to solve an everyday problem affecting engineers, bankers and the public," Director Alfred D. Flinn of the Engineering Foundation, 29 West Thirty-ninth street, said.

"The investigation is attacking important questions of engineering research in the application of scientific knowledge.

"A correct answer will tend to safety of lives, of millions of dollars in property and may make possible the construction of less costly dams for power development, irrigation of lands now useless, water supply of cities and towns and flood prevention.

"A less expensive type of dam than has heretofore been preferred by many engineers and governmental authorities would make possible some of the projects for water power and irrigation which are not now commercially feasible because of the handicap of expense.

"Successful financing and development of projects of this kind will add to the wealth of states, communities, and, in fact, the whole nation, as well as provide power, food and water for a larger population, and increase the basis of taxation, for the support of government.

Built to Height of Sixty Feet. Early in April, after months of work, excavation in the granite sides and bottom of the gorge for the foundation of the dam across Stevenson creek was completed, April 19 the first concrete was placed in the wooden forms, and on June 4 the last concrete had been laid to build the dam to a height of 60 feet.

The reservoir back of the dam can be filled not only from the water of the creek, which at times almost dries up, but from one of the great water supply tunnels of the hydroelectric plants of the Southern California Edison company, which pierces the mountain just above this reservoir.

Consequently, the engineers are able to fill and empty the reservoir back of the experimental dam in a short time, just as one fills and empties a hand basin through the faucets and the waste pipe. This permits experiments to be made at will under conditions of full control very much as if this huge "specimen" were in a laboratory.

New Kite and Balloon Cameras Take Movies

San Antonio, Texas.—A "kite camera" operated by the pulling power of 100-foot centipede-type bamboo and paper kites has just been used successfully for the first time in making motion-picture long shots of troop movements at Camp Stanley, near here.

The camera, wound up with a spring, is set and released at a height of seven feet, grinding away all the time as it ascends a kite string to a height of 1,000 feet. The camera weighs seven pounds and is carried up by a butterfly contrivance with a trap, or catch of rubber bands. When it strikes the kite the catch breaks, the wings automatically fold, and the camera is carried back by its own weight to be reloaded.

"A balloon camera" also is being developed for some battle scenes. A gas bag 20 feet in circumference will have a carrying power of 80 pounds. It will hold a 60-pound camera suspended in a cradle and operated by two men, being held by handles and then released on signal to rise to a height of 100 feet, shooting down on the action for a scant 50 feet of film, grinding automatically.

WNU Service.

WHEN we see the beautiful silken cords and tassels that suspend large pictures today it seems incredible that for so long walls endured tarnished wires wriggling up and down between molding and picture frame. And small pictures, dangling by wire looped over a single hook, were once a common sight.

Thanks to artists, that day is past and now in almost every store and art shop there are big drawers of royal-looking cords and tassels, with snug

As applied to pictures, then, this principle suggests it is wise to have in each room one fine, dominating picture, and that it should be so staged from the standpoint of lighting, grouping of furniture about it, favorable colors reflected in draperies and upholstery, that those who enter the room are subtly drawn to it, and remember it is a beautiful thing long, long afterward.

Some rooms have so cleverly capitalized this rule that one fine picture, rosettes at the top to conceal the looks that go over the molding.

For large pictures two parallel cords and two hooks are usually used. As indicated in the sketch, boudoir mirrors are sometimes hung on a single V-shaped cord, with a center rosette and a pendant tassel, but in other parts of the house the two cords are usually preferred. It is better to have cords blend into the wall tinting than to have a contrasting effect, which tends to call attention away from the picture.

All pictures not hung with the decorative cord, and always small pictures, are given a blind, flat hanging. Screws are placed in the back of the frame near enough the top so the one best piece of furniture beneath it makes such a favorable impression that other lacks and shabbiness pass quite unnoticed in the glory of this impressive spot.

Naturally, a fine, rather large print of an Old Master subject is most frequently chosen for this purpose for living rooms, one that is rich and compelling in color, so hangings may be easily chosen to blend. For the bedroom the scene may be most delicate, but compelling, nevertheless; for other rooms, subject and colorings that best suit the spirit and furnishings of each.

