Labor Day Just That For Weekly

By DON TABOR
Publisher

In the weekly newspaper business, Labor Day is just that — a day of labor.

For some strange reason, the holiday always seems to come around on Monday, and in the weekly newspaper business, Mondays and Tuesdays are gut days.

That's a somewhat tasteless way of saying those are the two most important days of the week for a weekly in that they are the days when 99 per cent of the work is done toward getting the paper out.

Consequently, Monday holidays (and there are a bunch of them) are few and far between for the staff of a weekly.

If you don't work on Monday, the paper is a day late. Then advertisers are unhappy because that's one day less the readers have to check their ads. And if the advertisers are unhappy and don't advertise, that's all she wrote for a weekly newspaper.

And, although we here at the paper can't observe Labor Day physically, we do it in spirit.

All the folks who work hard, and most do, deserve this holiday. And it couldn't come at a better time. After a long, hot summer, it's one last chance to kick up the heels a bit before school starts (although in a few places, school jumped the gun a bit this year).

Although the calendar says it's still summer, to me Labor Day has always meant the start of fall. And with fall, business usually picks up (and, boy, we can sure use some of that now).

Well, that's not exactly correct. Business usually picks up AFTER the West Texas Fair in Abilene is over. That perennial ogre has taken more money out of the area and cost local business more than anything I can think of.

And, maybe best of all, fall means the start of serious football season. I realize that, being as how I am a card-carrying football nut, I'm prejudice on this point.

So, hooray for Labor Day.

Firemen Keep Damage to Minimum

Flames were reported in Dale Mitchell's Cabinet Shop around 9:00 p.m. Friday night. A quick response by the Cross Plains Volunteer Fire Department kept damage at a minimum.

Only a small area at the front of the shop was burned. The origin of the fire was not known.

Mitchell said he was grateful that the fire was controlled and little harm sustained.

New District No Bargain

By DON TABOR
Publisher

The Cross Plains Buffaloes will open their 1986 football season at home Friday night as heavy favorites against the Blanket Tigers, but coaches always fear that opening contest because of the unknown quantities.

The Buffs' new coach, Mike Permenter, didn't get any bargain in new district alignments which go into effect this season.

The Buffs posted a 4-6 record last year under coach Mark Davidson, but that was in a Class A district. Unfortunately, Cross Plains had a good ADA last year and got bumped up to a Class AA loop this year.

And what a AA district it is. It's designation is District 8-AA and to call it weak is like calling Conan the Barbarian a pacifist.

For starters, the pre-season favorite for the district title is Goldthwaite. All the Eagles did last year was win the Class A state championship. Now, add to all that experience the fact that Goldthwaite returns four All-Staters, 18 lettermen, seven starters each way and a 1,600-yard rusher in Brad Holtzclaw, Jr., and you've got a squad that my 4-year-old grandson would pick to win the district.

If that doesn't convince you that it's tough district, try on the fact that the new alignment also contains Coleman. It's an understatement to say that the Bluecats are a perennial powerhouse. This season, they'll be striving to reach the playoffs for the fourth year in a row. Cross Plains last won a district championship in the 1950's.

A couple of other teams in the district, Winters and Wall, also have not been slouches in pigskin circles through the years.

With a bigger-than-average offensive line and some team speed, the Buffs are picked in about the middle of the pack in the district race by most pre-season pollsters. Much of that speed is centered in running back Darrin Apple, who rushed for 1,054 yards last year.

Coach Permenter lists his main weakness as team depth, which is understandable when you consider the size of some of the other schools in the district.

Blanket is picked by most of the pre-seasoners to wind up near the bottom in District 8-A. Coach John Smith terms this a rebuilding year for the Tigers. The team remains something of a unknown quantity, with the only information I've been able to obtain coming out of the line-up listing for the football program.

One nagging question brought up in that program is a listing for a 200-pound junior running back by the name of Ray Morales. He's the biggest player on the team. His number is 25, and it might not be a bad idea to keep an eye on him Friday night.

New Marshal on Duty

Gerardo R. Martinez has been appointed City Marshal and began his duties August 21.

Martinez was previously employed by the Abilene Police Department for fifteen months.

He was enlisted in the U. S. Army for 4 years and served on the Military Police in West Germany for 1 year. Martinez has attended Texas A&M University in College Station. He has taken police related courses at Central Texas, New Mexico Junior College, Hobbs, New Mexico and Blinn Junior College in Bryan.

