CROSS PLAINS, CALLAHAN COUNTY, TEXAS

Rites For Mrs. Jackson Are Held Saturday Afternoon

Funeral services for Mrs. L. Jackson, 70, who died at her home Friday morning after a brief illness, were conducted from the Methodist church Saturday afternoon at 2:30 with Rev. McRae as officiating pastor. Mrs. Jackson was a member of the local Presbyterian church. Interment was made in Cross Plains cemetery.

Mrs. Jackson became ill last week and was carried to a Rising Star hospital, however, she showed improvement and had returned to her home on Avenue C with Street, two days before she was fatally stricken. She arose Friday morning and was preparing breakfast, when she told her husband that she felt strangely ill. She reached to a neighbor's house for assistance and upon returning found that she had died.

By virtue of her keen interest in community problems and articles published in the Review, Mrs. Jackson was widely known and admired. During the war her home was frequented by hundreds of Camp soldiers, who enjoyed her hospitality on week end leaves. She is remembered as a person who was ready and anxious to help the unfortunate and opine that her husband's death was a great loss. Survivors include the husband, Mr. Jackson, of El Paso; Mrs. L. M. Jackson, of Perkins, Oklahoma; Mrs. John Paul Jackson, of Cross Plains, as well as one daughter, little Marsha Jarrett, and two sons, Mrs. Maud Pender, Mrs. George Pennington, Mrs. Mattie Deck, Mrs. Lyle, Mrs. Jeffrey Orme and Lou Mallow, all of Greenwood. People here for the funeral included two of Mr. Jackson's brothers, Wilburn and Olin Jackson, also of Commerce; a nephew, Mr. Jackson, also of Commerce; Mrs. Inez Chumley, of Dallas, and a nephew, Otha Raines, of Dallas, as well as other relatives. The Review possibly will learn.

She said, "I have words to describe the love and sympathy which I have received."

Did Such A Thing Ever Happen To You?

IT WASN'T FUNNY AT THE TIME
By Don L. Purdy

Although I was frightened almost out of my wits at the time, I never fail to get a laugh when recalling an incident which happened in December 1914.

I was with an artillery outfit during the Battle of the Bulge, and one day the officer in charge sent a couple of us back to the rear for supplies. He gave us a map and specified what roads to travel.

We were driving along more or less leisurely through a little French town about the size of Cross Plains. An abrupt turn brought us into the Main Street. To our great surprise, standing there in formation was an entire company of German infantrymen. They had stacked rifles and were obviously unaware that Americans were anywhere near.

As the Jerries raced for their weapons we floor-boarded the jeep and darted around a corner and sped out of the town. Several miles further down the road we ran into a patrol of American infantrymen, who told us that the town through which we had just passed had fallen to the enemy several days earlier during the Battle of the Bulge, and that due to temporary confusion of front lines the Germans were probably just as surprised to see us as we were to suddenly find ourselves in their midst.

Buffaloes Begin Conference Play At De Leon Friday

Cross Plains high school Buffaloes will open conference play at De Leon Friday night at eight o'clock with the De Leon Bearcats. Coach Bill Shield told the Review Tuesday that with the exception of Charles Kunkle, end, and Junior Orider, back, his athletes will be in the pink of condition. Kunkle is recovering from a knee hurt and Orider from a twisted ankle. Both, however, are expected to receive starting assignments.

De Leon, although defeated by the Rising Star Wildcats last week end, is reported to have a fine team, boasting one of the district's better ball carriers. Expected to start for Cross Plains are: Kunkle and Bobby Oliver at ends, Vernon Phillips and Keith Coburn at guards, Junior and Ervis Coggin at guards, Howard Lee Neeb at center, and Orider, Harold Strahan, Bobby Dillard and Vondell Hutchins in the backfield.

The bloc was first assembled by Crabb, who turned it to Beard and Walker with drilling obligations. Beard and Walker farmed-out the lease to the present operators.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hargrove, well known couple who make their home on North Avenue D.

A bridal shower honoring the newly weds was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hargrove, Jr., three miles north of town. A complete account of the function will appear in next week's issue of the Review.

For the past several days the newly weds have been making their home at the Longbotham place on East 8th Street here, however, they will move within a few days to a dwelling between Cross Plains and Cottonwood. The groom has extensive farming interests in that vicinity.

Little Benny Whitehead, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Whitehead of Cross Plains, is in a Rising Star hospital, recovering from injuries sustained Sunday at noon when a truck driven by his father backed over a portion of the child's body.

The Review learned in a telephone conversation with the hospital Tuesday afternoon that the child's right leg was broken between the knee and hip joint and that he had several bruises.

