Baptist Workers Feted At Dinner Wednesday Night

The Christmas motif was carried out in the table decorations for teachers and officer workers council at the Baptist church Tuesday evening, December sixth.

The dinner was served to the council at 6:45, by Mesdames J. W. Dunlap, C. D. Lane and A. J. McCuin, after which the table was cleared and a business meeting conducted.

Plans were made for the extension of the block system visitation program. Also it was voted to secure a state Sunday school worker here for a study course early in 1950.

Mrs. W. A. Strickland announced her plans for the Christmas musical pageant and asked the cooperation of every worker in securing characters for the pageant and the music which will accompany it. Practices began Wednesday evening, December seventh. All recommendations made at the meeting will be presented for the approval of the church at a regular business meeting.

Twenty four superintendents, teachers and other workers were present. The council meets each Tuesday before the first Wednesday of the month.

SALUTE FOR 'MISS USO HOSPITALITY'

FORT DEVENS, Mass.—Pretty Alice Lutz of Methuen, Mass., whom GI's here chose as "Miss USO Hospitality", prepares to unfurl a USO banner while a trio of Uncle Sam's trim nephews salute smartly. The ceremony was part of a gay weekend when Fort Devens servicemen turned the tables, and played host to an "invading army" of USO junior hostesses from New England.

Vaccinate Kiddos For Diphtheria Is Advise Of Doctors

"No one needs to have diphtheria, but it will not be conquered until all parents realize that they and their children must be safeguarded against it," declared Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. "After the first six to nine months of life nearly every child is susceptible to the disease and should be immunized. Adults also have diphtheria, but are not as liable to 'catch' it as children. A successful immunization gives complete protection against the disease."

Other diseases for which there is immunity are: smallpox, lock jaw and whooping cough.

Dr. Cox advises parents to consult their family physician and gives these instructions parents to follow concerning immunization:

"Vaccination against small any age during an epidemic routinely between three months of age. Repeat at 12 years of age and during epidemic. Revaccinate after exposure.

"If immunization is to be against diphtheria only, start between nine and 12 months of age. Whooping cough (pertussis) should be immunized. Adults also have diphtheria, but are not as liable to 'catch' it as children. A successful immunization gives complete protection against the disease."

"Multiple combined vaccines now being used safely against diphtheria, tetanus (lock jaw), pertussis, starting at three years of age."

December Grapes Are Shown Here

Fresh grapes of three different varieties, grown by Silas Havens on his farm here, were shown in town over the week end. The grapevines, aided by favorable weather, have been bearing continuously since Summer.

Last week the Review carried an account of Jim Cross harvesting roasting ears in December. Such agricultural phenomenon may not occur again for many years, believe well informed local sources.

OBSOLETE WIRING WON'T HANDLE THESE MODERN-DAY FARM ELECTRICAL LOADS

The electric wiring on many farms is obsolete so far as safety and economical use of power is concerned. Farmsteads that were wired a number of years ago just weren't wired to handle the modern day electrical loads, says W. S. Allen, agricultural engineer-buildings of Texas A. & M. College.

A few years ago the chief uses of electricity on the farm were for lights, perhaps an electric pump motor and a few household appliances. It is different today. Farmers are using large motors to elevate grain, to operate pressure water systems, and literally dozens of smaller motors and appliances to make their work faster and easier around the farmstead, says Allen. There's chicken and pig brooders, cream separators, milking machines and milk coolers, lights all over the place and in the home many new appliances and machines have been added with little thought given to modernizing the wiring system.

Allen suggests that you make a few simple checks for the purpose of determining whether or not some new wiring on your farm would be in order. The lights and electrical equipment are good indicators—just watch them. Lights dim when the refrigerator or pump motor kicks on. The fluorescent light in the kitchen may go completely out. Radio volume decreases when other equipment is on; the cream separator motor doesn't seem to have its usual pep; the electric range doesn't heat as fast at chore time and electric motors stall and get hot. These are danger signals.

If these situations exist on your farm, says Allen, chances are very good that your farmstead wiring is inadequate. For the equipment you are using, the wires from the transformer to the equipment are too long, too small or both.

In addition to the low voltage which causes dim lights, loss of power and loss of time in waiting for electrical elements to heat, electricity furnished by inadequate wiring costs more money, says Allen, and a rewiring job would pay. The use of larger wire and a shorter span between the transformer and the meter have often resulted in considerable savings to the farmer.