Jerry, as he prefers to be called, is originally from Uvalde. His wife is Nancy Jo and he has one son, Little Jerry.

CTO Sets Up Food Pantry

Central Texas Opportunities needs your help. They have recently established a food pantry in Callahan County. This pantry has been set up for several purposes: to help families while waiting for their approval of food stamps, and to assist families who have had a member of the family who has recently lost his or her income, etc.

With times harder then ever, Central Texas Opportunities is having trouble meeting the demands. If you as an individual or your group or organization would be interested in a can drive or a fund raiser, they could use your help. Please get involved.

This program is sponsored by Central Texas Opportunities - people helping people. For more information or further assistance, call Sheri Kitchens at (817) 725-7698 Monday through Friday between 8:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

Colby Walker

Hurt in Accident

Colby Walker, son of Randy and Vickie Walker, sustained injuries in mishap Wednesday, August 20.

Colby was enroute to the well to do a good deed when a piece of baling wire wrapped around the wheel of his three-wheeler. The wire then entangled his foot and pulled him off.

He was taken to Brownwood Regional where he learned that his leg was broken just above the ankle and his collar bone was fractured also. The broken bones are on opposite sides of his body and mobility is difficult.

ASPIRIN vs BLOOD CLOT

Many physicians take a small daily dose of aspirin to reduce the chance of stroke or heart attack. Aspirin helps because it slows blood clotting. Clots in coronary arteries cause some heart attacks - clots in brain arteries cause stroke. Researchers find that half an aspirin daily is as effective as bigger doses for slowing blood clotting.

The Cottonwood Ladies Quilting Club will start the 1986-87 meetings on Thursday, September 4, at 9:30 a.m. in the Cottonwood Community Center. Vanda King, Kye and Leah had supper with grandmother, Ethel Anderson, Saturday evening. The great-grandchildren spend hours playing in the upstairs room dressing up in long dresses, high heels, and putting on hats and accessories and occasionally have a style show for the adults. Visits to grandmother's house was a special place for all of us while we were growing up.

Thursday evening, Gayla and Lee Creamer came by to see Heidi, the new offspring and me. The pups will be four weeks old Tuesday and have progressed from the bottle to puppy chow last week. Of course, we still remain in the messy stage with their eating habits, which is hilarious at times, plus keeps me busy.

4-H Trap And Skeet Shoot

More than 400 4-H members and volunteer adult coaches participated in the 1986 State 4-H Trap and Skeet Shoot conducted at the Greater Houston Gun Club, August 6-9, and Callahan County was well represented.

Fifteen competitive events in American and International Trap and Skeet were sponsored by the State 4-H office in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, according to Greg Gerngross, County Extension Agent.

Local 4-H'ers from Callahan County participated in the event, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Ellis, shooting sports 4-H leaders from Oplin, accompanied the group.

Steve Ellis, Michael Shumaker and John Ball won second place overall-three-man team, second place senior skeet, and 6th place senior trap. John Ball was awarded the annual sportsmanship award and Steve Ellis was 6th place high individual.

The 1986 State Shoot represents nine years of state level competition in the Texas 4-H Shooting Sports Program, said Don Steinbach, Extension Service Fisheries Specialist and Program Manager of the State 4-H Trap and Skeet Shoot. In cooperation with the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation, 12 state and national organizations, including the Texas Skeet Shooters Association, Texas Trap Shooters Association, Texas State Rifle Association and numerous sport shooting manufacturers, helped sponsor this 4-H youth shooting sports event.

According to Tom Davison, State 4-H program leader, shooting sports is only one of some 60 educational projects offered by county and state 4-H programs in agriculture, home economics and related areas. Leadership, citizenship, public speaking, self confidence and cooperation with other youths and adults are all integrated parts of the life skills learned by 4-H youth when they join and participate in the county 4-H program.

Other memorials have been given for Lillie Mae Wilks, by the Willing Workers Quilting Club and Joe and Cubelle Harris; for Fannie Balkum by Patsy and George Friend; for Richard Long by Clara Nell Spencer and for Jean Woody by Dan and Nancy Childress.

Child Abuse Cases Increased In July

On August 21st, the Child Welfare Board met. Kay Saunders reported monthly statistics for the months of June and July. In June there were only four reported cases of child abuse; however in July, the number of referrals jumped to eleven, six were of sexual abuse, two were of physical abuse, two of physical neglect, and one of lack of supervision. These were cases reported in Callahan County.