His condition was described as good, however, and complete recovery is expected.

The accident occurred after Whitehead had just finished unloading a bunch of hogs and started to back the truck.

Putnam Man Hurt In Freak Accident

U. L. Lowery, gauger in the Putnam oil fields, received a broken right leg and painful bruises in a freak accident recently.

The incident occurred about seven miles south of Putnam when Lowery was opening a gate leading to one of the leases he was servicing. He left the pick-up in which he was riding, thinking it was in gear. The vehicle started rolling down grade and Lowery was knocked to the ground and pinned under the body.

It was more than two hours before he was discovered by an employee of the company who was engaged in pumping the wells. Aid was summoned and the injured man released.

He was removed to a hospital where he is recovering from the injuries.

Hearing Set October 14 On Proposed $9,035,000 Dam

October 14 has been set by the board of rivers and harbors of the Corps of Engineers as the date for a hearing at Washington on the proposal to erect a new dam on the Pecan Bayou immediately below the present Lake Brownwood dam.

Formal notices of the hearing were received in Cross Plains and other nearby cities the past week.

The Corps of Engineers has recommended construction of a new dam 1,000 feet below the present structure, installation of flood gates and spillway improvements at an estimated cost of $9,035,000.

The hearing was postponed from an earlier date when opposition to the plan was received at Washington. Some opponents of the plan claim that series of smaller dams, above the present dam would serve the cause of flood control better.

Others oppose it on the grounds that federal spending should be curtailed.

The proposed plan recommended by the Division Engineer consists of modification of the existing federal project for enlargement of the reservoir at Lake Brownwood to provide for constructing an earth dam with outlets for releasing the ordinary flood flows, together with the construction of a series of gates in the existing spillway channel to control the release of large flood flows which exceed the capacity of the outlet works.

All parties whose interests may be affected by the proposed plan are invited to be present or represented at the hearing. They will be given an opportunity to express their views, preferably submitting a detailed statement in writing with a brief oral summary of that statement at the hearing. Important facts and statements should be submitted in writing in duplicate for the record.

Written statements may be handed to the board at the meeting or mailed to it before the hearing at Temporary Building T-7, Gravelly Point, Washington 25, D. C.

Interested parties can examine copies of the engineer's report on the project at Washington, in the office of the Division Engineer, 1114 Commerce Street, Dallas, or in the office of the District Engineer, 606 Santa Fe Building, Galveston. Copies of the report will not be furnished or loaned for use outside those offices.

LOOPHOLES in the Law

By WILL WILSON
Past President, Texas District and County Attorneys' Association

(Editor's Note: This is one of a series of short case histories, all taken from court records, showing how legal loopholes often enable criminals to escape punishment in Texas. Will Wilson, of Dallas, is chairman of a special steering committee of the State Bar, which is working for revision of the antiquated Criminal Code and Code of Criminal Procedure in order to eliminate these loopholes.)

Old John had a little money saved up and was a kindly old fellow. When Slicker Pete came along with a hard luck story, Old John lent him a hundred dollars. It would be just for a few days, Slicker Pete said. He promised to pay Old John back at the end of the week. Sure enough, when the week ended, Pete wrote out a check to the old gentleman.

But when Old John went to cash the check, he found that Pete not only did not have a hundred dollars in the bank—he didn't even have an account there. It was a worthless check, pure and simple, given willfully and intentionally. But when Slicker Pete was arrested and then prosecuted for passing a worthless check, he was acquitted.

WHY? The laws of Texas require that for a person to be found guilty of passing a "hot check" he must have received something of value AT THE TIME the check was given. Pete had received the "something of value"—that is, the hundred dollars—several days before he gave Old John the check.

The State Bar of Texas is working to close such loopholes in the law so that honest citizens will not be so easily victimized by crooks. The outworn Criminal Code and Code of Criminal Procedure now used in Texas are sorely in need of revision.

THE Sad STORY OF TEN LITTLE FREE WORKERS

(It is later than you think . . . it can happen here!)

THESE ARE THE WORKERS

REDDY DOCTOR RAILROADER MINER STEELWORKER FARMER LAWYER GROCER SALESCLERK REPORTER

Ten little free workers in this country fine and fair.
But if you cherish your freedom—worker have a care!
Ten little free workers—Reddy was doing fine
Until the socialists got him—then there were nine.

Nine little, free workers laughed at Reddy's fate
Along came federal medicine—then there were eight.

Eight little free workers thought this country heaven
But the government took over the railroads, then there were seven.