Allen points out that it is possible that some of the trouble might be caused from low voltage carried in the distribution line.

One Hen Lays 5 Giant Eggs Here In A Single Day

Five of the largest hen eggs seen in Cross Plains in years was being shown in town Tuesday. The eggs averaged approximately seven inches in circumference the shortest way around and nine inches lengthwise.

The eggs were laid by a white leghorn hen owned by R. T. Reid, who lives in the north-east part of town. All five of the giant sized eggs were gathered the same day.

Mr. Reid says he has witnessed to prove that all five of the eggs were laid by the same hen in a single day.

The eggs were being shown in business houses by J. W. Cox, a cousin of Mr. Reid.

A new home is under way about one-half mile west of town. Mr. Elzie Teston, a former resident of this community who recently returned from Hot Springs, New Mexico, plans to make it his permanent home.

Our community enjoyed a well needed rain Thursday afternoon and night. Two and one-fourth inches of rain was recorded.

A gadget was found near Pioneer last week by Fred Spralls. No one seems to know what it is. It could be a part of a lawn mower, or something that belongs to a peanut thresher, a paraffin scraper for oil field work, or a stalk cutter. It's some kind of a contraption beyond the imagination of those who have seen it. It has a little inside one end, "A Spiral Centralizer" and is about four feet long and five inches in diameter, painted red. It's new and may have fallen from a truck. It can be seen at Delma Dean's Grocery Store.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Flippin and children visited their son, Alvin, in Hobbs, New Mexico last week.

Wild, Rough Country Found In Big Bend National Park Area

By Howard King, Author, Texas Tourist Travel Guide

From El Paso, The Rio Grande flows southeast for 200 miles; then turns south for nearly 100 miles; southeast again for about the same distance, then abruptly turns north and east. In this rampage it cuts an 18,000 square mile chunk out of Northern Mexico.

This rocky mountainous, semi-arid country is called the Big Bend country because of the big "U" formed by the river. At the very lowest part of the bend is Big Bend National Park.

The Big Bend Park consists of about 1,000 square miles of dry, arid, rough, hot and dusty territory with a lofty range of scenic mountains in the center. The Rio Grande River, which curves around it, tears through majestic canyons with towering rocky walls. Some people say the park is a terrible place. Others think it is the most beautiful imaginable. To say the least, it is strange and different.

At present, the Big Bend country is a wild, untamed area, hard to get to and without comforts. For an idea of the plan of it, lay your right hand, palm up, on the table in front of you. Consider the town of Marathon somewhere on your forearm as the starting place. It is 80 miles south from Marathon to the Chisos Basin, represented by the palm of your hand. Your thumb points toward the town of Terlingua; your forefinger points to the Santa Elena Canyon; your middle finger extends to Mariscal Canyon; and your little finger points to Boquillas. You can drive to the park boundary and from there to the Basin, to Terlingua, to Santa Elena Canyon or to Boquillas. There is no road to Mariscal Canyon.

From Marathon it is 40 miles south to Cooper's Store in Persimmon Gap. From there you drive through Tornillo (pronounced Tornee-yah) Desert and across Tornillo draw, past Rosillos (meaning red) and Christmas mountains. Ahead are the majestic Chisos (pronounced Chees-us) mountains 8,000 feet high. The word means ghosts and as your car pulls up and around the steep grades you will see why. At 6,000 feet you will pull over and down into the gorgeous basin where headquarters of the park are located.

It is cool here. The pine and fir trees are tall and beautiful. The view is breathtaking.

Pack trips may be made into the mountains.

Remembering the analogy given, you come back from the palm of your hand and pass along the thumb to Terlingua outside the park. This trip is over bad roads, passable in dry weather, but scenic beyond description.

Terlingua is a mining town consisting of a great quicksilver mine, commissary and a number of adobe houses. There are a few quaint roadside stores and big mines along this road.

The road to Santa Elena Canyon winds over mountains and past vast areas of great erosions resembling the Grand Canyon—hot, dry, colorful. This is the "loneliest road on earth" but you finally see before you the great green and olive rocky wall called Mesa Angula. The river flows through a crack in the wall. This is the world-famous Santa Elena Canyon. The walls are more than 1,500 feet high but you see them from the bottom—not from the top.