The board is a volunteer extension of the department of Human Resources. It is not a money making or a profit making agency; in fact, it has no operating budget. All funding comes from donations and the volunteer effort of individuals as well as civic organizations. The board acted on a motion to provide emergency funds to children who have come under the custody of Callahan County protective services. The board authorized Joan Vestal, Baird representative, to acquire clothing donations and sell them at her personal garage sale, in behalf of the board, scheduled for October. Articles of clothing are presently being accepted at the Methodist Parsonage, where in conjunction with the Methodist Church of Baird, the Child Welfare board has established a clothes closet for indigent families with little or no resources. Still needed are children's apparel.

At the next board meeting, Eulaine Dickerson of Clyde will be speaking on her experiences in the foster parent program. The public is encouraged to attend. At the August meeting a film was shown which gave some startling information.

Of abusing parents, well over half have themselves come out of abusing family situations. But the cycle can be broken. Of abusing parents that have gone into counseling and therapy, 80 percent are successfully reunited with their families to have healthy family relationships. Fears, however, have been expressed that funding might be cut from Child protective services as well as rehabilitation services. It is hard to believe that eleven cases of child abuse could come out of Callahan County nearly every other month. But it is equally hard to take the realization that infants, two years and younger, are the ones that are most frequently physically abused. Fortunately and also unfortunately, the leading referral in our county is not physical abuse, but sexual abuse. This is a plague that touches the very heart of our county. The Child Welfare board needs your support. Get to know the volunteers on the board:

Clyde: Zeldia Dunn, Rada Maxwell, Sandy Scaramuzzo.

60 Attended Illingworth Reunion

As millions of Americans joined hands for Hands Across America to form a coast to coast human chain last May 25, one family that was not able to participate, remembered America's hungry and homeless in their own special way.

Alma Illingworth and her family joined hands and formed a circle at their annual family reunion, which was held near Stephenville. Family members said the circle was a symbolic gesture to remember impoverished families in the United States.

Approximately 60 people attended the reunion and joined in the circle. Family members said they wanted to take time out to remember that many American families are not as fortunate as they are.

The Illingworth family has been gathering for a Memorial Day fish fry for the past 10 years. They said they plan to continue the tradition.

The reunion gives the family time to get together and have fun. Alma Illingworth said they played volleyball, horseshoes and croquet. She said everyone had a ball.

Those attending the reunion included nine of Alma Illingworth's ten children. They are: Jack and Lee Preston; Bobby and Bonnie Illingworth and family; Dick Illingworth and family; Donald and Charlene Illingworth and family; Bill and Barbara Young and family; Jim and Carolyn Youngblood and family; Duard and Patty Turner and family; Johnny Illingworth and son, John Eric and Rolan and Sandra Jones and family.

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—The real "secret plan" in the Legislature these days is the Senate's strategy to force the House to raise the state sales tax.

That's because nobody knows for sure what will finally force House members to vote out a tax bill. The Texas Constitution says all tax bills must originate in the House Ways and Means Committee.

It doesn't outline how the Senate can force a reluctant House to originate such a bill and the memories of several longtime Capitol-watchers can't recall a precedent.

Last week, Gov. Mark White officially opened the agenda to include his 1 1/8 cent temporary sales tax plan, saying the budget cuts already passed by the House weren't enough.

So far, the Senate refuses to adopt the cuts until the House sends over a tax bill. And so far, House leaders have laughed at that pressure.

Force Certification

But a new strategy unveiled last week by Sen. Ray Farabee appears to be a product of the most logical of senate minds. The bill would require the state comptroller to certify whether the 1986-87 state budget will remain balanced.

Of course, it doesn't balance by an estimated tune of between $3.5 to $5 billion. The House would be constitutionally bound then to balance it, most likely by producing a tax bill.

Farabee said the Senate would hold approval of the House cuts until the House approved his bill. A few hours later, the House leadership responded—"no deal." Stare on.

Man of Hour

Thus, lawmakers remained deadlocked, tempers flared, and the governor, Lt. governor and speaker met to cool the coals. Quietly, some lawmakers are wondering if a second 30-day special session is in the making.

The man of the hour in the Texas Legislature, for better or worse, is Ways and Means Chairman Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen, gatekeeper for all tax bills.

As the stalemate thickens, Schlueter finds himself more and more in the vortex of new power and prominence.

An unapologetic conservative Democrat, he is unopposed for re-election. For years he has been a lieutenant in the House power structure, and included in every discussion about future House speakers. Now his proress is on display for all Texans.