Seven little free workers—till the miners got in a fix
Uncle said coal's essential and took over leaving six.

Six little free workers 'till the day did arrive
The steel mills too were federalized—then there were five.

Five little free workers—but the farmers are free no more
The farms have been collectivized—that leaves only four.

Four little free workers till the government did decree
All must have free legal advice—then there were three.

Three little free workers—the number is getting few,
But with government groceries selling food—then there were two.

Two little free workers—our story's almost done,
With clerks at work in federal stores—that leaves only one.

One little free worker—the reporter son-of-a-gun
Mustn't criticize government—so now there are none.

Ten little workers—but they are no longer free
They work when and where ordered, and at a fixed rate you see,
And it all could have been prevented if they'd only seen fit to agree
And work together instead of saying "it never can happen to me!"

Does the fear of punitive action of government bureaucracies prevent your action in defense of the freedoms for which our forefathers toiled and fought . . . or is such action just too much personal trouble?

WE HAD BETTER WAKE UP . . . IT'S LATER THAN YOU THINK!

Creage Curb To Boost Stocks Of Winter Legumes

With acreage allotments definitely ahead for several cash crops, Texas farmers are turning winter legumes for soil improvement on diverted acres.

It is important that farmers select legume varieties that are adapted to their particular soil and climatic conditions, according to E. A. Miller, extension agronomist for the Texas A. & M. System.

Experiments and demonstrations over the state have proven that winter legumes give better results in certain areas.

Lucerne vetch is the best adapted legume on all soil types in North Texas and Austrian winter peas and Singletary peas give good yields in the sandy loam or clay soils of this area, says Miller.

In the Southeast Texas timber region, hairy vetch, common vetch and Wilamette vetch do well. Also Wonder peas and Austrian winter peas are adapted. Dixie clover is another promising winter legume for the East Texas timber region.

In the Gulf Coast Prairie area, yellow blooming sweet clover is popular in addition to Wilamette, common and hairy vetch and Austrian winter and Dixie winter peas.

In the blackland belt, Hubam and Madrid sweet clover continue to be favorites. The new evergreen, a white blossom biennial, is promising, but seed are still scarce. Miller says that hairy vetch winter peas are well adapted to blackland soils but are not as effective in controlling cotton root rot as the sweet clovers. In the counties south of an east-west line approximately through Waco sweet peas can be planted in fall as winter crops but farther north it is better to plant them in early fall.

Hairy vetch is the top legume in the West Cross Timbers area, although winter peas, Hubam and Madrid sweet clovers are also adapted. These same legumes are suitable for the Rolling Plains. On subirrigated soils, alfalfa will do well.

Miller says alfalfa under irrigation is the most satisfactory adaptation for the High Plains, Pecos Valley and El Paso Valley. Biscuit sweet clovers also do well under irrigation when planted in

Buffalo "B" Team Holds Sophomores Of Abilene 13 - 6

Cross Plains high school "B" team turned in an appreciated performance here last Thursday night in holding the heavier Abilene high school sophomores to a 13 to six score.

Sparked by Freddy Stacy, elusive Cross Plains halfback, the "B" team took charge of affairs in the first half and moved out in front by a tally of six to nothing. In the last half, however, the weight of the adversary began to show to an advantage and the visitors pushed across two touchdowns and one extra point. Every yard was yielded grudgingly though, and coaches Bill Shield and Paul Huntington expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the fine showing.

Cross Plains touchdown was scored early in the second after a sustained drive had carried to the five. At this point Stacy shot a forward to Cecil Barton who gathered it in and stepped over the double stripe. An attempted pass for the extra point failed to click.

Although coaches were well pleased with the play of all boys who saw action, they were particularly laudatory regarding the performances turned in by Stacy in the backfield, Barton at end, James Paige at guard and Dwayne Adams at tackle.

The "B" team was to play Wylie Thursday night of this week there, and then meet the same team on the local grid a week later.

C. D. Lane Getting Ribbing After Car Runs Out Of Gas

Friends of C. D. Lane advise that any time you get in his car for a ride, it is wise to check the fuel gauge.

Following the regular meeting of the Baptist brotherhood Monday night a group, invited by Lane, got into his car and started to visit Rev. Dan Applin, who had been ill several days. Less than two miles from town the car's gasoline tank ran dry and Lee Bishop and W. T. Cox were forced to walk back for a new supply. Remembering their long hike Cox and Bishop have been giving Lane a rough "ribbing" the past two days, somewhat applauded by Earl Pyle and Fred Long, other occupants of the automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Joy were Fort Worth visitors Friday.