Mariscal, also a great canyon, is formed by a gap in the Mariscal mountains through which the river flows for 12 miles. Its rapids are practically impassable.

Travelers along the road to Boquillas find the going rough and hot. Just before reaching the river, you come upon the hot springs where a tiny bath house is located. You can usually ride a burro across the river but a strong cable over the river furnishes a primitive trolley car for passage to the Mexican village of Boquillas Canyon where the Rio Grande tears through the Del Carmen Mountains.

Yucca, sotol, creosote, cacti, and similar plants grow in these desert areas. Animal life is varied from wild pig (peccary or javalina) in the foothills to Black bear, deer, mountain lions, etc., higher up. Along the Rio Grande are many beautiful birds.

Limited accommodations are available at headquarters in the Basin. There are a few cabins, restaurant, and filling station. Part of the highway from Marathon to the park has been surfaced and plans are being made to complete this.

Gasoline may be obtained at Cooper's Store, park headquarters and occasionally at Terlingua. Water is available at Cooper's Store, park headquarters and at a spring at the park entrance. There is a road from Alpine to Terlingua and on into the park. It is winding, narrow and not good in bad weather.

Wedding Observed By Local Couple

Mrs. L. P. Reid of Cross Plains was honored on their wedding anniversary, Sunday, December 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Littlefield.

The celebration was held from one to five o'clock with 25 guests calling. The early day residents of Cross Plains, resided in Littlefield 15 years before coming to Cross Plains.

Decorations were autumn in color, a large arrangement of chrysanthemums decorated with other arrangements of flowers and vases in the living room.

Austin Reid presided at the book.

The table was laid with a lace cover, centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, a crystal punch bowl and lighted tapers. After the honored couple cut the first piece of wedding cake, Mrs. Jesse Davis of Sundown served the cake with Mrs. J. C. Hefner of Loop pouring punch.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid were married December 3, 1899 in San Saba county. They are parents of three children, Mrs. Hefner, Roy Reid of LaPryor, and Austin Reid in whose home the fiftieth wedding anniversary was held. They have 18 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Orba Booth, of Los Almos, New Mexico, arrived here first of the week to enter his mother, Mrs. Cordie Booth in the hospital. She has been ill several days.

Walter Williamse Note 50th Wedding Event Next Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williamse, both of whom have lived in this county for more than 60 years, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, and friends are being asked to visit their home between Cottonwood and Admiral during the afternoon.

Mr. Williamse was born in Johnson county June 14, 1878 and came to Callahan county with his parents when a boy of only about six years. Mrs. Williamse, who was born March 29, 1877, has also been a resident of the county since girlhood. They were married December 18, 1899, and have three children: Mrs. Amy Dodson, of Baird; Loy Williamse, Ranger, and Ollis Williamse, who resides with his parents.

No invitations to Sunday's golden wedding event are being mailed, however, friends and neighbors are urged to accept notices through the press as personal and plan to visit the popular couple Sunday afternoon.

Burning Leaves Is Wasteful; Compost Pile Easy To Make

Every fall tons of leaves go up in smoke instead of being saved for use later in the vegetable garden, flower beds or for mulches on the trees and shrubs. Burning is an easy but wasteful way to tidy up the home premises of fallen leaves. It is not the best, says Sadie Hatfield, extension specialist in landscape gardening of Texas A. & M. College. She says it takes little trouble or space to make a compost pile and when the leaves decay into humus or leaf mold, you not only have organic matter that has fertilizing value but, more important, it adds to the water holding capacity of the soil and makes it easier to work.

Making a compost pile may seem complicated to the amateur but it can be simple. A stack of leaves held down by boards or a layer of soil will decay in two or three years but this can be hastened by turning the pile over occasionally with the spading fork and keeping it moist. She says leaves and similar grass and garden trash will decay even faster if the pile is made of alternate layers of leaves and rich soil. It is a good idea to mix in some nitrogen fertilizer or manure if it is available, she adds. Wood ashes from the fireplace may be mixed with the leaves. Use about a pound of ashes for every 20 to 25 pounds of leaves.

She says that leaves make a good fall mulch for the bulb beds and for trees and shrubs. Apply the leaves before the ground is frozen as a protection against heavy freezing and against starting of growth during warm spells in winter.