He refused last week to hear the tax bill in committee.

For now, and maybe until next regular session, Schlueter keeps new taxes at bay. If and when he opens the gate, he will give the bill his conservative stamp and perhaps quietly leverage the passage of other issues as well. Some argue he holds the November success of other lawmakers in his hands.

Senate Highlights

While it waits for the House to thaw, the Senate works on other issues. Last week, senators:

- Amended a House school discipline bill to allow immediate expulsion of students involved in assaults, drugs and possession of weapons.

- Passed two controversial banking bills designed to save failing Texas banks. The Senate vote was 26-2. If the House passes the bills by a two-thirds majority, and voters approve the constitution amendments in November, Texas will finally allow branch banking and out-of-state banks.

- Gave committee approval and sent to the floor a bill to legalize betting on horse and dog racing. Senators are betting that Gov. Mark White, who opposes the bills, will be forced to add such revenue-raising measures to the special agenda.

- Tentatively confirmed White's controversial nomination of Jo Campbell to the Public Utility Commission. The nominations panel wanted her to explain her side of a pending lawsuit regarding allegations she had illegally discussed and taped rate cases with her staff.

The panel went so far as to summon Atty. Gen. Jim Mattox to a rare secret session to help members determine whether she had violated the law. After the vote, she won praise for toughness.

- Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby offered a new twist on public education by suggesting that school districts should be fined if their graduates are so poorly trained they must take remedial courses in college. "There is no reason for the taxpayer to pay twice," Hobby said.

Campaign Shots

The negotiations for a televised debate between White and former Gov. Bill Clements broke off after Texas Democratic Party chairman Bob Slagle tried to link Clements with business ties to Libya. Clements' staff walked out of a meeting in protest, calling it low-blow, dirty politics.

LONE STAR STATE HISTORY by DAN BROWN

TEXAS ROOTS ...
The great French wines of today owe their existence to a Texan, Thomas V. Munson, who set up a vineyard in Denison and began breeding new varieties of grapes. In the 1870's a root disease threatened to wipe out the vineyards of France. Munson came to the rescue. He shipped carloads of Texas disease-resistant root stock to France. Onto those Texas roots the famous French grape vines were grafted, thus preserving the wines we have today.

Bill Hunt has a kidney worth living with now.

It's not standard equipment, but so far his body has rolled out the red carpet and given it a heroes' welcome.

Bill, who is 51, lost his first kidney in 1979. In recent years the other one reached the point of no repair. It meant dialysis treatments three times a week. Four hours at a time.

People on dialysis have their moments. Sometimes they thank God for preserving their lives. Sometimes they curse Him for the same thing.

Bill's darkest moments - the moments when he wondered if it made any sense - he describes as his "extreme spiritual challenge."

Bill applied for a kidney transplant after 18 months. His brother, a good match, according to physicians, was prepared to give him one of his kidneys.

Instead, they discovered a tumor in one of Richard's kidneys. He felt terrible, but Bill says they were lucky to catch his brother's tumor in time.

There was still the cadaver transplant option. The risks were higher, for sure. Some poor, unrelated soul would have to die before his kidney could be implanted into Bill's body. The chances of rejection were greatly enhanced.

Bill thought it over, then decided to withdraw his name from consideration. That was it, or so he thought.

Friends and doctors at the Dialysis Center kept encouraging him to go for the transplant option. It was an opportunity, after all, not available to some dialysis patients.

The pulling back period, he says now, relaxed his mind. "I was able to give up some of my panic," he says. "It was my time of surrender. I just decided to accept whatever happened."

Bill finally put his name back in the computer and waited. Some days he managed better than others.

Dr. James Webster is an informal physician who wears boots and jeans to work. He also has a flair for down playing the dramatic.

"What are you doing this afternoon?" he asked Bill that day.

"I'm taking some people on a (church) retreat."

"How would you like to go to Dallas this afternoon?"

"Why?"

"They've got a kidney waiting for you."

"I felt like somebody had dropped a safe on me," says Bill. "When do I have to let you know?" he asked.

"Well, I'm kinda' on long distance..."

Six hours later at Parkland Hospital, they were taking 13 tubes of blood from Bill's body. By 10 p.m. he was being wheeled into surgery. By midnight he had a new kidney - and a new life.

All of this came at the beginning of Lenten season. "I'm giving up dialysis," he told his priest, the Rev. Charles Chatham.