Much depends on the lighting of this picture. Place it either where daylight focuses on it in spotlight fash-frame won't tip forward, and the wire drawn tightly enough to have the top of the frame conceal the nail. There are small tacks especially made for this purpose, which do not mar the wall, and yet are strong enough to hold the weight of a picture.

In placing pictures or mirrors a few good rules are:

See that a large picture does not hang over a smaller piece of furniture, such as a fragile stand or delicate chair, but rather give it a heavy companion-piece such as a davenport, a chest, a substantial table.

Similarly, a small picture should not be isolated on a large wall space where it dwindles into insignificance. Give small pictures the narrower wall spaces, or, if used on the large wall, group several of proportionate size so that they have the effect of a large unit. And these pictures should, of course, be harmonious in subject and appeal—a group of landscapes or figures, or other related subjects.

These little niceties of hanging and placing are very simple and easy to remember, yet their observance adds much toward the final good effect of the room.

It seems that certain fundamental and very simple—art principles underlie all phases of proper furnishing, whether related to pictures, interiors, dress or merely china and silverware.

And one of them is the principle of the accent, or "dominant note," without which, and regardless of other reflections, a subject becomes quite flat and commonplace.

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean that you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

Ft. Worth Couple Saved Years of Suffering

Both Wife and Husband Gladly Credit Tanlac With Remarkable Properties as Tonic and Health Restorative

What a tragic thing it is when man and wife go through life together, rear their children to success and happiness, and then find ill health descending on one of the loving pair!

This situation confronted the family of Thomas Riley, retired stockman—the beloved "Uncle Tom" of the entire neighborhood around 1304 Vernon Castle Boulevard, Ft. Worth, Texas—when his wife Bridget began to break down in 1922.

"I lost my appetite," writes Mrs. Riley, "and when I did eat I suffered a great deal from indigestion. I frequently had splitting headaches, couldn't sleep well, and was nervous. Nothing tasted good to me—not even water. I lost energy and ambition, and had to give up housework."

"When I was down flat on my back, my daughter, Mrs. Annie Croughen, insisted that I try Tanlac. Before I had finished the first bottle, I was back on my feet and able to do all my housework. My appetite picked up, nervousness disappeared. I gained 10 lbs. and felt like a new person."

Mr. Riley, with muscles of steel even at his age, took Tanlac at the first touch of rheumatism, and looks as if he had never had an ill in his life.

Texas is full of men and women who have taken Tanlac at the right time and are now enjoying the blessings of good health and strength. Tanlac is Nature's remedy, made from roots, barks and herbs. If you have need of a tonic and restorative, ask your druggist for Tanlac—today!

ARMISTICE

Eight years of peace—eight prosperous, busy years have sped by since the signing of that historic document which marked and created the first Armistice Day. Looking back, it seems but a recent yesterday that the whistles were shrieking, the bells ringing and the whole world dancing a mad celebration of the closing of the world's greatest agony.

We danced then, and we sang and we cried aloud our joy that "the war to end all war" had come to a glorious and triumphant end. We had won!

Well, we did win. We won the war. We won our physical victories. And we won some moral victories, too. We purged ourselves of any faintest suspicion that Twentieth Century "commercialism" had deadened the souls of men to the deep tuned call of truth and honor and decency. We proved anew to a cynical world that men could suffer and die for a great cause, regardless of personal interest and prodigal of unselfish sacrifice.

But eight years have taught us that we did not win all we first believed we had won. The monsters of hate and greed and envy and mean suspicion which we thought to have buried deep beneath the thunder of the guns at Chateau Thierry, at St. Mihiel, at the Argonne, again reared their ugly heads to spew their venom upon the striving nations of the earth, to sow the dragon's teeth of discord and discontent.

And we came to find, in the end, that out of the reek of France and Flanders we had brought not only a great reward, but a great and continuing obligation.

80% of repairs on farm machinery due to one cause

Lubrication—lack of proper lubrication is the cause of 80% of all repairs on moving parts.

How much is it costing you?

You'll be money ahead if you equip your implements with Alemite high pressure in place of grease cups. The same system used on motor cars. Adopted recently by leading implement makers, too.

Alemite saves time, labor and costly breakdowns. Installed in a jiffy. Costs only a few cents per fitting. Ask us about it.