Mrs. O. B. Edmondson and son, and Mrs. L. W. Westerman were Eastland visitors Tuesday afternoon.

SOIL FUMIGATION FOR NEMATODES

Many people in the Cross Plains and Clyde areas this year were troubled a lot by the root-knots on their vegetable plants that were caused by a very small worm called a nematode, which is scarcely visible to the unaided eye. Plants that are affected with the root-knot nematodes are usually lacking in vigor, stunted, and pale of color. Root-knot galls are ordinarily much smaller and more numerous than the large, more spherical swellings of crown gall. One might confuse root knots with nodules on legume plants which are produced by the beneficial nitrogen fixing bacteria. These nodules are easily broken off from the side of the root, whereas nematode galls are swellings of the root itself and cannot be separated from the root.

The eradication or control of nematodes is not easily obtained. Fields that are infested with nematodes should be planted to grasses or cereals or some plant that is resistant to nematodes for several years. All weeds should be controlled since they are host to nematodes. Clean cultivation and frequent plowing in dry weather helps to get rid of some nematodes. Small garden plots may be treated with several chemicals to kill the nematodes. Some of these chemicals are ethylene dibromide, carbon disulphide, chloropicrin and others.

Ethylene dibromide is the newest and experiments have shown that it is easy to apply and does a good job of killing the nematodes as well as wireworms and does help to control black rot in sweet potatoes. This chemical can be applied in the row where the seed or plant is set. The old method of treating the whole field with the chemical does not give any better results. In the row application allows a reduction of from one-sixth to one-half of the amount of chemical needed per acre, depending upon the width of row. Experiments to this time also indicate the in the row application of ethylene dibromide has given yield increases equal to those resulting from overall application.

Ethylene dibromide can be bought commercially as Dofume W-85 or Dofume W-40. For further information on the use of chemicals to treat gardens for root-knot nematodes you can visit the office or write to the County Agent.

GRASS IDENTIFICATION CONTEST

At a meeting of the Board of Supervisors of the Lower Clear Fork Soil Conservation District on December first, it was decided that the board would sponsor a Plant Identification contest for 4-H and FFA Club boys. The District includes parts of Callahan, Shackelford and Stephens counties. N. M. George of Baird is chairman of this board of supervisors. It was decided by all the supervisors that $25 would be put up to be used to buy team and individual prizes for the winning scorers.

Plants to be identified will be those which grow in this area. They will include grasses, weeds, shrubs, and legumes. Boys will be required to identify the plants and tell the value of the plants for grazing purposes.

The contest will be open to the 4-H Club boys of the three counties and the FFA chapters which are located in the Lower Clear Fork District. That will be those chapters at Baird, Albany, Moran, and Breckenridge.

The contest will be held on January 11, 1950 in Albany. It was decided to hold it in Albany since it was more centrally located and could be easily reached by all to take part in the contest.

Farm Income To Decline Faster Than Expenses

Over-all family living expenditures are not expected to drop as fast or as much as the over-all farm income.

That is what the experts see in the crystal ball for 1950. Food supplies in general are a little larger than a year ago and food consumption per capita is expected to remain near the 1949 level or may go even higher according to Mrs. Florence Low, extension home management specialist of Texas A. & M. College.

Consumer purchases of food should be encouraged by the plentiful and varied supply and by the lower retail prices that now appear likely for the year. The prices received by the farmer for the food products are expected to decline more than the prices the consumer will have to pay.

Mrs. Low reports that prices paid by farmers for clothing declined 7 per cent from the post-war high of September, 1948, to June, 1949. Further drops in clothing prices seem to hinge on what may happen to the general economic situation she says. The retail supplies of clothing should be generally good during 1950, however, should the downward trend in prices continue. Retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers may continue their cautious buying and this in turn may cause temporary shortages to develop from time to time.

The demand for clothing remained at a high level during most of 1949 and indications are good for this to continue, especially, if incomes continue to be high. Declines will probably be noticed first in the so called "style" articles, says Mrs. Low.

Supplies of household equipment and furnishings should be adequate. There is a slow but certain movement from a seller's to a buyer's market for many of the durable goods and families are now able to purchase many items at prices somewhat lower than for last year. Standard models are being bought in many lines of household equipment in preference to the deluxe models because primarily of the difference in prices, says Mrs. Low. The consumer demand she thinks will determine the available supply of most household equipment.