Mrs. Julia Conger returned here Tuesday after visiting her son, J. D. Conger, and family in Hamilton.

Dr. and Mrs. Eli Powell left Tuesday morning for a ten day visit with friends and relatives in Mississippi.

BASS CATCHES IN DEPLETED LAKES CAN BE INCREASED IS BELIEF OF COLLEGE EXPERT

A biology professor at North Texas State College says bass catches in depleted Texas lakes can be increased 200 to 300 per cent.

Dr. J. K. G. Silvey, professor of biology, tells small lake owners; "Restock your pond every two or three years with little bass if you want to be assured of continued bass fishing."

Silvey has been studying the habits of fish in small Texas lakes for 10 years. He has conducted his research at Lake Ferndale near Pittsburgh, Lake Crockett near Crockett, Lake Greenbriar, Lake Hitts and Lake Park, all near Tyler, and private lakes in the Dallas and Denton areas. He works with a staff of advanced and graduate students at NTSC.

Dr. Silvey says: "A small Texas lake is like a small cultivated field. When you have a small field, you don't try to grow six or seven crops on it, but concentrate on one. You clear out the weeds that would hurt the crop and fertilize the field in order to have a larger harvest.

"In a lake, you weed out as many of the undesirable fish as possible so you'll have a good harvest of Texas' best game fish—the bass."

Dr. Silvey and his students say they have learned that: "The average small lake in Texas for want to be assured of continued bass fishing for about three years.

Fish in Texas just won't live 12 or 15 years.

Bottom feeders are the biggest enemies of bass.

It is a mistake to stock black bass and bluegill together.

Early each summer, Dr. Silvey and students in biology 545 at NTSC assemble in Denton for their biggest trip into East Texas. They draw boats, motors and supplies from the college service center and are off for six weeks to study and check the eastern Texas lakes.

Moving around the lake in steel, motor-driven boats, crews of students weave from 6,000 to 8,000 feet of gill nets among the lily pads and cat tails. They set out the nets in the afternoon. Early the next morning, they are drawn in and the fish counted. Size of the fish population in the lake estimated. It is then possible to determine the condition of the lake and which fish need to be replenished or removed.

"First the undesirable fish must be removed," Silvey says, "and the lake fertilized naturally." He doesn't recommend use of artificial fertilizers which increase plant growth in the lake. "Commercial fertilizers keep everything alive," he says, "and increase the rough fish as well as the game fish you are trying to keep."

So the lake is fertilized in this manner!

During the summer the lake is drained off. This is not harmful to the lake itself. In explaining this, Silvey says, "we have found that we are able to reduce the water volume of the lake by sixty to seventy per cent while reducing area of the lake only about fifty per cent."

As edges of the lake begin to show and vegetation shoots up in mud flats, members of the group immobilize a part of the fish. This merely means reducing the fish population, either through organic processes or use of an electric device which stuns the fish. Study has disclosed that bass are not too easily thinned out by this process.

When the fall rains come, the lake is restocked with bass and if possible with golden shiners, which will not destroy black bass eggs and spawn. The results are amazing.

"We have found," Silvey smiles, "that increases in catches will run 20 to 300 per cent in a year."

Silvey is careful to explain that the lake will have to be stocked again from time to time. The black bass just don't live very long in Texas, and its eggs and young fall prey to many other fish. "The life expectancy of our game fish is quite short," Silvey states, "no more than three or four years on the average."

Dr. Silvey and his students work on a year-round basis.

It was through a twelve month survey that Charles Estes, graduate students, determined the spawning habits of the bluegill, one of our bream. Taking as his thesis problem the spawning habits of some 715 bluegill, he discovered that they lay eggs not once or twice, but five times each summer in warm shallow water.

Peanut Harvesting Delayed By Rains

Despite scattered local showers, digging of peanuts was active in East and South Texas and a few areas in North Texas during the past week, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration reports.

Although rain delayed harvesting in some sections of Texas, other areas still needed moisture. Heavy rains in the Virginia-Carolina section of the country caused some concern. On the other hand, farmers in the southeastern states enjoyed clear dry weather which was favorable for picking and curing.

Demand for No. 1 shelled Spanish peanuts improved this week at 16 1/2 cents a pound. This week's market was unchanged to a quarter of a cent lower than a week ago, and the same as last year. Prices paid to growers in both the Southwest and Southeast parts of the nation were in line with Commodity Credit Corporation's support schedule.

Crushers were active in the Southwest this week, but offerings of peanut oil and meal remained light. Peanut meal of 41 per cent protein content was a little weaker at $65 to $68 a ton. Crude peanut oil showed a penny loss to bring 16 1/2 cents a pound, f.o.b., southwestern mills.