Bill hasn't forgotten about the Dialysis Center, though. He knows the struggles the patients are going through. He remembers how the cards, the letters and the visits from old friends helped pull him through his operation. Now he visits the patients at the Center and tries to offer hope and understanding.

It's been six months since his operation. Not once has the body attempted to reject the kidney. They're calling it a picture-perfect transplant.

Bill's optimism has soared. He thinks he may be looking at 10 productive years.

Whenever he thinks about the man whose life was lost and whose family was kind enough to donate the kidney, he is humbled. "I feel like my life has been given back to me for no deserved reason," he says.

Bill now leads a morning prayer service at an Episcopal Church in his community. When it's over he goes to work as a clerk at a convenience store.

He is an educated man with a B.A. in forestry from Colorado State, and a certificate from seminary at Oberlin College in Ohio. For 19 years he served as a Presbyterian minister.

But medical problems have limited his career. The bills have been high and the income has been modest. He lives in a small, but comfortable home with his wife, Sally, a nurse, and his 15-year-old daughter, Ashli.

His daughter is a polite, seemingly unspoiled teenager. When her dad had the kidney transplant she wrote a story in the school paper explaining the situation to her middle school classmates.

Her conclusion, complete with five exclamation marks, hints at a home life with meaning beyond a Ferrari in the driveway:

"I love my dad," she wrote. "He is the greatest!!!!!!"

PIONEER NEWS

By ESTHLOY S. DICKSON

This community has lost a very good friend and supporter. Mr. Hiram Foster will be missed by all of us.

My sympathy is extended to "Ma," Jewel, to Gene and Norma, as well as other family members and friends.

The rains have been good - I know my "grass bur crop" will thrive now. I saw some pretty little red lilies in my flower-bed. I expected them in the Spring - but August?

Mrs. Ethel Brown's nephew, Eddie King, of Colorado City visited her last week, also Lois Garrett and Ritta Knight, both of Cross Plains.

Paul and Juanita Harlow of Lovington, N. M., visited last week with Jean Fore. Eulala Stover, a neighbor, visited one morning.

We were saddened by the sudden stroke suffered by Howard Hicks on Thursday of last week. He is in Humana Hospital. Sally and Bobby Roady have been with him all week. I sincerely hope and pray for his recovery.

Nell and Joe Fleming have been in a family reunion at Lake Brownwood for about four days. A report on that event should be in another portion of this issue.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller's daughter, Mary Lagow and her husband, Bill, of Dallas have been visiting them lately. Also, Sam Miller of Houston.

Mr. David Beggs of Morton Valley visited J. T. and Betty last weekend. Mrs. Melba Cathey of Romney visited on Wednesday. Betty said J. T. was keeping an eye on the leaf-spots on his peanut vines. She said it is not too serious yet. Betty attended a Flea Market at Brownwood last Saturday afternoon.

I had a brief visit with Beverly Brown of Cottonwood News in town one day last week. We discussed our columns. Bev has been writing much longer than I have.

I called my sister, Bernice Carter, on Sunday afternoon. She had already been to the De Leon Hospital for her preliminary tests, shots, etc. She will undergo knee surgery on Tuesday. Her former pastor's wife, Mrs. Buddy Sipes, will take her and be with her for awhile. My sister, Opal Cox, will spend several nights with her. Sis expects to be there at least ten days.

BURKETT NEWS

By FREEDA BURKETT

At the time of this report, August 28, our weather has cooled off considerably. It is 72° and our rainfall during this week has been 1.5 inches in this community and looks like we may get more before it quits.

The Burkett-Adams Cemetery Association has received these contributions this month as follows: Beulah B. Adams $15.00, Kathy Capehart $25.00, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Lindsey $20.00, Hulan Harris, in memory of LeRoy Golsen, Jr., $25.00, Willie E. Koenig $10.00, and one $10.00 anonymous gift.

As secretary-treasurer of this association, I want to say thanks to these, and to everyone that has sent so many generous gifts to our cemeteries for upkeep. This expression of appreciation is on behalf of the entire directorate of the Cemetery Board.

During the thunderstorm Tuesday night, the Jack Stricklands were alarmed by the smell of smoke. Upon investigating, they found the lightning had somehow gotten to their electric water heater and ruined it. No other appliances were damaged.

Nine members of the Quilting Club met Friday, August 22, to finish a quilt which was started last Friday. It was finished and another one was quilted for Doris Walker.