Liars Club Contest Brings Forth Large Number of Entries

Washington—This is the season for lies—just before the Burlington (Wis.) Liars Club picks the biggest liar of 1949.

Otis C. Hulett, club president, has forwarded some dandies which are entered in this year's contest. Lie entries have come from all over the world.

A gentleman from Panther Burn, Miss., sent in this:

"I had a mule which wasn't good at much else so I taught him to pick cotton. He plucked the blooms with his teeth until about half an hour before quitting time. Then he would back into his job and kick 'em off. He seemed to work better and faster backward at the finish so I entered him in the Blytheville, Arkansas national cotton picking contest. He came up to the finish line two pounds behind, turned and kicked enough into his sack to win."

Goldfish Cures Cat
Fred P. Prior of Ashland, Ill., says his wife is right proud of a bowl of goldfish she has at home. Two little fish and one big one. Also among the family pets is a fish loving cat.

For a long time the cat was content to "set and watch." But finally it pawed up to the rim of the bowl and had a direct look.

"That big fish let him have it," says Fred. "He did a quick turn around the bowl swished his tail and water splashed the tabby in the puss. The cat doesn't have much use for fish any more."

Tom R. McCrea of Philadelphia swears in a notarized entry that his uncle has a garden so fertile that he has to fetch along a machete when he walks through his half-acre—to peel the shoots from his peg leg.

Herman Schilling of Chili, Wis., who describes himself as a "member of the Liars Club," comes up with this one:

"The lake looked good so I went fishing for musky one morning. I took along some bottle beer, plus my tackle. I rowed out a piece and started to bait up when I discovered I had forgotten the bait. I was in a what-the-heck mood, so I tied a hook and lead into a bottle of that fine Wisconsin beer. I pitched 'er in. I didn't have to wait long before I had a tug on my line and a fight on my hands. I played with that guy for half an hour. Finally I got him alongside and pulled him in. He was very gentle then. I thought I had a dead fish on my hands. But no. He was just drunk. The musky had yanked the cap off the bottle of beer, finished same, and was hanging onto the top of the bottle for dear life."

Possum Hunting Dog
Mrs. Joseph Warren of Manchester, Ia., had a friend who has a cousin in Arkansas.

This cousin of the friend loves nothing better than to go possum hunting. But, like his hound dog, he's lazy. Lazier than the dog, in fact. So the cousin of the friend educated the hound; taught the pup to do all the hunting.

"This cousin of my friend," the lady writes, "went even farther than that. He cut boards the size of the possum skins he would like to have. Then he'd show it to the dog and away the dog would go and bring back the right sized sum. One day, the wife of a cousin of my friend was some ironing and the cousin's friend was asleep. The looked at the ironing board went yipping into the woods. He heard of the pup once in a while. In Louisiana. And not long ago one of the family got a saying the dog had been seen in Florida. This cousin of my friend concluded he had raised a good critter. Dumb, too."

Congressman Trips Costing U.S. Plenty

WASHINGTON — Congressional trips to all parts of the world probably will cost taxpayers well over $150,000 this year.

A check recently showed that 120 House members and 30 Senators either are out of the country, have been, or plan to go.

Exact information on the congressional globe-trotters is difficult to pin down.

But people who must arrange transportation, issue passports and handle similar details say this year has witnessed probably the greatest exodus of congressmen in history.

Although Senators and Representatives often are touchy about the subject, most of them insist the money is well spent.

During the last year Congress acting for the people, has voted some $20,000,000,000 for foreign aid, arms assistance and national defense. It will be spent in all parts of the world.

Many of the lawmakers work long hours on the trips trying to learn where the money is spent, what conditions exist abroad and what must be done in the future. This checkup actually costs only a tiny fraction of the totals involved. But the trips are not always all work. Foreign nations and officials usually are anxious to entertain the visitors, and United States diplomats and employees overseas always seek to please the men who control the purse strings.

Some members have taken their wives, daughters and friends along, although they usually pay the extra costs from their own pockets.

Exact costs to the government and taxpayers are difficult to ascertain. Often the congressmen can fly along on a United States airplane that would make the trip anyway.