GIVE NEW INSTRUCTIONS FOR VETERANS IN EDUCATION AND REHABILITATION PROGRAMS

New instructions pertaining to the vocational rehabilitation and education program have been received by the Veterans Administration.

Dr. George T. McMahan, manager of the Veterans Administration Center, Waco, has been advised that these new instructions on vocational rehabilitation and education program.

These new instructions have been issued to preserve the underlying spirit of the education and training provisions of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act and to safeguard the interests of the veteran and the government.

Effective now, when a veteran submits his application to the VA he will show on that application the name of the course and the name of the institution at which such course will be pursued.

All certificates of eligibility and entitlement issued by the VA will show the name of the course and the name of the approved educational or training institution. That certificate permits the veteran to enroll at the school specified for the course named only.

Another important change in regulations pertains to veterans who have completed a course of education or training under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act or the Rehabilitation Act.

Those veterans desiring to begin an additional course of education or training, full-time or otherwise, must submit a complete justification with their application, setting forth reasons why the course is essential to their employment.

Similar justifications must be sent in by any veteran who wishes to reenter training after having discontinued his course of education.

tion or training either of his own volition or because his progress has been unsatisfactory. Veterans who are now in training and who desire to change their course must similarly submit a written statement setting forth the reasons for the desired change.

No payment of subsistence allowance or tuition will be authorized for any period prior to the date the VA issues certificate of eligibility and entitlement showing the specific course and the name of the approved educational or training institution. Dr. McMahan advised that detailed instructions will be mailed to the several training facilities involved immediately upon receipt from Washington.

Dr. McMahan stresses that veterans should not seek to pursue courses for avocational or recreational purposes, but only courses which will contribute to the veteran's vocational or occupational advancement or educational objective.

Health Requires Systematic Sleep

Sleep is a necessity of life and health, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, and habitual loss of sleep will tend to retard the body's recovery from fatigue of the day's activities.

"We may be able to go without sleep for a night or two, but too little sleep for a prolonged period will undermine the health of a rugged person and turn a cheerful individual into a cross, irritable one," Dr. Cox said. "When good health can be protected to such a large extent merely by sleeping, and thus allow overtaxed bodies and minds to secure the proper rest, it is hard to understand why so many persons are heedless of this important health measure."

Some individuals require more sleep than others. How well we sleep is as important as how long we sleep. A good night's rest means a sufficient number of hours spent in sleep to enable each person to feel well, do efficient work, and to keep in a cheerful humor the next day.

"Some outdoor exercise each day, a comfortable bed, and fresh air in your sleeping quarters," Dr. Cox said, "will help us to sleep soundly at night. Do not mull over your problems and ideas after you have gone to bed. Make your plans early in the evening for a good night's rest by slowing down from the physical and mental work of your daily life. When you arise each morning, rested and with a feeling of general well being, you will be amply repaid for your thought in planning a good night's sleep."

In the spring, many hillsides get the wanderlust. Coaxed by driving rains, billions of soil particles run off to muddy creeks—leave the farm forever!

Fortunately, you can fight this mass migration of topsoil, fertilizer, and organic matter by working your ground on the contour. Of course, contour farming may not in itself curb erosion completely. It works hand in glove with terracing, strip cropping, crop rotation, vegetative gully control, and seasonal cover crops, however, to "hog-tie" uncultivated hillsides.

You can adapt your land to contour farming with regular tractor equipment, even to such specialized soil-saving jobs as gully filling and terracing. Working together with your local agricultural experts you can hold your hillsides and hoist your profits by farming on the contour.

Dramatic Film At Plains This Week

Randolph Scott, as the surveyor who finds the vital pass through the Rockies in the new Twentieth Century - Fox release, "Canadian Pacific," is said to have the best roll of his career in the Sat Holt production in Cinecolor opening September 21 at the Plains Theatre here.

As the slow-speaking western hero, somewhat reminiscent of the late William S. Hart, Scott again shows his ability to combine fine dramatic talent with fast-moving action.

Scott is six feet two inches tall, weighs 190 pounds and has light brown hair and hazel eyes. He studied engineering at Georgia Tech but always had a secret yearning for the stage. As Tom Andrews, the intrepid surveyor for the Canadian Pacific Railway, Randy was well equipped to handle the surveyor's paraphernalia without the usual technical advisor's help.

"I felt like I was making history," Randy commented when he had been handed his surveyor's pouch. "Some of the instruments were practically museum pieces that probably were used in that his-