But congressional veterans said the average government cost for a trip to Europe and back runs about $1,200 and longer trips may double or treble that expense.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE HITTING FINE PACE

Average daily attendance at Cross Plains schools during the last six weeks period was slightly better than 90 per cent, which local school officials thought might be a new record. Indications are now that the total will soar even higher when records are completed for the current six weeks period.

"We are having very little absenteeism," says Jack Stout, principal, "and work is progressing exceptionally well."

Items of interest taken from the files of the Review of 30, 20 and 10 years ago.

30 YEARS AGO

December 10, 1919

A bale of cotton sold in Temple last Saturday for three cents per pound, the lowest price recorded in years. It was "dog ear" cotton, weather stained and damaged, ragged and low grade.

With the proceeds of his bale the seller invested in a pair of Sunday shoes, receiving 15 cents in change. This he offered in exchange for a cold drink at a fountain. His chargin was great when his attention was called to the two cent war tax. Being out of funds he borrowed the tax from a friend.

John Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Carter of this place, has quit the role of bachelor, and become a benedict, the woman in the case being Miss Eulie Corder of Brownwood. They were suddenly married after four years courtship in Houston on Thanksgiving.

Paul V. Harrell returned last week from a prospecting trip to Breckenridge. He reports that town as being a boomer and quite a tough place to live in. The town is being drilled full of holes in search of the liquid gold, and much of the usual elusive fluid is being found.

Lee Thompson, conductor on the main line of the Katy, spent Sunday night in Cross Plains the guest of friends.

Raymond DeBusk, 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. DeBusk of Comal, six miles west of town, put eight acres in cotton from which he has picked eight bales, selling the crop for $869.27. His prices ran from 11c to 27.5c.

S. E. Brewer, local carpenter and contractor, last week finished building Leonard Irwin's house four miles east of town. The house is a five room bungalow and is a modern structure. He has a screened in porch and bath.

20 YEARS AGO

December 12, 1929

When a man sits down to fill out his income tax blank about the only secret he is allowed to keep is his reason for getting married.

A. R. Clark, assistant cashier of the First State Bank of Cross Plains for the past five years, has tendered his resignation to accept a position with the First National Bank in Amarillo.

If you want to see a bow-legged girl's face light up with happiness tell her that skirts are going to be longer next spring.

The most prominent beacon of the advent of the yuletide season is the Christmas tree that adorns the top most of the city water tank, designed and placed there by supt. of the water works, O. T. Laws. The top decoration of the tree consists of a high voltage light, beneath which is a canopy of lesser lights of varied colors. The display is visible for 25 miles in every direction from the city.

Our idea of an "old timer" is the Cross Plains citizen who can remember when the butcher used to throw in a piece of liver for the dog.

10 YEARS AGO

December 15, 1939

It was announced this week by supt. Lewis C. Norman that Cross Plains will hold its annual basketball tournament for both boys and girls here on January fifth and sixth.

H. C. Freeman, L. D. Montgomery, Dr. Ell Powell and Henry Freeman returned home Friday night after spending a few days on the Coast fishing.

To give the business district a more slightly appearance during Christmas, merchants gathered their personels in front of their respective stores Tuesday morning and gave side walks and streets a brisk sweeping. Trucks hauled away all rubbish and in less than an hour the business section appeared clean as a hounds tooth.

The weather man, however, dished out a sand storm Tuesday afternoon and cluttered the streets again with sand, leaves, etc. None the discouraged, business men are planning to do the job again early next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brashear of Eastland, and formerly of this place, are the parents of a seven pound baby girl born December seventh. The baby has been named Annette.

The work on the Scranton gymnasium has been resumed again after a shut down for several months on the account of no funds to carry on the work.

Dairymen Warned To Guard Cattle Against Mastitis

Austin - With colder weather coming on, mastitis cases may increase in dairy herds, the American Foundation for Animal Health recently warned cattle owners.

"Mastitis frequently follows teat or udder injury," a Foundation bulletin says.

"Many animals which have spent much of the day on pasture are being confined to barns at this time of year as pastures taper off. This means that mastitis hazards are greater."

To safeguard cows, the Foundation advised these precautionary steps:

"Check the barn for high sills, protruding nails, or any objects which may injure teats and udders.

"Have a veterinarian examine all animals for the disease. Infected cows should be put at the end of the milking line and milked last.

"Practice rapid milking, making sure that teat cups are not left on any longer than necessary. Check vacuum gauges; too much vacuum is responsible for numerous teat injuries.

"Disinfect the milking equipment and see that the cow's teats and udders, and milker's hands are washed and dried, since these are the paths by which mastitis infection travels from diseased to healthy animals.

"Keep a close lookout for signs of trouble. If called promptly veterinarians can save many cases which otherwise might soon become untreatable."

Mrs. John Dillard was called to Raymondville last week to be at the bedside of a daughter, who was reported quite ill.

'49 Rainfall Now Above 33 Inches

Up to Tuesday noon of this week rainfall received in Cross Plains during 1949 totaled 33.03 inches, less than seven inches shy of the 40 inches predicted for the year by S. F. Bond.

The year's aggregate was upped 2.30 inches by precipitations which began Thursday and continued intermittently over the week end.

1948 was a dry year in Cross Plains, and when Mr. Bond announced his prediction of 40 inches last January many friends belittled his prophesy. Indications are now though, that his long range forecast will not be far wrong.

Abilene Man Made District Attorney

Wiley Caffey, Taylor County Judge, was named District Attorney Tuesday by Governor Allan Shivers to fill the vacancy in the 42nd judicial district caused by the death of Thomas E. Hayden.

Caffey, who accepted the appointment immediately, said that he could take the oath of office Thursday, and that he would be a candidate for election next year.

Caffey will try his first jury cases next Monday.

Research Aiding Nation's Ranges

Ninety-three million acres is a lot of land, even in Texas, and they are mighty important to the meat producers and consumers of the state and nation. Approximately 7 1/2 million cattle, 7 1/2 million sheep and 2 1/2 million goats are depending on these ranges for their livelihood, says Dr. V. A. Young, head of the range and forestry department of the Texas A. & M. College System, to say nothing about the human element.

Livestock ranges in Texas have been exploited for the past 50 years to the extent that their grazing capacity has been lowered about 50 per cent, says Young, but applied research can and is helping to correct the situation. In many instances, he says, we ruined our stands of good grasses and they have been replaced by poor grasses, noxious weeds and shrubs. Surface and gully erosion have also left many ugly scars on our range lands.

In rebuilding, we must first reduce our livestock numbers to fit the grazing capacity of the ranges, says Young. This should be based on how many of the good grasses are present and consideration should be given to both year-round and seasonal grazing periods. Low producing and poor quality animals eat more than their share of the range vegetation. They should be marketed, advises Young.

Then, continues Young, we should graze so as to leave at least 50 per cent of the short grasses on the range. A stubble of 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 inches should be left on the flat rolling ranges and more on the steep slopes, he says. This will keep the land from washing and will add organic matter for fertility and plant growth. Even on the best ranges, it is best to leave 40 per cent of the good grasses and a 4 to 6 inch stubble of the tall grasses, depending on the species.

If the range has been severely overgrazed, he suggests a long-time deferred grazing program; no grazing for one or more years. This type of grazing is economical for it gives the best forage plants a chance to re-seed, gain strength, develop a good root system and produce leaves that are necessary for greater production and reserve food storage. It is not possible to follow this practice, then deferred rotation grazing system should be followed. The native grass pastures should be deferred first and grazing should be withheld long enough to give the good grasses a chance to make and mature a seed crop.

Range plants, he says, are in their most critical state in the spring. The food supply in the root is low and leaf and stem growth must take place before the supply can be built up. Springtime care of the range plus a well planned and conducted range improvement program will certainly help to get sick range land back on its feet, says Young. He suggests that you talk your range problems over with your local county agent, because he can give you a lot of suggestions that are based on local situations.

He states that overgrazing of ranges has never paid and never will.

Rancher Waiting Doctor's Invite To Goose Dinner

Dr. Eli Powell went gunning for ducks one afternoon last week and came home with a bag of nice, fat geese.

The popular physician slipped up on a tank at the Hugh McDermott place and found a flock of Mallards feeding peacefully. He picked out two large geese in the group and took dead aim.

A couple of shots were all he could get before the flock was gone, but when smoke cleared both the geese were dead and floating bankward.

It was not until some time later that Hugh McDermott learned that his two domesticated geese were missing. "I'm expecting him to invite me up for goose dinner to even the score", Hugh says.
